Legion Has Banquet On Thursday

Frank Warner of Norfolk, member of the state American Legion executive committee, was the principal speaker in the annual banquet held by members of the Irwin Sears post of Wayne Thursday evening at the Community house. His theme was "Legionism and the American message," being inspiring to both the former members as well as the new ones. He told the Legion men that they are the ones who in a few years are to become the influential members of the community and that they should realize the responsibility that rests upon them and should work gradually to this purpose. He also urged them to uphold patriotism in the country because they are to assume the place of the G. A. R. in this respect. Legion men must instill respect for the flag. Mr. Warner showed how worthy the work of the Legion is and told that every ex-service man should belong and help in the work of the group. Ex-service men and their dependents must be cared for and help them in time of need until government aid can be secured. The fund will also care for orphans.

Guy Parish of Norfolk, accompanied by Mr. Warner, gave a talk briefly to the Legion men on the endowment fund mentioned. The movement is sanctioned by President Coolidge and endorsed by Congress. The sum will be raised within the next six weeks. Each post will be assigned a quota and Wayne's amount has not yet been stated, though Nebraska's sum is $50,000.

The banquet closed a membership drive conducted recently and the two new captains, Guy Parish and Harold Sears entertained those of which E. E. Gailley and L. C. Lember were captains. There were 171 present at the banquet and about 70 new members. Wayne's Legion now has almost a 100 per cent enrollment of the ex-service men in this vicinity.

Dr. W. M. Hawkins, post commander, acted as toastmaster at the banquet and welcomed the new members, Carl Madsen, James Milliken, and Dr. J. C. Johnson, past commanders of the post spoke, and E. E. Gailley, past commander and now historian, gave a review of the Legion's work since its organization. G. A. R. men who were guests for the evening were: R. P. Williams and John Grimes, G. A. R. members, William Assenheimer, Spanish-American war veteran, and A. R. Davis.

Music during the dinner was furnished by Miss Margaret and Miss Marion Ahern, Miss Alvera Malloy and John Ahern. Miss Fern Oman sang selections and Miss Ruth Johnson gave musical readings. Mrs. Frank Warner of Norfolk, played the piano accompaniment. George Wilcox gave a whistling solo.

The group of Legion men of which E. E. Gailley was captain, presented Frank Griffith with a gold emblem ring as a token of appreciation for his being the member who enrolled the largest number of new Legion men during the recent drive.

Invocation before the banquet was given by John Brishen.

Members of the Wayne Woman's club served the suspicious dinner. The room was attractive with flags and bracing and the tables were decorated with bouquets of flowers.

The local Legion post meets this Thursday evening.

Librarians Meet Here on Thursday

Librarians and trustees of forty-seven branches of this section of Nebraska have been invited to attend the district library convention to be held in Wayne next Thursday, April 30. The program will consist largely of informal discussion of library activities, needs and news. Miss Jessie Jenks of the Wayne State Teachers College will speak and Miss Nellie Gingles of the Wayne high school will discuss the relation of the school to the library. Each visiting librarian will be asked to respond with a suggestion in the work and these topics will be discussed. A question box will also be conducted. The sessions will be held from 10 until 12 in the morning and from 2 until 5 in the afternoon in the children's room of the Wayne city library.

Miss Nellie Williams, secretary of the state library commission, will preside from Lincoln next Wednesday to be here for the day. Mrs. E. S. Blair, local librarian, is arranging the program.

Children are asked not to come to the library the afternoon of next Thursday as the meetings will be held in their section of the building. They may come in the evening.

The meeting in Wayne is the first library convention to be held here and people of Wayne and vicinity who are interested are invited to attend the sessions.

Essays are Chosen To Enter Contest

The Nebraska Bar association is this year conducting an essay contest on "The Federal Constitution and the Courts." Each college and each high school in the state may enter one essay. There being two groups in the competition. Of those taking part at the Wayne State Teachers College Miss Leila Mitchell took first honors and her essay will be entered in the state contest. Miss Lucy Edwards of Butte, and Ray Mattison of Albin, took second and third honors. All three will receive medals. Judges were: Prof. J. G. W. Lewis, Prof. A. V. Teed and James Brittain. Prizes in the state contest are $100, $75, $50 and three of $25.

Those in the training school whose essays on the subject, "The Federal Constitution and the Courts," will be sent for competition in the Ninth Judicial district essay contest, are: Anabelle Davis, Wallace Johnson and Louise Rickabaugh.

Mr. Kruse played two violin selections, "The Alp Maid's Dream" by Labitzky and "The Humming Bird" by Dedla. He was accompanied at the piano by Miss Pease. Mrs. Britell served a two-course luncheon. Next Monday the women will have a 1 o'clock covered dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. J. J. Williams. There will be reports of the officers and election of officers for the ensuing year.

With Mrs. P. A. Theobald. Members of the Coterie club and four guests, Mrs. W. M. Hawkins, Mrs. H. S. Seace, Mrs. W. P. Canning and Mrs. J. P. McCall of Omaha City, were entertained Monday at the home of Mrs. P. A. Theobald. Six of the women, Mrs. F. S. Moran, Mrs. D. H. Cunningham, Mrs. A. R. Davis, Mrs. A. T. Cavanaugh, Mrs. Paul Shires and Mrs. L. W. Vath were to give a debate but instead they surprised the club and planned an afternoon of bridges. Mrs. Hawkins received the prize for high score and she was given a bird house which Bobbie Theobald had made and which took second prize in a bird house building contest at the training school of the State Normal. The women served a two-course luncheon. Next Monday the club meets with Mrs. L. W. Vath and officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

The Most Wonderful Time In Her Life. A GIFT WITH HEART-BEATS THROBING WITH THE LOVE OF THE CIVIC. To father and mother, the gift to the girl graduate, the most sacred of all gifts. For often it is the most important gift to the girl who is Who is there. In future years, they may send her other gifts—jewelry, home-coming gifts, anniversary gifts. But these will go to the Woman Who Belongs To—One Else. How natural, then, that this quest should be a searching one—waged with that keenness which only purest love inspires. How natural, too, that the final selection should be an ELGIN WRIST WATCH—a gift that is a living thing—with every tick a heart beat, delivering its devoted message through a lifetime of service. An Elgin possesses the three supreme gift essentials—reliability, beauty and value. Elgin's sixty years leadership in the world's watch business assures this quality. That the Elgin of all gift-watches is Elgin is evidence enough for intuitive Mother and reasoning Father.

If the legitimacy of penmanship counted in determining illiteracy, some of the rest of us would be voted into the county list which is now only four.

A traveler stopping here said he had heard that Wayne and Washington counties were the best agricultural counties in the state. Of course there is no doubt about Wayne county. As to Washington county, we do not know. It may or may not have a few healthy riles.

We know a man who eats four oranges each day, two on retiring and two for breakfast, supplemented occasionally by a few apples. He has not been sick since he began this trouble, and he has not been out of commission for one day since he had the measles fifty years ago.

