Prof. E. E. Lackey, associate professor of geography in the University of Nebraska, former member of the faculty of the State Teachers College here, has just received from eastern printers for review copies of the first edition of the geography which he compiled in conjunction with Richard E. Dodge. The work is a very comprehensive and valuable contribution to the subject considered.

Some idea of the work being done at the Wayne State Teachers College may be had by the fact that during the two calendar years of '25 and '26 there were issued by the school 841 certificates and diplomas. This is more than were issued by any other teachers college in Nebraska including the teachers college of the university. Wayne is a high class professional school, a member of the American Association of Teachers Colleges.

Its work is recognized by universities and colleges everywhere. There are no tuition charges and expenses are low. Free catalog may be had by writing to the State Teachers College, Wayne, Nebraska. f241f

Farmer's Dollar Is of More Value Now

Lincoln, Feb. 18.—The farmer's dollar will buy a little more this year than it did in 1926, says Gilbert Gusler writing in the issue of the Nebraska Farmer out today. Gusler added, however, that the farmer probably did not have as many dollars to spend this year as he did last year.

"The general trend of wholesale prices has been downward," his article said. "This year is starting on a lower plane than 1926. While there are exceptions, most business observers look for this lower level to continue through the year, although the decline will probably not extend much further."

"Costs of farm machinery, including tractors, promise to be about the same as in 1926 and lower retail prices are not in sight unless dealers reduce their margins."

"Where are some hopes of slightly lower binder twine prices this year. The market for sisal fiber has been weak and twine manufacturers have been able to obtain it at lower costs than earlier in the season."

Field fencing and fertilizer prices remain about the same as last year, according to Gusler. Costs of feeding and breeding cattle, milk cows, horses and mules will likely be more this year. Because of the short feed crops in 1926, feed costs will be higher, he stated.

"Food, clothing and house furnishings are slightly cheaper," the article said. "Most staple food and meats are slightly higher at retail."

West Point Girl Injured by a Cow

West Point Republican: Iva Zepplin, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Zepplin, was seriously injured about the head when she was hooked by a cow last Thursday evening. The accident occurred in one of the barns on the Zepplin farm north of town. Iva was found in an unconscious state by her brother, Ed, who was returning home from a neighbor's place. Medical aid was immediately called but she did not regain consciousness until the following morning. Her head is badly bruised and several scars are very close to the eyes. However, it is not thought that there will be any permanent injury. Iva is still obliged to remain in her bed, for although her complete recovery from the accident is assured, it will be slow.

Many Cities Require Cows to Be Tested

A recent survey throughout the United States shows that more than 1,200 cities and towns have adopted ordinances requiring that all of the city's milk supply shall come from tuberculin-tested cows. Officials in the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, declare that this sentiment is growing very rapidly throughout the United States, and that probably in a short time every city and town in the country will require the tuberculin test for all cows supplying milk to be sold within its borders for human consumption.

Ministers Meet to Plan for Services

Rev. Coy L. Stager was in Sioux City Friday to meet with Rev. Mr. Saas of Dakota City, Rev. Mr. Mortenson of South Sioux City, and Rev. Mr. Rangelor of Emerson, in making plans for the Lenten services. For six weeks previous to Easter the four ministers will exchange pulpits.

Envy. Hartington Herald: People who are bitten with envy at the good fortune of others—who become irritated or discontented at the thought of Ford being worth his billion or of somebody else accumulating vast riches—should look on the reverse side of the picture once in a while. It is true that there are individuals in every community who are better off than the average always have been and always will be; but there are also many who are worse off. Where there is one who has acquired great wealth, there are multitudes who have a hard time making both ends meet and, even in a prosperous community like this, it is possible to find cases of destitution in the midst of plenty. Contemplation of this side of the picture is valuable in that it reveals conditions as they are and tends to produce contentment. Fortunately, indeed, is the man or woman in these days who has an independent business or a steady job which will at least insure a living and a competence for old age. There are countless people in the world who do not have even that.

