Now for the Pig Harvest

Don't gamble with the odds against you,—you do if you try to raise hogs without adequate housing. A hog house of reasonable design costs little to begin with and nothing in the end,—the extra pigs saved pay for the building. Help the pigs the first four weeks,—they'll take care of themselves and you after they are well started. Better be safe than sorry. See us about this. We have the plans and dependable material for permanent buildings as well as the portable designs. There are many advantages in the portable designs that the large hog house does not possess. One is that you can house more brood sows and their pigs with less cost for equipment. Another is that in case of disease, the brood sows can be widely separated. The type A farrowing house seems to have more good points with less objectionable ones than any other type. We build these to cost from $15.00 to $22.50 depending on size, kind of material used and whether or not floors are used. These prices include construction costs and paint.

NATIONAL EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION 1927

The elderly and venerable Ethel Root, eminent lawyer and statesman, has a full head of hair which apparently has never been disturbed by comb or brush.

If you want something generally circulated and do not feel justified in running the newspaper, intrust it to the right person with a suggestion not to repeat it.

Within our recollection which reaches back far enough, we had one mid March which brought delightful spring, followed by summer in orderly and acceptable fashion. Experience with the month thus early leads to a suggestion that it might introduce another exception to the rule this year. We hope so.

Our blanket of charity is often dragged out and spread over local disturbances in order to avoid hurting the innocent and in the hope of doing more good than harm. But this blanket is becoming rather thin from excessive use and unless results show distinctly better behavior we shall conclude that its overspreading folds have done more harm than good.

Thomas A. Edison accounts his deafness a blessing and expresses the suspicion that, due to disturbing noises, everybody will be hard of hearing in time, and that they will have to be satisfied with just seeing, smelling, tasting and just hearing. It is likely people who can hear well, often hear too much, but if they could not hear, how could they appreciate Edison's wonderful phonograph?

One member of the state legislature opposed adoption of the song written by a Wayne author because it mentioned golden rods of which he has been trying to rid his back yard. If it had alluded in poetic fashion of the glorious Nebraska sun, he might have stood up in indignant opposition because at some time it had scorched his growing potatoes or had burned the cuticle on the back of his neck.

The Nebraska Farmer of which Former Governor Samuel R. McKelvie is editor and publisher, has just rounded out sixty-eight years. The publication was founded by Robert W. Furnas. Its growth has been steady and permanent, and it is one of the best of the outstanding and dependable farm publications of the country. It is being fashioned and directed by one whose leadership is both progressive and sound.

Rents are higher in Wayne than are usually found elsewhere due to the fact that this is an attractive home and school town. People like to live here, and they are especially drawn by the unusual school advantages. That the demand for houses often exceeds the supply, and the need for more houses becomes pressing. It would seem that desirable houses could be built at a cost that would permit investors to be adequately rewarded without overtaxing the ability of renters to pay.

The National Editorial association which will meet in Omaha next June, touring Nebraska and the Black Hills, will stop for a brief time in Norfolk, and the chamber of commerce of that city invites Wayne and other towns to assist in setting forth the advantages of this part of the state. A big parade will be one of the attractions, and it is suggested that Wayne could take part and give itself a send-off that would leave a lasting impression on editors who will be present from all parts of the United States. It is none too early to think of some feasible and advantageous plan.

President Coolidge vetoed the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill on the ground that it would burden rather than benefit the farmer and that it would be unconstitutional and unworkable. He says it would not provide a practical remedy and that the agricultural lands and that the difficulties involved in its administration would wreck it. The measure pointed out that the measure sought to help certain products to the disadvantage of others. He said the ones who would be benefited by the law would be those who handled the specified products after they left the farmers' hands.

Coolidge Is Coolidge. Lincoln Journal: The men of the west and south who favor farm relief have been unable to present a united front in support of the McNary-Haugen bill. When the bill went to President Coolidge he was bombarded with requests for approval from individuals and organizations in the grain and cotton producing regions of the country. But from these same districts came influential voices, not a few but many, insisting that the measure proposed would be abortive farm relief. Farm journals like the Nebraska Farmer of Lincoln and the organ of the Nebraska Farmers Union at Omaha joined with widely circulated grain country dailies like the republican Minneapolis Journal in pointing out what are looked upon as hopeless defects in the plan. Add to this opposition the objections of conservative economists and financiers everywhere, the strong feeling of disapproval in the east and the eastern half of the upper Mississippi valley, the failure of the farmers to make their wishes clearly known, and the veto does not stand but as the act of consummate chagrin that it seems at first glance.

Faced with the most trying problem of his career, President Coolidge, in the absence of overwhelming evidence in favor of the proposed law, has followed his natural predilections. He has used his own judgment in reaching a decision in a case in which the opposing forces and the contrasting arguments have been fairly equally balanced. To make the decision simpler, he has his own belief that the bill is unconstitutional, buttressed by a positive opinion from the attorney general to the same effect.

For this decision the president will not be excessively blamed or extravagantly praised except by extreme partisans of the bill or its opponents. The country will agree that he has been himself. He has been President Coolidge in this matter, as he has in almost all of his official acts. That is all there is to say about this phase of the question.

