The Aristocracy of Fashion—

- is here!

Voula! They enter! The Spring Fashions—a galaxy in festive attire—bringing with them a breath of the delight of changing seasons. And they never before have the newer modes seemed so expressly ordained to enhance the verve and charm of American women. It is the sophisticated simplicity of the youthful mode that is the outstanding feature of all that is ultra-smart this season.

Paris has decreed it—and fashion leaders have so ably expressed it in every conceivable type of attire. It seems a veritable determination to make the world look young—or at least all the women who are young. Women can fall to catch the charm of youth when costumed in "Pillar-like" slenderness; skirts just long enough to reveal slim ankles; small, smug-diting cloche striking the top note of smartness. It may be the Chinese influence with its clever Mandarin jacket effect and vivid exotic embroidery is responsible for the delightful boyishness of the mode.

The Trend of Fashion. Finished, seemingly, for the entire season, is the waistline and pleasing are the substitutes that have been provided. Paris endorses the long, slim, pencil-like silhouette, hollow, with fullness below the knee. Slimness is the objective of every frock and tallleur. Reed-like in effect are the evening gowns for all but the very youthful for whom La Mode sponsors alluring, bouffant frocks, with snug, basque-like bodice. These delightful bouffant creations are highly favored for dance and dinner wear, but for the very formal occasion it is the straight choice—always, however, relieved of its severity in a number of ways.

Introducing the Variations. Paris, as fine as they can be made, add to the attractiveness of afternoon frocks and are rivaled only by the flounce which seeks to retain its modish flair. Godets are uniquely fashioned; long Russian tunic-effects are achieved in moire. Frilly, clinging flounces of the spiral variety add distinction to the youthful cachet. Chanel has developed some interesting afternoon frocks in chiffon, plaited in all-over effects so fine as to be hardly distinguishable. The plaited section drops from an off-the-shoulder yoke and forms tiny cap sleeves. Moire, satin and printed silks are favored fabrics for afternoon wear. These are developed in interesting ways—always in straight lines; always with careful attention to detail. Perhaps it is the tiny Mandarin collar or the rows of vivid buttons, but the effect of the Chinese tendency is maintained.

For the Formal Occasions. The important role that leads are to play in the evening mode this season is becoming obvious as one creation after another arrives from Paris displaying unique beautiful designs of brilliant beads that contrast with backgrounds of soft color or harmonize with the fabric. Chiffons and georgettes are the vogue with the new square neckline a delightful feature. White, black, yellow and Chinese blues are much in evidence although you may observe some of the pastel shades and ke quite within the mode.

Colors this year are as variable as the modes. One sees pan greens that delightful, refreshing green so suggestive of spring—much in the soft silks that are for southern wear. Brown has become a standard shade quite as much as blue or black. Chinese reds and blues in many shadings are the choice of many important-Parisian designers for both afternoon and street costumes.

Coat, Frock and Tallieur:

Once again the coat frock, a time-honored favorite of the busy woman, occupies the foreground. It is smartly developed in a variety of novelty fabrics, including cross-striped kasha cloth, suede cloth, Poirat twill, wool crepella, charmes and Rodier fabrics. Characterized by the beltless line, long sleeves and neck treatment it combines utility with smartness. The redingote top; Russian tunic; neck-to-hem streamers and scarf effects are among its fascinating details. Sharing honors with the coat frock is the newer boyish semi-sports frock designed for sports and general all-around service. There is a chic simplicity about these frocks that assures their popularity.

For the woman who enjoys a tric traillieur there is a wide range of choice this season. Fashioned of worsteds, homespuns, Rodier fabrics, wool rep or silk alpaca, these smart costumes are enlivened by attractive plaids, stripes or checks. With the return of the suit into mildy's favor one realizes the necessity of including at least a few smart blouses in the spring wardrobe. The salient note in the tailored blouse is its stiff bosom front which is variously interpreted.

Occasionally this stiff bosom is effected by a tucked area on a plain, untucked blouse; or vice versa, a plain vest front appears in contrast to a tucked blouse. Little case buttons in contrasting or self-colors frequently accentuate the mannish appearance. Many have monogrammed tabs in Chinese effect.

The importance that is being accorded the separate blouse and skirt is another style innovation of the spring. The summer blouse, developed in black suede cloth or satin, cut square in the neck-line and worn with white crepe de chine tailored waist is perhaps the favorite mode for wear with the sports skirt. The straight Mandarin jacket made of any of the novelty summer prints is also popular for sports wear with the plaid or striped skirt.

The Clever Capulet.