Most fires causing destruction and loss are due to carelessness; and the purpose of fire prevention day, as we know for Wayne next Tuesday, is to arouse people to means and habits of precaution. People should take an interest in the events of the day, and turn to advantage all possible information looking to reduction of fires.

In addressing newspaper men at Washington recently, Vice President Dawes struck a few blows at senate rules which permit one member to legislate. It will be remembered that he pointed out defects in senate procedure at the time of his inauguration and made most of the members of the body nod assent. But it is now reported that senators are looking on the vice president as a meddling busybody, evidently realizing that in considering the issue, the county is back of Dawes rather than back of the senate.

We wish people would not poison dogs. Several have been poisoned in Wayne lately. It is such a cruel way to dispose of an animal that the perpetrator must surely suffer the disadvantage even to himself. If a dog has become an intolerable nuisance, the square thing to do is to take it to the owner and explain the fault to him. Spreading poison is likely to destroy well behaved dogs for whom it was not intended. If people could understand how children like their pets, they could not have the heart to endanger them with insidious baits of deadly poison.

Secretary Hoover makes it plain that the Russians are ingrates and are less likely to trust and obey. He points out that the soviet officials could give comfortable aid without similar understanding and following the charity American agents of the Russian Relief are arrested and imprisoned. Hoover indicates that an impassable barrier exists between this country and the government of Russia, and that it cannot be lowered until that country rights wrongs done Americans and shows positive evidence of being on the square. Accordingly, it does not look as though there is any recognition of Russia would happen very soon.

The nearer one approaches the proposition of a paragraph, the more he should know about the operation of the mind and the better should he understand the effect of different impressions on the mind. The higher he reaches in practical psychology, the greater should be his appreciation of the power of suggestion for good and ill. He will be able to do something at the right time to relieve fear and distressed minds. He will say the right thing to encourage and cheer and assist in any and every wholesome conduct. There are psychologists in all walks of life, and if they may be practical use of what they know, it is much to be desired. By what they say, perform most helpful service in making people feel better and therefore do better.

Bankers of northeast Nebraska who journeyed to Norfolk yesterday for their annual convention, were doubtless in a more optimistic frame of mind than they were a year ago or any time since the war. Conditions have improved very largely during the past year and are brightening the past few months. People are feeling better, and accordingly they are relieving the nervous strain on bankers. Those who have had losses, have bucked down to business with renewed determination. Markets are stronger. Credits are generally better, and the future along all lines is promising.

Markets are stronger. Credits are generally better, and the future along all lines is promising. The banks make loans easier and less annoying. Undoubtedly bankers were able to report more healthy and stronger conditions in the banking business, both reflected in banking channels.

Self-conceit is an important prop for the ego. It is the cause of great monopoly. The one who puts in over-time intating the importance of his contribution to the world never what might otherwise be obtainable results. On the contrary, the one whose self respect is allowed to hover about zero, though perhaps justifiably, is likely to die in the harness and admit defeat without trying. Like eating and recreation, fasting and toil, moderation is a winner.

Mrs. Della Sorenson of St. Paul, Neb., who poisoned and killed seven persons in the last year, was sentenced, besides attempting to murder five, has been adjudged crazy and will be sent to an asylum. Mrs. Sorenson had been charged with murdering her first husband. Probably she would have disposed of her second one if she had been given a little more time. It is surprising that the surviving husband of the neighbors did not suspect the murder mania of the woman before her mind had been so long continued so long, with so many mysterious deaths happening within her circle. Another surprising thing about the woman was her nervousness aroused by her purchase of poison. She is said to have a mind that is not developed beyond that of a five-year-old child. It is said she should never have married, and it is such distorted minds that laws have sought to keep from becoming heads of families.

Down at Tulsa, Oklahoma, a man's parachute failed to open and he fell about a thousand feet. He escaped lighting in a golf field. It is reported that golfers kept right on playing, and that a nearby group of disappointed golfers proposed to sue the man fall, none even curious enough to brook interruption of the game. Tulsa golfers must be a casual bunch, or they have been grossly misrepresented. Anyway, if we should go up in a balloon or go up while being filled by a hot air dirigible, we should be shot down with fatal violence on a golf course, our anatomy pinwheeling in transit, we would be the game stopper. We might be shot down and carried off the field, while permitting some inquisitive on-looker to make any assurance and other pertinent remarks.

MUSIC WEEK. Music week, beginning May 3, will be observed in Wayne under the leadership and inspiration of Prof. Leon F. Beery, with the cooperation of talent from the schools, churches and other organizations. It is proposed to start off with a program on Sunday and have a few other evening programs during the week, besides a parade and community sing. Wayne has an abundance of musical talent, much of it well trained, and Prof. Beery will be high in credit to the support of most worthy causes.

Music was encouraged during the war to maintain and stimulate morale, and it is a most desirable and confident, and if it were desirable in times of unusual trial and stress, it is desirable during times of peace to encourage and inspire courage and ambition. If "Nearer My God to Thee," sent across the waters by the heroic band on the sinking Titanic, robbed ocean graves of much of their terror, and steered helpless people to meet the murky depths undismayed, music will at any time cheer any wayfarer, cause exercise of the finest and firmest qualities of mind.

Jazz is being talked of as cultured and undesirable, and it is fast disappearing under a rising tide of coarse music productions. The bald caricature on music is giving way to regular and artistic melodies. It is an encouraging sign.

Even though a school board member would not look a faded flower, perhaps with too little familiarity with soap and water and the tonorial art, he is powerfully influenced by the knowledge and experience of a teacher who applies to him for a job. If he is carefully groomed and is capable of radiating good nature, he is likely to make a favorable impression. Also personal appearance on the part of a teacher is quite as important in the successful leadership of children as her book knowledge and her ability to impart it. Our conviction that the above remarks are well substantiated by the Progressive Teacher school publication, which says: "There is a noticeable improvement in the personal appearance of teachers. It is extremely gratifying. Teachers ought to dress elegantly. There is probably no one thing that would bring the teaching profession more quickly and effectively into the good graces of the business-world than good clothes, well kept hair, finger nails and teeth. The personal appearance of every teacher to dress well. It is not a question of earning enough money to dress in keeping with the respectability of the position, but of your present salary. The trouble is you have fallen into a habit of carelessly disregarding your personal appearance, and giving yourself over to thinking about other things. Carelessness in your personal appearance will disqualify you before more than a few of your pupils. Before, and what you are and how you look will affect more children than your ability to handle a class."

President Coolidge made a notable speech in introducing a new photograph which projected both his thoughts and movements. He spoke of the wonderful achievements and high purposes of the American government, emphasizing economy as the keynote, to paying obligations and reducing taxes. His opening and closing remarks were so well received that the President, ought to be appreciated by every American. We will quote them as follows: "The nation holds a position unsurpassed in all former human experience. I do not profess that we can secure an age of perfection in earthly existence, but we can provide an area of peace and prosperity, attended with freedom and justice and made more and more satisfying by the ministrations of the charities and humanitarianism of life."

