Urges Students to Inform Themselves on Possible Vocations and Make Early Choice.

At the annual commencement exercises of the Wayne high school in the Methodist church Friday evening, twenty-eight students were awarded diplomas of graduation amidst the good wishes of a crowded house. At the program, Mrs. Allis N. Pollard, principal, presided.

Following music by the orchestra and prayer by Rev. Fenton C. Jones of the Presbyterian church, C. A. Fulmer, of Lincoln, director of vocational training, was introduced and spoke on choosing a vocation. He said students should become informed on possibilities for employment and early determine what they are best capable of doing. He advised that mental and physical limitations should be taken into account and should influence the selection of vocations.

Members of the graduating class sang appropriate numbers.

Supt. T. S. Hook announced distinguished honors. Bernard Pollard ranked first, Alice Shields second and Helga Nelson third. Mr. Hook congratulated the class and expressed appreciation in behalf of the faculty and school board.

J. H. Kemp, president of the school board, spoke in a commendatory way of the class and awarded diplomas.

Members of the class are: Isabel Adams, Leslie Baltzell, William Benshoof, Ivan Davis, Gerald Dennis, Esther Doring, Hilda Doring, Crystal Dragon, Elmer Erxleben, Natalie Erxleben, Ferris Gifford, Bessie Green, Effie Hansen, Edna Jeffrey, Jane Jeffrey, Siras Jones, Natalie Johnson, Viola Kopp, Amelia Kugler, Margaret McMurphy, Helga Nelson, Lucile Noakes, Bernard Pollard, Walter Reed, Louise Rickabaugh, Alice Shields, Claire Wright and Mildred Wright.

trial increase, we must build," he declared. In two years, the Ohio river, at a cost of $80,000,000, could be opened for industry, and in four years' time the Missouri could be opened to Kansas City," said Mr. Weaver, and adds, "But why stop at Kansas City?"

In closing, Mr. Weaver made the statement that some day land in the middle west would be the highest priced in the world and now is by far the richest in the world.

Hesitating Justice.

Lincoln Journal: "The state of Nebraska, with a population of 1,066,000, required more judges to handle its civil business in 1900 than all of England and Wales, with a population of 32,000,000," according to a bulletin recently issued by the Harvard Law school. The school is not condemning Nebraska, nor urging America to adopt the English method. It merely points out that the present system is inefficient and tardy and should be improved upon.

In proof of this contention, the Harvard school cites a case which consumed six years' time and required three trial court proceedings and five determinations by the supreme court. And all the time the facts were admitted. The issue was whether or not some important legal form had been carefully observed.

An examination of ten volumes of the reported decisions of the circuit court of appeals discloses that 20 percent of the cases involved nothing but the question whether or not the court had any jurisdiction. Seven percent involved nothing but legal forms.

One case is cited in which the decision of an appellate court reversed the decision of a trial court, wherein a man had been convicted, because the indictment charged that the crime had been committed with a Smith & Weston pistol, when, as a matter of fact, it was a Smith & Wesson pistol. The murder had been committed, the jury found the defendant guilty, but the substitution of a "t" and "s" in the original indictment caused a reversal.

Life Unchanging.

York Republican: There is something thrilling in the statement that wheat taken from a tomb in Egypt that was sealed 4000 years ago was recently planted in New South Wales and in due time sprang into life, producing seven eared wheat of a fine quality. There is something about life that is mysterious and awesome. Whether it is in the germ of wheat long buried, or in the rockbound acorn, or flowering into its highest expression in the soul of man, the contemplation of life is magnificently inspiring. Life in its true meaning must be something more than manifestation of a hidden existence. It must be existence itself and when life is finally traced to its infinite source it must be found that Life and God are one and the same. Such existence is not transient or changing. It is eternal and changeless. And on that rock is built the hope of the ages that man's soul, his true life, like the wheat in the tomb of Egypt, has a continuity that cannot be broken by the changes of time and sense of the purty beliefs of mortals. If Life is, it can never change to the past; it must continue eternally to be.

Overcoming Obstacles.

