SUMMER SESSION TO BEGIN NEXT WEEK

Registration for State Teachers College Starts Saturday.

Registration for the summer session at the Wayne State Teachers college will begin Saturday afternoon and continue Monday and Tuesday. The session will last for eight weeks of school. Enrollment last summer exceeded 900 and indications are that this year's summer session will equal if not surpass that of last year. It is expected that about seventy-five will be here to do work on their A. B. degrees.

The method of registration will be similar to that used in previous years with the first steps in the admission of students from Wayne and others who are here will be enrolled Saturday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock and registration Monday will start at 8 in the morning.

A few changes will be made in the personnel of the faculty for the summer session. The principal of Columbia University, is to teach psychology and theory in the education department. Mrs. Sara McKibbin of Ames, Iowa, will instruct in art. Miss Ida Fisher of Glendo, Iowa, will be supervisor in the third and fourth grades of the training school, taking the place of Miss Helen Marshall who taught in Glasgow, Mo., the past year, comes to supervise the fifth and sixth grades.

Miss Grace Johnson who attended the state university, returns to the regular office. Supt. Conrad and C. B. of Wayne will instruct in mathematics. Supt. Elmer Rogers of Pilger and Supt. G. A. Jones of Rosalie will teach review subjects.

Most of her time as Dean of Women and will teach out one subject in Latin. She and Mrs. Vera Brockington will locate in the new dormitories and Miss Piper will visit the homes to supervise the conduct of the girls as well as see that they are given proper surroundings. All the dormitory rooms are taken for the summer. Miss Piper and Mrs. Brockington have a list of approved homes to locate the students who accommodate all students. This year more than two young women come to live in the dormitories. They will be here for eight hours are to be observed after 7:30 Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings and young women are to be in their rooms 10 o'clock on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings unless they have special privilege from the Dean of Women.

By observation, Miss Piper will report to Miss Piper when they leave town and leave their addresses. They also report to the women in whose homes they room. By observation of these few rules the students who come to Wayne for the summer are able to secure the best of school accommodations. It is the duty of the school for the welfare of the large number of students enrolled for the term.

A number of advanced courses will be offered in the curriculum for the eight weeks so that superintending and other teachers can work during the summer. The training school will be in session the first four weeks and observation work will be offered during this time. The first class will be conducted the last four weeks of the term.

Miss Elsie Ford Piper will be preceptor of Terrace hall. Miss Maude Koppke will be preceptor of the summer and Miss May Bettis who assisted as preceptor of Kingsbury hall the past year, will be preceptor of East hall. Supt. Elmer Rogers of Pilger will be preceptor of West hall.

The dormitories are being made ready for the opening of the summer term. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Penn will be in charge of the cafeteria at the school. The Ladies Aid society will put in for the opening of school.

Northwestern Seeks To Reduce Service

Norfolk Daily News, May 28: The changes affecting important passenger train service between Chicago and western railroad which were contemplated two weeks ago will become effective next Sunday morning, with the exception of trains No. 11 and No. 12 which will still run. These two trains, however, will be of schedule on Sundays and the decision whether or not to take train No. 11 and 12 will follow a hearing to be held here at 9 o'clock Friday morning, June 13.

The state railway commission on Tuesday notified the Norfolk and railroad the discontinuance of the morning train from Lincoln to Missouri Valley on Sunday and the train train retaining in the afternoon.

Trains No. 309 and 310, between Omaha and Scribner are off on Sunday, but will operate from Okadale to Scribner.

Awaiting Dakota Order. The railroad expects also to discontinue two trains between Omaha and Winner, but word from the South Dakota railway commission is that this will not be done.

About the only matter remaining to put into force the railroad's plans of train discontinuance of two weeks ago, is to take off the train No. 11 and 12 which will follow Norfolk and Long Pine and much interest is directed to the hearing here.

