The Passing of Pioneer Citizen

Death of Henry Ley, for Over Forty Years Identified With Development of Wayne.

An Early Merchant

Federal on Monday Attested to Profound Respect for the Memory of Deceased.

Henry Ley, banker and pioneer citizen of Wayne, a man who was active and generous in the development of Wayne and neighboring territory, and whose standing, high regard and friendships of the community, passed from earth Saturday morning, December 13, aged 74 years. In the last few days he had suffered impaired health for several years, but he endured ill of the flesh with fortitude and without complaint. He encouraged attendance of family a few weeks ago to secure relief. He showed wonderful pluck and courage. Funeral services were held at the home of Rollie W. Le Roy, at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. C. Cross. A profusion of beautiful flowers gave silent expression of love and a great crowd gathered to pay tributes of respect to a departed friend. The Masonic and Odd Fellows lodges of which deceased was a member, attended in groups. Business houses of the city were closed during the funeral hour. Active neighbors were bank employees who act as follows: Herman Landberg.

New Power

William M. Butler chairman of the Republican National Committee, became a member of the upper house of Congress as senator from Massachusetts. He was appointed to fill the office vacated by the death of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

Civil War Veteran Dies Here Thursday

Charles Adolph Bagert Passes Away at Age of 80 Years.

Charles Adolph Bagert, Civil war veteran who had lived at Wayne since 1880, passed away here last Thursday, Dec. 11, after several weeks' illness. He was 80 years, 5 months and 27 days old. Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at 2:30, at the Presbyterian church with Rev. S. X. Cross and the Masonic order in charge. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery. Mr. Bagert was born June 14, 1844, in Switzerland. With his parents he came to the United States when he was about 5 years old and the family settled at Beloit, Wis. He served as private in the Civil war, being in Company H, Forty-second regiment, Wisconsin Infantry. He lived in Chicago for several years and then went to Emerson, Iowa. From there he came to Wayne in 1880. Deceased had three brothers and five sisters and three of the sisters survive. They are: Mrs. Rosa Meikle of Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Fannie McGill of Chicago, and Mrs. Louise Geyer of Stambury, Mo. Mrs. Meikle arrived Wednesday last week and was here for 24 hours.

Federal Agents in Liquor Roundup

Helps Promote Hilarious Party and Then Turns Prosecutor.

A federal agent who is said to have been here for the purpose of to locate violations of the prohibition law, succeeded last Thursday night by becoming, as reported, the instigator of the violation. He was staying at the Boyd hotel. He had asked the landlord, G. A. Ganeke, if he knew where he could find some liquor, and he was answered in the negative. Finally, Thursday night, he persuaded five strangers who were stopping at the hotel, to join him in a drinking party. It is said to have admitted that he got one stranger out of bed to join the party.

Make Summer Term at Normals Longer

State Board Changes Session to Twelve Weeks—Other News.

The summer term of the state normal schools of Nebraska will be lengthened from eight to twelve weeks by action of the state board Monday at a meeting in Omaha. Pres. U. S. Goring represented the Wayne Normal at the session. The twelve week summer term will be instituted this year and will be divided into two six-week periods. Summer school will thus close on August 25 and the last half will be devoted mainly to advanced study. The state board recommended to the governor that a law be passed providing a levy of one-tenth of a mill for a building fund for the normal schools for the coming year. Effort will be made to get it enacted. The board asked for a general increase for maintenance and it is thought this will be granted. H. E. Reische of Chadron, Dan Morris and Dan Stephens, members of the board, have been asked to present the bill to the legislature. Mr. Reische will open office rooms for the board in the next couple of days. Some much time at the legislature is in the interest of the schools. School will be dismissed Friday for two weeks' holiday vacation.

High School Holds Inter-Class Games

A tournament in boys' basketball was held this week at the high school gymnasium, the juniors taking the championship of the school.

Junior Boys Are Basketball Champions—Other News of Week.

The girls of the separate classes had an inter-class basketball tournament in the gymnasium, the seniors defeating the freshmen 31 to 10, and the juniors defeating the sophomores 24 to 10. The finals were played between the seniors and juniors and resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 24 to 20. By thus winning the tournament the seniors fall heir to the handsome losing cup presented by Supt. Jacobson for their victories. This is a great week for the first grade as they have three birthday parties to take up the time. Pay Dawson, Josephine Ley and Dorothy Mae were the fortunate ones. The first grade are making the covers and the sixth grade are making the content matter for their book. It was smoking at the Orthopedic hospital at Lincoln for Christmas. Mrs. Don Porter and Mrs. May were visitors in the kindergarten. The girls club of the high school will have a party this Thursday evening.

Weather Hinders Holiday Events

Severely Cold Weather Makes Necessary Cancellation of Last Evening's Festivities.

Children Do Well

J. H. Kemp Driving Home Christmas Spirit—Closing Program Promise Live Interest.

Storms and cold and bad weather have hindered local Christmas festivities. So far December has been rough, and local programs have had to be regularly cancelled. On account of the extreme cold, the program scheduled for last evening had to be cancelled entirely. Prof. and Mrs. J. H. Kemp were prepared to give an interesting program, but the elements were too bad to make the attempt. Prof. O. K. Bowen who was spoken last night, has promised to talk next Saturday afternoon. Besides the usual Santa Claus and distribution of candies last Saturday afternoon, the children of the training school of the State Normal, under the direction of the teachers of that institution, gave a pleasing representation of Christmas in other lands. The business district was crowded, and the weather was sufficiently moderate to permit people to enjoy themselves. In the evening, teachers of the city schools presented their children in an impressive portrayal of Christmas in America. Saturday's programs were under the auspices of the Professional and Business Woman's club, a group of interested citizens. J. H. Kemp was the speaker Saturday evening, and his well expressed line of thought thrilled the audience. He lauded the founder of Christianity whose nativity is commemorated at this season every year. He urged that the best service to the world through Christianity. People gave him close attention, and were enlightened on Christmas ideals and Christian convictions by what he said. Next Saturday, weather permitting, will still be decided. In the afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock, turkeys, ducks and chickens will be distributed under the auspices of the Professional and Business Woman's club. Mrs. J. H. Kemp will appear to deliver the occasion. Prof. Bowen will speak.

Spanion Man Injured

Creston, Neb., Dec. 17.—Oscar Johnson, Stanton, was accidentally shot in the right hand by a stray bullet from a .22 caliber rifle Sunday evening while standing in front of the home of Frank Leach in Creston. Johnson was in Creston at the time visiting his father and had started to the depot to see about a train schedule. The accident occurred while he was knocking some ashes from a cigarette. He was smoking at the time that the bullet was fired by Neil Shindler who was a block away. Although the injury was quite painful, it is not serious and Johnson is getting along as well as can be expected, it is reported.

Acquitted in County Court

M. C. McGowan and Chas. W. Johnson who were charged with possession and transportation of liquor, were tried before a jury in the county court Monday, and were acquitted and discharged.

Fifteen Cars Stock Shipped From Wayne

Stock shipments from Wayne for the week beginning Dec. 10 were as follows: George S. Smith, one car of hogs to Sioux City; Carl Surber, one car of hogs to Omaha; L. C. Gilder, one car of hogs to Sioux City; Art Likens, one car of hogs to Sioux City; L. Gramberg, one car of hogs to Sioux City; B. H. Brinkman, one car of hogs to Sioux City; Fred Hillis, one car of hogs to Sioux City; Adon S. Ray, one car of hogs to Sioux City; Fred Regg, one car of hogs to Sioux City; George McEachern shipped in a car of cattle and Smith Gram shipped in a car of hogs.

Frank Korff, John Jenik, Fred Nyberg, Lina McClure, B. F. Strahan, W. E. Jenkins and L. C. Ehlers. Honorary pallbearers were these men, associated with him in taming the frontier and rearing here a cultured and prosperous civilization.