When one considers the question of the new spring top-coat or wrap it is seemingly difficult to credit the very important capulet that is ever and anon liable to make its appearance in a novel disguise. This season it peeps forth on the afternoon frocks of heavy crepe, on the tric traillieur and three-piece costume and now we find it in delightful veneration in the new spring coat sponsored in a Equin model developed in beige ribbed cloth with trimmings of navy bengaline ribbon.

Fun-Collared Top Coats.

One may almost call them "top coats" without qualms so decidedly masculine is their trend. The truly feminine touch is achieved in the soft, luxurious small fur collars that are so much favored. The silhouette in general is the straight line with occasional introductions of the circular apron front. Cape sleeves are offered already embroidered or so richly designed that there is small need for trimmings of any kind.

Fifty inches is the favored length for the twill coats for general wear. These coats are effectively trimmed with braid. Artichoke green, red and brickdust shades as well as stripes and plaids are to be the vogue.

Newer Fabrics in Variety.

Seldom indeed has the woman whose deft fingers can fashion her own wardrobe been so assured of a wide range of selection in fabrics. So many of the newer materials are offered already embroidered or so richly designed that there is small need for trimmings of any kind.

The first impression of the new fabrics is of their exquisite beauty, both of weave and design. One notes the influence of Chinese, Russian and Oriental effects in color combinations and designs. One of the most interesting new silk weaves for summer is called "Crepefata," Fashion-loving women will be charmed with the new displays of frocks, coats, suits, hats and footwear. The light and dark shades of crepes, satins and taffetas in the draped and flounced dresses are especially attractive. Trim new lines and lovely fabrics are shown in the sport and dress coats. Our ready-to-wear for women and children is now at its best.

In spring footwear for women and children you will find styles and colors that please. Hosiery to match the shoes is important this spring and we have the popular shades.

Alluringly Dainty Lingerie

Paris has decreed it! And in subservience every smartly dressed woman's wardrobe for spring will include at least one tulle. There will also be a trim, close-fitting tulle and tulle blouse that now boasts the name of "ehirt." What, then, could be more appropriate than that fashion arbiters develop the all-important accessories in equally tailored lines.

By no means, however, has the tailored model in either the night robe or the negligee completely usurped the high place of favor of the dainty lace-trimmed garments that so truly express real femininity. Bosom Front Night Robe. Here one finds a delightful version of the new fad. Sleeves are set in and short after the manner of the sports blouse. The neck is V-shaped with a turn-down sports collar. There is a pleated inset bosom front that buttons down the front and often ends in a monogrammed tab. The popularity of this particular model depends on the ease with which one can launder the smart bosom front. Many women prefer the plainly-tailored type which does not present this problem and is quite as effective. It is not difficult, however, to preserve the individuality of this robe even without the pleated front. One may retain the charming effect in the roll collar and short, sport sleeves.

Lacy New Robes. A greater variety of laces has never been used in fashioning dainty nightgowns. The popular-fillet and Irish laces appear often in combinations with laces of minor importance. Calais and Valenciennes laces, vary narrow and cream in tone are much in evidence. Crepe de chine is the most popular silk used; crepe back satin and radium are also good. All the lovely pastel shades are seen; peach, tea rose and apricot predominate. Fundamentally it seems there are three distinct negligee silhouettes—the kimono sleeved wrap; the breakfast coat and the coat that opens down the front or perhaps ties at the side. When one views the many new models, however, it seems as if there are at least a half dozen, so cleverly varied are the neck and sleeve lines and fabrics. The fullness in many of the breakfast wrap coats is concentrated at the center front and back instead of over the hips, giving a slightly draped effect that is most pleasing.

Delicate chiffons in rainbow effect form the picturesque background for luxurious, soft, marabou trimming. Albatross robes, silk linings, edged with marabou that has been dyed to match are quite in vogue. Here and there one sees Chinese designs introduced in border form above the hem.

colors, novel fabrics, effective trimmings in modes especially adaptable to the needs of the growing girl.

Little woollen frocks, especially designed for general and play wear, come in sand trimmed with vividly colored plaids. The straight-line little frock, belted, modeled after the leading mode for women, and made with raglan sleeves is quite popular. For the miss under eight the bloomer dress is the favored choice with the bloomers made of harmonizing fabrics and edged with dainty lace or embroidery.

Slip-On Dresses.

Full slashes that tie in the back are used on the slip-on dress. The "duster" mode with a tight-fitting, short-waisted bodice and full skirt, is another pleasing and new variation; gingham, chambrays and voiles in effective new patterns as well as plain weaves are featured.

When Miss Six to Ten is entertained or enacts the role of tiny hostess she wears a frock of crepe georgette or crepe Roman in one of the delicate pastel shades. Small silver roses in bouquet, or garland effect are effective trimmings.

Novel Trimmings.

