Rain, Wind and Hail North of Here Do Damage to Crops and Roadways Friday.

HEAVY RAIN COMES TUESDAY

Crooks in Wayne County Overflow Their Banks and Flood Fields and Highways.

Storms that visited Wayne county Friday, Tuesday morning and Wednesday morning did some damage to crops, washed out a couple of bridges northwest of Wayne, damaged the road grade two miles north of Wayne, caused the creeks to be swollen and overflow their banks.

The storm Friday was heaviest north of Wayne. It being reported that four inches of rain fell at Belden and three inches at Laurel and Concord in a short time Friday afternoon. Water swept through the valley north of town Friday and Saturday and washed considerable small grain and hay from the fields.

Water filled the house of Roy Surber about five miles north of Carroll to a depth of about two feet and the family was compelled to sleep in the barn. Mr. Surber's house is in the valley and he plans to move his buildings. He has lived there for about thirty years and the water Friday was the highest he has experienced.

A strip of land about eight rods wide north of Carroll and toward Laurel, suffered damage from hail and wind. The hail was about the size of lightning and wind did considerable damage at Randolph and Bloomfield. The storm extended east to Sioux City in a short time.

jobber, who in turn buys it of the mine. Here are three profits that you pay someone on the coal you buy of the "mine representative."

We Can Save You Money Because—

1. We can supply same grade and size of coal.
2. Render same service.
3. At less cost.
4. WHY?

Because we do not buy thru "scalpers," jobbers or agents. We buy on contracts made direct with the mines who produce the coal. We cut the rock-bottom prices and you pay but one small profit to us. There are no "scalpers" or jobbers reaping a profit between us and the mines.

How to Buy Coal

1. Know that the party you buy of is reliable.
2. Ascertain the price.
3. Be sure to learn the State, County and Shipping Point from where the coal is shipped. This is very important if you are not to be imposed upon.
4. Get the Government report giving the analysis of the coal. This is also very important as it tells the heat value of the coal.

All this information is necessary so that you will know the grade or quality of the coal you will get. A general name such as "Southern Illinois" does not mean anything, because the quality of the coal within the various coal states varies greatly. As an example, there are nine distinct coal districts in the State of Illinois. There is much difference in the quality of the coals coming from these districts and naturally the price of coals at the mines varies accordingly.

With all these facts before you, we know you can save money buying your coal direct from us. Our purchasing power enables us to undersell any "mine representative" on the identical coal he is offering you. We will not sell you Southern District Illinois Coal and fill the orders with coal from the Standard District near St. Louis, which is more than one hundred miles distant from Franklin, Williamson or Saline counties where the only genuine Southern District Illinois Coal comes from. That is not square dealing. We will not be a party to it.

During the month of August, we will deliver car lot orders from Standard District Illinois Coal at "Southern Illinois" if you want to. We don't) at $7.75 per ton. Place your order NOW.

Carhart Lumber Co.
at the coal. O.K.

Do You Buy Coal Direct from the Mines?

If you do, you can save money by letting us know when you are ready to buy.

You perhaps have been, or will be, solicited by some so-called "direct mine representative" who says he sells coal at mine cost. This "mine representative" is undoubtedly representing some concern that advertises for agents to sell their coal in a manner similar to this:

"WANTED—Coal Salesman."
"Make $8,000.00 to $10,000.00 profit a year. Make a week's salary in an hour. Experience or capital unnecessary."

This "mine representative" claims to sell at mine cost. Still the company he represents tells him he can make the above profit in a year, or salary in an hour. Some place, some where, someone must pay the agent his profit and you can be sure it is you in the end. The so-called "mine representative" usually gets his coal from some "scalper" in Chicago. The "scalper" usually buys it from some

Live Wire Kills Albion Man. Albion, Neb., Aug. 5.—W. C. Bellows, 57, while doing a job of plumbing in the basement of the Main Street cafe, Saturday afternoon came in contact with a "live" electric wire and was instantly killed. He was standing in the water on the floor of the basement. A peculiar coincidence is that about fifteen years ago another man met the same fate in the same place and under the same conditions. Mr. Bellows leaves a widow and three children.

The pastor and his family wish to express their sincere gratitude to members of the congregation for all kindnesses and good will shown us during our five years' service in Wakfield. At this occasion we would especially thank our members and friends for the cordial farewell social tendered us last Thursday evening and for the generous gift we then received. May God bless you for all you have done.