Henry Ley

Henry Ley was born at Pandula, Wis., July 5, 1850. When a young boy, he accompanied his parents to Jordan, Minn., where he received his education and early business training. In April, 1874, he was united in marriage with Abbe D. Walter of Beloit, Minn. He subsequently moved to Wayne. Arriving here, Mr. Ley opened a general store, and as a merchant he extended long-continued service to the community as many a struggling settler. It was in 1892 when he, joined by others, organized the State Bank of Wayne, of which institution he was president until the time of his death. The bank is one of the many enduring monuments to his wisdom and enterprise. He is survived by his wife, Abbe, his wife, a son, Rollie W. Le Roy of Wayne, and Le Roy V. Le Roy of Long Beach, Calif.; his daughter, Mrs. Geo. W. York of Yakima, Wash., and Geo. Ley of Pasadena, Calif.; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Bartholet and Mrs. Theresa Schriener of Yakima, Wash., and Mrs. Maggie Morton of Jordan, Minn.; six granddaughters, Joy, Mary, Alice, Marjorie and Josephine Ley of Wayne, and Lulu Marie and Alice Ley of Long Beach, Calif.; and one grandson, Henry E. Ley, of Wayne. Mr. Ley was a conspicuous and valuable figure in promoting public enterprise and the public welfare. He served as mayor for six years and was a leader in behalf of installing waterworks, electric lights and a sewer system. He was an effective force for the founding and growth of the

Cold Weather Grips All the Northwest

The intensely cold weather which came on Tuesday and has continued without abatement, has prevailed over the entire northwest. Early this morning the mercury indicated as low as ten below zero at this place. Predicted snow did not fall here, but it did fall at other places as there is still plenty on the ground to satisfy the most ardent lover of the "beautiful".

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 17.—The coldest winter of the winter was being experienced in all sections of Nebraska, below at least, and at the Omaha weather bureau. The temperature began falling early Tuesday and continued throughout the day. Reports of the coldest in Omaha was 4 below zero at 3 a. m. today. At 7 a. m. the mercury had risen 2 degrees.

Ill Record

A son was born Monday, Dec. 15, to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Preston of near Belden. Mr. Preston is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Preston who lived here until last year, and Mrs. Preston was formerly Miss Angie Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Hall of Wayne. The son was born Sunday, Dec. 14, to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dunn who live eight miles south of Wayne. A daughter was born Tuesday, Dec. 16, to Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kabisch who live two miles southeast of Wayne.

Mrs. Joe Jones and Mrs. A. L. Hirsch of Carroll, were Wayne visitors yesterday afternoon.

Wilbur Lessman, son of William Lessman of Wayne, was awarded a first prize for a fine cow.

Another Book for the City Library

A few new books have been accessioned last week at the city library. One "O'Grady and his Knights," one of the Windemere series of the classics for young folks. The story is most attractively illustrated. Another book for juvenile readers is "Jim Davis" by John Macfie. Jim was a smart boy in Scott Devon and he got into some scrapes by accident and cleverness he found out about smugglers and in order to keep him from telling what he knew he was taken on many thrilling sea adventures. The annual report of the state board of agriculture for 1924 arrived this week. "The Goings," by Upton Sinclair, is a study of the American schools. It deals with such topics as who owns the schools, what makes a school, how they are getting along, and the progress and the like. This is the first time that these are answered. "Women of 1924," issued by the Woman's News Service of New York City, contains many valuable facts about women. In the section for the United States are given statistics of national organizations, national meetings, church work, minorities, professions and occupations, public health, "Women sports," and "Women and their rights." "Women of the World," is a book with a background of the highly United European society. "The Gray Beginning," by Edward W. Miller, tells of a boy in the days he read pictures of God in a high hat and green whiskers to the final attainment of an artistic ideal. "A man's title," a book in a small Pennsylvania town, stormy school days, the war in France and then the return home.

Nelsen-Hamm.

Mr. Harry Nelsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nelsen, of near Wayne, and Miss Florence Hamm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hamm Winslow, were united in marriage Wednesday, Dec. 17, at noon by Judge J. M. Cherry at Wayne. The young couple left in the afternoon for Omaha and other points where they will spend two weeks with relatives before returning to their home on a farm four miles northwest of Winslow.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. White plan to move the first of the year to the south where they will spend the winter. They plan to visit Corpus Christi, Texas, and other points.

Governor Bryan to Governor Al Smith

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 13.—Governor Bryan today sent a telegram to Gov. Al Smith of New York requesting that he urge modification of the New York City embargo against chickens from Nebraska. Bryan told Smith there is no disease among Nebraska chickens when they leave this state and that any appearing later is contracted enroute. He suggested fumigation of cars coming from the east.

"We are ordering all cars and poultry houses draped from 10 cents a pound to 10 cents wholesale, according to J. D. Hunter, prominent poultry man here. Hunter said no live poultry is being shipped out of the state now, but dressed fowls are being exported.

Many small produce houses in Iowa and Nebraska are closing down, Hunter said.

Neligh Newspapers Afe to Consolidate

Neligh, Neb., Dec. 15.—One of the most important business changes in this city for the coming year will be the consolidation of the Register and the News. The change will take place on Jan. 1, and the paper will be under the name of the Neligh News. Remodeling of the basement of the Antelope State bank and the construction of an outside stairway is now under way, which will be the new home of the combine.

G. W. Woodward purchased the Register from C. A. Mohrman more than two years ago and E. S. Scofield, editor of the News, started the third paper about ten years ago. Some months back there was an agitation for the consolidation of all three papers in Neligh, but the proprietors of the Leader did not see their way clear to get into the combination. It has been apparent ever since the third paper was started in this city that the town was not large enough and did not have the supporting territory to justify the publication of three papers, which not only made it difficult for the publishers, but a burden upon the business community.

Cedar Schools Improved.

Hartington, Neb., Dec. 15.—After visiting more than half of the rural schools in Cedar county Miss Emma Schewrin, county superintendent of schools, reports that as a whole the teaching of these schools is superior to that of any other year during her administration. For this she gives credit mainly to the new curriculum which each teacher is following. Superintendent Schewrin states that most of the school buildings are in good condition and well equipped. She declares that where there has been neglect it is very serious and that lack of interest in the school is a disgrace to a community. She urges that parents of children in these districts insist on better accommodations and the necessary equipment; and if the motive is due to school board members these parents should be that a new set of officers is installed.

Edward A. Ott Gives
Lecture on Heredity

"One institution that has not kept pace with the progress of the world mentally, morally, physically or spiritually is the American home," asserted Edward A. Ott, when he gave his lecture entitled "Sour Grapes" given last Friday evening at the State Normal as one of the lecture course numbers. The home has been going downhill for the past seventy-five years, he stated, and if it continues to go down this country will go to pieces as twenty-two others have done in history. He made the assertion that the home is not as good as animals have any more.

Mr. Ott believes that the way to improve the population is to pass strict national marriage laws and prohibit immigration for a time. He told of three families whose descendants had numbered 4,000 criminals. One family produced 1,200 criminals; another produced 600 and the third produced 2,200. If the original six persons had been prohibited from marriage, Mr. Ott says, the country would have saved the misfortune of so many criminals. He stated, too, that desirable tendencies are just as easily transmitted through generations. Each family of German ancestors once had a reunion and there were present 120 great musicians. General Lee of the Civil war days was one of a long line of descendants who had been of note as warriors since the days of the crusades, the speaker stated. The world has, he recounted, only produced 400 people of remarkable genius.

The law recommended by the speaker would be national and would require those wishing to marry to apply for a license ninety days before their marriage. In this period of time officials, parents, and neighbors he added, would search the records of the two families and determine whether or not there were criminal tendencies or degeneracy in the ancestry. State laws cannot accomplish what national laws can because the former are not uniform.

In regard to immigration, the speaker stated that he would prevent all immigration until the country is cleared of people whose tendencies are not such as should be encouraged. After the country is thus cleared he would pass an immigration law that would restrict from coming here all whose records contain such tendencies.

Nature, asserted Mr. Ott, never made a mistake in reproducing its own kind. In order to produce plants of the desirable kind it is necessary to use plants that possess the qualities desired for transmission. The person who cultivated the large purple strawberry of South America with the small, sweet, wild American berry to make a product that delights the palate is to be commended.

Mr. Ott would provide the same selection of human qualities. "People, he continued, are in the habit of blaming the schools and churches when their children are not good or when they do not learn as much as they should. The teachers, he asserted, have knowledge to give and the children must have baskets they bring to school to get this. The speaker referred to the minds as baskets and he said parents should provide the baskets and the teachers would fill them. He thinks teachers and preachers have accomplished wonderful things with the material on which they have worked. The attempt must not be, too, to develop all children in the same lines of study. Rather they should be encouraged in their natural tendencies. The speaker did not favor stories that deal with infidelity in the home. He thinks that if children are trained in the desirable qualities and prevented from seeing the other side there would be less of divorce and other troubles in the home. Mr. Ott would encourage the love among children, instead of just about the friendship of boys and girls.

