Men Are Exonerated From Murder Charge

Sioux City Journal: Back home at spending Friday night in jail at Center, Neb., where they were held in connection with the death of an 8-year-old farmer boy of Bloomfield, Neb., two men were exonerated of any blame in connection with the death of the boy, Delmer Poppe, who it was discovered after questioning several witnesses, had met his death accidentally when he fell out of an automobile driven by his brother.

Strong and Gorman said that they knew nothing about the death of the 8-year-old boy until a vigilante confronted them with a shotgun and ordered them to throw up their hands after informing them that they were wanted for killing a boy.

The peddlers said that they went to the farm of Henry Poppe and asked Mrs. Poppe, who was sitting on the porch with a neighbor woman, if she wanted any fish. Before she could answer one of the boys who was sitting in the Poppe automobile, told the peddlers that they did not want any fish.

Brother Accused Them. Gorman said he first asked the boy if he was the boss. When he gave a negative reply Gorman asked him how he knew then that his mother did not want any fish. Mrs. Poppe then said that she had purchased fish from peddlers before and that the quality never had been as good as they said.

The peddlers then left the farm yard, they said, and started south about 10 miles after they left, the Poppe boys drove their father's automobile out of the yard and started in the opposite direction. After the peddlers had gone down the road a short distance they decided that they would call on a customer residing on a farm north of the Poppe place.

The men said that they did not see the Poppe boys again after they left the Poppe farm. While calling on their old customer they were confronted by the vigilante, who placed them under arrest and notified a deputy sheriff. They immediately were taken to Center and placed in jail, the peddlers said.

The older brother of the dead boy admitted after questioning by the county attorney of Knox county Saturday morning that Delmer had been thrown out of the automobile when the driver brought the car to sudden halt while trying the brakes.

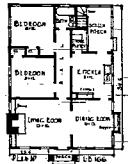

However, he was too frightened to tell his parents about the accident and sought to lay the blame of the boy's death on the peddlers with whom he had argued at the Poppe home a short time before.

Before returning home after they had been released, Strong and Gorman took up a collection for the bereavement of the dead boy, who it is said, have had several financial reverses recently. Both Gorman and Strong admitted that they were thoroughly frightened for awhile Friday night when they were taken to the jail.

Charming Corner Lot Plan

Home builders planning for a corner lot will be more pleased with the house after it is finished if they have remembered to consider the attractiveness of the side-next the street. The treatment given this house seems to suggest that, inside, one may find the quiet charm and intimacy that characterize the successful home. It is a five-room plan of exceptional compactness combined with roominess.

Rain-and-Corn
Omaha, Neb., August 19. It now appears likely that some damage has been done the Nebraska corn crop. Just how much it is, probably, too early to say. This is the first period in the life of the corn crop and a situation that looks bad today may be much changed for the better to-morrow or next week. Certainly the recent rains, which were general over the state, have improved conditions considerably ever since the first few days ago. A little rain goes a long ways with the corn at this stage. Nature has so fashioned the plant that it is able to make the most of a good rain fall, its broad leaves serving to catch and conduct the water to the stalk so that each plant receives its moisture in concentrated form.

Whether the crop will turn out to be two-thirds, three-quarters or some other major fraction of normal, the fact remains that there will be a corn crop and one whose returns will cut a big figure in the state's income. Considering the weather conditions under which the crop has been made, the really remarkable thing is that there is more one left to speculate over.

The Omaha weather bureau reports for this city and vicinity a total deficiency of more than ten inches of precipitation since the first of January. This is about half the normal rainfall for the period and follows a previous year which showed a deficiency of more than eight inches.

In the pioneering days drought conditions such as have prevailed this year would have meant disastrous general failure. Today the worst that can probably happen will be isolated cases of local hardship. There are several reasons. For one thing the state has ceased to depend upon a single crop for its living. Moreover, better methods of cultivation and the acclimatization of a harder, drought-resistant type of corn has made the state's major crop a more dependable one. Then, too, it has seemed this year as though providence has managed to send such rain as it has given us at just the critical moment when it was most needed.

