American Legion To Entertain Pioneers
Norfolk, Neb., Aug. 11.—Pioneers of all counties of north Nebraska have been invited by the Norfolk post, American Legion, to participate in the annual Pioneers Day celebration in Norfolk, August 28, 29, and 30.
The site on which the Pioneers first settled after their long journey overland in covered wagons sixty years ago has been selected by the Legion for the big celebration.
This site is located on the outskirts of Norfolk and is an ideal picnic ground, filled with beautiful shade trees and bordered on one side by a cool spring-water creek.
It will be on this site that the gigantic historic pageant is to be presented. This pageant will depict in real life and as nearly exact as possible, the arrival of the ox-drawn wagon with the children and grand children of the first pioneers as the drivers.
In connection with this grand pageant will be staged the Frontier Days Exposition presenting the best riders of the world. Cowboys who have been training 100 head of wild horses over the past few years in Nebraska recently, have already arrived in Norfolk for the grand round-up.
Word from the pioneers in a score of counties has been received by the Legion indicating that early settlers from all parts of north Nebraska and southern South Dakota will attend the great celebration.

(Mrs. John Grant Shick, Pastor.)
Sunday school at 10 a. m., Carl E. Wright, superintendent.
Epworth League at 7 p. m., Paul Crossland, leader.
Public worship at 11 a. m., with sermon by the pastor.
Attendance for the Sunday school and Epworth League has been gratifying so far this month. Let us keep it up.
Special attention is called to the preaching service on the our church next Sunday morning. The pastor is regaining strength rapidly and expects to be in the pulpit. A cordial welcome to all, with special invitation to the members of such churches as may not have service. There will be no Sunday night preaching service during the month of August.
The session of our annual conference will be held in St. Paul's church, Lincoln, beginning September 16, just a little over a month hence.
The moral life is an inclined plane. The vital question is, "Which way am I facing on that plane?" If I am facing downward, my neighbor—though I may be higher on that plane than he—will soon pass above me if I am not facing upward.
"Lincoln Journal": A man was bludgeoned and robbed near Sioux City by some kind motorists who volunteered a lift on the road. This is a reversal of the established order. If this goes on, no pedestrian can afford to be picked up unless he is armed and ready to meet any possible danger.

State Health Contest

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 13.—Forty-two counties of Nebraska will enter their best club boys and girls in a state health contest at the state fair here in September.
County health bureaus, says the extension service of the University of Nebraska, have appointed committees to take charge of the preliminary contests which are to be held in each county to select the representative from that county.

The state dental and medical societies again will take charge of the contests and give both the county and state examinations. These professional men aided the agricultural extension service workers last year to conduct the most successful contests ever held as part of boys' and girls' club work-related service officers.

The examinations, they plan, will include structure and form of the body, growth, weight, height, skin, teeth, nose, ears and eyes. Score cards will be used.

Winners of county contests will enter the final health race Thursday of the fair. The boys' contests will have a chance to represent their state at the boys' and girls' club congress health contest to be held at Chicago in December in connection with the international live stock exposition.

Books on Evolution Received at Library

Three new books on evolution have been received this week at the Wayne library. One is "The Meaning of Evolution" and is written by Huxley, Phillips and biology. The independent studies that is better than anything in the field in recent years as a popular presentation of the facts and theories of evolution.

"Where Evolution and Religion Meet" is by John M. and Merle C. Coulter. One quotation from the book is as follows: "The rational scientific men believe in Christianity is that they find it to be thoroughly scientific."

"The Case Against Evolution" is by Geo. Barry O'Poole. This is a discussion of the subject by a student who is an unusually capable student of history, philosophy and biology. It combines science and philosophy. The book concludes that evolution is a mere hypothesis and not an established fact and that the agnostic attitude is the safest.

Another new volume at the city library is "Contemporary Verse," by the late W. S. Merwin. The book is dedicated to the children of America and contains the best works of many authors.

Hartington Boosters Coming

Plans are about completed for the visit of the Cedar county fair boosters. They are coming to this city in great numbers and the time they will be here will be full of activity from the time they arrive until their departure. Two bands are to make the trip with the boosters and there will be a number of comedy acts besides all the souvenirs for the kiddies. You will find an ad in this paper telling the time of their arrival. Look it up and don't forget to be down town at the time to witness the parade and take a part in the fun. It will be an event that you will not want to miss.

