

Gives Addresses On Constitution

Fred S. Berry Speaks to Kiwanis on Ideals of Popular Government.

Week Is Observed Local Groups Cooperate in National Bar Association Movement.

In observance of National Constitution week, September 12 to 18, Fred S. Berry addressed the Wayne Kiwanis club Monday and the Wayne high school Wednesday. The Constitution week movement, started by the American Bar association, is being promoted by the state bar association, the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs, the schools and churches and other organizations. The purpose is to remove misunderstandings and indifference in the attitude toward government. This country is changing from a representative form of government to a democratic form of government. The latter gives the people the right to direct vote. Everyone wants the people to have these rights but also wants all voters to act intelligently and to understand the ideals of government.

As stated by Mr. Berry at the Kiwanis club meeting, the hope of the bar association is that people in this country may all be able to understand the constitution and to realize what government under the constitution means. A better citizenship will result from that each citizen owes to the government and should take an interest in the affairs of the state. The constitution, as asserted by Mr. Berry, only fifty percent of the voters went to the polls. If government is to be democratic and the people are to have these rights, they must take an interest in affairs.

Under the original constitution the people had no direct power by popular vote. The president was elected by electors. The United States senators were appointed by legislators. The courts were chosen. Because the framers of the original constitution did not base on thorough information and because the people could not directly be heard, they were wanted at a time, these checks and balances were provided. This prevented hasty action.

Now ten or twelve years ago the people have demanded more rights in government. They secured the right to elect United States senators by popular vote. The government is changing rapidly from the representative form established by the framers to a democratic form. Therefore, asserted the speaker, it is the privilege and duty of the voters to be enlightened on the details of the constitution and to act intelligently in carrying out the ideals of the government.

DUMB-BELLS.

A dumb-bell is a fellow who disapproves of the constitution in a particular endeavor. A man who is a scholar and gentleman, but who knows little about driving an automobile, and next to no travel. A man who can recite the Greek alphabet, but who does not know whether a gilt is a pig or a calf or a cross suit. A dumb-bell who lives close is under consideration. A man who can play golf, but who bungles in tennis is a dumb-bell. A fellow who is being reviewed by an expert. A wonderful mathematician is likely to have slight interest in taking an exam. If he is considered a dumb-bell if he attempts to travel in the field of letters. One may be brilliant and successful in one thing, but if he gets out of his accustomed field and attempts unfamiliar tasks, he may qualify as a dumb-bell in the eyes of the man who can do well the thing, in trying which he stumbles and fails.

Enroll Students In College Here

Registration in Normal School and Training Department Total 860 to Date.

Most of High Rank

Classes in Advanced Subjects Are Crowded More Than Secondary Order.

Enrollment Monday afternoon and Tuesday at the Wayne State Teachers College totaled about 610 and these will be added to the number of this year. The first days last fall showed a total of 535. The registration this week is larger than at the opening of previous fall terms. Others will register the opening weeks and the total will be swelled by enrollments at the opening of the second quarter. The 610 does not include the training school which has a larger number of pupils than usual. In the training department about 250 are registered under the fall term, one of about fourteen percent. The whole enrollment then reaches 860.

One marked feature of the attendance this year is the light enrollment for classes of secondary rank and the heavy demand for classes of college rank. Many of the civics and algebra were disbanded because the number registered did not warrant taking a college instructor's class. An ungraded class in fourth semester chemistry resulted in the organization of a class for about ten. Classes in psychology and observation were also organized. The divisions of college English did not take care of the number enrolled so that a distinction was made between classes that are special large and first semester drawing, physical education, music, economics, sociology, locomotion, the sciences, telephony, nature study, chemistry and senior arithmetic.

The percentage of young men is larger than usual this fall. Many of the number are practicing football and Coach F. G. Dale started the training Monday. The students represent three states, Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota, this year.

Class work started Wednesday morning. Chapel was held at 8:30 and the regular Wednesday classes were conducted afterwards. The first period this year was from 9 until 12 and from 1:15 until 1:55. Chapel will be held each Wednesday morning at 8:30.

The training school is located in the new building. Offices and class rooms of Dean H. E. Hahn, Prof. R. A. Jacobs and Assistant Professor J. C. Nelson are located in the new building. A recreation room and gymnasium are located in the basement. Telephones were installed in the school this week, one on the first floor and one on the third floor.

Plot of the class rooms in the administration and science buildings and in the library have been painted during the week. The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. held a mixer last evening on the campus. Miss Olive Unland of Arapahoe and Arthur G. Sells of Lincoln, are presidents of the organizations.

Fred Luore of South Sioux City, president of the State Normal, and Davis of Wayne, business manager, have started work on the annual for this year. Their office will be in the Y. M. C. A. rooms in the new training school.

John W. Evans Dies At Home In Omaha

John W. Evans who came from Omaha to Wayne for thirty years to tune pianos, died Friday. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock noon. Mr. Evans made his headquarters at the Jones Book Music store when in Wayne and his family had many friends here. The Omaha World-Herald for September 12 gives the following account:

"John W. Evans, whose wife as a piano tuner made him a favorite of Paderewski, Rubenstein, Leiblin and other world renowned pianists, died of pneumonia Friday night at his home, 5351 North Twenty-ninth street. When ever noted musicians came to Omaha for concerts, Evans generally demanded their instruments be turned by Mr. Evans.