"Parents complain that the boy problem is the biggest in the country today. There are between twenty-four and twenty-five million mothers in the United States and the same number of fathers and if they cannot solve the problem it is time for America to die," he asserted. There is too much varnish in the modern home, he thinks. The boy cannot be comfortable when he is continually told that he must not scratch the furniture or be careful of something else.

The present-day home is, he stated on the side, not made for the American man either. The home is ninety-five percent feminine and five percent under dogged. Men like simplicity and when they bring a desk or something else home which they wish to be used for themselves they do not wish a doily to adorn it. Women have asked a fifty percent interest in business, politics, etc., he stated, and men are someday going to have a fifty percent interest in the home. Men, on the other hand, find fault that their things at home are never where they left them, whereas, usually the men forget where they did put them. The women are more interested in keeping the house neat.

Mr. Ott concluded by telling why he is lecturing on heredity rather than on environment. He stated that environment is a matter of choice but heredity can not be adjusted so easily and it needs gambling.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Gamble went to Omaha Sunday afternoon, returning Monday.

Prof. Philip Spang Speaks to Kiwanis

Prof. Philip Spang of the biology department at the Wayne State Teachers College, spoke on "The Control of Insect Life" Monday at the noon-day luncheon of the Kiwanis club. He stated that of the 200,000 forms of insect life about one-half are destructive to plant life. The others either are parasites, living on other animals, or they are producers, living on animal prey. Mr. Spang discussed the kinds of harmful insects, causes of increase and methods of control. He told that there are four ways of getting rid of these insects and they are the following: Mechanical means such as use of screens, traps, etc; use of parasites, i. e., using one form of animal life to destroy another; use of poisons on its chemical means; and climatic conditions. In regard to the last way Mr. Spang explained that an open winter with frosts and thaws is more destructive on insects than is the hard winter with continual cold, for during the thaws the insects winter out of their winter quarters and are killed by the cold.

Application to Cut Down Train Service

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 14.—E. C. Blundell, division superintendent of the Chicago, Minneapolis and Omaha railroad, today asked the state railway commission here for permission to cancel its trains Numbers 40, 41, 50 and 51.

Numbers 50 and 51 are mixed trains running between Bloomfield and Wayne.

Numbers 40 and 41 are mixed trains operating between Crofton and Wakefield. Blundell declared that although discontinuance of these trains would mean the loss of morning connections at the main line nodes, good connections could still be made at Emerson and either Wayne or Wakefield.

He reported a loss of $1,015 for operating the two trains on the Crofton line from Oct. 6 to Nov. 6, "the peak month of the year," and a loss of $835 on the other line. Good roads, buses, trucks, and private autos, were the reasons he gave for the railroad losses.

An Encouraging Report.

Bloomfield, Neb., Dec. 14.—While many of the farmers have been broke, while even the best of them have had hard pull to keep their heads above water—to say nothing of getting out from under debts and obligations of the past—it is refreshing to discover what Mrs. Fred Barnhart, of this vicinity, has done during these same years of "hard times" on the farm.

About ten years ago her husband, finding himself loaded down with debts and seeing no way out of the difficulties, decided to pay an end to his troubles and his life at the same time. This he did, leaving the widow with a family to care for and a load of debts to shoulder. Many would have given up in despair, but not Mrs. Barnhart. She took up the duties that had been thrust upon her. The amount of indebtedness which faced her was almost $25,000. But she set out upon the task of paying off these obligations. Year in and year out she so managed the farm that there was always something to apply toward cutting down the debts. A few dollars here, a dollar there, bit by bit she pared down the amount until today she owns no one, except a $6,000 mortgage on the farm which she is ready to take up at any time that the mortgage is willing.

And while she has been handling the farm, the task of keeping up her home and raising her family has not been neglected. In the house everything is as neat and spotless as it is possible to make it. She is small and frail in appearance but her will and the shrewdness of her judgment has made it possible for her to succeed where men have failed.

When we had soup for dinner one day recently, a member of the family proposed that a soup chorus could be organized for one of the pre-Christmas stunts. The family finished the meal in a modified key.

It is a fixed habit with some people to lie. They lie unnecessarily. So when the truth would serve them better, they seem unable to tell where a lie begins and the truth leaves off. More numerous liars are those who lie to avoid or shift responsibility.

An O'Neill weather prognosticator, with a reputation for maintenance, says only no snow storms were scheduled for this winter, and that we have had six of them already. We are to have only four more, and the way December has acted thus far, the four may be easily worked in before the end of the month.

Only one thing is lacking to make cooperation in connection with pre-Christmas festivities complete and satisfactory. It is a change in the weather, and it is entirely beyond the possibilities of human control. It won't listen to reason. It answers the pleading of anxious people by turning another storm at them or by leaving loose another cold wave direct from the Arctic circle.

In another week Christmas will be here, and we think people are approaching the gladsome day with an unaccustomed appreciation of what it stands for. It renews attention to the noble life of the Nazarene who preached and practiced peace and good will. The day is important in developing qualities of unselfishness, qualities of right thinking and right living. We believe people sense the import of the occasion more than ever.

The death of Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, causes a loss that will not be easy to meet. Mr. Gompers opposed wild radicalism within the ranks of labor, and sought to lead his army of followers along sanely progressive lines. He stood against adoption of dangerous hysteria. He urged headway without heed to other classes or groups. He will be missed in the councils of labor, and his memory will be cherished. People who understood his worth, especially appreciated his sound and conservative judgment in standing between the forces of labor and any precipitate and ruinous course.

We have received a marked paper from a Wayne friend who is living in California. The California paper defends the southwest against misrepresentations. It says people are not urged to move to California without resources present. It indicates that the state suffered a great deal of unwarranted injury through misrepresentation in connection with the foot and mouth (cattle) disease last year. While no doubt that newspaper exercises worthy conscience in its portrayal of conditions, it cannot control the activities and careless vaporings of multitudes of real estate agents who must live if necessary to massacre the truth and sacrifice oncoming tenderfoots from the east.

When the late Henry Ley did some worthy act of charity or gave his money to some worthy cause, he did not make any noise or call people to witness what he had done. Further, his word was as good as his nose or as dependable as a government bond. He was not out for show, but for service, and when he said a thing he meant it, and would be said to be relied upon. These traits of achievement without display and of unwavering reliability are worth noting and worth imitating.

An Omaha man writes the World-Herald advising that Chancellor Avery should be retired and replaced by a man of more positive leadership. He charges that the chancellor is too much of a compromiser. He says the university is being compromised, but does not need one now. But it is not a fact that one who accomplishes the most in leading large bodies is a compromiser. Whether one directs the affairs of a state or of an institution, is it not essential to progress to make concessions? Is it not necessary to be a compromiser? It would seem the complaint supports rather than weakens the chancellor as a desirable executive head.

One's birthdays come so fast after he has reached fifty that no sooner does the last one whistle by than another is heard approaching. All agree that the last fifty years of one's life go faster than the first fifty. The initial half century is devoted to getting ready. Man runs the gamut of soft food, teething, colic, measles, mumps, whooping cough and chickenpox. Then he goes to school and eventually, if he did not go to a cottage cheese, he is graduated. Then he gropes more or less blindly for an occupation and a livelihood. He meets more mistakes than an expert accountant could keep track of. Finally, at fifty, if he isn't seasoned and prepared for useful service his ground is an exasperatingly unprofitable one. But when one gets into the last fifty, time flies because one is not knowing how far he can go without pain, engine-trouble, or so many things appear to be done, multiplying and pressing duties with the gathering years, that one grows oblivious to time only as it is studied at the end of each fleeting twelve-month period. Then he squints back retrospectively, anon, looks forward hopefully, resolved to make better use of time, so that if he does not reach the end of the last fifty he will not leave a lot of unfinished business and a train of half-baked and unrealized projects.

A MISTAKE POLICY.
 We are unqualifiedly against bootleggers, and we have no sympathy for violations of the prohibition law, but we are appalled and alarmed by without reason being employed here last week by a government agent in leading people into crime in order to prosecute them for it. Asking people for liquor without avail, he finally inveigled strangers into tempting the law. One traveling man was routed out of bed to be drawn into the net. All we had observed of good behavior but for the deceptive manipulations of the federal agent.

