HOME TRAINING.

Dr. A. L. Bixby in Lincoln Journal: "E. W. Huse" wisely suggests an extension of the proposed law requiring that honesty, morality, courtesy, obedience and respect for parents be taught in the public schools, making it mandatory that the same virtues be taught in the home. Right you are, Eugene, and home training has more to do with child development along these lines than all other forces combined. If parents are dishonest and expect obedience and respect from their children to be very different. Admonition counts for nothing in making children respect their parents. Their parental conduct plays the all important part. If parental behavior merits the respect of children, it has its reward. Perhaps it would be just as well for politicians to trust the work of education to people trained to impart learning.

Grade Pupils Will Present Operetta As Feature of Music Week Observance

Beethoven Program Is Given at Wayne School—Other News of the Week.

"Spring Blow" is the name of the operetta which students of the first seven grades in the Wayne city school will present for the public music week, plans for which are being made by the Wayne Musical association. This operetta is a new one which has not been presented before. Miss Louise Black is training the students.

The one hundredth anniversary since the death of Beethoven has been observed by schools and churches in this country and the Wayne high school enjoyed a program Friday afternoon on the noted musician, arranged by Miss Louise Black. Miss Black also presented the operetta, "The Ninth," by Miss Crystal Dragon played piano selections composed by Beethoven. Miss Black reviewed works of the musician and Miss Louise Rickabaugh told of his life. A Victrola record, "Funeral March," with explanation by Walter Dambrash, was played.

The girls' glee club met Friday after school to practice new songs, "Love's Dream," by Liszt, and "New World Symphony" by Dvorak. The glee club will sing for the senior class day program. The seniors sing for commencement.

The Wayne debating team, Bernard Pollard, Natalie Johnson and Louise Rickabaugh, plans to go to Hartington this Thursday to meet the Hartington team. Wayne will later meet Ponca and Gering.

The local students won from Wakefield and Bloomfield by unanimous decisions.

Fred L. Blair spoke to the high school Wednesday of last week on "Thrill." This was one of a series of educational talks being given by local business men.

Luella Noakes, Maxine Rhoades and Bernard Pollard, who represented Wayne at the sub-judicial declamatory contest in Randolph Friday, gave their selections on Thursday. Miss Elizabeth Pugh accompanied them to Randolph.

Louise Rickabaugh, Bernard Pollard, Edna Jeffery, Crystal Dragon and Margaret McMurphy represented the Wayne high school at the typewriting contest for students at Norfolk Saturday. The students demonstrated speed tests before the assembly Monday and Tuesday. Miss Elizabeth Pugh accompanied the students to Norfolk.

This week closes the fifth six-week period of the school year and examinations were started this Thursday. The school year closes in another six weeks.

Seniors are working on their class play, "Adam and Eve," which will be given the last of April. Miss Elizabeth Pugh is in charge of the training.

Kindergarten.

Mrs. Van Bradford, Mrs. Albert Mau and Mrs. Hansen visited the kindergarten last week.

Pupils are making a miniature town on the sand table. Schools, homes and other buildings are being erected.

First Grade.

Marjorie Hok was 7 years old March 23 and had a party in honor of the occasion. The children played games and enjoyed ice cream cones, chocolate cookies and candies. Mrs. T. S. Hook was a visitor. Marjorie entertained a few of her older playmates after school at her home.

F. L. Blair visited Wednesday. Dale Meyers returned to school Thursday after having chicken pox.

Dale Her is a new pupil. He moved here from Laurel.

The pupils dramatized the health play, "Biffy and His Pets," before largely in the imagination of the uninformed. There may be some newspapers and some writers that can be taught, but they are relatively very few. The reputable press prints the news without fear or favor and editors and reporters as a rule are generally fair and impartial. They have to be in order to keep their jobs. Of course, occasions arise once in a while when public policy demands that some item of news be suppressed, but such occasions are rare. Newspapers aim to give the news and they generally do so, as between college professors and editors, we would say that the latter are quite as courageous in the presentation of facts as the former. The former may be controlled to a certain extent by the board of directors, but the latter is answerable to nobody and nothing but his own conscience and the public which he serves.