"Mr. Evans was 78, and died after a long illness. He was a pianist and repairman 40 years. One of his most treasured possessions was a certificate of recommendation from the State of Kansas factory, where he had served his apprenticeship. During his 40 years service, members of Mr. Evans' family estimate he had no less than 100,000 regular customers who had engaged him from one to 60 days.

"At 12, Mr. Evans was a civil war drummer boy, although never actually in battle. With a group of home town boys at Cambridge, Mass., he was sent to the Civil War, where he was in Boston during the war. At 22, he had finished his apprenticeship at the Steinway factory and settled in Chicago, later coming to Omaha.

"He is survived by a wife and a daughter, Mrs. Charles R. Thies. Mrs. Evans was on route to Omaha from a Denver tour, and probably will not learn of her father's death until she reaches that city.

"Mr. Evans belonged to I. O. O. F. No. 2, the Douglas County Pioneers and G. A. R."

Inexcusable Carelessness.

Lincoln Journal: Thursday's automobile accident near Wayne, whereby a car was driven into a ditch, was a case of carelessness. The driver was a young man, and he was driving a car which was running abreast, one trying to pass the other. An approaching car was forced into the ditch, and a collision with one of these. This is one of the commonest causes of automobile accidents, one of the least excusable. It has been called a "careless" error. An occasional jail sentence for a driver who takes the wrong side of the road to pass a car in the city of Lincoln, is a most other direction is the most promising cure. The fuss in Burt county notwithstanding, a little mixture of brine and water in the sentence might help.

Wise Guy Comes To Crystal This Week
Novelty is the keynote of Frank Lloyd's new production for First National. It is "The Wise Guy," an original story from the pen of Jules Fuchman. It is coming to the Crystal theatre here Friday and Saturday of this week.
The production was not made on the lavish scale which identified Lloyd's "The Sea Hawk," but the novelty of story and technical setting is more than made up for the lack of luxuriantness. Of course the story of "The Wise Guy" does not allow the interpolation of gorgeous settings.
One of the outstanding novelties of the production is Mary Astor's characterization. Miss Astor has always been known as one of the most demure and unassuming of screen actresses. In the Lloyd production she is a wily crook who masquerades as a saint, but is self exposed when she sees the error of her ways.
The First National film also contains the novelty of a touring gospel mission in a train of trucks complete in themselves. All the necessities of the mission are carried in these trucks. Lloyd shows what can be done in limited space by his variety of shots of the interiors of the conveyances.
Later in the picture a complete tabernacle of gigantic size is shown as a setting for the denouement of the story. Betty Compson and James Kirkwood have magnificent roles to portray, while George Cooper as the "Bee" has the major comedy part. Mary Carr and George F. Marion also play important parts.

It's Just-Like That.

If you work for a man, in heaven's name work for him. If he pays wages that satisfy you, and he is a hard worker, work for him, speak well of him, think well of him, and stand by him, and stand by the institution he represents. I think I worked for a man I would work for him. I would not work for him a part of his time, but all of his time. I would not be divided service or none. If put to a pinch, an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness. If you must shift, condemn and eternally disagree, why, resign your position, and when you are outside damn to your heart's content. But I pray you, so long as you are a part of an institution do not condemn it. Not that you will injure the institution—not that—but when you disparage the concern of which you are a part, you disparage yourself. And don't forget—"I forgot" won't do in business.

No Need For Alarm.

Hartington Herald: "People who had become alarmed over the increase of the divorce evil in this state may find some encouragement and reassurance in the recent report of the census bureau that the rate of divorce declined considerably during the years 1924. More marriages, fewer divorces, states the report. The increase of marriages is ascribed in part to the repeal of the Coverture Act and the decrease in divorce has been proportionate. Conditions in 1924 and in years prior to that time were discouraging to students of sociology and the report of the statistical bureau will inspire hope for the future. According to that report, family life is improving in Nebraska.

Man Robbed On Road West Of Hoskins

Norfolk Daily News, Sept. 10.—To be held up on the Hoskins road north of Norfolk by two highwaymen, knocked almost senseless by a blow on the head and robbed of $31 about 10 o'clock last night was the experience of J. J. Houlihan, salesman for the Ryck Miller Chevrolet company of Norfolk.

The robbery occurred six miles north on First street, where there is a country school house. Mr. Houlihan was returning to Norfolk from Hoskins, where he had been to see a prospective automobile purchaser.

Jumps on Running Board.

When he reached the turn south of the school house, he saw a Ford coupe standing in the road. He had to stop to keep from hitting the car. As he slowed down one of the highwaymen jumped on the running board of his car, shoved a pistol in his face and told him to drive to the school house. He was forced to drive around behind the school house so that they could not be seen from the road. Arriving there, he was struck over the head with some instrument, which he believes was a pistol. The blow stunned him but did not knock him senseless, so that he was able to get a fairly good description of the robbers.

After robbing Mr. Houlihan of all the money he had with him, the two robbers drove away, but not until they had given their victim a warning, accompanied by strong epithets, against trying to follow them.

"If you come near around that corner you—before we are out of sight and—will blow your damned head off," was their parting advice.

Iowa License On Car.

The pair then drove eastward towards Hoskins. Mr. Houlihan believes the coupe in which they were riding bore an Iowa license number.