GOITRE CAUSED Pressing Choking Feeling. Minnesota Lady Relieved By Stainless Lintiment. Corinne Eagen, 8100 Longfellow Ave., S. Minneapolis, Minn., says: "I have used Sorbol Quadruple six weeks. Felt relief the first few applications. That pressing choking feeling has entirely disappeared. You may use my testimonial. Sold at all drug stores or write Sorbol Company, Mechanicburg, Ohio. Locally at Felber's Pharmacy."

Campaign Started in Hog Sanitation

Burt County Tribune: The Burt County Farm Bureau under the leadership of W. B. Adair with the State Federation co-operating, is putting on a vigorous campaign among the farmers of the county for hog sanitation. A series of letters is being issued from the county agent's office to all the farmers in the county, and meetings are being held by Mr. Adair in the various communities over the county. The letter heads used have a picture on them depicting the type of hogs that are raised in lots where little or no care is given to sanitation.

Former Bloomfield Man. Bloomfield, Neb., Feb. 20.—Word has been received here of the death of Ernest Albert Case, of Sespe, Cal., brother of Representative L. D. Case, of Bloomfield, cancer being given as the cause.

Mr. Case, who was well known here having spent his early life in Knox county on his father's farm, went to Ventura county, Cal., in 1891, and began work for the Union Oil company. He gained success in buying and selling ranches after improving them. In 1914 he became manager of the White Star Oil company. He also organized the Ventura County Co-operative association which conducted a chain of stores, was one of the organizers of the Fillmore Citrus Fruit association, president of the Rand United Milling company, director of the Fillmore State bank, director of the Fillmore Irrigation company and owner of the Opsahl garage building of Fillmore. In all he was director of 10 corporations and president of five.

Result of Survey By Women's Clubs

Oakland, Neb., Feb. 23.—Wayne has public water supply, public sewer, central station electricity, but no gas works, nor regular garbage collection. For each 100 homes, Wayne has 90 kitchen sinks with running water, 97 homes have electric lights, 10 have electric ranges, 91 have telephones and 30 have radio sets.

This is the report for Wayne of the state-wide home-equipment survey made public today by Mrs. Will Minier, president of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs. The federation has now launched a state-wide campaign for more labor-saving and health-conserving equipment in homes.

Plenty of Money. York Republican: If business is slack and trade light in Nebraska, it is not because there is no money with which to do business. The December 31st report of the state banks of Nebraska showed that there are 275 millions on deposit in the state banks of Nebraska, to say nothing of the sum to the credit of the people in the national banks. People are cautious and playing a waiting game in their investments and purchases, but they are not broke or engaged in warding off the wolves from the doors. When the time comes to throw aside super caution, the sun of prosperity will be shining with noontide brightness over the most of the state.

Nothing Short of the Best in service and equipment is good enough for this community. In our effort to provide the best we have spared neither cost nor trouble. As a result, we are proud of our business, its past, present and future. We consider it a credit to ourselves and to the community as a whole.

A Practical Poultry House

This poultry house is designed with careful attention to modern requirements of ventilation and sanitation. It is of pleasing proportions, good appearance, and is a credit to any group of farm buildings.

It can be placed on a light 6-inch-high concrete wall or 6-inch skids, and is 12 feet deep and 16 feet long. It provides a scratching shed screened with four muslin curtains through which the air filters and assures plenty of ventilation, but prevents draughts from striking the birds either when at work or when on the roosts. The upper row of windows can be shifted horizontally to increase ventilation in warm weather.

This is a well ventilated, well lighted building in which poultry will thrive. Blue print and bill of material will be furnished gratis to all purchasers.

See us for portable and individual hog houses, self-feeders, hog troughs, etc. We make them to your order, of the very best of material.

Dr. House Writes Herald Readers

Urges Public to Get Expert Advice By Consulting Specialists in All Lines.

Dr. J. T. House of Montgomery, W. Va., formerly of Wayne, writes to Herald readers February 14 as follows:

"Those were wise remarks by the leading local citizen. I almost believe I know his name. True, we ought to be able to look to teachers, lawyers, doctors and business men for suggestion for improvement in the lines. Of course, a 'critical conscientious' lawyer like Roscoe Pound of Nebraska and Harvard, or William Howard Taft speaks out with regard to needed reform in the law; Doctor Wiley talks to 'put himself out of a job'; Secretary Hoover tells business men of their wasteful methods. But as a rule human beings are inertial of their own activities. This is why we always need a watchful alert public, a public not too easily satisfied with the 'old gospel' whether religious, economic, political, pedagogic.