Market Report.

Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.

Sioux City Stock Yards, March 2.—Much bulliness surrounded the live stock markets the first half of the week and all classes of cattle, hogs and sheep show gains.

The clearance for short fed cattle has been decidedly active and at mid-week looks strong to 25c higher. Tuesday brought out a top on heavy heaves at $11.25 and for something strictly fancy sellers feel equal to predicting a $12 top. Also more of the good fed kinds are coming in accordance with the advancing season, with the result that added numbers of transactions are ranging upwards to $10 and over. However, in the main fair to good shortfeds worth from $9.25 to $9.50 continue to make up the bulk of the daily quotas.

Butcher stock reflects practically the same gain for the week, as steers, namely strong to 25c higher. Desirable light yearling heifers are worth from $8.50 to $10, with mediums and heavies from $7.50 to $8.25. Fair to good shortfed cows are largely a $6 to $6.50 sale, with more of the light heifers cows selling up around $6.75 and $7, and fewer of the thin cows

ATROPHIED—NOW DEAD.
The local Civic party which was organized some years ago as a vehicle to remedy any defect or omission made by the other political organization, has succumbed to lack of sustenance. The few who attended the meeting called for last Friday evening were not sufficient to fill the offices and leave any one to discuss vital problems and vote. Therefore the meeting was called off, and thus following collapse of procedure essential to survival, the party was laid to rest. Perishing from want of sustaining vitality will be inscribed on its tombstone. This is undoubtedly a mistake, and with few exceptions we all share in the responsibility. The Civic party was born to enliven interest in public affairs and to encourage good government and good citizenship. In allowing the party to be planted among the daisies, we should be startled into taking more interest in helpful public activities along many lines. We play too much and too often. Let us not be surfeited and weakened by prolonged play spells, but devote more of our waking hours to business and the public service.

selling down around $5. The usual number of prime heavy cows are trickling into the Boston kosher trade as high as $7.50. Canners look weaker for the week, with sales as low as $3.25, but mostly such cattle figure steady from $3.75 up, while cutters from $4.75 down cannot be quoted other than firm. Veals have received an uneven, though generally steady outlet. The practical calf top has held to $12.50, with just occasional outside sales as high as $13.00 to city butchers on extra fancy selection. Fair to good hologna bulls from $5.50 to $6 look steady.

The nearer approach of the usual spring trade is injecting more life into the already buoyant stocker and feeder trade, with the result that values are moving along freely on the season's best level. Feeders actually topped at $9 this week for the first time. Generally the light incoming supplies are on the yearling order and of fair to good quality. This brings out the majority of the sales between $7.50 and $8.25. Practically no common material is arriving, a condition that has obtained practically all season.

Dealers in feeding cows and heifers seem to have forgotten that they styled prices relatively too high last week. This week found values back to the high time, with top on choice light feeding heifers to $7.50 and on good regulation weight cows to $5.50.

The first two days of the week brought 194,500 hogs to the 11 leading markets, a decrease of 46,500 head, as compared to the same days last week and a falling off of 24,700, as compared to the corresponding period in 1926. The curtailment forced packers to forego their bullish ideas and follow the sheep's lead upwards. Heavy butchers are again up around $11.15, with lights topping over $11.50.

Demands for fat lambs are apparently more than equal to current supplies, the full week runs at the 11 leading markets being right around 200,000 head for some weeks past. Tops have jumped skyward almost daily and the prevailing fat lamb top at $14.85 is the highest of the year. Feeding lambs at $14 reflect a sympathetic amount of strength while ewes, due to scarcity, continue strong. The season's top at $9.25 is still in vogue for choice light ewes.

The Turks have passed a law against "uncivilized noises." It would never do for the Helena legend of Elks to hold a special meeting like they had last Saturday night with that kind of a law on the books.—Helena Independent.

Rennick's Hampshire Sale Season's Top

Thursday, February 24, Ed S. Rennick's Hampshire sale of bred sows and gilts was held in Pilger. It was a success from every point of view, averaging $102.63 for the 65 head offered, and topping the sales of that breed by $2.63 average.

E. M. Harsch, fieldman for the American Herdsman, purchased twenty of the offering, sending them to many different herds in nine states, two of them going to Mississippi and two to Ohio. Out of the many orders placed with this man for purchase his largest buying was from this herd.

One sow was purchased locally, by E. C. Whisman and six go into herds of adjoining towns. The balance are scattered over this and adjoining states.

Two express cars were set off at Pilger on Friday and loaded out with the purchases.

Gentle April Coming.
Hartington Herald: The closing days of February, marked by alternate freezing and thawing, move on toward an early spring. Already the days are lengthening out perceptibly and, in spite of occasional cold waves and flurries of snow, it is very evident that the winter is on the wane. Allowing the full six weeks claimed by the good old tradition, the season of frost and snow is about over and ever welcome spring is at hand. March may bring some boisterous weather, but it will gradually yield to the gentle urging of April's warmer days.