Loss of Money. A Railroad official of the Norfolk declares they cannot understand how the public can expect them to run trains at a loss. Assistant General Superintendent J. H. Reynolds declares that by eliminating these two trains, the company has other trains to take care of the existing passenger service. It is a purely economic argument.

On the other hand Norfolk declares that by eliminating these two trains, the company has other trains to take care of the existing passenger service. It is a purely economic argument.

Annual May Festival Surpassing Success

The annual May festival, held at the Wayne State Teachers College on May 21, was probably the most successful of all the festivals that have been held there in the past. There were some new and interesting features, the standard of performance was higher than usual and the soloists were more than ordinarily pleasing. From all sides has come much favorable comment on the excellence of the programs and the spirit of festive enjoyment that pervaded the day's activities. Much credit is due Prof. Leon F. Beery,

PROF. LEON F. BEERY

the director of the festival, for arranging such interesting programs, for securing artists of first rank as soloists and for his skill as a chorus conductor in bringing out the beauties of the difficult cantata, "Hiawatha," by Coleridge-Taylor, which was the main event of the day. The day began with a beautiful demonstration in the gymnasium by the physical education department, under the direction of Marlan Fessenden Beery, which included drills and activities by all grades from kindergarten to college. Mrs. Beery has done some remarkable work along this line during the past two years at the Teachers College. The music for this demonstration was furnished in a splendid manner by the College Orchestral club, under the able direction of Prof. Willis C. Hunter. One of the new features of this year's festival was a children's choral composed of children from the college training school and from the Wayne city schools. They sang the delightful children's cantata, "The Walnut Tree," by the composer, by Fern Fletcher, under the direction of Mr. Beery. This combining of groups of children from the different schools was more or less of an experiment here, but the performance showed wonderful possibilities for future development along this line. The children entered fully into the spirit of the cantata and responded with spontaneous and expressive singing. The visiting artists were given an opportunity to express themselves in recital on the afternoon program. Raymond Carr of Des Moines, sang the aria "Lead Me Your Aid," from "The Barber of Seville," by Gounod, and a group of modern songs. He has a tenor voice of considerable power and richness and sings with much feeling for musical and dramatic values. Perhaps his most effective numbers were Rogers' "There's a Boy in the Girls' Bathroom" and Mrs. Beach's "The Heart of the Matter."

Mrs. Mary Fitzsimmons, a graduate of the college, sang with her accustomed brilliance and vivacity, showing at her best in "Joy," by Scott. The first offering of Rollin Pease, baritone, of Evanston, was "It is thought," from "Elijah" and he proved beyond doubt that he is one of the outstanding Eliahs in the country today. If he had sung nothing else, there could have been no doubt about his artistry. However, he showed his versatility by singing, in addition to others, the majestic "Pierina Song" by Tschickradsky, Carpenter's humorous "Don't Cease" and the dramatic "Danny Deever" by Damosch. Mr. Pease's voice is a baritone of rare quality, which he uses with reserve or abandon, at occasion may demand. The festival chorus, composed of the college choral classes augmented by a large number of singers from the city of Wayne, did some remarkable work with the cantata, "Hiawatha," considering the intricacy of the music and the fact that the singers in this chorus are not picked voices. One of the finest things about the festival is that it brings like united activity not only to the college but to the entire community. The singing of the chorus on this occasion showed that they had an appreciation of the music they were singing and Mr. Beery's direction they were able to produce some truly thrilling effects, particularly in the second grade of the work, "The Death of Minnehaha." It was a great event in the musical life of Wayne. The soloists, of course, came in for their share of the glory. Mr. Carr for his fine singing of "Onaway, Awake, Awake," Miss Fitzsimmons for her sparkling and dash in "Spring Hare Come With All Its Fragrance" and Mr. Pease for his masterful and intensely emotional rendering of "Hiawatha's Vision" and Rogers' "The Heart of the Matter." Mrs. Beach and Mr. Miller did some splendid accompanying at the piano for the whole work. At the end, chorus, director, soloists and accompanist received the hearty and enthusiastic applause and approval of the large audience. The May festival has become a permanent affair in the musical life of Wayne and will doubtless grow bigger and better with each succeeding season.

