The Pity of It.

What the world needs is the gospel of kindness and fellowship. The doctrine of force and the faith that force is enough is wrecking the world.

Men need faith in one another, classes need faith in each other. Nations need faith in the essential goodness of man.

Lacking that faith individuals riot and kill, classes exploit and hate, nations trespass and ravage.

And in the end, if all the churches of Jesus, the only philosopher the world has developed who knew the truth and could put it into the hearts of men, are churches of Christ are quarreling over silly and immaterial creeds.

What does the Virgin birth matter in the face of the birth of the Golden Rule?

Why quibble over the origin of man when the destiny of man may be turned upward by the Sermon on the Mount? Who cares who wrote the Commandments?

The fact that their principles will hold humanity together is the chief thing.

The pity of the clamor of the theologians when the world needs good conduct and faith of man in man!

Special Demonstration of the Copper-Clad

The World's Greatest Range

at Our Store
February 18 to 23

The Copper-Clad crank—a special factory representative—will be here during the entire week mentioned above, to show and explain the many Copper-Clad exclusive features. He will explain about range rust and the pure sheet copper lining in Copper-Clads. He will tell in detail just why Copper-Clad owners must be "Range Happy" folks.

See Asbestos Sweat!

No matter whether you want a range new or next year, or any other time, it will pay you to come and see the Copper-Clad Crank make asbestos sweat. He takes any piece of asbestos, puts it between two iron plates—heats it—and shows you sweat. You can roll it up in drops with your fingers. You see for yourself WHY range rust out. Then you will KNOW why the pure sheet copper lining in Copper-Clad adds many years to its life.

Remember the Date

Free Aluminum Ware

"Free" means that this ware does not cost Copper-Clad buyers a single penny. It is a reward for buying while the Copper-Clad Crank is here. This ware is very substantial and just the kind that you would select if buying for your own use. The 7-in-1 convertible cooker takes the place of seven different vessels, as shown by figures 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7. You will find use for this utensil every day.

In Addition to the Convertible Cooker Set You Will Receive

- One self heating roaster with ventilator, one new type six cup percolator, one new style double boiler, one four-quart preserving kettle, one covered sauce pan with cover, one one-quart sauce pan, one one and one-half quart sauce pan, one two-quart sauce pan.

Better Mailing Week February 18 to 24

Since the days of Benjamin Franklin every postmaster general has found it expedient to "investigate" a condition which has been named the postal-service mail-order foundation. Periodic and systematic campaigns have been waged against it but the evil grows as fast as the rapidly increasing business of the postal service itself.

The post office department, or, in the final analysis, the tax payer, repays an annual bill for the support of this malignant growth, amounting in round numbers, to $1,740,000.

Of a few years, however, it has become more and more apparent that the department and the tax payer are not the only sufferers from the evil.

Private business and private industry every year lose millions of dollars in the same cause, which struggle to relate, is in most part, preventable.

This economic waste—this strange disease—is nothing more or less than the careless addressing of mail matter: the slipping of letters and packages into the mail in inadequate or incorrect addresses, an overwhelming majority of which comes from large patrons of the mails.

In another effort to stem the tide of this waste to save money for the taxpayer and to turn back into constructive channels the millions upon millions of dollars of business which are lost through the press of the country, the postmaster general has designated the week of February 18 to 25 as better mailing week.

During that week he will seek the cooperation of chambers of commerce, boards of trade, large business and industrial enterprises, and the press of the country, in order to having antiquated mailing lists brought up to date and every check placed against the possibility of letters reaching the mail system without accurate addresses.

The post office has gone a long way toward assisting business men in having their mailings directed to the fact that their mail is handled by subordinates, often are not familiar with the regular mailing directions of the country.

The department has even offered to furnish its own clerks to correct and bring mailing lists up to date at the nominal charge of 60 cents an hour.

At one time the post office was made to congress to place a one-cent charge upon each letter requiring directory service, thus attacking the problem through the pocket book of the mailer as the only means of solution.