Hanging.
Dr. A. L. Thayer is this in favor of the hanging of those of our fellow-criminals who overstep the bounds of propriety, we don't have to pay $300 for the service of an outside professional to spring the trap. The mechanism is so simple anybody can work it.

Economy it seems to be, from foolishness exempt, and 'tis a pleasant sight to see a fellow-man stretch hemp. All wickedness will have its run when sinners dare, one by-one.

Lifting them to a "higher" sphere is going some I'll say; They're no abiding city here—

Why should they wish to stay? Humanity's most vital hope, Rests in potential coils of rope.

To save the world I find no joke; The way, sans waste of breath, Is this—in every instance clear: The criminal to death, Goodness and mercy cannot thrive While anybody is alive.

And with the last man to survive "What shall be done, you ask? I'll frame an answer, man alive. Since equal to the task; No gain for him in power or pelf, He'll soon decide to hang himself.

Dogs.
Hartington Herald: Whether dogs and other of the so-called lower animals has souls or not is a metaphysical question which will never be solved for the reason that the soul is an intangible, entity impossible of definition, but one thing is certain and that is that these dumb creatures have intelligence, in many cases, not only equal but superior to that of man. Animals possess more than instinct—they have intelligence and that of so high an order in some species that it is difficult to draw the line of demarcation between it and the mind of the human. One should not flatter himself with his alleged superiority until he has carefully observed the habits of the other members of the animal kingdom.

Comedy Will Come To Crystal Theatre

A fast moving comedy of the same type as "Too Many Kisses", "The Shock Puller" and "Woman-anthracite" and full of rip-snorting fun. That's the general description of Richard Dix's latest Paramount farce, "Let's Get Married," arriving at the Crystal tomorrow.

Dix plays the part of a wild young chap who suddenly resolves to reform and become a successful business man, but who has an awful time keeping his resolution. He endeavors to take a job as a salesman for his father, a manufacturer of kyanite brooks, before he has been at the job very long. He finds himself in jail and doesn't know how to account for his absence to the little lady he loves, Lois Wilson. But everything is solved, and after a series of fast, exciting, exceedingly funny adventures, Richard comes out on top.

Jim's the Walcher.
Lincoln Journal: The failure of Gov. Ferguson to carry out her promise to resign in case she did not receive more votes than her principal competitor at the primary will prove a general disappointment. The obvious remark that a woman cannot be a real statesman does not apply in this case, because "Ma" is clearly under the thumb of Jim, her husband. If there is any weilding he is apparently the guilty one.

A Fatal Breather.
"Everybody's Magazine."
Mark Twain hated a gloomy man," said a New York editor. "Once, at a banquet, a very gloomy man sat beside him. This man's mouth-side at the most amusing jokes revealed."
"What's the matter with you?" cried Mark Twain. "The stories are all good. Why don't you laugh?"
"Ah—ah," said the gloomy man, "I wish, 'how can I laugh when I remember that every time I breathe a soul passes into the great beyond?"
"Good gracious!" said the humorist. "Did you ever try cloves?"

A Cedar county farmer has developed a system of irrigation for his land. The plan is to be in operation in a few years, and his plan is said to be a success and worthy of imitation. Cedar county has been the scene of many such schemes in the past few years, and it is no wonder farmers up there are figuring out ways to safeguard themselves in the future.

The first seeds of crime are sown in childhood, and parents are in a large measure responsible. If a parent thinks his youngster is doing something cute—stealing a pie, or taking a dishonest trick, offering no reprimand, understanding of the difference between right and wrong is being taught. The youngster will grow up and all ways is encouraged. Children should early learn to respect the rights of others, leading to respect for the laws and customs of the country.

