BOLD KIDNAPING IS REPORTED HERE

Wilbur Hall Said to Have Been Taken Into Captivity by Three Men in Wayne Sunday.

After Being Detained Near Sioux City Sunday Night, He Fought His Way to Liberty.

Wilbur Hall whose mysterious disappearance aroused a fever of excited anxiety here Sunday night, reports on his escape from a story of captivity and forced detention that rivals medieval days when pirates thrived on hapless victims.

Wilbur Hall says he was taken to point to three east of Sioux City and there forcibly detained. Money is what he says his captors wanted, and he paid them $100 in cash to point to his pocket. He was instructed to give a check for more money, and was compelled to send a telegram to his father asking him to deposit money to his credit here.

During Sunday night, he says he was carefully guarded, one hand kept on his waist and a faithful watch. In the early morning of Monday, while the bigger of the two was sleeping, he pounced on the wheeled chair and with a frightful struggle, managed to escape. The captors got their guns and emptied them without effect in the direction of the fleeing captives.

Young Hall finally reached Sioux City and going to a greenhouse where he had acquaintance, he notified the police and the police of Wayne and borrowed some money to pay his way home. He arrived here Monday afternoon showing the ill effects of his ordeal.

Mr. Hall says he had seen the three tough tough men in Salt Lake City five years ago, and that he was afraid of them. He said they had asked him to take them to Winner on the train, and that he was afraid to do so on account of his suspicion and fear. So fearful was he that he asked his father Sunday afternoon to send him a check for $100 to pay his way home.

Mr. Hall has been found Wayne that the three tough tough men of Emerson and the young man had not appeared, members of the family became apprehensive and heart-broken and a alarm of Hargrove for help. Parties motored to Sioux City Sunday night to prosecute the capture. The aid of the police department was secured but the man's release had been felt, and the first word from the young man in the shape of a telegram was a source of great relief.

Hargrove, and Mrs. James Miller, building and grounds, Mr. Philles and S. R. Theobald, and finance, Mr. Philles and Mrs. Miller. Aside from the election, bills were allowed.

Charlotte White Writes From Texas

Miss Charlotte White who is visiting her niece, Mrs. Arthur Neely, in Mission, Texas, writes to the Herald as follows:

The Snowdens whom we have met twice in NEBRASKA came over and made us a visit and as time for us to visit them. And having a real snowden, we went over to Mrs. Fae Snowden, formerly Mabel Linn, was one of my own girls while attending the Wayne Normal. I remained for a week and had a royal time as every day saw us up and away. The first snowden we went to hunting for white-wings, and a species of pigeon, but as it was too early for them we only saw a few. And the feathers carried the fish away. But we saw beautiful cotton fields all in bloom. The cotton is ready late this year, but they expect an abundant crop. Mission has sent us hundreds of the first birds. The first one to arrive, which is auctioned off. This one brought $1,405 and will be sent to Bremen to be sold for the benefit of the Wayne Normal. I have always supposed that Nebraska raised the finest corn of any state in the Union, but we saw fields, every day that were so good that it was hard to tie, all of ten feet high. I am sure it will beat three ears on a stalk. We saw corn ready for gathering, and so good that it was hard to eat. This one perfect day we had a wonderful picnic. Paul Snowden's family who live on the outskirts of Mission, had a picnic with about a hundred acres of land with the help of a squad of Mexicans, joined us. We started about 10:30 and went down almost to the Rio Grande and then back to the road built by Zachary Taylor about the time of the Mexican war. I would hate to have to travel over many of his roads all the time because the rain had made it to do with their roughness. We passed a brick kiln where our soldiers made brick during our late unpleasantness with the Mexicans. A brick building with great windows where we supposed they kept soldiers when they transgressed any of the articles of the code of a Mexican home. I have here are made of mud and thatched with palm leaves. Many of them have their little farms fenced with barbed wire. We found a gate to an enormous brick house to a fine Mexican residence, originally built by an American. The lake was surrounded by a road and above was a beautiful sky, and I wished for the power of an artist to picture it. There was a boat and we climbed in and went to the lake. It was very beautiful to the men to fish. But there were fourteen of us, young and old, so we were too noisy. They only caught a few shelled catfish and two fish. We were not depending on our dinner and we had a dinner worthy of Wayne county cooks. After a rest we went farther west and another lake with a sand bottom and while some of us visited at a beautiful place where they were taking home a great many of the best of the rest down to Lake Pefu.