"This raises the question as to how the public can help. It can help by insisting that the people have satisfactory results. If the courts are too expensive, if they indulge in unethical technicalities, if they promote unnecessary litigation, if the lawyers seek to 'play the game' when the need is to change the rules of the game, the public may rightly demand that the law schools be filled with progressive teachers of the law who will seek to find out how the courts may better serve the public. The same holds true of business. If our productive system does not provide food and clothes and other products enough to go around (and according to Stuart P. Chase it does not) then movements for economy of effort such as the one now led by Secretary Hoover and by some of the better informed and more public spirited associations of business men must receive encouragement and become more numerous as a result of public demand. If the tabloid press is going to continue exploiting 'Punch' etc., then the reading public must quit buying such papers. If the schools will not train young people to something better than athletics, then the public must press school boards and superintendents to wiser valuations.

"What we lack is appreciation of the expert. When we have the expert we make him hide in a garret and write articles that no one reads. We let Bryan tell us what to believe in science; Gladstone asserts what we must believe in historical criticism and Arthur Brisbane tells us what we are to believe about the universe. We must learn to give reward and prestige to knowledge. It is a hard job, and the sooner we get at it, the better it will be for our society."

Tekamah, Neb., Feb. 17.—Attorney Ralph Anderson was called to Oakland Wednesday to investigate the death of a man named Brown, a hermit painter who was found frozen to death beneath the snow near his shack. The man evidently had been there since Saturday as his body was frozen into the ice and then covered with the snow, which came late Saturday night and early Sunday. Only his boots were sticking out of the snow. The boots in the snow attracted the attention of a neighbor who investigated and found the body.

waterways, should not be permitted idly to wind its way to the ocean, seeking up adjacent farms but should be controlled and made navigable, extending its usefulness beyond carrying refuse to the ocean and supplying catfish to a limited number of consumers.

A local philosopher of considerable merit declares in support of the belief in immortality that continuing to live is but a logical sequence to the present existence. He shares the conclusion of many that if we are not to progress to other and higher spheres, this life could justly be regarded as having no purpose or value.

Flags were unfurled Tuesday in honor of the man who mustered the struggling colonies against the British throne, and who became the first president of a new republic wrested from foreign oppression.

The birthday of George Washington causes people everywhere to revive memories of his remarkable leadership which is an inspiration. Wonderful strength of character was required to keep the colonies together in the battle for freedom, and following victory, to found a government that would deal fairly and justly with all classes and conditions.

We understand there is a bill before the legislature designed to take the wind out of the sails of chiropractors, osteopaths and Christian Scientists.

While many foolish bills are introduced in the legislature, usually enough sound judgment is exercised along the line to prevent any of them from issuing as laws.

The Hartington Herald of which F. D. Stone is editor, was awarded the cup for the best editorial page at the state press meeting in Lincoln last week.

The Hartington Herald has been going ahead so fast in late years that it is no wonder competitors in the neighborhood gasp.

It is wasted effort to feign martyrdom if the ones you are doing it for do not see or understand. Often children put on a sorrowful, injured air to gain sympathy or special consideration.

Value in attending conventions lies mainly in the exchange of experiences and ideas. Speeches are necessary and are often valuable but one learns most from close contact with those who have problems in common.

HOME. Home must be more than a place to eat and sleep. It does not need to be filled with luxury to impart content. It is not living high and extravagantly that makes home the most attractive spot in the world.

Wisner, Neb., Feb. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. William Krieger, Jerome Brazoa and Otto Albers have returned from their trip to the Rio Grande valley, in Texas, and report that they were amazed at that country. Grape fruit, oranges and all kinds of vegetables are raised in abundance. The party visited packing plants that are shipping their products to this market. Among these products is the Texas Sweet grape fruit, which is the most delicious eating, being very sweet.

The trip was a very enjoyable one, covering nearly 3,000 miles by railroad and two days by auto. The temperature last Wednesday and Thursday was 82 and 85 in the shade. This kind of weather was experienced until Dallas was reached on the return trip, when the party was met by a cold north wind with the mercury at 34 above.