The boosters are putting on three trips this year. The first one will be on Monday, August 17, and the following evening they will be in Cedar Grove, Crawford, Yankton, S. D., Gayville, S. D., Vermillion, S. D., and Wm. The following day, August 18, they will be in Mendota, Ely, John, Baldon, Laurel and Coleridge will be visited. The last trip will take place on August 19 and will include the following towns: Norfolk, Beatrice, Wakefield, Wayne, Concord, and Dixon.

Miss Oman Writes Letters from Italy

Miss Frances Oman who has spent the summer touring Europe and who plans to "arrive" home August 22 writes July 25 from Florence, Italy, and July 28 from Rome, Italy. Her letter from Florence is in part as follows:

"This is a life of hurry; we take from one town to another tearing in sedans, art galleries, shops and all in a single breath. It is wonderful how fast and we are all satisfied in spite of the strain. This reminds me of many times of the ten weeks' chaotic tour we had a couple of years ago. We all seem to manage a cheerful exterior no matter how we feel inside."

"I believe my last letter to you from Ostend. We all liked Belgium. People there still retain some of the good qualities of the Middle Ages. The scene changed and so did the people. It was such a disappointment to Switzerland for so many of us had heard that I am surprised though that the streets are washed and even dirtier. There are a great many people during the day and noisy auto hanks there are scarcely any horns in Europe and repeated whips combine in a wonderful chorus of fat and clamor. We are usually so tired that we sleep uninterrupted."

"Venice of course is unique. The gondolas are pleasant to ride in and rather pleasant to look down the grand canal on the rows of gay old houses. One had a couple of years ago, St. Mark's at Venice. It faces a most famous square bordered by an arcade walk and all sorts of most interesting things. The most lovely of them all, however, were the most of them unmounted. A lira has dropped to the bottom and is only worth a little over 5c. It is the normal of Florence is rich with all sorts of wonderful works of art. It is grand to find that the sculptors, painters and poets are classed on a par with statesmen and other influential men. It is really lovely to see such things as Michelangelo's 'David' and the public square. We were all enthralled about the wonderful 'Madonna of the Chair' and several others of which we are making lists. The paintings by the old masters have been no exception to our appointment to us. Their skill is truly wonderful and the colors are as bright as those of modern art yesterday. Scores of artists are copying these lovely old paintings."

Miss Oman's letter from Rome is as follows:

"We have spent a day and a half here and have a pretty fair idea of Rome. We see many priests and sol-

Called from Herald's Exchanges for Week

Mrs. B. Peterson of Wausa, died Wednesday of last week. The Wausa chautauqua opens next Sunday for a four-day program.

of Bancroft is president of the district which has a membership of about 40,000. There are twenty-eight districts in the synd.

The excellent weather conditions have been of value in the rapid progress made by the J. H. Peterson construction company who are putting in the Electric sewer system. They expect to complete the work in a few days.

The Norfolk District Epworth League Institute is in session this week at Leo's lake near Stanton. Special features will be two classes a day by Chancellor I. B. Schreckengast of Nebraska.

Madison county teachers will meet in Norfolk for their annual institute August 28 and 29. County Superintendent Alice Hall is in charge of the program.

William Clausen and Miss Lenora Worth of Pender, were married August 5 in Pender. They left for California where they will probably make their home.

Fred Schreiber, resident of Winona for thirty-two years and president of the First National bank there, died August 6. He came here from Germany in 1869.

The Farmers Union Co-operative association of Wausa, has voted to sell their lumber yard. Parties from Omaha and Lincoln have been looking at the property.

It is estimated that fully 4,000 people attended the thirty-second annual Old Settlers Picnic at Plover county held at Allen last week. The crowd was a record breaker.

A fire of unknown origin in the Crofton telephone office did considerable damage both to telephone equipment and to stock in the work-room of the Crofton Journal.

Lenin Cornwall, seven-year-old son of Thornton Cornwall of Watlith, fell from his father's mail carrying automobile August 1 and sustained injuries from which he died a few hours later.

Dr. F. O. Robinson bought last Thursday the abstract business in Hartington conducted for several years by his nephew, Elmer F. Robinson. The latter will go to Florida to live.

Mrs. W. R. Peterson of Stanton, received word last week of her reappointment as chairman of Rehabilitation of the American Legion Auxiliary for the state of Nebraska for this second year.