Edgecombe, blind editor and owner of the Sentinel here, was awarded the national loving cup offered by the Editor and Publisher of New York, for having the best editorial page of the year. Mr. Edgecombe is said to have one of the best small-town papers in the state. He attributes his success in small-town journalism to thorough education, experience in banking and business, Edgecombe. "In college I got the foundation for success in my line of business, and in the bank I learned the value of money and how to save some of what I made," Mr. Edgecombe said. We will be the center of patriotic joy in Northeast Nebraska on July Fourth, according to plans that are now maturing.

Wayne will extend cordial welcome to the new army of ambitious statesmen who will begin arriving the last of the week for the summer term at the State Teachers College.

It cannot be charged that the president is playing politics or that he lacks the courage of his convictions. And people like a man who has the courage to stand up for duty and who is bent on serving the popular welfare even though they do not always agree with him.

We have decided not to buy railroads. Being compelled to run empty passenger trains at a loss by the state government would not be very sound business or a very useful thought to take to one's couch at the end of a day's labor.

But if we were to buy we would cut the fare so low, with permission of the state authority, that people could not even afford to walk excepting for exercise.

The only disputed point in the much heralded kissing episode in Michigan and Nebraska is whether the Norris is that of responsibility. The senator vehemently denies that he kissed the benefactor of 15-cent southern asphalt, but says he kissed him. The public would like to know how long the kisses lasted, how long it took to get the asphalt, and what he said or did at the moment to express his aversion. This information is necessary to fix the burden and degree of culpability.

Recurrence of Memorial day reminds us of our debt of gratitude to those who have fought for the Stars and Stripes at one time or another. It is eminently appropriate to record the brave deeds of living heroes and to commend to the public special honor for their sacrifice in preserving the American Union and perpetuating its freedom unhindered. As the great national flowers fresh from the field will cover the graves of the soldier dead, and express the fine sentiment of a thankful people.

The weather has been paying no attention to advertisements for straw hats. The weather has paid no attention to the calendar hanging on the wall or to the government forecasts appearing daily in the newspapers. The weather, official prognosticator says "old Boreas turns on the fan and blows a cutting from the north and south to North Pole. People want a change, and they don't want to devote all their time to kicking about the unseasonable weather. While the weather has been monopolizing the kicks—a lot of other things have been neglected.

Considerable interest is developing in a proposed community choral club to be under the accomplished leadership of F. P. Beery of Wayne. All needed is organization and inspiration, and Prof. Beery is a matter of the former, and can supply an abundance of the latter. A choral club would be a source of enjoyment to the public generally and a matter of the greatest benefit to the city. All would be benefited. Music tends to drive evil impulses and dark thoughts from people's souls, and make them more cheerful and more hopeful. Let us have the choral club and a series of public songfests.

A British scientist predicts that in five hundred years man will have far less brain and far more brains. He says that he has physically examined and moving side-ways like automobiles and artificial sidewalks. Growth of the radio will remove necessity for physical contact. But he says the human mind power can be developed largely. If physical support is greatly enhanced, as long as bodies last, they ought to be active and healthy in order to avoid becoming bankrupt to mental account. We think the time ought to revise somewhat his guess.

HURTING THE OTHER FELLOW. After concluding a business conference over long distance, a Herald prisoner, reminded of the two prevailing propensities to pick flaws rather than put shoulders to the wheel of constructive and wholesome effort, quoted this of St. John: "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at you." For bystanders think values would be firmer, markets stronger, business better and people more contented, with less iniquity and magnified. Hence trifling ills are made to appear like incurable diseases. Faults in people are dragged to the fore, heavily draped in the gravelocities of suspicion, sometimes even pointed out with fiendish glee.

