Nobody Always Right.
Geneva Sigmond, a writer was having something to say about the destinies of the Nebraska Farmer, meaning the weekly newspaper, and half of his time in Lincoln and was compelled to patronize Lincoln restaurants, notwithstanding the protests of his stomach, he was seated at a restaurant one day disposing of a meal when a patron at another table told the waiter that he hadn't ordered fish. The waiter said he had ordered fish and that was the reason he brought fish. The colloguy grew louder and it attracted the attention of the cashier, who called to the waiter, "Get it out. The customer is always right."

Some customers would have considered that a doubtful comment. Really it amounted to saying that the customer was probably mistaken and had very likely made an order that he had not intended to make but that there was nothing the restaurant could do about it other than to take the fish back and bring in something that the customer thought he said he wanted. We have noticed a growing disposition to abandon the stock phrase, "The customer is always right," and to substitute for it something like this: "Sorry I did not understand your order. I shall be glad to bring what you wish."
That may mean about the same thing but it has a different sound. Editor Alden of the York Republican comments upon the phrase as follows:
"There is a trade slogan, put forth by some retail stores for purposes of winning favor, that does not accomplish the purpose at all. It is, "The customer is always right." It is an absurd and idiotic position to assume. It is an over extension of courtesy. Courtesy in business is necessary, but courtesy can be overdone to the point where it is no longer a virtue. Customers are not always right. Some of them are selfish and fault-finding and crooked. They should not be encouraged. Some of them take advantage of the good natured merchant; they do not deserve courtesy.
"There is no hard and fast rule to be followed in the dealings of stores and customers. Each sales transaction demands the justice and courtesy of both seller and buyer. The store is not always right. Retail trading calls for constant conciliations and adjustments and the only policy any store can successfully pursue is that of doing fairly and justly by every customer. If the customer is right, he ought to be right; if he is wrong, he ought to stand the consequences."

Football Star Is to Appear at Crystal

Starring the peer of all gridiron heroes, Greater F. B. O.'s great classic of the football field, "One Minute to Play," is to appear at the Crystal Theater for three days beginning tonight. The work of Red Grange, whose name is a by-word with every lover of the pickup, is shown to splendid effect in this sparkling drama of college life, and plenty of appealing romance and a powerful and brilliant climax, as well as conspicuous quantities of humor, make it a picture of great entertainment value for everyone. Sam Wood, the noted director, has handled the production with extraordinary skill and a superb cast, including Mary McAllister as the leading lady, Charles Ogle as the father, Ben Henderson, Jr. as the rival, George Wilson, the famous University of Washington football star, as the leader of the opposing team, and Lincoln Steadman, Edythe Chapman, Lee Shumway and Jay Hunt, give remarkable support. Byron Morgan, the author of the well-known Wallace field racing pictures, wrote the story and continuity.

Warms More Air Than Heaters Twice Its Size

What you see when looking at the wonderful Ideal VECTO Warm Air Heater is its stylish jacket of pearl-lustrous, porcelain enamel. The heat-tins are inside. Open the ash-tright door—study the mass of ribs or plates—which arrest and rub every particle of heat into the fast-flowing stream of gently warmed air, sent to all rooms.

VECTO gives constant warm-air circulation—not "spotty dead-air" of old-ways. Burns coal, coke, wood, cuts bills. Next to ideal ARCOLA Hot Water Radiator Heating, VECTO is best for heating small buildings, single flats and cottages. $97 (freight extra); $10 down.— See it, at your dealer's, today! ### Wayne Was Prairie In Early Eighties

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gaertner, who celebrated their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary November 4, first saw Wayne as a prairie when they came here in 1884. They had lived in Ida Grove, Iowa, and because of earlier settlement there, they were used to trees, bushes and birds. Here there were some of those, only prairie land and swamps.

Mrs. Gaertner first made the trip to Wayne twice. Married to Mr. Harry Woodruff and Robert Taylor, it was in that year the railroad line was being laid from Emerson to Wayne. The men worked from Wakefield to Wayne and then back; they made equally as good time as though the rails had been down for the same year. The railroad line was in place by this time, though the road bed was not completed. The train made the trip from Emerson to Wayne twice.