Questioned as to his methods, he is quoted as saying he followed an approved policy in ferreting out crime. We would say that results do not justify the means. We would say that a policy of brazen double-dealing, beguiling people into something they might not otherwise do, is worse than the means which they are persuaded to commit.

A policy of deceit and double dealing may sometimes be necessary in fighting evil on known offenders. But it seems unexcusable to work on the susceptibilities and violate the credibility of people who are not law offenders. It is a policy of confidence and good faith which are fundamental essentials to our government and to our civilization, a policy of deceiving audaciously should be stamped as abhorrent to sense of justice and as inimical to the ends sought. If the policy employed here is not authorized, the agent is seriously at fault and should be promptly called to account. If it is an approved policy to lead people into crime in order to bring charges against them, it is flagrantly wrong.

Doubtless there are plenty of voluntary liquor violators to be detected and prosecuted without an officer staging one himself. The policy said to have been pursued by the agent here apparently in behalf of society and law, is a blow at confidence, attacks a vital element in character and weakens respect for the law on the part of many who are stout upholders of the law.

Accidentally Hanged.
 Beatrice, Neb., Dec. 16.—Charlie Meyer, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barry, living southwest of here, accidentally hanged himself while playing about a feed barn where his father was at work. The child attempted to crawl through a crack in the side of a bin and was caught in such a manner that the weight of his body rested on his neck. He was dead when discovered by his father.

August Madsen who had been here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Madsen, left Tuesday for St. Paul, Minn., to spend one year as an intern "in a hospital." He has completed work at the Rush medical school in Chicago.

heated that the falling off in the result of holdings being in strong hands, for with any appreciable expansion in the movement the suggestion of the recovery now assuming definite form, will vanish quickly.

Stock prices attracted a few buyers to the stocker and feeder trade this week. Dealers are in contact, willing to do against a low, but are not overly enthusiastic about it.

Although it does not seem possible, the country has increased the already abnormal hog population. Hogs (total) have practically wrecked the So. St. Paul market and as the result many of the northern packers, are leaving to Sioux City. Supplies at this point are by far the heaviest on record, but the market continues to stagger along under the heaviest of loads.

For almost a week Sioux City has afforded an outlet from 5 to 25 cents higher than Omaha, and at the same time the outlet here has been to close up to Chicago to suit the big packers. However, eastern order packers have been a factor that order packers will not dispute.

Packers realize the premature movement is of proportions that cannot last. A market for hogs materialized during the first week of month is the obvious outcome. Then too, the following figures on land may throw a little light on the situation.

The average number of hogs for five years have been 22,124,000 pounds. In December 1 this year the packers reported 25,042,000 pounds on hand, or a shrinkage of over 1,000,000 pounds. The increase accounts for the decided preference packers are showing for hogs here.

Another new top for the season was brought out on lambs this week. The latest peak stands at $17.00. The advance was one that was forecasted in these reports some time ago.

It now looms as almost a certainty that prices on all classes of fat cattle, hogs and lambs, will range high in the season. However, whether the advance will be sufficiently liberal to bring the closing of the year, remains a matter for individual analysis.

Market Report

(Furnished by Swanson, Gilmore & Walsh, Sioux City Stock Yards.)

Dec. 17.—A ray of hope penetrated into the abyss of depression to search out the cattle market and dispel some of the gloom. Signs of life became apparent in the hitherto demoralized trade, stagnation vanished and with this passing outcropping of bullishness became acceptable. A general sigh of relief went up.

But the reactionary trend has not yet proven of sufficient magnitude to drive the price basis more than a few inches off the red rock basis, and accordingly those in the country should not expect too much although it is hardly to be presumed that farmers will derive any great degree of satisfaction from the knowledge that now their cattle can be sold, whereas only a few short hours ago even that ruinous escape was denied them, except as suited the whims of extremely indifferent purchasers.

Such betterment and life as developed in the trade after the opening of the week resulted from a certain shrinkage in receipts. The seven day markets of Monday, about 79,000 cattle on Monday, about 20,000 less than arrived the corresponding day a week ago. It is to be Carstens-Rudobusch.

Herbert Henry Carstens and Miss Anna Fredricka Rudobusch were united in marriage Wednesday, Dec. 17, at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rudobusch. The ceremony being performed by Rev. Mr. Franzen, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran church of Ranney, in the presence of relatives and friends. Miss Esther Carstens, sister of the bridegroom, and Henry Rudobusch, brother of the bride, were attendants. The strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. Wade Chapman, the bridal party descended the stairs at the home. Proceeding to the country a train remaining of Mrs. Stefan Nelson, Miss Dorothy Barnard and R. E. Broer, sang "I Love You Truly." Before congratulating the two sages "Hearts" and Master Gordon Chapman sang "Everybody Calls Her Sunshine."

The bride was beautifully attired in a gown of light satin crepe and wore a veil of white tulle. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Her bridesmaid wore a gown of red and cream crepe.

A sumptuous wedding dinner was served to guests and the evening was spent in music and visiting. The newly married couple received many useful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Carstens will be at home southeast of McLean after March 1.

A. W. Stephens, Sheriff of Wayne county, Nebraska. 4183

He Tastes Good

Remember the makers? You wonder what the connection between his former industry and the country? Small wonder. Fact is this wild boar is the kind the farmer used to hunt and eat. It's from Germany now in a Cincinnati zoological garden. It's a rare species. And excels in log digesting.

Number of Cattle on Feed is Reduced

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 15.—A 15 per cent decrease in the number of Nebraska cattle on grain feed this year in comparison with last was reported here today by A. E. Anderson, stationer for the government division of crop and livestock estimates.

"There is a reduction of 14 per cent in the eleven corn belt states," Anderson said in a departmental bulletin. "Larger proportions of heavy cattle are on feed than a year ago. Indications are that many cattle will be given a short feed."

"Indications of the number of cattle on grain feed in the eleven corn belt states are as follows: Nebraska 85 per cent, Iowa 80 per cent, Kansas 95 per cent, Missouri 85 per cent, South Dakota 90 per cent, Minnesota 80 per cent, Illinois 85 per cent, Indiana 80 per cent, Ohio 80 per cent, Michigan 95 per cent and Wisconsin 100 per cent. The number on feed in western and Pacific states is 92 per cent of last year."

"Reports from feeders show larger proportions than last year of cattle weighing over 100 pounds when placed on feed, and a corresponding reduction in the proportions of calves on feed."

"Larger percentages of the total cattle on feed will be marketed during December and January than a year ago with reduced marketings for the month following, especially for April and later."

"Information based on expressed intentions of feeders as to the time of marketing."

"Reports from feeders indicate the market opinion that a considerable proportion of cattle on feed are being used to salvage soft corn and add to the amount of feed."

BIBLE AIDS LONG-DISTANCE WEATHER FORECAST, CLAIM. TO be a good weather prophet, study the Bible all the time. So advises Lieutenant Commander George E. Brandt of the navy hydrographic office at Washington. "Weather-forecasting hydrography's most important by-product," Commander Brandt holds. "Hydrography," he explains, "is the science of the sea. "Weather study isn't business primarily, but incidentally it is. The sea provides the weather. The sun shines on it, warms it, and their currents stir them up. Their currents stir them up. But it varies. Some suns are hotter than others. Some suns are cooler. So do the seas. Then the weather changes. "There's a periodicity about these changes. They run in cycles of years. We haven't determined their length accurately yet. We're studying them now. "Right here the Bible comes in. "It contains an immense amount of valuable weather data—all about floods and famines. By learning when they occurred, we can judge the better the weather was back then. "The Bible doesn't give many dates, but experts have determined them very accurately. "These Biblical weather reports are reliable and quite complete. Inasmuch as we have these cycles of change, we can draw important conclusions for the future. We can tell the Bible tells us of the past. "We get a chronicle of observations, but the Bible doesn't give them with the Bible record. We now know when certain events occurred. By reference to the Bible we often can find an account of something just like it. It's our weather days—the Bible tells us, it approves our theory. "Commander Brandt believes firmly in the practicality of long-distance

Weather forecasts—at least a year or two. "We may not have progressed far enough," he concedes, "to go much into details; but we can tell in advance the general characteristics of a season—whether it will be warm or cold, wet or dry. "The weather bureau, as everybody knows, disputes this," he says, "but long-distance forecasts are possible. It's just a matter of making them known now. "Commander Brandt's argument is that the weather bureau is unacquainted with the results of the hydrographic office's research work. "The weather bureau," he says, "is like the hydrographic office in that it hasn't the money to do more than stick to its appointed job, fixed by law. That job is to get out daily weather forecasts, not to experiment. "Commander Brandt's office's routine duties have taken it, automatically, in the direction of long-distance forecasting. The weather bureau's have not. "What we need now is some agency with plenty of funds to take over the information already gathered by the hydrographic office—and use it profitably in the making of actual forecasts. "HAVE A START "We have enough data to make a start. As time progresses and our investigations extend over a longer period of years the science will develop—the forecasts will become more and more detailed and accurate. "What can be accomplished was illustrated by the Carnegie Institution in its study of the causes of earthquakes. Beginning with very little information in quite a short time the institution started to make that 'bad' earthquake area a much better understood. Shows the weather bureau's inability to forecast a quake in Java and the quake took place on schedule time."