"I want the people of all the earth to see in the American flag the symbol of a government which makes no oppression at home and no aggression abroad and which in the spirit of a commonwealth provides assistance in times of distress."

The Editorial. There are in Nebraska about a dozen daily newspapers and a few trade papers and more than 400 weekly newspapers of a literary character, papers that are published in this country. A few of these weekly newspapers like The Signal, say possibly fifty, are large enough to be able to provide a column of space for editorial matter each week. That refers merely to volume. Nobody is ever expected to judge any kind of newspaper on the basis of volume, but it may be an element for consideration. The smaller newspapers can have editorial pages of high quality though not of great volume.

Two years ago the Nebraska Press association began offering cups for excellence in editorial writing. The newspaper work, the intention being to stimulate interest in the production of better newspapers. Since nearly all of the active members of the association are the publishers of weekly newspapers, commonly called country newspapers, we naturally thought of cup contests were intended principally to aid weekly newspaper publishers. It would be natural to assume that the contests should be such as could be made by good weekly newspapers and such as would be usable in their columns and applicable to the character of the work.

The president of the association appointed Harvey Newbrach of the Omaha World-Herald judge in the editorial cup contest. Newbrach is a very able editorial writer. He ranks high among metropolitan daily newspaper editors. We do not know what material he has written for Newbrach when he judged the work of Nebraska editors as submitted to him in the editorial cup contest. The awards indicate that it must have been meager at least.

The first and third awards went to daily newspapers with which, we assume, the World-Herald exchanges. The metropolitan daily newspapers do not produce editorial cup contests. The award for second place went to one of the smallest of the weekly newspapers and the article on which it was based deserves mention in special paragraphs.

First place, the award of the cup, was given to the Omaha World-Herald. It contained 1,700 words, the first fifty of the editorial copy taken from the sixth chapter of Proverbs. We might stop to inquire, why not the whole chapter? The question amounts to the seven things that the Lord hath.

Can you imagine any weekly Nebraska newspaper devoting itself to the publication of an editorial article containing 1,700 words each and spreading over practically two columns of space in the ordinary Nebraska weekly newspaper? And the Nebraska weekly newspaper editors feel it incumbent upon them to undergo the brain tag (and the brain tag) of the production of editorial copy of big business and wear out their hootynotes in the mechanical production thereof? In the original the paragraphs were separated by Jim dashes. Omitting the dashes, we reproduce here the opening paragraphs of the editorial, beginning immediately below the quotation from Proverbs, so that those reading this review may get the tenor of the winning editorial. "The wisdom which came from the lips of Solomon the King on the particular occasion of which the prophet said that the Lord had inspired him, are applicable to the modern age. It is the man's duty to be a good citizen, to be a good neighbor, to be a good republican who lives up to the motto, 'rights and their hearts to utter toward things.'"

"On the eve of a national campaign, for instance, we are agitated by the thought that the National Business and its native rival, Wall Street. We had begun to hope, some of us that Big Business might be left alone to do its own thing, but the work out of its problems—problems which affect the prosperity of every citizen in this country—unhappily by the attacks of designing demagogues."

"But we are mistaken. Big Business is not to be left alone. It is to be broken up and strewn the landscape by the boys of the Balljoo for the edification of the Hooting Mob, of which we are a part. Its tail, figuratively speaking, is to be twisted 'till it is white with misery, and its cloven hoofs are to be retraced by its forerunners as trophies of the quadrennial hunt. Wall Street is to be bombarded as the great modern city of the world by the Spanish Main, and we are urged to do battle until it and its unholy flag have been scuttled and sunk."

"There is much more just like that. We are reproducing even the four paragraphs quoted above to show the moderate and sane attitude of the Nebraska City Press 'wields a trenchant pen.' As a matter of fact Mr. Sweet is recognized as one of the ablest editors of the modern states and the daily newspapers that exchange with his newspaper quote from his typewriter frequently. But that should not have us direct comparison with this 1,700 word defense of big business. It is a controversial political article and is not considered suitable content material."

In the final paragraph we read: "Isn't Big Business that has the country by the throat? It is the scheming, despotic, dishonest, incapable, plotting, pussyfooting, electoral politician, placed on a precarious pedestal by a deluded electorate that has allowed to function mentally, an electorate which is misled by false phonetics, inspired only by baser motives, preaching the doctrine that the man who wins may win success through the rubbing of an Aladdin's lamp or the mystic powers of a wishing ring." It is not surprising that the Signal and the weekly and weekly and more or less despatch country newspapers and other newspapers that the exhibit be struck from the files as irrelevant, incompetent and immaterial.

Like the well known furniture polisher, the editor of this article is three in one: must serve as an excuse for the unfortunate and inexorable length of it: We must now proceed to discuss the merits of the editorial which would have placed first in the contest if it had not awarded the editorial cup to the article defending big business. The editor of this article is largely political. The second award went to an article entitled, "A little republican editor to a big republican editor," which would have won the cup if Editor Sweet's article had not been submitted. It is to be remembered also that the World-Herald is a hardboiled democracy of the organ and that it is the duty of Judge Newbrach as its editor to prove that evening republicanism is as healthy as the morning sun."

"A little republican editor to a big republican editor" is said to have appeared in the Boone County Advance published at St. Edwards. The article was an open letter addressed to George B. Lockwood, then editor of the political sheet called the National Republican Party, which was in connection with internal republican politics. It was an attack upon Mr. Lockwood, who should say the late Mr. Lockwood, and it would not have had it had been published in all the metropolitan daily newspapers of the United States. This wonderful winning article said in part:

"If you would come out here and interview me, you would get some firsthand information that would provide you editorial material for a year as to how like a bolt out of the blue the over-ripe and over-ripe (country bankers) to call in their farm paper without a moment's warning. This policy was started in the last days of the democratic administration and faithfully followed by the incoming republican administration."

The editor of the Advance began his article with a recital of his steadfast republicanism, the labor and money he had expended in promoting the advancement of the party, his attendance at conventions and the performance of many other political duties. He then proceeded to urge that the destinies of the republic, presumably in proof of the propriety of his telling Mr. Lockwood where to lead in, he concluded his article with the following: "Oh, no, Mr. Lockwood, you cannot read the progressive side of the republican party, besides we don't know of anywhere else we would feel at home. We have been on the skirts of the on-the-crest of it has been the joy of our life. Practical, sane progressive advancement to meet the changing conditions of the world, to move up so we won't all be run over and shooing the near reds and lunatic fringes to the side, and to have men's minds and hearts in a good republican who lives up to the motto, 'rights and their hearts to utter toward things.'"

He serves his party best who serves his country first." Fine. That ought to cheer the hearts of the republicans. As far as Judge Newbrach went in his decisions the democrats didn't get a look in. Long before the article from the Advance came before Judge Newbrach for review Lockwood was dead duck, which Judge Newbrach well knew, and if the article ever had any merit from any point of view it had become stale and unprofitable.