We would also thank the people of this community for amiable fellowship and neighborly kindness that we have experienced in your midst. Let us all direct our steps heavenward so that we may meet in the mansion which Christ has prepared for us. There will be no "farewell" said there. Until then we would wish you God speed and a kind farewell.

Harrison is expected in Nebraska this week and plans to make his headquarters in Lincoln. He managed Hiram Johnson's campaign in the primaries four years ago and also this spring.

Paving in Progress at Winier

Winier, Neb., Aug. 6.—Work on paving the entire length of Winier's main street is progressing rapidly and by October 1 it is expected that the public will be able to travel from one end of the city to the other on brick paving.

Several other paving districts are being formed with the prospects that all of the principal streets will be paved. Objections that the proposal to pave Main street met at first apparently have disappeared with a reaction in the other direction with the result that every one has the paving fever. If all of the paving that is planned goes through the city the gang will still be working here next summer.

Mr. Marshall, after being cared for at the Delbert Elwood farm home, was brought to town on a cot and later was taken to a hospital at Battle Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall and daughter had been visiting a son, Clarence, in Nebraska.

When the accident occurred, the Marshall car had just turned a corner and was making a short hill when the two cars met at the top.

In the Lincigh.

Lincoln Journal.—That genius for the limelight which has been Geo. Bryan's best political asset brought him right to the center of this "mobilization day" row. There is no telling as yet by ordinary political opinion as to which side of that issue the political profit is going to fall. If it happens to turn the governor's way, that gentleman's reputation as a political lightning calculator is due for a further rise.

The price for radio bulbs is said to have taken a tumble, dropping a dollar this week.

Walked Five Miles A Day.

By wearing a pedometer, an Iowa farm woman found she usually walked five miles each day in preparing meals for her family of three. With the aid of a member of the cooperative agricultural extension service of that state, she studied the placing of her kitchen equipment. After rearranging it to meet her particular needs more effectively, her pedometer showed, according to reports to the United States department of agriculture, that the distance she had to walk in preparing one day's meals was but 2.5 miles. She is claimed to require no more laundry this state, more time to read, write, and sew.

Have Fine Highway.

Winner, S. D., Aug. 6.—One of the finest state highways in the state will be found between Winner and Carter, where the road is being surfaced with crushed stone, when completed. However, there is some question as to the manner in which this stone is being laid. Instead of packing the stone with a steam roller, the work is left to the traffic. This is claimed to be costing automobile drivers a large sum in tires. One trucker who uses the road frequently, says he has paid $400 in tires since the work started and another claims it has cost him $300. There is not other road that motorists can take. Where there is such a road, motorists have been cautioned to keep the traffic from taking such routes.

Captures A Badger.

Winner, S. D., Aug. 6.—Some days ago Harper Cleveland, a young man working on the L. L. Shaver ranch three miles from Winner, while rounding up the cattle for the night came upon two badgers in the pasture. The badgers had just begun digging in a new place and evidently were trying to dig themselves out from under the ground. Young Cleveland took the bitch strap from the horse, turned the horse loose and proceeded to strap up the badger. He repeatedly pulled the animal from the hole by the tail and finally succeeded in slipping the noose over the head of the angry creature. The Shavers who had become alarmed over the unusual delay of the young man later saw him coming over the hill leading his captured enemy. Some quick movements and a snare strategy were necessary to bring the animal home but the lad was successful.

Last Chief of Omaha Tribe.

Bellevue, Neb., Aug. 5.—Logan Fontanelle, last chief of the Omahas, and the first in whose veins were mingled the blood of the red man and the white, is again the subject of individual research by members of the Nebraska state historical society. These individuals seek persons who had been in contact with the chief after he was killed by a Sioux Indian in 1855, in an effort to determine the actual burying grounds of the last ruler of the Omahas.

The historical society, although not officially conducting the search, has made it plain to members and others that any revelations resulting from the investigations will be appreciated, thereby tending to encourage the quest.

