Many In Wayne For Celebration

Large Crowds Come to Kay Amusement Park for Entertainment on Fourth.

Band In Concerts

Hollywood Dancers and Musicians Present Free Acts—Wayne Wins in Baseball.

The Fourth of July celebration at the Kay amusement park south of Wayne was attended by a crowd estimated at 5,000 in the afternoon and 7,000 in the evening. The cars packed on the grounds during the afternoon numbered about 1,000 and those in the evening numbered about 1,500.

It Kay and sons, assisted by liberal donations from local business men, provided free entertainment. The Wayne Legion and high school combined bands, including about fifty players under the direction of Prof. F. J. Reed, furnished music throughout the afternoon and evening. Blaine and Dorothy Wahl, Hollywood entertainers, gave three free performances and did exhibition stunts during the evening at the pavilion. These young folks are called "king and queen" of the Charleston and have appeared many times in Hollywood, Calif. They danced and played instruments.

The new swimming pool was the scene of much activity throughout the day and there were 625 in the water at various times. Prizes were given for races in the pool. Charles Sinter received first in the barrel race and also first in the men's 100-yard race. Henry Reynolds took first in the boys' 50-yard race. Wilbur Porterfield was first in the diving contest. D. S. Wrightman directed these activities.

WEATHER STILL SPURRING CROPS TO BIG GROWTH

THE weather is still contradicting Herbert Jayhvir Brown, gloom prophet, who predicted late and early frosts and a generally diabolical conspiracy of the elements against this year's harvest. Rarely is weather more favorable for growing crops than it has been during the past week. A few light showers have fallen during the week, and so far the ground is not suffering from lack of moisture. The heat is making the corn grow, and in many fields the stalks have reached the height usual at this season. No hail or wind has caused damage, and unless some unexpected calamity comes along, we can see no way to prevent a corn yield above the average. Small grain is uniformly good, and it is about ready for the binder.

Early Resident Of Carroll Dies

Funeral Service Is Held Tuesday for Mrs. Evan Jenkins Who Passed Away Sunday.

Funeral service was held at the Methodist church in Carroll Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock for Mrs. Evan Jenkins, resident of Carroll for thirty-five years, who passed away Sunday morning at the age of 69 years, 6 months and 10 days. Rev. G. H. Johnson, the pastor, was assisted by Rev. W. O. Jones and Rev. M. G. Jones. Interment was made in the Carroll cemetery.

Mrs. Jenkins was taken ill Saturday evening and passed away twelve hours later.

Mrs. Jenkins' maiden name was Miss Jane Jones. She was born Jan. 12, 1859, at Bethesda, Maryland. At the age of 6 years she came to this country with her parents. Her father was a Congregational minister, and after staying in New York for a time, the family moved to Red Oak, Iowa. Mrs. Jones was married Jan. 30, 1878, to Evan Jenkins, and they were planning to celebrate their golden anniversary the coming January. The Jenkins family came from Red Oak to a farm west of Carroll in February, 1892, and lived there until 1915, when they moved into Carroll.

Deceased was a devout Christian. She was married and united with the church when 12 years of age. She transferred her membership to the Carroll Methodist church on Feb. 18, 1917. Mrs. Jenkins led a life of complete devotion to the higher things. She was always thoughtful of Mr. Jenkins and of the members of her family. She was especially active in the Ladies' Aid, Missionary society and the W. C. T. U. Her unassuming life of service left the impress of her character on all who knew her.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Jenkins leaves one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, and five sons, David, Samuel, Herbert and Lawrence, all of Carroll, and William Jenkins of Wayne. One sister, Mrs. W. C. Hughes, and one brother, S. D. Jones, also survive and they live in Omaha. There are nineteen grandchildren.

Currency Taken In Garage Sale

Sum of $65 Is Missing from W. C. Corryell Office in Wayne Sunday Morning.

Doors Pried Open

Intruders Gain Entrance Through Window and Break Office and Safe Doors.

The W. C. Corryell garage in Wayne was entered Saturday night and $65 in currency was taken from the safe. Checks and other articles in the safe were not touched. No tools or other property about the garage were disturbed. Mr. Corryell left the garage at midnight and he discovered the loss early Sunday morning when he opened the place, so the intruders entered in the intervening period.

A window in the west side of the garage was broken. The door to the office in the building was locked, and this was pried open. The day lock was on the safe. Intruders worked this open. Tools in the garage were used to break the small locked box inside of the safe, this being pried and bent until the lock broke.

No clue to identify of the intruders has yet been found.

The afternoon was spent in games and visiting, and dancing was enjoyed in the evening.

WESTERN TOWN'S APPEARANCE IS NEAT AND CLEAN

A TRAVELER from Wayne stopped at Scottsbluff recently and was impressed by the cleanliness of the streets. He chanced to drop a gum wrapper and a boy standing near picked it up and handed it back to him. He gave the boy a dime for reminding him that unsightly scraps should be kept off the streets. It seems ample containers are located along the streets and people are taught to use them. Everybody makes it his business to gather up old papers and other refuse and see that they are deposited in the public receptacles. As a consequence the town is neatly kept, and the improved appearance fully justifies the effort.

Passes Away At E. J. Davis Home

Mrs. Mary J. Williams Dies on Sunday Evening near Carroll at Advanced Age.