Both of the robbers were young men, between the ages of 18 and 23, the victim believes. One was short and small and the other somewhat larger. It was the small man who jumped on the running board of the coupe and who walked the victim, the taller one handed a flashlight, the victim says.

The short man wore a brown cap and dark or brownish sweater. The taller one had on a light suit, gray cap and dark shirt.

Mr. Houlihan immediately called around in Norfolk, notified police and surrounding towns were notified but this morning no trace of the robbers had been heard of.

Native of India Is Speaker In Wayne

Joel Lakra, native of India, who has an M. A. degree from Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., and a Bachelor of Divinity degree from the Lutheran seminary in Chicago, was in Wayne last Thursday and Friday.

He will be a post-graduate student in Norfolk, and will do some work in Chicago until the holidays when he plans to return to India as a missionary in charge of a school. Mr. Lakra was a guest of Rev. Coy L. Dugger and the St. Paul Lutheran congregation here. He addressed a gathering at the Evangelical Lutheran Church Thursday evening. He spoke to the St. Paul Missionary society that afternoon at the home of J. Gervase Allen and to high school students Friday morning.

Mr. Lakra told of the customs and religion of the Hindu Thillayia evening. He spoke to the St. Paul Missionary society that afternoon at the home of J. Gervase Allen and to high school students Friday morning.

Mr. Lakra told of the customs and religion of the Hindu Thillayia evening. He spoke to the St. Paul Missionary society that afternoon at the home of J. Gervase Allen and to high school students Friday morning.

Garments for Hindu men and women are made, said the speaker, with single long pieces of silk or other cloth. A man wraps the cloth so as to make trousers and a woman wraps it so as to make a dress. Another piece of wooden cloth, uncolored, is wrapped about the wearer as a cloak. A part of each man's garment is his turban hat. In this country a man removes his hat as a sign of respect to women. But in India, the hat is a part of the garment and it would be a breach of etiquette to remove it in this country. The Hindu shows respect by bowing. This style of dress was chosen by the Hindu hundreds of years before Christ and still prevails. Mr. Lakra stated that the style of women's dress in this country is too simple.

In describing the religion of India, Mr. Lakra stated that the foundation has been the basis for the religions of China, Japan, Siam, Ceylon and Burma. Indian philosophy is active today. He explained the three divisions of Hinduism, asserting that part of the people of his country believe in such things as theistic Hinduism is nature worship; idolatry is worship of idols and philosophical Hinduism is worship of an abstract power.

The schools of India are similar to the organizations in this country, there being grades, high school, college and university. Sanskrit is the principal literary language of the country and is taught in the high schools. This is an ancient type of writing and is the basis for the Arabian, part of which is used in American writing. He pointed out that in Sanskrit letters sounded with the three air, the first, in the alphabet and those with the mouth and lips are last. The Sanskrit would place such letters as A, B, and Z at the

Every day without a killing frost benefits the maturing corn crop. Favorable weather for several weeks, which has enabled the crop to get on, has changed a doubtful prospect into assurance of a fair yield of good corn.

Frequently people criticize one another without any animus. Every body has faults, and there is a disposition to point them out, and if they are not great enough to arouse the interest of a listener, they are enlarged and dressed up to show effect.

The reason one does not become famous and see his garments on a so called burning issue, raised by an ambitious politician, is because he does not see it and does not believe it. Ground out in the past, and if they do not alarm because it is not apparent to any but a feverish imagination.

In some parts of the country white crosses are erected at spots where people have been killed in automobile accidents. The persons killed were members with a little cross. When a driver goes dashing along, he is made to understand what is liable to happen to him. To earn a cross does not take long nor require much effort.

It is reported that a train load of cattle for the Omaha market, became crippled in trying to get out of the cars when pig callers lifted and heard their voices over the radio speaker. For the proposed pig calling contest at the Wayne county fair, it is understood a number of women are rehearsing. Some are practicing on their husbands, and others are developing voices that both fascinate and command.

We got into the World war to help settle troubles in Europe. We sacrificed many precious lives and many millions of dollars in the struggle to bring victory to the allies. Now all the European countries are joining in a low feast, and all look with more or less disdain on the United States because repayment of a fraction of the loans made during the period of service are not expected. We are holding the sack.

With the coming of fall, it has been decided to close for the season the weekly market. The market was the final performance, and the usually large crowd attended. Unfortunately, the fair, organized less than a year ago, has been closed this week to week, and the concert given in the beautiful Bressler park was equally disappointing. People will agree that the inspiration and pleasure derived from the music has justified the effort and cost.

Some chemist thinks too much time is wasted in sleep, and says he can provide a drug that will make sleep unnecessary and provide a means whereby we would advise a means to the drug to prolong the wakefulness and activity of people who sleep more than eight hours a day, but cutting

TO GO FORWARD
Towns that do not go ahead and that are bigger now than they will be next year hence, are towns that never do anything extraordinary. They do just enough to get by. The town that lies down through the winter of not reaching the turns on a little proposed extra expense drugs along precariously with reasonable assurance of slipping toward ruin. The town that goes forward: Like the individual who believes that whatever is good enough for his own town that does not pep up and improve and adopt new and advanced policies, becomes a community that does not die if it does anything. In these days of good roads and motor cars, towns that sit themselves in the position of service are the ones that grow and expand. They are the ones that attract the greatest crowds. Wayne has made such a favorable start and it is so generally situated that under the momentum of aggressive and constructive community spirit, it may be expected steadily to grow and rise above the ordinary. But it must do things that others do not. It must not wait for the towns to lead. It must do things first and do them well. It must be extraordinary and do extraordinary things.

out sleep entirely and keeping the mind in a state of perpetual motion would be undesirable if possible without soon wrecking the nervous system. Some things that money are wonderfully modified by forgetfulness induced by sleep.