Theodore Nuernberger who until five years ago lived on a farm five miles north of Winona, died August 5 in Fremont. Mr. Tegeler of Wisner, conducted the funeral services Sunday at Fremont.

Farmers, teachers and delegates from the northeast Nebraska district of the Missouri Lutheran synod are meeting in Battle Creek from August 12 to 18. Rev. A. H. Scheel is pastor of the church in which the meetings are held. Rev. W. Harms

Geneva Signal: Arthur Brisbane practices what he preaches in this one respect at least. He is a continuous advertiser. He has made advertising pay. Thousands of others are making it pay.

The British government, to fight depression in British trade will undertake international world advertising on a gigantic scale. This proves again, what everybody knows, that Great Britain has stalemated working for her.

Five billion dollars will be appropriated at first to boom colonial goods. The idea of the British empire, solid and sound as a steel bullet, is that quality, plus advertising can overcome any trade depression.

Albin Weekly News: When Fred Anderson, the Cozad merchant, whose sales the past few years have gained for him national recognition as a phenomenally successful business man, went to New York last year to buy goods he sent back to the people of his trade territory, 10,000 postal card announcements of his purchases.

York Republican: The Nebraska club at Wayne will erect a monument to the achievement of John G. Neihardt as the epic poet of America. The Neihardt club is a national organization, composed of people who appreciate the genius and inspiration of the Nebraska poet.

The Fairbury News: A. C. Townley now admits that he was wrong and that such a government as he established in North Dakota is not practical. The difference between him and the ordinary radical is that he confesses his error.

A. L. Sirby of the Lincoln Journal: It was something out of the usual when the legislature, of Nebraska, in recognition of work accomplished by John G. Neihardt as an epic poet officially declared him poet laureate of Nebraska. He merited the title, and more than that an honorarium in the form of an annuity in tangible testimony of a real benefit conferred on the state of Nebraska. His work merits that sort of a reward since man cannot live and bring up a family on mere "recognition." Now the Neihardt club at Wayne is doing the very appropriate thing in erecting a monument for the perpetual commemoration of the work that in itself is a monument to the genius and in-

Early Days In Two Counties

From the Wayne Herald for Sept. 21, 1905. The Henry Taylor family moved to Wayne city.

Miss John arrived home from a trip to Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Miller returned from a visit to Denver.

Miss Lola Turner went to Omaha to study at Brown hall. Miss Louise Mitchell went to Massachusetts to attend school.

D. C. Leitch changed his residence in Wayne to Mrs. Brittain. Mrs. A. G. Belmont and children went to Wausa, Ill., to visit.

Miss Helen Northrup went to Warner property at Hoskins. Mrs. S. R. Theobald went to Horton, Kan., to visit her mother.

Miss Rose Hetts who visited her sister Mrs. Earl Picewood, returned to Wisconsin. James Elliott, pioneer of Winside, suffered a stroke of apoplexy while in S. Young returned to Elk Creek, Nebr. after visiting his daughter, Mrs. Robert Heffner.

A stack of lumber on the Rick Law farm near Five Corners, was burned when struck by lightning. J. W. Bartlett returned from a visit in Colorado. The and Mrs. Bartlett plan to move to California soon.

Charles Ersleben of Mapleton, Ill., returned home after attending the funeral of his brother, Charles Ersleben. A new Swedish Lutheran church is being erected in Wakefield at a cost of $12,000. The building will be modern in every respect.

Miss Ella Bayer of Wayne and Bert A. Thomas of Pender, were married Sept. 4, 1926. The bridegroom is a resident agent in Pender. Two basketball teams have been organized for young women at the offices and Miss Maggie Carroll and Miss Luella Cronk are presidents.

Mr. and Mrs. George Webb of Stanton, Barbara, Calif., visiting evangelists, came to visit with the latter's brother, Wm. Fleetwood. Miss Madge Abbott, daughter of J. E. Abbott of northeast of Wayne, was married September 20, 1925.

A leak in a gasoline stove caused a fire at the G. W. Crossland residence. Cross and his arms hurried in attempting to carry the stove from the house. The Methodist conference in Albion returned Rev. Thomas Wright to Wayne. Rev. C. S. Hughes of Wakefield, goes to Carroll and Rev. Amos Feizer goes to Wakefield.