Guests at the George Bush home on the Fourth were: Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Chapman of Norfolk, Mr. and Mrs. Mena Bomer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Perdue and son, Allen, Dean Fleming, Jack Graverhol, Miss Bonnie and Miss Ila Carlson of Winnsie.

Market Report

(Furnished by Swanson, Gilmore & Walsh, Sioux City Stock Yards.)

Sioux City, Ia., July 10.—Live stock markets do not show much change compared with the middle of last week. There was no market for a part of last week at most leading centers and receipts and demands were light and the markets were glutted with beef. The trade was in bad shape before the holiday. However, probably the cattle that are left in the strong hands and shipments may be lighter for a time. This would be a great aid in advancing the prices but it is not certain.

The stock cattle market is still in the same rut that it has been in all summer. There are few cattle com-

most centers, but the local trade except a weak to quarter decline in supplies were about normal. Slowness was noted Monday and a material session was held for sellers to finish the week. The best started out strongly on Tuesday, but closed stoner and by the middle of the week, the market was practically even with the same time last week. There seems to be a strong undertone to the market at this time; and if receipts would stay down for a time the market would probably work up a little.

Conditions surrounding the cattle market have been depressing for the past month and the markets were oversupplied with beef. Farmers have paid attention to the advancing corn market and sent their cattle in the market in strong hands and shipments have been holding cattle for the usual June advance, and when this failed to materialize they liquidated anyway and the markets were glutted with beef. The trade was in bad shape before the holiday. However, probably the cattle that are left in the strong hands and shipments may be lighter for a time. This would be a great aid in advancing the prices but it is not certain.

The stock cattle market is still in the same rut that it has been in all summer. There are few cattle com-

Hogs hit a new low mark the middle of last week, after a few days of excessive receipts, but stronger demand developed and placed the average well up in line again. An enormous supply was on hand the opening day of the week, but the market did not slip and it has held close to steady since that day.

There is a strong undertone to the market and indications point to improved prices in the future. However, if large runs continue, the market may not develop strength.

Well finished hogs have been in broad demand from shippers and packers, while buyers have been slow to go against the common mixed and packing grades. It appears that the range will continue to widen. It will pay feeders to finish their hogs in good shape before marketing. Hutchers will probably work higher, and other classes ease down in the near future.

Foreign Advertising Representatives: THE AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
 Many people are not looking for opportunities. They are looking for means and easy roads to affluence and luxury.

Differences over religion rather than government policy apparently split the democratic national convention and kept it delayed from day to day.

It is to be assumed that the national socialist party has found acceptable leadership in Robert M. La Follette. Otherwise it would not have endorsed him for the presidency.

The death of President Coolidge's son, Calvin Coolidge, Jr., arouses the sympathy of the American people. Many have had to give up their loved ones, and they know the sting and suffering felt.

We notice by an Omaha paper that Elizabeth Hantzlerialetela was married in Council Bluffs. We don't often see like congratulating strangers, but we want to applaud Elizabeth's wisdom in getting rid of her nequidialian name.

In his speech here on the Fourth, Adam McMullen, republican nominee for governor, made a very favorable impression. He made no reference to party politics, and his line of thought was well expressed, was wholesome and constructive.

People who have figured that the primary law is not altogether a success, now would hesitate to lift a finger in behalf of the old convention system in view of the prolonged and inefficient one enacted in New York the last few weeks.

Democratic leaders will have to get their heads busy in respect to cure the sore spots caused by the bitter deadlock in the New York convention in time to unite factions in the present primary by the time election rolls round in November.

People ought to have some kind of religion. The more spiritual it is, the better it is. But any religion is better than none. People ought to meet with a view to immortality. If they don't, they ought to hunt around and find one had adopt it. Then they would modify selfish interests, feed better and live more wholesomely.

Farming communities really belong to neither organized labor nor capital. They are more or less measure dependent on both, but we would not be benefited and might be injured by increasing the strength of either. Labor unions have more than capitalistic organizations, do not know when to put the brakes on their demands. They are those who want their oppressions have gone far enough.