Feather stitchings and cross-stitchings are among the favorite trimmings especially for tiny girls' frocks. Cross-stitching is often used to bring out the checked design in gingham. Feather stitchings are cleverly employed to outline applique patterns. Often these fancy stitchings are in contrasting colors and add very definite charm to the most simple little dress.

For school or general wear the growing girl is certain to prefer a few frocks in the tailored mode. Fashioned with Peter Pan collar and cuffs of white or tan linen, with leather belt of contrasting color, and novel pockets these trim dresses seem to express the buoyant spirit of youth.

Hats for school and general wear are of felt or straw and silk combined. Shapes are small and close-fitting with the tiny roll brim adding a novel effect. The wood shades and Chinese blue or red are very much in vogue for the junior miss.

which is simply a slight embroidery stitch forming in little dots a design of Greek keys, and other patterns.

Embossed patterns appear in large block designs beneath which one notes small round designs. Voiles, lites, crepes and silks are all richly embroidered. Several silks are completely covered with Chinese characters and figures. This spring promises truly to be a most colorful one and is certain to bring renewed spirit and energy and greater charm to every woman.

The Honor Roll in Footwear

Glimpsing the new mode in spring footwears we may rightly assume that we are indeed to be judged from the tip of the toe to the top of the head. It is certain never did social climber expect greater energy to overcome closed doors than has footwear in ascending the ladder of fashion importance.

From its relatively unimportant position as a very minor item in mid-lady's wardrobe it has steadily risen until this spring we find the low shoe developed in a variety of inter-

It's Easy to Make Your Own Spring Frocks

WOMEN who create their own costumes know how simple it is, with the new patterns, to achieve perfection of line, to follow accurately the correct variations of the modish Spring silhouette.

As for fabrics—their beauty and charm, as seen in our Spring Fabric Display, will prove an inspiration to the home dressmaker. All the colors of the rainbow seem caught in the meshes of these lovely weaves; and here and there the gleam of some favored white fabric foretells a charming summer mode.

Small wonder that women are enthusiastically planning a period of sewing activity. For they know that beauty of line, fabric and color, together with an inimitable touch of distinctiveness, possible if they make their own clothes.

esting styles—harmonizing with every conceivable type of costume.

There is footwear designed for morning or sports wear; for informal afternoon or street wear; for dancing and the formal occasion. Not fashioned as in previous seasons, but especially developed and individualized by novel leathers, style modes and ornaments. And nothing so surely marks a discriminating woman as quickly as her footwear.

Predominance of Brown.

This spring promises to be a brown season. Shades vary from cream to beige. Brown has become quite a standard color, even as much so as black, and is being universally adopted. One finds it suitable for morning wear and in the evening it is introduced in a satin sandal slipper. There will be very little gray, except in the novel lizard leather, worn this season.

Paris is centering attention on all light strap sandals developed in all colors from ivory to lacquer red. From all appearance, however, it is not likely that American women will again prefer the colors shoe.

For Street Wear.

Especially popular is the modish pump of kid, suede, patent leather, or novelty leathers such as crocodile, snakekin, antelope and seal-skin. Made with high or junior French heel and small, square buckle of hammered silver or jet. The vogue for these quaint colonial pumps still persists and seems to continue to endure itself to American women.

The Afternoon Mode.

For the informal afternoon one finds an interesting model of patent leather with very high Cuban heels, fastened by narrow straps of lizard skin. Another favored style is the plain pump, without straps, effectively trimmed with small, round cut-stamped buckles or brilliant pin ornament placed at the side.

The new dictate reveals the absence of the sandal for daytime or, pipings and inserts of contrasting color and lacings are replacing cut work and intricately placed straps.

The Evening Mode. Without a doubt it is the evening mode that offers greatest variety of all this spring, and it is quite a simple matter to choose dainty footwear that will add greatly to the beauty of one's gown.

It seems certain that slippers of silver and gold kid and brocade will be the choice of fashionable American women. A distinctive model of silver brocade is fashioned with loops of silver cord and tassels of rhinestones and pearls. One sees no more of the large buckle of early winter.

"Rawther English" are the Men's Styles for Spring!

In two hops there has been established a new conception in the modeling of men's suits for Spring. This style first manifested itself in London and on the Continent. New York adopted the style late last season and now in its second hop this fashion has landed fairly and firmly in what the East is pleased to call the "provinces," which takes in all the territory from the Hudson west to the Golden Gate.

Hence, we have before us this season as the outstanding thing a type of suit variously known as an English model, Brooks model or Loose Sack Lounge Suit. This model lacks lines. It is rather in the careless shape of the coat that it finds its style characteristics.

