BARLEY REPORTED BETTER THAN CORN FOR PIG GROWTH

Our attention is called to a report from the agricultural college in Wisconsin that one pound of barley will bring more weight on a pig than one hundred pounds of corn. This finding was announced after due experiment. It would seem evident, then, that farmers should raise more barley even if in doing so they must raise less corn. Such diversification would seem, also, to be a safeguard against a possibly unfavorable season for one or the other crop. Sometimes a season is better for small grain and not so good for corn, and then sometimes the reverse happens. Why not take fewer chances by growing both barley and corn?

IMPROVEMENT OF WAYNE HIGHWAYS IS IN PROSPECT

The way the roads have been torn up by action of the weather the last few months, people could not be sure of arriving after starting, and if they did arrive, much time was wasted and many difficulties were overcome. People were running on half their cylinders, functioning about half of normal, and they lost time and money and patience. Under unfavorable road conditions, living scores about half, and people can't begin to talk about the things they would like to do before they die of old age. Some of the immediately encouraging prospects for this territory will be completion of gravel on the highway between Wayne and Laurel and renewal of work on the road between here and Hoskins. Contract for graveling the highway north of here will be let the last of this month. Graveling the highway between Wayne and Wisner has been finished, but a few thin spots need and are to receive installments of fresh gravel. Another year will find good headway in road improvements, and they are eminently needed for the convenience, comfort and facility of the human race.

A Good Investment. Yorks Republican: Twenty-seven millions spent on the roads of Nebraska in ten years looks at first like a terrifying sum. But it is the best investment — besides schools and churches and good government — the state ever made.

Good roads that allow of easy transportation of the products of the farms, the exchange of needed commodities, the easy coming and going of people on their errands of business and pleasure, are worth all they cost because of the economy they provide—economy of both time and money.

But there is another side to the matter. Good roads are avenues of better acquaintance. They kill sectionalisms that are introduced underfoot. They make strangers friends and friends fellow-workers.

A good road that invites by its smooth and sturdy surface the wheels of our automobiles is a highway of good will at the end of which and along its side dwell people who are destined together to work out a better government, a better social environment and a better equality of daily living.

Twenty-seven millions, as great a sum as that is not a cent too much to pay for 6300 miles of improved roads in Nebraska that promise another era of development for a state that has no peer among the forty-eight commonwealths for its developed and potential soil and human resources.

Disease Abates.

Laurel, Neb., March 20.—The scarlet fever epidemic which raged in this locality for several weeks, and threatened to demoralize the town and all public gatherings, has abated, and things practically are normal again. Public gatherings have been resumed here, and physicians say that in the country districts the disease is well under control and rapidly being eliminated. There was one death here during the epidemic, that of Raymond Johnson, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Johnson of Laurel.

Crime Doesn't Pay.

Hartington Herald: It seems passing strange that it wouldn't dawn on the criminal world after a while that crime doesn't pay—that the criminal can't "get away with it." In nine cases out of ten, we venture to say, the man or woman who commits a crime is eventually apprehended. Either he or she is caught in the act, is made to confess under stress of the "third degree," is traced and captured or is forced to return by a guilty conscience, and one would suppose that everybody—the potential as well as the active criminal—would realize in time the absolute futility and foolishness of crime. This is not to take into account the moral question at all, but just the mere senselessness of people running amuck in organized human society and deluding themselves with the idea that they can break its laws with impunity. Admitting our well known laxity of law enforcement and leniency in dealing with criminals, it becomes increasingly evident that nothing is more uprovable than crime. Law and conscience, however imperfectly applied, make it still true as in ancient times that "the way of the transgressor is hard."

Henry Kay & Son, Proprietors

Irate Subscriber.

Hartington Herald: Commenting on the irate subscriber who calls up a newspaper office to hotly contradict some news item, suggests another kind of irate individual who objects to something which appears in print because it runs counter to his or her own views on a certain question. Every editor is familiar with this class of readers. Some proposition, let us say, is being discussed, on which public opinion is divided. The newspaper, of course, in its effort to be fair and impartial, presents both sides of the question and gives everybody opportunity to air his views. Then somebody takes issue with the newspaper because its news columns have contained some statements which did not coincide with his own. This is a natural error because we are all prone to dislike anything which disagrees with our own convictions, but a moment's thought will show the unreasonableness of it. A newspaper is like a court of law—it is in duty-bound to give all the facts pertaining to any question under discussion—to present all the arguments—and nobody should object to that. What newspaper says in its editorial columns is the expression of the personal views of the editor and he alone is responsible for them; but a newspaper's news columns are not intended to contain any comment of any sort—they are simply intended to give the news regardless of the editor's own personal opinion.