The table was decorated in Christmas colors, red carnations, red nut cups and place cards on which were pictures of Santa Claus being used. Victrola music was played and Mrs. Sarah Claus, impersonated by Jane Von Seggern, came and distributed gifts to all present. Games and radio music followed. The remainder of the evening was spent in five hundred and some r'set. William Von Seggern, Jr., John and Frank Claycomb, Charles Ingham and Mrs. Ingham were guests other than club members. The women have their next meeting on January 5.

Woman's Club Meeting. The Wayne Woman's club had a meeting last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. W. Hase with more than fifty members present. After the business session the program opened with two vocal solos by Miss Ruth Doudna, Miss Marguerite Harris playing the piano accompaniment. Miss Doudna's Christmas selections were especially enjoyed. A two-act comedy, "George for the Geeking," under the direction of Miss Nellie Gingles, brought forth praise. Those in the phytette were: Mary Alice Lay, Myron Brockway, Genevieve Wright, Genevieve Craig, Carl Nusz, Cate Gildersleeve and Moria Wright. The parts were well taken and the production brought out a good lesson on the use of slang. Miss Martha Pierce of the art department at the State Normal, gave one of her usually delightful talks on art, illustrating and explaining the plans and work of the early artists and thus leading up to the story of the life of Correggio and analyzing his masterpiece "The Holy Night." Miss Pierce's explanation of the methods of light and darkness used in centralizing the artist's ideas was most instructive. The talk was a rare treat to all. The next meeting of the club will be held at the D. J. Cavanaugh home on Jan. 9. All members of the club are asked to assist in serving coffee and wafers to the public Saturday, Dec. 20, from 12 to 10 p. m.

Sherwood Music Class. Miss Esther Mae Ingham entertained the Sherwood music class of the Sherwood music school, pupils of Mrs. Grace Dickson Keyser. The spacious music room afforded good opportunity to group the students according to their respective ages and consisted of various types were enjoyed. Oscar Skavlan, division manager of the Chicago School, was a guest and contributed to the joy of the evening. An interesting feature that afforded the pupils an opportunity to test their music perception was provided when Mr. Skavlan played six classics of contrasting moods and rhythms and concertants were graded on rhythm, style, mood and tempo. Five scored equally high: Miss Helen Flanagan, Miss Florence Owen, Miss Eleanor Renick, Miss Geraldine Truman and Ralph Gangoso. These winners were entered in another contest of conical nature and Miss Flanagan won first prize, a box of stationery. Ralph Gangoso was second and received a southern shawl; and Geraldine Truman was third and won a vari colored pencil. Frank Gamble, jr., also scored points in the musical contest, receiving an Egyptian pencil. The third contest included Miss Hattie Fischer, Miss Aulda Sorber, Miss Florence Owen, Miss Florence Burckhardt and Miss Ruth Berres. Speed was the sole object in this and Miss Fischer ruled in for first prize which was a little French poedle. Miss Berres was second and received a tropical specimen and Miss Owen was third and received a needlework prize box. Dr. C. T. Ingham paid courtly respect to the occasion and Hillman Gustin of the Rosalie branch was a guest. Mrs. Ingham served Neapolitan ice cream with mangoes and angel food cake. The boys, being somewhat in the minority, helped in the service. All expressed much enjoyment of the evening. Mrs. Keyser is to be complimented on the high standard being maintained by her pupils and the good conduct evidenced in all of the social affairs.

HE'S WORKING OUT $80,000 DEBT TO CROWN AT $1.25 PER

BRITAIN has been rudely awakened to the fact that prison for debt still exists in the British empire.

Recently police came to the little home of Captain F. G. Fimlin in London and carted him off to Mill-stone prison to pay a debt of $80,000 by working for $1.25 a day.

Then some inquisitive prison began digging into British prison records and found that Fimlin is but one of 12,000 Britons languishing in jail, the main charges against them being that they owe money.

And all this despite the fact that for years it has been Britain's proud boast that imprisonment for debt was abolished after Charles Dickens attacked it in one of his famous novels.

Fimlin was fined for carrying some machine guns on his boat out of the Thames river into the North Sea, where they were to be turned over to Russia.

It is unusual the law to strip such things without permission from the government. The punishment is a fine triple the value of the contraband.

Examination of the English prison records shows that most of the 12,000 persons imprisoned for debt have been committed for non-payment of wife maintenance, or for arrears in paying for the care of illegitimate

CAPT. F. G. FIMLIN
Most of the governors think the courts should examine into the condition of the men before sentencing. And even in the case of the under-privileged, arrangements should be made where they could pay off their debt by means of compulsory work.

The governor of Exeter prison was strong language. "There is a wide divergence in the imprisoned debtors class than in any other-looks and rugged, respectable and the reverse, pitiful cases and cases of scamps. Imprisonment seems futile in the very large majority of cases."

The governor of Gloucester prison expresses himself in similar terms: "Generally speaking, it seems of little use to send a man to prison for a debt he cannot pay through lack of employment. One man, who came in for wife maintenance arrears, told me that he had kept up his payments regularly while he had work, but fell into arrears through unemployment. No sooner had he a job again than he was arrested and brought to prison."

Notwithstanding this strong feeling of resignation on the part of the men who direct the prisons, the numbers imprisoned as debtors or on civil process have vastly increased in England.

"Know Nebraska"

They Click The Song of Nebraska's Great Wealth

When great trainloads of products from Nebraska's rich soil speed on their way to the markets of the world, the "click," "click," "click," of the wheels as they roll over the rails, sing the song of the state's prosperity.

The railroad lines of Nebraska carry more than 400,000 carloads of freight each year, in addition to 10,000,000 passengers.

Nebraska's steady growth requires a constant increase in railroad facilities, as well as local and long distance telephone equipment. In order to provide for the estimated telephone needs of the state, the Bell System must spend about three-fourths of a million dollars annually for new telephone equipment in this state.

In order to provide for the growing demands for telephone service, vast sums of money must be constantly obtained from investors. Nearly half a million people already own Bell System stock or bonds. We shall be pleased to have you, also, as an investor in the business. Any telephone employee will gladly give you full information about Bell stock or bonds, or call our Manager.

As Nebraska prospers, the telephone is successful. Therefore, we constantly strive to provide reliable telephone service at the lowest possible charges consistent with reasonable wages to employees and a fair return on the money invested in the business.

Wayne, Randolph, Hartington and Boney farmers show hogs here.
Modern Woodmen elected officers for the year and the grand officers W. H. Hoguewood, T. W. Moran, Mc Gooden, P. H. Kohl, John Coyle, M. F. Ahern, A. J. Jett, Jr., E. S. Blair, Dr. J. A. Williams, M. P. Savidge and Henry Merriman.

From Ponca Journal Dec. 23, 1896:
The theory that Mr. Massey purchased the land along the river on account of a buried treasure, brings out the following history: In the year 1820 there was at Massasoit, a tribe of Indians called the Waponaags. The name of their chief was Massasoit. He is celebrated in history as one of the greatest and wisest of chiefs, and one of the most powerful, his dominions having extended from Cape Cod to Narragansett Bay.
But Massasoit had one vice which we regret to say he caught from our Pilgrim forefathers, viz: avarice. He liked to hoard up gold, and did indeed gather together a large amount of it. He died in 1661, and after his death the riches which he had hoarded up were not to be found. Of all the gold he had collected, not a shilling was discovered, and his wives and children, reduced from affluence to extreme poverty, had to take to the woods and go to making baskets for a living.