In view of abuse of the privilege of making a motion by proposing crackers on the Fourth, the city council proposes to pass an ordinance fixing increased restrictions. In the early evening of the Fourth, Main street was terrorized by a constant bombardment. People moved in fear. To thus menace safety and interfere with peace of mind is inexcusable. We are to reduce the crackers to the most feeble sort manufactured—would likely meet popular approval.

We understand there are as many kinds of socialism as there are kinds of pickles. Some think socialism is a new name for the labor party. Some government ownership of public utilities, but nationalization of private property or equalization of ownership is not. It is believed to compel society to provide a job of a few hours per day for each person regardless of efficiency or otherwise. These are extreme views of socialism after the fashion of those depicted in Looking Backward.

Senator Robert M. La Follette, independent presidential candidate, says he is ready to wage "increasing warfare until the American people have been brought to a full enjoyment of their political and economic rights." If people are not now enjoying such rights, we wonder when they are to be. Did the people have more than a few hours of privilege under the old convention system, in the time of free railway passes and in the days when legislatures elected United States senators? If we have lost out, we are wondering just when and how.

A VENOMOUS CANARD.
 Somewhere some one or some group started a false report on the day before the Fourth that Wayne was the theater of a dreadful disease, and that the celebration here had been called off. Some heard of an epidemic of scarlet fever and others of yellow fever, that death was following in its wake and that the town had been quarantined. People telephoned from Laurel, Allen and other towns to ascertain the facts. Though it seems inconceivable, it is said some one stationed himself on a leading highway to warn people to keep away from Wayne.

A great crowd of people came here anyway, but whether it would have been larger if the report had not been circulated, we do not know. It is so important to know facts, adversely the attendance was affected as it is distressing to realize the existence of a state of mind capable of such low level of helpfulness.

We used to be appalled at the diabolical cunning of the dark-eyed politician who set afoot an ugly canard to stir the masses to a deadly disposition. We have been pained by reports of injustice and cruelty on part of individuals at different times. But more than anything, we ever heard of in times of peace was the perpetration of a devilish hoax designed to terrorize people and keep them from so important a place to observe Independence day.

An individual who would deliberately start a false story to hurt a town's celebration lends proof to the assumption that we are going to return to the dark ages. The shallow cavity in his cranial anatomy contains no air, no nerve, and no the spirose vapor of a printing press. We would not trust him as far as Lilliputian could throw a ton Durham by the tail. In expressing the full pity and contempt felt, ideas and words fail us.

At Early Morn.

(A. L. Bixby in Lincoln Journal).

Into the field at early morn

I go as one who dares,

To pull the pigeon-grass and tares.

And how I sweeter in the sun,

And how on aching spine,

At last the labor work is done

Great meritism is mine.

The fiddle from its box I bring,

And there I sit and saw and sing

Till neighbors call me down.

Crop Report Optimistic.

Omaha Bee: Wheat averaged $1.11 a bushel during the first quarter of 1924, despite the slump in the third quarter of 1923, and Nebraska and other wheat growing states are "faced with bright prospects before them," according to the United States department of commerce report made public here.

The wheat slump in 1923 took the product from $1.27 average down to $1.04 for number two red winter wheat, which was the lowest price ever just closed it was holding its own at $1.09 a bushel weekly average, "Nebraska," according to the report, "is one of four states which shows an increase in wheat production this year over 1923 in the face of a smaller crop for the country. Receipts of wheat at the primary markets are lower than in 1923. The receipts for the first quarter of this year averaged each week $993,000 bushels, and 3,004,000 bushels in the second quarter. Last year, the average weekly receipts in the first quarter were 6,186,000 bushels, and in the second quarter of 1923, they were 4,420,000 bushels.

"Building contracts for the country are another indication of the recovery of business. The weekly average in 1913 was $10,819,300 while for the first quarter of 1924 the average stood at $67,529,000 and in the second quarter $86,362,000. In the first quarter of 1923, they were 4,420,000 bushels.