Hartington Herald: Hard things are generally worth what they cost or, in other words, effort is justified by results. One attempts something which one considers worth while and immediately he is beset by difficulties. At times, it appears that he may have attempted the impossible and a fit of discouragement seizes upon him; but he catches a fresh glimpse of his vision and is revived and encouraged. One thing is certain—every desirable goal costs heavily in its attainment and nobody has ever accomplished anything of consequence without encountering and overcoming obstacles.

The only bright spot some people profess to see in the Mississippi situation is that if the cotton land is flooded the cotton market won't be.—El Paso Times.

Falls City Man Talks To School

A. J. Weaver of Falls City Speaks On Improving Missouri River Navigation.

A. J. Weaver of Falls City, president of the last state constitutional convention, addressed the students of the State Teachers College at a special chapel exercise Friday. He spoke on the great possibilities for transportation on the Missouri river.

In opening Mr. Weaver stated that beyond doubt the three great causes of progress in America were Christian relationships, public instruction and transportation. He touched briefly upon the first two named and told of the development of transportation in our country. Mr. Weaver pointed out that nationalism, unity and co-operation were built around transportation systems. "They are all indispensable and all must be protected," he said. He gave statistics to prove that roads, railroads and waterways are constantly being improved and paying for their improvements many times. Mr. Weaver stated that railroad commerce doubles every twelve or fifteen years in spite of the fact that transportation by water costs approximately three times less.

The middle west cannot grow industrially and, commercially speaking, is now at a standstill because of its lack of adequate water transportation, said Mr. Weaver. "How can we build industry if we have not the methods of transportation?" he asks. He stated that the great need is to place industry beside agriculture, and the middle west will become one of the greatest industrial empires in the history of the world. "If we are going to reach our goal we must develop an outlet to the sea," Mr. Weaver declared. He stated that this country is not on a fair basis for the development of industry and that the upper Missouri is an indispensable part of our growth. "We must attack the Mississippi system as one great problem," he said. This portion of America has the longest haul and the highest freight rate of any place in the world, he pointed out.

Mr. Weaver told of a meeting of civil engineers at Kansas City, at which the project was discussed and declared to be feasible. The chief of engineers was quoted by Mr. Weaver as saying that the Missouri is one of the easiest rivers in America to develop.

"We are nine hundred miles from water and our freight rates to Liverpool are consequently eleven cents more per mile than from Argentina to Liverpool," Mr. Weaver stated. "We must control the flood situation." He pointed out that $150,000,000 were saved by going to the head of the Sacramento river when control became necessary.

According to Mr. Weaver, public opinion is largely for improvement in the Missouri river project. He believes that people of the middle west see that whatever is necessary must be done for proper provision for transportation by water. "Public opinion," said Mr. Weaver, "is the greatest factor in America." He stated that where other countries have builded means of transportation by water, nature builded two great systems—the Great Lakes and the Mississippi with its tributaries. Mr. Weaver advocates a direct route to Liverpool from the middle west, by way of the Lakes. "If we are going to become a part of the great indus-

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 1 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, May 26, 1927. Vol. 1

Gene Huse over at the Herald office thinks a y... everybody knows how to run a newspaper, and we're no exception to that rule.

But we can't afford a newspaper of our own. Besides, we're too busy with the lumber business.

So we have arranged for this little corner in the Herald and we're going to devote it to the news of our business.

We may not talk about lumber all the time. Maybe some of you, Wayne folks may get your names into our "news-paper" occasionally.

Also, we may decide to write poetry or high brow editorials.

But we'll at least try to be interesting, and we hope you'll watch for The Knot-Hole each week.

There are lots of things around our place of business that we'd like to tell you about from time to time. New merchandise arriving. New ideas. Comments from customers. Things that we believe would interest you a lot more than if we tried to tell you.

all the time about what a wonderful establishment we have here.

In other words, we want to make this space of some service to you, and we wish you'd advise us from week to week - criticize or commend, as you think we deserve. We'll need your help and "moral support."

And while we're getting The Knot-Hole ready each week, just remember that we're also going to give you the best lumber service we know how to deliver.

That's the big aim of this institution, always.

Picnic and Farewell Programs Feature the Closing Days of the Term This Week.

Children in Dance

Following Brief Vacation, Training School Resumes June 6 for Six Weeks' Session.

The tenth grade sponsored a junior high school picnic Friday. Owing to weather conditions the picnic was held in the training school gymnasium.

