Five Funerals For One Family

Mr. and Mrs. Fredrich Von Seggern and Three Children Killed Christmas Day

Rites Held Monday

Church East of Altona Is Packed to Capacity With Relatives and Friends.

More than 600 relatives and friends followed the five hearse Monday afternoon to the Lutheran church...

The family home is five miles north of Wisner and because of the east and west roads being so crowded...

Fredrich Von Seggern was born March 15, 1862. He was 63 years, 9 months and 10 days. He was confirmed in the Lutheran church...

Mrs. Von Seggern was born in Germany. She was married to Mr. Von Seggern in 1885...

Miss Marie Anna Von Seggern, one of the victims of the accident, was born Dec. 17, 1895...

Miss Louise Marie Von Seggern was born Sept. 23, 1910, and was therefore aged 15 years, 3 months and 3 days...

The Lutheran faith was the religion of the family. The Rev. Ernest Von Seggern was born April 6, 1908...

The bodies of the five victims were taken to Pilger, a town in Norfolk where it was still unconscious tonight...

Mr. and Mrs. A. Rees, in a car just ahead of the Von Seggern automobile, saw the train, and Rees...

COLD WAVE. A cold wave arrived from Alaska Saturday and drove the mercury ten degrees below zero in six hours...

Cheer Brought To Many Homes

Greater Wayne Club and Scouts Help in Christmas Plans Here.

Pre-Christmas days last week were made especially happy for the grown-ups and children who helped in the distribution of Christmas baskets...

The boys also inquired about needy families and reported names to the committee, including Dr. W. B. Vail, Prof. K. N. Parke, Prof. A. F. Gull...

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schulz, Mrs. W. K. Smith, Mrs. Ferd Schmiedeknecht, Mrs. S. A. Lutgen and Mrs. J. J. Johnson...

The good fellows, in charge of F. L. B. football, also had a party for many children on Wednesday evening of last week.

Clothing was provided needy families by the Red Cross and by the committee. The Red Cross also sent a few baskets of food.

The Wiesdale library board sponsored a program Tuesday evening which brought $40 to be added to the building fund.

Miss Ethel Mae Gayle Gildersleeve and Marjorie Wright of Wayne, gave musical numbers and readings which were very enjoyable.

Building Done Shows Progress

Wayne and Surrounding Country Have Improved a Great Deal in the Past Year

Residences Lead

School Building, Church, Store and Fair Grounds Structures Have Been Included.

Wayne and vicinity have shown prosperity the past year in the amount of building being done.

Most of the building of the past year has been in the city. Local lumbermen think that the coming year will see a larger percentage of improvement in the country because of the good crops and the increased prices received for livestock.

The Wayne State Teachers College has started construction a new training school, started last summer.

The Wayne county fair grounds have been improved. A new grandstand, horse barn and educational hall were built there.

END OF THE YEAR

The past year has not been one of excruciating prosperity in agricultural communities on account of disparity between prices for farm products and the cost of living.

Wayne has done more building than any other county in Nebraska, and the effort to make it a permanent improvement.

But above and more important than accumulation of material wealth is service that will lift social standards and put backbone and courage into struggling, drooping undertones.

SOUND ADVICE

Vice President Dawes made a speech before the pages of the Herald and advised his hearers to "stand against the crowd."

"There is no man who is worth the powder and shot to blow him up who does not set himself against the crowd, especially in his younger life."

"Never mind how many fellows are behind you. Always keep your eyes on the fellows that are ahead of you."

People who expected Christmas gifts they did not expect to have on Saturday which, therefore, was a busy day.

Many northeast Nebraska towns had community Christmas trees this year, enlivening the holiday spirit and stimulating the joy of the children.

Leading society women of Washington, D. C., have started organized "smokeless" parties to combat the short skirts. Pernicious results of smoking among women are pointed out. As to skirts, society leaders recently have been decidedly conservative in their attitude.

With Messinger of the state performing on the Omaha Bee, suggests a "Mind your own business" week, with the hope that its influence will extend far beyond the period designated.