Mrs. Mary J. Williams, who had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Davis of near Carroll, for the past eight years, died Sunday evening, aged 82 years, 3 months and 21 days. Service was conducted at the Davis home Tuesday afternoon with Rev. W. O. Jones and Rev. M. G. Jones of Carroll officiating. The body was taken to Wales, Iowa, where a funeral service was conducted Wednesday in the Presbyterian church, followed by burial in the Wales cemetery.

The maiden name of deceased was Miss Mary J. Thomas. She was a daughter of Richard and Mary Thomas and was born in Crompston, Cardigan shire, South Wales, on March 12, 1845. In her childhood she was surrounded by Christian influences and early she became a church member. She left Wales in 1862, at the age of 17 years, and came to the home of a brother in Oskosh, Wis. There she lived eight years. While in Oskosh she was married in 1868 to John J. Williams. Two sons and two daughters were born to this union, one daughter, Lydia Ann having died at the age of 2 years.

In 1870 the family moved to Brookfield, Mo., and ten years later, in 1880, went to Wales, Iowa. Deceased lived in Wales thirty-nine years, and her husband died there. Eight years ago Mrs. Williams came to live with her daughter, Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Williams leaves one daughter, Mrs. E. J. Davis of Carroll, and two sons, Samuel R. Williams of Kansas City, and Jay Garfield Williams of Rothwell, Mo. She is also survived by seven grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Deceased will be missed in the home and in the church. She was a Christian woman whose influence for good will long be remembered in her children.

Chief Operator Here Ten Years

Miss Nellie Fox Completes Period of Service at Telephone Office in Wayne.

Wayne's telephone chief operator, Miss Nellie Fox, the person primarily responsible for the efficiency of the service given by Wayne telephone operators, completed ten years of public service as operator and chief operator, July 2. Starting at Wayne as operator in 1917, she was promoted to night chief operator in 1920 and to chief operator in 1921.

Miss Fox's responsibility for service given by operators is clearly evident. It is she who hires the operators and teaches them to give "service with a smile."

Her first duty is to choose the right type of girls for operators, girls who will learn quickly and who are of the disposition to give the best service. This type of girl naturally attracts others of the same type and keeps the standard high at all times.

After choosing the right type of girls, Miss Fox must train them for their work, teaching not only the mechanical part but also including them with the "spirit of service." They must learn that service to the subscriber is paramount and must always be courteous and accurate. Operators are trained to watch their equipment and report any defects so that it may be remedied at once.

Miss Fox personally supervises long distance calls to see that they are handled with speed and accuracy and with satisfaction to the subscriber. Once a month she conducts a "peg count" when all calls coming into the office in one day are recorded and tabulated by hours. By means of these records, she is able to distribute her working force throughout the day and always have sufficient operators on hand. The count also enables her to distribute the work evenly and have each operator handling her share of calls.

Noisy Crackers Not So Many On Big Natal Day

Fewer crackers were shot off on and about Fourth in this neighborhood than formerly, and we would say that such diminishing exhibition of noise and smoke show no decreased regard for the day. A hundred years ago, probably it was necessary to rend the air with gunpowder in order to break the solitude and arouse excitement to the proper pitch. Now we have plenty of noises, such as automobiles, and we don't need to have our patriotism whipped up with bursting crackers and bonors. We are glad the fun of endangering people's lives with explosions under their feet or over their heads is going out of style.

Will Visit In East At Close Of School

Prof. R. D. Nelson and son, Robert, plan to visit Mrs. Nelson and William in Maryland at the close of the summer session at the Wayne State Teachers College. Mrs. Nelson and son drove east last spring and after visiting in Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey they secured property interests in northeast Maryland. They have dairy and agricultural projects in mind which they are working out. The Nelsons are located within convenient distance from Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore, New York and Washington, D. C., so the market for their products is large. Mrs. Nelson had planned to return to Wayne this fall, but she will probably remain there longer to take care of the property. Prof. Nelson and Robert will return for the opening of school in September.

Training School Closes Term Here

The training school at the Wayne State Teachers College, which was in session four weeks during this summer, closed the term Friday and some instructors have left for their homes. Mrs. Clara Hoyman is spending the vacation at her home here. Miss Alwine Luers will teach two additional weeks in hand-work classes and will then visit in Columbus. Miss Mamie McCorkindale has two weeks more work in the rural training school and she will then visit in Wakefield. Miss Enid Conklyn has taken Miss Ruth Pearson's place in the Latin department for the summer. Prof. A. F. Gilfliver is teaching in the college department and will instruct in mathematics the second summer term in place of Miss Jessie Boyce.

Famed Artist Is On Concert Tour

Alberto Salvi, acclaimed the world's greatest harpist, appeared at the Wayne State Teachers College last Thursday evening. Mr. Salvi was born 30 years ago in Venice. His father was a celebrated Italian harp maker. While other boys were out playing, Alberto played on the harps in his father's shop. The father built Alberto a miniature harp in order that the lad could manage it and learn the art of playing the instrument. At 13 Alberto received the Royal Scholarship of the Naples Royal conservatory and he studied there eight years. In the fifth year he was dismissed when the instructors stated that he had learned all that could be taught in mastery of the instrument. He played in a Chicago orchestra for a time and is now traveling with a concert tour.