POLITICAL DOCTORS STAGE ANOTHER ATTACK ON AMERICAN RIGHTS

(From Norfolk Press)

The chiropractors flattered themselves when they thanked the legislature of 1923, shook hands with their friends, bade them good bye, saying "Now we are going home to work, to be good citizens, not asking any more; we will not trouble you again." In 1925 they again said, "We are asking nothing. We only want to be let alone." Anyone who read the Nebraska Medical Journal the past summer might have easily guessed they were not going to be let alone. Not if the political doctors have their way about it.

Tonight in Lincoln there will be an open meeting, where legislators and the public will have opportunity to hear the merits and demerits of senate file 61 discussed.

The chiropractic state board, a self supporting body, examine all applicants for chiropractic licenses in symptomatology, which includes pathology and bacteriology. Anatomy, psychology, chemistry and hygiene are studied during the entire course and are examined for by the state board.

The chiropractors naturally resent the interference of the medical men, just as the medical men would object to chiropractic interference. It may be that that portion of the public that seeks succor from a chiropractor when ailing is moronic, imbecile and non-compos mentis, but isn't it the privilege of a free American to choose his own means of getting well? No chiropractor will force his peculiar theory upon you. And another thing that strikes the American public as funny is that many M. D.'s are adding a chiropractor or two to their staff and "practico change," the chiropractor, even unlicensed, becomes "respectable" under the tutelage of the medical school. Norfolk hospitals have supported chiropractic house physicians. Norfolk physicians have worked and are working with drugless healers. Even Norfolk physicians have been known to go to osteopaths and chiropractors for help in their own illness, and Dr. Mayo, celebrated surgeon, has spoken in praise of the healing power of Christian science! The Press has several warm friends among these various healing schools; some kinsmen who are physicians and surgeons, but for the life of The Press editor she can't see why any particular healing school should expect to dominate, be the "state" healing school any more than she can understand why any church should be the state church.

If the political doctors really want to do some legislative reform work, why not begin on those inside their own magic circle? Having cleaned up their own, the public might believe their effort to clean up on others is something else than selfishness. Meantime it will be in the interest of fairness and justice to let the political doctors take home their basic science bill for a dry cleaning. It is not sufficiently camouflaged to get by.

CHIROPRACTORS COMPLAIN

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 9.—Editor of The Press: Should a selfish reformer introduce a bill in the legislature that would operate to prevent young lawyers qualifying to enter the practice in this state, or a bill requiring them to be examined by men not lawyers there would be a great protest raised. Needless to say such a law would be preposterous.

Yet the medical trust, some years ago, but through the legislature an amendment which required practitioners of schools of drugless healing to pass examinations before a board composed of medical doctors. A fight was made by chiropractors and the osteopaths to be recognized by the state and to have the legislature create a board of examiners composed of worthy practitioners of those schools of healing. The fight was won because the arguments presented were sound and irrefutable. When that was done the chiropractors told the lawmakers that they had no further favors to ask and that they were satisfied with the new law.

Now comes the medical trust with Senate File No. 61, which is another assault upon the schools of drugless healing. This time the attack is by indirection for the very good reason that the medicals know that they can't destroy the chiropractic and osteopathic schools by direct frontal attacks. The provisions of that bill would require these drugless schools to pass an examination by a board of examiners of medical doctors on the subject of chemistry, whereas those schools prescribe no medicine and do not resort to surgery. The effort is to make the examinations so difficult that no more chiropractors or osteopaths could be admitted to practice in Nebraska, although it does not seek to interfere with such practitioners now in the state. It is an attempt to destroy those professions by slow strangulation.

In the name of the Association of Chiropractors of Nebraska I appeal to the editor's sense of fair play and ask that he admit this letter to his columns and if so disposed to give us an editorial warning the legislature to let the chiropractors and the osteopaths alone.

Lee W. Edwards, M. D., D. C.
 Chairman Legislative Committee.

Volume of Growing Telephone Business

From any of the 1,000 telephones on the Wayne exchange there can be reached any of the 126,700 telephones in Nebraska and South Dakota, which states comprise the division of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company. The company plans to add about 1,500 telephones during 1927.