Wayne's big stock show is in progress and attendance the first day, Sept. 20, reached about 2000. Reed's band of Sioux City, furnished music. Many farmers are exhibiting cattle, hogs and poultry. Officers elected at the local Sunday school convention are: F. H. Jones, president; Rev. C. J. Binger, vice president; E. P. Wilson, secretary; R. O. Merrill, treasurer; Rev. Thomas Osburn and Rev. E. E. Duley, department presidents.

E. R. Gurney of Fremont is urging some inventor to devise a steam plow that will work like a threshing machine and will enable farmers to do their plowing in much less time. He thinks such a machine could go from one farm to another so that one plow could do the work for many farmers.

From Wauca Journal, October 3, 1884: Guy R. Wilbur of Cedar county, was nominated by the democratic convention last week, as candidate for district attorney of this district. Mr. Wilbur used to live in this county and has many warm friends here.

A large number of citizens and their wives are talking of going to New Orleans attending the World's Fair. It will be a delightful trip and will not be expensive, the railroad fare being but $17 for the round trip. Persons will more at New Orleans in two weeks, than he would in all the rest of his lifetime. All who can ought to go. It will be time and money profitably spent. Those for Limonwood, these papers start out Saturday morning for their several destinations. Those for Limonwood should get there Saturday evening. We know that we send them, but after they are consigned to the tender mercies of the postoffice department, we cannot tell what becomes of them. One thing is certain, there is careless ness somewhere, otherwise the papers would get through all right. There is, of course, no intentional neglect or carelessness, but there is unintentional carelessness, and it is very annoying to subscribers and annoying to publishers.

"You must wear knickerbockers," every one said, so thus attracted, the writer started with Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Pollard and two sons for Yellowstone national park. Salt Lake City and Denver, writes of the experiences as follows:

where the road passes the Jackson lake in which the Teton mountains are reflected as if in a mirror. Here we saw Tom Mix and some other actors sitting on the porch of a log cabin. Newell Pollard went up and shook hands with him and Bernard Pollard asked him if he might take his picture. Mix answered, "sure," so we have his picture in our Yellowstone park collection. Behind the cabin was a large display of peeled potatoes so the artists evidently like these as well as, or better than, the average person. Tom Mix' pony was in the village nearby but we did not get to see him. The company was making the picture, "The Conquest of Dore" and this country was a fitting place for cowboy scenes.

From here we went to Salt Lake City and there found a tourist camp surrounded by a high board wall so we felt safe until morning when we discovered that ten gallons of gasoline had been siphoned out of the car tank. We heard the wonderful organ in the tabernacle at Salt Lake and while we stood in the back of the room we heard a pit fall into a stiff crowned hat. It sounded as loud as would a small nail. We went in bathing in Salt Lake in which they say there is one pair of shoes and several pairs of water. A few at first try diving but once is enough as the salt hurts the eyes, nose and throat. Even in swimming it is difficult to keep the salt from getting into the eyes, so most are content to float. One cannot sink. The floor of the lake is covered with sand and loess of salt and one is covered with a film of salt when he gets out of the water. In the desert country we were compelled to stop one night because of a heavy rain.

Leaving Salt Lake, we went over another canyon and when we looked down to the canyon and saw a wrecked car there it makes him think. There are no more accidents on canyon roads than on any others but it is more difficult to get the car back to the road. After a sightseeing trip about Denver we started for Wayne, tired but feeling that we had had a trip through the west.

Mrs. Harker Writes of Swimming Pool

Mrs. O. A. Harker of Puyere, Tenn., formerly Miss Maude Bressler of Wayne, writes the Herald in regard to a swimming pool in Aberdeen, Miss., constructed at a cost of $10,000. Mrs. Harker sends a beautiful picture of the pool which is a concrete, oval-shaped basin around which are electricians and a cement walk. A hand stand and porticos are on either side and diving boards are at one end. The Aberdeen band plays one evening each week at the pool and the churches of the town, which has a population of about 3000, hold their services Sunday evenings at the pool.

Mrs. Harker writes as follows: "When I saw the enclosed picture of a swimming pool I immediately thought of the articles I had seen in the Herald from time to time discussing the feasibility of a pool for Wayne. Surely, if a town in the south can build such an attractive pool as the picture shows, Wayne, the most progressive and up-to-date town in northeast Nebraska, could do much."