"The meeting was called to order by the mayor and the minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

is gradually gaining ground, is that the school system is indeed a trust, but only in the sense that those who are employed by it are virtually "trustees" who have proved their fitness. In the responsibility of this trusteeship, however, the parents have their share, because it is by their votes that the teachers hold their positions and it is to the parents that they are accountable in the last analysis.

The great fact, then, which Mrs. Reeve stressed, as of such supreme importance, and which unquestionably is not appreciated in anything like its full significance, is that education has been far too long limited in the public thought to youth and the teachers. It must begin, she declared, with the parents. In just the same way as behind the government of a democracy stands the people, who are in reality responsible for that government's policy and actions, so behind the school is the parent thought, which is in reality responsible for its proper conduct.

Mrs. Reeve in continuing her energies toward the working out of a grand ideal, the full acceptance of which would do much toward upbuilding the morale of the Nation. Back of it is the fundamental, which is of almost universal application, that no one can shift his or her own responsibility to another's shoulders and not suffer the consequences. Moreover, this responsibility involves the welfare of the coming generation, its extreme importance is readily appreciated.

Calvin Coolidge, Jr. Sioux City Journal: Death strikes when and where it will. It has struck down a figure in public life, the son of the president, a boy who was just like anyone else who has suffered a permanent loss. The fact that it was the president's son merely intensified the feeling of the American people, who were saddened in millions of homes at millions of breakfast tables by the news of the Coolidge family loss.

The father was president. At his command were the best surgeons and physicians of the country afforded. Scientific skill was his for the asking. No man could be more valiantly positioned. At his beck and call in the crises were anything and everything that could be required in the way of treatment and attention. But all this did not give the father and mother power to save their boy. Death strikes when and where it will.

In many respects the tragedy in the Coolidge family—for it was a tragedy, an accidental death so to speak—is like many others suffered by less illustrious parents throughout the country. They had reared the boy almost to manhood, but had to yield him up. In many other respects, however, the similarity ceases. Calvin Coolidge must continue to be president and Mrs. Coolidge must continue to occupy her official position as his wife. They cannot, like other bereaved parents, escape their duties. That is going to make it harder for them. Besides, there is the campaign which the grieving father must conduct. He must carry on, and with full knowledge that the greatest triumph, being elected president of the United States in his own name and own right, cannot make up for the blow he has suffered when his boy was taken from him.

Lincoln Journal: The failure of the Cleveland LaFollette convention to take definite stand on the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment will be generally charged to the predominating influence of Wisconsin. The dry vote, therefore, will not be confined to the large numbers to Senator LaFollette.

must be practiced in little things. Thrift is hard for the reason that temptations to spend money beset us, and more fortunate or more extravagant people put forth bad examples. The line between thrift and stinginess is hard for some of us to draw. A man who calls himself a thrifty man may be what others call a tightwad, and the example he sets is considered a bad one. There is extravagance due to carelessness and rivalry, and there is what might be called emotional extravagance. A man will save persistently for a period and then in an outburst of spending part with his little hoard. He will resume his habit of thrift till another little fortune it got together and go spending mad again. Education in the art of thrift would be good for many of us.

From Other Editors.

Albion News: Without good public highways the man who does a trucking business will have a difficult time, in fact it is a question whether or not he could succeed, owing to the uncertainty of road conditions. Furthermore, the big freighting trucks probably do more damage to the highways than any other vehicle that commonly travels there. And yet in many instances the trucking business is being done with little taxes, contributing but a trifle toward the construction and upkeep of the highways upon which the business depends. The big highways are essential to the trucking business and because the big trucks are hard on the roads is one of the main reasons for the establishment of a gasoline tax. With such a tax, these men would be required to help maintain the highways and by that much shift the burden from the shoulders of men who do not make much use of them.

Fairbury News: A writer in one of the current magazines comes to the defense of the lightning rod peddlers with a bunch of statistics which indicate that during the past seven years losses from lightning have come to 9,831 homes without rods, and 1,234 with rods. The writer is right. But the article did not attempt to show what proportion of the homes are rodless, and without this information these facts mean nothing. From observation we should say that but a very small per cent of the homes of the country are rodless today, because the tendency in late years has been to put rods on every building. It should be an easy matter to ascertain definitely whether the lightning rod has any virtue or not.