Third place was given to another republican newspaper, also a daily, the Hastings Daily Tribune. The article meeting approval was entitled, "Keep Cool." We quote the opening paragraph: "There comes a time in every town, city or community, when the people get excited and greatly agitated over some burning issue, and it is during such periods that many unwise things are done. It is the duty of the editor, at such times, quickly fanned into a most dangerous conflagration." More politics you see. Apparently the Nebraska editors who submitted articles to either Newbrach to be judged sent in nothing but political articles, or else the other stuff was too poor to get by the fig.

If Nebraska editors were to be improved their readers must take the trouble to find out how they can be improved and then to insist that the improvement takes place. We would like to submit the proposition that every newspaper ought to maintain an editorial page for the following reasons and that the articles appearing therein should be prepared in conformity hereto: 1. To sell the paper. 2. To promote civic and religious advancement. 3. To provide opportunity for the discussion of the news of the day. 4. To provide mental refreshment for its readers. 5. To magnify the calling of the journalist. Assuming that the winning articles were those submitted to the judges, we conclude that Nebraska editors are leaving wide room for improvement in their editorial departments.

Students of last year missed this scholarship fraternity dinner at the Wayne. Mr. W. Moran of Omaha, and Mrs. A. C. Lantz and two children of Kearney, arrived last evening to visit at the Prof. E. J. Huntemer home.

Mrs. M. L. Lewis and sister respectively of Mrs. Huntemer.

Clifford L. Puffert who was one of the proprietors of the Central Garage at this place several years ago, was in Wayne this week. He is now living at Smithland, Iowa, and is a representative of the Motor Vehicle Company of Sioux City.

J. J. Ahern has cleared the ground at the rear of his store and erected hitching posts and tables for the accommodation of people who drive to town. The ground may also be used for parking automobiles. Mr. Ahern's invitation to make free use of the ground is general and cordial.

Charged With Arson.

Lincoln, Neb., April 22.—Mrs. Mollie Porter of Columbus, Neb., is charged with hiring an aged occupant of her home to set fire to the structure on April 5, in order that the building and contents might be burned and insurance collected on them. Complaints have been prepared in the attorney general's office. The fire was extinguished after causing an estimated loss of $1,100 in property.

Kerosene soaked rags were found scattered from the basement to the attic.

Estimates at the state fire marshal's office place the value of house and contents at $2,200. Insurance on both amounted to $3,800.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express to friends sincere appreciation of kindnesses during our recent bereavement, also to say thank all who sent flowers. D. A. Jones and entire family.

Dr. A. L. Bixby in Lincoln Journal: Physical death has been recognized thru the centuries as a universal law, which makes ridiculous the postulate that we will never die. Argument against an established scientific truth is a waste of words.

A New Cork-Wall Window

A Revolutionary Idea

There has always been more or less mystery in the minds of refrigerator buyers about the "insides" or insulation. They have largely had to take the word of the manufacturer that this or that form of insulation was used. Guarantees, cross sections of the wall, and other devices have been employed to prove the point. But none of these actually prove that the particular refrigerator having the attention of the purchaser was so built.

Until recently we have been in this same predicament.

But now, due to a revolutionary idea created by Alaska experts, they have overcome this obstacle. From this time on every purchaser of genuine Cork-Insulated Alaska will know absolutely that the very refrigerator she buys contains the famous "Alaska pebbled-cork" insulation.

This is made possible by the patented cork-wall window with which each genuine Alaska cork-insulated refrigerator is now equipped. It is virtually a little "X-ray" in its service. It offers the same evidence as would the boring of a hole into the refrigerator wall. By looking through the lens of the cork-wall window you actually see, with your own eyes, the cork that saves the ice. It is the supreme evidence, the most convincing of all proof.

The cork-wall window is an exclusive feature of the Alaska. Look for it when you buy a refrigerator.

Think of Your Motor

The Same as a Pilot Thrinks of His Aeroplane

His life, perhaps, depends on his treatment of his motor. Your investment depends upon your treatment of yours. The army air service as well as civilian pilots use Tagolene. They know it. You can get this Aeroplane Quality Oil for your motor. Let us drain your car and put the correct weight Tagolene Oil in your crankcase and you will find it costs no more and sometimes less.

Many have found out that one quart of new oil added to three quarts of old oil make four quarts of old oil.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Anderson and daughter, Vera, and Mr. and Mrs. Art Wilken and family were Sunday guests in the Earnest Fuhrman home. About thirty friends and relatives were entertained in the Walter Maas home last Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. Maas' birthday anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Gus Schroeder and daughter, Mae Belle, and Florence, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schroeder and family were Sunday dinner guests in the Frank Maas home. Bulk of the feeding steers at this time continue to be largely light classes and green. Prices for fair to good kinds land almost entirely in a $8.50 to $9.50 spread, with tops going to $8 and over. Quality over weight is the big selling factor at this time. Per acre and heifers marked time over the week-end and about the opening of this week, but when the trade really opened out on Tuesday the dealers still appeared to be willing to pay up to $6 and $6.25 for fancy light hifers, which is as high as they have been so far this season. The packer grip on the hog situation seems to be tightening instead of the reverse. The opening half of the week finds the pig market in the $12-line, and while some temporary late weak reactions may change the complexion of the situation slightly, no real general pessimism can be found. The average loss for the opening half of the week shows figures around a half dollar. The big packer club of late has been growing quiet. The week ending April 6 found the 11 main market hogs at $11.75. The market was 6 weeks previous. To that increase added another 55,000 last week. The first half of this week shows still a loss of 50 cents per head increase, by the same comparison. Poor demands, rather liberal supplies, and a wool market none too active to feed the people are a sadly depressed sheep and lamb trade this week. Best woolled lambs at midweek figure to $13.25 and best woolled ewes to $12.25. Clipped stuff is coming along fine in view of the excellent spring weather. Better condition is shown than usual on both the sheep and lamb grades. Clipped ewes figure to $7 and clipped lambs to $10.50. The good weather has also resulted in cutting to a minimum the death loss on pigs this year.