A Neighbor's Views.

Lincoln Journal: Senator Capper of Kansas, has made a speech in which he supports General Daves in his efforts to secure a revision of the senate rules. He agrees with the vice president that the rule of unlimited debate "gives a small group of senators more veto power than the president." He does not agree with Senator Norris that this veto power can be used and often is used to checkmate minister and powerful interests who without it would be able to control the senate just as they now manipulate the house thru gavel rules.

He does not see with the Nebraska senator that the way to kill the filibuster is to do away with the short or lame duck session of congress, and bring the final session to an end just before the long vacation. The filibuster thrives because congress expires by limitation on March 4. Let congress finish its business nine months before the end of the terms of the members, and the filibuster is dead, Senator Norris is certain that nobody will want to talk for nine months, no matter how sacred the cause in which he may be engaged.

Other matters touched upon in his speech Senator Capper is more in accord with his neighbor. The exposure of corruption in elections in Pennsylvania and Illinois is a public service. We will not send an army to Mexico to fight for oil companies. There is too much government machinery at Washington. Too many boards and commissions. Half of them could be wiped out and the country would be better off. The industries of the nation are prospering under the protective tariff, fixed railroad rates, labor and immigration laws, and interest rates fixed by the federal reserve system. Agriculture alone is lagging, he added, "because it has not been admitted to full membership in the American protective system. If it is not entitled to full membership the other industries are not."

This argument, which was the big gun behind the McNary-Haugen breastworks, will be used steadily until something is done to equalize conditions on the farms and in the industrial east.

Summer Bachelors Dash For Phones

What do "Summer Bachelors" do first after seeing their wives off to the country?

Allan Dwan, who directed the Fox film by that name which comes to the Crystal theater on Friday and Saturday of this week, considered the matter, and decided the most realistic thing would be to have each of them dash to the nearest phone booth and call up a blonde.

He outlined the scene to his "bachelors" as they assembled in the train shed of the Grand Central Station, New York, after the taking of the famous farewell.

Hale Hamilton did his "dash" in record time, and dropped a real nickel in the slot. As the camera ground on, Hamilton talked animatedly into the phone, and when the camera stopped, he kept right on talking.

"I called my wife," he explained, as he came out. "She's the best biotch in the world."

Mr. Hamilton, in private life, is married to Grace La Rue.

Bobbed Her Hair Over 60 Years Ago

Newcastle, Neb., March 25.—"Aunt Jane" Cummins, who had her hair bobbed sixty-eight years ago, thus feeling that the modern "flappers" have nothing on her, celebrated her eighty-seventh birthday anniversary here.

"Aunt Jane" says that Solomon was right when he said, "There is nothing new under the sun," and she laughs at those who believe they are ultra modern and have invented modes of living never dreamed of by women of many decades ago, because, she claims, that, with the exception of minor differences, habits of living and styles of today are much the same as those of nearly a century ago.

Although "Aunt Jane" has not been as strong this winter as usual, she is more lively than many who are much younger. She still prefers to live alone, but likes to call on the neighbors and visit with them. She usually does her own house work and for many years took care of her garden and spent much time caring for flowers. She is optimistic, has a good appetite and enjoys life "immensely." To those who would live long and enjoy life, "Aunt Jane" recommends work, an optimistic view of life, interest in other people, clean living and faith in God.

Wayne Instructors Are State Officers

Miss Martha Pierce and Miss Olive Kier of the Wayne State Normal art department, went to Lincoln Friday to attend on Saturday the annual meeting of the State Art Teachers association. This convention formerly was held as part of the State Teachers association. A year ago a reorganization was effected and the department now holds its meetings separately. Miss Pierce was the first president and Miss Kier was the first secretary-treasurer elected under the new plan. Miss Gladys Dana of Lincoln, was vice president.

