Dr. Miner gave an account of his work at the Methodist church Sunday evening and showed lantern slides from China.

Introduced to Hamelin town, which is infested by rats. They have overrun the place, and the people are filled with dismay. Appeals to the authorities are of no avail. Suddenly there appears a strange creature in fantastic dress who plays strange tunes upon a pipe he carries. It is the Pied Piper, and he declares that for the sum of one thousand guilders he will rid the town of rats. The proposal is accepted, and the Piper immediately leads all the rats to the river, where they perish.

The Piper asks for his reward, but the mayor repudiates his promise. The Piper threatens punishment, and when the people defy him and leave him alone, he blows his mystic melody and passes out the city gate, followed by all the children who have hidde lame boy who cannot go fast enough and is left behind.

The scene changes to the Mystic Mountain, where the children are happy with wonderful dancing toys and airy sprites, and a beautiful Dream Lady who sings them to sleep when they have played long enough. Each the weeks and months pass joyfully away.

But in Hamelin town it is different. There we find a repentant people seeking consolation at the church. There is general lamentation, and there seems to be no hope for the return of the children. But at this crisis suddenly appears again the mysterious Piper, and takes them to task for their greed and treachery.

Here the lame boy intercedes to plead for the restoration of his playmates. The tender-hearted Piper is unable to resist his simple plea and again blows the magic melody which brings the happy children trooping home. The mayor expounds the lesson that promises must be faithfully kept, and all is well. The Piper disappears as suddenly as he came, leaving behind him the echo of his song.

High School Will Give Two Programs Every Week on American Citizenship

Convection Programs to Which Parents Are Invited—Other School News of Week.

Assembly News.

On the afternoon of Dec. 8, Miss Benson announced that it had been planned to give programs before every week, probably Tuesday and Thursday. These programs will be of a general nature and the purpose of these assemblies will be to improve the citizenship of the students in a direct method.

There will also be convocation during the year to which our parents or friends are invited. These may last most of the afternoon. The first program Tuesday, was in charge of Mr. Hook. It consisted mostly of singing. The assembly was taught two new songs for basketball games.

The high school song, "Blue and White", was sung a few times. Then Mr. Hook read the songs for the students to copy. This was followed by singing.

The songs were as follows: In the first songs the name of any boy may be inserted. The name of Gerald Dennis was used for convocations since Gerald was not in school that afternoon.

Old (Gerald Dennis) he's a wonder. And when he is old and gray. We will say, you, by thunder, He'll be some man in his day. Yes, (Dennis) Last two words to be yelled to the tune of Reuben and Rachel.

Boom! Boom! he the ocean waves are rolling! Boom! Boom! there'll be weeping on the sea.

For we always have a habit of scoring. And for us it means another victory; So for a better sake, the hand serves with you, the hand.

Boom! Boom! for a storm is sure to blow; Through a Wayne High grade your ship can't sail Boom! Boom! Our time is after you!

Initiation. The initiation of the freshmen began Friday, Dec. 11. At noon the sponsor of the freshman class, Mrs. M. Fisher, had the students stand. While they were standing the seniors tied green ribbons on them. The freshmen were then required to come to the front of the room. Then were marched up each row in the room. Then roll call was taken.

Student Assembly. The Student Assembly for Friday, Dec. 12, consisted of the following program: Plans selected by Crystal Dugan; reading, Mrs. Fisher. The first reading was the impersonation of Scottish lovers. The next an Italian love scene. The last was about some of his thrilling adventures. It was about his sweetheart. The last was the conversation of people of different nationalities as they were nearing America. It concerned the status of liberty. The nationalities were French, Scottish, English, Italian, and Irishmen; Sambo, the negro; Chinese and the Yankee.

Vacation. School will be out next Wednesday noon for Christmas vacation, and will be called again January 4 of next year, 1926. The examinations for the semester will begin three days after school begins, January 7.

Athletic Notes. Although the Wayne high school basketball prospects are not so rosy as they should be, Coach Peterson is bringing the present squad into good form. The next weeks have seen much hard practice for the boys who are trying to make the team. Several new men are showing up well and Wayne expects to put a strong team on the floor for its first game, Saturday night, Dec. 19, at Wakefield.