"I cannot think now where such a pool could be located in Wayne but there are some public-spirited citizen who would gladly help make it a reality by giving to the city suitable ground on which to build a pool. Properly directed such a pool would be a source of joy and fun to youngsters and grown-ups."

"I am still interested in Wayne and her future and I read the Herald thoroughly every Sunday noon when it comes."

Science and Religion. The Hartford Herald: We presume that Herald readers found the recent discussion of evolution and the Scopes case quite as interesting as did the editors. The various opinions presented by the various contributors offered some strangely contrasting points of view and the effect of it all is to lead us to a more intense and stimulate thought. If we had time, we would like to take up these different views which have been contributed, analyze them and draw some general conclusions from the entire discussion, but this is manifestly impossible in the limited space of a newspaper. About all that it is possible to do is to do what we have done—present these various opinions and let the reader draw his own conclusions.

There is, however, one thing which we would like to emphasize and that is that there can be no possible contradiction in truth. This thought was stressed by some of our contributors and it seems to us of fundamental importance. There can be no real contradiction in truth, although there may appear to be. The facts of religion, for example, must obviously coincide with the facts of science in the final analysis. Hence, there may seem contradictions and discrepancies. Is there any contradiction between Christianity and science? It all depends on what you mean by Christianity. If by Christianity you mean the Augustinian theology, which is a man-made system, there might be; but, if by Christianity you mean the Christianity of Christ, how can there be? So we do not see why anyone should become alarmed at the researches of science, confident that in the ultimate analysis all segments of truth will prove to be the coordinate and harmonious parts of a whole.

Weather Worries.
Jay E. House: Next winter, according to one of the prognosticators, is to be as severe as that of 1897 or the one of 1740. We trust there is some error here—We had hoped never again to go through such a winter as that of 1853. That was a desperately cold and disagreeable year. The winter of 1740 wasn't so bad—no worse, as we recall it, than that of 1819.

Sir Dudley Glenster, suspected of murder when a crow drops a fleshless finger in the midst of a picnic party, attempts to allay suspicion by asking Kathleen Glenster, sister of the dead man, to marry him, believing that if she were his wife she would let up on her attempt to fasten him with the guilt. Kathleen refuses, and Sir Dudley goes into a rage, threatening her, but Norman Slater, Kathleen's lover, appears and a fight ensues.

Now Go on With the Story.

"Excuse me," said the new-comer. "I am Detective Inspector Wragge of Scotland Yard, called to make a few inquiries. The maid who let me in was scared of a fight she said was going on and she told me I'd better run. What's the row about?"

Sir Dudley made a grab at his dignity.

"My cousin, Miss Glenster, has been accusing me of murdering her brother, and this gentleman took her part," he replied.

"Come, come!" said the inspector solemnly. "You are all traveling much too fast and I ain't going to be dragged after you. All I want is for Miss Glenster to verify one or two things which have been forwarded to the Yard by the local police."

"Which means, I presume, that the case has not been dropped?" said Sir Dudley, adjusting his rumpled necktie.

quence. How long before your father's death did your brother leave home for America?"

"Roughly speaking, put it at a year," Kathleen replied.

"Did Trickey furnish you with the date of the journey he undertook on Sir Dudley's behalf?"

"It was about a month after my father's death."

"Humph! It would be natural for the next heir to be curious as to your brother's whereabouts," said Wragge. "What interval passed between Trickey's mission to the United States and the appearance of the paragraph which put the solicitors on the track?"

"So far as I can remember about eight months," Kathleen replied after reflection.

"Now, Miss Glenster, we come to a most important factor. Did Trickey tell you what occurred when he discovered Mr. or to be exact, Sir George Glenster. Did he inform him of his father's death and reveal himself as your cousin's emissary?"

"According to his own account he did not," Kathleen replied. "He says that he held no communication with George, but called a report of his presence to his attention in London. In forty-eight hours he had a cable answer ordering him to return to England forthwith without speaking to my brother. He obeyed the order."

"And that is the sum total of Mr. Trickey's disclosures?"

English novel. Moreover, his trained memory placed the name of Maud Blair—not as a cinema actress of the first flight, but as a useful hack on second-rate films.

"Madam," he stammered the ready excuse, "how was I to know that a celebrity of your fame was connected with Mr. Simon Trickey, matrimonially or otherwise? Simon Trickey is indeed a lucky dog. Of course I recognized you at once, but it took my breath away. It is like finding a star of the first magnitude harnessed to a plow."

