Miss Inez Wallen Is Bride In June

Miss Inez Elzara Wallin of Omaha, formerly of Concord, and Mr. Allan S. Johnson, also of Omaha, were married June 30 at Trinity Lutheran church there, Rev. Wilbur Palmquist performing the ceremony. After a trip to the lake region of Minnesota, they will make their home in Omaha.

The bride wore white tulle, the semi-fitted bodice having a square neck finished with a Mary Stuart collar. The bouffant hooped skirt showed an uneven hem line edged with tulle. Miss Wallin carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Elsie Feldt of Chicago, maid of honor, wore orchid georgette and a large picture hat to match. She carried Opheleia roses. Miss Ada Krantz of Moline, Ill., and Miss Pauline Peterson were bridesmaids and were gowned in rainbow colors. Evonne Wallin, niece of the bride, was flower girl and wore yellow georgette. Winton Wallin was ring bearer. Arvid Johnson and Otto Ek were ushers, and Wuyil Gte was best man. A reception at the home of Mrs. Ida S. Wallin followed.

Out-of-town guests included Miss Hilma Axelsson and August Axelsson of St. Louis, Mrs. Augusta Axelsson and Miss Ada Krantz of Moline, Ill.; Mrs. Clara Johnson and Arvid Johnson of Genoa, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flink of Newman Grove, Neb.; and Mr. and Mrs. Wynore Wallin of Concord, Neb.

Four Places Robbed In Wisner Thursday

Wisner, Neb., July 8.—Thieves entered four business places in this city early yesterday morning and obtained a total of $74.

The cash register in the Melcher garage was rifled and $15 taken. Twenty-two dollars was obtained by the robbers from the cash register in the Brazda garage, and the Continental Oil company station lost $27. Although the thieves jimmied doors on the safe of the Wisner Milling company, they did not obtain any money. Indications are the thieves abandoned their attempt to crack the mill safe soon after they entered the building. No money was in the mill safe as that concern has not been operating for some time.

The places robbed are located at the extreme ends of Main street in Wisner. That the robbers visited the places while the night watchman was at the other end of the street is the belief of the officers.

No clew other than a screw driver found at one of the robbed places has been discovered. Indications are that two or four persons committed the crimes. Police and county officers in the vicinity of Norfolk are now facing the task of breaking up what appears to be a ring of thieves believed to have been responsible for eighteen robberies in three places, Norfolk, Piden and Wisner, in the past month.

Brunswick Paper Moves.
Neligh, Neb., July 8.—The last issue of the Brunswick Independent published at Brunswick was printed last week. Mr. Crellin, the editor, has purchased the business and subscription list of the Plainview Tribune from Otto Wills and moved the Brunswick plant to Plainview.

Mr. Crellin found what many others have discovered; that the present high cost of publishing a newspaper makes it difficult if not impossible to profitably conduct a newspaper in a small town in Nebraska, as has been the case further east, where the small town papers are disappearing.

Capital Punishment.
Dr. A. L. Bixby in Lincoln Journal-Herald, one of the influential newspapers of the North Platte country, comes out strongly against murder, as a remedy for individual conduct is not made better by brutal exhibitions of social vengeance. Quite right, brother, and as E. W. Huse of the Wayne Herald says, "the idea of taking the life of even a hardened and depraved criminal is coming more and more to be repugnant. More and more people are looking on capital punishment as a relic of the dark ages."

Highway Will Be Better This Year

Norfolk News, July 9.—Motorists who travel from Norfolk to Sioux City on highway No. 35, after the close of the construction season this year, will have a better surface over which to ride as a temporary grade will be constructed on that important road according to an announcement of State Engineer Roy Cochran who was here two days this week.

For many years highway No. 35 between Norfolk and Sioux City has been a barrier to travelers during bad weather, and during and after heavy rains and snows it has been impassable in many places.

To Start Work Soon

The earthwork construction will be done under the supervision of the department of public works, and will be completed by the close of the working season. As the grade will only be temporary, no federal aid will be used to improve the highway. Construction operations are expected to start on a big scale in the near future.

There are a number of places on the highway that are difficult to travel when rain or snow falls and these will be eliminated by earthwork construction.

It is the dream of good roads boosters to see highway No. 35 graveled completely before the extensive good roads building program of Nebraska is finished.