Market Report

Furnished by Swanson, Gilmore & Walsh, Sioux City, Stock Yards. April 22.—The fat cattle market worked out in just the opposite direction taken from last week's trend. Monday of this week found killer prices for the steer, $7.70 more than cattle at the 11 leading markets of the country than arrived the preceding Monday. About 25 cents was shaved off the market, but the effect a clearance. Then, as the news of the break got to the country, the runs started to fall off. On Tuesday the decrease, as compared to last Tuesday, amounted to 9,200 head and the market started the work back upwards. Another moderate decrease on Wednesday found the market making a still further recovery and as this report goes to press the market gives promise of finishing the week higher. Possibly strictly fancy yearling steers would still earn $12 at midweek, but so far no yearling market was seen. The $11.25 has been uncovered. Ripe weighty heaves can hardly be figured to $11, as some yearling ordering has been reported. Sold at $10.25 and $10.35 on the initial sessions this week. Prime yearling heifers can be quoted to $11, but

$10 looms as the actual river market top so far this week. Koster cows alone seem to be able to command a quite quotable outside tops, as is proven by 1400 pound cows to $8.50 for the Boston trade. With the country watching the rather depressed opening of the killer market this week the dealers found it to encourage them in the stock- and feeder end of the trade. Then as the killer market displayed more healthful signs, the farmers responded by increased buying and traders were quick to reflect that attitude in taking material out of first hands. Tuesday found the stocker and feeder market moving with a trade but some firmness, a condition that was augmented as the week rounded out. Bulk of the feeding steers at this time continue to be largely light classes and green. Prices for fair to good kinds land almost entirely in a $8.50 to $9.50 spread, with tops going to $8 and over. Quality over weight is the big selling factor at this time. Per acre and heifers marked time over the week-end and about the opening of this week, but when the trade really opened out on Tuesday the dealers still appeared to be willing to pay up to $6 and $6.25 for fancy light hifers, which is as high as they have been so far this season. Business

Sioux City Journal: World trade conditions are rapidly improving, according to Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who discussed American export and import business at a recent meeting of the Chamber of Commerce. He suggested that the country in the face of the present depression, the opposite view, he insists, is the correct one. The trade balance for the fiscal year is decidedly in favor of the United States as shown by the figures offered by Mr. Hoover. For example, the imports for the fiscal year ending March totaled $2,825,217,451 while the exports in the same period were valued at $3,770,733,232. The surplus showed an increase of $1,475,459,942 and the exports, one of $447,795,150. Thus it can be seen that the trade balance, also increased as international trade gained greater momentum. The March import trade reached a total of $385,000,000, a low figure when compared to the purchase by American firms of vast amounts of raw material abroad. For industrial consumption. On the other hand, the export trade for March amounted to $482,000,000, the largest figure since last November. This is traceable, says Mr. Hoover, to the fact that American manufacturers are fabricating goods for foreign trade at a high rate. There is seen in this report indications of a world recovery in trade bound to be pleasing to the American people. It is well known that after the war the great European markets did not demand American goods in large volume for the simple reason that old world finances were unable to handle purchases on vast scales. The old world was neither producing wealth nor buying goods. Now it is doing both and is selling and buying in trade with the United States. The import and export trade of the United States for the fiscal year is near $8,500,000,000 with a trade loss of considerably more than $1,000,000,000. This shows world trade in a healthy condition and promising constantly to become stronger. Meanwhile, the volume of freight handled by the American railroads for the first two months of the year has broken all existing records. The Bureau of Railway Economics has published a report on the business done in that period with figures given to show that the gain was due to increased activity in the middle west and west. The east showed a decline in activity and the south, the western district showed an increase of 1.6 per cent over former business, which would be more impressive if expressed in terms of freight handling and still more impressive if given in dollars and cents. The only disquieting feature in domestic business at this time is the government forecast of the winter wheat crop with the condition given as expanded in some of the leading states a certainty that the winter wheat yield this year will be far less than that of last season. Much increase in the winter wheat crop will be devoted to other crops, the extreme winter weather in the wheat areas being responsible. On the other hand, farmers throughout the spring wheat and corn sections have been fortunate in having excellent weather for plowing and seeding. Farm work generally is far advanced for this time of the year. Winter wheat will not produce a bumper crop, but other grains are expected to yield heavily.

ABUNDANCE Only One-Third of Farm Land Tilled

MAORAM SHOWING HOW THE LAND AREA OF THE UNITED STATES IS DIVIDED

Don't worry about the United States running short of meat and groceries as the country grows poorer. Folks supposedly "in the know" have prophesied that in a few years, when population increases at its present rate, America's supply of agricultural products won't be enough to feed her people and we must turn to foreign lands for our farm produce. President Coolidge made a prediction to this effect in his recent message to Congress. But an extensive survey by experts of the Agricultural Department's Bureau of Agricultural Economics seems to ease all doubt on that score. For this 38-million-acre expansion there are now available 220-million acres of forest land capable of use for crops; 162 million acres of medium textured soils which could be improved by fertilization, and great stretches of land suitable for dry farming. In this situation, then, sums up as follows: We have yet to use all the agricultural land now available without improvement. When this is used we can raise 100 million acres by irrigation and drainage. And when this is done we can still have a surplus of 600 million acres in reserve!

School Notes.
George Miller and Evelyn Neilson have earned a gold seal and George Moore has earned a certificate of award for perfect attendance.

The seventh grade has made maps of Australia and Africa in connection with geography. The fifth and sixth grades will have a quarter holiday Friday.

The sixth grade is making health posters and the fifth and sixth grades are making bird posters.

Stanley Eby celebrated his seventh birthday Monday and treated his classmates to candy bars. The ball game at Carroll Friday resulted in a victory for Carroll, 10 to 9.

The American history class is having a story project, studying the presidents. Mrs. Chester Jensen was received by letter from Randolph at the Grace Church Easter Sunday.

At their last meeting the Ladies Aid society changed their plan of meeting every two weeks to once a week. The next meeting will be held on May 14.

The W. M. S. elected Mrs. M. Huffaker and Mrs. G. E. Mittelstadt as delegates to the district meeting at Laurel this week.

At there was no service in the Carroll M. E. church Sunday. G. A. Wingett and Art Hutchins families attended services here on Sunday morning.

We appreciate very much the splendid music furnished on Sunday evening by the mixed quartet and the Ladies' trio. The paper of Brother Oman was enjoyed by all present. We have assurance that we shall have this kind very frequently on Sunday evenings.

Sunday was a good day in all departments of the church. The interest and attendance were good at evening service of the church. We had fine congregations morning, afternoon and evening.

The subject for the Sunday morning service will be "The Place of the Small Church in the Kingdom." We want our entire membership to study this subject with us on Sunday morning. The doors of the church will be opened at this time to receive new members.

The class started on last Saturday night for Bible and church doctrine. It will meet every Saturday evening at 7:15 p. m., and will last not more than 45 minutes. We desire as many as possible to attend these meetings.

The free will offering taken at the services on Easter for the World Service amounted to $25.41, which together with the payment of some pledges brought to that total day to $107.44. With the money paid last fall and a few subscriptions handed in during the month of the year, we have now more than one third of our apportionment, and with only a few of our members and constituents heard from, we should easily "go over."

Next Sunday by request the young people will repeat their Easter pageant, "The Beautiful Gate." On account of the light effects and the storm, many people did not see it but they will have another opportunity. Alice Wylie and Wilma Lewis will reprise their pantomime "How the Flowers Grow."