It has the straight front, ample chest, shoulders that tend slightly to more squareness than recent models, vests cut straight across the bottom—or nearly so; trousers high-waisted, wide and straight, hanging from the knee and almost collar trouser cuff. This model is shown in double-breasted effects, two button style, but it is in three button single breasted sack that it finds its most logical interpretation.

Lapels of these coats are broader than heretofore and the coat cut away a bit more than we have been accustomed to, with no vent in the back.

Double Breasted Popular. Double-breasted coats continue in popularity, especially with the younger and slighter built men. The double-breasted vest is not quite so fortunate. Last season the East leaned strongly toward them, but its popularity is decidedly on the wane now.

Not all men will take kindly to these English model suits—some because these models are discouraging to the man who is keen for the national and trimness that is inherent with more body tracing lines. Other men will look askance upon them because it takes "a figure" to wear them successfully and not all men are so blessed in stature that their own

Hence Fashion is not strictly arbitrary. More form-fitting effects are offered as a compromise and these English styles will, by no means, encompass a total eclipse of the athletic style in suits.

Then, too, there are the sport styles and in this day of golfing, country clubs and summer dancing and outdoor excursions the sport style will hold their own. In these sport styles, however, there is a noticeable influence of the English trend which is manifested by less of the Norfolk modeling than we have been accustomed to associating with sport clothes.

Many men nowadays are wearing a severely cut lounge coat of sack characteristics even with their knickers. This fashion finds its "boring" from the fact that many men in New York and in the larger centers like to play golf during the day, drop into "tea" during the early afternoon or evenings at the club and hotel places and dance in the evenings without changing their garments.

Four-Piece Suits Favored. For such purposes the sack coat is a triple dresser—and it is because of this tendency that the four-piece golf suits are gaining in such popularity because the man can easily discard the knickers at his office or his club to the conventional trousers and have his coat to match.

Plaids, checks and small mixtures as well as monotone pattern treatments have forced most of the previously popular stripes into the background, and it is these effects that you will note largely in the Spring suits this season.

Blues are very strong. Powder blues, Porcelain blues, Guard blues, blue-gray and French gray are the outstanding colors of the season in the larger fashion centers. These may be in solid colors or in modest mixtures with the above shades as the dominant foundation effects.

Topcoats Cut Looser. Topcoats are cut a trifle looser than heretofore and are in sympathy with the suits in their English cut and almost straight lines. Guard model, box models and chest molds are mostly seen and many of the smartest are in the blue tones mentioned above.

Golf knickers are cut straighter and with not quite so much fullness and they blouse deeper below the knee than in earlier models.

Knitting blends into summer wear will naturally see more of the sport style clothes especially in the two-piece suits. For the mid-summer, ten-fifteen and sixteens will be the dressy evening suits especially for dining and social wear. These will be evenly divided between plain sack and sport treatments.

Next to these will be the finer grades of mohairs, Palm Beach effects, tropical woads and various novelty weaves. Tweeds and pongee or silk suits are not expected to be as favored as last summer.

Color is Rampant in Men's Haberdashery

The well dressed man is to be a gay bird, indeed, this season—at least in aspect if high colors are a basis for such expression. In his neckwear, his hosiery, his shirts, his golf attire and his handkerchiefs—all are attuned this season to high tones of brilliancy—we might almost say flamboyancy.

In neckwear especially bright colors are prescribed most arbitrarily. Foulards have the call and these offer a new note in the patternings as well as colors of spring. There is a predominance of floral effects as heretofore in this class of neckwear the designs run more to figure—conventional designs of block effects, cubist treatments and small geometrical motifs.

These ties are not cut quite as flowing as in previous seasons and yet are ample in both knot and ends. The colors are bright—more or less solid in foundation colors but the designing patterns are in bright reds, yellows, greens, purples, lavenders and some pastel shades. There is much of the Oriental tones that have become so popular in women's dress silks that will also be found in the neckwear for men.

Knit Ties Are Liked. Knit ties are again asserting themselves in elaborate patterns—some so profusely interwoven with color that it is almost impossible to identify them as being of knitted weave. The color scheme leans much toward the brighter effects in very much involved mixtures or bold bias stripings.

Next to these come the greenadings following in pattern effect the same trend as noted in the knit ties. Crinkly crepes are another new fabric that will find much favor as most stunning patterns have been developed in this character of tie. In fact it is anticipated as the season romps along into summer that the crepe and these crepes will pretty much dominate the vogue.

Flat or cut silks and mogadors will always find adherents and there will be no scarcity of these articles for those that prefer them, but in the main the man who knows his fashion guide will adopt things we have emphasized above as the high lights of the season's neckwear styles.

