Best Selling Novel To Come To Crystal

Book-lovers, and the hundreds of readers of Edith M. Hull's novel, "Son of the Sheik," will be interested in Manager E. E. Gailley's announcement that Rudolph Valentino in the screen adaptation, "The Son of the Sheik," is soon to come to his Crystal theatre. It was Mrs. Edith M. Hull who wrote the best-selling novel, "The Sheik," which Valentino made into a sensationally successful film several years ago, and in "The Son of the Sheik," a sequel to "The Sheik," he is said to excel the former performance. Agnes Ayres, who was the lovely lady in "The Sheik," is to play the heroine especially to play in "The Son of the Sheik" with Valentino. The motion picture adaption of the E. M. Hull novel was written by Frances Marion, veteran scenarist, who was responsible for the scenario of "Stella Dallas." Vilma Banks, exotic Hungarian beauty, plays the part of Yasmin, dancing girl of the desert, whose action are misunderstood by the man whom she loves. In the characterization of the fiery youth who tries to break the will of the girl he thinks a deceiver, and the dancer, as well as in the retention of the stormy spirit of the desert tale, it is understood the film is made along the lines of the book so that readers should find thrilling entertainment at the Crystal theatre when "The Son of the Sheik" brings Valentino to town tomorrow.

Elder and family moved from Carroll to Wayne. They live south of the college. The Hodgson brothers have quit draying in Winside and Fred will move to South Dakota. Coyle and family of Lincoln are visiting Mr. Coyle's sister, Mrs. T. W. Moran, and family. The first named is employed with an insurance company. Mrs. J. L. Simonton died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. Lindsay, near Winside March 4, 1907. Her husband, the father of E. B. Chichester of near Wayne. Cherry bought the first two-cent-a-mile ticket sold by T. W. Moran, Wayne depot agent. Rehmus, August Schultz, Julius Rehms and Martin Holst. From Ponca Journal January 20, 1927: The markets. Hogs, shipping, $4.25; wheat, 65c; corn, 25c; oats, 18c; buckwheat, 60c; potatoes, 50c; butter, 15c; fresh eggs, 18c; peas, 5c; fat cows, $1.75 to $2.00; steers, $2.00 to $4.00. Is there any more news about the railroad or railroad bridge? Nothing. Railroad surveyors are all around us, but they steer clear of this town and vicinity. And we hear no more about Mr. Massey, or his valuable tract along the river. Whether a charter has been or is to be obtained for a bridge here, we know not. We have the river yet, and a rock bottom, and as far as nature is concerned we are all right for a bridge. But if a railroad company will not agree with nature as to this being the best place in a hundred miles for a bridge, then the bridge will not be built. Time will tell. The report that the new board of supervisors adjourned "to meet on the 2nd Tuesday of March provided it didn't fall on Sunday" may be puzzling to some. But why shouldn't they put in the provision about "Tuesday falling on Sunday"? If, for instance, Tuesday should get unruly and slip its halter and jump over into the box stall where Sunday was kept, then wouldn't Tuesday fall on Sunday? Very probably, and probably also such a row and kicking bee would thereupon ensue between them as would result in overturning the whole rascal. The board did not wish to sit in the rains "like Marius amid the ruins of Carthage," and to avoid taking chances, properly regarded the days of the week as suspicious characters.

Cars Wrecked in Crash. Coleridge, Neb., Jan. 7.—A collision occurred near the George Gray corner here when Harry Sasmann's and Frank Roach's cars ran into one another. The cause of the accident was the inability of the drivers to see each other and the rough and muddy condition of the roads. Both cars were wrecked. A bill has been introduced in the Nebraska house requiring ten copies of the bible to be read every year in all schools supported by public taxes. Provision is made that the same ten verses shall not be read twice, and it is assumed that there are enough verses for appropriate selection without repetitions.

A movement is on foot to establish a state home for dependent people, a bill having been introduced in the legislature looking to that end. It has been pointed out that county poor farms are in demand and little used. But there are unfortunate among the aged and others, and it is believed a central point for their care would be more economical and satisfactory than the support given by separate counties.

Editor Stone of the Hartington Herald appears in a quandary over a conflict of expert opinion on the subject of using soap and water. He says one doctor advises little use of either, while another urges use of plenty of both. We are a little disturbed by what seems to be a surrender to inclination in this sentence: "Those who are conservative in their use of water and soap, especially in cold weather, may justify their position also on scientific grounds."

Sioux City people are reported partial to using currency rather than silver. It seems to nettle a Sioux City man to offer him a silver dollar and especially to deal out to him five silver dollars. Up this way we are not so particular. We take anything that will hold obligations—silver or gold, currency or credit checks. We all wear leather pockets in hopeful anticipation, and we accept silver in large or small quantities with smiles of approval and satisfaction. We know of no heavy load that fatigues us less than silver dollars.

It is understood a measure is to be urged in the Nebraska legislature to require publication in each county of the state of all new laws immediately following the close of the session. The Geneva Signal suggests that even evil doers should be made aware of the laws they are expected to obey by spreading copies before them. It is believed people should know exactly the laws that have been passed, know their rights and restrictions. Publication in each county would appear to be the cheapest and most effective means.

