Returns From Florida.

Lincoln Journal: W. F. Sweeney has returned after spending four weeks on a motor trip through southern states and into Florida with C. W. Bryan. Tourists are going south by the hundreds. Mr. Sweeney reports hotels that usually closed in the summer have been kept open the past season on account of the crowds of tourists who have visited Miami and other cities in Florida. Accommodations seemed to be ample to handle the crowds everywhere.

The south is prosperous and showing considerable business activity, especially in the building industry," said Mr. Sweeney, "but it is a place to go unless you have sufficient finances to take you through the dry part of the winter, at least."

Much construction is under way in Miami and all the cities along the east coast and work has been plentiful but building operations have slowed down recently due to the embargo. So much freight has been shipped in that it could not be handled and civic clubs have taken over the work of unloading cars in order to expedite freight movement. The cotton crop was good and with good prices maintained, the south is showing the best activity it has experienced for some time. Mr. Sweeney found the climate delightful. The temperature ranged in the neighborhood of 80 degrees.

On the way to Florida, Mr. Bryan and Mr. Sweeney stopped for brief visit in several southern cities. At Gulf Port, La., they inspected the two million dollar sea wall which is being constructed by Woods Bros. for the state of Louisiana. The sea wall is now rapidly nearing completion. At Tallahassee, they visited Governor Martin of Florida and from there drove down to the east coast to Miami. Mr. Bryan was kept busy greeting people in the city where stops were made in the south. As soon as he arrived in town he was looked up by the mayor and newspaper men were at hand for interviews. When asked about his political plans he would only say that he had come to Florida for a rest after his chautauque engagements. He expects to spend the winter at Miami and at the present time is engaged in helping Mrs. W. J. Bryan compile the Bryan Memoirs which are being published. Mrs. C. W. Bryan will go to Florida a little later to join Mr. Bryan.

When the new high school building was completed last year, a fireproof motion picture booth was built into it, but until now it has not been used.

Boy's Injured Ear Closed.

Ponca, Neb., Oct. 31.—Glen Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis, who underwent an operation on his ear after it had been nearly torn off when he fell from the hay loft and was stepped on by a horse, had to have another operation when it was discovered upon removing the bandage that nature had performed the unusual feat of closing the ear entirely, the ear opening having grown over.

The Income Tax.

Omaha Item.—The real intent and purpose of the income tax is to compel all citizens to share in the expense of government in proportion to the benefits they receive from the protection of the government. Human nature has been pretty much the same for centuries, and the truth uttered two thousand years ago, "Where a man's treasure is, there is his heart also," is true today. When Secretary Mellon declared that "it is a sound policy to have every citizen with a stake in his country," he gave voice to a declaration that can not be successfully disputed. It may be good politics to exempt a few million voters from the income tax, and make up the deficit by soaking it to the few, but it is not good business and it is not a proper way to interest all citizens in good government.

It may be true, as insisted by many, that it costs more to collect the income tax of small payers than the total amounts to, but that is not the point of the question. The meat of the question is to impress upon the mind of every citizen that he or she is a component part of the government, charged with certain duties and responsibilities, among them being to pay proportionately for the maintenance of the government that protects them in their rights and in their citizenship. The Milwaukee Journal puts it very plainly when it says that "the ideal condition would be for everybody, no matter how small his contribution, to feel directly that government is costing him something."

Troop Two Meets.
Boy scouts of troop two met last Thursday evening in the Methodist church parlors. Alonzo Squire was in charge. Plans for a "Mothers and Dads'" night were made for Friday, Nov. 13. Joe Lutgen passed tests for a first class scout. Fred Davis received a bronze medal for merit points. The scouts practiced left-handed boxing after the business session. There will be no meeting of the scouts this Thursday, but the group will meet Nov. 12.