The tenth grade gave a farewell program Friday in the junior high school assembly room. The class will, prophesy and history were read, and sponsor, Prof. A. F. Gulliver, was presented with a gift, in recognition of his help. The assembly room was prettily decorated with blue and gray, the tenth grade colors.

Kindergarten.

The kindergarten practiced last week on the dance for the May festival. The dance is of Swedish origin but was given in American costume.

The children enjoyed an exhibit of the papers made by the manual activities class Friday. There were one hundred posters which had to be exhibited so rapidly that the children conceived the idea of pretending to be at a moving picture show.

The work has been devoted largely to completing unfinished work, preparatory to taking it home.

The kindergarten will have a one-month session of summer school during which the older children will begin reading. Quite a large number are ready to begin this work.

First Grade.

The first grade gave the Swedish dance, "Jolly Girls and Boys," at the May festival.

Last week the pupils wrote invitations to fathers, mothers and grandmothers for the May festival.

Jean Mies had a birthday surprise for her schoolmates Friday. She served individual cakes and cream. Jean was 6 years old.

The children are looking forward to a few days' vacation before the summer term which begins June 6.

Costumes were made last week for the May festival dance, and the children were busy practicing.

Third Grade.

Letters were written last week to Audrey Fox, who recently moved to Randolph.

Pictures of the children in festival costume were taken Thursday.

"Come, Let Us Be Joyful," is the dance of the third grade prepared for the May festival. It is of German origin and was given in the costume of the country.

The children have been interested ed in observing the growth of pollywogs.

Seeds were sprouted last week and the children observed the formations of root and leaf sprouts.

Shelter charts showing the homes of people of other lands were completed last week.

Children of this grade made old-fashioned wick candles Monday. The process was studied and worked out previous to the actual work.

Fourth Grade.

Mrs. Edith Beaumont's little grandchildren visited in the room Thursday and Friday.

Cover designs were worked out for the book, "Adventures of the Rabbits," last week. The books were bound by the practice teachers.

Tests were given last week.

The geography and history book-keeping was completed and displayed the latter part of the week.

Very attractive costumes were made for the May festival dance. The dance is of Hungarian origin.

Fifth Grade.

Examinations were given Thursday and Friday.

The room was divided into east and west sides for the courtesy work contest. The west side won. Theodore Dawson was the first in the fifth grade to finish all of the Studebaker tests.

The fifth grade has been studying Africa. Projector slides were shown on Egypt Friday. An explanation of each picture was given as the slides were shown.

Sixth Grade.

One section of this grade has almost finished the Studebaker tests.

Tests were given Thursday and Friday.

Booklets made in connection with the work on Mexico were completed this week.

The book, "Kak," a story of an Arctic explorer, Stoffanson, which has been read as opening exercises, was finished Friday.

The picture, "Old Ironsides," was added to the room recently.

A sand table May pole was made by pupils last week.

Mary Ellen Gulliver is the only pupil in the fifth grade who has not been absent this year. Jessie Hanson has not been absent since entering the grade later in the year. Robert Kingston has not been absent since entering the grade at the beginning of the second semester.

Leonard and WBHo Denkingord tied for first place in the track meet for fifth and sixth grade boys, conducted recently by Coach Fred Dale. The boys were awarded sterling silver medals.

The fifth and sixth grade bought a new base ball and are playing nine innings to determine the best players. At the end of the sixth inning the sixth grade was one point ahead.

Fred Cross has not missed a word in the Friday review tests of forty words, for four months. Jessie Hanson has not missed a word for six months.

Tells College Early History

J. J. Gildersleeve Describes Beginnings of Nebraska Normal School in Wayne.

J. J. Gildersleeve, pioneer of Wayne who was county superintendent in the early days, writes the following history of the development of the college here:

"Prof. James Pile of Fremont, first came to Wayne to assist County Superintendent W. E. Howard in institute work in about 1889. He was so well liked by the teachers of the county and the people of Wayne that when County Superintendent J. J. Gildersleeve and Supt. W. B. Ashley of the Wayne school, decided to hold a ten-week school in 1890 they secured the services of Mr. Pile as instructor. The results of the summer's work showed that their judgment was wise for about seventy-five attended the sessions and there were only sixty-five districts in the county.