For many years it was a deep mystery what Massasoit did with his money. Recently some old Apowaug records of the Massachusetts Bay period, have thrown light on the matter. It seems that in the year 1654 Massasoit took a long journey to the west. Day after day and month after month he journeyed toward the setting sun, determining to find the western edge of the country, or as we would say, "the jumping off place." But when he got west of the Missouri river, he became discouraged at the length of his journey. At the place where Ponca now stands, he rested several days. He saw that this was to be a great country in the distant future, and he liked it so well that he concluded to go west no farther, but to go back to Cape Cod and the Massachusetts Bay.

He accordingly buried it in the bluffs near Lime Kiln race. He thought as he deposited the gold in a hole in the ground and covered it, here Massasoit placed this gold and here he hid it until the Pilgrims came and dug it up." Then he started on his return to Cape Cod. He never came back to Ponca, again as he expected. He had several sons on hand to settle with the Pilgrim forefathers over some claims which had happened to get into his hands, and the Massasoit, harassed by war, became discouraged and sick, and finally died without ever seeing this promised land again.
But it is not the tradition that of the gold is to remain buried until Massasoit comes again and digs it up, but that it is to be dug up by the Pilgrims and taken to the bluffs near Lime Kiln race, and there it will be dug up. While we reverence the memory of Massasoit, we are glad that his story will live the history of great events corroborate each other.

Notice of Sheriff's Sale
By virtue of an execution issued by the clerk of the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, upon a judgment rendered in said court on the first day of December, 1922, in favor of R. N. Saunders, Receiver of Farmers State Bank, Winslow, Nebraska, and against Gard Janssen, and Emma Janssen, each of them, I have levied upon the following real estate as the property of Emma Janssen, situated in Wayne County, Nebraska, to-wit: The West Half of the Northeast Quarter of Section 29, Township 25, range 2 East of the 6th P. M., and I will on the 20th day of December, 1924, at 3 o'clock p. m., of said day at the east front door of the court house in the city of Wayne, Nebraska, sell said real estate at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to satisfy said execution, the amount due thereon, in the aggregate being the sum of $2,336.10 together with interest thereon at the rate of 10 per cent per annum from December 1, 1922, and $17.65 costs of suit and accruing costs.
A. W. Stephens, Sheriff of Wayne County, Nebraska. N275

Notice of Hearing
To the Heirs, Creditors, and all persons interested in the estate of Richard D. Edwards, deceased.
You and each of you are hereby notified that Louis Gubbels has filed his petition in the County Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, alleging that said Richard D. Edwards died intestate at his residence in Wayne County, Nebraska, on the 4th day of September, 1921. At the time of his death he was seized of real estate in Wayne County, Nebraska, including the southeast quarter of Section Twenty-eight (28), Township Twenty-seven (27), North, Range One (1), East of the 6th P. M., and left surviving him as his sole and only heir at law, his widow, Ann L. Edwards, and the following named children, to-wit: Abbie Edwards, now Abbie Thomas; Mattie Edwards, now Mattie Davis; Bertha Edwards, now Bertha Davis; Ida Edwards, now Ida Thomas; Mary Edwards, now Mary Cadie; Oscar Edwards, George Edwards, and Charles Edwards. That all claims, debts and demands against said real estate have been paid in full. That said estate has never been administered in Nebraska. That said Louis Gubbels is the owner in fee simple of said Southeast quarter of Section Twenty-eight (28), Township Twenty-seven (27), North, Range One (1), East of the 6th P. M., in Wayne County, Nebraska, above described. Petitioner prays for a finding and decree determining the date of the death of said Richard D. Edwards, deceased, for a determination of the

Magnavox Radio

The Long-Awaited Broadcast Receiver

Combining Supreme Efficiency, Convenience and Beauty produced at a low cost which brings it within reach of all.

The new Magnavox Broadcast Receivers have three decisive advantages: unexcelled simplicity of control; reproduction of exceptional clearness in any desired volume; and handsomely carved period cabinets which harmonize with any style of furniture.

The simplicity of control is provided by the Magnavox Unit Tuner which does away with all complicated dialing and places the novice on the same footing as the radio expert.

The tuned radio frequency circuit developed for these receivers is characterized by notable quality of reproduction as well as unusual selectivity. The circuit is extremely stable in operation and does not generate any objectional noises.

As world pioneers in the development of sound reproducing and amplifying equipment, Magnavox engineers have successfully set a new and higher standard for the daily enjoyment of radio in the home.

Finds Golden Eagle On Farm Near Here

James Kelly, who lives three and one-half miles northwest of Wayne, killed a golden eagle at his place Wednesday of last week. The bird weighed eleven and one-half pounds and had a wing spread of eleven feet. The body has been sent away for mounting. The eagle had been seen at the Kelly farm several times but Mr. Kelly was unable to get close enough to it to kill it until last week when he found the bird in a tree.

Newcastle Boy Recovering

Newcastle, Neb., Dec. 11.—Ervin Cook, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cook, who broke his neck when he dove into the Missouri river over three months ago, is slowly improving at his home here. Although yet unable to walk, he has recovered sufficiently to feed himself and do light exercises in moving his arms and legs the use of which he is recovering more and more day by day. At the time of his injury he was unconscious for some time and for weeks was paralyzed by the formation of a blood clot at the base of the brain. At one time he was so weak and emaciated that his physician parents and friends did not expect him to live. Now he is able to sit up part of the time and each day he attempts to do something which he was unable to do three weeks before. He has trained himself to manipulate the radio set and hold the receivers to his ears, greatly enjoying the radio messages as well as reading in the accomplishment. He also enjoys visits from his school mates and delights in carrying on long conversations, first of all telling what he is able to do with his hands and feet and just how he accomplishes his things.

Livestock Loss is Light

Bloomfield, Neb., Dec. 11.—This part of the state has just "dug out" from under the heaviest fall of snow that has been known for years. The first fall of snow was heavy and was unaccompanied by wind, packing down quite solidly. The last storm had a heavy wind as its accompaniment and drifted to a considerable extent. Railway service was crippled but all trains managed to get through from four to ten hours late. Some loss to stock has been reported but indications are that this has been very light.

HORSE SALE

25 Draft Horses, Saddle Horses and Ponies at Auction Saturday, December 20 Wayne Pavilion, 1:30 p. m.

On the above date I will sell at public auction, in the pavilion at Wayne, 25 head of high class heavy draft horses, well broke saddle horses and a number of good youth's ponies—all in all as good a load as I ever brought to Wayne.

These horses are all from my own feed lots and are the good kind. I have been selling horses in Wayne for a number of years and know that the demand is for good ones and that is the kind I am bringing.

All Young and All Well Broke. A mighty good chance to secure a good team of well broke work horses, a real saddle horse or a mighty good pony for the youngsters. Remember, they must suit you, and that I will sell them without any reserve or by-bid.

The NERVOUS WRECK

By E. J. Rath
©1924 - by N.E.A. Service Inc.

Begin Here Today.

Sally Morgan has to go 35 miles from her father's ranch to catch a train for the city. Sheriff Bob Wells, her fiancé, is unable to ride with her to the station. So the Nervous Wreck, an eccentric young salaried clerk at the ranch, offers to take her in his little automobile.

The sheriff ridicules the suggestion, but Sally and the Wreck set out on their journey. The Wreck is refused a loan of five gallons by the occupants of a passing car. The Wreck holds them up at the point of a gun, forcibly takes the five gallons and leaves them with the same amount after letting the six out of their tires. To cut the climax, the Wreck makes the large man in the car crank his machine before starting out.

Now Go On With the Story.

He cranked over, threw the switch, and the engine was off with a night-splitting clatter. The big man staggered wearily toward the side of the road. The Wreck was accelerated when a mad guard nudged him roughly as the diver sprang into life. They heard him shout something; it sounded like a threat, although they could not catch the words. Then the Wreck took a solid grip on the wheel and began to drive.

Once Sally looked behind her. The headlights of the motortruck car had faded to small points. She glanced at the Wreck. It was not possible to see his face clearly, but she caught the expression. He would be gritting his teeth and staring truculently at the road, glib in his head. He had five minutes before she spoke, and then she cut loose.