There is promise of settling the outstanding strike. An agreement that will be fair to miners and operators alike and that does not fix an unreasonable burden on the consumer is hoped for.

United States treasury officials have issued warrants that counterfeit bills in denomination of $100 are in circulation and that people should be on the lookout for them.

Another railroad crossing horror in which five members of a family were killed on Christmas day when their automobile was struck by a train.

Maj. General Amos A. Fries, chief of the chemical warfare service, proposes against the proposition to abolish use of poison gas in war.

Secretary of State Charles W. Pool's success in retaining public credit is attributed to his ability to associate them with the right names.

Postal services generally was suspended on Christmas day to give employees complete respite from duty. While employees should be granted ample vacations as wisdom would dictate, it is not a holiday of the public.

Often during the war a man was called yellow or disloyal in order to punish him for some personal grievance which was unrelated to the war.

One editor broadcasts through his newspaper an invitation to all people whom he owes, to come in with the beginning of the new year and receive their money.

Lists of new buildings in Wayne county towns and on Wayne county farms during the past year are unavoidably incomplete.

More winter snowfall here, I think. But in this we will disagree. In Nebraska frost and drink are raised in wild profusion.

I do not knock on anyone. The whole earth makes me wonder; But when it comes to healthful air, And fertile soil thereunder.

I love her when the skies are drab, And bodies need protection; When noisy politicians blab, Three months before election.

In winter when the cold winds blow, And frosty windows keep us here, I don't fly mad and want to go To Florida or Texas.

Young Von Seggern Recalls Accident
Norfolk News, Dec. 30: Sunlight that has been hidden behind it memories of the case of Fred Von Seggern, Jr., sole survivor of the crossing tragedy near Pilger Christmas day broke through yesterday and the 13-year old youth recalled for the first time that he was injured in an automobile accident.

The attending physicians and nurses believe it advisable that facts concerning the tragedy be kept from the youth until he has recovered enough to withstand the shock of learning that his loved ones were instantly killed.

The injured boy said his nurse if he could read yesterday, this being the first time that he has requested anything of that nature. He was kept a newspaper for fear that he might read details of the accident and funeral.

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 30.—The all-Iowa agricultural marketing conference, called for the purpose of prescribing a remedy for the farmers' financial ills, today was pledged to a program which calls for the creation of a federal corporation to handle all surplus products.

To Call Corn Belt Conference
After a dozen speakers had advanced as many plans for lifting the farm belt out of its critical financial plight, the conference voted to give the Iowa delegation in congress all possible aid in securing the passage of legislation which will enable farmers to sell their products at a fair profit.

Brookhart was booked because he spoke longer than his allotted time, and Cummins, whose address followed, said he regretted that the junior Iowa senator possessed the wrong idea of railroad legislation.

Newcastle Pioneer Dies.

Novacaste, Neb., Dec. 23.—John F. Gibbs, 82, one of the first pioneers to locate in northern Dixon county, died here on the 53rd anniversary of his wedding. He had been in poor health for two or three months. Funeral services will be held from the Commercial Congregational church Thursday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs were almost the first members of the church, which recently celebrated the 41st anniversary of its organization.

Mr. Gibbs was a veteran of the civil war and was so conscientious that he would not join the army as a drummer boy, being only 16 years old when asked to enlist. The only way he would go was as a full fledged soldier.

After the war he located near Yankton, S. D., and he and Mrs. Gibbs, who survives him, passed through many hardships and privations, being "cut out" by the grasshoppers two or three times. Later he crossed the Missouri river and lo-ated near here where he bought land until he had a farm of 800 to 1,000 acres.