Membership in the art association is state-wide. Plans made at the meeting a year ago provided for a donation of four or more cards of public school art work to a traveling exhibit. This exhibit is to be available to any teacher willing to pay transportation charges. The contribution from the State Teachers College at Wayne was made by the teachers' drawing classes. About twelve students' work was sent.

Following a conference Saturday morning at Lincoln, luncheon was held in the Cornhusker hotel.

Can't Be Bought.

Hartington Herald: A college professor, addressing a group of young people at Sioux City, referred among other things to the newspapers and intimated that reporters could be bought. The speech was reported in the news columns of the Sioux City Journal and "The Rear Seat," a column devoted to current comment in that paper, takes a crack at it, properly resenting the idea of a subsidized press. The writer goes on to say that, in his long experience in the newspaper business, he had been restrained in his editorial work and that he has virtually never been offered money for the purpose of influencing or coloring news. And what this veteran newspaper man says in regard to his own experience, we believe is typical. A subsidized press exists

NIGHT'S REST DISTURBED

Is Nature's Way of Telling You "Danger Ahead." A Healthy Bladder Does not Act at Night

Mrs. W. W. Bushong, 1012 S. East St. Bloomington, Ill., says, "Lithiated Buchu tablets relieved me of bladder weakness. Was disturbed twenty to twenty-five times a night. I feel I am well. I tried many treatments, submitted to operation, and much torture. In one week after taking Lithiated Buchu I could notice improvement. I will be glad to tell or write my experience." Lithiated Buchu is not a patent medicine. The formula is on the bottle. It cleanses the bladder as epsom salts do the bowels. The tablets cost 2 cents each at all drug stores. One growing business, that ought to be checked is that of stealing automobiles. Owners should look well after their cars, and it may be advisable for authorities to increase forces in raising safeguards.

The legislature is growing anxious to finish and adjourn. A sitting committee is dealing out bills for consideration each day, and it will deal out none that threaten only to clog the wheels and take time. If the body would speed up earlier, it would not have to speed up so fast in the final wind-up.

Few attended a recent debate in Wayne. Many attended a recent basketball game here. And Wayne is no different from other places. If it were known that a sharp clash of wits, each side lambasting the other, would punctuate the debate, virtually resulting in a forensic massacre, we wonder if the house wouldn't be packed.

Annual music week comes the first week in May, and local musicians are planning a suitable observance of the occasion. As we understand, the idea is not only for passing pleasure, but to inculcate a more general appreciation of music. Music thrills and excites, and it tends to make people happier and better. The more music in the world, the better it is for civilization.

March has reached the end of its string, and we doubt if there are any regrets over its passing, though it has brought needed moisture as a foundation for coming growth. But storms and cold and bad roads do not conduce to peace of mind when people anticipate spring and yearn for it, and the going of the month, like recovery from a surgical operation, imparts a sense of relief.

A contributor to the Omaha World-Herald complains that the bridge craze in that city is diverting attention from helpful activities. In a mad ambition to land the winning score and be rewarded with a two-bit bottle of perfume, people are neglecting the real essentials of life, according to the contributor. Bridge is having its run, like an epidemic of measles, and it is not restricted to any one locality, big or little. It prevails generally, and while it lasts, it will ingenuously brook no interference from business affairs or household duties.

We have been wondering about this town of Gross which has enlisted in the high school debating contest. We had never heard of it, but on inquiry we find it is situated northeast of Butte and has a population of eighty-four. Its school has ten grades and two teachers. E. G. Wells is the superintendent, and he must be a live wire. His school is so far from debating activities that he cannot easily issue forth for a match and then return home. So he proposes to come down the line prepared to spend a week, being equipped to debate both sides of the prevailing question. On account of its ambition, we would like to see Gross show that it is all net.