Methodist Aid Meets.
Women of the Methodist Aid society held an all-day meeting last Thursday in the church parlors. The time was spent in trying costumes and making quilts. About twenty-two were present for the covered-dish luncheon served at noon with Mrs. L. A. Fankler, Mrs. J. E. Ellis and Mrs. L. C. Trumbauer in charge. The women sewed in the afternoon also and about forty were present. The society will have no other meeting until after the annual supper and bazaar which will be held Thursday, Dec. 10.

Entertain Winner Guests.
Miss Rita Babcock and Miss Olive Huse who teach in Wayne were hostesses Saturday morning at the E. W. Huse home in Winnet to the other winner teachers and members of the school board at dinner. Hallowe'en favors were used in the table decorations for the dinner served at 6:30. Games were the evening diversion. Those present were: Miss Mary Gross, Miss Julia Gross, Miss Nellie Carr, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Emely, Mr. Schmidt, Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Griffith, Miss Ross Armstrong, Mrs. Aldice, Miss Hazel Anderson, Miss Heiner, Miss Cecil McCarter and Miss Minnie Kyes.

Last Party in Series.
The last of a series of six bridge parties held for members of the Wayne Country club, was attended by the club members last Thursday. Because of the cold weather the party was held in the Community house. Mrs. Chas. Smith received the prize for having the highest score for the six parties and James Miller received the men's prize for the highest record. The committee serving last Thursday included: Mrs. Clara Ella, Mrs. Charles Schultheis, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Strahan, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Corbin, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Miron, Mr. and Mrs. William Mellor, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Dale, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hufford and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Horsey. It is planned that the Community club will hold a bridge party each month during the winter and each time some different feature will be arranged. The charge for each evening will be raised 35c to cover the rent of the hall. High scores for the winter will not be kept as in the series just completed. The next two parties will be Nov. 12 and Dec. 10.

Girl Scouts Have Program.
The girl scouts held an informal meeting last Thursday at the State Normal canteen and each patrol presented some feature or game for the Hallowe'en program. The week of Nov. 7 to 14 has been designated as national girl scout week. The local group, in conformance with the national plan, will plant a tree next Saturday with a public ceremony. The tree will probably be placed in the small park near the depot. Wednesday of next week each girl scout will prepare the evening meal at her home and the following Saturday, Nov. 14, a silver tea will be held at the home of one of the seniors, Miss Winifred Main. The public is urged to come to the tea and to the tree planting ceremony to see what the scouts are doing.

At to Hiring Nurse.
Columbus, Neb., Nov. 2.—Roll call of the Platte county chapter of the Red Cross will be held between November 11 and Thanksgiving day. Officers say that the financial response would determine the fate of the Red Cross health program in the schools of the county. Since the war, the Platte county chapter has employed a full-time school nurse for rural and village schools. Funds collected for the Red Cross in the closing days of the war have been used to finance the work, supplemented by gradually dwindling membership receipts. Chapter officers say the fund is so low, that it will be impossible to employ the nurse after the present school year unless the annual membership campaign brings in considerable more money than have campaigns in recent years.

Mother and Daughter Inmate.
Wynot, Neb., Oct. 31.—Ella Barron of this place who was brought before the county insanity board, upon the decision of the board was taken to the state hospital at Norfolk by Sheriff and Mrs. Peter Clarence. ### Horse Has His Day In "Pony Express"

The days when the horse reigned supreme came back for a month during the filming of James Cruze's "The Pony Express" on location near Cheyenne, Wyoming.

No automobiles were allowed on the main street of the town of Julesburg, Colorado—built as it existed in 1860.

Horses huddled contentedly at hitching posts. Pony Riders dashed in at top speed around the corner without fear of being honked at or colliding with a careless driver. Teams were hitched here and there, wagon trains made their way through the main street unmolested by the roar of a motor, the clashing of gears, or the shriek of a siren.

For a month the city was the most active in the country. There wasn't a "No Parking" sign, or a "Loading Zone" on the whole street. There were no traffic officers and tags were unknown.

Not only the horses seemed to enjoy it, but most of the actors in the picture, including the featured player, Betty Compson, Ricardo Cortez, Ernest Torrence and Wallace Beery, liked the rest from the dynamic rush of life in 1860.