Miss Charlotte M. White, well known and highly esteemed Wayne county pianist, and who has been mentioned on critical observations covering many years she has found that men like away more time in useless conversation. They not only do not admit that women do some talking and offers herself as proof, but then thinks and would have us proclaim the fact that men waste more time in giving vent to vapory notions than any people ever lived with, and we should be true allies with the power of speech. And she adds with evident feeling that she likes all men.

If it were not a fact—that the greatest enjoyment one derives from life is that which is derived from home, we might suspect, from the number of pleasure-seeking travelers, going and coming, that we would in time become a nation of nomads with no fixed residence, but wandering from place to place. A real one hundred per cent nomad would not be content to look after or leave to worry about. He would not stay long enough in one place to acquire either the habit of settling down, or the utilization evolved from the centuries, when established homes and the advantages of long acquaintance.

Jack Parsons of Pilger, who some months ago claimed that he was about to fall heir to an English fortune, has been arrested at the instance of his father-in-law who alleges that he obtained money on a forged note. While stories of the impending fortune were being told through the air, Parsons boasted that he proposed to make his father-in-law's farm near Pilger the "show place of Nebraska" and to add to his inherited property, a portion to be charged in the federal court with using the mails to send. He says he is satisfied of being made the butt of "jokes." More tired, we would suspect, is his father-in-law.

Changing of the sentence of Donald Lee convicted of killing a man, Moore at Hastings in October, 1924, from death to life imprisonment is a relief to people who do not believe in capital punishment. Likely he is guilty. So said two courts, and so believe members of the board of pardons. But the extension of the sentence caused the act of clemency. Many people do not believe in capital punishment.

LAWYERS.
A busy and successful lawyer must have a versatile mind. Besides legal knowledge, he must possess a large amount of common sense. People visit a lawyer by appointment as they do a dentist. It must be able to give his clients little things and to get them from a neighborhood dispute to an involved financial problem. Complication of straightening out the real estate title is usually changed to that of straightening out threatening domestic tangles. Through any one task, he can take his mind around a matter for section for law, meditation and rest, but must immediately apply it to a different question. He must analyze clearly and express sound judgment carefully. To reach his mind, he must be fair to the opposition. He must be honest and patient, and he should have a sense of humor to deal with his nerves. His mind should be a dynamo of great force and endurance, capable of tackling any subject, and needs of every law case common sense.

the death—penalty in expiation of murder reduces crime, and they think the act tends to brutalize society. To them an execution, even though it is a horror, is a blessing. They believe a murderer ought to be securely removed from society, but they wish to see that a murderer who kills a party to a retaliatory killing.

OUT in the senatorial district comprising Custer and four other counties, E. R. Purcell, publisher of the Broken Bow Chief, has been named for state senator. Purcell was one of the leaders in the last session of the senate, and his constructive public service is a powerful argument in support of his reelection. It would seem to be but good judgment on the part of his district to return to the senate and reinvest him with the task which he has performed so well. Mr. Purcell is president of the Commercial club, a member of the executive committee of the Nebraska Press association. We like him because he has made the most of his position, and he is not a member of the executive committee of the Nebraska Press association. We like him because he has made the most of his position, and he is not a member of the executive committee of the Nebraska Press association.

Party nominations having been made at the last primary, the campaign for election will soon develop activity. Public officers are not so desirable from a salary standpoint as they might be. Pay no more than compensation in other lines is so much greater than it was in the old days, that office-holding has become a scramble for office has disappeared. It is not difficult to find more profit outside of office. Many a man who is pecuniarily well qualified to serve as a representative in congress or as a public servant elsewhere, is liable to earn more money in his accustomed business or professional channels. If a man has his family well provided for, and if he is inclined to public service, it may be better for him to do so. But by that time he may be so old that if he does not lack the energy, he will lack the pep and punch that would make his public service worth while.