Wakefield has played one game this year and was defeated by Carroll by a narrow margin. Wakefield has the advantage of having devoted much of its football season to basketball, but this will count little in this score.

The Wayne high school girls' team will oppose the Wakefield girls' team on the same evening. The Wayne team has lost few of last year's players and a good fight is assured.

Let us follow the home team to Wakefield Saturday and help it win its first game.

Junior News. Several business meetings of the Juniors class were called during the past week.

At first, Wednesday night after school was called that committee might be appointed to send Gerald Dennis a remembrance. The chairmen appointed Elmer Eriksen, Elsie Mae Carhart and Una Schrupf. A box of candy was sent him.

The second meeting on Friday night, was called for the purpose of presenting to the class, an invitation, requesting that the Juniors give a show program before the high school, Thursday, Dec. 17. It was decided to accept the invitation.

The third meeting on Monday night was called for the purpose of planning a program for Thursday.

A short sketch of the play was given and some general information concerning it. Everyone is asked to try out for the play.

Gerald Dennis, who has been absent since Thanksgiving because of illness returned to school Monday.

The junior play, "Alice Sit-by-the-Fire", as chosen by the committee, will be under way by Christmas.

Try-outs for parts in the play will be held some time this week. Miss Anderson, aided by the play committee, will select the cast.

Eighth Grade News. We are getting ready for our Christmas vacation.

Miss Vlasnik has started a new system for students who like to talk to the teacher. Every time a person talks without permission he is ordered to stand by his seat until the next person talks without permission.

Mrs. Fisher, "Lawrence, give me a sentence with a conjunction in it." Lawrence: "The man tied the cow to the fence." Mrs. Fisher: "What is your conjunction?"

L. M.: "Tied, because it connects the cow and the fence." Members of the psychology class are studying a chapter called "Safety First." We hope that the study of this will eliminate some of the fires and accidents in the community.

The members of the English class have started the work of diagramming. Already they have progressed rapidly.

When our report cards come out last night, some of us weren't especially pleased with our grades. Let's do better next time.

Ninth Grade News. The freshmen were initiated by the seniors Saturday, Dec. 12 at the high school assembly. The number 21 was printed on the hand or foot of each freshman and thereafter one had to do some foolish thing to the satisfaction of everyone.

Mrs. Fisher, "Lawrence, give me a sentence with a conjunction in it." Lawrence: "The man tied the cow to the fence." Mrs. Fisher: "What is your conjunction?"

L. M.: "Tied, because it connects the cow and the fence." Members of the psychology class are studying a chapter called "Safety First." We hope that the study of this will eliminate some of the fires and accidents in the community.

When our report cards come out last night, some of us weren't especially pleased with our grades. Let's do better next time.

Tenth Grade Notes. The tenth grade English class is having reports taken from the Literary Digest. The reports were given Thursday and Friday.

English 4 is a new subject for the tenth graders. It is a continuation of English 3. The students may take this or botany for their fourth subject for the next semester.

Fifth Grade. Mrs. Fred Blair visited last week in the fifth grade.

The fifth grade is making a book of fables.

Sixth Grade. Mrs. Wm. Mellor visited the sixth grade Thursday.

The seventh grade class is working on a health project.

Correction. An error was made in the list of honor students published last week. The names of Kathryn Kemp and Myrtle Wallace of the eighth grade, should have been in the 85 per cent list instead of the 80 per cent list.

Navigating the Missouri. By Dr. A. L. Bixby. How much will it cost to make the Missouri river navigable, and what will be the gain to the commerce of the west once it becomes fashionable to send our beef and barley to St. Louis by boat. Here is a chance for the wise men of the west to improve the situation from every angle and give out the figures for the enlightenment of the people. A hard-headed business man would expect any possible profit that would accrue from any possible reduced rates of transportation. With the current of the teacher would expect any possible setting parts of Nebraska over into Iowa, or reversing the order, it would mean no end of trouble to the government and the "navigators."

Today a boat is set afloat upon the flood—O, pity— Tomorrow, stuck in sand and mud. Down near Nebraska City. Today the "coast" seems clear, all up from the White to Omaha.