We have a committee on parsonage which has been working on the parsonage grounds consisting of P. W. Oman and Carl Wolf. We believe and some of our church folks believe that the parsonage and church property should be the most attractive place in the community. Rose bushes, dahlia bulbs, gladioli bulbs and other plants and bulbs have been furnished for this purpose by Wm. Beneshoff, P. W. Oman, Carl Wolf, Miss Hornby, Mrs. Art Auker and Mrs. J. D. Dusenbrock. C. E. Beneshoff provides a liberal quantity of white clover seed for the lawn and P. W. Oman and Harry Smith supplied a generous quantity of strawberry plants so that a nice bed has been started. We wish to express our appreciation for this help to make the grounds beautiful. The reason for plowing up the tennis court has been the fact that it was not used largely and the cost and effort required to keep it in shape did not justify the little use that was made of it.

Tonight (Thursday) is the monthly church night meeting which will be in the nature of a reception for the new members who have recently joined the church. There will be addresses of welcome from the various organizations, a bible exposition by Rev. Wylie, some musical, several readings and the program will be followed by a luncheon in the basement. This is in charge of a committee of which Mrs. J. B. Wylie is the chairman. All members of the congregation are invited.

Fewer Cattle on Feed.
Lincoln, Neb., April 20.—Nebraska has 20 per cent less cattle on grain feed than a year ago, according to April feeder reports of the division of crop and livestock estimates. The corn belt states as a whole have 12 per cent less.

Shipments of cattle to Nebraska feeder sections for September to March inclusive were 12,756 cars as compared to 15,092 cars the same period the previous year. A smaller percentage of the receipts were placed on grain feed.

Total shipments of feeder cattle to Nebraska as shown by the reports of the bureau of animal industry for the period September to March, inclusive, were 334,000 head as compared to 457,000 head for the same period the previous year, which indicates considerable decrease in feeding operations. On the other hand market receipts of cattle at all places from Nebraska show an increase of 6 per cent indicating that cattle were not retained in feed lots as long as usual. Increased production of cattle in Nebraska during the past three years accounts for part of the increase in market receipts however.

Information as to time of marketing indicated that 83 per cent of those on hand April 1 would be marketed in April, 22 per cent in May, 22 per cent in June, 10 per cent in July and the balance in August or later.

Mrs. H. J. Miner and son, Ellis, left Tuesday morning for Denver in response to word announcing the death of the former's uncle, C. S. Ames.

"Broken Laws" Due at Crystal Next Week

The growing disregard for the laws of the land and the effects of this upon children inspired Mrs. Wallace Reid in her latest production, "Broken Laws" which comes to the Crystal Theatre April 29 and 30.

"Broken Laws" deals with mother love and the necessity of law observance to protect the best interests of a not a prosecution, however, but a satire, throbbing drama of today which will interest everyone.

It points the way to better citizenship, and clearly outlines the necessity of teaching children obedience and to have respect for the constituted laws of the land.

Recently in the Philadelphia juvenile court fourteen boy bandits appeared before Judge Gorman in a single day. The oldest of the fourteen was but twelve. The court declared that it was "dreadful" and "incredible" that such conditions should exist.

"Investigation into such incidents," Mrs. Reid declares, "will reveal a lack of respect for the law on the part of the children's parents. In 'Broken Laws' we have attempted to show how serious the growing disregard for law is becoming and how it vitally affects our children."

One of the finest casts in years interprets this P. B. O. photodrama. Included are Mrs. Wallace Reid, Percy Marnott, Ramsey Wallace, Arthur Rankin, Jacqueline Saunders, Virginia Lee Corbin, Pat Moore and James Wray.

There is interest for everyone in "Broken Laws" and yet no one can see it and not come away a better citizen.

Marking Spaces For Parking Automobiles

The city is engaged this week in renewing parking spaces in the business district in order to economize in use of streets for parking and thus to accommodate in increased number of cars.

Forty-Two Enter Contest in Wayne

Final in High School District Declamatory work are held here on Friday.

Forty-two students, representing high schools of northeast Nebraska, took part in the annual declamatory contest held at the Wayne State Teachers College. In the oratorical class Donald Kerulis of Norfolk was second with "Our Responsibility as a Nation," and Lola Ringler of Tilden was second with "Value of an Education." In the humorous class Lona Conger of Ewing was first with "The Wedding of Miss Bray" and Dede Potter of Norfolk was second with "The Day of the Battle of Gettysburg."

Maxine Miller of Hartington took the first in the dramatic class with "The Highwayman" and Richard Gabriel of Norfolk was second with "Book." In the extemporaneous class which was tried for the first time this year Lawrence Keetel of Lyons was first, talking on "Motion Pictures in Modern Life." Flo Kerley of Randolph, was second and spoke on "What Is a Good Citizen." In this work about forty subjects are given by the students and they prepare on these before coming to the contest. One hour before they speak one of these subjects is assigned to each contestant.

Miss Alice Howell of the University of Nebraska, was judge in the humorous and extemporaneous classes. Medals were given to the two highest in each group and the two highest first honors will compete in the state contest to be held in Lincoln.

The oratorical and humorous readings were given in the auditorium, the former in the afternoon. The dramatic and extemporaneous groups were in the callisthenic where a stage built especially for the program and the dramatic was in the afternoon. Music for the day included vocal solo by G. Lawrence Campbell, solo by Miss Margaret Alern, vocal solo by Miss Margaret McDonald and violin solo by Arthur Kruse.

The taking part in the oratorical were Joseph Ginsberg, Dorothy Green, Kenneth Hancock, Harold Hozeh, Byron Johnson, Donald Hays, Miss Marie, Elsie Miller, Howard Miller, Lois Ringer and Elsie Ruda. In the dramatic class were: Richard Garbohis, Ella Paul, Dick Perry, Mildred Stageman, Adla Sarker, Virginia McManiger, Bernice Miller, Maxine Miller, Mary Jane Miller, Evelyn Stewart and Ellen Wilbur. Humorous speakers were Margaret Bishop, Helen Bracketter, Geneva Butler, Jane Carrico, Lona Conger, Lillian Erickson, Leon Nurnberg, Maxine Par, Mahon Richardson, Esther Rowert and Albert Sandberg. Extemporaneous speakers were Donald Butler, Mae Fenner, Joseph Gish, Helen Green, Dede Potter, LaVern Keetel, Flo Kerley, Eva Richardson and William Weimann.

Supt. W. S. Cook of West Point, was present of the declamatory section; Supt. G. A. Jones of Rosalia, was elected for the coming year.

From Other Editors

Auburn Republican: Over in Tulsa they hook up a child's bank containing half a dozen copper coins, supposed to be 2,500 years old. Next thing we know they will find in their excavations, something showing when the first Bryan began running for office.

York Republican: If an editor every time he writes an editorial of news story, should stop to reflect whether the utterance would be disastrous to someone, he would be either continually in hot water or his writings would be colorless. A writer has to school himself to say what he truly believes, of his honest conviction, and let the hurt, if there be any, fall where it may. Anything less would not be editorial freedom.