"You've done it now!" she exclaimed. "You sure have fazed the pair of us this time. Have you gone stark mad?"

"Don't argue," advised the Wreck. "Don't you know what you've done? Don't you realize anything? Do you think you can get away with a thing like that? Why, you've committed a crime! And if they catch us—"

She left the sentence unfinished, for it was leading to things too awful for contemplation.

"I was in a hurry for breakfast," he explained.

The private head was a long one and was judged as being too long. It was nearly a quarter of an hour before they came within sight of anything but hills and hills.

Then the ranch building, flashed brightly and stood at the road's end, emerged from a patch of yellow spruce. Sally studied the picture with a professional eye.

"That's a pretty big house," she commented. "Looks sort of new, too. They got a nice location. It's over those hills rise, off your back of the house. Pretty, isn't it?"

"No," said the Wreck, "I can't see anything but bacon and eggs." And the Wreck said, "And when they ask questions, we're a couple of tourists. Don't forget that," said Sally, significantly. "I'm supposed to be a duke, too."

The diver came to a stop in the doorway, just as a man emerged from behind the door. The man, with a strange mustache, and he stood studying them for several seconds, in evident surprise, before he muttered a word or two.

"Good morning," called Sally, with a wave of her hand.

"Morning," returned the man. "At he walked over to the car he was still scrutinizing them with a pair of steady blue eyes."

"No," said the Wreck, "I can't see anything but bacon and eggs." And the Wreck said, "And when they ask questions, we're a couple of tourists. Don't forget that," said Sally, significantly. "I'm supposed to be a duke, too."

SALLY WHISLED ABOUT HER CHECK'S SUDDENLY PINK

was this wire fence," he said. "We've been following it for a couple of miles. What's it mean?"

Sally inspected the fence, which followed the line of the road.

"It's somebody's wire, of course," she answered. "It means there must be a ranch around somewhere."

"Do they have breakfast at ranches?"

"They better haul!"

"My idea, too," he said. "Whereabouts would this ranch be, reckoning on the hills and valleys and mountains or other visible landmarks?"

"That brought a smile to her face. Plainly, the Wreck was in excellent fettle this morning. He was disposed to be almost playful.

"I'd say it's on the same side of the road as the fence," replied Sally. "And if we haven't passed any gate yet, we'd better keep on until we hit one. There's sure to be one."

He nodded and continued to drive, while Sally studied the country. It was not mountainous, but decidedly hilly, and she knew at a glance that there must be a considerable distance from the Bar.

Presently her thoughts returned to the big car and its passengers, and she caught herself looking backward over her shoulder, wondering what had become of them.

"Here's a gate," said the Wreck. "It was a plain road, running under it and off into the hills beyond. Without waiting for a consultation, he climbed down, opened the gate, then drove the flivver through. He was going straight ahead when Sally stopped him.

"Must be a way close the gates after you out in this country," she said, jumping out. "They're put there for a Successful Entertainment.

The second number of the Library Lyceum Course was given Monday night and about sixty dollars added to the building fund. The play was so well given that to especially mention the best players, each would deserve honorable mention. The play was a credit to both actors and sponsor, Mrs. George Gabler, and most thoroughly appreciated by the audience.

School Notes.

Primary pupils were delighted to receive a letter from Santa Claus in answer to those sent. But excitement was highest when a pair of leggings and a string of sleigh bells were found in the primary-room one morning, supposedly to have been carelessly left by Santa when he came to get a "line-up" of the good the school had done.

Former Wayne Man Dies in Idaho

Henry C. Wright who used to live in Wayne, and who was postmaster here at one time, died at King Hill, Idaho, November 28. The following obituary appeared in the Rexburg, Idaho, Journal, December 5:
Impressive funeral services were held at the Presbyterian Community church on Tuesday afternoon, December second, at 2:30 p. m., in respect and memory of Henry Clark Wright. The sermon was preached by the Rev. W. S. Young, pastor of the church, and the services were conducted in accord with the rites of the Presbyterian faith. Most pleasing and appropriate music was rendered by Mesdames Moore, Graham, Abbott and Corey. The high respect of the many friends of the deceased and his family was manifested by their attendance and floral tributes.
Henry Clark Wright was born at Mt. Vernon, Ohio, Nov. 16, 1853, and died at King Hill, Idaho, November 28, 1924, being 71 years and 12 days of age. He was married to Adah Williams Nov. 18, 1879, at Belleville, Ohio. To this union were born two sons, Mr. James R. and Harry N. Wright, both of Rexburg, and one daughter, Mrs. Alice Wallace of Lexington, Nebraska.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright moved from Belleville to Washington, D. C., where Mr. Wright was an employee of the government. After seven years they moved to Wayne, Nebr., and later to Onaha, and in 1911 they moved to Idaho where they have since made their home. Mr. Wright was a member of the Woodman lodge and the Grange, the local organization of which was King Hill. Because of his superior membership, gave the deceased an ideal friendship and fellowship. He was a lover of music and true human friendship and brotherhood and leaves a wide circle of friends and relatives who sincerely mourn his loss.

Get to work and don't waste leather kicking round about the weather. Take what comes without resentment. And in short—no contenting. Life is short—no contenting. Over things beyond our mending. We can't stop the wind from blowing. Or prevent the snow from "snowing." In that elemental waltz. Best for us that we seek shelter. And abide there, well-defended. Safe until the storm is ended. Where the temperature is never High or low, but always "clever." Neither heat nor cold to smother. Every day like every other; Where life runs on one smooth level. Men grow stupid as the devil. If too cool they let it go so. If always feeling about so so. Finding sluggish satisfaction In existence without action. This, my friends, is my position: Rugged climate gives ambition; Youth develops to a higher sense of life; or I'm a liar; Stirs his thought of obligation—The best of the best men of the nation. Who have done the things essential To be known as consequential; Men of purpose and of action. Present Comic Opera At Normal Tuesday

"The Gondoliers," the comic opera presented by the choral club of the Wayne State Teachers College, assisted by members of the college orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Leon F. Beery Tuesday evening, was one of the most successful musical productions at the school. The junior high school frolic and the ballet numbers by the rhythmic class, directed by Marian Fessenden Beery, were also most attractive. notwithstanding the cold weather a good-sized audience was present for the play. The opera, "The Gondoliers," written by Gilbert and Sullivan, opens with a scene in Venice. Two gondoliers come to choose their brides. Marco chooses Giannetta and Giuseppe chooses Tessa. Don Alhambra, the Spanish inquisitor, announces that one of the two gondoliers is the long lost King of Barataria and he was married in infancy to Casilda, daughter of the Duke of Plaza-Toro. The gondoliers go to Barataria and reign jointly until it can be determined which is the king. Wives of the gondoliers go to Barataria to visit them and learn that one of the men seems to have two wives. Inez, the nurse who cared for the king when he was a baby, declares that Luiz, the Duke's attendant, is the real king. Luiz is then the husband of Casilda. Marco and Giuseppe, the gondoliers, are played by Elmer Corbit and Laurence Campbell. Their wives, Giannetta and Tessa, are played by Margaret McDonald and Frances Heckenhauser. Ralph Robertson is the duke, and Anna Johnson the duchess of Plaza-Toro. Casilda, their daughter, is played by Lola Peck. Luiz, the duke's attendant, is Edmund Werner. Don Alhambra, the inquisitor, is Eric Wendt and Inez, the nurse, Alice Crockett. Other principal Venetian gondoliers are Nels Gregerson, Alfred Homuth and Walter DeWitt. Other peasant girls are Jessie McDonald, Minnie Klenke and Dorothy Sievers. There are choruses of peasant girls, gondoliers, soldiers and courtiers.