"The Pony Express," which shows at the Crystal Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, was narrated by Henry James Forman and Walter Woods. Other prominent names in the strong supporting cast are George Bancroft, Frank Lackett, John Fox, Jr., William Turner, Al Hart, Charles Gerson, Rose Tapley and Vendell Davis.

Home Responsibility.
Fairbury News in talking to the Y. M. C. A. President Coolidge struck the key note when he said: "What the youth needs is not more public control through governmental action, more home control through parental action." People as a whole are "farming their children out" too much and depending upon other agencies to develop their good citizenship, and the result is an appalling number of youthful criminals—more at this time than the country has ever known. The state, the church, the Y. M. C. A. and kind of organizations are good aids in developing character, but they are powerless without the cooperation of home influences, and posterity will not be what it should be until parents realize this.

Pen Pointers

At least we're glad that there isn't any frost on the pumpkin pie.

People may learn something every day but too many of them forget it the next day.

The best way to get ahead in your day's work is to get behind it.

The Mouse Trap Story.

Why Red Crown is QUICK STARTING

Just as the Standard Oil Company of Nebraska was the pioneer in furnishing petroleum products of standard quality to the people of this State, so its Red Crown Gasoline has always held its lead among motor fuels.

Don't blame your motor if it limps and balks when you feed it a strange brand of gasoline.

Run on Red Crown always, and you'll always have a quick-starting, powerful motor. Red Crown is balanced just so as to insure it: Red Crown has a large proportion of low boiling point fractions that are very volatile: these highly volatile parts combine readily with even cold air and give a mixture that ignites instantly and starts your motor turning over; instantly again the heat of the motor vaporizes the higher boiling point fractions which develop maximum expansion and power.

Prove this for yourself by standardizing on Red Crown. Always, when you need gasoline, turn in at a Red Crown sign. You will receive prompt, obliging attention and full measure of gasoline that is balanced for quick starts, power and economy.

Begin Here Today.
 Sir Dudley Glenister, accused Janitor of the murder of Miss Maud Blair, arranges with a moving picture company to burn an old mill on his estate, in which he is holding Norman Slater, an enemy of his, as a prisoner. Just prior to setting fire to the building, with the intention of using a horse-ship on the mill, he is arrested by the police. Slater's sweetheart, Kathleen Glenister, also a prisoner in the mill, breaks the Duke's plans and rescues the prisoners.

How Go On With the Story.
 "No my hat on," said Kathleen briskly.
 The before she had an accident, she went to the door and Norman uttered a cry of dismay.
 For a waft of acrid smoke had drifted into the room from below, where reached them the crackle of flames.
 "It's done us," said Mr. "My fault in being so excited. I ought to have put him right and not been so badly kind."
 Kathleen said she will be given proof that he murdered George. I told Hinkley he had threatened to do it. He must be kept for that murder he will be for."
 A fierce exaltation shone in the girl's face. The two women looked at each other. "Sir Dudley has been extremely, while a furnace raged in the one exit from the mill and death was very near, he could have driven so hard to win and yet hoped might fail."
 "Do you feel like that, Miss?" said Alf, with a note of restrained admiration blended with pity. "I'll make what's coming to you come."