Plan of Coal Lincoln Journal: The country has stores of coal enough to last for hundreds of years. The beds have been surveyed and it is known that for all practical purposes they are inexhaustible. Yet the inventors have been perfecting oil burning devices until the ambition of the average householder is to heat his home with petroleum. The whole country seems to be turning away from a fuel which has in abundance to take up with oil, which is so fickle in its supply that nobody knows what we will have in another generation. It is time for the inventors to give their attention to improved methods of using coal in producing heat for domestic purposes. If nothing better offers, why not use it in making gas and adapting furnaces to that cleanly and convenient fuel? Electricity is at present too expensive for heating houses but that does not mean it must be barred out from consideration permanently. It is jobs of this kind that test the inventor's ingenuity. Then powdered coal has fascinating possibilities, especially for use under steam boilers. What we are driving at is that we may need to save petroleum for our automobiles but coal is so inexhaustible that we ought to make special efforts to increase its consumption.

Causes of Failure.

York Republican: Bradstreet's a concern dealing in commercial statistics, has studied the causes of business failures and produced some very striking facts.

It has been generally believed that speculation ruins many a man but the figure shows only 4 per cent are ruined that way. Extravagance, we are told, is a common fault, but only 1.3 per cent of those who failed were extravagant. Competition ruined only 2.6 per cent and allowing too great credit only bankrupted 1.7 per cent. Inexperience, supposed to be the nemesis of many a well-meaning man, registered a toll of only 5.1 per cent.

Two great causes of failure were found—incompetence and lack of capital—and they were close runners in the business of ruining men of business.

One cannot always have all the capital he needs at his command and so he has imperfect control over one of the causes of failure. But he can circumvent incompetence and he can refrain from entering a business for which he has not prepared himself.

The figures produced emphasize strongly the truth that success in any line of work is attained by being prepared—and then putting all one's talents and energies to work to bring about a deserved success.

Interesting Bits of Wayne County History

One of the outstanding community festivities at LaPorte in the early days was the first Christmas celebration. As no fir trees were available a boxelder was used, its branches being wrapped in white cloth. Everyone received gifts from the tree.

MEMORIES Memories—how powerful they are! How much they contribute to the joys and sorrows of life! We always try to make the last rites for those who have passed on as beautiful and impressive as possible. In this way the minds of relatives and friends are given appropriate impressions, and impressions are the material of which memories are made. That is the idea back of our artistically decorated chapel. Its workings may also be seen in every little detail of our service.

Early Resident Tells of Changes

Frank Tracy Who Came to County in 1881, Describes County and Experiences.

Many changes in Wayne and the surrounding country have taken place the past twenty years, observes Frank Tracy of Omaha, Wyo., who left Tuesday after visiting a few days in the home of his sister, Mrs. P. H. Kohl. The business and residence districts have built up wonderfully. The improvements in streets, trees and laws are also noticeable.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Tracy and three children, Frank, Raymond and Anna, came from Jackson, Neb., to a farm which Mr. Tracy Wayne three and one-half miles of the present site of Wayne in 1881. Gus and Minnie Tracy came the following year. The family lived in a tent on the land during the summer, while Butler brothers were erecting the residence and barns on their place.

Land in 1881 was worth $250 an acre in this vicinity. The country was a rolling prairie covered heavily with grass, called Blue Stem, at the time. No buildings were on the site of Wayne. At this time the railroad planned to locate Wayne three and one-half miles west of the present site, this plan being worked out to make the towns between Emerson and Norfolk eight miles apart. Title to the land wanted could not be secured immediately so the railroad company was persuaded to locate Wayne on the present site, the company being given every other lot in the forty-acre tract for all along the concession. The railroad from Emerson to Norfolk reached Wayne in November, 1881, and was finished to Norfolk the following January. Accommodation trains were operated the winter of 1881 and 1882. A regular schedule of train service was established in the spring.

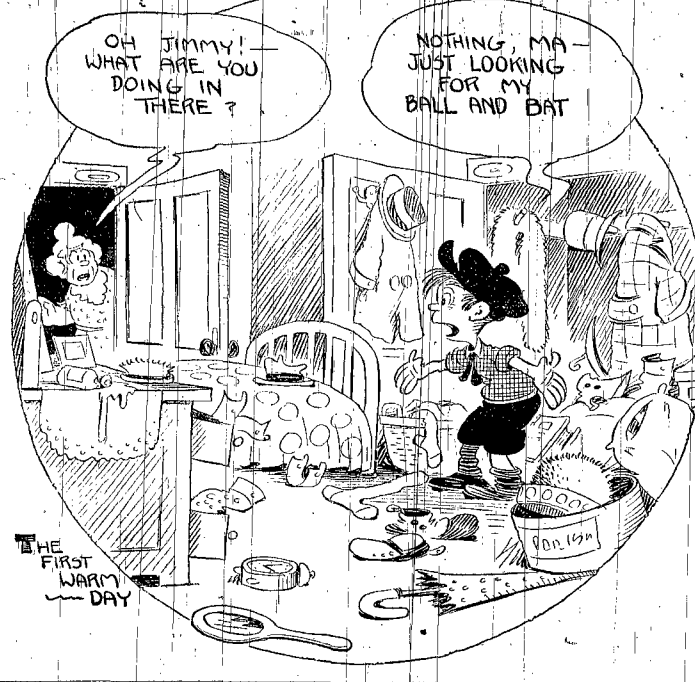

Only two houses were in sight of the Tracy home when the family came to this county. The Peter M-hers family lived about one and one-half miles away and these were the nearest neighbors. M. M. Conover lived east of the present site of Wayne.