In the year 1855 the Omahas and the Sioux tribe were at war. While the former were returning from a hunt, the party was surprised by a Sioux ambush and Logan was killed. This was in Nance county. The chief's body, it is said, was removed to Child's Point, near here and bur-

After this splendid program, which was a treat to the older folks, another treat, ice cream and cake, was enjoyed by both old and young. The game, the single was the married one, resulting in a score of 7-9 in the single men's favor, was enjoyed by all. A jolly social time was had by all, one member remarking "We should have such gatherings more often, as it gives us more of a brotherly feeling for our fellow men."

Concord to Organize the Farmers.

A membership drive for the National Producers' Alliance is being made here by Oswald Graugard of Minnesota, and is meeting with splendid success. Could the purpose of this drive be realized we should eagerly be ready to further its progress. From Magnus Johnson's endorsement of this alliance in a letter to Mr. Graugard, we quote: "Your letter asking about the Alliance was received. I am familiar with this organization, and believe in it. I believe that something should be done along this line as to the farmers, business men and professional men may be able to get together. The farmer is the biggest manufacturer of all, and should have the right to accept the cost of production in order to obtain a reasonable price for his products, that he can afford to stay in the business of farming. I have endorsed this organization in my state and am willing to defend it at all times. The purpose for which it is organized is O. K. It is not a political organization, and we need political movements. From Magnus Johnson's endorsement of this kind for the farmers." Men who are interested in this matter say that the idea of price fixing is one of the things that the farmers want to promote the farmers' welfare; that it is not in violation of any law, and that since it is a matter to defend it at all times, it is a way out for the farmer it is best for the farmer to assist himself, and compel better prices to be paid him for his products. It may be complicated through the means of this alliance, the workings of which we shall not take time and space to explain in detail. Suffice it to say that it appears reasonable that the farmers and entire community could benefit thereby and will be glad to have been endorsers or members of the organization.

Ring Up the Curtain on WOMEN'S FASHIONS for FALL & WINTER

By Muriel Townley. Slender and straight—for many a season now straight lines of youth and simplicity have been our aim. But each season has its own means of achieving this result. We saw a few bellows frocks last summer, and as though fashion, being tried then out, nodded her approval they are to be better than ever this fall. They are exceptionally becoming to the slender women of taste and knowledge of dress will be enthusiastic supporters of fashion's dictum. Another new style to be seen in many a charming new frock is the tunic. Sometimes these tunics are cut to the knee, at others they are with two or three inches of the bottom of the skirt.

to quite a decided circular flare. Of course not every dress is bell-shaped. But when a dress is worn there is a growing tendency to make it a more important part of the costume than the little strings we have been wearing. A neck belt about four or five inches wide is quite the newest. For sports wear these belts are seen in the brightest of reds and greens but for wear with darker frocks the whole scale of colors from dark brown to light tan, grey and a soft green are very popular. Skirts are definitely shorter. With the slim straight line which leads the mode today a long dress is really very ungainly and unbecoming. So charm his own and we are back once more to the youthful, practical and comfortable short skirt. This year's skirt reaches from about six to eight inches below the knee. Bengaline Again. This promises to be a season when silk frocks will be worn a great deal. Silk frocks in simpler modes for morning as well as afternoon wear. Bengaline and faille are the favorites. Ribbed silks are leading the mode in every possible interpretation—ribbed silk hats, ribbed silk blouses and even ribbed silk purses. It is a pleasing change. We have been wearing crepe satin, flat crepe and crepe de chine for so long that we might well have forgotten them were any other silks. So these fine little ribs seem all the more charming because of their novelty. Evening Frocks. For evening and more formal wear crepe satin will still be the most popular for there is something too informal about ribbed silk to use it for anything but rather simple frocked modes. We may have fringed with dainty airy little chiffon frocks this past summer because they gave such a cool, floating look on warm summer nights. But when winter comes with its more elaborate parties—metal fabrics, metal brocades and rich printed velvets interpret the evening mode. Rich brocades and jacquards fashion many a stunning model designed for the more elaborate afternoon functions. The popularity of the silk frock can never take away the becoming charm of the smart cloth frock—particularly for early fall. When the first fall days have a slight chill, the air how wonderfully attractive a woman looks in a smartly cut, up-ditch cloth frock—it is too becoming a style to even think of neglecting it. This fall rip is seen in many stunning frocks with twill as a close second competing with it for popular favor. Squares or Breids Used. Simplicity is the keynote of the trimmings. In many cases squares or bands of the material are used and there are rows and rows of brode. Now and then some of the models have a lovely bit of gay colorful embroidery to relieve the monotony. But buttons are to be seen everywhere. It hardly seems as though there could be enough buttons in the world to satisfy the demands of the smart frocks. Buttons of all types and descriptions. Buttons running from the neck to the hemline, buttons down each side from the hips to the hemline; buttons around the hemline. It almost seems as though any dress which bristles with buttons is smart. Favored Trimmings. On more elaborate costumes embroideries in lovely soft tones, silk fringes and bandings of fur are quite the favored trimmings. The embroideries and fringes show sombre effects, a soft shading from the main tone rather than a striking contrast. The only exception to this is the use of black and white. Lingerie collars and cuffs are in high favor. Organza lace and linon are to be seen becomingly trimming the neck and cuffs of many a well dressed woman's daytime frocks. They are very fashionable for some women cannot stand the harsh neckline of a dark frock while a touch of white just works wonders in bringing out the most becoming hints of their complexion. If returned, the sleeve has definitely refused to favor. The sleeveless frock is now seen only for rather formal occasions. The new sleeve is long gently tapering from the shoulder to a close fitting cuff. The Ensemble Suit. The newest suit is the ensemble with a long coat—a coat which reaches to within five or six inches of the bottom of the skirt. It is worn over a matching overcoat. The blouse which is exactly the same length as the coat or over a silk dress with a narrow band of the coat material at the waist. The suit is intended for fall wear for when it is substituted for the coat one is suitably dressed in a becoming silk frock.