It is believed, however, that if the individual firm or corporation depending to any extent on the mails for its business, can be brought to realize that the delay, and often the loss, of their mail, through carelessness of business and profits, the most important step will have been taken to correct the evil.

It is estimated that 200,000,000 pieces of mail are yearly given "directory service," which means that postal employees must take time from the regular handling and dispatching of mail in the endeavor to provide correct addresses for this huge volume of misdirected matter.

In New York City alone the cost of this service approximates $500 daily.

There is every evidence that the mailers of incompletely addressed matter believe that the postal service is doing nothing, or, at best, a negligible amount, in the matter of correcting the evil.

It must be remembered that this no longer is the age of the town pump and that our cities have grown so large that no longer can a mail distributor be expected to know "everybody in town."

Mail inadequately addressed and requiring directory service, of course, means delay. Often it may be returned to the sender for a new address. For lack of a return address nearly 20,000,000 of these are sent annually to the dead letter office.

No matter which course these letters take it means loss of money. Directory service and the dead letter office are costly to the postal service.

Delay and non-delivery of mail often means that not only the mailer, but the customer who orders, also suffers.

Solicitations for orders cannot produce results if the customer does not receive the solicitation. If he receives it a few hours late a competitor may get the order which otherwise would have gone to "you."

Often the solicitation does not contain the street address of the advertising firm and then the customer's order is subjected to the same delay and non-delivery which the directory service and resultant delay which befall the business. More often than not, costly to the mailer.

Not only your street address plainly, not put on all letter heads and envelopes, but on newspaper and magazine advertising.

The reaction of a customer to the return for a better address of an important order is equally be imaginable. If the letter is received it a few hours late a competitor may get the order which otherwise would have gone to "you."

It Never Failed Him

Veteran railroad engineer, with 56 years of unbroken service to his credit, declares Tanlac proved equal to emergency and restored his strength and energy when he was badly rundown in health.

JOHN F. McWATERS
I, F. McWaters, veteran railroad man, of 447 East Fair St., Atlanta, Ga., who is credited with 56 years unbroken service as an engineer on the Atlanta & West Point, recently paid high tribute to Tanlac.
"Several years ago," said Mr.
McWaters, "I became so run down
it looked like my 'chain' of service might be broken before I could run out my fifty-year period. However,
I resorted to Tanlac to set me right, and Tanlac proved fully equal to the emergency, quickly heading off the trouble and bringing my strength and energy right up to normal.

"Since then, when I have felt a little run-down, or 'off my level' as the railroad men say, I have taken Tanlac, and never fails to do the work I want done. Tanlac is a wonderful remedy. It keeps my health stays in good shape. Tanlac is for me and all good druggists. I accept no substitute.

Barn Near Carroll Burns Down Monday

The barn on the farm two miles north of Carroll, rented by Henry Harmer, burned to the ground Monday evening, and 350 bushels of colored corn, one set of harness and one buggy were also destroyed. The property was insured for $4,000 which will not nearly cover the loss.

When Mr. Harmer was going to the farm to turn off the fire Monday about 7 o'clock in the evening he discovered the barn and does not know how it started, unless from combustion in the new hay which was put into the barn. With the aid of about fifty men the adjoining buildings were saved. Three horses that were in the barn were saved but one of them became frightened and cut herself on a barb wire fence. The horse was five years old and was on the 160-acre farm Mr. Harmer rents. He owns an 80-acre farm just south of this place and farms both of the places.

 (Rev. Francis K. Allen, Pastor.)
 Business meeting, Monday evening, and continuing to March 20, there will be held an institute of social Christianity. For six successive evenings (with exception of Saturday evening, Feb. 24, when a union meeting will be held in Methodist church) we will discuss the problems which grow out of modern social and industrial relations, and seek solution from the Christian standpoint. The subjects for discussion and the speakers chosen are as follows:
 Sunday evening, February 17, "The Youth Movement," Miss Maude Joseph, department of English and expression, Wayne State Normal.
 Music, male quartet.
 Sunday evening, March 2, "Honesty as a Social Problem," by four business men.
 Sunday evening, March 9, "Old and New Relations in the Industrial World," Mr. C. E. Whittaker.
 Sunday evening, March 16, "The Quest for World Peace," Dr. J. T. House.
 Sunday evening, March 23, "Christianity and Restricted Immigration," members of high school debating class.
 Sunday evening, March 30, "Moral Effect of Waste," President U. S. Court.