Preparation.
Hastington Herald-Examiner-States of the Wayne Herald observes that the first half century of life is a period of preparation for the achievements of later years and confesses that, if feeling is a true criterion, he is still a young man. As far as Mr. Huse is concerned, the early period of his career has been one of remarkable achievement and, if he continues to live and achieve as largely during the next fifty years as he has during the past, he will accomplish great things. Generally speaking, also, we believe that his opinion is correct in regard to the first half of life being a preparation for the second. Moreover, we have often thought that, if we could live a second lifetime after we had finished the first, we could make a vast improvement of the job. Not only would we be able to achieve more consistently, but, guided by past experience, we would be more aware of our limitations and would be able to avoid many of the mistakes which have such a disastrous effect upon our health, happiness and progress.

time was enjoyed in games and dancing. A mock wedding was one feature. The hostesses served luncheon at midnight. The bride of this week received many useful gifts. Young People's Circle. The Young People's Bible Study circle met Christmas night at the E. B. Young home. The lesson was the fourth chapter of Philippians. E. B. Young sang a solo. The circle plans a watch night meeting this Thursday evening at the Young home. The study will begin the book of Revelation. At Fred Eckthkamp's. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eckthkamp entertained Sunday at a 6 o'clock dinner the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Eckthkamp, Mrs. Arthur Eckthkamp and son, Donald, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Eckthkamp and family, Mr. and Mrs. Markus Hoff and son, Joseph, Mrs. Arthur Eckthkamp, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berger and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller. For Miss Frances Oman. Miss Florence Gardner entertained a group of friends Wednesday afternoon at a miscellaneous shower company at a Miss Frances Oman home. The guests belonged to the Wayne high school graduating class of 1916, of which Miss Oman and the hostess were members, and all enjoyed the reception. For Bride of Week. Miss Bonnie Hess whose marriage to Floyd Drake of Kearney took place Tuesday, was guest of honor Saturday evening at a dinner party given by Miss Faith Philten, Miss Helen Reynolds, Mrs. Francis C. Jones, Miss Helen Felber, Miss Ruth Ringland, Miss Edith Howe and Miss Leila Mitchell at the Jones home. A bouquet of pink roses was the centerpiece for the table and a rose bud was at each place. A three-course dinner was served at 6:30 and the evening was spent in bridge. Miss Hess was presented two pictures.

With Mrs. Kratavil. Bible Study circle women met Tuesday with Mrs. L. W. Kratavil. Mrs. E. B. Young led the lesson on the 12th chapter of the Acts. The twenty-fourth anniversary of the society in a week or two were made. It is hoped an out-of-town speaker will be here for the occasion. A greeting from Miss Charlotte White who is visiting in Rosalie, was read. A letter from Mrs. Hatch of Coleridge, formerly of Wayne, was read also. G. O. Moffat, who is doing mission work among the "head hunting tribes" in Guizo, South America, wrote to the circle. Mrs. H. C. Peterson will be hostess next Tuesday.

Market Report

Furnished by Steele, Simon & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.

Dec. 30.—After handing-out some rather liberal advances on fat cattle during the period immediately surrounding the holidays because of short runs, the packers set about getting the deal under control at the opening of this week with the average of practically normal prices over the country. The packers did manage to take off about a quarter on the average on fat cattle and hogs, but owing to the derailing demands for butcher stock had not been able to force more than a weak-trade on that class, although they indicated by an over amount of slowness that the maintenance of the schedule was not to be flinching. Naturally with corn worth about half as much as last year and with fat cattle bringing more money, the farmers are offering a generally better class, although they indicated by an insufficiently advanced to show anything choice, there being only a scattering of good kinds to sell up around $10 and $10.50, with an occasional near choice load to $11 and over. The bulk of the arrivals continue on a plain to fair class and sell largely between $7 and $9.

Good short fed heifers continue scarce, but the country is showing an increasing number of nearly good kinds worth from $7.50 to $8.50. Also some heavy kasher cows have found a new place at $7, but the bulk of the offerings are still a fair to good best cow class, with a scattering heifers carrying just a slip in a pinch. Sales range most heavily from $5.25 to $6.50. Stockers and feeders are again moving freely with the country showing more than enough demand to overcome the incoming movement. Naturally prices are strong and the market active. However, the delivery of the arrivals continue on a plain to fair class and sell largely between $7 and $9.

Over the holiday period hogs came in for an almost unending series of advances and tops at the river markets for choice light light butchers passed the $11.50 level. Tuesday of this week assessed the beginning of a reaction from the high point. Despite further receipts decreases over the country as compared to a year ago, packers would not continue the drive. This is the first time in the history of the trade that light hogs have continued to sell out in front of heavy butchers this last in a year. Indications are that the preference will continue indefinitely and that any new change will witness the development of an additional spread between light light butchers and heavy butchers is close to a half dollar.