TO PROVIDE SUPPORT.
It would seem a wise provision of society if a prisoner who has been convicted of crime, could be required to work while serving a sentence, with his wages used for the support of his family. He could be set to work on the public highways under proper supervision.
For instance, a man is sentenced to jail for violating the law. He leaves a family without support. His wife and children become objects of charity if they are unable to earn their own living.
Need for work on public roads and highways is always pressing. Let a prisoner devote his energies to improving the roads, thus furnishing support for his family, while satisfying the ends of justice. He might become so used to working and supplying his family with the necessities of life that

STEAM.
For the first time we are just beginning to absorb rudiments in practical uses of steam. We have been accustomed to wrestling with ordinary wood and coal fires and all kinds of hot air—the kind that tries to get in from the outside and the sort that tries to get out from the inside,—but this is our first familiar experience with steam. We had backed up against radiators, but we had never before felt responsible for the force that was within them. Thomas Newcomen and James Watt and their successors—most of them our predecessors—had worked out control of steam plants until they are almost fool proof, which is comforting to some of us who are trying to manage them. One can't regulate the disposition of steam with either harsh words or prayerful platitudes. It came tall for the first time. Certain indicators show pounds of steam and quantity of water in the boiler. Safety valves aid the novice in avoiding the unpleasant eventuality of being blown into eternity. At a certain point in the development of steam a little arrangement shrieks a warning. Steam has to be harnessed and directed intelligently, and inventors have made a great deal of headway he would do so after his sentence had expired.

EDUCATION.
The idea that some people were created as bearers of wood and stone, while others were designed to smoke tobacco and to do the thinking does violence to our conception of democracy. A policy that would give educational advantages to those who are precocious and withhold them from those who are apparently dull and backward, might often do society serious injustice.
About the time the abnormally bright student reaches his zenith, the dull student may be aroused from dormancy, and from then on more than make up for his slow progress in earlier youth. Often the seemingly stupid student far outstrips in later life the object of previous envy.
The history of great thinkers, ingenious and constructive in science, invention, letters and industry, frequently reflects youth of inordinate dullness and slow development. The youth who is frowned on today as inert and unpromising, may be an important force in the world tomorrow.
All students, whether at the time they seem to be ultra-bright or below standard, should be encouraged to use as far as possible the free schools of America. Whatever one does he will do better if his mind has been trained to think clearly and constructively. The dull student may become a leader, and the precocious student, lifted by the plaudits of admiring friends, may want a job from the erstwhile dumb-bell. The head of the class cannot afford to laugh at the foot. We cannot afford to discriminate against the dullard in means of education.

FAIR DEALING.
Many people who are absorbed in their studies, have neither the time nor inclination to be on the alert to avoid being over-charged. They rely on the integrity of those with whom they do business to give them a fair, square deal. If they think the price for a commodity or service is too high they just don't buy, but say nothing. If they are convinced they have been made the victims of exorbitant charges, they carefully avoid a repetition of the experience if possible. They are too busy to relish haggling over values. If they want a thing they will quickly buy if the price is right.

Turn Wash-day into "Wash-hour"

NOW try the Maytag "wash-hour" — when a whole washing — 50 pound of clothes (dry weight) is washed in one short hour. When everything is washed spotlessly clean without hand-rubbing, even collars, cuffs and wristbands.

No heating the water during washing because the Maytag cast-aluminum tub is heat-retaining. No cleaning up when you are through because the Maytag tub drains and cleans itself in 30 seconds after the washing is done.

Try the Maytag next wash-day — if it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

Stranger Is Charged With Cashing Checks

A stranger, aged about 40 years, giving two different names, cashed checks in Wakefield Saturday evening. He bought merchandise and gave checks which he alleged had been given him by Wallace Ring. The man gave the checks in payment of goods, endorsing them and taking the change. Goods he bought were found discarded. He visited the Silverberg store, Star Clothing house, L. W. Schwedhelm drug store, Mitchell harness shop, V. C. Linden store and Nelson Motor Co. The checks were mostly for $25. Not all of them were cashed. One business man inquired of Wallace Ring about the man and found that Mr. Ring had given checks to no such person. Ben Carr, marshal, took the stranger in hand and on Monday took him to Ponca for trial in court.

Effect of Massage Upon Digestion

There is no single function which is more clearly demonstrated to be directly encouraged by massage than digestion. By its application the digestive process is promoted several ways.

1. By improving the appetite. The improvement in nutrition occasioned by the removal of waste and the acceleration of the blood and lymph circulations causes an increased supply of nutriment which nature manifests by an improvement in appetite.
2. Massage, through its influence upon the glands and circulation of the stomach and intestines, promotes the production of the digestive fluids in sufficient quantity and quality.
3. It has been shown that massage of the abdomen, applied at once after eating meals diminishes by fifteen to seventy-five minutes the length of time the food is retained in the stomach. It has been frequently shown that massage of the abdomen hastens the passage of food from the stomach more efficiently than does either exercise or electricity.

Massage has no rival in its efficiency as a means promoting intestinal activity.