The editor of the Newman Grove Reporter accounts the following as a peddler of silk hosiery who called on him recently. He told him he made his living as a peddler, and developed all the public advantages that enjoyed from a local thrift and enterprise. To prove the greatest success he had was that he had rolled up his pantaloons or trousers and showed that he not only wore socks, (not an unusual habit among peddlers) but that he wore them were of a grade that the peddler confessed would charge more for than did the home dealer. The peddler admitted the logic of the editor's reasoning, but said he sold half of the business men of Newman Grove from his home, but he would not do among them. The editor set a worthy example for other business men in the matter of patronizing peddlers. He said he would not save any money, but indicated an assault on possibilities for growth; also—as an assault on sentiment which comes in handy when one is sick or dead (and needs buying) or when one needs substantial friendships.

WINTER.
We are reminded of the approach of winter and of the time when we will have to stock fire and put on heavy clothing. In the meantime, we will enjoy the best period of the year. Autumn brings completion of the harvest. Crops are gathered and put on the shelves. It is a time to use. Agriculture begins to realize cash returns from the year's work. Good-living in the fall is ideal. September tempers the heat of summer and brings cooling coolness to the air. It quickens the blood and stirring, sluggish spirits into action. October is anticipated with delight. It accentuates the stimulating chill of September, and it points forward to grand colors—heightened beauty preliminary to the howl of winter. November may not be a glorious month. It is capable of turning some mean tricks, but it seldom does.

Editors' Trip To Catalina Island

Spent Five Days in San Francisco And Return Home by Their Chosen Routes.

The National Editorial Association holding convention in California in July, spent one day at Catalina Island, before leaving Los Angeles to go to San Francisco. The party went to Wilmington and the trip to the island was provided by William Wrigley, Jr., president of the association.

The association spent five days in San Francisco. Guests were taken on trips north, east and south of the city. They went to the Cliff house, the military cadets' barracks, the heart of Santa Barbara, the heart of San Francisco, the city of San Francisco, the city of San Francisco, the city of San Francisco.

The park in Santa Barbara is also interesting. A tree from every country in the world is planted here. The Smarckand hotel in Santa Barbara was a few years ago a private school for boys.

After going to the Hotel Del Monte at Monterey, which is one of the country's finest hotels and which is surrounded by a 20,000 acre private sports-reserve, the party was taken about the city which was the first capital of California. The city of Monterey building, the first theatre on the coast, the first federal court were here and some of the buildings are still standing.

THE NEBRASKA STATE FAIR IS A MONSTER SHOW. The Nebraska State Fair is growing by leaps and bounds. The 176 Baby Beaves exhibited by the Club Boys and Girls last year has broken the 500 exhibit this year. The greatest livestock show in Nebraska's history is assured. The state exhibit at the Agricultural Building has taken every available inch of space. A $15,000,000 exhibit of the magnificent building erected last year has just been completed to take care of the fair's Auto Show. The Machinery Grounds have been greatly enlarged to accommodate the growing exhibits. Every year is a bigger and better and grander. The Nebraska State Fair is the largest of the World's Great Expositions. More than a million dollars has been expended in grand equipment to properly show Nebraska's Great Resources. The Great Racing Program, the Great Free Acts, the Wonderful Night Program, the Stupendous Fireworks Productions, the World's Greatest Musical Organizations, and the hundreds of other entertaining features all combine in making the Nebraska State Fair one of the outstanding Educational and Recreational shows of this country. It is Meritly Clean, and depicts Nebraska's Great Resources in a wonderful way. Millions of people will go through the gates this year. Free camp grounds are waiting for you. Let's go. At Lincoln, Sept. 5-10 design. The Chinese are now building apartment houses in their section. The ambassador from China and the president of the chamber of commerce spoke. A Chinaman who is over eight feet tall and who has acted as body-guard to the emperor of China, was present. He had just come to this country.

After the close of the convention in San Francisco, the members of the N. E. A. party went home by their chosen routes. We went up the Sacramento valley to Klamath Falls, Ore., Crater Lake National Park, Portland, Seattle and Vancouver. From Vancouver we came through the Pacific Northwest to Minneapolis. The scenery at Crater lake and through the Rockies was especially wonderful. Dorothy Huse Nyberg.