President U. S. Conn of the State Teachers College, has challenged the editor to a watermelon eating contest, and the same has been accepted. It would be fitting to have it follow the pig calling contest at the county fair, but the program is already complete and would not permit of additions even if there were time to work out agreements and make other preliminary arrangements. It looks as though the contest would have to be put off until the next crop of melons. In the meantime the wives of the two contestants, increasing daily consumption, have a feeling of confidence.

County Judge Wilbur F. Bryant of Hartington, has just sentenced a prisoner to a bread and water diet for violating the prohibition law, and the judge says he has been imposing such sentences for a long time without causing any great excitement. The Cedar county court expressed himself in favor of short food as a deterrent to crime. Judge Bryant is a pioneer and he knows how people during the lean years lightened their belts and ate short food as a deterrent from sumptuous viands did not hurt the early settlers, the court thinks it is not fair to put the present generation through it. But there are judges that settlers in Bart county where great commotion has been caused by a year of short food as they are in Cedar county.

We would remind Dr. J. T. Horner who takes a rather lugubrious view in a brief communication in today's Herald, that writers on the metropolitan press have a right to be restrained from producing quantity, the quality cannot always be uniformly high. We think it was Charles Dickens, English novelist, who said he could not stand the glare of daily newspaper work, that requirements for quantity production were a great weight. We think Dr. Horner would agree that many literary gems filter through the metropolitan press every day. How far we are removed from the animal that manages on a vocabulary of nine words, we do not know, nor sometimes do we always feel sure which way we are traveling. We have made considerable progress, as the tailed creatures of the jungle would doubtless admit if they could express themselves with one of their nine words, but sometimes it looks as though we had periods of slipping. Dean Inge would say more of this.

Going into Sioux City one sees hundreds of automobiles parked around the packing houses. First thought suggests a political gathering or a big revival meeting. Soon it is seen that these cars belong to the pig callers' employees who, finishing their day's work, stop on the gas and hasten home. Labor conditions are thus different from what they were twenty-five years ago. Then an employee worked long hours for little pay, tended the boat with a dinner pail, and excited the sympathy of people who could afford to ride on a street car. The great effort of the period was to have something to eat at the dinner pail. Now employees have more pay and shorter hours, ride in motor cars of their own and have all

BANG!
Montgomery, West Va., September 15, 1926. Day Hesse: It is not quite clear why monkeys do not talk. They have organs of speech apparently about as capable as those of man, yet they possess only about nine different words, or is it nineteen? The answer seems to be that they do not need more. They can get their food, do their fighting, woo their loved ones and rear their children on nine words. Why not? Possibly the human race may yet become as economical of words as the chimpanzee. The first I ask the Chinaman who cleans my shirts, "How much?" "Tirty cent!" he replies; four words for "the transaction." The street porter shouts to his inamorata, "Lo, honey." "Darling," says the rouged beauty, and in three words, the courtship is complete. Possibly the metropolitan press whose English is under discussion have nothing much to say and therefore revert. Do we need more words in a world of few ideas and no ideals? Cordially, J. T. House.

the essential comforts and luxuries of life. Faithful to the big institutions that employ them, they deserve improved rewards; and acting wisely, under more prosperous conditions, they become more valuable members of society. The improvement gives proof of raised standards which are salutary and encouraging.

The grandson of the late James J. Hill, founder of the Great Northern railway system, has started at the bottom to learn railroading. He begins as timekeeper for a section gang at $2.35 per day plus lodging in a car bunk and plain meals taken in common with the track workers. If he sticks to his resolution to master the business from ground up, he will likely, with advantages that he may employ wisely with practical knowledge, reach a place of distinguished service. Often boys who inherit position or wealth wish to begin at the top, doing things they are not fitted to do and exercising power that belongs to seasoned experience. The usual result is disappointment and often disaster. A life that might have been made useful and worthy is frittered away through errors of immature and incautious judgment. Though equipped with diplomas from Yale and Oxford, young Hill has settled down to humble tasks, determined to gain basal experience essential to greater service that will follow in due course of time. The Hill example is an inspiration in the way of application to fundamentals unsheltered by the prospect of inheriting fortune, place and power. He proposes to become worthy of the trust and capable of handling it.

The Church Vacation.
Hartington Herald: While there are doubtless sound arguments in favor of church vacations, they appear also, to be some objections to them. The church which is closed all or part time during the summer months untheoretically loses some ground which it takes a long time to regain. Practically, people return to religious services with renewed interest and the church takes on new life after a vacation, but, normally, it doesn't seem to work out that way. As a matter of fact, churchgoers lose the habit to a certain extent, interest in religious work wanes and the church suffers a setback from which perhaps it never recovers. Certainly pastors need a vacation in some way, but it is not so simple as that the closing of churches in part or in whole for any length of time is beneficial. The theory may be all right, but the results do not seem to justify the practice. If some way could be devised whereby the church like secular enterprises could operate continuously, at the same time giving ministers and officers a much needed rest, the cause of religion would be in no danger of languishing during the summer months. Then, when the fall season opened, the church would move forward with renewed activity.