"At this time what hardly seems possible was the fact that only two teachers held first grade certificates, Mr. Gildersleeve and Miss Charlotte White.

"The present high standard of the schools of the county and the Teachers College can trace direct growth from this 1890 summer session. Prof. Pile taught geometry, algebra, book-keeping and mental arithmetic. Prof. Ashley was the other instructor and he taught the other subjects required for first grade certificates. Teachers and parents of the vicinity were interested in the work.

"In 1890 teachers received from $25 to $35 per month. Board and room could be secured for $10 per month. The terms of school were short, usually from four to eight months. A school often had from two to three teachers during the school year. Compared with the past we can justly say that Wayne county has kept pace with the other counties in the state, and perhaps has surpassed many.

"The 1890 term was so successful and the interest in education so general that during the summer the business men of Wayne formed a plan to establish a teachers' college in Wayne. A tract of nearly fifty acres, the site of the present college, was purchased from Marcellus Dearborn and others for $2,746.15 and was deeded to the Nebraska Normal College association. This land was divided into lots 25x140 feet and sold for $45 each. After the lots were sold the ownership of each was determined.

"The association made a contract with Prof. Pile, the former agreeing to furnish a building at a cost of not less than $10,000. This did not include furniture and equipment which the association also provided. Prof. Pile agreed to conduct the school for a period of five years, he to bear all expenses. If, at the expiration of the contract, the school had had during the last year an average daily attendance of 200, the association was to convey to Prof. Pile by warranty deed, free of cost to him, absolute title to all the property. This was done Sept. 20, 1891. The deed to the state of Nebraska is dated Dec. 13, 1909.

"While the building for the Nebraska Normal College was under construction, school was held in the building on the east side of north Main street now occupied by the Dew Drop Inn and Electric Shoe Shop. At first there were but three teachers, Prof. Pile, Mr. Hawkins and Miss Byrne. After moving to the new building, in the fall of 1892, the corps of teachers consisted of five."

unanimous in their final conclusions." The essays were submitted by Mr. Berry to the judges by numbers only and the judges had no knowledge of the name of the writer of any essay or the school which the essay represented.

Lon Chaney Wins With Marine Corps

If there is any particular film idol of the Marine Corps, that man is now Lon Chaney.

During his stay on battleships and the Marine base, he was principal entertainer at night, reviving his old comic opera songs and dances, relics of his bygone stage career, and made hundreds of friends.

This occurred during the filming of the battleship and barracks scenes in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production "Tell It To The Marines," coming to the Crystal theatre tonight. George Hill directed the film.

Wayne County Men Fight Bond Case

Lincoln, Neb., May 19.—D. R. Thomas, John Davis, Alfred Thomas and T. J. Thomas, four Wayne county men, were in supreme court defending the judgment of Judge Chase of the district court of that county, that they were not liable to the state of Nebraska on a bond given by them to secure state deposits in the First National bank of Carroll, now in a receiver's hands.

The amount in controversy is $4,000, and their defense is that the bond they gave does not cover this deposit. The bank, when D. B. Cropsy was state treasurer, had $12,000 on deposit of state money, and had a bond signed by the Lion Bonding company. When the latter failed Mr. Cropsy demanded his money, and as the bank could not pay at that time he demanded a personal bond. Afterwards the bank paid the money. Still later Cropsy deposited $4,000 and took a bond payable to himself.

When Cropsy settled with his successor he did not require him to take this deposit, but settled with his own personal check. Eleven days later he went to Carroll, had the bank issue $4,000 of new certificates to take up the ones he held, and had the defendants sign a bond. With this bond and these certificates he returned to Lincoln, turned them over to his successor and got his $4,000 back.

It was not an easy matter in all cases to pick the winners, but the judges were

Honor Our Dead Memorial Day

War's sorrowful memories grow dimmer as the battles which bred them fade farther into the past.

But always on May 30th of each year we remember again with quickened pulse "the boys" who donned their country's uniform and marched away with Grant and Lee, Miles and Pershing.

On this day the soldiers of three generations parade in memory of their buddies who never returned home. Cheer the veterans. Honor their flag. Remember their comrades.

We regret to learn that F. D. Stone of the Hartington Herald suffered the loss of his residence by fire last week. This is the third time he has met such a loss, and we earnestly trust it will be the last time.