Postponed. Superior Express: We are occasionally cramped for space, but as yet we have not been relegated to the facilities of the Iowa newspaper that carried the following notice one week: "Owing to the lack of space and the rush of editing this issue, several births and deaths will be postponed until next week." Cherished Liberties. Harrington Herald: It may be that all this effort which is being made to prevent railroad crossing accidents is ill advised. This is a free country and it is perhaps one of the American citizen's "inalienable rights" to kill himself by trying to beat a locomotive across the tracks. Evidently, the amount of warning is holed and no campaign of prevention is effectual and it is possible that the motorist should be let alone in the exercise of his right to death, liberty and the pursuit of happiness on the railroad crossings. This much may be said in favor of people who insist on risking their lives in this way - it helps to solve the problem of over population, with which economists have had to deal in all ages. As long as the present rate of mortality continues, the problem is never liable to become very acute in this country. More than 3000 attended the annual Boone, Madison and Platte county old timers picnic last Thursday in Newman Grove. Edgar Howard of Columbus, spoke.

The Dakota City Eagle says that Crystal Lake is lower than it has been for twenty years. They have also constructed a formidable array of outworks, viz: a great number of iron rails driven into the ground about 15 feet, over which the Short Line folk will find difficulty in passing, unless they fly. Legal Notice In the County Court of Wayne County, Nebraska. In the matter of the Estate of Lucy E. Jones, deceased. The State of Nebraska, Wayne County, ss. Notice is hereby given that Theobald Forman Lumber Company has filed a petition in said County alleging that on the 18th day of October, 1925, D. E. Brainerd was duly appointed Administrator of said estate; that on the 14th day of May, 1926 said D. E. Brainerd died, and that said estate has not been fully administered upon, and praying that some suitable person be appointed Administrator. Hearing will be on said petition before me at the County Court room in Wayne, Nebraska, on the 29th day of August, 1926, at 10 o'clock a. m. J. M. Cherry, County Judge. 4513 Try a Wayne Herald Want Ad.