More than 21,000 miles of wire, 22,000 poles or enough to build 550 miles of line and 10,000 cross-arms are some of the materials that are expected to be purchased for the extending, maintaining and improving the company's plant in the two states.

It is estimated that the company will connect 23,500 telephones and disconnect 22,000 others in the division during this year in complying with patrons' orders to install or remove telephone service. On account of subscribers moving from one office or residence to another, the company will "move" service to 11,500 telephones.

During the year just past, the Northwestern Bell company added 1,285 telephones to its system in this division, and handled on an average, daily 766,500 local calls and 8,880 long distance messages from the company's 144 exchanges.

To carry on its operations in this division the company employs 2,240 persons. In addition to the Northwestern Bell telephones in this division, there are 253,480 telephones belonging to other companies whose lines connect with the Bell lines. These connecting companies operate in 682 towns in Nebraska and South Dakota.

Among the outstanding accomplishments effected by the Bell company in 1926 is the restricted repetition of numbers, or the "thank you" practice used by operators in acknowledging numbers. Another accomplishment was that of long distance rate adjustments which resulted in a general reduction of rates for the longer distances with slight increases for some of the shorter distances. Vaccination For Control of Roup. A scientific study of roup in poultry, one of the most serious fowl diseases, supports the conclusion that proper vaccination is one of the most effective means for reducing this source of loss.

The study was conducted by Dr. George W. Stiles and Dr. Hubert Buneya, both of the bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture. In a recent scientific paper, "Vaccination and medication for control of roup," Doctor Buneya reports the following conclusions, based on experiments: Birds about 1 year old appear to be more susceptible to roup than those 2-years old or older under the same conditions.

The use of antiseptics in the drinking water (permanganate of potash, and bichloride of mercury in particular) does not appear to have any appreciable curative virtue and very little preventive property. The local external application of solutions of mercurochrome or silver nitrate is not very effective in the prevention or treatment of roup.

Bacterins prepared from the bacteria involved in outbreaks of roup appear to be effective in the prevention of the disease as well as the treatment of incipient cases even under unfavorable climatic conditions. Two kinds of bacterins have proved effective, one made from bacteria occurring in a single outbreak and one from infections in a number of outbreaks.

The progress of roup is appreciably influenced by "secondary invaders," meaning bacteria which develop in addition to the chief virus that causes the disease. The use of vaccination in treating a considerable number of poultry flocks affected with roup gave very encouraging results.

Why Pay More?

How Other Hog Raisers Are Making More Money From Their Hogs With Ames Reliable Hog Minerals

The most important feature to remember about feeding minerals is to keep a constant and ample supply before your hogs at all times. Ames Reliable Minerals contain just the minerals your hogs and growing pigs need. They are mixed in the right proportions; that is why you can feed these minerals in a self-feeder. That is the way most farmers use it. Hogs will eat just the amount they need if you will put the self-feeder where they can get at it easily and where it is always before them. The average amount which most hogs require is about five pounds for each hundred pounds gain in weight.

Ames Reliable Minerals can also be mixed right in with the feed but it is usually easier and better to let the hogs eat their minerals alone. Keep a generous supply before them every day.

I have just received a car of tankage. I also have middlings, shorts, bran, egg-laying mash, Champion hog feed and oyster shells. We handle almost every feed used by the farmer for his herds and flocks.

Rev. J. Bruce Wylie Enjoys Rose Parade

J. Bruce Wylie writes as follows from Gatos, California, 99 College Avenue:

"For many years we have had a desire to see at first hand the rose tournament which is held in Pasadena on New Year's day each year. So on New Year's morning we got out early and started for the city that had been described to us as the city of sunshine and roses, of sea breezes and mountain vistas, of beautiful homes and perennial gardens.

"Over what is known as the foothill boulevard winding along the foot of the Sierra Madre and San Bernardino mountains for about seventy-five miles as the sun climbed above the mountains, we were reminded of a June morning in Nebraska.

"Cars and buses lined the highways all going the same way, so all we had to do was stay in the procession, for everybody seemed to be going to the same place.