No trouble need we borrow; And then, perforce, the river's course Is somewhere else tomorrow.

Time was, 'tis true, the old Missouri Was partly navigated; Up from the White to Omaha.

All sorts of stuff was freighted. But in the spring floods were the thing. The river was a terror; Boats on that "sea" were found to be A form of mortal error.

The steamer's deck became a wreck; The crew glad to forsake it; The stern-wheel stroke became a joke.

The mudsow couldn't make it. The river host gave up the ghost In more of joy than sorrow. That was the way of yesterday; 'Twill be the same tomorrow.

Boosts Advantages Of Home Hospital. Editor Stone of the Hartington Herald, who devotes any spare time he may have from editing an excellent newspaper to being operated on for one thing or another, and who evidently speaks from experience, has this to say about home hospitals:

"A new hospital in a neighboring city has just been opened with a great blare of trumpets and the public is assured another great institution dedicated to 'Social Service' stands with outstretched arms ready to receive all who are in need. 'Social Service' is good as is also the statement that the hospital is intended primarily 'not for the patients.' Pure altruism and philanthropy, of course—another eleemosynary institution established, not for revenue, but for the good of humanity! People who have had the misfortune to be patients in the big city hospitals will be able to appreciate the humor contained in these unctuous statements concerning the purpose of this new modern hospital and they also ought to get a hearty laugh from the announcement of the 'Visiting Staff of Physicians,' which is a nice way of saying that doctors have been selected here and there at strategic points to drum up trade, presumably on the well known 'split fee' basis. But aside from all this, we wonder why anybody should go to this hospital or any other city hospital if he has a good, well equipped hospital in his own town. If cost is a consideration, the argument is all in favor of the local institution; and, if service is the thing sought, there is no reason for going away from home."

Box Suppers and Programs. Box suppers will be held in school district 57 Friday evening, December 18, and in district 81, Tuesday evening, December 22, and everybody is invited to each. Gertrude Lutt and Mamie Wertz, Teachers. d174p

Gives Program of Readings Friday

Bess Gearhart Morrison of Lincoln, America's best known reader and entertainer, appeared at the Wayne Community house before an appreciative audience Friday evening under the auspices of the Professional and Business Women's club. Mrs. Morrison gave selections from the works of authors whom she has met personally. She also gave in costume sketch of her own writing. Her program was enjoyed.

Mrs. Morrison lived in Wakefield, Coleridge, St. James and other north-east Nebraska towns when a girl and she is known and thought much of by her many friends.

Proceeds which amounted to about $75 will pay expenses of the evening.

Motor Transportation. Fairbury News: According to statistics compiled from the state records there was a falling off of 20 per cent in the use of passenger busses in the state of Minnesota last year, while the use of trucks, both light and heavy, showed an increase. In Nebraska it was different. The use of passenger busses increased fully 100 per cent. This accounted for the fact that each road are in their infancy in Nebraska, while in Minnesota the state has had a network of gravelled roads for many years. The fact that passenger busses have begun to decline there is taken by some as an indication that it is not a paying enterprise and that they will in time all be abandoned. But this is something that will take time to determine.

Pierce Farmer Ends Life. Pierce, Neb., Dec. 11.—George T. Winson, 44, prominent farmer who lived eight miles west of here, committed suicide last yesterday by firing a charge from a shotgun into his right breast. Brooding over settlement of his father's estate is blamed. He is survived by a widow and five children.

Miss Nettie Craven entertained a company of winter brothers, Charles and Harry Craven helped make the evening enjoyable.

From Ponca Journal, Dec. 24, 1925.
By reason of the warm weather lately, the ice over the river is getting thin.
We are now experiencing the most delightful weather ever known in this country at this time of the year. It is as warm and pleasant as in Florida.

There are in the county 2,531 children of school age. The state appropriation of school money for the county for the first half of 1925, is $2,971.92.

In 1927, Mr. R. W. Hannant of the State set out his farm at ash valley. A few days ago he cut the switch down, and on measuring it found it to be 25 feet high at the base. Mr. Hannant's grove set out in 1876 now furnishes him all the wood he needs.