Treasury Department, Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, Washington, D. C., July 15, 1926. Notice is hereby given to all persons who may have claims against the Citizens National Bank of Wayne, Nebraska, that the same must be presented to Frank W. McRoberts, Receiver, with the legal proof therefor, within three months from this date, or they may be disallowed. J. M. Cherry, Comptroller of the Currency. The Farming Paradox. Lincoln Journal: One of the vital problems of the human race, Dr. C. J. Brand reminds the Williams County audience of politics, is to secure greater productivity from the soil. Failing soil fertility, he remembers has facilitated the decline and fall of past civilizations. It will undermine and destroy present civilizations if permitted to occur again. The goes strangely with the current agricultural stagnation in the United States. Agriculture is unprofitable, or at least less profitable than other industry. The reason commonly given is too great productivity. The farmers are turning out more food than can be sold at profitable prices. The paradox is explainable without violence to Dr. Brand's view. He is thinking of world food. There is not and never has been more food produced than the population of the world could with good results consume. The while America is producing more food than its farmers can sell at a profit, hundreds of million of people elsewhere are suffering from lack of food. It is fast here, famine there. This is largely a man-made paradox. Human wisdom has been inadequate to the task of bringing the bursting granary and the empty stomach in speaking distance. There is a market for America's extra food. We reject it rather than accept it. We pay the services of the distant peoples who need it. We export our own touch of that food shortage which undermines civilization. We must wait, accordingly, as Dr. Brand says, another fifteen or twenty years. By that time our population will have caught up with our food production and we shall have ourselves such a food problem as perpetually perplexes the crowded peoples of other countries. Meanwhile, we we to make that problem the more perplexing when it arrives, by permitting our agriculture, under the weight of a temporary, artificially-enforced glut to sink too still lower level of productivity. This raises perhaps the chief coming test for American statesmanship. American statesmen should strangely ignores the demand upon it. Notice of Settlement of Account. In the County Court of Wayne County, Nebraska. The State of Nebraska, Wayne County, ss. To all persons interested in the estate of John Knoll, deceased: On reading the petition of Herman Lundberg, Administrator, praying a final settlement and allowance of his account filed in this Court on the 9th day of August, 1926, and for distribution of the residue of said estate. It is hereby ordered that you, and all persons interested in said matter may, and do, appear at the County Court to be held in and for said county, on the 27th day of August, 1926, at 10 o'clock a. m. to show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted, and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing there of be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Wayne Herald, a weekly newspaper printed in said county, three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing. J. M. Cherry, County Judge. 41213 Undesirable Investigations. Newman Giffen Reporter: Down at York when the state of Nebraska established a reformatory for delinquent young women a number of years ago, the city sent a delegation to Lincoln to interview the governor and ask that the new institution be established in their beautiful little city. Just why any town would want an institution of this kind seemed a little hard to determine and the Reporter predicted that the city was doing something that they had not taken serious consideration of at the time. Recently the inmates of the institution mutinied and in a body marched uptown and made a complaint of the treatment they received. An investigation by the board of control followed and the whole affair has become a nasty mess. The people of York have made the discovery that they have a white elephant on their hands and would gladly be rid of the institution. The farther a town can be located from an institution of this kind the better off it is. Control Your Loans. A loan in our association gives you absolute control over that loan. We are a co-operative organization and you borrowers are the real owners. This great advantage, together with the lowest rates obtainable, make your best farm loan you can secure anywhere. Forest Ranger on Top of Harney Peak Spots Fires and Reports by Telephone

On top of Harney Peak in the Black Hills of South Dakota, which is the highest point between the Rockies and the Atlantic, stands a national forest lookout station. Here one of Ugolesian's forest rangers stands guard over forests in the Black Hills. By a telephone line from headquarters below to the lookout station, the ranger, shown in the insert above, reports the locations of fires. This enables the forest rangers to extinguish them before they have gained much headway.

Business.
Sioux City Journal: To date, the general business situation in this country far ahead of anything heretofore recorded. So far, the condition of business for the year is a record. Industrial activity for the first six months of 1926 according to the Federal reserve board, has surpassed all previous figures, and when it is considered that there was a recession in April and May and that foreign trade fell off in the last fiscal year, the trade balance in favor of this country the months of 1926 about 75 per cent, the situation here is all the more remarkable.

July was a good month, although there were many things that kept it from being a much better one. There was a slight decrease in industrial operations because of several major steel plants closing down for plant operations, repair work and inventories. Besides, as the federal reserve board statement points out, it was a vacation period. Yet with all that and the additional fact that April and May fell somewhat behind other months, the fact of the year shows record figures. That is most encouraging, especially in view of the fact that elsewhere in the world economic problems are still unsolved and little progress toward a normal condition has been made.

Street operations and the automobile industry are an exceptionally fine shape. The volume specifications and new business in the steel industry encourage the hope that by the end of the year another record will have been made. Already the reports in the steel industry can show record transactions for the first half year. Meanwhile the motor car output is above the average with no sign of a slump in sales. The industry itself has been amazed by the demand for new cars, and there is no more talk of the saturation point being anywhere near. General motors, considered the leader in the industry, has enjoyed a remarkable business gain. For the first six months of the year the profits of this one concern were over $5,000,000 of what they were for the entire year of 1925. General Motors stock has been reflecting the prosperity of this one concern in emphatic fashion. It has gained more than 100 points in the past year and dividends have been surprisingly large.