Bathing Suit Modes Shown in "Kid Boots"

Clara Bow has worn a one-piece swimming suit on the screen for the first time. So has Billie Dove. This refreshing sight was made possible while filming "Kid Boots," the gay play that kept New York in spasms of laughter for three years and which comes to the Crystal theatre Friday and Saturday, April 8 and 9 in film form. Eddie Cantor, creator of the title role on Broadway, is starred in the picture. In addition to the Misses Bow and Dove, Lawrence Gray is also featured. Cantor wears a bathing outfit and his dive from a high platform into the tank from which water is being drained is one of the Paramount film's gasping laughs. See Snow White Robin. Neligh, Neb., April 6. A snow white robin was seen yesterday morning on the west ward school grounds. It was in a flock of robins of regulation plumage when first sighted by James Blackburn and Walter Moser, students at the school. Aside from its color it did not differ in looks or manners from the other robins in the group.

E. Grace Soderberg Writes From China

Miss Faye Beckenhauer received a letter from Miss E. Grace Soderberg who is doing mission work in Kiangchow, Honan, China. Miss Soderberg's parents live at Wakefield and many here know her. Excerpts from the letter, written February 18, are as follows:

"Thanks for the letter and for the gift you sent. The letter has not arrived and I hardly expect it ever will. None of my U. S. A. parcels have come yet. We try to teach our hearts not to set affections on things of this world and we get plenty of training in waiting for things here.

"We Americans have all been notified to leave places of the interior and go to places of accessibility. This means Hankow, Nanking and Shanghai. As yet we have not gone, hoping each day that the order would be cancelled. Perhaps we'll be leaving soon for Hankow to await further orders. Should real trouble break out some of us, whose furloughs are soon due, will probably be sent home for a time.

Home and faces of loved ones would seem wonderful but I would hate to leave with a picture of China in chaotic condition.

"Our trunks and most valuable things have been sent to Hankow for safety. We lead the simplest sort of lives here and dress mostly in old clothes. We have removed pictures from their frames and have put magazine prints in their places in order that we might have the pictures in Hankow. Our dishes, table linen and curtains we will place in a hole under the house when we leave.

"We had a quiet and nice Christmas this year. Because of fear of anti-Christian demonstrations we had no large demonstrations. About forty young girls living in a dormitory gave several entertainments. They had a large tree much as do the churches at home. They were so happy about the lighted tree. Early Christmas morning the girls and teachers serenaded us with carols. Each carried a candle. It was a beautiful sight and the singing was so sweet.

"The latter part of January Miss Peterson and I left for Kikungshan to attend the executive board meeting of our mission. Since last September train service there has been discontinued. The thirteen miles beyond the train's terminus is made by chair, ricksha, wheelbarrow or foot. We made it by chair. After this part of the journey we went by military train on the rest of the journey. Only about one-third of the engines are being used in the repair shop. Three engines tried to get us to our destination. The engines sound as though they have pneumonia and leakage of the valves. At one point on the trip the train suddenly stopped; passengers were thrown here and there. We found that the boiler of the engine had exploded. One man who was near the boiler was killed.

"Dr. Skinsnes of Sinyang, planned to take us home from the meeting by automobile so we would not need to sit two days in a chair or ricksha. Bridges in China are in one day and out the next. They happened to be out the day we returned home. The doctor tried to drive across the stream. We all got out to make the car as light as possible. Everything went fine until he was in mid-stream. The car refused to move. Four or five men pushing could have put the car on the bank. Before men could be summoned the engine of the car stopped and the machine was stranded. Water was up to the axle. Twenty men tried to lift and push the car but to no avail. The women were fortunate enough to get a ride in a military truck to the city ten miles away. Here we have a mission station. Dr. Skinsnes finally got oxen to pull out the car and then a truck hauled the machine into the city where the engine was overhauled. Traveling in China is interesting if one is in no hurry.

"Since returning we have been busy closing down schools and dismissing teachers, because of a sudden big cut in our mission budget. We have had to close down all of our schoolwork. The girls' school was unusually promising. It is hard to have those happy bright girls idle in their homes.