Booth Tarkington's story in the current number of a magazine, relating to marriage, concludes that the union of two individuals through customary pledges may continue happily if neither party to the contract is made a slave to the other. The author's idea is that a couple should treat each other about as they did before marriage, always just as courteous and never overbearing or tyrannical. According to the author, each should be allowed to follow personal wishes without an attempt to force opinions contrary to inclinations or fixed habits. To little individual freedom is urged as the cause for much friction and occasional marital wrecks. Liberty that does not outrage marriage relations would seem more sufferable than constant irascibility and a possible smashup. Each should yield freedom that keeps within bounds of reason, and neither should expect more freedom than he or she is willing to grant.

"OVERHEAD."
We have heard complaint that so-called "overhead" has become increasingly oppressive in big centers of population. "Overhead" includes every cost outside of investment in new stocks. If an institution hires three men to do what two could do if the proprietor did not loaf half the time, he is adding unnecessarily to the burden of the "overhead." If wages paid exceed the value of services rendered, "overhead" mounts and net earnings shrink. The cost of doing business has become so great that volume must not only increase, but the "overhead" help heat, light, taxes, interest and innumerable other things—must be kept down within the limits of possible production to make results show gain rather than loss. It is the ascending load of "overhead" that makes the weary-hearted man wish he could go back to the jungles and start over again, and this is often caused by increased leisure and multiplied luxuries.

ACTIVE INTEREST.
It is undoubtedly important to continue one's work as far and as long as power of endurance will permit. No matter how rich one becomes or how old he grows, it is believed to be a mistake to relax interest in affairs or to suspend physical or mental activities. If a man is no longer required to struggle for a livelihood or to amass a surplus for safety or for heirs to fight over, he should direct more energy in behalf of public service. Continuing active interest preserves health and prolongs life, and no man, no matter how rich, should allow himself to be sidetracked.

Keep Eliminative System Active

Good Health Requires Good Elimination.

ONE can't feel well when there is a retention of poisonous waste in the blood. This is called a toxic condition, and is apt to make one tired, dull and languid. Other symptoms are sometimes toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Many people have learned the value of Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, when the kidneys seem functionally inactive. Everywhere one finds enthusiastic Doan's users. Ask your neighbor!

Mrs. Walthers Tells of Narrow Escape

Nebraska Woman Suffering With Indigestion and Loss of Appetite Greatly Relieved. Thanks Tanlac

A few years ago Mrs. Grace Walthers, 1709 N. St., Harvelock, Nebr., found herself on the verge of becoming an invalid suffering from indigestion and gastritis.

Mrs. Walthers says: "While living on a farm near here I suffered from loss of appetite and was in badly run down condition. Was troubled with gas, which seemed at times to press against my heart; also was very nervous.

"Then a friend told me what Tanlac had done in similar cases. "With the first bottle of Tanlac I began to sleep better and rise refreshed each morning. I gained weight and felt stronger. Health has brought me happiness. I will always recommend Tanlac to friends who suffer as I did."

This marvelous tonic, made from roots, barks and herbs according to the famous Tanlac for-

Will Attempt To Eradicate Cholera

In a state like Nebraska, with a type of agriculture which requires the maintenance of a large number of swine, the preservation of the health of this form of livestock is one of the principal problems which confronts the farmer. Many diseases to which swine are liable contribute toward making this problem a formidable one, but among those one stands out pre-eminently and that is hog cholera.

It is as yet the most prolific source of financial losses, commonly occurring at a time when they are most severely felt. It is a disease which constitutes a perennial menace to farmer welfare and as a very potential source of mischief it cannot be disregarded without a considerable hazard of disaster.

While cholera is always apt to occur in some portion of a dense hog population like that of Nebraska, there are times when it has to be reckoned with more seriously than ordinary. This is because of the peculiar behavior of the disease to occur in what has been called waves. It is not certain that such a wave is now impending, but the occurrence of wide spread outbreaks like those of last year justifies the opinion that adequate preparations to face a hog cholera situation of more than usual magnitude are now in order.