Quartettes, soloists and chorus will furnish music at every meeting. Hear the opening number next Sunday evening, 7:30.

 Public worship at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.
 Mid-week meeting on Wednesday night, 8 o'clock.
 The pastor will preach next Sunday morning on, "The Unfinished Task," and at night on "Finding Rest in Peace." The evening service will be of special interest to young people.

There will be a union meeting at our church on Sunday evening, February 24, when a representative of the Y. M. C. A. will deliver the address. Fuller announcement of this meeting will be made in the notices of next week.

Don't forget the social at our church tomorrow night.

There is strange parrot: The oldest university in the Americas continents is located at Lima, Peru; but Peru stands tenth in the list of American Latin countries in regard to the education of her citizenship. And here is another paradox: Primary education in Peru is supposed to be compulsory, yet less than one-half of the children are enrolled in school and the average attendance is less than half of the enrollment and eighty per cent of the population can neither read nor write. The moral ratios under such conditions can well be imagined; likewise the hygienic. Gallo, yet less than one-half of the children die rate in the world. Among the Indians it is estimated that eighty out of every 100 infants die. Such a condition can neither read nor write. Top Sioux City Market.
W. F. Langenburg of Hoskins, Nebraska, topped the Sioux City cattle market at $9.50 per cwt. on February 5. This price was received for 20 head of well bred sand hill Hereford steers.

These cattle had been fed since early in October and had made a very good gain, as whitetails usually do. Mr. Langenburg is an extensive feeder and a regular shipper of good cattle to the Sioux City market.

Wayne County Steers at Omaha.
Cross Brothers, of Wayne, Nebraska, received $9.25 per cwt. for Hereford steers on the Omaha cattle market, February 5. The shipment comprised forty-seven head that averaged 1,012 pounds.

Ray Cross accompanied the shipment and reported to the Omaha Journal-Stockman that the cattle had been purchased as calves in December, 1922, and brought through until late last fall; they were then started on snapped corn and alfalfa. This plan has proven a profitable method of feeding for the Cross Bros.

Top Sioux City Market.
Henry Walker of Hoskins, topped the Sioux City cattle market for full carload lots, February 6, with a shipment of 18 head of handy-weight Hereford steers that averaged 1,265 pounds. These cattle had been on feed 128 days, and made a gain of more than 300 pounds each.

Wm. Langenburg, also of Hoskins, was at the market the same day with a load of Hereford steers that brought $9.40 per cwt. There were thirty-one head in the shipment that averaged 929 pounds. They also had been on feed 128 days, only a little lighter than those in his shipment of Feb. 5.

Pioneer Alfalfa Man Of Nebraska Dies

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 9.—Col. Henry D. Watson, 77, founder of the large ranch near Kearney, Neb., bearing his name, and who was known as Nebraska's alfalfa king, died at his residence here last night. He had been in poor health since a general breakdown some time ago. Colonel Watson came to Nebraska 35 years ago and acquired 40 acres of land. He is said to have increased his holdings to 8,000 acres in late years.

Finding that alfalfa would grow without irrigation, Colonel Watson began to popularize it in this state. The state legislature in 1915 gave him a vote of thanks for his successful efforts in promoting the adaptation of the vast semi-arid stretches of the state to the growth of alfalfa.

"Alfalfa" Watson was the name by which he was known to his fellow townsmen. Mr. Watson acquired this name because of his extensive pioneer work in alfalfa raising in this state.

Began Life as Publisher.
In his earlier life, Mr. Watson started out as publisher of a magazine, which he called "Good Cheer."