Packers did manage to get in a few slams on the fat lamb trade, but are now putting it all back on again as fast as possible. Tops for fat lambs have passed above $10.25 again and fat handweights killing weights are good, pelts are selling high. The same is true for wool and a short crop, looms for the late season, so those with offerings back only to make them good.

ing the week of Organized Agriculture in January.

A national joint committee also is functioning, doing extensive investigating work, and this work is going on quietly in Nebraska, according to J. B. Brackett, of the university, who is directly in charge of the state's work in this respect.

No funds have been available for the construction of experimental lines, as in some other states," Prof. Brackett said. "But this has been accounted less essential in Nebraska because the Saunders county rural electric district has afforded a convenient laboratory for observations and experiments."

Fatal Accident In Dixon County

Allen, Neb., Dec. 23.—One school girl, 16 years old, is dead, and three young women are lying seriously injured as a result of a coal car accident which took place near here. The dead girl is Miss Ursula Weber.

The injured girls are: Miss Emma Lass, jawbone broken; Miss Nabor, school-teacher who was steering the sled, cheekbone broken, and Miss Klein, cut severely about the face.

The sled, survivors said, for some reason left the usual track and leaped swiftly through two fences, instantly killing Miss Weber. The sled girl will be buried at Tama, Ia. A sister is a graduate of the nursing school at the Lutheran hospital in Sioux City.

Unique Injury Action.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 23.—An unusual personal injury action was filed in this district by Hester Brannon, former employe of the Northwestern railway.

Brannon asks $55,000 damages from the railroad company for injuries resulting from a snake bite received while he was employed at the company's roundhouse at Chadron, Neb., in 1924.

The injury was received while he was working in an engine pit, according to the petition. He alleges his health was shattered and that the injury was received in the course of his employment.

Growing Sugar Beets.

Lincoln Journal. One class of farmers are not complaining just now. This is the beet growers. The beet men have to begin with, the tariff crutch which farmers in general cannot have. Since we do not produce a surplus of sugar, the sugar tariff is effective in increasing sugar prices. Who buys sugar, contributes somewhere between one and two cents a pound to the price of beet sugar. This done, there remains the partitioning of the benefit as between beet producers and sugar manufacturers. At first the refiners had it.

"The beet growers have organized. This is comparatively easy for beet growing occupies but a small and compact territory. In the North Pacific valley now we see the farmers and the refiners in just such a tussle over the beet prices as anthracite operators and their miners are engaged in over wages, if they can't get their price for beets, the farmers can turn to potatoes, alfalfa and miscellaneous crops. If they can't get beets grown, the sugar refiners are out of business. The growers have an advantage which they are learning to press.

Seeking Truth.

Dr. A. L. Bixby: People hunger for the truth. The verities of life are sought in every field of investigation. In the medical world faithful students are doing their best and bravest to interpret the laws of health, that the human family may live free from disease from infancy to old age, dying "when their time comes". In the realm of biology the leaders in seeking have found something of the revealed wonders of life in its different stages of development. New facts are coming to light in the study of the stars, once thought to have been created as mere adjuncts for the nocturnal illumination of this microscopic contribution to the infinite system of planets that plow through space. No less are people thrashing around amongologies and tins for a spiritual anchorage that will hold. And the confusion and chaos connected with it is more the result of priestly aversion and ecclesiastical mummery than anything else. The earnest, honest seeker for spiritual light and guidance will find what he is looking for, if he gets right with himself at the initial step in getting right with God. And he doesn't have to give his perfunctory assent to absurdities of any sort in order to feel that he is thereby made safe for either time or eternity. One hour of vital religious experience that tends to make a man decent seven days in the week is worth a month of Sunday in the observance of mere empty forms of religious make-believe. No person will ever know the meaning of heaven until he has done his level best to establish it within and without right here in the only world of which he has any knowledge.