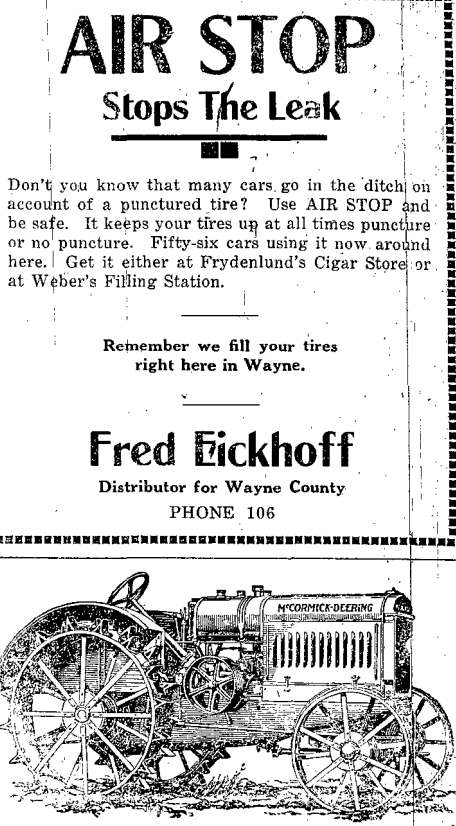

With this in mind the Nebraska department of agriculture is contemplating to bring to the attention of the swine owners of the state certain facts pertaining to the disease, which they should know and to counsel them in regard to the best measures to be taken. It is not yet certain in what manner this can best be accomplished. The department is inclined at this time to foster meetings and conferences in the counties of the state most heavily involved in swine growing. At such meetings persons capable of speaking with authority on the subject, would explain the measures proposed in order to cope with the disease before it can assume proportions which would render control difficult.

There can be no doubt that, in this, early vaccination must be especially relied upon. But whatever may be recommended on this point, the department is fully aware of the fact that there can only be one interest at stake and that is that of the swine owners.

In comparison with this interest all others are only of secondary importance and merely subsidiary to the great task of making as large a portion of the 1927 hog crop of Nebraska as possible safe from what a possible epizootic of cholera may do to it. There are indications that a thorough job will have to be done and the department is ready to make an effort to get it underway.

An Investment In Power

Owners everywhere are considering McCormick-Deering tractors an investment in power—an investment that is paying regular dividends by making it possible for one man to do more, to do it easier, and to do it better. In other words, by materially reducing the cost of production, McCormick-Deering tractors are widening the range of profit and making farming more pleasant.

We also recommend the McCormick-Deering Farmall.

Although several thousand farmers, doing all kinds of farming, having found the ordinary tractor profitable and practical, there are many other farmers who have been waiting for a tractor that will do the work of the other type of tractor and in addition do the planting and cultivating. Should you be one of the latter class, you need wait no longer. The Farmall is the tractor for you. It not only supplies an abundance of power for plowing, listing, disking, culti-packing, harrowing, harvesting, etc., the same as any other good tractor, but it is constructed that it supplies power for both planting and cultivating corn, cotton and other row crops.

BETTER FARMING

Less Work - More Profits

Sixty percent of the total cost of farming is chargeable to draft and stationary power, latest figures of the U. S. Department of Agriculture show. This being true, it is evident why farm profits depend so much on the cost of that power.

Fordson power on the average costs half as much as animal power for draft work to which the latter can only be applied. In addition, the Fordson furnishes ample and dependable power for practically every belt operation at exceptionally low cost.

McCormick-Deering Triple-Power Tractors

The power take-off, which is considered the greatest single tractor improvement made in over ten years, is an original feature on McCormick-Deering tractors. It consists of a shaft attached to the rear of the transmission and driven by power transmitted direct from the engine. It is enclosed to protect it from dust and dirt. It can be used at the same time as the belt pulley, if desired. The power take-off operates in very much the same way as a propeller shaft, and drives the mechanism of the pulled machines, such as tractor binders, rice binders, corn pickers, etc. It enables these machines to do more work and do it more satisfactorily under very adverse conditions. The power take-off always runs at the same speed whether the tractor is in low or in second gear. It can be run when the tractor is standing still. This is an advantage in clearing the pulled machine in case it should become clogged. It would prove a real advantage to you in selecting a tractor to be sure that it can be equipped with a real power take-off because power farmers are finding more and more uses for power take-off.