Although financially embarrassed during his early life as a publisher, Mr. Watson disposed of his extensive magazine at a handsome profit. Several times during the time that he published his magazine he was forced to solicit contributions from his numerous subscribers.

Mr. Watson's number of times, it was said that the paper was gained on credit. After he had disposed of the "Good Cheer," he established two other magazines, which he called, "Housewife," and "Country Life."

Mr. Watson came to Nebraska in 1882, from Amherst, Mass., where he was born on Oct. 17, 1845. It was while he was agent of the Union Pacific that he became interested in the raising of alfalfa.

2,500 Acres in Alfalfa.
Although short of money, Mr. Watson, after several trips to his former home in New England, convinced friends and relatives that he had the right idea, and shortly after one of these visits he began to raise alfalfa. He formed an association which bought between 7,000 and 8,000 acres of ground near Kearney, which at that time was selling exceptionally cheap.

About 2,500 acres of this ground was plowed and alfalfa sown. After considerable work and after it had grown two years, it was cut but he could not find a buyer, and the three thousand tons which he produced was allowed to spoil. The next year, however, the entire crop was sold to sheep raisers at $9 a ton.

Largest Barn in U. S.
In order to reap his greatest profits Mr. Watson constructed what is said to have been one of the largest barns in the United States, in which he kept more than 200 head of dairy cattle, to which he fed his next crop of alfalfa.

Alfalfa raising in Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois soon became a regular part of the farm crop, and in 1912 the crop in Nebraska alone was valued at $24,000,000. The entire crop of alfalfa in that year was valued at $110,000,000.

Mr. Watson established 100 forty-acre farms on which he placed 100 farmers and their wives, to whom he loaned money to pay for the farms. Each farmer was provided with ten thoroughbred cows, and a number of thoroughbred hogs. These farms were managed as one, by a competent manager, usually an agriculturalist of note. This manager will say what is to be planted and what changes are to be made on the various farms. If the farmer stays with the property until it is paid for, he is allowed to do what he pleases, but if he should tire of the farm he loses all that he has put into it.

Major Ebbert Speaks On Law Enforcement

If the lawless element in the United States wins in the liquor fight, "intoxicating liquor" in the eighteenth amendment will be defined so that men, women and children can buy alcoholic beverages as freely as they now buy ice cream sodas, stated Major Frank B. Ebbert in an address on law enforcement at the Community house Friday evening.

It is not the purpose of these lawless people to repeal the eighteenth amendment but they wish to increase the percentage of alcohol that may be sold in beverages and this would make the percentage high enough to legalize drunkenness. The pitiable results would be that boys and girls would grow up in drunken debauchery.

Major Frank Ebbert is a trained lawyer and now is helping suppress the illegal liquor traffic in California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Utah, Idaho, New Mexico, Arizona, Montana and Wyoming. At the meeting Friday A. R. Davis presided. Rev. Francis K. Allen of the Baptist church offered prayer and F. A. High, president of the Nebraska Anti-Saloon League, spoke briefly and introduced Major Ebbert.

Nearly a hundred pictures depicting some of the liquor lawlessness were shown and these were followed by the address of Major Ebbert.

Ninety percent of the law enforcement officials are honest, stated the speaker, but these men must have the backing of every good citizen in order to carry out their work. Law breakers know every move an official makes and for that reason good citizens who want law enforced should give true information they possess to the officials and then back these men who are carrying out the law. The sheriff, the county attorney and others who are trying to suppress illegal liquor traffic can depend upon how they need the backing of citizens. People who have facts concerning the illegal liquor business should report to officers.

More officials have been killed in enforcement of the Volstead act in proportion to the number of officials in this work than were killed in the World War in proportion to the number engaged in that struggle.

This means that bootleggers and moonshiners are heavily armed and that officials are taking great risk when they go for them. If men and women who have facts or reasonable grounds for knowing about such lawlessness report this the officials can stop the illegal work. If one is too timid to report to an official, information may be given to Anti-Saloon League in Lincolnton, Mo. This organization will solve the problems without ever using names of parties sending the information.