Job Near Finish

The Hobkins-Winside project on which construction was started about a year ago, is nearing completion. All except about two miles of the new road which will eliminate two railway crossings, dangerous curves and steep hills, have been finished. Because the unfinished part of the project is in the center of the new road, it is impossible for travelers to drive over a big portion of the highway.

Highway No. 20, which traverses north Nebraska, will be improved its entire distance in Cedar county by the close of the 1927 construction season, it has been announced.

As Highway No. 20 starts at Boston, Mass., and reaches across the United States to the western coast in Oregon, good roads advocates in north Nebraska are backing a movement to have the road highly improved as soon as possible.

A number of miles of that highway has been under construction during the past two seasons, and work is still going on and as a result the road is gradually becoming improved. Progressive citizens of this section hope to convert highway No. 20 into one of the most important roads in the middle-west.

Justice Taft at 70

Omaha World-Herald: "Untroubled by the maddening swirl of politics," says the Associated Press interviewer, "William Howard Taft is nearing his seventieth year, happy in his daily work and he has never been before in or out of office. The whole country without distinction as to party or class likes to read that statement from a former president of the United States, not only happy but exceedingly useful after a long career of public service of high character. Justice Taft has answered in his own way the often expressed question, 'What shall we do with our ex-presidents?' That he finds interest in zest for work and that his long experience is valuable to himself and to this country in the highest court is a matter for common congratulation. We can almost hear the good-natured chuckle of the former president as he says, 'I do not like politics.' High and happy with a sunny good nature that goes with the large though considerably reduced avoirdupois, the figure of Justice Taft is one that appeals in a kindly way to all of us.

Time was when Mr. Taft was indeed in the "swirl of politics." He followed the tempestuous, ebullient, dashing, smiling, hard hitting Roosevelt and he was most uncomformable, we believe, during the four years that he served as president. We know it now from his own words, "the responsibilities of the presidency are nerve racking." During that period he sought relief in camaraderie and was a target because he went to ball games with that rank old standpatter, Uncle Joe Cannon. Mr. Taft does not enjoy a fight, and he is glad to be on the bench where he can use his mind and matured judgment in the weighing of justice. He is too kindly and good natured to be happy in the internal feuds of his own party and views those friends who differ with him with mild protest. Whether it be tariff policy or the world court, his statements are judicial and not aggressive with the conviction and the enthusiasm that go with a certain leadership.

But he occupies a large place in the affections and the respect of the American people. We are glad he is happy and hope that he may enjoy many years of contented service. We imagine that when one passes seventy, usefulness is about the most cherished thing in all our lives. Interest in our fellow men, concern for our friends and our country, acute attention to the developments of the day and age all help make life happy for our declining years.

Mrs. H. H. Cone Dies At Home In Omaha

Mrs. H. H. Cone of Omaha, mother of Mrs. A. F. Gulliver of Wayne, passed away Saturday morning after an illness of over a year, aged about 70 years. Mrs. Gulliver had been with her mother during the year, and spent a couple of weeks with her mother just before her death. Funeral service was held Monday at Ashland and Prof. Gulliver went Sunday to be present. Deceased leaves her husband and four daughters as follows: Mrs. Gulliver of Wayne, and Mrs. Catherine Parkinson, Mrs. B. D. Evans and Mrs. H. S. Nixon, all of Omaha. One son was killed in service the last day of the World war.

Not Guilty

Dr. A. L. Bixby in Lincoln Journal: Every once in a while something out of the usual comes up to give zest to life. It may be a temporary annoyance, but no harm done if you can get a laugh out of it. By telephone this week we were informed by a female "to defend defendant unknown," that her automobile, which she said we ran into, had been repaired. We were solicited to settle the damage on the basis of cost of repairs. Reasonable enough, one might suppose, but we refused to accept the terms. They seemed unreasonable because of the fact that they never bumped into her car or anybody's car. In the years we have driven a gas-wagon we have had plenty of accidents, but the very offense for which we were asked to make reparation.

And thus we set the truth afloat: Dear Women, whomever you be, The beast who battered up your boat Was some one else—it wasn't me.

Theo! I am giving up to jokes, And sins, for which I can't atone, I spare the cars of other folks That I may save from wreck my own.

If I were not somewhat afraid, What joy, a useful life to crown, To bump the road-hogs off the grade, And set their wagons upside down.