Jane Adams Gives Opinion Of Girls

Chicago, Dec. 24.—The modern girl is unconventional and not immoral, Jane Adams, nationally known social worker said today.
Speaking at a reception held in the newly furnished reception room of her "Hull House" in the tenement district where she has spent a lifetime working toward the uplift of the down-trodden girl, Miss Adams dismissed with a flourish of the hand and "swary smile" all the hullabaloo about the immorality of the modern girl.

Taking Up Collections. Geneva Signers. The present tendency everywhere is to systematize all forms of charity. The Geneva Community club took a step in this direction when it organized a community chest.
Community chests are becoming common everywhere. They are some of the reasons for having a community chest which is one of the steps resulting from the efforts to give better charity service through system.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME BY STANLEY

preservively good. It does not require much imagination to contemplate that the situation will be when a good condition is greatly increased.
But—agriculture must be brought up to a level with everything else, or the right kind of prosperity cannot be obtained. The farmer's dollar is worth anywhere from 25 to 40 cents less than that of other business. This inequality has got to be ironed out sooner or later. The sooner the better. Otherwise, the whole plan will fall short of the economic possibilities. As to the question of the agricultural regions.
Generally, of course, as has been the case for months, there already exists a feeling of depression everywhere in all lines but agriculture. Farming continues to drag along behind everything else. Industrially, the relief came from Washington on the various markets with better prices paid for their goods. They seem to think legislation would bring the quicker relief, but relief is what they want and they want it right now. Something, of course, must be done if advantage is to be taken of the chance ahead for the whole country, for all the people. Either legislation or an economic solution must be forthcoming without delay. The leveling process commences without delay. Then watch for a year of prosperity greater than ever before. The chance is there if together the American people only will make up their minds to take it in the right kind of way.

Auto Gets Some Blame

The automobile is blamed to some extent by Miss Adams for what immorality there is.
"I think that the automobile is one of the reasons for the wildness for some girls. It has brought about a new situation. A couple is able to go a great distance away from home to get married, which they are not known. Consequently some things are done that should not be done."

Business

Sioux City Journal: The economic situation in this country today is in need of only one thing to complete the plan for a prosperity such as no nation and people ever experienced before in the world's history. That is, there is a question as to the agricultural regions.

To Charge For Service.

York Republicans: Beginning January first, the banks will institute a service charge of fifty cents per month on all checking accounts where the balance to the credit of the customer does not amount to $50.00. The banks sent notices to all their customers Saturday, notifying them of the new rule. The service charge applies only to checking accounts and not to saving accounts. The checking accounts of religious and fraternal organizations are exempted from the rule.

Two Good Rules.

Omaha World Herald: A timely thought for the Christmas season is quoted from Henry Van Dyke by Marie Weekes in the Norfolk Press: "There are two good rules which ought to be written upon every heart. Never believe anything bad about anybody unless you positively know that it is true. Never tell even that unless you feel that it is absolutely necessary and that God is listening while you tell."

Many Cattle Shipped

Hartington, Neb., Dec. 23.—December probably has been the best shipping month so far as prices and number of shipments are concerned. That northeastern Nebraska has had for a long time. A large number of hogs and cattle have been shipped from this point during the past month, and considering the price of corn and other feed, farmers have made a good profit on the shipments. About 20 different shippers in the locality made, consignments either to Omaha or Sioux City, Ia., during the period.

Ask Your Banker

Collier's Weekly: During the past 12 months, according to the American Bankers' association, we invested and lost in fraudulent or worthless stocks, the sum of $1,400,000,000. This is not far from $13 each for every man woman and child in the nation. Undoubtedly, this is the world's record, but it is likely likely will stand until broken by us. Much of this could have been saved had we consulted our bankers. We use them more than any other people. Why not also use our bankers?

Culled from Herald's Exchanges for Week

A bus line between Wynot and Sioux City is being proposed.

Mrs. Ben Hall of near Ponca, died Dec. 17 at the age of 54 years.

Mr. Lawrence Koehler and Miss Anna Strowlow of Pierce, were married Dec. 18.

The Catholic church women in Emerson held a bazaar which brought in a sum of $1200.