Excitement over the coal question still continues. The discovery of copper also occupies considerable attention. Likewise the contemplated bridge across the river at this point. There is much talk about silver ore in the bluff, and lead ore, oil, building stone, etc. We wait with anxiety and bated breath for the State City coal and mining company to start in with its discoveries and explorations.

Onward and Upward.
Lincoln Journal: The era of economy may not be over. The chance to illustrate it by reducing national debt also occupies considerable attention. Likewise the contemplated bridge across the river at this point. There is much talk about silver ore in the bluff, and lead ore, oil, building stone, etc. We wait with anxiety and bated breath for the State City coal and mining company to start in with its discoveries and explorations.

This fixes the low point in past year expenditures at nearly five times the pre-war level. In 1916, the year before we entered the war, the government spent $741,996,727. That was three quarters of a billion as against three and a half billions now.

With such a record the federal government must lower the finger in the pie which has been pointing at the states because of their increased public expenditures. No state, as far as we know, has increased its public expenditures more than five-fold in the last ten years, notwithstanding the increased appropriations which the dollar-matching measure of the federal government have forced upon them.

Federal Highways in Order.
Omaha Bee: State Engineer Cochran reminds the several counties of Nebraska of a duty that devolves upon them now; development of good roads to connect with the main highways that are being constructed. The general state system is progressing toward the end aimed at. Not all has been done that is planned, but enough is accomplished to establish the fact that Nebraska is getting out of the mud.

Good roads highways are not enough. The haul still will be controlled by that load that can be pulled from the farm to the surfaced and graded road. This means the construction of feeders. A problem now left to county control. Funds for this work are amply provided for in the new law. After January 1 one-third of the tax on gasoline will go to the maintenance of highways already graded and surfaced. Of the registration fee, 70 per cent will be retained in the counties where collected, to be used in the construction of county roads. The other 30 per cent goes to the maintenance fund. Under this arrangement the fund for construction of main-line roads will amount to about $2,000,000 a year, but that for the counties will be enhanced by more than a million.

Whether this is the better way to proceed for the construction of highways need not be discussed. It was decided upon after long debate in committee and before the two houses of the legislature, and so is entitled to a fair trial. The results of the gasoline tax for the first year have been satisfactory. How the law will work out during the year to come will depend on the county boards. It is clear that the counties with small numbers of machines registered will not have a great deal to go on, but they will benefit under the provisions for the reconstruction of state highways. In the end the goal of a comprehensive and all-time serviceable road system is being brought nearer.

Wayne-Wisner Road Scores High Praise
Norfolk Daily News: A southern California boulevard in Nebraska! Many motorists who have traveled on the improved highway leading from Wayne south to Wisner have made this comment.

That project which was completed in September is declared one of the best in the state. Following the completion the Wayne county commissioners adopted measures to see that the gravel worked into the road bed rapidly, this being done by dragging the highway at designated intervals.

As soon as cars and other vehicles had cut a track in the loose gravel, drags, pulled by trucks, were used and the gravel again placed uniformly on the road bed, this giving the highway uniform smoothness.

Many motorists arrived in Norfolk from Sioux City have complimented the Wayne-Wisner highway work. The Wayne county commissioners are planning on a number of good road projects next spring.

Another project to be completed in this county is the road from Hookston to Wayne. As soon as the earthwork is finished, steps will be taken to gravel the surface.

These projects together with the federal aid job on the Norfolk-Sioux City road, will provide motorists traveling in this county with excellent road conditions, as several railroad crossings will be eliminated between Norfolk and Wayne.

Airplanes Will End War.
Aurora Republican: Henry Ford, whose little flier in the airplane industry is being watched with interest by the aviation experts as well as the world at large, predicts that airplanes will end all wars. Henry, wise as usual, does not expect this result to come at once. He does, however, see visions of world peace when aerial development has reached the point where travel by planes is sure and safe—as sure and as presumably as is railroad or automobile travel now. When this time comes, according to Henry, the war makers will have to bear the consequences of war, instead of being able to hide behind armies and navies and will thus be quite willing to have peace. Incidentally, he points out Tyson's prophecy in "Locksley Hall" as an indication of the future of the airplane. The point, though, is that ten eighty years ago, conditions that the war drum will be still by a world federation after combat in the air. Getting back to Henry, it is probable that he is more than half right. The airplane, together with the radio and other modern wonders of science is bringing the peoples of the world closer together than ever before. Association brings more of understanding, and understanding results in peace.