"The much talked of subject of late is the school opened in the city for teaching the 'Three Doctrines of Sun Yat Sen.' Although there is nothing in this directly anti-Christian or anti-foreign, still it seems that wherever these schools are opened they have become both. These propagandists have tried to get our teachers to aid them. None have united with them. This has exposed us to lots of criticism. Nominally this propaganda is chiefly directed against England, but actually it is against all foreigners. Our church has suffered while the English church has escaped. Our church, front chapel and gates have been pasted with posters. This is due to the fact that our men discussed politics.

"Two days ago was Dragon festival. The school and soldiers put on a big street parade and several plays. The object was to show off sins. The people engaged in several yells. They held long demonstrations in front of the church. During their display we were playing tennis.

"Weather here is still cold and dreary. We are looking forward to the spring sunshine."

Injured by Wagon. Madison, Neb., April 1.—John Harkreiter, 35 years old, may die as the result of a wagon tongue having run into his abdomen. His team lurched forward and Harkreiter's intestines were punctured.

THE WAYNE HERALD

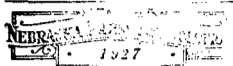

The Oldest Established Paper in Wayne County

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY

Entered at the postoffice at Wayne, Nebraska, as Second Class Mail Matter in 1886 under act of March 3, 1879. Known office of publication, Wayne, Nebraska.

E. W. HUSE, Editor and Prop. Subscription, $2.00 Per Year in Advance.

TELEPHONE 146

This paper is prepared for general circulation by the Nebraska Press Association

We wonder if people who sleep too little or too much are ever wholly awake.

The subject of a sketch in the Hartington Herald is an early settler who is over 80 years old, and who enjoys robust health, vigor of both mind and body.

It is the spirit of contest that excites interest and brings out voters. There were no rival candidates or conflicting issues in the late municipal election in Wayne.

The town of Phillip, S. D., has been suffering from an epidemic of skunks, and for a time it looked as though the little animals would, by employing their offensive and defensive batteries, exterminate the people of the town.

We never knew people to be so uniformly optimistic over crop prospects as this is this spring. In contrast with a year ago when drouth made an early start and kept up, the ground is now said to be soaked to a great depth.

We are grieved to note that F. D. Stone in his Hartington Herald applauds the Kansas legislator who introduced a bill to outlaw and abolish mince pies.

COMPARISON

A great deal is said about farming communities and the farming business. Many are genuinely sympathetic and would like to see a McNary-Haugen bill or some other legislative measure adopted as a sort of restorative.

ent and succeeding generations enjoy the inoffensive luxury that belonged to their fathers.

Teachers are flooding the world with applications for jobs, and every school has a big bunch of them to consider. It is a task to change teaching positions, and it is a risk to hire new teachers.

Business. Sioux City Journal. The two most significant developments of promise in the business situation for the past week may be described as an improvement in the steadiness of general trade and car loadings that again have exceeded the million mark.

However, it is also noted that business generally continues to practice a conservatism in operation, but this is by no means to be taken as indicating anything beyond a new idea in buying that has come as a permanent part of any economic condition.

The weekly car loadings for the period ending March 19 totaled 1,006,851. This was the second consecutive week this year for the figure to go beyond 1,000,000, and it is considered an important indication of what general business is doing.

The coal strike is the most significant thing of an adverse nature seen in business developments for the week. Whether it will make any appreciable change in trade remains to be seen, but it is considered a certainty now, because of the heavy supplies of fuel on hand, the operation of nonunion mines and the approach of warm weather.

Herd Improvement Urged By Experts

Three ways of improving the dairy herd—better feeding, rigid culling, and intelligent breeding—were emphasized by J. C. McDowell, dairy husbandman of the United States Department of Agriculture, in a talk at the recent farmers' week at Orono, Me.

"Better feeding of the cows we now have," he said, "increases average production, increases total production, and usually increases net profits. It also means a mental grasp that one cannot afford to despise."

TEN YEARS AGO.

Ten years ago America entered the World War. The struggle had been in progress three years, and the sacrifice of life and treasure on both sides had been appalling. The giant task of training men for war and transporting armies to Europe was undertaken and pushed forward with all possible haste.

To Exempt Users Of Newspaper Space

Lincoln, Neb., April 4.—By a narrow vote, the house Saturday passed SF-206, relating to political campaign advertising by a vote of 50 to 49.