Geneva Signal: The Hartington Commercial club has appointed a committee of three to examine the credentials of all persons desiring to solicit in that city. The public is to be warned against making contributions to persons whose credentials have not been approved by the committee. Every town that does not take precautions of this character is overrun by solicitors whose causes are doubtful to say the least. Begging for some supposed charity has become a great American sport.

York Republican: Kansas a few years ago established an industrial court, the purpose of which was to represent the people in industrial controversies. The idea seemed to be a good one. In the event of a threatened strike, the court could intervene, keep the industry going, and compel the disputants to settle. Before the court for arbitration. The supreme court of the United States has now ruled that the Kansas industrial court has no power to compel arbitration. That knocks another weapon out of the hands of the people and makes them again, in Kansas, mere spectators while capital and labor employers and employes fight their differences out to the loss and inconvenience of the people who ultimately have to pay the bills.

Aurora Republican: France and England have a system of governmental control that differs radically from ours. Whenever a political crisis arises, a vote of confidence is taken. Refusal of the vote of confidence automatically means the resignation of the party in power and brings to the front some new leader. Thus it happens that the dominant political figures in both countries appear and reappear on the scene of action many times as leaders of their parties. In this country it is different. The president of the United States is usually elected on political leader of his party. He is given four years in which to prove his capability to the people of the country. If he has satisfied the majority and more particularly the benchmen of his party, he is allowed to continue another four years. Then he is through, no matter what he has accomplished. He cannot come back for tradition denies him this privilege, even if he desires it. On the other hand, the work cannot get rid of him during his term of office except by using the most drastic measure—that of impeachment. There are advantages to both systems. France and England have a system more responsive to the immediate wishes of the people, one that is pliable and easily changed. In this country we are committed to endure the deeds or misdeeds of those whom we elect for the term of their office. The thing that we gain by this, and which is denied to the countries operating under the other system, is stability of government which allows the majority to work out their policies for better or for worse, as much as this can be done during their term of office. We do, however, effectively prevent the kind of state-manipulation that is the chief characteristic of European leaders.

Notice of Hearing: In the county court of Wayne County, Nebraska. In the matter of the estate of David Roberts, deceased. The state of Nebraska, Wayne County, ss: To all persons interested in said estate: You, each and all, are hereby notified that Hannah J. Roberts has filed a petition in said court alleging that David Roberts departed this life intestate on or about the 29th day of February, 1922, and praying that A. R. Davis be appointed administrator of said estate. Hearing will be had on said petition before the county court room in Wayne, Nebraska, on the 8th day of May, 1925, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Notice of Sheriff's Sale: By virtue of an execution to me directed, issued by the Clerk of the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, upon a judgment rendered in said court on September 27, 1922, in favor of Thomas Sylvanus as plaintiff and against David Davis and William R. Thomas and each of them as defendants, I have levied upon the following real estate as the property of the said defendant William R. Thomas, situate in Wayne County, Nebraska, to-wit: Lots nine (9) and ten (10), in Block nine (9) in the original town of Carroll, Nebraska. And I will on the 4th day of May, 1925, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the door of the office of the Clerk of the District Court, in the Court House in Wayne, in said county, sell said real estate at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to satisfy said execution, the amount due thereon, in the aggregate being the sum of $7,186.40 with interest at 10 per cent per annum from September 27, 1922, and costs and accruing costs. Dated at Wayne, Nebraska, this 1st day of April, 1925.

Exide BATTERIES

The longer it lasts . . . the less it costs

WHAT you actually pay for when you buy a battery is power to start and light your car and ignite the gas in your cylinders. The cost of your battery depends upon how long that power lasts. A short-lived battery is expensive at any price. But a battery that stays on the job and out of the repair shop costs less and less as the months roll by. Exide Batteries are known the world-over for long-lasting service. You will get more months of use, fewer repair bills, and less worry from an Exide than you expect.

McCormick-Deering Hill Drop Wire Drive Planter

McCormick-Deering operation. It costs on its side of the ark on the opposite side. Upon turning, it drops to the ground, so there is no possibility of straining. The closing of the valve automatically allows the upper hill to drop to the bottom of the boot ready to be dropped to the ground when the valve is tripped again.

Automatic Check Head

Something new in the way of a check head is provided on the International No. 8. At the end of the field the driver pushes a small foot lever which releases the check wire and permits the check head to drop down. The team is then turned and placed in position for the next time across. As the driver stretches the wire, it is an easy matter to pull it right into the check fork and by striking it against the lip, automatically lock the head shut. This is a little thing but it shows how nearly automatic the International No. 8 planter has been made.

No Strangling of Corn

The valves in the boot, like all other International planters, are of the duckbill type. There is always a bill of corn waiting at the extreme bottom of the boot while another is being deposited at the extreme top. When a valve is tripped, the duck bill forces out any dirt that may have collected in the boot and the lower hill drops only an inch or two to the ground, so there is no possibility of straining. The closing of the valve automatically allows the upper hill to drop to the bottom of the boot ready to be dropped to the ground when the valve is tripped again.

Two Machines To Start Ditches

Two machines have arrived and have been unloaded at Wakefield for the digging of the Logan valley drainage ditches. One is a three-yard machine and this one will start work about a week a half mile east of Wakefield and will work on the south ditch, going up stream. The other is a four-yard digging machine and this will be set up and ready to start in about fifteen days on the north Logan. This machine will start at the junction of the two ditches and will work northwest. The two machines are dry digging ones and they go up the valley.

THE WRECKIOUS WRECK

By E. J. Rath
Copyright, 1924, by G. Howard Watt

Begin How, Today.

The "wreckious Wreck" an eccentric young easterner, is driving Sally Morgan from her father's ranch to the station when they run out of gasoline. At the point of a gas the Wreck takes five gallons from a passing car.

Later Charlie McSeen, foreman of a ranch along the route, makes them captives because he wants Sally for a cook. It develops that Mr. Underwood, the owner of the ranch, was the man which he held up. Sheriff Bob Wells, Sally's fiance, is unwittingly searching the countryside for "charities" who had in Underwood. Sally and the Wreck finally escape from the ranch. They run into a camp of red bandits and are again taken captive. "Sawey, we won't pin't" to turn you loose right yet," says "Nosey," one of the gang.

Now Go On with the Story.

The Wreck, who had been wonderfully patient through it all, was thinking whether it would pay to claim a country of interest with Nosey and his friends. He suggested it to Sally in a low voice, but she shook her head.

"They probably have a rival gang worse than the sheriff," she whispered. "Besides, we don't look like a pair they'd never let go."

Denver had stirred up the fire, tossed a few fresh sticks on it and was getting breakfast. The leader of the band was off in a direction, leaving, evidently to make an inspection. Lefty, still acting as guard, sat impassive against his tree, apparently not indulging in thought.

"They can't keep us forever," said Sally.

"But perhaps long enough for the sheriff to catch up," suggested the Wreck.

"That would be bad, although I was resigned to it awhile ago. Now I feel as if we had a chance again."

"Well, make a break whenever you say."

Sally shook her head.