But I am getting old and lame, Too slow for such exciting tricks; Were I to start that little game I'd get my own quietus. BIX

Suicide

Hartington Herald: Editors, psychologists, psychiatrists and others are still discussing suicide and its causes and a large variety of theories is advanced; but, to us, the explanation is simple enough. There may be some specific cause for suicide in some cases—one should not generalize too freely on the subject; but, generally speaking, we are led to the conclusion that the cause of suicide is inherent in an abnormal civilization. The reason why the majority of suicides kill themselves is that they crack under the strain of the super-stimulated life which they lead—they can not "stand the game"—and the suggested remedy is for society to return to a more natural state. We boast of our progress and our inventions, but a moment's reflection will convince any thinking person that not one of these things is adding an iota to the sum total of human happiness. On the contrary, they are simply contributing to nerve and body strain and making the life of the average person constantly more competitive and more hectic. What people need most of all in fact, what large numbers of people are striving for—is not more speed, amusement and excitement, but more time for rest, reflection and self-culture; and, because they lack these vital necessities of the mind and are driven mad by the incessant din, uproar, strife and intolerable frivolity of modern life, they finally break under the strain. Suicide, it should be noted, is not a product of nature, but of an artificial civilization and that fact suggests the solution. People who lead simple, normal, restful lives do not kill themselves—self destruction is not a natural instinct, but an abnormal impulse which is produced by the hectic and nerve-racking strain of modern civilization with its endless jealousies and suspicions.

Keeping Well

Dr. A. L. Bixby in Lincoln Journal: We were talking the other day to a friend who is not of the medical profession on the terrible affliction called "arthritis deformis." All have seen these cases of inflamed joints which make you limp and groan to begin with, and later become ankyllosed and immovable, and the victim finally becomes perfectly helpless, and may linger for years in this unhappy condition. Our friend had the notion that this condition is primarily due to decayed teeth or tacky tonsils. We ventured the opinion that in most of these cases the primal cause might be traced to morbid conditions in the alimentary canal. Later we read an article by Dr. George W. Coyne in the Nebraska State Medical Journal, which confirmed all we said and more, too. He had found much evidence to have resulted directly from the entrance in the intestinal tract of Entamoeba histolytica—a type of parasite that is worse than it looks in print. But finding out what is the first and greatest step in preventing the damage that can't be remedied after it once takes place. Divine science can do a lot to mitigate human misery, but it can't rehabilitate an ankyllosed or stampeped a procession of protozoan parasites. Thank goodness, scientific methods are being devised, which contemplate a simple dietary and all that sort of thing, to make the intestinal tract sanitary and keep it so. Then if one gives proper attention to his teeth, and gets rid of his tonsils, and doesn't founder himself with gorges of indigestible food, one may live to a peaceful old age and never know a sick day only when the home team fritters away a game by sleeping at the plate.

This our fault when sickness impinges Upon our delights here below: There's small need of ankyllosed hinges If science is given a show.

If men in such matters are clever— And this is not fiction but fact— No enemy parasites ever, Need vamp the intestinal tract.

Tubercular troubles, necrosis, And many untwiled complaints, With microbes that breed ankyllosis, There's hope now for sinners and saints.

God's plan is for all to feel bully, Good health is our natural fix, Who in divine mercy trust fully, And then behave decently. Bix.

A Successful Banker's Advice. Toronto Star: Some advice to young men entering upon a business career has been given by Otto H. Kahn, one of America's most successful bankers. There is nothing in it to suggest that to get on in the keen competitive system of this continent it is necessary to be relentless and to ride roughshod over rivals. Mr. Kahn lays down these 10 rules which he thinks should bring a fair measure of prosperity to young fellows of average ability:

Eliminate from your vocabulary the word "effortatory." Think—exercise your brain as you do your muscles. The most servicable of all assets is reputation. Use your imagination. Know how to bide your time and to "sit tight." Be neighborly. Be a good sport. Remember you can't lift yourself by downing others. Work hard. It won't hurt you. Meet your fellow men frankly and fairly. You don't have to go through business armed to the teeth.

If you are successful be patient, courteous and conciliatory. Avoid ostentation. There is little in the advice that should produce the swaggering, brutal type of American go-getter. Mr. Kahn goes out of his way to say that a man does not help himself by pushing someone else down, or is it necessary to carry full armament when engaged in business. He prefers to stress courtesy, neighborliness, public spirit and modesty. Modern business has learned the secret that the ideal of service is not only practical, but profitable. That knowledge has revolutionized the methods of catering for trade. But improvements in the manner of promoting and organizing stock companies has not taken place to the same gratifying degree.