Lumber for buildings on the Tracy place was brought from Emerson, that being the end of the railroad line at the time. In the fall of 1881, Mr. Tracy went to Emerson by wagon one day and returned the next with material. The trip followed a prairie road, which was a wagon track through the grass. Most of the trail wound through the valley in about the same direction as the railroad now runs. Section lines were being established near Wak-fish and here some of the roads followed these lines. One of the dreaded parts of the trip to Emerson was the sand slough which was about six miles west of Emerson, south of the present highway and in the valley. Each spring this sand was full of water and heavy grass. Traveling over the bog with a wagon usually broke the bottom of the slough. Cows had to be taken not to follow tracks which had been made before because wagons and horses would sink deep into the sand if the bottom had been broken. The only other difficult point was the crossing of the Logan. This was made quite easy by the building of a low bridge over the water. The spar of wood was set just at the top of the surface of the stream.

None of the land in the Tracy farm was broken when the family came here. In the summer of 1881 sod was turned and "drop corn" was planted. After the ground had been plowed the corn was dropped under this. The yield was about sixteen bushels to the acre that year on the Tracy place. The family also planted garden stuffs on a plot of broken ground near the present site of the State Normal.

In the summer of 1881 the forty-acre tract of land was laid out into lots for the town of Wayne. The railroad had missed LaPorte, then the county seat. Mr. Maxwell built the first house. This was started in July of that year and was located on the lot which is now the southeast corner of the city school block. The Brittain, Johnson and Hansenberg general store was moved from LaPorte in the fall in 1881 and was put on the lot now occupied by the State Bank of Wayne. Other stores and a number of houses were brought place in 1892. Frank Tracy moved to Winside in 1894 and engaged in the hardware business with William Dixon. The latter died a year later and Mr. Tracy bought his interest. Mr. Tracy sold his stock to Brune brothers about seventeen years ago. J. J. Tracy died in Winside in about 1909. After Frank Tracy had operated the Winside postoffice for about three years, he went to Hay Springs, Neb., and then to Orpha, Wyo., where his flowers are placed about the grounds.

Beautiful Clothes In Bow-Ralston Film

A picture showing what the woman of fashion will wear during the coming season of social gaiety opens tonight at the Crystal theatre and runs three days. It is "Children of Divorce," Frank Lloyd's newest directorial success for Paramount, a screen adaptation of Owen Johnson's recent novel of the same name.

The fashion note is exploited by Clara Bow, Esther Ralston, Hedda Hopper, Julia Swayne Gordon and a score of beautiful extra girls who appear in a series of afternoon and evening affairs typical of the formal entertainment to be found in the younger ranks of our upper social set. "Children of Divorce," co-stars Miss Bow and Miss Ralston, Gary Cooper, Einar Hanson and Norman Trevor are featured.

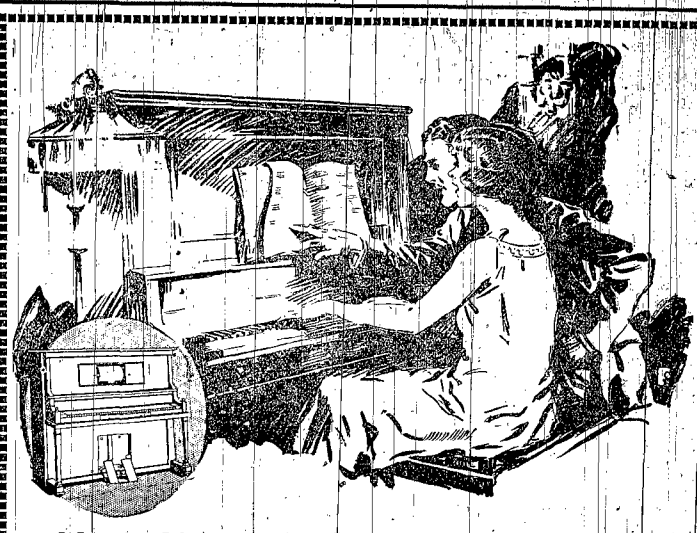

The production as its title indicates, reveals the blow dealt to children of married couples who are separated by court order. It is said to be swift-moving,—filled with tensely dramatic situations and beautiful love scenes.

Former Student Is Traveling In East

The West Point Republican tells as follows the trip of a former Wayne student: "Miss Beata Krause and Miss Adella Gebauer, who are spending a part of their summer vacation touring the east, by foot when they cannot secure a ride, were entertained in Pittsburgh at the home of Mrs. John Cox three days last week. They arrived there on the 20th from Ontario. Mrs. Cox was formerly Miss Helen Dietrich of Dodge and graduated from Wayne State Normal with Miss Krause.

After seeing the sights in Pittsburgh they caught a ride to Wheeling, West Virginia. Since then their travels have been through Ohio, Columbus, Dayton and Easton, and Indiana where they made stops at Richmond and Indianapolis. Last word from them was that they were enroute to Louisville, Kentucky and on their way home."

Charles Lindbergh's engine never missed a beat, but that is pure than can be said of the poetry written about him. Indianapolis Star.

The few days of relaxation incident to the Fourth are over and accustomed routine has been restored.

With the best crop prospects in years, globm prophets are having a hard time trying to establish professional standing in their communities.

The Church of England is about ready to approve of a revision of its prayer book. Doubtless it will contain new phrasing and a lot of new ideas and new desires and be brought up to date.

As proof that an under-size thief, collecting such things as automobile tires, has been operating in Wayne the past week, we would offer the fact that the spare tire on the Herald's Ford was taken and as yet has not been returned.