In court trials of liquor cases it has been the practice for those interested in the illegal work to compare notes on attendance at the trials. Good citizens should go to court and be interested. Their presence will color the atmosphere of the trial and the officials will know that these men and women are interested in law enforcement. They should insist that violators be given the most days in jail and the largest fine possible under the law. Mr. Ebbert told of a case of high school boys being sold solid, poisonous liquor and officials traced the sale of this to one year. The minimum on such a case in the state was $100 fine and thirty days in jail and the maximum was $500 fine and six months in jail. At the trial the judge fined the man $150. Mr. Ebbert criticized officials who encouraged the continuance of the liquor business by giving the minimum and even less than the minimum sentence. In order to wipe out this evil Major Ebbert emphasized, " Courts must not abdicate." They must give the maximum sentence or the fight against the liquor interests is lost. Lenient enforcement gives aid to the liquor interests and is responsible for the wave of lawlessness over the country. Good citizens should take an interest in these cases and let officials know that only the maximum punishment will satisfy. Bootleggers will then soon leave or stop their work.

Some citizens say that the prohibition law is a failure. This statement is propaganda being used by the liquor interests. They want people to believe this so that their prohibition law is a failure. This statement is propaganda being used by the liquor interests. They want people to believe this so that their prohibition law is a failure. This statement is propaganda being used by the liquor interests.

this lawless element can not be headed off unless the law is enforced one hundred percent. The eighteenth amendment prohibits the manufacture, sale and distribution of intoxicating liquor but does not define intoxicating liquor. The supreme court ruled that congress should have the power of defining this term. If the lawless element secures a majority in congress "intoxicating liquor" will be defined so as to raise the percentage of alcohol. This will legalize what they want. The American people must wake-up to the situation.

Some years ago Major Ebbert stated each man, woman and child was allowed twenty-three gallons of alcoholic beverages and over ninety percent of this was malt liquor or beer. Now the liquor interests want to legalize intoxicating liquor so that these beverages could be legalized. Three percent alcohol can make people drunk but if the definition is changed they will be sober legally. This would result in these drinks being sold as freely as soda water to men, women and children. The result would be more lawless-est.

Major Ebbert closed by telling of a young boy who is in a penitentiary for life because he committed murder when drunk. The boy's father was a senator and the liquor interests in the state promised to secure parole for the boy if the senator would vote for the interests. The man asked his son what he should do and the boy replied to vote against the liquor interests. This one vote cast by the senator, the liquor interests and defeated their purpose. The sacrifice was great but meant one step of "stump-for-law enforcement in the state."

Albion News: Bryan Weekes remarks in the Marshall county, (Kansas) News that while we are commemorating the historic spots it might save more lives if we would mark the spots where automobile accidents have taken place as a warning to speeders.

York Republican: The psychology of prohibition is interesting. We complain most about school and state taxes. But the schools take only one and a half percent of the tax dollar and the government four and a half percent. Living costs take twenty-four and a half percent and crime costs us another nine and a half percent. Waste takes fourteen percent. It seems to be human nature to rebel against the taxes that are imposed by action of law. It is the same in all departments of life—the penalties that are self gotten are borne cheerfully; those that are imposed by the infringement of the law or the rights of others are oppressive and outrageous.

Fairbury News: We observed a Fairbury man carry a few days ago that he likes cold weather, that it "fills him with pep," and all that sort of thing. And then after that we were willing to shake our heads and believe the man was crazy. But he never had to drive an old road wagon when the tires were squeaking on a frozen road and with a team that moved like snails. He didn't have to drink his water out of a frozen bucket with a gourd that was a second cousin to an icicle; he probably didn't have to sleep in a room that had to be replaced, grate or stove and had to get up in the morning to view ice pictures on the window panes that looked like smudges and glass that were thick with buttermilk. On top of that, "he didn't have to shovel his way to the barn two squares away and milk from two cows and his coat off and his slates rolled up so mud frozen in her tail right where it was convenient for her to switch it around and catch a fellow alongside the head as right after breakfast he didn't have to walk two miles through a wind so raw a fellow was afraid to rub his ears for fear they would break off in his hand. We can stand our share of cold weather, but when it comes to liking it, there's nothing to it. We've no complaints against what the poet calls "a shrewd and nipping air," but when we get out of the sled and skate age and started in fighting the world for our own share of heaven and but that was being passed around, we got out of the habit of liking cold weather. We learned that a fellow does more and better work with his coat off and his slates rolled up so they can mark us up as disagreeing with the fellow who says he likes cold-weather—and they can send us the shirt-sleeve brand all the year 'round if they want to.