The measure provides that money spent by candidates for newspaper advertising shall not be considered a part of the sum provided by law for campaign expenditures.

The first vote on the bill was 45 to 46 and the house was placed under call to bring members who had left the chamber in to vote.

The Prince-Osterman bill, SF-198, providing a manner of assessing railroads and prescribing an appeal of the assessment to the state supreme court, was placed by the house, 92 to 0.

The bill has as its purpose the elimination of railroad tax litigation, which has been prevalent several years.

Other bills passed by the house were: SF-159, increasing salary of chief juvenile probation officer in Douglas county from $2,000 to $2,500.

HR-532, fixing minimum length of rural school terms to seven months providing such term can be maintained on an 8 mill levy.

HR-590, regulating revenues of irrigation districts.

HR-532, enabling act looking to an appropriation for employment of necessary clerical help to prepare and present meritorious cases of ex-service men before federal veteran's bureau.

HR-376, providing that department of agriculture may withhold or cancel as well as issue permits for milk and cream testing.

The farm bloc of the house today requested the return from the senate of SF-62 passed this week by the house. It was understood that a meeting of the farm bloc last night sentiment for the measure changed and that certain amendments are desired.

The bill amends the employers' liability law and provides that farmers may elect to pay compensation for injuries by employees.

On The Way Up. Lincoln Journal: A man who engages in bridge with the best women players in almost any city in the nation soon becomes appalled at their mastery of the game.

A short period of bidding and one or two tricks taken, and these gentle ladies know what is in every hand almost as if the cards were transparent. The chap who plays only occasionally for amusement and not for intellectual exercise watches their feats with wonder and amazement.

Their mothers did not play bridge. They spent more of their time in housework, in church activities, in "visiting," in talking over the back fence, in sewing and in spanking and minding the children.

When they had nothing else to do they baked bread and fried doughnuts. Their grandmothers did all of these things and in addition made butter, leached lye for soap, helped cure meats, shingled the children's beds, spent many hours in religious devotion.

And, it is a pleasure to acknowledge, a number of these fine Nebraska newspapers come regularly to the Herald's exchange table. According to the best opinion, and taste, are The Wayne Herald, The Grand Island Herald, The Ord Quiz, The Schuyler Sun, The York Republican, The Burr County Herald, The Hamilton County Register, The Norfolk Press, The Scribner Rustler, The Blair Pilot and The Blair Tribune.

shock her men friends with her uncanny mastery of the game. This will be a glorious world when we finally discover how we may turn this recently freed power to the better service of humanity.

Excellent Nebraska Weeklies. Fremont Herald: For twenty years or thereabout, beginning in 1902, the present editor of the Fremont Herald enjoyed the distinction of being the National Printer-Journalist's critic of newspapers and advertisements.

The National Printer-Journalist was at that time, and is still today, one of the leading printers' trade journals of the world. It was, and perhaps still is, the leading journal in the field of country newspaper making.

By virtue of this long-termed staff position, this present Fremont Herald editor came into personal touch with newspapers from all over the world, and particularly from all over the United States, including Nebraska. He was therefore familiar with a number of Nebraska weeklies long before he himself became the editor of one of them. Therefore, he knows, whereof he speaks when he asserts, here what he started here to assert, namely, that Nebraska has some wonderfully fine weekly newspapers.

And, it is a pleasure to acknowledge, a number of these fine Nebraska newspapers come regularly to the Herald's exchange table. According to the best opinion, and taste, are The Wayne Herald, The Grand Island Herald, The Ord Quiz, The Schuyler Sun, The York Republican, The Burr County Herald, The Hamilton County Register, The Norfolk Press, The Scribner Rustler, The Blair Pilot and The Blair Tribune.

And of this number, doubtless the Wayne Herald, York Republican and Blair Tribune are at the top of the list. The Grand Island Herald, however, is close upon this trio in general excellence, and the Schuyler Sun, barring the front page ads, is nearly as good. Mrs. Weekes' paper, the Norfolk Press, is superlatively interesting, editorially, and the Hamilton County Register and Burr County Herald are also of high quality. The Scribner Rustler is the best paper in Dodge county, outside of Fremont.

Augustana Synod Elects. Wahoo, Neb., April 1.—The Rev. C. O. Gullean, Fremont, was re-elected president of the Augustana annual meeting here. The Rev. D. Vermer Swanson, Lincoln, was elected secretary, and G. M. Gustafson, Wahoo, was elected moderator.