A Name for All Bosses. San Francisco Chronicle: Another name the old gray has is "boss."

AN ANTI-Tax Reduction. St. Louis Post-Dispatch: With a 13 per cent reduction in the state tax levy made last year, the state board of equalization announced today it had set the 1924 levy still lower by 1.5 per cent than in 1923. The levy for this year is to be 1.8 mills.

The grand assessment roll is $3,181,747,670, making the 1924 levy $5,733,684 state, tax to be levied on $3,181,747,670.

In 1923, the levy was 2.2 mills, the valuation $3,198,632,992 and the tax computed therefrom $6,993,432. For 1922, the last year of the McKelvie administration, the levy was 2.3 mills on a total valuation of $3,181,747,670 and taxes amounted to $7,240,858.

According to the equalization board's figures there is a reduction in the state taxes of 38 per cent over the current maximum as compared with the previous two-year period. This is figured on the basis of $6,140,840 reduction in the total tax levied for this biennium compared with the previous one. Total taxes for this biennium will be $12,131,080 compared with $18,271,500 for 1921-22.

A resolution adopted by the board states that railroad properties in this state are now assessed on a fair and equitable basis as compared with other property and leaves the valuations heretofore fixed in effect.

Business.

Sioux City Journal: There is a marked improvement in business will depend hereafter. That is the strength of farm products, notably wheat, corn and live stock. A business recovery next fall and winter will not come unless the prices of farm products hold their own. They will not go down again. If they did the whole country would be compelled to wait longer for the improvement it is now expecting.

Better prices for wheat have brought bigger returns than the farmers have enjoyed for years. The advance in corn has helped only those who have hogs ready for the market. Few farmers had corn left in their cribs. A great many, however, are still able to market last year's corn on the hoof. When one sells a hog he sells corn. Better prices for hogs therefore mean more satisfactory returns on corn that was fed. Hogs have commanded a better price lately. As long as the quotations on corn hold their own, or go higher, hogs ought to react exactly to the conditions of this market.

It is all a question of repaying to do value. Cheaper corn may have been fed to hogs, but prices on the hoof, according to economic laws, will be governed by what it would require in corn, or dollars, to put another hog in the same condition. It might be better marketing for farmers who have fat hogs for sale to ship them gradually. To glut the market is to force the price down.

Just what the future will bring as to the prices for the two leading crops, corn and wheat, no one can say with certainty now. It looks as though outside conditions are contributing to higher prices in favor of American producers. Wheat has hit a high mark and has fluctuated somewhat, but it is still far beyond the old figure. Corn also is steady. Corn probably will not cause any uneasiness through fear of a falling price while the crop is still growing. Nobody knows what corn is going to do this year. Reports that the stand is spotted are heard from various sources over a wide area, and it also is advised that it is somewhat backward everywhere. Under favorable weather conditions, one of which would be the absence of early frosts, the season would produce only a fair crop. If there should be early frosts damaging to the crop there is nothing to stop the price from skyrocketing. Even with a fair crop, the corn price probably will hold its own through the harvest and delivery.