Time is taken from useful employment to breath suspicion regarding some one's business stability, or fix up a single wrong so as to make it appear to do the most harm. Private character is assailed by the few insinuations or the inflated confidence of willing gossips.

People are so anxious to do well, anxious to see the world move along prosperously and happily. Given opportunity, they will do it. They throw a straw in the way of an individual, either to injure his reputation or hamper his business. But they do not do it with any ill will.

People are so anxious to do well, anxious to see the world move along prosperously and happily. Given opportunity, they will do it. They throw a straw in the way of an individual, either to injure his reputation or hamper his business. But they do not do it with any ill will.

IMMORTALITY. An aged bishop of the Protestant Episcopate, who has recently been tried for heresy at Cleveland. He believes Jesus is a myth like Santa Claus. He professes to believe in the resurrection of the dead. He admits that he is an atheist and a disbeliever in a future life.

The main function of the church is to provide people for immortality, supported by the belief of centuries, enriched and glorified by the life and teachings of the Nazarene, and who would assume immortality, presume to dissociate belief in immortality with belief in the Christian religion.

Good belief is a materialist. He believes what he sees and feels and no more. How can he believe in the accomplishments of the radio? He can see the great artificial expanse of space and restrict his vision to the earth—and to things earthly? Is it less conceivable for a disbeliever to believe in immortality, eternity than it is for a mere mortal to project organized sounds whose intelligence is maintained without aid to provide people for immortality, sands of miles of ether? Is it more wonderful to be perpetuated without bones and flesh and without aid to provide people for immortality, ether shortcuts, than to have been created and started off in this world?

The bishop would lift his eyes from history which appears too remote for him to accept, and consider present and present phenomena as proof of convincing proof of a redolent with bright promise. Between the cold materialist on the one hand and the narrow dogmatist on the other, there are great spiritual forces of the universe, sending good reason for belief in immortality, and buoyed and sustained by the thought of the elements of the end but the beginning of life.

DEFICIENT IN BRAINS. From Berkeley, Calif., Los Angeles has imported for police chief of men who has applied tests to define the mental equipment of members of the force under him. He has cited the results, according to his report, that the minds of Los Angeles officers test no higher than those of individuals 18 years old, and that range as low as those developed by children 9 years old. The chief shows that Los Angeles cops have minds of the average of the average of the great abuse of police power and a great deal of failure in detecting crime and protecting society against lawbreakers.

Probably Los Angeles is not the only city where policemen are chosen because of possibilities for brute force rather than for capacity to think clearly and exercise judgment impartially. Often policemen in large cities are appointed for appearance and more of endurance and wholly without regard to their ability to act with any reasonable degree of sound sense.

The new Los Angeles chief believes the safety of society does not rest in the hands of mental defectives. He thinks the proper employment of muscle and adipose tissue, a corresponding installment of brains, results in serious blundering and therefore more efficiency in crime. Perhaps from Los Angeles, driven by necessity for reform, will spread a movement for more intelligence and therefore more efficiency in the police departments of our great cities. Manifestly, police officers who are given much authority and who are largely protected by the law in their mistakes, ought to have minds that are capable of exercising fairly sound judgment.

Prepare Information Proper Use of Flag

The national society of the Daughters of the American Revolution has prepared some information on the correct use of the American flag. Mrs. Warren G. Harding is honorary chairman of the committee in charge of this movement to teach the correct means of displaying and the proper respect for the flag. Mrs. John Miller Horton of Buffalo, N. Y., is acting chairman. The information prepared by the committee is as follows:

There are certain fundamental rules of heraldry which, if understood generally, would indicate the proper method of displaying the flag. The matter becomes a very simple one if it is kept in mind that the national flag represents the living country and it is itself considered a living thing. The union of the flag is the honor point; the right arm is the sword arm and therefore the point of danger and hence the place of honor.