One's Face.
If one lived on a desert island his face would be his own. But if he lives among his fellows it belongs to all who see it. You may think it is your right to delineate on your face the effects of envy, unkindness, hatred, self-pity, and so on. You may even honor your fellows to make your face a pleasure for everyone to see, a liability for no one. Your features may be regular, but your skin fair; but your face will be beautiful if it expresses kindness, friendliness and charity. We ought to have more mirrors, but not mirrors of glass. They should be mirrors of soul in which one takes thought of his friends, his opportunities, his blessings, and then reflects his wealth in a radiant face.

Why Red Crown is ECONOMICAL
When the first automobiles came to Nebraska, it was the Standard Oil Company of Nebraska that furnished them with gasoline and oil. The experience and growth of the intervening years have brought a knowledge of motor needs and a development of facilities such as no other organization in the state enjoys.
All this experience and all these facilities are back of Red Crown Gasoline and make it really the most economical gasoline you can use. It is a balanced gasoline, with just the right proportion of highly volatile low boiling point fractions to give instant ignition and quick starting, even in the coldest weather; together with the higher boiling point fractions that develop maximum heat, expansion and power.
This means a lean mixture, and the leaner the mixture the more miles per gallon.
Whenever you need gasoline, pull in at the Red Crown sign. You are sure of prompt, obliging, courteous service and full measure of high quality, dependably uniform gasoline. Get the Red Crown habit and save money.

FREE DELIVERY

We assure sure city delivery will get better and better in every way every day. And a number of our familiar hands, with few street addresses, caused inevitable delay that made one think of the big blizzard of the flood. But the postoffice force worked like Trojans. The postmaster lashed himself into utmost effort to give service to the people receiving sundry queries and complaints. While he accepted the change doubtfully, it must be said to his credit that once grasped the task, he regarded it with courage and optimism. In this connection, it may be suggested that who who petitioned and urged adoption of the service decided not to use it when it came. It would seem needless to say that we are starting off with the daily paper in a new era of prosperity. It is evolutionary and constructive, and in time for residence sections it will become measurably satisfactory.

The Herald is uncertain what it can do to best serve its city subscribers. The paper was issued by Gordon Thurston and son Wayne subscribers did not receive copies until the next day. Carroll, Windsor, and Winkler, and other papers had and had read and laid away to put on pantry shelves before Wayne people received their copies. While future delay will not be so great as experience develops service through the postoffice to local subscribers there is no question it was under the former system. The postage cost to the Herald, under the new system, is considerably less with assurance necessarily a poorer service. This is not encouraging. However, if papers can be delivered otherwise without an important carrier of expense, it will be done.

As to cost of postage, it is reasonably imposed in town. But the rate for delivery outside was installed, a postage tax was added to papers sent out over the four routes centering here. Work on the part of mail carriers is exactly the same as we understand, but when free delivery in town is established, expense increases on lines leading into the country. It is paradoxical, it says "free," but it evasivates in mounting cost. We think our Congressman Howard must have thought and considered the question of congruity of fixing a tax on rural service simply because it proceeds from a so called free delivery town, the rate he knew it would explain it to us for our own satisfaction, but if he does pay know, why not let him take it up with the postoffice department and see if any one in that branch of the government happens to know why the rate is so high. It justifies additional expense when it comes in contact with local free delivery, so called.

It is not at all surprising that for postage rates any more than we are for other costs of living and doing; but we would seem entitled to the reason for the rate, and an unreasonable tax which rules out

OUR THEOLOGY.