In shirts the outstanding departure of the season is the collarless match shirt. Not the soft collar, nor even the attached collar as in late seasons, but a stiff laundered collar with very intricate patternings of checks, cross stripes and eveningham motifs such as are sometimes seen in women's wash dresses. These are of course for use in early spring, as when the hot weather comes men will hardly burden themselves with laundered collars except for evening dress wear.

Shirts in Solid Tones. Some of these shirts will also be seen in solid tones, of which the new powder blue is considered to be the fadish thing. To this are added the lighter pastel tones of soft tan, orchid, coral, helio, pale green and cream.

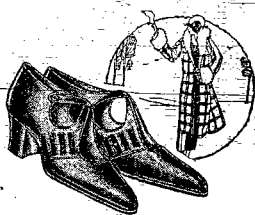

These effects will appear even stronger in the soft collar attached shirts as the season advances into the summer season and sport period.

Plain white, too, will begin to evidence itself about this time. These plain white shirts will be large in self pattern effects of madras corded stripes, jacquards and broadcloths.

In the patterned shirts neat stripes have the call. These are collarless and many will be worn with new kind of laundered finish rather than the semi-soft which will bring somewhat during the early spring and be revived when summer comes and its comfort giving properties will make their appeal. In these semi-soft collars many "pique" patterns are shown, but they are in the nature of a ventricle and their popularity is yet to be tested.

With the wing collars there is a tendency to return the bat wing ties and there is a strong indication that these bows will be widely worn. If the wing collar makes good the promise it reflected in the east during recent months.

Even-Color-in-Hosiery. Hosiery is not to be the least of the color notes in a man's attire this season. While the fine plain color tights and silks will always be in the lead this season the younger men are turning with no decision to very fancy effects—bold stripes, characteristic mixtures and even outlandish blocked and checked patterns of the character of Scotch golf hose. These will be most in worsteds and the softer fabrics while the silk hose will run to stripes and neat embroidered treatments.

Golf hose will run a very riot of color and design in wool, worsted, light silk and camel's hair or brush-up textures.

Gloves in the lighter shades are preferred for spring. Buckle, chambray and mocha vie with the capskins.

Handkerchiefs evidence much color in borders and all over treatments.

Silk Belts Coming In. A novelty venture of the season is the silk belts in tubant colors and patterns. Leathers, however, will be more commonly worn with ornamental buckles, initialed and monogrammed effects and the new bellogram.

There is a very strenuous effort being made in some quarters to return to the use of suspenders and this is meeting with some noticeable approval among well-dressed men who contend that only suspenders will hold the faller, longer trousers with a proper set.

Realism for Film Stars. Webster City Freeman Journal: The newspapers carried a story not long ago to the effect that Tom Mix was beaten up by two guards at the Mexican border. Mid-week meeting on Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock.
The theme for next Sunday morning's sermon will be "Some World Visions and Their Interpretation," the third in the new series on "The Present World." Beginning next Sunday a four minute message will be given by a layman preliminary to the morning sermon. Prof. Conrad Jacobson will inaugurate the series of addresses.
The Rev. J. W. Embree, D. D., corresponding secretary of the Nebraska Conference, Christian society, will be with us to speak on the work of gathering funds for retired ministers at our evening service. Hear him as he will have a message that is worth while.
Here is a "French Romance." In 1911 the first sermon was preached in a saw mill. So faithfully did the first pastor live and preach the gospel with such telling effect that the wrath of the roughs of the community was stirred and they were on occasion took a shot at him while he was preaching. A church was built in 1912. This is in the heart of the Evangelical church. The parish there are 28,000 people, ninety-five per cent of whom are of French descent; eighty-five per cent of these over twenty years of age can neither read nor write; fifty per cent of those of school age can not do so; while fifty-five per cent of the boys of school age, not in school. "Where is this benighted community found? In what part of France is it located? You ask. It is situated in the heart of the forest in the French settlements of Louisiana—in the country made famous by Longfellow's poem when he wrote "This is the forest primeval. The murmuring pines and the hemlocks, Bearded with moss, and in garments green, indistinct in the twilight. Stand like Druids of old, with voices sad and prophetic, Stand like harpers' hands, with beads that rest on their bosoms."

In 1922 the first Methodist school for the French in America was started among these people—meeting a long-felt want.

Baptist Church.
(Rev. Frank E. Allen, Pastor.)
During the pre-Easter period we will emphasize missions and evangelism. Additions to church membership represent something of the true nature of our effort as Christians. In the four years of the New World movement there were 235,000 additions to the Baptist churches of the northern continent. The light that shines brightest in some places farthest abroad. The foundation has been laid for our present and future cooperative missionary work.