The fine clubs of the Plainview high school sang Christmas carols on the streets of that city Christmas eve.

Joseph Kay who was in the lumber business in Wisner a few years ago, died Dec. 10 at Ewing, aged 82 years.

The bus running between O'Neill and Sioux City, has abandoned, for the present at least, the next end of the journey. The line will run between Randolph and Sioux City this winter.

Mr. Otto Burmeister and Miss Violet Larson of Thurston, were married Dec. 23 in Fonder. They will live east of Thurston.

Walter Rasmussen of Randolph, topped the Sioux City hog market last week on 100 hogs, the price received being $11.75.

A new building is being erected in Leigh for the Leigh World, the newspaper office which the plant did occupy having burned a few weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. George Peck of Coleridge, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Dec. 19. Miss Lola Peck who teaches in Carroll, helped serve dinner for guests.

The Goddell club of Hartington held a Christmas program and treat last week. Two large trees were cut near the Missouri river and were used for the occasion. The club gave away 400 pounds of candy and 8000 apples.

Miss Eva Pentico and Mr. Arthur Swearingin of Pierce, were married Dec. 20 at the Albert Pentico home. Ole Brogren and Miss Minnie Frink of Winfield, attended the couple.

A young buffalo which Martin Collins of Wynot, brought from the Black Hills last summer to use in rodeos, was slaughtered last week and people of that vicinity have been enjoying the meat.

C. E. Greene, proprietor of the Johnson hotel in Plainview, though blind, is as active as most men who can see. He is 60 years old and ten years ago lost his sight. He manages the business of the hotel, knows persons of town and is a chiropractor.

John Shuster of near Clarkson, swallowed a silver dollar when playing with his son last week. He was hiding the dollar from the child and put it in his mouth. When he laughed the coin slipped down his throat. He was taken to Omaha to have the dollar removed.

The city of Randolph proposes to issue bonds amounting to $4000, drawing five and one-half percent interest. These would be used to take up a similar amount of bonds drawing six percent interest.

Cedar county has bought three improved tractors for maintaining the county roads. The county also bought a carload of snow fences which have been placed. The fences have done much to prevent drifting snow on the roads.

Herbert Carstens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Carstens of Pierce, underwent an operation in a Norfolk hospital for removal of a piece of the skull which was pressing on his brain. The young man was in an automobile accident Dec. 13 and his skull was fractured at that time.

The W. C. Sabin family of Laurel, had a reunion last week. Miss Mildred Sabin who is with the Student Prince Opera company of Chicago, Clarence who is attending medical college in Omaha, and Milo who has been in California for three years, were present. The young people have been students at the Wayne State Normal.

Fatal Gas Fumes—Bristow, Neb., Dec. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Barnes, 72, aged settlers of Nebraska and residents of this city, are dead as a result of being asphyxiated by gas fumes from a hard coal heating stove, while sleeping in their home on Christmas eve. Mrs. Barnes died about 1 o'clock this morning, while her husband was found dead yesterday about noon.

D. H. Kline and Joe Bobac of Bristow found Mr. Barnes dead in bed, following an investigation made because the aged couple did not arrive at a Bristow home where they were to spend Christmas dinner. When the two men arrived they could hear Mrs. Barnes breathing heavily. Efforts were made to revive her, but she passed away early this morning.

Persons whom Mr. and Mrs. Barnes were to visit arrived at the home yesterday morning, but as there were no answers to their knocking—they left thinking the aged couple had gone ahead.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnes were Nebraska homesteaders, having settled near Stuart during the early days. They had been residents of Bristow for a number of years, living alone in their home. Mr. Barnes was a Civil war veteran.

They are survived by two daughters, Mrs. Luke Woods, Norfolk; Mrs. Smith, Indiana; three sons, Edward, Mission, S. D.; Roy, Kansas, and one living in Idaho.

Sonny always wants to know what makes the wheels go round, while father often wonders what makes them stop.