Cutting Free Service.
York Republican: Free service is receiving a black eye from some who are everybody else but seem to be cutting it out of the parade, which furnished entertainment to large throngs of people. Now if you see the elephant or the dromedary you have got to pay. The telegraph and telephone companies are abandoning the free dispensation of the time of day. In many places the battery stations are charging a small fee for service. The numerous and numerically increasing oil stations, still continue to invite patronage, by doing a lot of things they are not paid directly for doing. The trend is toward closer packing and less free service, which seems to be the fairest method. The price of the commodity be computed on its real value, independent of service and not those who desire it. The mail order houses actually have nothing at all on the local dealer. In fact, for the fact that the catalogue house furnishes absolutely no service, while the local dealer furnishes service that costs him real money. It may be, and doubtless is true, that the big mail order houses buy some articles for less than the small dealer can get them, but the man who handles his own goods, and does his own buying, bookkeeping and selling, saves an overhead expense that more than makes up for the difference in cost of the goods. It is the service you get from the home dealer that makes it necessary for him to have a little more for the goods you purchase. Then there enters into the game the question of credit. The mail order house gets the money before you get the goods. They promise to return your money if there is anything wrong with the goods, but they have the money, and are the sole judge and jury in the case. They will go just as far in making good as policy dictates, and no farther, while there are other considerations influencing the home dealer, in transacting business with his friends and neighbors.

Market Report

Furnished by Steele, Sisk & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.
Sioux City Stock Yards, Sept. 15.—With no outwardly apparent signs of a cashing urgency, the demand for the leading golden rule feed cattle continues to assume formidable proportions and allow the high cost outlet of the season. Moreover the undertone of the trade has been such that desirable feeding grades have felt a sympathetic degree of buoyancy. However, the great butchers and inferior stockers come in for an unsatisfactory clearing.

On the crest of all recent rises the market for feed steers and yearlings touched new tops for the season, while the heretofore pronounced objection to excessive weight seems to have almost entirely vanished. Yearling steers mixed with heifers have advanced $1.25 to $1.50, the possibility of a still loftier summit for fancy straight steer shipments. Heavy yearlings have sold to $11.00, while the advanced season has produced a class of killers generally good enough to warrant prices above $10.00, but the advance in the price of fair kinds down around $9.00 and inferior inferior warmed up material down to $8.00.

Grass killing steers have sold to $8.50 and with the grass areas turning out a gradually improved class of cattle, more of the rangers are finding their way to the shambles, although the movement in that direction to date has not been large.

Few butcher cows and heifers have been few in number and firm in price, with yearling heifers following the steers up readily, and sharing in the extreme tops.

Grass butchers have been consistently forming to large a percentage of the runs and packers have been able to apply pressure most of the time. The loss to midweek amounts to 25 cents and figures in addition to all previous losses. Good heavy grass cows are produced at from $5.75 to $6.25, with fair to good in heaviest numbers from $5.00 to $5.75. Only the most select western heifers are able to get up around the $7.00 line.

However, under $6.50 action has been lacking, with the country showing a preference for quality offerings, and some weaknesses have developed. On a plain to decent class of steers worth from $5.00 to $6.00, the market is weak to 25 cents lower for the week.

The edge is off in the market for feeding cows and heifers, due to reduction from the overloaded grass butcher trade. Fair to choice thin feeding heifers figure from $8.25 to $8.75, with only choice fleshy kinds above that spread. Feeding cows from $4.50 down show little change, although more of the good-mouthed runners are being taken under the $4.00 line to as low as $3.75.

Hogs have sold with varying degrees of unevenness of late, but the tendency has been always towards a narrower spread. Mostly the heavier hogs have been lifted to close to par, but not always. Midweek shows light butchers at a top around $13.50, and butchers of considerable weight close up to the $13.00 line and with choice butcher sows as high as $11.25. Big hogs are being taken under the $10.00 line.

To Rent Postmarks. Lincoln Journal. England is in a mild stew over the decision of the postoffice department to rent our postmarks on letters and circulars for advertising purposes. The Manchester Guardian refers to this plan as "a part of Mr. Churchill's notorious economy act." It authorizes the postmaster general to "include the words or devices constituting advertisements in respect of the use of which as postmark payment is made by any persons to the postmaster general." The idea is denounced as undignified and a sign of poverty which the government should not flaunt in the face of the public. It is called unfair, too, because a non-advertising firm mailing out circulars may be forced to see them carry also announcement of similar or better bargains offered by a competing firm. It is urged to legislate against this charge to go out bearing pleas for the consumption of specified brands and which is large as necessary. Some complications, largely because only one advertiser can use the postmark at a time. If the mark could be made so large as necessary, the principal difficulty would disappear.

Washington Home Furnace

Grained Mahogany Finish

Washington Home Furnace is the only furnace made in the grained mahogany finish without name-plate on outside. Consequently the Washington Home Furnace will harmonize with the finest mahogany furniture. They carried a piece of fine mahogany furniture to the enameling plant and instructed them to match the color and the grain in this fine mahogany furniture.

The handsome grained mahogany finish is proof that the enameling experts succeeded and did their work well. The enamel cannot burn off because it is genuine vitreous enamel, baked on at 1700 degrees temperature, and the enamel really becomes part of the metal itself, 500 degrees hotter than red hot iron.