1. The flag should be displayed only from sunrise to sunset, but between such hours may be designated by proper authority. It should be displayed on national and state holidays and on special occasions. The flag should always be hoisted briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously.

2. Do not place the flag with another flag or flags, the flag of the United States should be either on the marching right, i. e., the front of the column, or the front of the staff of the other flag.

3. When a number of flags are grouped and displayed from staffs, the flag of the United States should be in the center or at the highest point of the group.

4. When flags of states or cities or emblems of societies are flown the same halyard with the flag of the United States, the national flag should always be at the peak. When flown from separate halyards the flag of the United States should be hoisted first. No flag or pennant should be placed above or to the right of the flag of the United States.

5. When flags of two or more emblems are displayed they should be flown from separate staffs of the same height and of approximately equal size. (International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another nation in time of peace.)

6. When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally from a building, it should be fastened to the staff with rings, or drappings of blue, white and red, and these drappings should be used, but never the flag.

7. When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally from a building, it should be fastened to the staff with rings, or drappings of blue, white and red, and these drappings should be used, but never the flag.

8. When the flag of the United States is displayed in a manner other than by being flown from a staff it should be displayed flat whether indoors or out. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, i. e., to the observer's left. When displayed in a window it should be displayed the same way, that is, with the union to the left of the observer in the street. When festoons, rosettes, or drappings of blue, white and red are attached to the staff, they should be used, but never the flag.

9. When displayed above the middle of the street, as between buildings, the flag should be suspended vertically with the union to the north in an east and west street or to the east in a north and south street.

10. When used on a speaker's platform, the flag should be displayed above and behind the speaker and should be attached to the speaker's desk nor to drape over the front of the platform. If flown from a staff it should be on the speaker's right.

11. When used in unveiling a statue or monument, the flag should not be allowed to fall to the ground but should be carried aloft to the top, out, forming a distinctive feature during the remainder of the ceremony.

12. When flown at half staff, the flag is first hoisted to the peak and then lowered to the half staff position, but before lowering the flag to the half staff it is raised to the peak. On Memorial day, May 30, the flag is displayed at half staff from sunrise until noon and at full staff from noon until sunset.

13. When used to cover a casket, the flag should be placed so that the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The flag should not be lowered into the grave nor allowed to touch the ground. The casket should be carried foot first.

14. When the flag is displayed in church it should be, from a staff, placed on the right side of the altar as they face the altar. The service flag, the state flag, or other flag should be at the left of the cross. If in an oblique position, the flag of the United States should be placed on the clergyman's right as he faces the congregation and other flags on his left.

15. When the flag is in such a condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, it should not be cast aside or used in any way that might be viewed as disrespectful to the national colors, but should be destroyed in a suitable and preferably by burning or by some other method in harmony with the reverence and respect we owe to the emblem representing our country.

Caution.

1. Do not permit disrespect to be shown to the flag of the United States.

2. Do not dip the flag of the United States by any person or any thing. The regimental color, state flag, organization or institutional flag will render this honor.

3. Do not display the flag of the United States with the union down except in a signal of distress.

4. Do not place any other flag or pennant above or to the right of the flag of the United States.

5. Do not let the flag of the United States touch the ground or trail in the water.

6. Do not place any object or emblem of any kind above the flag of the United States.

7. Do not use the flag as drapery in any form whatever. Use bunting of blue, white and red.

8. Do not fasten the flag in such a manner as will permit it to be easily torn.

9. Do not drape the flag over the hood, top, sides or back of a vehicle, or of a railroad train or boat. When the flag is displayed on a motor car, the staff should be attached firmly to the chassis or clamped to the radiator cap.

10. Do not display the flag on a flag in a parade except from a staff.

11. Do not use the flag as covering for a ceiling.

12. Do not use the flag as a position of a costume or of an athletic uniform. Do not embroider it upon cushions or handkerchiefs or print it on paper napkins or bags.