Chief Justice William Howard Taft, former chief executive, expresses high satisfaction over his present position, and says he would not exchange it for the presidency. He says the president's responsibilities are nerve-wracking and that the strongest man weakens under them.

It is noted by an authority quoted in the Literary Digest that women's sense of smell is not so acute as that of men. It is also observed that a woman is less sensitive to cold or other pains than a man. Thus, a man, prompted by sharp olfactory nerves, is quick to detect the inviting odor of savory viands. Thin clothing worn by women in coldest winter without consequences of sickness or distress, shows that they are comparatively impervious to the elements. Lack of long-distance smelling aid power to endure physical pain are no proof of mental inferiority.

Anticipation is thrilled by the proposed visit of a dear, old-time friend. The friend's appearance in the way of untidy youngsters makes realization of a funeral occasion. The visit ended, tears of joy and relief. Anticipation is filled with those if a note is soon to come due with insufficient funds to discharge the obligations. Reflection is torn and sore if pay day fails to pass without wrecking the paper's exchequer. We look forward sorely or fearfully, or backward with joy or regret, and in many cases the imagination is tortured by the way things are happening.

Editor F. D. Stone of the Hastings Herald, comes out against capital punishment as wrong in principle and as ineffectual as a deterrent to crime. While it completely disposes of the case of the individual in the chair, he thinks it does not hinder the spread of crime and that it has a demoralizing influence on society. He thinks Carter had all the symptoms of a crazy man. In truth, it looks as though any one who will commit murder is insane to some degree. How to handle murderers without further endangering society, is a problem yet to be solved. The idea of taking the life of even

THE EMOTIONS
In a recent contribution to literature, a writer trots out the emotions and puts them high on a pedestal as the greatest winning force in the world. He says one may be a physical giant or an intellectual wonder, and still fail to reach his goal if he does not exercise his emotions. One must have his soul in what he undertakes, his feelings must be excited in the direction of his pursuit and he must not only desire to win but be determined to win. Wisely directed emotions in business, professional service, athletics or in anything one seeks to accomplish, are pointed out as more important than superior brawn or superior brains. When one's emotions flag, obstacles seem insurmountable and the goal appears remote and impossible. Then one lies down in the harness, and whether he has the stature of an Ajax or the mind of a Socrates, he drags anchor and arrives nowhere in particular. According to the writer, the emotions cause the gap between success and failure. This is important, if true. If true, one ought to train up his emotions. If he has any, and set them to work in behalf of worthy achievements.

CHARITY.
Probably it is true that the one who bestows charity often feels better as a consequence than the one who receives it. A recipient is given temporary relief, but his sense of appreciation may be dulled as additional needs are felt. The one who helps another in want or distress is moved by injured sensibilities which are assuaged by acts of generosity. The spirit which extends aid is doctored quite as much as the object of relief. Expressions of gratitude may be genuine or superficial, but to one who is sensitive to the pains or deprivations of others, it is reward enough to be able to share in granting relief. If it is selfish to find exaltation in bestowing aid and relieving distress, it is a noble and Christian-like kind of selfishness.

CULTURAL CENTER.
A visit in Lincoln, seat of state government, home of the University of Nebraska and state agricultural college and site of the state fair, inspires a feeling of security and buoyancy. The educational environment emphasizes values apart from and above mere money-getting and pleasure-seeking. In this wholesome atmosphere one finds mental stimulus. When people stop in Lincoln, they are made to feel a sort of proprietary interest in the different public institutions located there.

In Memoriam.
On the third anniversary since the death of Mrs. Mary E. Pryor, who passed away July 8, 1924, we pause, dear mother, at your immortal bier to pledge anew our faith and love to one we hold so dear. Three years have passed since you received from God the final call. Eternal time will never dim your memory in us all. Sleep on, good mother, in blissful peace and rest. Your host of comrades left behind will to this truth attest. While time in all its fleetness passes and while suns may rise and set, a lovely mother you always were. We never shall forget. Her fond children, Leo E. Pryor, Frank R. Pryor, Tom J. Pryor, Margaret Pryor Moore, Lauretta Pryor Brugger and Anna Pryor Jordan.

CHARITY.
Probably it is true that the one who bestows charity often feels better as a consequence than the one who receives it. A recipient is given temporary relief, but his sense of appreciation may be dulled as additional needs are felt. The one who helps another in want or distress is moved by injured sensibilities which are assuaged by acts of generosity. The spirit which extends aid is doctored quite as much as the object of relief. Expressions of gratitude may be genuine or superficial, but to one who is sensitive to the pains or deprivations of others, it is reward enough to be able to share in granting relief. If it is selfish to find exaltation in bestowing aid and relieving distress, it is a noble and Christian-like kind of selfishness.

We will turn on the fans and guarantee you a cool evening and a warm welcome. Those who united with us last Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. William Roe. Their two daughters received baptism at our church some time ago. First Methodist Episcopal Church (Rev. Lewis F. Townsend, pastor) The church school runs fifty-two weeks in the year. We will be looking for you next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. At 11 o'clock the morning worship begins. The subject of the morning sermon by the pastor is "Travel Light." The League meet at 7 o'clock. Better get in one of these organizations if you attend the Methodist church. They have some very interesting plans for the summer months. At 8 o'clock there will be a union service at the Presbyterian church. Holiday plans and holiday psychology lessened the attendance last Sunday evening. We hope to see many more this time. Where are all those people who think attendance would greatly increase if we met together? Come on, now is your chance. The W. F. M. S. will meet on Thursday afternoon. The plans will be announced in the church bulletin. Some changes must be made from the annual program. The Standard Bearers meet with Harriett Craven on Monday evening.