A. J. Weaver, here last week to speak, told us his life before we got around to ask him. We are curious about people's ages, and we find out if we can do so without great violence to discretion and regularity.

We believe we note some improvement in the world. There seems to be less effort put forth to get something for nothing or receive much pay for little work. There also seem to be fewer flappers and fower chicks.

The Omaha Bee suggests that Wayne call its crying head needs to the attention of 'Gene Evilly. 'Gene may consider himself invited and implored to come here and bestow one of the greatest needs ever felt by any community. He would also find this a rich field for a hotel investment.

A. J. Weaver of Falls City, who spoke in Wayne last Friday, is reported to be a likely candidate for governor next year. He belongs to a pioneer family of south-eastern Nebraska, and has been prominent and influential in public affairs. Of late he has interested himself actively in behalf of making the Missouri river navigable.

Last fall's warning of the Oil Conservation board that known oil fields in the United States would supply our needs only six years is now feared, has changed back to overproduction, and efforts are now being made to curtail output and conserve petroleum resources. The plan is to avoid taking oil out of the ground faster than it is needed and thus avoid waste. If waste continues and supplies are depleted, we may later pay dearly for present low prices for oil products.

The Madison Mail which has been running as a semi-weekly for a few months, has changed back to a weekly. A weekly suffers when it is divided into two issues per week, and thus its strength is weakened. Advertisers seldom favor space more than once per week, and as a consequence one of the two issues of the week is reasonably certain to look like the last rose of summer. Advertisers figure that if they appear once a week, they are fulfilling all the publicity requirements of their business. Thus, no publisher should ever think seriously enough of a semi-weekly to start one.

Many fathers and mothers came to see their children graduated from the State Teachers college this week, and we hope they received a favorable impression of the school and town. We hope their boys and girls have given them good reason for pride in their school achievements, and that as usual, the no. number of society, each student will fully justify parental expectations. The college affords means for the development of a semi-weekly to start one.

EDITOR'S WIFE.
It was generous of Dr. A. L. Bixby of the Lincoln Journal's editorial staff, to think of the Herald editor's wife in connection with a seat in congress, although he has undoubtedly allowed friendship to influence his choice. It seems a strange anomaly that one who has never indicated an ambition to hold office or get into the spotlight, should be discerning the duties of several offices simultaneously, with now a suggestion that she be entrusted with a seat in the national house of representatives. It is odd that one who, before woman's suffrage, was not ambitious even to vote, has since accepted the ballot with full sense of the obligation imposed, and has interested herself in wholesome public policies without thought of personal preferment. Suggestion that she be named for congress is appreciated as a kindly hyperbole, but it does not appeal to her inclination. Whether in case of a popular demand which is unlikely, for her to serve outside of accustomed community activities, she would have the courage to accept in the face of temptation to retreat, we have our grave doubts.

ment of any ambitious boy or girl, but how much it is turned to advantage, depends entirely on the resourcefulness and determination of the individual.

H. D. Leggett, publisher of the Ord Quiz, one of the outstanding weekly newspapers of the state, is moving into a new building, and if he is having the usual experience involved in moving a printing plant, he is finding that it is no holiday vacation or festival occasion that he would ever wish to have repeated. But in new quarters, with improved equipment, Mr. Leggett will more easily work out his idea of a big, progressive Nebraska weekly.

The business district is considered legitimate prey for any scheme which one may have thought out as a source of profit. An individual who wants to promote something of doubtful value for selfish gain or a group that wants to buy beads for the Indians, or subornets for the Bakimos, descends on the business district and proceeds to harvest the denizens thereof. Some schemes are worthy of support, while others are undeserving and valueless. It would be well if business men would get together and select a committee to investigate proposed schemes and pass on their merits, giving approval if they are deserving and withholding endorsement if they are worthless or undeserving. This method would give support where it is deserved and save time devoted to consideration which is necessarily hasty and often faulty. Thus, when any one has a scheme with which he hopes to enrich himself or endow a great cause, he could present his reasoning to a committee with the time and courage to listen and analyze, and then results could be passed on to the individuals in the business group.

EXTRA EFFORT.