York Republican: There is something alluring about a great city but delegates to the democratic national convention are learning that something which is called hospitality in the south and west is in the metropolis reduced to insignificance of self-seeking. The vaulted good fellowship of the New Yorkers present on close inspection to be a bald attempt to influence delegates to support a favored candidate for the presidency. From the observation we should say that but a very small per cent of the homes of the country are rodless today, because the tendency in late years has been to put rods on every building. It should be an easy matter to ascertain definitely whether the lightning rod has any virtue or not.

varied, but out in the open spaces of the land where hospitality and unselfish consideration are twins and make a twin that brings about the reign of common good will.

Geneva Signal: The country is being overrun by persons with grafting schemes and other devices for getting money by law work. This was the list for The Signal last week: Two young men wanted a price on 200 copies of a church directory to be printed on a sheet of cardboard. A solicitor for the Volunteers of America who wanted money to spend on charity in Omaha. A young man who wanted to buy a page in the Signal and sell advertising to Geneva business houses on a contract to run twelve weeks, a portion of the space to be devoted to urging people to buy at home. These three schemes would have taken a lot of money out of the community if they had been pushed through. The whole bunch got cold comfort at the Signal office. Legitimate advertising wisely used will build business but church directories and similar schemes benefit no one but the directors who are slick enough to get their contracts signed.

Business: Sioux City Journal: The commanding position in any business review today is held by the industrial workers, who are attracting attention because of wage reductions. The east, the north and the middle west all are suffering. A steady reduction in wages has been under way for several weeks, with the result that the movement is widespread and steadily lines are involved.

Weekly wages in the state of New York in May, the last month on which figures are available, were 10 per cent lower on the whole than they were in March and April. The May figure was more than 10 per cent below that for the same month last year. In March the weekly New York weekly pay roll amounted to $27,500,000. In May it was down to $24,000,000. At the lowest point reached in 1921-22 New York State's weekly pay roll was $27,900,000. In New York state the total volume of factory wage payments was lower in May than in any other month since October, 1922. The average weekly pay roll of New York factories in May was $24.54, which records a drop of 62 cents from the average in March.

Coming westward, one finds that the number of persons employed in the middle west in industrial centers declined, from April 15 to May 15, 3.5 per cent. The earnings of these men, however, fell down 4.1 per cent. This lowered the pay roll costs considerably when the size of the area affected is considered, but the difference was made up by a larger number than by reductions in per capita wage payments. Wages in the middle west section have been reduced somewhat, but not in the same proportion as the operation of the change in the size of the pay roll, however, may be much more distressing when it is influenced by unemployment rather than in a reduction in wages. It means that a larger number of persons are involuntarily idle. Economically, industrial workers would be better off on a mass-if more of them were occupied and the average wage was a little less.

When the figures for June are available, according to statisticians, the decrease in the pay rolls of the middle west will be more marked. The last four to six weeks witnessed a substantial change in general. The purchasing power, already weakened, was further reduced owing to the busy crop season and the absence of farm rallies from the city and town markets. Decrease in the industrial pay rolls is bound to lower the purchasing power in still greater degree. It all goes back to production where the law of supply and demand first begins to operate.

It is not the conclusion that wages in this country are going to hit bottom. Most observers agree that pay rolls are reacting with the times, that labor is merely fluctuating due to uncertainty and nervousness in manufacturing. June may be properly regarded as a probable change in wage figures than did May, but there is no likelihood that pay rolls will continue to be affected consistently for some months and in large amounts. It is more likely that wages are seeking a new level, and that it will be controlled largely by the new levels in the prices of general merchandise.

The cost of living must come down if wages are forced to lower figures and held there permanently. Producers could not resist the demands of that economic law which demands reduction in sales prices in proportion to lowered costs of production. On the whole, business today, while admittedly uncertain in some phases, seems to be seeking permanent levels in many respects. The inequalities that have existed for years between various elements of trade, many have not to be lessened. Agricultural prices will have to go up whatever and industrial costs will have to come down until a compromise figure is reached, on the basis of which healthy trade may be resumed and maintained.