THERE is a difference in dollars. There is the "tramp" dollar—the dollar that is spent away from home. Then there is the home dollar with its home circulation—home benefits, home profits. Though both of these dollars are marked One Hundred Cents, the home dollar continues to multiply itself—at home—for here community interests are mutual. The success of this City contributes to the success of everybody in it. A prosperous city rests on individual prosperity. Not so with the "Tramp" dollar—once spent it is gone forever. The advantage to you of spending your dollar at home is greater than the tramp dollar can possibly buy—if it bought you one hundred cents worth—which it cannot possibly do, because the other fellow must take a profit. There is a big truth in this worth your serious thought.

Your Advantage

In the line of buying at home, remember we can please you in price, quality and service. We have everything you need in men's and boys' clothing, and you don't have to wait for supplies until they arrive from some remote house.

The One who forgot

By RUBY M. AYRES

Begin Here Today.

In a small London apartment Nan Marsby and Joan Enidcott had been longing for the day when the Great War would be ended and Peter Lyster, Nan's sweetheart, and Tim Enidcott, Joan's husband, would come back to them.

Six weeks previous to the time of this story, however, Peter was reported seriously injured.

The flight John Arnott brought the tidings that Peter had lost his memory—that he did not remember his engagement to Joan. Peter's mother, Mrs. Enidcott, was the only one who remembered his engagement. She faces him when he leaves in London.

Arnott tells Nan about his unsuccessful attempts to make Peter remember his engagement. He tells of finding her letters and a photograph of her.

Now Go On With the Story.

"I know," Nan tried to laugh, but it was more like a sob. "A dreadful photograph I had taken last year on the sands at Margate—that was before I knew him—and the sun was in my eyes and my hair blowing all over the place, but it was the only one I had, and so it was what I kept."

She stopped, with a desolating memory of the day she had given it to Lyster, and of how he had kissed it and put it away in his tunic when they said goodbye.

"Yes," said Arnott. "Yes, that was the one. It was there, with your letters. I wanted to show it to him, but the doctor wouldn't allow it. He said it was no good forcing things—know something about it," Arnott said unceasingly; he seemed to take her silence for negation. After a moment he held out his hand.

"I can't say goodnight, then—I may call tomorrow and bring your letters."

"Thank you," he held her hand hard for a moment. "I think you're a wonderful woman," he said simply.

"Oh!" Nan laughed hoarsely. "Oh, I'm not, really. If you could only see me into my heart, you'd know how I'm crying and railing against fate—goodnight—she said, and turning—"

Arnott walked soberly away through the darkness. His own opinion of women was not great; every one who had treated him badly, and more out of obstinacy than anything he had chosen to class the whole sex under one heading ever since. Nan had shown him a mistake—Nan was not the sort of woman to let a man down; she had taken this blow like a hero—and had faced it unflinchingly; not a tear—not a sign of a tear—that was what filled Arnott with amazement.

What would she do? He knew that the thought had been in her mind that Lyster had not genuinely forgotten her—she knew that the doubt was there even now, though she had seen him, and for the first time the suspicion seemed to drive a wedge into his mind to him.

Lyster was still in the reading room when he got back to the hotel;

there, and look at him, and know that I was no more to him than anybody else in the world—not so much even as the little—doll—he was talking to! Oh, yes—she added rock-lessly. "He wasn't alone. There was a girl with him when I walked into the room. I suppose that was partly why Mr. Arnott tried to keep me out. She was quite a nice little thing—pretty—but I felt as if I could—could have killed her."

"And you spoke to him—Nan—what did you say?"

"I said I had come for my gloves—that I had left them there—it was a lie, of course—I'd never been in the room before. They both helped me look for them—they moved cushions and things—just to get rid of me, I suppose—I was in the way—they didn't want me there—spoiling sport!"

Joan watched her with fascinated astonishment.

"It was all like a nightmare," Nan said again. She felt as if she must go on talking. "I wonder I didn't fall down dead—but I suppose it is only in books that people do that kind of thing."

Joan laid a hand on her lap.

"Dear Nan, I wish I could help you. You've been through a terrible time, and it seems horrible that I've got to stand by and not be able to help."

"I think you're a wonderful woman."

that had far better fit him alone. He always got so excited when we tried to make him remember anything.