Good Old Nebraska

Omaha World Herald: Sometimes statistics, however convincing, fail to doat popular consciousness with the knowledge which black and white figures are supposed to unendingly provide. It is true that there are romance and fairy pictures in figures, but not everyone can glimpse the romance and the picture. A wheat crop estimated at from 72 to 85 million bushels forecast for Nebraska is to be a new song to take the place of the depressing and nauseating theories and nostrums upon which pessimists and doleful prophets have been fattening in politics and civic life for too many years.

While corn is slow in certain sections, the late start means a faster race and Nebraska sunshine is making the green leaves fairly jump. Reports of remarkably developed diversity of crops and resources, including the fat cream check, emphasize anew that during difficult years the farmers of this state have been moving straight ahead with intelligence and constructive endeavor. Now that peculiar advantage in agricultural conditions obtains in this part of the world, all these newly developed resources will have their permanent part. A seasoned railroad official a few weeks ago said, "Omaha and most of Nebraska people do not comprehend the great future of this state. We see it because we make a study of 'nurseries for business.' Development is the interesting part of rail roading in the west. And we find it difficult to appreciate what 10 or 15 years will do in Nebraska."

Don't let anyone tell you, gentle reader, that there is any limit to the possibilities of endeavor and industry in this agricultural nation. And if you are interested in "hoss races," keep your eye on Nebraska.

Struck by Lightning

Spencer, Neb., July 1.—While standing in the doorway of a shed, Miss Bernice Marlet, 20-year-old daughter of Marley Marlet, farmer living four miles south of Spencer, was knocked unconscious by a bolt of lightning about 8 o'clock last evening. She will recover if it was reported this morning.

The lightning seemed to temporarily paralyze one side of Miss Marlet's face which turned black. She suffered a large bump on the back of her head, and one eye was badly swollen. She may lose the sight of the injured eye, it was said.

There is no evidence that the bolt struck the shed, while a large hole was burned in the barn near by, and in which Mr. Marlet, who suffered no shock, was standing. Members of the Marlet family are unable to determine where the lightning struck.

Miss Marlet was unconscious several hours. Although she spent a restless night, her condition was reported to be good this morning.

The young woman had gone into the shed for kindling, deciding to remain in the doorway until the heavy rain ceased before returning to the house.

Words Birds Sing

Fremont Herald: As I lay in bed the other morning, trying to muster the courage to get up and shave and bathe and dress, I listened again to that morning carol of the meadow lark. I am unable to attest whether the male lark and his mate sing slightly different songs, or whether these Nebraska larks each has a somewhat varied repertory; but I am prepared to testify, however, that I heard at least two different melodies—both unmistakably songs of the meadow lark—as I lay there listening to this free concert of the birds out in Bader's addition. But try as I might, by no stretch of my imagination could I make that lark say either, "I hope the wheat'll grow" or as my young friend declares are the words he sings to his song, or "I am very glad to meet with you" as Marie Weeks of the Norfolk Press intimates he says. This lark out in Bader's addition sings a song which in certain respects

Very strikingly resembles that of what we used to call the "wamp robin," which I have since been told is correctly classified as the berric thrush. He begins with the word "Happy"—of that much I am certain; but what words come after that, I am as yet unable to attest. Later: That lark does say, "I hope the wheat'll grow" and "I'm glad to meet with you" all according to one's imagination. I know, for I heard him sing it both ways, this very morning.

Home, Neb., June 30.—Harry Ostermyer, of Homer, again has taken first place in the Tri-State Cow Testing association. The report of O. C. Bokke, official cow tester of the association, shows one of his cows produced 2,300 pounds of milk, which contained 73 pounds of butter fat. He also owns a cow which produced 2,072 pounds of milk, containing 84 pounds of butter fat.

The high average herd is owned by Elmer Blessing, of Dakota City. His herd of 15 cows averaged 1,335 pounds of milk and 53 pounds of butter fat. The test was taken over a period of 10 days.

The high average herd is owned by Elmer Blessing, of Dakota City. His herd of 15 cows averaged 1,335 pounds of milk and 53 pounds of butter fat. The test was taken over a period of 10 days.

Echoes will have a pleasant vacation in the Black Hills this summer.—Arkansas Gazette.

Very strikingly resembles that of what we used to call the "wamp robin," which I have since been told is correctly classified as the berric thrush. He begins with the word "Happy"—of that much I am certain; but what words come after that, I am as yet unable to attest. Later: That lark does say, "I hope the wheat'll grow" and "I'm glad to meet with you" all according to one's imagination. I know, for I heard him sing it both ways, this very morning.

Cows Rank High

Home, Neb., June 30.—Harry Ostermyer, of Homer, again has taken first place in the Tri-State Cow Testing association. The report of O. C. Bokke, official cow tester of the association, shows one of his cows produced 2,300 pounds of milk, which contained 73 pounds of butter fat. He also owns a cow which produced 2,072 pounds of milk, containing 84 pounds of butter fat.