The Institute program Sunday evening was very good. Mr. Whitaker spoke in informing and convincing fashion of the working man to secure a fair return for his labor and the unwillingness of the capitalist to grant industrial justice.

He pointed out what can be done by the school, the church and the state to aid this age-long struggle in securing a more abundant life.

Mr. J. Johnson spoke briefly for the men's class which observed their first anniversary in fitting manner. Messrs. Thomas Adams and Edmund Warner sang a duet, and Mr. Kruse, accompanied by Mrs. Spring, rendered a violin solo. The men's class quartet sang and all were well received. We thank all who took part in making the program a success. Sunday school at 10 a. m. Morning worship and sermon at 11 o'clock. Young People's meeting at 6:30 p. m., led by Viola Kopp and Vera Sylvester.

At 7:30 p. m., social Christianity. "The Quest for World Peace," led by Dr. House. Special music. Everyone welcome.

Wednesday evenings, "Little Journeys to Baptist Mission Fields,"

First Presbyterian Church. (Rev. Stephen E. Yenn, Pastor.) A felt minister said, "Well, we do have good stormy Sundays," and I confirmed his statement. Some of the expected ones were absent and some of the unexpected ones were present. Surprises greet you every Sunday. At bottom it is not a matter of weather, (though the weather makes a difference); it is a matter of interest. What kind of a religion have you? What place do you give it in your life? Is it a thing to be used or is something to be stored away? Is the average citizen service a help to your religious life? Will not a man who has a vital religious experience be found in church? Think over some such questions as these and draw sane conclusions. Come to church next Sunday. You will not be disappointed but helped.

Morning worship, prayer, song. Sermon topic, "Perilous Compromise." A message from an old preacher. Evening service, sermon topic, "A man, A Lion, A Pit, A Showy Day." Good music and good fellowship at every service.

The Sunday school gives a hearty welcome to young and old. Anyone who is interested in the greatest work in the world, a work of character building, should attend Sunday school.

For Representative

As a resident of Wayne county for twenty-seven years, I have devoted most of the time to farming and cattle raising, and I feel that I know the needs of farming communities. I am in favor of the utmost economy in the conduct of public affairs. I want to see fewer political jobs, and greater tax reduction. I want to see good roads and see the public get the full worth of every dollar spent in road building.

I have raised a family of boys who are tillers of the soil, and I am vitally interested in everything that pertains to the farming business.

If Wayne county people feel that I am qualified to represent them in the legislature, I will appreciate their votes, and pledge myself to do everything possible to serve the public welfare.

August Wittler
Republican Candidate
For
State Representative
Subject to Primary April 8

Mr. Wittler has been a resident of Wayne county since 1884. He came here as a boy with nothing but good health and good resolution as capital stock. He actively engaged in farming until a few years ago when he moved to Wayne, but he is still very much interested in farming and is alert to the farmer's welfare.

It will be remembered by many that he was the prompting force that secured a petition of 163 Wayne county land owners asking the state board four years ago to grant a deserved reduction in land valuations. Mr. Wittler went to Lincoln on his own expense and presented the petition. As a result the request was granted and a reduction of twenty-five per cent was made.

If he is elected to represent the county in the legislature, he will be there and over in looking out for the county's needs.

Albert C. Mau
Has filed as a candidate for the republican nomination
For County Sheriff

He has lived in this county twenty-eight years and is well and favorably known.

This is Mr. Mau's first experience as a candidate for public office. If he is nominated and elected sheriff, he will put forth every effort to serve efficiently. He will faithfully discharge every obligation resting on a peace officer.

He earnestly invites consideration and support at the primary April 8.

the executive, Mr. Coolidge fully realizes the responsibility of the administration's task, and, in that realization, he no doubt appreciates also the difficulties attending enforcement of the law.

Mr. Coolidge outlined briefly the purpose of the government and its division into three branches: the executive, the judicial and the legislative, and expressed himself in a way that many may consider heroic because of present conditions.

Constitutionally, of course, is everything in this country. Take it away and nothing remains.

Yes—it can be done The finest of cars can be sold at these prices

THE Studebaker name guarantees to you the utmost in fine-car construction. For 72 years it has stood for quality, for honest workmanship, for square dealing.

Where savings come Then how do the Studebakers so far undersell any comparable cars? Because we build so many. The fixed costs are divided by enormous output—150,000 cars per year.

Go and See Why Studebaker Leads

Studebaker is now the world's largest builder of quality automobiles. Last year, 145,167 fine-car buyers paid $201,000,000 for them.

What buyers save The Studebaker Light-Six Touring Car sells for $1,045. Under ordinary manufacturing conditions it would need to cost you from $1,200 to $1,400.

What is a fine car? A fine car means fine engineering. We spend $500,000 yearly on that department, employing 125 able men.