"But my name," Nan said eagerly. "Surely when you spoke my name to him—"

"I don't think I did speak it. I think I said was, hadn't I better write and tell the girl in England?"

He broke off. "A little dry sob had escaped Nan."

"No," she said as he passed.

"Go on, please, please."

"He asked me what I meant. He said that I knew there was nobody in England on careful foot. I remember he had told me months before that he hadn't a relation in the world."

"Yes, I knew that," Nan answered. "He came from Vancouver when the war broke out and joined his old regiment."

Arnott's admiration of this girl was growing. She had grit, real grit.

"What are you going to do," he asked presently. "I—I have to do that that I've had to bring this trouble to you. I'd give my right hand if I could undo it."

"England! I'd give a great deal more than that," she told him. "But it wouldn't do any good. And—and all my letters!" She asked him to have them. "I'll send them back to you if you wish."

"Yes. Then, if you will, please let me have them."

"I'll bring them round tomorrow." She had reached the flat now, and Arnott stopped.

Arnott's one thing I wanted to ask you," he said hesitatingly. "Of course, you may not know anything about it, but—but Lyster has just been talking about a signet ring of his, apparently it was a great favorite. Something seemed to catch Nan by the throat; for a moment she could not answer.

"The ring that even then lay against her heart! The ring he had given her because it had been his most treasured possession—and he did not even remember having given it.

"I thought perhaps you might Coolidge, Borah and Pease.

Omaha, Mo., President Coolidge is studying the invitation to attend the arms conference at Geneva. He wants to know just what is involved, what is proposed, and how far the United States will become obligated by the result of the deliberations. This is commendable caution. The preliminary conference, from which the invitation emanated, is considering agenda for the main gathering, at which matters submitted will be taken up in detail.

The president proceeds with full knowledge that consent of the congress is required before delegates can be sent to discuss with other nations certain things that may bind the United States. This is because of the apprehension on part of a certain element in congress that the executive will always be in the hands of his dealings with foreign policies. A reminder of the journeys made by Woodrow Wilson to Paris.

However, in the present instance, there is noted little occasion for fear. Mr. Coolidge has not only consulted with the secretary of state, Mr. Kellogg, but he has the opinion of two former secretaries of state, Messrs. Hughes and Root. On top of this, he has taken counsel with Senator Borah. For a wonder, Mr. Borah left the White House, saying he was in accord with the president's plan, but carefully refraining from giving any information as to what that plan is.

The United States can only appear at a disarmament conference as an example. Our navy is well below the strength authorized in the 5-3 agreement, while our army stands slightly two-thirds of the authorized strength. If other nations can be persuaded to follow our lead, a lot of men now bearing arms and living off the taxpayers will be released to swell the ranks of the workers. As Europe turns to peace, revival of industry and commerce will mean the solution of other problems comparatively easy. Among these will be the question of markets, now the biggest of all the hurdles in the world. The United States should be at the Geneva conference on arms.

Climate and Crops.

Hastington Herald: We infer from the last interesting letter of J. P. Jenal that he is laboring under two delusions: first, the corn crop in Cedar county is a failure; and second, that Nebraska is having an early winter this year. On the contrary, the exact opposite is true. The Cedar county corn crop is very far from being a failure and the winter in this state is one of the latest.

TOBEY AND TYKE

By Redner

est that has been known in many years. It is true that we did not have a bumper crop of corn in this county this year, but it was fully up to the average both in quality and quantity; and, as for the weather, "sunny" Southern California could scarcely produce anything finer. We experienced a little rough weather in October, but, since that time, Indian summer has prevailed during the greater part of the time—and the light snow fall of the past week is the first of the winter. So it would appear that Mr. Jenal has gained a wrong impression of conditions in his old home state.

Mud may be a beautifier, but not to country roads.

Playing Nurse to Llama

FRED NEVELL of the Boston, Mass., Zoo, has a large assignment on his hands these days.

Nevel is giving "Dan," the nine-week-old llama his bottle at regular feeding time. "Dan's" mother died shortly after his birth and Nevel has been playing nurse girl ever since.

"Dan" follows Nevel all about the zoo when meal times approach.