Family Of Five Is Injured Near Here Five members of the Fred Lucking family of Fremont, were injured Friday evening when the Ford touring car in which they were riding to Allen, turned over on the highway about five miles south of Wakefield. It is thought the machine either struck a bump in the road or the car was turned quickly to avoid a bump. Mrs. Lucking sustained a four-inch scaly wound about the left eye and a severe compound fracture of the right wrist. She also suffered from the shock. Mr. Lucking had three ribs broken. Three daughters were with Mr. and Mrs. Lucking. One had a rib broken on the left side. Another sustained a severe compound fracture of the left wrist, and a laceration on the side of one of her feet. The foot wound which exposed tendons and muscles, is severe. The third girl was bruised badly. The family was cared for in Wakefield and later was taken home in an ambulance. Wakefield Man Is Married In June The following from an Omaha paper will be of interest here. "Mrs. Emilie Nagel of Walnut, Iowa, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Viola Nagel of this city to Martin J. Ekberg of Lincoln, Neb., son of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Ekberg of Wakefield, Neb. "Miss Nagel is a graduate of the University School of Music, and is a member of the Mu Phi Epsilon, honorary sorority, at Lincoln. She is at present an instructor at the Omaha Academy of Music. "Mr. Ekberg is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and a member of the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. The wedding will take place the latter part of June, after which the young couple will make their home in Omaha." Graveling Started On Allen Highway Graveling of the Wakefield-Allen highway was started last week at Sunnyside school about six miles north of town. Two miles of the work were completed south of the school about six miles north of town. This section was done the first of this week. The graveling will be finished into Wakefield, and the work will then be done from Allen south. June Weather Report. The government temperature chart at the C. W. We handle the SUN-PROOF "moulded" hose because it has approximately Four Times the life of ordinary "wrapped" hose. This Sun-Proof hose cannot be kinked because of its moulded construction and a ribbed exterior. A wrapped hose kinks every time you move it about. This kinking is what breaks the walls of the hose and causes it to leak. This cannot happen to our Sun-Proof hose because it simply can't be kinked. A wrapped hose is mostly cloth, one layer wrapped around another while our moulded hose is close to 90 per cent pure rubber. We sell our moulded hose at 15c per foot complete with fittings. We sell our wrapped hose at 10c. Here is a problem in arithmetic you might work on-- Which is the cheaper, a hose that costs 15c and lasts ten years or a hose that costs 10c and lasts three or even four years. We have on display a 100 foot length of Sun-Proof Moulded hose that has been used 10 years and doesn't leak a drop. Come in and see it. Carhart Hardware Co. Insure Against Heat

You may get this protection by investing in our shirts, underwear and socks which were designed and built purposely to keep you cool. As an additional counter-attack on heat, we would suggest one of our bathing suits and an occasional plunge in the Kay pool.

Also by buying here, you will put a crimp in the high cost of living.

Laura E. Lyons Writes of West

Former Resident of County Describes Happenings of Interest in Long Beach.

Miss Laura Lyons writes from Long Beach, Calif., June 24, to Herald readers as follows: "We have had but very few real summer days so far, but we hear that it has been extremely hot in inland California as arriving up from the bird sections of Utah, Arizona and Texas."

"The flowers and shrubs and trees in Lincoln park are beautiful now. The big bed of mammoth pansies, in which I counted twenty-five shades, always attracts my attention."

"On Wednesday and Thursday evenings I attend night classes in literary work at the public library. The first social function in connection with one of the classes, the Scribblers' club, is to be a garden party at the home of the secretary Thursday. After a covered-dish supper some members' manuscripts will be read and criticized by the group. Our newly elected president, W. A. Hodges, has had several short stories published in the Sea Stories magazine."

"Some time ago I saw a dragon-shaped kite which two men were flying on the beach. It was eighty-eight feet long, made of brightly colored paper and peculiarly shaped. It flew at a height of about a hundred feet and carried under the arm."

"During the winter there was much competition in the sale of gasoline here. It was as low as 11c a gallon for a time, but raised. It is now 12c. Eggs are from 20c to 30c according to size and color, also whether ranch or selected. Chickens are from 24c to 30c a pound of weight. Rabbits are 31c dressed. Bacon averages 35c a pound, round steak, 30c and fish, 25c to 30c. The fishing is fine now."

"The kind days in the open air, a family stroll and a picnic are a thrill to me and what the pondorous waves and breakers come in and splash up almost as high as the shell. Part of the time the shell is surrounded on three sides by the pulsing water. Herbert E. Clarke, director of the band, was one of the four nationally known musicians to act as judge in the national high school band contest in Council Bluffs in May. One of the marches, which he has composed, 'Long Beach is Calling' is a most popular favorite here."

"Four eastern men took 200 guests to Dana Point, yesterday and I was one of the group who went. A big combine is to spend several million dollars in developing this place. Big yacht grounds, perfectly self-governed, tennis courts and a $2,500,000 hotel are planned. Dana Point lies between Laguna Beach and San Diego on the Roosevelt highway, a paved road extending from Canada to Mexico along the coast. Henry Dana's book, 'Two Years Before the Mast,' refers to this point. One hundred years ago the sailors who landed there and went to the old mission of San Juan Capistrano nearby and traded for furs, bringing them back and rolling them over the passages to be put on their boat."

"Loretta is now training in the Pines Verde hills for a transcontinental endurance run of 3,157 miles from Los Angeles to New York. He is to start September 1 and arrive in New York November 1, making an average daily run of 110 miles. He is to be accompanied by two men and two dogs, who will travel in a sedan. A truck will also follow, fitted for living quarters for Loretta and his trainer."