"This outfit would shoot you if it had to, I haven't the least doubt," she said. "And besides, Henry, do you know that right now we have the least desire to make a break? I'm horribly sleepy. I'm not a bit excited over this; I'm too tired. So let it be as it is. Bob Wells' camp I was mad, and that woke me up. But now I'm drowsy again. I'm not going to make any break here until I get some sleep, and I don't care if the sheriff walks right in on us."

She mentioned that they could help themselves to breakfast. It was not very inviting. All that Sally wanted was a cup of coffee. The Wreck, however, was not so easily satisfied.

Sally found a fairly comfortable spot under a tree and stretched herself for a nap. She advised the Wreck to do the same.

"I'll sit alongside of you," he said, "and keep an eye on things."

"You get some sleep yourself."

"I can't sleep. I can't sleep. I'd like to bust—"

"Sh—," said Sally.

In ten minutes she had dozed off and in ten her slumber was deep. The Wreck propped himself against the tree, drew up his knees, folded his arms across them and dozed off. He believed that he would encounter his three or four times as big as it was before. He had been calculating the possibilities of a sudden dash; he believed that they would encounter to swift attack, if only Denver were not hovering about as a potential rescuer. Yet when Lefty began to assume the variety of shapes and sizes he was not so certain. His elusiveness to the eye was disconcerting.

Then he was conscious that Lefty had assumed normal proportions again. He was standing around the camp, his rifle drooping from the hollow of his arm. Sally was sitting up, doing her hair with the aid of a mirror that protruded the advance of the feminist movement in Montana. She was smiling at the Wreck.

"Have a good sleep?" she asked.

"Huh? Sleep? I haven't been asleep. Maybe I closed my eyes a minute, but I was just resting 'em."

"Then they've had a good rest. Henry, I've been awake for an hour and they've been closed all that time."

"What time is it?"

"Almost sundown."

He stirred himself and grunted sheepishly.

"What's been going on, anyhow?" he asked.

"I don't know, except that the ones they call Nosey and Denver are here. I asked Lefty where they were and he said they'd been gone for hours, and that it was none of my business, anyhow."

The Wreck studied Lefty with an appraising eye.

The Wreck suggested to Lefty that they might go to the river and get some sandwiches. He seemed interested in the sandwiches and insisted that they could go under cover. They were returning to camp with Sally's parcel of provisions. Going and coming, Lefty followed them. He accepted a couple of sandwiches with a great air of acknowledgment, ate them with apparent approval, but did not relax his vigilance.

It was dark when Nosey and Denver rode into camp and dismounted. Lefty grumbled something about being left alone all day and was told to shut-up. Then there was a conference. The Wreck and Sally missed most of it, but gathered that Nosey had decided that it would be safer for his hands to remain where they were for another night. Something was said about the sheriff, but they could not catch that part.

"I'll be doggone if I'll stay here another night," said the Wreck to Sally.

"What do we may have to do?"

"But what do they want with us?"

"I've no idea. I think they're just afraid to turn us loose."

The Wreck addressed himself to the leader.

"What's the idea?" he demanded, "sneak up?"

The Wreck plucked and moved forward, but Sally laid a hand on his arm and warned him with a look.

"I'll be doggone if I'll stay here another night," said the Wreck to Sally.

"And notify the sheriff?" sneered Nosey.

"I'll warn the sheriff."

"Sare. Only I don't figure you're going to drive on for awhile yet. Besides, we may be wantin' to use the car ourselves."

"And how long do you think we're going to stay here?"

"Just as long as I see fit," said Nosey. "And if you've seen your face shut, I'll shut it for you."

Again Sally restrained her partner in captivity. The only thing that had a soothing effect was her plea that if anything happened to him she would be left there alone with three unpleasant strangers. They talked for some time.

Lefty, who had relinquished guard duty to Denver, brought them some greasy bacon and coffee.

"You'd better fill up," he advised. "You can't tell when you'll be feedin' again."

It did not suffice an explanation of this remark, and Sally and the Wreck had a fresh sense of uneasiness. Then the trio of captors entered upon a long consultation. The only person who paid even casual attention to the prisoners was Denver, who sat where he could keep an eye on them and whose rifle was too handy to encourage an attempted break.

Denver came again, and Sally and the Wreck were ordered to move closer to the fire, where they could be watched more readily. Nosey took the added precaution of tying their feet together. He did not bother about their hands as yet; he merely wanted to be sure that they could not break and run on an instant's notice.

The consultation of the trio continued, at a little distance from the fire, where they were beyond earshot of the prisoners. Although it was conducted in undertones, Sally and the Wreck sensed disagreement, and even acrimony.

Nosey brought it to an end with a peremptory gesture.

"You stay here and watch 'em," he ordered Denver. "Lefty and me are goin' down by the main road for awhile. And the first crack they make, let 'em have it."

CHAPTER XX.

The Storm.

Probably an hour elapsed before anybody spoke. The Wreck's soul writhed under the torture of inactivity. Time after time he calculated the chances of a spring at Denver's throat. Even with his hobbed feet he believed that he might achieve his desire, but he could not be absolutely sure.

things over to low tones while Nosey and his companions bused themselves with getting supper.

"They're worried about the sheriff," she said. "That's plain enough. Bob must be right in the neighborhood somewhere. They don't even dare go out to the main road."

"Well, they're not going to steal my car. That's certain."

"What are you going to do about it, if they do get your mind?"

He was not certain, but he had an idea there would be noise and excitement.

"And a few shots," added Sally. "And then we won't worry about flippers or anything else. You keep your head on your shoulders, Henry Williams. I'm not in any great hurry to lose mine."

He growled a complaint about hanging around and doing nothing.

"We'll find a chance yet," she whispered. "They're just as much afraid of us as we are. They don't want us around here, but they're afraid to let go of us. They don't know that we're running away from the sheriff, too, and we'd never be able to make them believe it. We're a pair of white elephants on their hands, but they can't find the answer."

Lefty, who had relinquished guard duty to Denver, brought them some greasy bacon and coffee.

"You'd better fill up," he advised. "You can't tell when you'll be feedin' again."

It did not suffice an explanation of this remark, and Sally and the Wreck had a fresh sense of uneasiness. Then the trio of captors entered upon a long consultation. GROWING OLD TOO FAST?

Many Wayne Folks Feel Older and Slower Than They Should.

Are you weak, tired, all worn-out? Do you feel years older than other folks of your age? Then look to your kidneys! The kidneys are the blood filters and if they weaken, the effect is quickly felt. You have constant backache, headaches, dizziness and urinary troubles. You feel lame, stiff and achy—all played out. Don't wait! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant retretic to the kidneys. Read what this Wayne resident says:

J. P. Gaertner, says: "A cold settled in the small of my back and I started passing kidney stones. My kidneys acted too frequently and my back was sore. After reading the statements of others who had been helped by Doan's Pills, I decided to try them. When I used Doan's a short time, I could see a wonderful change for the better. My kidneys became normal and my back became strong."