N. B. Bird, who live several miles north of here, has streaks of gray in his hair which it is feared will be permanent.

While returning home from Newcastle during a thunderstorm, the young man was knocked down by a bolt. In a semi-conscious state, he managed to drag himself up to the porch of the Boardman home, and those on the inside hearing him crawling about on the porch, carried him into the house and notified his parents.

He was unconscious for several hours and unable to tell much about his experience when he came to himself a few days afterwards.

Accidents on the Fourth. Omaha, Neb., July 6.—Fireworks blinded one boy, perhaps permanently, and injured two others.

Backfire from a roman candle was in his hands struck Glen Gratzler, 4, in the face, causing blindness. Whether or not the child will be permanently blind cannot be determined for several days, his physician said.

Lincoln Hughes suffered severe powder burns when a firecracker exploded close to his face.

Torpedoes in the pockets of Homer Headley, 10, exploded when the boy sat down on the bumper of his father's car.

Dawes May Visit Lincoln. Lincoln, Neb., July 6.—J. C. Cornell, president of the Lincoln chapter of commerce, has received a letter from Gen. Charles G. Dawes saying he hoped to visit Lincoln and reply in person to the messages of congratulation he had received from old friends here on being made the republican vice presidential candidate.

Fall Far; Only Bruised. Crofton, Neb., July 6.—Lenn Potter, working on a farm near here, although he fell 20 feet and struck his head, when he was knocked off of a hay stack by a stacker, was not seriously injured, receiving only slight bruises.

It's There, Just the Same. Arthur Brisbane: The name of the plan is not mentioned in the platform. But it was so thoroughly named and kicked around in convention speeches that the platform might as well have named it 47 times.

That Was Long Ago. San Francisco Chronicle: An old-timer is one who can remember when the name of Lincoln was called "domestic."

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ellyson and family and Mrs. J. W. Ellyson of Newcastle, Neb., were here a few days last week, guests in the home of Dr. A. D. Lewis.

Gets Gift From Japan. Belden, Neb., July 6.—Although late in arriving because of the long distance traveled, a string of Japanese pearl beads sent as a graduation present from India by some former Belden residents, has been received by Miss Ethel Seyl, a graduate of the Belden high school.

Spillman at West Point. West Point, Neb., July 5.—A large crowd attended the celebration at this town, which was featured by an address by O. S. Spillman of Pierce, a parade, motor boats with one especially constructed old-time steam launch, shows, fireworks, races, and last but not least, two ball games. Bancroft team was defeated by West Point 6 to 3 and in an Elkhorn Valley league game between West Point and Nickerson, the home team won by a score of 2 to 1.

Frazier-Johnson Company

Live Stock Commission Merchants

For more than 40 years the name of Frazier has been identified with the live stock commission business in Omaha trade territory. In the early days the firm of Burke & Frazier of which Wm. Frazier was a partner, was the largest live stock commission firm operating at the Omaha yards, this at the time when Omaha was a small market. Since 1906—18 years ago—the firm of Frazier-Johnson Co. has been conspicuous among the successful commission houses at the South Omaha market.

The Frazier-Johnson Co. is under the management of Wm. Frazier, who gives personal attention to every detail of the organization. Mr. Frazier belongs to that old school, whose ethics were honesty, integrity and a square deal to all, and it is a matter of personal pride to him that these ethical virtues are practiced in his organization today the same as in the beginning. Mr. Frazier is still active.
 He heads the cattle department and demands a vigorous service of his men, strict adherence to duty and unswerving loyalty to his customers. This strict discipline has been one of the predominate features of the Frazier-Johnson success, and for the enviable reputation the firm enjoys among its patrons.

The Omaha office is located in rooms
 151-153 Exchange building, Stock Yards Station.

The Frazier-Johnson Co. is one of the leading, dependable commission houses at the Omaha market.

Mrs. Woodward Gives Facts to the Public

Omaha Lady Says 4 Bottles of Tanlac Brought Relief.

"Tanlac is the best medicine I ever heard of and I know something along this line, for I was reared in a doctor's family and studied nursing for awhile." recently declared Mrs. June Woodward, 521 South 25th Ave., Omaha, Neb.