REMEMBER
1. Practical power on the drawbar.
2. Serviceable power on the belt.
3. Positive power and uniform speed on the power take-off.
Now is the best time to begin Power Farming. Start with a McCormick-Deering.

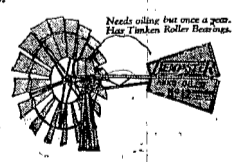

McCormick - Deering P. & O. Little Wonder Plow DRAWN BY EITHER TRACTOR OR HORSES
The No. 2 Little Wonder combines every feature essential to good plowing with a mechanical design which puts plenty of strength where it is needed yet produces a plow that is very light in draft and as light in weight as it is possible to build a good plow. It is all plow—there is no dead weight. The hitch is flexible when the plow is at work—vital to good work.

McCormick-Deering Corn Planters
Great accuracy, combined with a wide range of adaptability to the requirements of planting corn, beans and other crops under varying conditions—time-proven principles in a brand new model. In developing the "100 Series" line of McCormick-Deering planters and drills, the aim has been not to find something radically different and untried, but to give the American corn grower a simpler, more practical combination of the principles which particular farmers have found good. The result is a line of planters and drills which meets admirably the planting requirements in the different sections where corn is grown. As is always the case, greater dependability and increased accuracy follow simplification of design.

McCormick-Deering Primrose Cream Separator
Performance speaks louder than words. To see the McCormick-Deering Primrose in operation, running smoothly, quietly, and doing a real job of skimming, is to want it for your own. Twelve Distinctive Features: 1. Ball bearings. 2. Easy turning. 3. Slow crank speed. 4. Greater capacity, less labor. 5. Long life. 6. Steady running. 7. Visible oiling system. 8. Improved oiling. 9. Easy bowl adjustment. 10. Supply can locked in position. 11. Spun metal, anti-splash supply can. 12. Improved tinware.

Dempster Windmills

Let us show you these windmills and their perfect working parts.
ROLLER BEARINGS, SELF-OILING
In making selection of a windmill a person should carefully consider what kind of service and durability he might expect. All old-type mills required one to climb the tower to oil it. Hence, it was usually neglected, resulting in a hard-running, short-lived mill. The Dempster Mill Mfg. Co., in keeping with the age of improvements and inventions, have gone farther than anyone else and are giving you a mill with Timken Roller Bearings, Running in Fluid Oil. And to prevent any possibility of leakage, we use a thick felt washer around the main shaft and as a still further precaution we have a method of sealing the Timken bearing with hard oil. This in no way detracts from the proper lubrication of the bearing, but acts as a sheath to prevent the loss of the liquid oil. This insures Easy Running and Long Life. Also one that is easily and quickly repaired. In the use of these bearings we were able to make the mill more compact, reducing the weight but with more strength.
No Wear on the Shaft. All the wear is on the bearings. No replacement of the shaft will ever be necessary from wear.
Thrust Bearings Not Needed. These bearings being cone shaped take care of all end pressure, an automatic take-up provides for any wear in the bearings.

MACHINE CUT EQUALIZING GEARS
The large gears are machine cut, as are all gears in the very finest machinery. This makes the gears run more smoothly and increases their life very materially. The gears are separate, each carrying its share of the load. It is difficult to key double gears to a shaft and equalize the load between them. With the arrangement on this mill it is impossible to throw an extra load on one gear. Each one has to do its equal share, which tends to reduce wear and prevent strain and breakage. The position of the pitmans in an almost perpendicular lift on the cross-heads decreases the friction and wear. The small pinions which carry the greatest strain are made of steel.