13. Do not put lettering of any kind upon the flag.

14. Do not use the flag in any form of advertising nor fasten an advertising sign to a pole from which the flag of the United States is flying.

15. Do not display, use or store the flag in such manner as will permit it to be easily soiled or damaged.

Proper Use of Bunting. Bunting of the national colors should be used for decorating a speaker's desk, draping over the front of a platform and for decoration in general. Bunting should be arranged in the middle and the red below.

Salute to the Flag. During the ceremony of hoisting or lowering the flag, the flag is passing in a parade or in a review, all persons present should face the flag, stand at attention and salute. Those in uniform should render the right-hand salute.

With a shape like MINE You could still get a fit at MORGANS TOGGERY

Copyrighted 1924

When not in uniform, men should hold it at the left shoulder. Women should salute by placing the right hand over the heart. The salute to the flag, the moving column is rendered at the moment the flag passes.

When the national anthem is played those present in uniform should salute at the first note of the anthem, retaining this position until the last note of the anthem. When not in uniform, men should remove the headress and hold it as in the salute to the flag. Women should render the salute as to the flag. When there is no flag displayed, all should face toward the music.

West Point Bank Wins. West Point, Neb., May 28.—The case against Caleb B. Thompson, et al, which involved the replevin of a number of cattle, was won by the Nebraska State bank of West Point in district court here. The trial resumed the jury took only a little while to arrive at a verdict.

This case dates back to October, 1922, when the bank took action to foreclose the cattle mortgage, which had been given by Caleb and Hudson Thompson on 200 head of cattle. The cattle were located on three places, on the Caleb, Hudson and William H. Thompson farms. At the time the matter developed to such an extent that to protect itself, the bank attempted to take possession of the cattle. Action resisted when it came to taking the cattle on the William Thompson farm.

Mrs. Thompson claiming that the cattle belonged to her and were not included in the mortgage in question. Suit was then brought in court.

Dreams Barn Burns And It Does Burn

Randolph, Neb., May 28.—Lee Fitzsimons, farmer living near this city, is about convinced that dreams have special significance that not a position on future events.

It was almost dawn when he awakened again. The barn was in flames, and the fire had gained such headway that it was too late to save the structure.

Case of the flames is unknown. A fact that had been overlooked for ventilation was found to have been closed and hooked, however, and because of this it has been advanced that a proofer may have entered the barn and set the fire.

Neighbors are lending Mr. Fitzsimons horses to complete the plowing of 100 acres of corn.

M. K. & T. FIREMAN TELLS INTERESTING EXPERIENCE

For 32 Years Bohon Has Fired Engine and Did Not Miss Day Until Stomach Troubles Hit Him—Tanicac Overcame Them All.

Thirty-two years of firing railroad locomotives of all types, coal burners and oil burners, 75-ton engines and 200-ton engines, without once "giving out" is the record, is a record of which S. Bohon, popular M. K. & T. fireman, 520 East 11th St., Sedalia, Mo., justly speaks with pride.

"Many a time," says Mr. Bohon, who is now assigned to "The Katy Flyer" between Sedalia and Parsons, one of the fastest trains on the M. K. & T. "I have fired an engine that consumed twenty tons of coal in 160 miles and I now make 320 miles every other day, so you can see what strength I have to put out. But I haven't had to worry about strength and endurance for the past five years for I have a medicine that keeps me fit for my work all the time—this Tanicac. "Five years ago my stomach came mighty near going back on me actively. There was a pain there all the time, I had awful dizzy spells, and my troubles finally got so bad I had to lay off work. "But Tanicac certainly did a jump-up job of knocking them out. It just suited my case to a T" and by the time I finished my fifth bottle, I felt so good I didn't need any more medicine. I have gone back to Tanicac every now and then just to keep up my strength and I can go out right now and fire the largest engine on the "Katy."

"If everybody would take Tanicac, especially in the spring, there would be a lot more healthy people in the world. For keeping a man on the job feeling right, it can't be beat."