Winnebago, Neb., April 1.—Thurston county pigs, like her citizens, are resourceful. When one little fellow's mother died of cholera, he did not throw up the sponge and quit, as a less plucky swine might have done. Instead, he went to work to find ways and means of living, and one morning soon after the parent hog's demise the owner was astonished to find the pig in the dooryard contentedly making use of the meal ticket rightfully belonging to the single offspring of his favorite bird dog. The mother dog, while apparently not enthused over her involuntary venture in the pork producing business, did not rebel, and the business is progressing nicely and to evident satisfaction of all concerned. Both pig and pup are growing like weeds and the abashed and melancholy expression gradually is disappearing from the "mother's" countenance. The owner of the family is also owner of a herd of prize Durocs, which he advertises widely. He is not ambitious to pose as the Luther Burbank of the animal world nor to give the public the impression that he is producing any other variety of bacon than that which grows on the plain, unadulterated hog, and for that reason he withheld his name.

Rev. Bruce Wylie Writes About State

Rev. J. Bruce Wylie of Cedarville, Calif., writes to the Herald following the annual event of the Wayne county picnic:

"In talking with former Wayne county residents, I find that many are homesick and long to come back to old Wayne, although others are boosters for California. My own sentiments are best expressed by the following bit of verse:

"You may sing of southern zephyrs and Pacific breezes, too,
"But the tang of old Nebraska air is best for me and you."
"You may go to California to settle down and rest,
"But the land where people struggle is the one that gives you zest."
"Men may bid them off to Tampa when the southern breezes blow,
"But give me a bracing winter with wind and ice and snow."
"You may bask beneath the sunshine of the southland's dreamy haze,
"But even it can not surpass our Indian summer days."
"You may talk of Frisco-by-the-bay or Hollywood-by-the-sea,
"But Lincoln-by-the-cornfields is good enough for me."

Modern smokers enjoy the mellow fragrance of Camel

THE smokers of this modern age appreciate the smooth, mellow fragrance of Camels—that taste and goodness that come from the choicest tobaccos grown. Camel's steadily growing popularity with modern smokers has given it the greatest preference any cigarette ever had. In quality and in fame Camel is supreme.

Meet the cigarette that has won the modern world. There is not another like it—regardless of the price. Always mellow, always mild—the smoothest smoke ever made.

Henry Must Pay

Lincoln Journal: Mrs. Henry Ford is quoted in the dispatches as saying that in the future her husband will always be accompanied by a competent chauffeur. This means that his days of freedom are over. He has become so important a man that he will no longer be allowed to slip into a flivver and sneak away to his quiet laboratory or drive over the country roads thinking out his problems undisturbed.

It will be a tremendous nuisance. Mr. Ford suddenly finds that he must pay for making the most glittering success in the history of all industry. Instead of bringing him peace and contentment, his billion dollar fortune provokes envy, malice and all forms of annoying criticism. The owner of a billion dollars worth of property has so much power that his slightest whim can be translated into action and accomplishment. But can it?

He sees an opportunity to help his employees by opening stores to sell necessities at only a shade above cost. He plans to do so and give the public the benefit of his system. Instantly he is attacked and reviled as an enemy to old and well established business systems. He starts a newspaper, without being able to give it the personal attention such an enterprise requires. Now he is defending a million dollar libel suit brought on by an attack against Mr. Sapiro, the expert in co-operation. A billion dollars cannot maneuver without crowding some individuals into the ditch. The owner of such a vast fortune cannot do as he pleases with his wealth or in his personal conduct. He attracts so much attention that he cannot be independent. A simple, unaffected man, from this time forward he must be guarded like a monarch.

As he lies in his bed in his own fine hospital Mr. Ford must be asking himself why he must pay such a price for being the most lucky inventor of the entire human race. While he is doing so, some of the rest of us will read Emerson's essay on "compensation" and go about our humble duties cheered with the thought that we are not important enough to invite the attention of anything more serious than the ordinary mischances of life.

Mumps Cause Woman's Death.

Leigh, Neb., March 31.—Development of "surgical mumps" following an operation for goiter caused the death of Mrs. Joseph Sucha, pioneer resident of Colfax county. Surgical mumps develop in one case in a possible thousand. Poisoning over which physicians have no control causes the glands to enlarge.