It is as much an ornament to the finest home as a piece of fine mahogany furniture. You remember the ugly heating stove of past years. It is not necessary to take Washington Home Furnace down in the Spring and set it up again in the Fall. You will be glad to have it remain because you will take great pride in the Washington Home Furnace. It does not interfere with the arrangement of the furniture. Easy to clean. Just dust it off with cloth--no blacking, no polishing, no rollers, no roller parts to polish. Reduces work and drudgery of house cleaning. Although the Washington Home Furnace is the most beautiful furnace on the market, yet they have not sacrificed heating efficiency or comfort in order to produce beauty. Heat, beauty and economy describe the Washington Home Furnace.

Six-inch air duct draws cold air from the outside right over the fire where it is intensely heated and forced out at the top. This makes the Washington Home Furnace a great fuel saver.

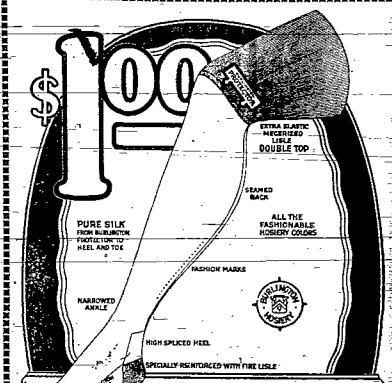

Another reason why Washington Home Furnace is the greatest fuel saver known is because the air duct prevents gases from the combustion of the chimney. Gases arising from the coal strike the hot air duct and are ignited, producing more complete combustion. These two features and the hot blast fire box causes Washington Home Furnace to produce more heat with less fuel than others.

The water pan of the Washington Home Furnace is not only at the bottom, but is high, and you will notice it is near the mouth or lower, opening of the air duct, and the moisture is drawn through the air duct and forced out at the top. This produces better distribution or circulation of moisture than in others. The water pan is located on the back of the Washington Home Furnace where it is out of view. The water pan is enamel inside and out, making it absolutely sanitary.

Luncheon was served by the hosts at 11 o'clock. Miss Carr was reared in Hoskins and is highly esteemed by the community.

Bus-Behmer. A very pretty wedding took place in the Lutheran church here Sunday afternoon when Miss Martha Buss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Behmer, and Edgar Behmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Behmer, were united in marriage. They were attended by Miss Hilda Buss, sister of the bride, Miss Ella Behmer, cousin of the bridegroom, Elmer Behmer, brother of the bridegroom, and Frank Buss, brother of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr.

Brenner, pastor of the church. After the ceremony a 9 o'clock dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents. The young couple will make their home one mile west of Hoskins.

The Mob Mind. Lincoln Journal: Students of the "mob mind" are engaged now in efforts to explain the recent extraordinary display of emotion at the Illinois trial. It is noted that in such hysterical interest in or attachment to the movie hero had shown itself before. The consensus theory is that the outburst at Valentino's death was the result and culmination of the focusing of newspaper attention upon this case.

For some days the sensational metropolitan papers specialized in Valentino. One of the "tabloids," read by New York's best substantial millions in one of its editions gave eight pages to Valentino. It could be an interesting experiment, perhaps, to try to bring a trial of the power of the sensational press over the metropolitan mob, to see what could be done in the way of showing a city into fits over the innocent case of some purely imaginary Valentino.

Miss Myrtle Chambers of Ponca and Mrs. LeRoy Rubek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rubek of near Wayne, were married September 23, at Pierce, Judge F. W. Chute performing the ceremony. The bridegroom has been employed on a farm near Ponca for the past two years.

Twenty-fourth Annual Interstate Fair
Program Will Open Sunday, Sept. 19th

This handicap the grounds and buildings are rapidly being brought into shape, and while no extensive building program has been followed this summer, hammer, nails and white paint have been used to good advantage.

In this territory the live stock show is the big feature of all fairs going back only a few years to the premium-hats-show that in order to bring out live stock to the fair large sums of money were offered for animals having a pure breed line. This policy was discontinued in 1920, since which time nothing but pure bred animals have been led into the show ring. This year, with the addition of Matador, the beef and dairy cattle and swine divisions are brought up to stand for to get to their work. Despite

A WORD ABOUT "ROBIN HOOD" FLOUR
The superficial remark is sometimes made that "flour is flour," implying that there is no difference in flour quality. Nothing could be further from the truth, when you consider the wide variation in wheat grades and quality and the divergence of views among millers as to their policy in milling and sifting flour. Economical manufacturing methods, perfect location and expert, careful management assuring production of "Robin Hood" flour at a very favorable price, not much above the price of ordinary flour, is

Darrow To Oppose Bread And Water Diet

Greely, Colo., Sept. 11.—The legal aid of Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago criminal lawyer, will be given to the Nelson and Ray Carson and Tom Nelson, Tekamah, Neb., men sentenced to a bread and water diet for violation of the prohibition law, if the case goes to the state court.

Darrow, who played a prominent role in the Loeb-Leopold and Scopec trials, is vacationing here with his son.

"I do not have the facilities here, nor do I feel like it at present," Darrow said in reply to an inquiry.

But if Nebraska lawyers can get the case into federal court, he will help them. Darrow previously described the punishment given the men as "cruel and inhuman," and "unusual in a civilized country."

He said, however, that he was not certain there was any escape from the sentence.