Then he ran out on to the landing and peered above the railing, looking down the stairs. A pungent fumes nearly choked him.
 "The only chance," he coughed, and ran back into the room.
 CHAPTER XXVI
 The Heroism of Mr. Colne.
 We parted from Inspector Wragge and Mr. Stephen Colne as they started from Colburn Tower to vent through the woods to the clearing, where the statesman had promised the detective evidence. Sir Dudley Blair and it has been shown that these two men, each eminent in his own calling, reached their destination at the critical moment. Sir Dudley Blair Wommersley's electric apparatus had been turned on.
 The pedestrians halted at the unexpected sight. Wragge casting a sidelong glance at his companion as if to make sure that it was as great a surprise to Mr. Colne as it was to himself.
 "A queer go," said the inspector thoughtfully. "Is this what you have to show for your work?"
 "No-o-o," was the long-drawn reply. "What artists making a film," said Wragge, and for once his tone lacked the deference he habitually used toward the cabinet minister. And he added in a staid but respectful manner of respect, "Looks a bit rocky, sir, for this wonderful evidence of yours that's going to dish the Berchamont. This man, who has been started without his sanction, and murderers don't squirt electricity on their gullets, but they had we better do?" said Mr. Colne feebly.
 "Why, join the crowd and probe the mystery," said Wragge.
 So it was that they advanced into the beam projected by the Amphibian Syndicate's apparatus, incidentally frightening "Miss Maud Blair" that in her sudden start she came over the mill-vent on which she was poised and fell into the water against the masonry of the dam. Unconscious of the part they had played in causing the catastrophe, they went on to the next scene. Wommersley's curious antics.
 It was only when the tall man stepped out on to the dam that the inspector grasped that it was an accident, and when John Grimes brought his daughter to the bank and laid her down Wragge recognized the injured estate as Mrs. Simon Trickey of Lipscomb Road, Brixton. At the instant of his own near miss, he was conscious that Mr. Colne convulsively gripped his arm. Wragge was about to protest, the thrill of excitement that was nearly destroying his composure.
 "You know the woman, sir?" he asked, tuning his voice to its incantatory tone.
 "I know her," queried Mr. Colne as if in defense of his dignity. He said a little to each other, in a state of amusement rather than resentment. "I'm afraid that I have neglected my opportunities, Wragge, for cultivating a cinema professional, as I ever had any."

The inspector's hand stole gently under his companion's arm, as though a painfully whispered sentence or two.
 "Thank you, madam," said the detective, rising. "You have greatly aided the cause of justice."

Travelers On Foot Stop Here Thursday

Mr. and Mrs. Baxter who are traveling 50,000 miles on foot, stopped in Wayne County on their way from here to Norfolk. A story of their journey was told in the Norfolk News for Oct. 20, as follows:
 "Traveling a distance equal to twice around the world in their seven years isn't a 'wise crack' for them. They are a happy and enjoy perfect health and never hear of such an individual as a landlady, start on a 50,000 mile jaunt over the United States, Canada and Mexico.
 "This is the belief of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Baxter of Minneapolis, Minn., who have been on the road for a week on the final laps of their 'Seeing America First' overland trip. When the pedestrian road burners started on their journey they had completed the 43,541st mile of the 50,000 trip which must be completed by 1928 in order that the pair win a $10,000 prize."
 Served in France.
 "After Mr. Baxter had seen more than twenty-eight months of active service with the A. E. F. in France, he discovered himself in a government hospital. Herms shattered, arms paralyzed and 161 pounds of flesh reduced to 147."
 "Physicians were unable to reconstruct his system with medicine and surgery, and he was told to live out his life in a sanatorium. A friend of Mr. Baxter's father proposed that they start on a hike with a minimum of supplies. When they were able to junk 50,000 miles, make their expense and return with the original 'copper' intact at the end of seven years, they would receive $10,000. 'It's a good' said Mrs. Baxter, 'and we're off.'"