As to the agricultural situation it can be said now that the crop yield is not going to be so disappointing when attention is called to money values. Corn is short, being placed by government experts at about 329,000,000 bushels below last year's exceptionally large crop and about 175,000,000 under the five-year average. The corn crop is valued at $2,000,000,000 for the country. Iowa farmers will receive about $600,000,000 for their crop, provided of course feeding is sold to expectations. If the crop is sold at harvest at prevailing prices the return will not be so large. Meanwhile wheat is up to a high figure for yield. There was a shortage in the spring wheat states, but the crop for the whole country is $7,000,000 bushels higher than the five-year average. Its value is put at $1,175,000,000, and the return per acre is around $20. Much small grain suffered in July from the hot winds and drought and vast fields in the northwest were not even harvested.

-Growing corn in northwestern Iowa and adjacent neighborhoods in South Dakota and Nebraska has developed wonderfully in the last two or three weeks. Rains have been frequent and temperatures suitable for development to maturity. Personal interviews with farmers in various communities elicit the same information, that the rains came in the nick of time to save the crop from complete failure, but at present there is a feeling of optimism over the outlook.

-Gus Wendt—who is with the mail-gus company, spent the week-end visiting here in the Gus Wendt home.

Fortyone Years as a National 1885 Bank 1926

Member of the Federal Reserve Bank, Strongest Financial Institution in the World

THE First National Bank of Wayne became a National Bank on August 25, 1885, when it was evolved from the pioneer Logan Valley Bank. After fortyone years as a National Bank, this institution is able to make a showing that is most gratifying to stockholders and to the general public. From the beginning this bank has maintained an even keel through all the storm periods that have come into the business world. It has surmounted every depression of the times. It has triumphed over every financial crisis. Its bulwark of resources and its conservative methods justify popular confidence. In return, the steadfast loyalty of the public is thoroughly appreciated.

The First National Bank has been closely linked with development of the town and surrounding territory. It has been constructively progressive and at the same time soundly conservative. It has been a source of strength to worthy enterprise, and has helped steer many a bark over dangerous-waters. It has been sustaining, and in return it has been wonderfully sustained. It has grown with the community, has been in accord with the community and has been a part of the community. Built on the success of those we have helped.

The First National has all the functions of a good bank. An important auxiliary is its savings department, which is taken advantage of by a steadily increasing number of patrons. It opens the way to systematic saving and permanent financial gain. The popularity of this department is amply warranted, and it will therefore grow.

The First National, mounting as a tower of financial strength, invites additions to its army of depositors. No account is too small to receive the most careful attention. Sound business methods are reflected in the minutest details, and every one, regardless of the size of his bank account, is given utmost consideration and is treated with utmost courtesy. Seeking new business on our record.

Reviewing its history, the First National sees a future full of bright and encouraging promise.

This week on Friday will close in the evening by the children in connection with the Luther League. The parents and friends as well as all Luther Leaguers are urged to come. There have been over fifty children enrolled in the school. We are glad for this attendance, also for the good will manifested in the support of the school.

The biennial Luther League convention of the Nebraska conference will be held at Wahoo, Neb., next week, beginning Wednesday evening and continuing over Sunday. The local League will be represented by delegates. We are informed that there will be a large number of other Leaguers in attendance from Salem. The pastor will also attend this convention, therefore, Mr. A. E. Nimrod will conduct the divine services on Sunday the 22nd.

This coming Sunday, August 22, will be the last Sunday for Student Paul Westerberg as assistant to the pastor. We will lift an offering Sunday morning at both services which will be presented to him as a token of appreciation for the splendid work done by him at this time. Mr. Westerberg will leave for Rock Island to attend college there and in the time the seminary to be prepared for the ministry. May we have many young men from Salem who will follow his example.

 (Rev. P. Farmer, Pastor.)

The church school holds its regular session next Sunday at the usual hour. We hope everyone will make a special effort to be in attendance. No preaching service as the pastor is having his vacation. They shall take hold with larger, clearer vision of God's power unto salvation.

Only a few weeks remain of the summer. We urge you to put your shoulders to the wheel and help make the closing days ones of victory?