The gains made by the farmers seem to be dependable. It looks now as though corn and wheat prices will be sent downward again this year. Wheat may not reach $2 as some observers predict, but the situation would be greatly improved if it held the ground it already has gained. Wheat at $1.50 would mean hundreds of millions of dollars added to the farmers' income for the year. Corn has not reached its peak. Judging from what already has occurred and from present crop indications. All other farm products have gained somewhat, and the bigger the increase from now the better it will be for the whole country.

If, as has been claimed, there is an influence distantly removed from the farm that can direct prices of agricultural products, now the result for it to be employed. Conservative persons do not take much stock in the theory, however, holding, instead, to the belief that the result always is traceable to the operation of economic laws. There is this to be said, nevertheless: Let the rest of the country accept in good grace the higher prices demand for farm products and realize a distinct general improvement in all lines. Any attempt to discourage higher prices for farm products would prove to be boomerangs of a worse depression than has been experienced since the war.

He is wire chief at Wayne, Neb., a position he has held for many years. He is popular with the men of his district, who know that he is always on the job."

From Ponca Journal, August 12, 1924.

Johnson & Garretson have in addition to their so-called "stock farm" recently purchased several tracts of land in different directions from town and near to it.

These and many other similar incidents indicate an abiding faith in the future of this town and county, on the part of men who are supposed to know what they are about.

Mr. Quick, whose farm is across the river and opposite the place where the rumored bridge is to be built, was offered, so he states, $12,000 for his land. This would be an enormous price for land for agricultural purposes, but it is not too high for bridge purposes.

Old time boatmen say that the Missouri is lower now than before in 28 years, or since 1858, when it is a tradition that early settlers used to ford the river at a point near the Bigley ravine, where is a rock bottom.

We would not advise any of our friends, however, to attempt wading the stream now, at least not unless they have willed us their allowance of earthly goods before they start.

Sioux City Journal: "The Lutheran church about four miles west of Dakota City, Neb., was struck by lightning Sunday night and burned to the ground. At Norfolk several span of horses were standing in a long stable, and a span at one end of the building was killed and a mare hauled at the extreme further end knocked down. The building did not take fire."

Tuesday evening the most startling electric storm of the season visited this section. For over an hour the storm continued, and during that time the heavens were incessantly filled with shooting balls of fire and vivid flashes of lightning, followed by deafening crashes of thunder.

The storm was unaccompanied by rain. As far as learned no damage was done in this immediate vicinity.

A Ponca land agent makes the broad statement that on an average one out of every hundred acres of cultivation in this county. We had supposed that from the number of people who have come to Dixon this year to buy their homes, that the tillable land was about all in use, but we give way to the superior knowledge of the land sharp, and invite custom to come and look us over before settling in the west.

As to the railroad and bridge news which specially concerns this locality, there is little which has not already been spoken of. Among the latest items is the fact that D. T. Heedges of Sioux City last week bought all the lots here owned in Ponca by the Nebraska land and town lot company. This purchase by a man behind the scenes, indicates an approaching boom.

Fairbury News: The town of Petaluma, Calif., has for years claimed to be the world's egg basket, but according to reports that honor is in danger. There has been a great falling in the millions of eggs shipped from Petaluma, and all on account of the aviators who constantly fly their machines over the town and surrounding community. When birds look up, as so often does, and see a giant bird chugging above her nest and making a horrible noise—who else but the nest. Her own eggs are lost every time she quits, and the emence of her home town is threatened. Fairbury poultry owners will surely send a bill to Petaluma, because they know the ways of a hen and know their fright at anything that reminds them of an enemy in the air. They will also join in hoping that as the airplane develops into a commercial proposition it will also lose its noise, or that nature quickly gets among her chaps and teaches them that as the airplane is harmless and not intended to cut down egg production.

