Every Hog Should Have Fresh Water

Where he can take a drink any time he wants to. Here is a fountain designed to provide fresh clean drinking water for your hogs every day in the year—WINTER or SUMMER.

The Hot Nipple Is a Heated Fountain

Not only is the water in fountain kept from freezing but supply tank connection passes through a flue the entire length and with a current of hot air passing over it, is kept above freezing in coldest weather.

Requires Little Attention

The entire heating system embodies the same engineering principles used in heating a building. Hot air, supplied by a lamp in the lower chamber. The hot air, in rising, passes around the water bowl, out through the supply tank connection and back, finally escaping up through an opening on top of the fountain. It requires only the same attention one would give an ordinary lamp.

Some Special Features

Water is filtered through a fine strainer before entering pipe connections, thus insuring free action of the valve at all times—and clean water in the fountain.

The valve is constructed with lever acting ball type, adjustable to various pressures, and has stood the test for ten years. Valve ball is made of monel metal, the best known material for this purpose.

Fountain is made of copper and is amply protected with removable cover.

Water bowl is high grade cast iron and removable for cleaning.

Main casing is heavy galvanized steel iron.

On the average farm the "Hot Nipple" will more than pay for itself the first season and with ordinary use and care SHOULD LAST A LIFE-TIME.

Emphasis is Placed On System As Means Of Avoiding Delay, Confusion and Loss

High School Debating Begins With Promise of Developing Strong Team—Over New News.

System. "Order is heaven's first law." We should make it our first law also. What could be accomplished without system without order? Very little as compared with the results of labor which has been systematized. System is time, money and worry. A definite order of procedure, a process of working enable us to go ahead and provide for future emergencies which would otherwise be hidden behind a barrier of odds and ends. It is such confusion when we suddenly come upon an emergency we have to hurry and worry to straighten things out. When there is no system we seem to be busy always and to wish to get things done. How do the leaders of the nation do so much? They economize their time by system. They make every at Laurel, Friday, Nov. 13. Laurel has a good team which is shown when they held Randolph to a 6-0 score early in the season. Randolph has also beaten Wayne, so a good game is anticipated. Home Wills, Helma Marie Curie-Theobald, Smith, Robert Koch, Paul Ehrlich and Dr. Nelson Lowry of Chicago, Ill., who has become famous by his experiments with the radio knife and the nerve blocking system, were spoken about in a very interesting manner. The reports on Dr. Lowry was very interesting as the person who gave this report knew him personally. This was the first time that the reports were given as one of the most interesting.

The history class voted a true and false test Wednesday. The arithmetic classes had intelligence tests Friday and Monday. Judging by the way Miss Vlasnik talked to them Monday some of them weren't so intelligent.

Board Transacts Business Tuesday

The Wayne city library board met Tuesday evening in regular session. Mrs. E. S. Blair gave a report of the regional library convention.

The board also heard a report of the board of the Y. W. C. A. and presented the plan of "reading with a purpose," advised by the A. L. A.

In this the association sends to the libraries a list of books to be read if one wishes to pursue various courses of study. The Wayne library has the courses on biology, sociology and social studies, English literature, great American books and collections of American public opinion.

Readers are asked to look at these if interested.

The board also voted to allow the girl scouts to plant a tree on the lawn this Thursday. A hard maple tree will be planted.

As this is children's book week Mrs. Blair has secured for this week a book called "The Book Shelf for Boys and Girls." This classified the best in literature for the various ages of children and also groups books into animal stories, adventure, nature study, etc. It is an important guide for mothers and teachers who are urged to see it.

The circulation of the library for the past six months, from May 1 to Nov. 1, shows that 4,669 books have been loaned to adults and 3,257 to children. Of the magazines 156 have gone to adults and 152 to children. There have been 126 new readers in this period.

Two new books of special interest to women are "The Encyclopedia of Needlework" and "The Book on Old Lace." The former instructs in ways of making all fancywork stitches and the latter is a delightful history of lace.

To the last year's list of magazines received in the city library have been added the following: "Readers Digest," "The Y. W. C. A. Digest," "Hygiene" and "Photo Era."

Story hour for children will be conducted now Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Now Get on With the Story. "A fat lot I care about that," rejoined Miss Blair...

With which she fainted. John Grimes had been chafing her hands but he dropped them and stood upright...

"Fire at the mill house!" he murmured daily. "Do you know what she means?" He tried to fathom it with his wits...

"May God forgive me!" groaned the keeper with sincerity. "I thought I was serving not a fiend...

The colored cooper-sharp of the Glensier tradition started to run across the clearing, with Wommersley's tompe at his heels giving tongue...

For a few seconds Mr. Colne did not see to the matter as he intended on watching the progress of John Grimes...

"What of yourself, Wragge?" he said quietly. "Have you counted the cost of the action you are intending to take?"

"I see," muttered the cabinet minister. "You ranted my pull over you. You obtained greater care over me. What a homily I should be able to deliver to Parliament on the moral restraints of the police force."

"Not on your life, sir. I have too many ignominious years of being held and hounded by you to wipe out," responded Wragge.