For once words failed Mr. Wragge, but Miss Maud Blair promptly supplied them. He tickled her vanity.

"To a whiskey bottle," she laughed merrily. "Now, mister, it isn't any use asking you to wait for Simon, because he'll probably roll up as full as a tick about one tomorrow morning. But if you'll take a glass of port and let your name be remembered."

Pen Pointers

It's all right when business is picking up—except when that pertains to the cracker barrel or the prune box.

Folks who are asleep on the job figure it's a great life if you don't wake it.

It's a lucky gardener who has buds in the front yard and 'spuds in the back.

We'll all shout that we love nature until it's time to mow the lawn.

The school kid figures that his daily dozen exercises are all errands.

The Jap language has no cuss words. Wonder if any of the Japs play golf.

True, there isn't so much to see in a small town, but what you hear more than makes up for it.

High Taxes Cut Two Ways.

Kansas City Star: The new purpose of taxation on the part of the state, it is pointed out, produces, drawn with equity from taxable sources. Now if the high rates do not produce corresponding revenue, or even bring less revenue than lower rates, what is gained? Nothing. But it is not merely a negative result that comes from making futile revenue rates. There is incalculable loss to the nation. When business, in order to escape unjust levies, curtails its operating capital and puts much of it into low rate, tax free securities, the whole industrial, commercial and productive activity of the country is slowed down. Thousands of jobs are lost and the business are penalized by rates equivalent to confiscation. This also has a hurtful effect on employment and the pay of workers. Many are injured. No one is benefited.

Bury the Hatchet.

Trenton, Neb., Aug. 8.—After a lapse of 52 years all is peaceful between two of the middlewest's most powerful tribes—the Pawnees and the Sioux.

Meeting at Massacre canyon, three miles from here, the two tribes, survivors of the famous Pawnee-Sioux massacre of 1873 in which the warlike Sioux killed 156 of the Pawnees, met each other, cast all bitter distrust aside, and smoked the "pipe of peace" and participated in a general three days' powwow.

The Pawnees came from their reservation at Pawnee, Okla., while the Sioux came from Pine Ridge reservation, South Dakota. The Sioux have commemorated the event every two years for many years, but this is the first time the Pawnees have been willing to meet and smoke.

Sioux City Journal: The 1 per cent gain in the gross operating revenue of the railroads for the first six months of the year does not indicate that the lines are really following in prosperity.

No Thrills on Train.

Minneapolis Journal: Because the train has its track laid out and the motor car hasn't it is said by "authorities" to be 10 times safer to travel on the train. Perhaps that is why so many are turning to the motor cars.

Newcastle Paper Sold.

Newcastle, Neb., Aug. 7.—The Newcastle Times, formerly owned and edited by H. O. Salmons, has been purchased and now is being edited by W. E. Yerton, who has had considerable experience in the newspaper business.

Notice of Hearing on Probate of Will.

The State of Nebraska, Wayne County, ss.

At a county court, held at the County Court Room, in and for said County of Wayne, on the 29th day of July, 1925.

Present, J. M. Cherry, County Judge.

In the matter of the estate of Mary Louise Williams, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Curtis Wood, praying that the instrument filed on the 29th day of July, 1925, and purporting to be the last Will and Testament of said deceased, may be proved, approved, probated, allowed and recorded as the last Will and Testament of said Mary Louise Williams, deceased, and that the execution of said instrument may be committed and that the administration of said estate may be granted to John Harrington, John H. Kemp and Gettis Wood, as executors.

Ordered, that August 14th, A. D. 1925, at 10 o'clock a.m., is assigned for hearing said petition, when all persons interested in said matter may appear at a County Court to be held in and for said county, and show cause why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted; and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Wayne Herald, a weekly newspaper printed in said county, three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.

Ever noticed the cars you meet in out-of-the-way places, approached by narrow, twisting trails, or rough country roads? They are Fords—nearly every one.

To the Ford car no going is too hard. Every road is open to it—by-way roads and highways alike. It is so light it rarely ever "mires in," so powerful that it can pull through where heavy cars must balk.

Take your Ford this summer and explore. There are delights awaiting you away from the beaten path that few know. Leave the crowds and the highways behind you. It costs but little—and it will be a vacation you will never forget.