Central City Nonpareil: Many merchants would be willing to advertise if they thought they would consider good chance to increase their business, but unless they can consider it wasted money. Advertising is just as valuable as anything else you have as in advertising more. Other influences are constantly trying to take away the trade already enjoyed and if you do nothing they will succeed. In fifteen days of pep a fellow has to run pretty fast in order to land with a lead the town that sits stable and grows in the train territory.

The Railroad Dollar

SOME men in public life are proposing to compel reductions in rates with no thought of making such reductions possible by aiding in the reduction of expenses.

THE railroads today are returning back to the people by way of wages, purchase of materials and supplies, and taxes, almost all the money they take in.

IF REDUCTIONS in rates are to be had, there must first be some way of reducing expenses.

THE present level of freight rates is not caused by the valuation of the railroads nor by the net return they are receiving.

IN 1922 each dollar received from payments of the Chicago and North Western Railway Company was used as follows:

Paid for materials	32.66 cents
Paid for taxes	6.16
Paid for labor	48.92
Paid for interest	7.67
Paid for rentals	0.59
Paid for dividends	4.00
Total	100.00

A STUDY of the foregoing table will show where the railroad dollar was going.

An oyster supper and feed sale were given at the Concord hall last Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Concord-Owl band. On account of bad weather and roads, the attendance was small. However, a very neat sum of money was realized. The band, under the leadership of Harry Shuckelford, is playing a high grade of music. They have two rehearsals each week and are making rapid progress. This organization is a wonderful asset to our town and community and we should feel proud to claim it. The business houses here are backing the band in every respect and much credit should be given the boys as they are spending their time to improve the band and all money taken in the sale goes to the band expenses. They hope by summer to be a self-supporting organization. Preparations are being made to give an open air concert one night each week as soon as the weather permits. The Junior band is also progressing splendidly and much interest is shown by all members.

WE HAVE THE GOODS

This is one of the very choice offerings to be sold in the state this season. They are direct daughters or close descendants of the greatest hogs of the breed. In our opinion this winter will be the best time for years to come to purchase the good sows for herd building material. These young sows will increase in value besides the litters they raise. You are not spending money, but merely investing it where it will more than double itself. Remember Hampshires have won the grand champion ear load at the greatest show in the world, the International at Chicago for the past six (6) years, a record never equaled by any other breed. This is a proof undisputable that Hampshire lead as a packer hog, which is the end of all hogs.

That's What Wayne Dealers Propose To Do. They are going to put their shoulders to the wheel, and give values that will touch bottom. They wish to announce that Friday, Saturday and Monday, February 22, 23 and 25, have been set apart as special bargain days. Dollar-saving bargains on seasonable and desirable merchandise will be emphasized. General announcement is thus made early so you will be on the alert to read next week's Herald for detailed information.

Copies of the Herald to be issued Thursday noon, February 21, will contain a wealth of itemized dollar-saving bargains. Turn to these advertising pages and list the things you want. You will be beneficiaries of a plan to extend Wayne's trade territory and boost the town as a popular trade center.

Thus, plan to get into your trusty automobiles on February 22, 23 and 25 and come to Wayne and turn rich buying opportunities to advantage. Real values will be offered. Every dealer has his shoulder to the wheel. All will quote prices that will take some of the wind out of Mr. High Cost of Living. They will say what they mean, and mean what they say. Give prompt and careful attention to the merchandising banquet to be set forth in next week's Herald.