"It was estimated that 100,000 persons congregated in Long Beach a week ago Sunday to witness the beginning of the row boat race from here to Catalina island. Fifty-four men and four women in their boats, all lined up side by side on the sand in front of the Virginia hotel. Each entered at a point from one of four assistants, all ready for the shot signal to push the boat into the water. They left at 12:30 and took the winner, Cagney, an Australian, 5 hours and 16 minutes to make the 28-mile trip. He received $1,000. Goodspeed, also an Australian, was second and received $500. The lady winner, an 18-year-old San Pedro girl, was given $750. Each was allowed to select his own kind of boat. Next year the boats will be uniform in size and make."

"On Children's day a boy 10 years old from the Methodist church played violin selections which won for him the state championship in a musical contest. The same Sunday Bruce Baxter, teacher in the University of Southern California, delivered the baccalaureate sermon for the 528 graduates of the Polytechnical high school and the eighty-four graduate of the Woodrow Wilson high school."

"The highest tides here are in June and December. We have been experiencing some extremely high tides recently. Small amount of damage was done on the Pike. "Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Spahr and Mrs. Elias Mellick called on us recently. They are well and John Mellick is improving from injuries sustained in an automobile accident."

Home Demonstration Increased in States

Home-demonstration work is increasing, according to the 1926 reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture. Twenty-one new counties employing home-demonstration agents during the year. Sixteen additional counties reappropriated funds for the work after they had discontinued it for a year or more. Ten counties have a definite prospect of putting in an agent in 1927 and fifty counties expressed themselves as interested. Several counties in Kentucky made three-year appropriations, assuring the continuance of the work. In Georgia renewal appropriations were promptly granted in sixty-three home-demonstration agent counties. In Tennessee there was stronger support of appropriations in practically all the counties. Thirty-four counties increased their appropriations. Ten counties requested appropriations but were denied by the county commissioners. Twenty-nine additional counties made appropriations and are waiting for Federal and State funds. In eighty-eight counties home-demonstration agents carried on extension work as the only extension representative in the county. The outlook for the further development of home-demonstration work is good.

Woman Acts as Judge. Hartington, Nebr., June 30.—Women are capable of judging, it is proven by the experience of Miss Cecilia Walz, who is acting in the capacity of county judge during the absence of Judge Wilbur F. Bryant. In Judge Bryant's absence Miss Walz had occasion to render her first county decision when she sentenced a bad check writer to jail for five days. Not only does Miss Walz have the responsibility of giving court sentences, but she also has performed a marriage ceremony, uniting Ernest E. Wesche, Alexander, S. D., and Miss Lillian Fredick, of the same place.

Wonderfully Improved McCormick-Deering

Points subject to the greatest strain have been made strong on the new McCormick-Deering binder. Ball and roller bearings make the day's work easier for both men and horses. Mud and undergrowth do not collect between the main wheel and chain. McCormick-Deering is easy to handle as necessary adjustments are few and simple.

The McCormick-Deering binder has a world-wide reputation for dependability under all conditions. The McCormick has a reputation for strength and ability to stand hard usage, while the Deering has long been recognized as the lightest draft machine. The combination of the best features of both machines in the McCormick-Deering means all the advantages of the sturdy McCormick construction with the Deering lightness.

Many Improvements Not On Old Machines

- 1. Improved bevel gears. 2. Improved ball-thrust bearing on bevel gear shaft. 3. Improved adjustment of ball-thrust bearing for meshing bevel gears. 4. Ball-thrust bearings on both ends of the main wheel hub. 5. Removable roller bearing in grain wheel. 6. Roller bearings on both ends of main elevator driving roller. 7. Improved self-aligning roller bearing. 8. Vertical bolted connections between main frame and platform. 9. Improved connection between platform and elevator frame. 10. Better bracing for outside reel support. 11. More space between main wheel and main drive chain, eliminating accumulation of dirt and undergrowth. 12. Better platform canvas adjusting device. 13. Controlling levers easier to reach and operate. 14. Wider range of adjustments on reel. 15. Choice of either McCormick or Deering binder attachments.

Ask us to show you this new machine. With a new, smooth-working binder, the day doesn't seem so hot or the job so tedious.

Smokers of this day prefer Camels. MODERN smokers insist upon value received, and they place Camel first among cigarettes. Regardless of price, Camel is the popular smoke, because it has the most to offer. Its choicest tobaccos and careful blending have made Camels supreme in an age that demands quality. All the money in the world could not make a better cigarette than Camel. It has proved itself to the experienced taste, to the careful smokers of the modern age. Let this cigarette show you how mild and mellow a good smoke can really be. "Have a Camel!"

Luncheon was served afterwards. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mace of Omaha, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Liveringhouse of Tilden, were out-of-town guests.

Picnic Enjoyed.

The Bible school of the Church of Christ held an all day picnic Monday, July 4, at Amos Beckenhauer's ranch northeast of town. The grove was fitted with a swing, merry-go-round and other devices for the young folks. There were games and races which both participants and bystanders enjoyed.

In the afternoon the men with saws and ax felled two trees for center poles of the tent which is to be used in the coming evangelistic meeting. They also cut the stakes for the tent.

When this was done all went into the house and brought the day to its proper climax by a devotional period of songs, scripture reading and prayers. Adjoining all went to their homes feeling like the day had been a most profitable one in all respects.