York Republican: "The Crusaders" is the name of a new organization that has been projected by Nebraskans to offset the Ku Klux Klan. A week or more has been spent for an organization meeting to be held in Omaha Saturday. The names of some well known Nebraskans are attached to the call. It will strike the average citizen as being an unwise course to pursue. Nothing will be gained by putting two such organizations against each other. It will only widen the breach and intensify animosities. If the Klan has a mission and a work to do, it will be successful, if it has no place in American politics, it will go the way of all protest organizations. The advice of Gamaliel has never been improved upon. Addressing the Jewish Sanhedrin upon the attitude of that ecclesiastical body toward Christianity, he said, in effect, that if it were founded upon truth they could not overthrow it, but if it were founded on fallacy it would die of its own fallings. So with the Klan. Those who do not wish it well, let them let it alone, and those who belong to it or uphold it should watch its work and influence with jealous care.

Geneva Signal: When the editor of the Signal stepped out on the porch at his home after dinner on the afternoon of July 26, 1892, he saw his way to his work at the Signal office a scorching blast from the south struck him in the face. The memory of it is still vivid. By night it had passed. The cause of the cure in this and surrounding states had been killed. Saturday was the thirtieth anniversary of that unpleasant and disastrous event like it had been known in Nebraska since 1862 and there has been nothing like it since.

"What This Country Needs"
Omaha Bee: E. C. Houston of Tekamah, republican candidate for congress in the Third district, has a campaign slogan worthy of more than passing notice.
"Horse sense in public affairs," according to Mr. Houston is the country needs. And those who have listened to diatribes against successive and the fearful prophecies of ultimate disaster, falling from the lips of Mr. Houston's opponent, will readily agree that the Tekamah man is correct in his diagnosis.
"Horse sense" is a term easy to say, but hard to explain. It means common sense. Absence of hysteria. Ability to resist being stamped by political piffle. "Horse sense in public affairs" means handling the public business in a businesslike way. It means the opposite of pandering to political prejudices. It means the opposite of sacrificing sanity to catch the plaudits of failures and incompetents.

This country has had a surfeit of professional reformers. It has had too much of shifting veils to catch the constantly veering winds of popular clamor. What this country needs is a revival of sturdy individualism. A speedy return, if you please, to "horse sense in public affairs."

Mr. Houston is a successful business man. His success is to be attributed to hard work, honesty, frugality and "horse sense." It seems to be the idea of many persons these days to look upon success in business as a crime to be punished by boiling in oil, or something equally lingering. But the "horse sense" that is enabling individuals to win business success in the kind of sense that should be utilized in the management of the public's business.

More "horse sense" upon the part of the representative from the Third and less of platitudinous piffle, would be a welcome change, easily obtainable by the voters of the district.

What Do the "Peepul" Want.
Atlanta Constitution: What do the million people want? Of all the mysteries and complexities of our modern life—and all the misadventures of nations which lure the imagination—none is more elusive and tantalizing than the mental state of the composite body of humanity. The well known Georgian used to designate as "Old Man Peepul."
To be able to penetrate the character of talk, actions and make-beliefs which surrounds with a dense fog, the real thoughts and desires of the whole body of population would be to open the door to nameless wealth and freedom for all.

"The great difficulty in determining the wants of a mass of population is that the composite desire is the sum of many individual desires. 'Old Man Peepul' cannot control his own mental process or direct his moods. The shifts and change with passing circumstances. He may desire today he may disdain tomorrow.

The ability to comprehend the ever-changing temper of the public mind is a gift of surpassing value. It was said of Napoleon that he possessed it to such a degree that he knew when the enemy was willing to admit defeat. Other remarkable displays of this quality to a remarkable degree in business, statesmanship and other great fields of human activity.

This peculiar quality which enables one to form a sort of magnetic connection with the thoughts and feelings of his fellow men, is a gift bestowed by nature—like the eye of an artist, the ear of a musician and the rhythmic sense of the poet—something which cannot be taught or acquired by the possessor to establish a sympathetic current between his own brain and the hungry soul of composite humanity.

Winner of Pulitzer Prize.

(Geneva Signal)
(The late Joseph Pulitzer of the New York World set aside a large sum of money to aid in improvement in the metropolitan newspaper field and the magazine field. Each year the Pulitzer Foundation, as it is called, uses the income from the Pulitzer money to give cash prizes in considerable amount to outstanding efforts in the journalistic field during the preceding year. A few weeks ago the following awards were made: Most meritorious public service a gold medal, the best editorial $500, best cartoon, $500; best instance of reportorial work $1,000. The awards are awarded non-partisan and have no political significance. The awarding committee is composed of men of all political and other beliefs. In this connection see the editorial article on page six of this issue. The $500 for the best editorial was awarded to Frank W. Wuxton of the Boston Herald. His subject was, "Who made Calvin Coolidge?" We are reprinting that editorial below.)