You will respect the Studebaker methods when you come to know them. You will admire the cars they create. You will delight in the values.

People can well afford to be charitable. The one who feels the least charity, may in due time need the greatest charity.

Schools purpose to inculcate habits of clear thinking and quick and judicious action, and they often succeed as witnesses of the bright, alert girls and boys everywhere.

Grant S. Means who is an old-time resident of this county serves the purpose of this part of the state for the republican nomination for lieutenant governor. His friends should get behind his worthy aspirations solidly and actively.

The month of March lies uncomfortably between winter and spring. It is a period of transition, and necessarily its activities often demand attention to one's feelings. Like the arid state of Nevada, it has its uses, and it should not be condemned as wholly bad.

It is reported that a plan is contemplated to gravel the Wayne-Wisner Pike. The highway between Allen and Martinsburg, in Dixon county, is to be so treated, as we understand. In the southern part of the state many of the main roads are gravelled, and are thus more easily kept in good shape.

Dr. A. Bixby, poet-philosopher of the Lincoln Union, has written a California flea that has won a Pulitzer cup for both the greatest high jump and the greatest broad jump according to reports, this distinguished flea can stand and jump farther than the average California flea can jump. Dr. Bixby evidently thinks one who goes to southern California ought to wear an armor of sheolium to insure against the flea which, in the past, holds tournaments continually.

In considering taxation and government revenues, we would say that the most important thing to do would be to remove the possibility of non-taxable securities. Large riches have been hoarded in such securities. They contribute neither to the support of the government nor to the activity or production of industry. Those who have sufficient funds to hoard in interest-bearing securities should not do less in swelling government revenues.

than the man who combines capital with effort in employing labor and stimulating commerce. It is reasonable to suppose that all taxes could be materially reduced if securities now tax-proof, were made to have a just proportion of the burden.

When a Yankton-Omaha railroad is built, it will naturally go through Wayne on account of the directness of the route and the rich resources of the adjacent territory. Railroad builders do not go blindly through the country. They recognize important points, and turn them to advantage. When Nebraska was largely raw prairie, with little ludias here and there, designated as towns a railroad started towns of its own and often killed others that had been previously started. But conditions have undergone a great change. Railroads appreciate developed business, and look with favor on the most inexpensive and most productive course. Wayne may be depended on to lend proper cooperative encouragement, and it has good reason to expect connection, in accordance with its importance as a shipping, trading and educational center, with the proposed Yankton-Omaha railway enterprise.

A report in a late issue of the Literary Digest in which a man, consulting his own experience, draws a sharp contrast between golf and dancing as a health-building recreation. The Digest's contributor says in effect that while his lungs and muscles responded but languidly to golf, they developed wonderful strength in short order on a diet of dancing. He advised that perspiration exuded more freely and copiously in dancing, and that he got more stimulating exercise in less time than in playing golf. He said flinging his pedal extremities reduced his flesh to proper proportions. It is gathered that dancing is unerring in taking off of putting on avoirdupois according to one's needs. Another advantage he claims for ball-room calisthenics lies in the fact that the dancer may experience four or five times a week, whereas golf could be indulged only during fair weather. Like some other rather elderly individuals, we are rather averse to dancing as a joyful sport, but we would join in supporting it as a rejuvenator and health restorative. We don't like old liver oil, but we would favor it for those who need it. Same with dancing. We shall not lift our nasal appendage scornfully in regarding the dance if it will bestow vigor, energy and put new courage into drooping spirits. If the testimony in the Digest is correct, the dance should begin dancing. Young folks don't need it, and, moreover, they don't require encouragement to do it.

Hoskins Marksmen Will Hunt Wolves

Hoskins, Neb., March 12.—About forty hunters gathered at the Thorngren pool hall Monday evening and made preparations to hold a big wolf hunt next Sunday forenoon, March 16. A territory six miles square has been decided upon. Beginning at the Otto Ulrich corner, the hunt will run six miles south to Webster Olson's corner, then six miles west to the Pierce county line, then six miles north along the Pierce county line and back to the Otto Ulrich corner. The round-up as decided upon will be staged in the large valley of the Fred Prevost pasture, just at the edge of Hoskins. Absolutely no cars will be allowed in the round-up.

A captain has been appointed for every mile and these captains should not allow any two persons to be walking together and visiting, which causes a gap in the line and consequently the wolves will escape through these gaps. The wolves in the surrounding territory are becoming a menace, especially to the farmers, so all the hunters in favor of decreasing the wolf population are requested to take an active part in this hunt and be ready on the lines as prepared to strike sharply at 9 o'clock Sunday forenoon.