What has held Mr. Vanderlip's attention during the 10 or 12 years since he charged America with being a nation of "economic illiterates" was the manner in which business executives obtained a better grasp of economic principles. He points out that business management now is more scientific than it was. Nor yet does he speak of efficiency as a term. It is suspected that he considers that a mere detail, and would at once agree that the advancement he has observed is something deeper and broader, more enveloping and more essential to business success. Most persons are likely to think of business in terms of money making only and to interpret economic activity as the struggle for a living. But isn't it actually more than that? Granting that business essentially and primarily is a plan to procure sustenance, one is not necessarily held to that explanation of the whole economic scheme. Humanity has a deeper and a higher purpose. There are things more romantic than a mere living and when Mr. Vanderlip speaks of a new economic culture in this country he suggests also a new vision.

The development to which Mr. Vanderlip has called attention might have been expected. This has been and is America's golden age of opportunity. That she should have grasped this opportunity was a natural sequence. The combination of business sense and business science has produced the result.

The Emerson commercial club elected officers as follows: President, Dr. D. J. Tighe; vice president, E. Enke; treasurer, George

Haase; and executive committee, H. J. Lenderink, Jule Bonderson and E. A. Beiersdorf. The club plans to make an effort to have

Some wise man has said that a good reputation is one of the things that have to be arranged for in advance. In our business we consider it the main thing. Equipment, skill—even the desire to serve—would be vain without the confidence of our fellow-citizens.

It is a modern store operating under principles of the most modern methods. It represents but a single unit of a great buying organization, which, through its great buying power, is able at all times to command the best merchandise at the lowest possible market prices. In no other way could this store present to you such values as will be found here, not only for the opening event, but throughout every day of the year.

We have assembled the choicest lines the big markets afford in Dry Goods, Ready-to-Wear, Shoes, Millinery and Men's Furnishings. We know that your daily needs can be filled at liberal savings to you and your family. You may be sure that nothing but standard brand of goods will be featured and everything possible will be done to render a service that will just naturally attract you to this store.

We not only aim to deliver the right goods at right prices but to create an atmosphere for this store which will always carry to our customers that feeling of welcome. ### Favors for the Ladies on Opening Day

Our Policy

It is our aim to give the people of Wayne and the surrounding territory the kind of a store they should have.

We carry only standard merchandise, and are willing to compare prices at all times, quality considered. There are many imitators of the Golden Rule Policy of pricing merchandise, but only in rare instances are they able to imitate our values.

Our Values

In some instances we use comparative values in our advertising. The comparison is offered to show the difference in our prices and the prices of stores who do not have our buying power, and who ask and give credit favors.

Any article bought at our store that you are not satisfied with after getting home, we gladly will exchange or refund the price you paid us for it.

Our One Price Policy

When we say "One Price To All" we mean just that. There are no exceptions — a child that can talk can buy at the same price as the hardest bargain hunter. By this method, and by this method only, can we hope to hold the public's confidence.

You are always welcome in our store whether you want to buy or not.

Our Cash Policy

We buy and sell for cash. We have proven by experience that this is the better way to do business. By buying and selling for cash, we are able to undersell stores who give credit. We make no exceptions; our policy is cash to all. Thus no one suffers, for the credit that is lost and for the expensive system of maintaining credit.

Our Store Hours

We believe in fair dealing to all — to our employees as well as to the public. We insist upon courteous treatment and satisfaction at all times from our employees, but in justice to all, our store will open promptly at 8:00 A. M. and will close at 6:00 P. M., except on Saturday. We will be open Saturday evening to accommodate the rural customers.

Political Advertising. York Republican: The corrupt practice act, which candidates for public office have to carefully observe, or get into trouble over, makes it necessary for the aspirant for office to file a statement of what he has paid for newspaper advertising. He is allowed to conceal personal expense, postage, correspondence, circulars, and a lot of things, but he must account penny for penny for newspaper advertising. This is absurd. Newspaper advertising is the one thing out in plain view where everyone can see it. It cannot practice deception. Its very publicity abolishes it from blame. The slush funds are never invested in advertising. Advertising is the cleanest, most wholesome and beneficial thing a candidate can buy. Why should he be held to account so strictly for it and made to keep his expenditures for it within such narrow limits? The corrupt practice act should be amended to cure this glaring defect. Hurt By Automobile. Neligh, Neb., Feb. 25.—James Hughes of this city was seriously injured last night when he was struck by an auto driven by George Wilcox. The accident happened at the public library corner, one of the four dangerous intersections in the western part of town. Mr. Hughes was crossing the street as Mr. Wilcox turned the corner and neither saw the other in time to avoid the accident. Mr. Hughes was thrown to the pavement and the front wheel of the auto ran over him. His face and hands were cut and his body somewhat bruised, but the most serious injury was the breaking of two small bones in one ankle, though the joint was not injured. Senator Bruce says that he could put all the personal drays in the Senate into a taxicab, but if they are really personal drays they ought to be able to get in without his help.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot. Henry Ford thinks that we must put wives on a wage basis. Would he also give them a five-day week?—New York Evening World.