"Pasadena is located in the foothills of the Sierra Madre mountains with the orange groves and fertile lands of the San Gabriel valley spreading out below. Towering above the city are the pine clad heights of Mount Wilson, reached by automobile in an hour, and Mount Lowe, famed as the mile high mountain climbed by a trolley car.

"Just outside the city's borders are many picturesque canyons, some accessible to motor cars, others to be explored in more leisurely fashion over well kept hiking paths and bridal paths.

"Pasadena claims 209 miles of paved streets and Los Angeles, is only eleven miles away and is reached by wide boulevards and trolley cars.

"The streets are fringed with pepper trees, palms, magnolias, acacia and many magnificent homes and beautiful gardens until one wonders if the parade will be more beautiful than the city itself.

"But we parked our car and found a place along the curb with thousands of others who were afraid to try the seats in the grandstand after the accident of a year ago. For ten miles on either side of the street people lined the sidewalks and crowded out into the street until it was with difficulty the motorcycle police kept the crowd back out of the street. Pushing and pulling, crowding and jostling the three quarters of a million people waited for hours along the line for the first sight of the parade. The fragrance of the rose buds and the warmth of golden California sun made conditions ideal.

"The babble of the crowd ceased when far down the street the heraldic purple-clad and seated on white horses with trumpet blasts, announced the approach of magnificent floral floats.

"There were 300 units in the long line of floats, the sole decoration being green foliage and California flowers. There were no inscriptions that space will not permit a description and they were so artistic that my ability as a writer cannot do them justice. But there were three that cannot be passed

Blair Man Named Judge. Lincoln, Neb., (Feb. 16)—E. Burke Carrigan, 54, Blair attorney today was appointed district judge of Douglas county to fill out the unexpired term left vacant by the death of District Judge Abraham L. Sutton of Omaha.

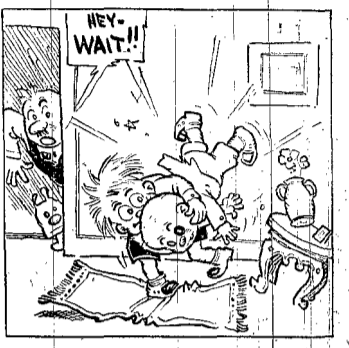

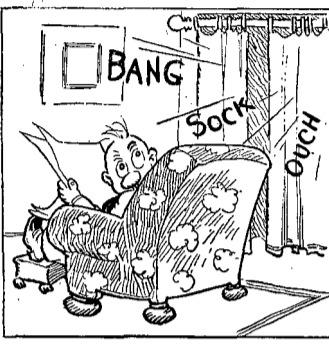

Bridge was pastime afterwards, William Mellor and J. F. Ahern receiving the high score prizes. Mrs. L. W. Vath is hostess next Monday and Mrs. D. H. Cunningham has the lesson.

With Mrs. Clara Heylman. Members of the Wayne Professional and Business Woman's club were entertained Tuesday evening by Mrs. Clara Heylman and Miss Esther Deutz at the former's home. Pupils of Mrs. Maude Joseph Smith's classes of the State Normal gave the program. "The Stranger," a short play, was presented by Miss Mary Alice Ley, Miss Olive Unland and Miss Neva Skinner. Keith Peterson and Miss Reba Mae Gibson gave readings. Miss Ruth Gross sang and Miss Dorothy Glover played piano selections. A social time was enjoyed afterwards and the hostesses served luncheon. In two weeks the club will meet with Miss Flora Staple and Miss Marie Johnson at the F. H. Jones home.

Bread and Water Sentence. Tekamah, Neb., Feb. 17.—County Judge Orville Chatt, who received nationwide publicity last summer because of his bread and water jail sentence, has resumed this method of enforcing the prohibition laws. Howard "Crip" King of Tekamah, last night was given a thirty day sentence in the Burt county jail, the first and last ten days to be upon a diet of bread and water. King was sentenced by Judge Chatt after having been found guilty of possessing liquor. He was released under $500 bond to day pending hearing of his appeal to the district court. Again it is demonstrated that while people were poking fun at Henry Ford's car, he was getting real amusement out of an adding-machine.—Wichita Eagle.