Des Moines Economy Self-Feeder

The high-priced feed wasted by trampling under foot, by chickens, birds and rats as well as uneven feeding by ordinary scoop and shovel methods in the average hog lot will pay for three Des Moines Economy Feeders in a single year.

The labor of occasionally filling a Des Moines Economy is not to be compared with the work of shoveling feed twice a day. Another advantage is that a bunch of hogs fed from our feeder make a uniform growth, as no pig can "hog" all the feed. Each one has an equal chance.

The Economy way of feeding is such a great improvement over old methods that this Self-Feeder never fails to pay for itself several times over in the feed saving and increased profits.

Economy Feeder users everywhere testify to the feed saving, labor saving, sanitation and faster growth of hogs fed this better way.

Dempster Windmills

Let Us Show You These Windmills and Their Perfect Working Parts.

ROLLER BEARINGS, SELF-OILING

In making selection of a windmill a person should carefully consider what kind of service and durability he might expect. All old-type mills required one to climb the tower to oil it. Hence, it was usually neglected, resulting in a hard-running, short-lived mill. The Dempster Mill Mfg. Co., in keeping with the age of improvements and inventions, have gone farther than anyone else and are giving you a mill with Timken Roller Bearings, Running in Fluid Oil. And to prevent any possibility of leakage, we use a thick felt washer around the main shaft, and as a still further precaution we have a method of sealing the Timken bearing with hard oil. This in no way detracts from the proper lubrication of the bearing, but acts as a sheath to prevent the loss of the liquid oil. This insures Easy Running and Long Life. Also one that is easily and quickly repaired. In the use of these bearings we were able to make the mill more compact, reducing the weight but with more strength.

Higher Quality at Lower Prices

because of increasing Volume Production!

January, 1925—There was introduced a new Chevrolet which scored a tremendous success. Among its many new features were a new and rugged rear axle, an improved unit power plant, a new single-plate disc-clutch, a much stronger frame, semi-elliptic chrome vanadium steel springs, cow and dash lamps, and new Fisher bodies finished in Duro.

August, 1925—Chevrolet announced a new measure of value based on many new quality features—such as motor-driven Klaxon horns, improved sheet metal construction in the bodies, corrugated steering wheel with walnut finish, new headlamp rim construction and a more convenient gear-shift lever. Yet, despite all the additions the Coach was reduced $695 f.o.b. Flint, Mich.

January, 1926—Another spectacular increase in Chevrolet value—a model offering many mechanical improvements, such as a smoother, quieter motor with three-point suspension, a silent V-belt generator drive, new oil pump, more efficient cooling, an air cleaner, larger brakes, etc. Notwithstanding these improvements... the Coach was reduced to $645 f.o.b. Flint, Mich.

The Most Beautiful Coach In Chevrolet History!

Climaxing all of Chevrolet's previous value triumphs, the Chevrolet Coach of today is acclaimed as the outstanding closed car value of all time. Beautiful new Fisher bodies—paneled and beaded, richly low and finished in new colors of genuine Duco... full-crown, one-piece fenders... bullet-type headlamps... AC oil filter and AC air cleaner... finer performance, greater riding comfort and remarkable steering ease! A car so marvelously beautiful that you must see it to appreciate it—Yet the price has been reduced to $595 f.o.b. Flint, Mich.

Dawes and Norris.

Lincoln Journal: Senator Norris agrees with Vice President Dawes that the filibuster at the close of the sixty-ninth congress was a disgrace to the nation. He does not agree that a remedy for such outrages should be sought in cloture or rules permitting the majority to do business against the wishes of the minority. That course leads to the control of national legislation by powerful combinations. If even a small minority feels that a cause is sacred enough to be worth dying for, Senator Norris holds, a last ditch should be left vacant for these patriots to do their dying in.

As a matter of fact, he adds, a simple change in procedure will make this sort of sacrifice unnecessary. Elect the congress as usual in November. Start the first session of the new congress in two months, on the first of January. Let the senate and house proceed with business until they finish, until they are all talked out. There will be no short session for the men who have been defeated to use in providing cushions to fall on, in case they have no business or profession or capital to give them support. It is the "jame duck session," with its rigidly fixed opportunity for adjournment, that gives Norris a last ditch. Let the long vacation come at the end of the congressional term, not as now between March 4 and December 1. No filibuster could possibly live thru that period of nine months.

The senate has approved this change three times, but the oil-garage-ruled house refuses to concur. Senator Norris repeats his recommendation in a widely distributed argument which is attracting