"They started from Washington, D. C., on Dec. 14, 1924. At the time Mr. Baxter was unable to dress himself. Today he wears a coat and 152 mark. Mrs. Baxter weighed 133 pounds when the prodigious hiking trip was launched, and today she tips the scale in the vicinity of 105.
 "When they had hiked 41,826 miles they had traveled in every state in the union, all provinces of Canada and as far west as Mexico City.
 "How do you manage the financial end of the jaunt?" they were asked.
 "Leave the money in the theater, advertising shoes, selling post cards or music," was the cheerful answer.
 Mrs. Baxter has worn out only four pairs of shoes since 1924.
 "Countless experiences from Mexican bandits to Arizona sand storms, Texas cloudbursts and Colorado snows, are reported in their memories."
 "In Mexico they were jailed for carrying a load of keds. They kept us in jail for two days in a cell that didn't have a piece of furniture in it. We slept on the floor and there were 400 other prisoners as big as bears in Yellowstone park. They finally let us out. Just forty miles from there we were held by our bandits, and they robbed us of all our equipment, and took every stick of clothing that I owned." Mr. Baxter said.
 "Fortunately we had a pair of goggles, and I walked 175 miles in that garment. Hooped it on bare feet, too, and I couldn't get a pair of shoes on my feet for two weeks after that."
 Have Many Autographs.
 "The Baxters have kept an autograph book in each vehicle, which names as Warren G. Harding, Woodrow Wilson, William J. Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd George and daughter, Charles Cavell, Thomas Meighan, Viola Dana, Harold Lloyd, John McCormack, James J. Corbett, Jack Dempsey, "Gypsy" Smith, Billy Sunday and Charles Steinmetz."
 "In each town of importance the Baxters secure a post office letter or package stamped. This does not show there is no fake in their trip."
 "Upon leaving Norfolk they will go to Grand Island, on south and into Kansas."
 These Wild Youngsters.
 Lincoln Journal. Each one of the 3,000 school children at the Tuesday afternoon symphony concert had a printed program. Three thousand programs were made, and the children's hands are apt to make a sound like a roaring wind through dead leaves. There was some rattling of paper on Tuesday afternoon, but never enough to interfere with adult enjoyment of the music.
 An American adult concert audience of 3,000 people. It is enough almost always to bring down the house for musical and not social purposes. Lucky is this unfortunate, in truth, if his neighbor only whispored. The conversation is too often a husky lot to voice.
 These ungenerous youngsters from the schools all seem to be of the kind that their whistles and horns. But they were so few the adult listener had no difficulty to absorb the music.

The program made no sacrifice to childish tastes. Yet on the whole, it was a devotedly executed affair. The applause was timely, spontaneous and intelligent. The orchestra played a role which the direction was committed to. The present history of the hearing aid the adult is ever provided to enjoy a name for it. The "High Fidelity" of the present history of the hearing aid the adult is ever provided to enjoy a name for it. The "High Fidelity" of the present history of the hearing aid the adult is ever provided to enjoy a name for it.

Begin Here Today. Sir Dudley Grimsler, accused of the murder of his cousin, James Glenister, arranges with a moving picture company to burn an old mill on his estate, in which he is holding Norman Slater, an enemy of the prince.

How Go On With the Story. "Now my last one," said Kathleen briefly. "But before she had accomplished the feat of getting a horse-ship on the capive, but Alf, a friend of Slater and Slater's sweetheart, Kathleen Glenister, also a prisoner in the mill, breaks Slater's plans and releases the prisoners."

"His done us," said Alf. "My fault for being so stupid as to have put him right out and not been so bally hard."

"Anghw," remarked Kathleen, "I told Hinkley that that murderer he had threatened to do, if he had hanged for that murder he will be a fierce exaltation scene in the girl's face. The two men looked at her with awe."

"The only chances," he coughed, and ran back into the room. CHAPTER XXV. The Princess and the Prince.

Travelers On Foot Stop Here Thursday

Mr. and Mrs. Baxter who are traveling 50,000 miles on foot, stopped in Wayne last Thursday and went from here to Norfolk.

"Travelling a distance equal to twice around the world on your feet in seven years isn't a 'wise crack.'"

"After Mr. Baxter had seen more than twenty-eight months of active service with the A. E. F. in France, he discovered himself in a government hospital."

"Physicians were unable to reconstruct his system with food and advised him to live out-of-doors."

"Mr. Baxter was unable to dress himself. Today he sends the beam to the 42nd mark."

"Mrs. Baxter has worn out only four pairs of boots since 1921."

"In Mexico they were jailed for carrying a pistol and a kodak. They kept us in jail for two days at the 42nd mark."

"Fortunately I found a pair of ragged overalls, and I walked 175 miles to that garment."

"These Wild Youngsters. Lincoln Journal: Each one of the 3,000 school children at the Tuesday afternoon-symphony concert had a printed program."