Carroll Poultry is Among the Winners

Lincoln, March 9.—The Old Trusty Incubator company of Clay Center, Neb., is offering the same special premiums for the four best Boys' and Girls' Poultry clubs in the state in 1924 as it gave to the Beulah Junior Poultry club of Osceola, the Little Raisers club at Yutan, the Poultry for Profit club at Cozad, and the Carroll Poultry club of Carroll in 1922. It is announced from the agricultural extension offices here today. The first club received for its good work a 245-g metal covered Old Trusty Incubator and a 200-chick brooder. The Little Raisers was a 248-egg incubator as second prize. A 100-egg incubator went to the Poultry for Profit club, and a 70-egg machine went to the Carroll club.

All five of the members of the Beulah Junior club finished all their club work under the leadership of Mrs. Henry Tockey. They had nine meetings and three judging contests and gave three team demonstrations, winning first at the state fair in poultry club demonstrations. They made a financial profit of $33.17, which makes a net profit of 39 cents an hour on the 275 hours that they spent in all their club work project. Their profit represents an income of 237 per cent on their investment.

The Little Raisers club was made up of eight members, five of whom have now completed their second year of poultry club work. They made a net profit of $539.60 on an investment of $462.31, or an income of 117 per cent on the money they had in the project. They held seven meetings, one judging contest and six team demonstrations, one of which was second for them at the state fair. The club exhibited its poultry at the county, Fremont and state fairs and were the winners in each show. Mrs. H. A. Hamilton was the local leader.

The six members of the Poultry for Profit club were in their fourth year of poultry club work last year. They had—

They had— their chicks and raised them in 1922 and then enrolled in both the club and the accredited farm flock projects in 1923. They made a net profit of $131.00 on their investment of $1,022.05, or an income of 83 per cent on their farm flock investment. Their 842 hens averaged 335 eggs, which is 18 1/2 per cent above the state average in this project. Two of the members of this club have earned enough in their four years of club work to buy a Ford, in which they drive to high school now. Mrs. Albert Simmons is their local leader.

The six girls and two boys in the Superior Poultry club made a net profit of $105.36 on an investment of $93.24. This is an income of 113 per cent on their money and an income of 41 cents for every hour of time they spent on the project. They held six meetings, one judging contest, three team demonstrations, and each of the members gave two individual demonstrations. Mrs. Merle Roe is their local leader.

The other poultry clubs in the state that furnished the competition for these four made equally as good a profit as any of these. The state summary of this project shows that the average member made a profit of 140 per cent on his investment. Very little capital is required for the start of this work, since the entrance requirements are that a member hatch at least two settings of eggs or buy an equal number of baby chicks. The club work in this project should start in March, according to the agricultural extension service plan.

ment. Parties or organizations to whom petitions are submitted cannot be blamed if they discount them about fifty per cent at least. Wayne Wasp. We note in daily papers a much more cheerful view of the business situation as a result of the extra dividend paid by the U. S. Steel Corporation, with the announcement that the company made more money in 1923 than at any time in its history. Surely every business man knows, is a barometer by which we may judge most other industries. When the steel industry makes money, most other industries do, finance breathes more freely and trade in general lives up. Everybody tends to grow cheerful, and cheerfulness makes business better. Hardware men are reporting orders for future delivery far ahead of expectations; carpenters and contractors throughout the entire country press the belief that this spring will be fully as busy from a building standpoint as last spring—some predict even more so. Such a steady press the belief that this spring will be fully as busy from a building standpoint as last spring—some predict even more so. Such a steady press the belief that this spring will be fully as busy from a building standpoint as last spring—some predict even more so.

One of the most amazing things in the business outlook for this year is the building activity. The volume has increased enormously, although 1923 had the record for all history. Contract awards for this year run up to 25 per cent higher than those for 1923. This has tended to speed up many allied trades and industries, notably producers of building materials, cement, lumber, hardware, etc. There is a noticeable lack of vast number of workers and thus absorption of unemployment throughout the country.

One of the business features of promise is the increase in the consumption of meats. Two years ago the packers were nervous over the small amount of meat consumed, fearing it might lead to possible permanent reduction in output. The past year, however, has brought a change in this phase of the economic condition. More labor has been employed at good wages, and meats have been demanded in larger amounts. Hog receipts in 1923 were 21 per cent more than the figures for 1918, the previous year when exports to Europe were at the maximum. The increase in hog receipts for last year over 1922 was approximately 25 per cent.

The enormous volume forced prices downward as a natural consequence of the big supply, but the result was the encouragement of the change from a slow to a rapid movement of food animals. The greater the employment in industry the greater will be the consumption of meat, and when the return to normal finally has been achieved livestock productions ought to go back to a profitable basis.