Will Wire Darrow.
Barceff, Neb., Sept. 11.—Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago criminal attorney, will be telegraphed an invitation this afternoon to participate in the legal battle for Ray Carson and Tom Nelson, Tekamah, Neb., men sentenced to a bread and water diet for violation of the prohibition law.

He is going to fight this bread and water sentence nonsense to the limit," J. H. Chatt, brother of Judge Chaff, declared here today.

He said he would also be the invitation of Harry B. Grund, Des Moines, Ia., attorney, to participate in the case. Chaff has already retained Hutter, attorney, here, and hopes that Darrow will come to Nebraska to lead the fight.

What steps will be taken to obtain the release of the men will not be known, Chaff said, until he confers with the attorneys.

Nelson Still at Liberty.
Tekamah, Neb., Sept. 11.—Thomas Nelson, one of the two Eurt county farmers, sentenced to serve the first and last twenty days of a sixty-day sentence for violating the prohibition law, on bread and water, was still at liberty today.

Although Sheriff W. D. Smith said he had made the fourteen-mile automobile trip to Nelson's farm to bring him to the county jail, he said he had not done so because of muddy roads which were being traveled by J. M. Chaff, brother of County Judge Orville Chaff, who advised the bread and water sentence. Chaff told the United Press that the road was passable and that he had driven over it.

More Comfortable Bed.
Ray Carson, who began serving his sentence Tuesday night, could not be sent today, Sheriff Smith having had newspaper men from the United Press examined last night by Dr. T. Lukens, local physician. Dr. Lukens ordered the sheriff to provide Carson with more comfortable bedding.

"Carson looked haggard and isn't eating much of the bread given him," Dr. Lukens was quoted as saying. "The bed given him to sleep on was hard as a concrete floor."

It was reported here today that Judge Chaff's brother will attempt to secure a writ of habeas corpus to keep Nelson out of jail when the latter is brought here to start his sentence.

Judge Chaff, who has meted-out thirty-nine bread and water sentences to prohibition law violators in the past four years, was expected to arrive here tonight from Rochester, N. Y.

Judge Chaff's wife has been confined to a Rochester hospital.

Conference Designed To Lift Unfortunate

Lincoln, Sept. 8.—"Over the hill to the poor-house" will be nothing but the tender memory of an old song when the Nebraska conference of social work attorneys first objective in the opinion of Miss Anna M. Cameron of the Extension division of the University of Nebraska, executive secretary of the conference, is to lift the poor-house of scientific methods of poor relief is only one of the goals of this agency.

Recreational facilities for every child in Nebraska, mothers' pensions, improvement of the public health, reduction of juvenile delinquency—these are some of the other problems which will be discussed at the coming conference of social work attorneys, to be held at Lincoln, Oct. 13-15.

This conference is the common meeting-ground of all Nebraska social work organizations concerned with recreation, health, charity, delinquency, maternity and child welfare. Every person interested in the development of a better civic program for the state is eligible.

As evidence of the wide interest in social work, Dr. Hattie Plum Williams of the department of sociology in the University of Nebraska, at the conference, points out that its members include club women, teachers, doctors, lawyers, editors, business men, every class devoted to the building of stronger communities.

County and city officials who are intimately connected with the problems under study are strong supporters, declares Dr. Williams.

Editor Of Oakland Paper Passes Away

Oakland, Neb., Sept. 11.—Carl C. Carlton, 52-year-old prominent Oakland civic and church affairs, and editor of the Oakland Independent, died at his home here last night.

Mr. Carlton came to Oakland in 1914 after editing the Stanton, Ia., Call, for fourteen years. He was president of the library board, president of the Parent-Teacher association, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, secretary of the Men's Lutheran Brotherhood of Nebraska, and superintendent of the Lutheran Sunday school.

Frank Forest, chief telephone operator of Dakota City, had his car damaged when returning from a meeting in Norfolk Monday last week. When leaving Wayne his machine skidded and struck the railing of a bridge. One side of the car was bent. The occupants were shaken but not injured.

Women of the Laurel country club held a golf tournament last week.

Thomas Jefferson's Old Gig

This is the old gig in which Thomas Jefferson rode to Philadelphia from his home in Monticello, Va., carrying in the Declaration of Independence. It was taken to Washington where it was viewed by President Coolidge before being taken to the Social-Congress at Philadelphia.

Church of Christ Is To Hold Conference

A conference on the fundamentals of the Christian faith is to be held in the Church of Christ at the corner of 4th and Logan, Wayne, October 6 to 12.

The conference will be held under the direction of the Church of Christ in Wayne. It will be devoted to a restatement of the fundamentals of the faith that was once for all delivered to the saints.

Robbers Enter Bank And Get Small Sum

Ewing, Neb., Sept. 11.—Robbers last night broke into the consolidated Pioneer and State banks here and after damaging fixtures considerably escaped with between $5 and $10, which, however, did not belong to the bank.

All of the money drawers in the bank were pried open but no effort was made to enter the vault.

The crime is believed to have been the work of amateurs, all indications pointing to unfamiliarity with such work. The back door and transom were jimmied open somewhat roughly and in opening the drawers in their search for money, the thieves caused considerable damage.

A short time ago a store was robbed here, the robber leaving similar evidences of his work, which leads to the belief that the robberies were committed by the same person or persons. A resident of Ewing or a special effort to Ewing.