"I have never felt better in my life than I do since taking Tanlac and I just can't praise it enough. Yet, a few weeks ago I never felt so worn out and bad. I hadn't a bit of strength and energy and would be as worn-out in the mornings as at the finish of the day.

"I have now finished 4 bottles of Tanlac and feel wonderful. I eat everything, have gained seven pounds and think Tanlac is so fine that I want everybody who is complaining to try it. The change in my condition is so radical and complete as to astonish me. People in need of a good medicine and tonic will find Tanlac ideal from every standpoint."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

Nebraska Wheat Feeds 9,000,000 People Nebraska's great crop of ripened wheat, which in the summer months turns our state into waiting fields of gold, awaits only the harvest and miller's hopper to furnish food for 9,000,000 people. Our state's rich soil and abundant rainfall, assisted by the enterprising spirit and modern methods of the Nebraska farmer, have made this commonwealth third in the yield of wheat per acre and fourth in annual production. In every way, Nebraska is moving forward and more and more local and long distance telephone service will be required constantly. At the present rate of Nebraska's growth, we must spend about three-fourths of a million dollars annually for new telephone property in this state. Inasmuch as immense sums of money are required to provide for the growing demand for telephone service, Bell System stock and bonds must be sold constantly. About half a million people in all walks of life are dependent upon the financial integrity of the Bell System. We shall be pleased to have you join this vast army of telephone investors. Full information about Bell stock or bonds can be obtained from any telephone employee, or call our Manager.

Irene Haines Dies

On Fourth of July

Irene Mildred Haines died Friday afternoon at 8 o'clock at the age of 5 years, 10 months and 7 days, following an operation Thursday for appendicitis. Funeral service was conducted at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church with Rev. W. H. Hull in charge and interment was made in the Carroll cemetery beside her mother.

Irene Haines was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Haines and was born August 27, 1918, in Forest City, Mo. Her mother, Mrs. Essie Haines, died when Irene was 3 months old and the child's uncle, aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Shufelt, took her. Later Irene's brother and sister, Freddie and Viola Haines, were taken to the Shufelt home to be cared for. These children and two half brothers, Frank Lawson of Ponca, and William Lawson, who makes his home with his grandparents, Mrs. and Mr. Thomas Grook, in Carroll, survive.

Deceased was taken suddenly ill last week with appendicitis and was taken to the hospital in Winslow.

Mr. and Mrs. Shufelt made a happy home for Irene Haines and her brother and sister. Besides their own home, Mrs. Shufelt has cared for the three Haines children and two other boys. Irene will be missed in the family by whom she was thought of so much.

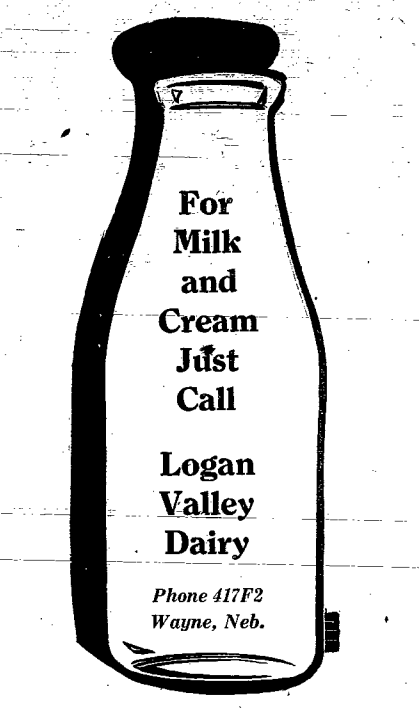

Barn Burns Early

On Friday Morning

The large barn on the old Fred Hellweg place five miles northeast of Carroll, owned by Mr. McCormick of Sioux City and occupied by O. E. Friday morning about 3 o'clock. The cause of the blaze is unknown. No stock was in the building so the loss consists of the building, harness, some grain and hay, wagons and machinery. When the fire was noticed it had gained headway on the north end of the building and the house and the blaze was well started when a call to neighbors was made. The barn could not be saved but the men kept a large corn crib which contained a large amount of grain from burning.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express sincere thanks for the many kindnesses of friends during the illness and at the time of the death of Irene Haines, also for the local churches, friends, neighbors and family, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Groat, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Church.