When he had finished his speech, he turned to the man who had been talking to him and said: "I have to go now, but I will be back in a few days."

John Grimes had been chafing her hands but he dropped them and stood upright. His features were convulsed with horror.

"The mill was ablaze, and in the weird blend of smoke and fire round the door human figures were moving wildly, as in some fantastic dance."

"We're up against it," he announced grimly. "The barn has set the blowing show afire. Got any more mules?"

"Can you stand it, Katy?" asked Norman. "Rather!" the reply came gurgling through the wet towel.

"Sir Dudley is lying in the entry," replied Norman. "I kicked against the floor when I saw he was being carried by anyone else."

Grimes laid him tenderly down on the bank and was beginning to shout orders to the Wommersleys crew to take care for the horses when from the dam there came with a rush the Honorable Stephen Colne.

Business.

Sioux City Journal: The economic situation is improving steadily with a promise that by the first of the year the business momentum will be sufficiently strong to carry through the winter without any appreciable decline in activity. The year so far has been much the best of any since the World War. Everyone agrees that 1926 ought to be still better.

There are various things to indicate the certainty of continued business improvement. One of the most satisfactory developments this fall has been the industrial expansion which has absorbed a large part of the unemployed. Employment is now at a higher level than at any time since last spring. September employment was ahead of the same month last year by nearly 8 per cent. This means that hundreds of thousands of persons were at work last September who were out of jobs a year before.

The employment situation is of especial interest at this particular time of the year. When cold weather is setting in, one of the most comforting things for the country is the knowledge of the fact that few workers are idle. A good employment condition is of value to the general economic scheme of course. It means there will be more business, more buying, more shipping, more production of goods, more money in circulation. Not the least gain is that of more happiness for humanity.

It ought to be a good holiday trade because of the employment situation. The conviction that the present industrial plans will carry through the winter is strengthened by the persistence of the work of expanded thousands of manufacturing plants have been enlarged, with pay rolls increased and production accelerated. That would not develop in so many lines if the business was not in sight. Manufacturers, unlike the farmers, do not over produce, but measure production to suit the demands of the market. Therefore since industry has expanded it may be taken to mean that the manufacturers, in looking ahead, have seen enough to justify their enlarged operations.

There are some discordant notes, but they are not sufficiently threatening to cause alarm. The anthracite strike, now in its third month, seems no closer to settlement than on September 1 when the miners walked out. In fact little or nothing is being done by anyone to settle the controversy. So far the strike has not extended its hurtful influence beyond the strikers and the operators, except that in isolated communities it has reduced the buying power. Merchants of the hard coal regions in Pennsylvania have been hard hit as a result of the strike. General industry has suffered nothing whatever.

Another jarring note is the possibility of trouble between the trainmen, brotherhoods and the railroads. The men are expected to demand higher wages, insisting that their pay rate has to the war time level. The railroads, naturally will resist, but it is inconceivable that the controversy would be permitted to interfere with transportation. The government is keeping hands off the anthracite controversy, but it could not afford to adopt such a policy if interference with transportation threatened. So the fact that the strikers will ask a $25,000,000 wage increase is nothing to worry about so far as the general public is concerned.

The Davidson Christmas Gift Club

Making it Easy to Buy BETTER Gifts—and Making the BUYING of Gifts as Great a Pleasure as the GIVING and RECEIVING

THE DAVIDSON CHRISTMAS CLUB is a long forward step toward the realization of the PERFECT CHRISTMAS—when everybody can give the things they really want to give, and everybody can receive the gifts they really want to receive! The difficulties that have formerly stood in the way of the early shopper are all removed—by this practical plan of gift-buying at Davidson's. Here are the old familiar stumbling-blocks—just watch them disappear:

"I Haven't the Money Now"
—No need to worry over that. Just come in and select the gifts you like, make a very little cash deposit, and a little payment each week until Christmas. On large purchases the weekly payments can even be extended beyond Christmas.

"No Place to Keep It 'til Christmas"
—Another old difficulty of early shopping is gifts removed. Select your gifts now, make a small deposit on them, and we'll keep them here for you, deliver them whenever and wherever you want them. Early choice is always best.

"I Can't Decide What to Give" —The Gift Club Secretary will give you every assistance in making selections, and will even undertake to find out what sort of gift the "other person" wants, so that you can be sure of pleasing them. No charge for this service.

"It Would Be Too Expensive"
—Lack of ready cash is no longer a difficulty. You can select the beautiful and handsome gifts you have always wanted to give and pay for them on our Club Plan—a little payment now and balance weekly or monthly.

Toys, Pictures, Pianos, Phonographs, Radio, Band Instruments, Trunks, Washing Machines, Sewing Machines, Lamps, Furniture, Rugs, Table Linens, Silverware, China and Glassware, Jewelry and many other beautiful and useful gifts may be bought on this convenient plan.

The Gift Club Secretary, on our Main Floor, at the Information Desk, will gladly give you further information about this helpful new plan of Christmas gift buying. Ask about it!