A lives effort will be made to run in the thief and, capture was his in breaking into the bank, there an arrest is expected before long. One toll-tax mark that in itself may lead to the capture of the robber is the imprint of his shoe in the soft earth at the back door. This track is being protected until the arrival of the sheriff from O'Neil.

The Pioneer and State banks were consolidated last spring when they were taken over by the state banking department and are now a good deal operated by the state guaranty fund commission with Paul Zuehlow of Norfolk as manager.

The business is being conducted in the Pioneer bank building where the robbery occurred.

Business.
(Sioux City Journal).

The interest of the middle west in business developments at this time is centered on weather conditions just as in June and July. Yet there is a difference. There was a drought then from which crops suffered extensively.

Now there is too much moisture for the corn and such the proper maturity at the right time.

It has rained too much in the last six weeks for successful farming operations in the corn belt. Low, or zero, rains have had heavy rains. So has Nebraska. These three states produce more corn than any area of similar size in the country. A good deal depends on the kind of crop they gather. The rains not only have been general but frequent as well. There is too much sunshine in the ground and not enough sunshine to dry out the corn and get it ready for harvest now not long distant under normal conditions.

It is said that there is danger of some corn being soft this year as was the case in 1924 when the lower crop was far below normal both in volume and quality. Late corn is green right now and is encouraged to remain so for some time. Frost already has appeared in northern Minnesota, and Iowa temperatures the last week were almost low enough to invite the unwelcome visitor. If weather conditions only could promise dry weather for the next two or three weeks there would be more optimism and cheer in farming communities.

The business situation throughout the country is good as the fall season starts. The railway, banking, and shipping, shows activity picking up rapidly. Railroad car loadings for the week ending August 28 reached 1,163,235 which is said to be a record. This was 11,795 carloads, or 1.05 percent higher than the past previous week, the corresponding period of last year. It is regarded by railroad executives as a sure indication of the kind of business activity to expect this fall and winter.

The things that are loadings above the 1,000,000 mark for 14 weeks this year. Most of the high marks were made since May. It is especially indicative of prosperity because it is the usual rule that there is a decline during the summer. In connection with the report on the heavy shipping it is advised that this was accomplished without any shortage in rolling stock. So the railroads are well equipped with cars and locomotives,

Plenty Of Water Is Source Of Benefit

Experiments conducted at the Federal dairy farm at Bettleville, Mo., on the drinking habits of dairy cows indicate that a greater quantity of water will be utilized when available at all times than when offered but once a day. Cows watered but once a day not only drank less but also produced less milk than when watered at will from watering cups. Cows watered twice a day drank as much as when watered at will, but did not produce so much milk.

The cows used in the tests were average producers, and the maximum difference found in production between watering once a day and at will was only about 5 per cent. The higher production, however, the greater the benefit to be derived from frequent watering.

Some low-producing cows fed silage, hay, and grain refused to drink more than once a day in cold weather. With cows of similar production and receiving the same kind of feed, water consumption was 80 per cent greater in hot summer than in cold winter weather. The demand for water was greatest after eating hay. In cold weather cows prefer water that has been warmed and will drink more of it, though experiments at several stations show that the amount of production is influenced but little by warming the drinking water.

Less water is required when large quantities of such feeds as hays or mangles are fed.

Lawson's Big Double-Decker Air Craft Would Carry 110 Passengers

AVIATION is ready to begin to take all the necessary business away from the railroads and to relegate the automobile into the desuetude to which it sent the bicycle.

Alfred W. Lawson says this. Lawson has just been telling his big ideas to the army air service in Washington. He has been connected with flying for 20 years. He claims to have originated the carrying of passengers by air and now he is planning a great feat of mammoth air liners.

"Trains have all the advantage when they compete with airplanes that can carry but one or two passengers," says Lawson.

"Even in Europe, where communication is most highly developed, the limit for a side trip is from 16 to 24 passengers. Anyone can see the expense of that, and the fatality of attempting to carry more than trains which carry hundreds at one trip."

For 110 Passengers
"I am ready to start immediately to build an airplane which can carry 110 passengers comfortably and safely at an average speed of 100 miles an hour at a cost of about a million dollars. It will, of course, be large enough to compare with the capacity of a train. It is economically the best means of transportation. It can save the railroads by carrying thousands to the freight railroads."

storm or tornado that disturbs the heavens.
Refueling will be done in mid-air. Tender planes, like those at the harbor, will fly up to meet the big liners as they pass over secondary points en route, putting on and taking off passengers and mail.

All of these premises sound large to one who still retains the notion that as the natural sphere for human expansion, flying has taken to the air in both body and spirit.

"Aviation is a great deal further along than was the automobile twenty years ago," he says. "The simplest principles of mechanical structure were experimental—People wondered into the things for fear they would blow away. Today they are standardized. One can draw a blue print according to known laws of flying and be quite sure what the resulting airship will do."

"What will be needed at the outset of our air service is education. It must become a part of the ordinary course instead of going by train. Regularly scheduled air service will be between New York and Chicago, and will soon have people in the mood to travel by air. This big airship we are building is not so much a triumph of aviation design because we already knew how to fly. But it can carry two passengers before it flies. There are only one or two things that are new here. A pilot to sleep and observe stars. It is the new thing that we are trying to do. We can take passengers away from the railroads on equal terms. It is just a step toward the whole of passenger service."