We have just read an article on "going the second mile" going farther in service than one is expected to go, doing more than one is required by agreement to do. The one who limits himself exactly to what he is paid for doing, coldly measuring effort by monetary reward, loses many of the joys of life. The one who watches the clock, throws down his tools on sound of the whistle, follows the letter of a contract, restricts endeavor to prescribed rules or is careful never to exceed a stipulated measure is the loser in soul development and satisfaction of mind. The "second mile" which is unexpected, is the one that thrills and buoy. It is the extra toil which does not exact a consideration, that puts one at peace with himself and the world.

Mr. and Mrs. Collier Boyce and son, Donald Junior, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Haas were Sunday guests at the C. J. Johnson home.

Lavina Bennett and Bertha and Mabel Lang spent Tuesday in the Carl Nelson, Monte Bomar and Ray Perdue homes.

This age of high standards welcomes the Camel quality

MODERN smokers are the most exacting ever known, and they place Camel first among cigarettes. For Camel was created to succeed in the hardest-to-please age ever known. It was made to satisfy those who demand the utmost, and modern smokers have given it such popularity as no other cigarette ever had. If you're downright hard to please, just try Camels. Tobacco taste and fragrance will be revealed as never before, for Camels are rolled of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos, supremely blended. This modern cigarette exceeds all other standards but its own. To light one is to find taste fulfillment. "Have a Camel!"

You've heard whispers here are the FACTS

RED CROWN Ethyl Gasoline will NOT burn or warp properly set valves or cause scored cylinders in any make or type of motor to any greater extent than ordinary gasoline. It will NOT harm a motor in any part or in any way.

It is simply quick-firing, clean-burning, Red Crown Gasoline with Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound added.

The Ethyl simply regulates the combustion of Red Crown Gasoline so that the expanded gases maintain a steady, powerful push on the piston the full length of the power stroke.

This eliminates the "knock" sometimes caused by the detonation and uneven burning of ordinary gasoline when there is carbon in the cylinders or when a sudden heavy load is thrown on the motor—in climbing hills or pulling through "heavy going" or picking up speed in slow traffic.

Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline was developed and is endorsed by General Motors Research Laboratories. It stands to reason they would not recommend a fuel that could injure any car they manufacture.

We recommend Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline because it gives better performance under all operating conditions. Be sure you get the genuine—sold only where you see the RED CROWN Ethyl Gasoline sign on the silver pump.

For "knockless" operation avoid dilution. Wait until your gasoline supply is low before filling with Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline—then use Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline exclusively.

RED CROWN ETHYL GASOLINE

This sign identifies the genuine. "Knocks out the Knocks—turns carbon into power!"

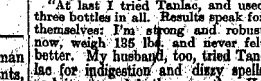

Railroad Man's Wife Gains 33 lbs.

Mrs. Della Delaware, wife of "St. Paul" employee, tells of year's illness. "Wanted away to 102 lbs. and nearly exhausted, she tried Tanlac. Now strong and hearty, weighs 135 lbs. and thanks Tanlac for robust health."

Mrs. Delaware's home is at 204 N. Lloyd Street, Aberdeen, So. Dakota. "For a while my husband and I ate said, 'I endured the agonies of heartburn and indigestion. Everything I ate, no matter how light or how little, brought on those gas and heartburn pains. My stomach was certainly in a bad way, and I grew weaker every day. My weight went down to 102 lbs., and so weak I could hardly stand up. Nothing I tried gave me any real help."

But when I bought and used three bottles in all, Results speak for themselves; I'm strong and robust now, weigh 135 lbs. and never feel better. My husband, too, tried Tanlac for indigestion and kidney ailments and it stopped both promptly. He joins me in recommending Tanlac to all our friends."

Tanlac is nature's own remedy, made from herbs, roots and barks. It's the "Tanlac" that your doctor has it. 52 million bottles sold.

There Can Be No Substitute for Health

This idea cannot be repeated too many times. As the slogan might put it; Ask the Man Who Enjoys Health.

Health is possible. If you are discouraged; if you have tried other methods; if you have a feeling that you cannot get well - give Chiropractic a FAIR chance. You need not give up hope. Chiropractic has brought people to health when all other methods failed. Now, with the Neurocalometer to aid us in finding the exact spot where pressures exist in your spine, the time is shortened in nearly every case - you really can get well quick. Of course old stubborn cases require many adjustments but always - HEALTH is the promise of Chiropractic.