"Who made Calvin Coolidge?"
Margaret Foley, of course. When Lewis of the core in the Massachusetts senate he opposed woman suffrage. She opposed his reelection in his district and prevailed. Senator Coolidge became President Coolidge on Beacon Hill and the signals were set clear for the road to the governorship.

"Who made Calvin Coolidge?"
Edwin U. Curtis, of course. When he was a sick man in that old brick building at the dead-end of Fenberthorpe Square, the honest politician went on strike to the refrain, "Hail, Hail, the Gange's All Here."

"The sick man showed the strength of the stalwart one when the Governor Coolidge sent a telegram to Samuel Comers that tapped its way into national prominence, and is today a sort of Magna Charta of the people's rights.

"Who made Calvin Coolidge?"
James Lacey, the Northampton cobbler, of course. No explanation or argument is necessary here, but merely a reminder. The Herald published a facsimile a few days ago of President Coolidge's letter to him, which said: "I was not for you, I should not be here."

"Who made Calvin Coolidge?"
Frank W. Stearns, of course. With as close an approximation to second sight as we may expect in these days, and with an ability to see around the corner years before Einstein told us how rays of light are bent, this substantial self-made, self-respecting Boston merchant, with his quiet sense of obligation to the community, discerned qualities which hardly anybody else glimpsed. To go to the republican convention he left a governor only to come back to pay his respects to a potential vice-president.

"Who made Calvin Coolidge?"
Senator Crane, of course. He made Coolidge by showing him, in present and practical way, the wisdom and by vouching for him in high places where his chance lay was as good as his oath and bond. To the younger man he gave the mixture of personal attachment and respect of which he was none too prodigal, but always of mighty advantage to the few who use it.

"Who made Calvin Coolidge?"
The republican party of Massachusetts, of course, a party organization, with some exceptions, some democracy, some vision, some solid traditions and no end of genuine appreciation of the merits of a trustworthy man. It always lined up behind him solidly even when he displayed that reticence which to the unknowing was some evidence of ingratitude, and to the knowing was merely Coolidgeism.
"Who made Calvin Coolidge?"
The people of Massachusetts, of course. They were the ones who gave him a right to a fair of equal, whether, seeking, or of which thousands call a blind faith in him. More thousands called it a passionate intuition.

"Who made Calvin Coolidge?"
His mother, of course who endowed him with her own attributes: a father that taught him prudential ways with all the quiet vigor of the old Greeks, who preched moderation in everything; his school and his college; his classmate, Dwight Morrow, and his guest of a year or two ago at the White House, William F. Whiting.

"Who made Calvin Coolidge?"
Calvin Coolidge, of course. From the reflective shoemaker and the furious Miss Foley to the con- placent Frank W. Stearns and the watchful and discerning Senator from Dalton come some of the mak- ings, but the man himself had the essentials of greatness. Give another man those same eyes and ears and he might still be as far from the White House as most sons of Vermont."

It probably will become a popular method with the Viennese after this, one of its chief attractions being a greatly increased degree of safety that goes with distance.

Mrs. Lester Silbaugh, nee Miss Natalie Needham, died Monday night, July 29, at the Carrington hospital in North Dakota. This message was a shock to the entire community as Natalie had lived most of her girlhood here, and was well known and loved by all. She was only 21 years of age at the time of her death which followed an operation for appendicitis. Her father, L. S. Needham, of Long Beach, Calif., had been with her but she seemed to be recovering nicely from the operation and was to have been taken to her home. Mr. Needham had started for his California home when a message caught him in Sioux City that Mrs. Silbaugh had suffered a relapse. He returned to North Dakota, but she had died before he arrived. The last word received from North Dakota was that no arrangements would be made until Mrs. L. S. Needham arrived from California. Mrs. Silbaugh leaves two little daughters, aged 2-2 years and 10 months, her husband and father and one sister, Mrs. Ben Marsh, who was with her when she died.