A preacher friend of this department, writing to me on my subscription, says he cannot get along without the Herald, but that our theology is as bad as any other. He does not say much about our theology or anybody's theology as it does about the Greek and Latin words leading upward in spiritual aspiration and in daily conduct. Whatever the religious belief, it is not to be denied that the immortality is exalted by manner of thinking and living, by charity, good will and kindly benevolence. If people do not care how one is baptised, we are concerned if people take their religion from the shelf, dust it off and put it on for an hour or two on the Sabbath, and then lay it away and forget it until the church bell rings again. We are concerned if people praise the deeds and precepts of the Carpenter of Galilee for an hour on the Sabbath and then assume a self-righteous, hard-boiled attitude the rest of the week. We mean that it is not so important to the church of the mind-touthing speculative vision or non-essential dogmas as it is to lift society to a plane more near to the record with which we begin an hour on the Sabbath, we talk with approval and aim at with passing resolution.

mechanically fix as under the name of free delivery. As a part of his service to the great Third District of Nebraska, we wish Congressional favor would speedily be granted to the postal department at Washington and endeavor to get a lucid explanation which one of his constituents wants to make him feel better.

ANNIVERSARY EDITION.

Last week the Hartington Herald issued a wonderfully attractive anniversary edition, in the preparation of which the best of the Herald's staff officers were ably assisted by R. R. Allison who lately leased the Laurel Advocate. The Herald makes the best of its thirtieth year. This special effort containing twenty-eight carefully edited and well arranged and printed pages and touching incidents and men of importance in the development of the county, is a distinctly valuable and interesting contribution to Nebraska journalism.

We congratulate the editor and his coworkers on the marked triumph of their enterprise. The Hartington Herald's anniversary is of peculiar interest to this editor, because, as mentioned in the special edition, his father founded the newspaper in 1895. We were not old enough to participate in the establishment of the plant, but we were old enough to remember that the starting of the Hartington Herald, a handful of printing material was placed on the raw prairie and that a shanty, erected with hard paper, was hastily built over and around it.

The father of this writer had a penchant for the frontier and seemed to do in the uncharted friend lines and in the ambitions and hopes of the pioneers, and Hartington was one among several important incidents in the life of his father, a newspaper venture. In our natural bias, we thought of the founder of the newspaper was unsurpassed in clear and logical thinking and we are pleased in the conviction that the man now at the helm is a most worthy successor in literary accomplishments.

Hartington is an enterprising town in a rich and prosperous county, and it is not surprising that its pioneer newspaper, in the hands of its present owner, is growing and improving rapidly. In equipment it has developed from the Washington hand press stage into a modern plant, with linotypes and other modern equipment. The embryo of forty-two years ago, is now a modern printing institution with multiplied possibilities for service.

NEEDED STIMULUS.

The talk by a Chicago trader special here this week will exert a wholesome influence in correcting errors in dealing with the public. While Wayne stands aloof in ways of business relations that the average town, it acknowledges room for improvement as evidenced by its employment of expert advice. The distinct buying advantage in being within convenient driving distance of a well stocked town like Wayne. We have the goods and the prices can serve convenience. What remains to be done is to advertise and satisfy the public. Newspaper advertising, merchandise displays and alert tactful and pleasing salesmanship are needed to help the trade. These are among the things the specialist stressed. Piqued over a little, often imaginary grievance, dealers frequently let big, valuable accessions to volume slip away. A fatiguing atmosphere, with seemingly no end in sight, sometimes causes people to yield to the extra task of sending to foreign catalogue houses for things that could be had at home with no loss of money and with saving of time and with assurance of greater personal satisfaction. Many of our small towns are not lacking in capacity or facilities to fully serve their clients. They need to improve their methods of advertising, and that seem unimportant, but that really help immensely with the buying public.

statements of the house when he tried to make a speech in behalf of his constituents. The priority of the house, preventing a new member from free participation in proceedings in which he is hired and paid to represent a certain district, is being dismissed spitefully. Congressmen show more hollow dignity than sound sense.

In his anniversary number, the Hartington Herald presents pictures of five of the seven publishers of Cedar county. Of the five, two, Stone and Nevin, are so nearly bald that we think they are beyond the aid of hair restorers. Stone is the only one who wears a moustache, and we wish he would shave it off without further delay. The quantity of hair, but evidently the possession was carefully tossed over his dome just before the camera snapped. We hope he will be more thoughtful next time. Of the crowd, McCormick carries the least bald or carnal freight, and being both light and weight, he needs to be fed, we are spurred by similitude to feel specially sympathetic and kindly. But anyway the Cedar county editors are a good-looking group.

Let us make generous Christmas giving sincerely expressive of generous good feeling.