The stage settings, a scene in Venice and the pavilion in the palace of Barataria, were designed by Miss Martha Pierce, Prof. E. J. Hunter and Lyle Dowling. Attractive costumes added to the effect of the opera. Miss Maude Joseph, Prof. W. C. Hunter and Mrs. Elva Brockway assisted in the production. Members of the ballet class who so ably presented numbers under the direction of Mrs. Beery included: Sara Jane Ahern, Ethel Barker, Alice Berry, Ellen Berry, Izela Buetow, Loreta Buetow, Annabelle Davis, Evelyn Felber, Dorothy Gulliver, Marcella Hunter, Doris Judson, Helen Kneeland, Mary Jane Morgan, Louise Rickabaugh, Helen Randall, Rhos Schmiedekamp, Alda Surber, Marion Jo Theobald, Fern Wamberg, Irol Whitmore, Lillian Whitmore and Nevada Whitmore. Members of the orchestra were: Elvera Malloy, Arthur Kruse, Myron Brockway, Margaret Ahern, Howard Robertson, August Bohner, Edmund Sandoz, Xenophon Cross, Foy Cross, Paul Peterson, Lyle Dowling and Helen Gildersleeve. Prof. and Mrs. Beery have scored another success in presenting this musical treat. All who saw "The Gondoliers of Ferrara," directed by them last year, spoke most highly of the work and the same praise is given them and the students for the production this year.

Beaded Frock

The all-over beaded frock is returning to favor, since it has decorative quality that is lacking in simpler models. This one is of cord velvet, beaded with intricate beads and has a scalloped neck out with the beads. Such frocks are very popular for theater and restaurant wear.

for the Christmas festival at 2:30. The Junior Mission band will play in the afternoon also upon the invitation of Lawrence and Vernon Carlson and Margarete Hyde. Membership dues are to be paid and all the white boxes must be turned in at this time. On Christmas day there will be held an early morning service (Jolotta) at 8:30 and an English service at 6:45. The children's festival and program will be held on second p. m. Christmas, Dec. 26, at 7:00 p. m.

First Presbyterian Church. (Rev. Stephen E. Yemm, Pastor.) Two more Sundays in the old year, with no more Christmas. Christmas, the day of all days, comes in between. How are we going to spend this Christmas season? The "Past" will keep the day as a Holy day. To the pagan, Christmas will be a time for excess eating and drinking, a mere holiday with little religious significance. He who has caught the true Christmas spirit will sing a song of praise and thanksgiving to God in his holy temple. He will keep the feast. Sunday morning the sermon will be "The Angels' Song." Have you Jolotta and an English service which was given out on the Judean hills in the long ago? Special music by the choir fitting the occasion. At this service you can get the real joy, not for a gladsome Christmas time.

In the evening the Sunday school and choir will render a Christmas program. This will be a White Christmas. Instead of exchanging gifts as teachers and pupils, we will give our gifts to the needy, who otherwise would have to go without. Giving is the dominant note of this festival day. The musical operetta, "The Penant," presented at the auditorium last Friday evening by the students of the high school under the direction of Miss Clara Johnson, was a success as an entertainment and receipts amounted to $120. Proceeds were for benefit of the music department of the school. The plot of the operetta is centered around college life and the parts were well taken, especially those of Robert Neukirch and Dorothy Beckenbauer. The choral club assisted in the individual soloists. Between acts, Verna Donelson, Gladys Baro, Edith Genstgen and Gladys Coe gave vocal numbers. They were costumed as gyppies.

Alroy Brewer Dies At Marrett Home Alroy Brewer, brother of Mrs. A. L. Marrett of north of Wakefield, died Friday at the Marrett home following a stroke of apoplexy. He had been visiting his brother-in-law in Laurel, when he was first stricken and then came to the home of his sister where he was ill but a short time before he died. Burial was conducted Sunday in Martinsburg.

Mr. Brewer was 74 years, 11 months and 25 days old. His wife passed away in 1912. He leaves a daughter in Ponca, his sister here and his brother in Laurel.

Discuss Purchase of Plant by City Party-three taxpayers of Wakefield met Monday evening at the auditorium in response to a call by the town board who had discussed the question of whether or not Wakefield city would purchase the light plant, rather than allowing an outside company to buy it. The consensus of opinion favored the purchase of the plant by the city. The general impression was that taxpayers prefer to have a local enterprise in charge of the local plant in case the stockholders wish to sell. The stockholders of the light plant will meet Friday evening to consider whether or not they wish to sell the plant and if so how much they would ask for it. In case the stockholders want to sell to the city it will be necessary to hold an election to vote bonds for the purchase.

Wakefield Plans a Community Program

Wakefield's community Christmas program, as planned by the program committee, will be held next Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the intersection of Main street near the security State bank. As tentatively arranged the meeting will open with prayer by a local minister. Attorney E. C. Becker of Wakefield, will give a short address. The committee has proposed of about ten from each of the churches will sing four selections, "Christmas Carol," "Silent Night, Holy Night," "Glebe Tidings of Bethlehem" and "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing." The girls' glee club of the high school will sing "We Three Kings." The program committee includes: Miss Clara Johnson, Robert Anderson, Miss Vena Green, J. H. Knox, Miss Ethel Hunter, F. C. Reed, Roy Lennart and Mrs. Harry Wendell. The choir met last Sunday for practice and will meet again next Sunday. Mr. Reed is directing the choir and Miss Clara Johnson is chairman of the committee. A large Christmas tree will be erected at the intersection in the center of the town. Small trees are placed in front of the business houses. The business men plan a treat for the children. Social. What-So-Ever society of the Presbyterian church will give this Thursday with Mrs. Floyd Clough. Mrs. Cruickshank, hostess. Mrs. H. H. Cruickshank entertained twenty women last Thursday afternoon. Five hundred was pleasant diversion and the hostesses served a two-course luncheon. Have Coasting Party. A number of pupils of the high school, chartered by Miss Dolly Kramol and Miss Ruth Gaston, had a coasting party Saturday at the lake. A winner roared followed. Class Packs A Boy. Mrs. R. H. Mathewson's class of young women of the Presbyterian Sunday school met last Thursday evening to work on a Christmas box for a needy family in Sioux City. The class meets again to pack the articles.

Entertainers for Sister. Mrs. E. C. Shellington was hostess Tuesday evening to a few friends complimentary to her sister, Miss Jean O'Connell, whose birthday is necessary it was. After a social time, Mrs. Shellington served luncheon. With Mrs. V. H. R. Hanson. P. E. O. members were guests of Mrs. V. H. R. Hanson Monday evening. Mrs. Edward Davies read a paper on Ellis Island and Mrs. H. Ware read a paper on "What to Give and How to Give It." Miss Susa Nyberg conducted geography quiz. Each drew a map of Nebraska, locating the principal rivers and cities, and a map of Dixon county. Mrs. H. B. Ware took first honors in this. A social time followed.

Concord Mrs. Harry Anderson is editor of this department. Any news contributions to these columns from town or country will be gladly received by her. She is also authorized to receive new or renewed subscriptions. Mat Brown made a business trip to Sioux City Monday. Mrs. Ed. Tryon visited school Thursday afternoon. Dean Hanson and daughters were business visitors in Wakefield Saturday afternoon. John Buse accompanied the shipment of stock from Dixon Friday, returning Saturday. George Palmer returned from Dixie City last Wednesday, where he had been assisting W. F. Stead with his household goods. Mrs. Cass Gramman who received a special card from John's hospital in Hartington two weeks ago, is now able to be out again. Mrs. Henry Anderson spent last Thursday in Wakefield. She returned Friday and visited at the home of Mrs. Elmer Anderson. Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Johnson and sons spent Saturday night at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Johnson. Ernest Hanson accompanied his daughter, Bernice, to Sioux City last Thursday and the latter received medical attention in the hospital there. Mrs. J. W. Rock of Petersburg, visited her daughter, Mrs. E. M. Marvin, Friday, and left Saturday for Wagner, South Dakota, to visit her other daughter, Mrs. E. G. Mart. Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Goldberg entertained members of the Lutheran Ladies' Aid society at their home Thursday afternoon. After the service and business meeting luncheon was served. Mrs. Chas. Johnson of Laurel was an out of town guest. Mrs. Axel Fredrickson, Mrs. Fritz Carlson, Mrs. Frank Carlson and Mrs. Fred Peters were hostesses to the members of the Concord Cemetery association and a few other friends in the church parlor last Wednesday. Owing to the bad roads and weather there were only about fifty guests. After the business session, a delicious supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Roth who were married in Sioux City Dec. 10, and were entertained by relatives in Peor last supper they evening, went from there for a short visit with relatives in Lincoln. They returned last week and were chartered last Wednesday evening. The young folks of the chaviron crowd divided into two parties one of which had their oysters at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and the others at the home of Fred Base. All friends wish the newly married couple the best of success for the future. Concordia Lutheran Church. (Rev. P. Pearson, Pastor.) Sunday December 21: Sunday school 10 a. m.