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 8 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, July 14, 1927. Vol. 1

Is there a poor sitting in the corner of your field? Is there a binder sitting under a tree in your back yard? We hope not. You're losing money if your machinery is exposed. Better build that machine shed this fall.

Isn't it a fact? Ants are educated animals that know where picnics are held. Just received another lot of Bunnet steel posts this week—the toughest, strongest, and only available steel posts made. The price is not more than ordinary posts.

Nothing is quite so disconcerting as to sit down in a shoe store and suddenly realize that you have forgotten which shoe has a hole in it. Are you planning on making any "tennis" this fall? If so, you'll need a mighty good judgment if you see us and get prices on posts, wire and other materials.

If there is anything that you think the editor of The Knot-Hole ought to know, kindly communicate it. This thing of being an editor is a heavy responsibility. We noticed in the Omaha Bee classified ad section the other day that nearly every farm listed for sale had the words "well fenced." Buyers always look at the fences. "Well fenced?" "Well fenced?" Another thing that's always bothered us, why should an engineer be civil? We're making hay racks right now. How about one for you? There's a small girl in this town who was giving her undivided attention the other evening to a bag of peanuts. "Mother," she asked, "who wraps the nuts up in brown paper this way?" A "bird" blew into town the other day selling a roll-roping put on that weighs

Funeral service was conducted in Dixon Methodist church Wednesday of last week with Rev. E. L. Corbit in charge. Mrs. Roberts' maiden name was Miss Mary Estelle Nichols. She was born June 10, 1899, in Dixon. She was married in 1920 to Clarence E. Roberts. The family lived near Randolph and a year ago moved to Marshall, Minn. Mr. Roberts and two children, Ruth and Lloyd, survive. Making Brides Back Numbers. Omaha Bee: The two upstart young society misses of New York who on the same afternoon served as bridesmaids at two weddings several hundred miles apart by chartering an airplane to take them from one ceremony to the other should be spanked thoroughly and barred from all functions for the remainder of this season and all the next. This is the order of the highest order against the most sacred traditions of marriage, which hold that the most important thing at any wedding shall be the bride. Against such competition as flying bridesmaids, what chance has a mere bride? It is only natural to imagine that all eyes were upon the flying attendants, and not the bride as the bridal party passed down the aisle, and for this reason the two functions were, socially, complete failures. And if social precedents are to be thus upset by lady Lindberghs, what on earth will become of that humorless Corn Borer. Lincoln Journal: The four-months spring campaign against the European corn borer has resulted in the destruction of 95 percent of them, the department of agriculture estimates, although the final results cannot be determined until fall. The work began March 14 under a ten million dollar appropriation from congress with New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Indiana, co-operating. An area of more than two million acres was involved. It is estimated that between four and five million dollars of the money appropriated will go to farmers who clean-up voluntarily. Further work is useless this season because of the refusal. The result of the campaign as estimated is almost more than was expected. The battle must be continued until the eradication is as near 100 percent as possible because of the speed with which this pest spreads. Blaze at Crofton. Crofton, Neb., July 9.—Fire of an undetermined origin destroyed a large barn and contents on the Victor Walter farm located five miles northwest of Crofton Thursday afternoon. Mr. Walter and his hired man were cultivating corn, and the hired girl and the Walter children were in the orchard when the fire broke out. About four tons of hay were burned. The loss is covered by insurance.

Fremont Herald: Editor Huse of the Wayne Herald liked what I said about strawberry shortcake and tells his folks that he fully our political life, that a solemn expression and a heavy and pontiff manner are necessary to woo the electorate. This may have been true in the days of the founding fathers, all of whom, except Franklin and possibly Jefferson, appear to have possessed little humor. But we doubt that it has ever been so true at any time since then. Our politics may require more good story-tellers like Lincoln and more satirists like Reed. Humors and Politics. From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch: We suspect that our political diagnosticians, who are almost daily voicing their amazement over the fact that Americans do not vote in as great numbers as they might, could do worse than follow the suggestion of an unnamed philosopher, that the best way to understand a nation's peculiarities is to study it at play. They would find that our play possesses a quality which seldom gets into our politics. This quality is humor. It is the thing we Americans chiefly demand in our off hours and which most distinguish nearly every form of recreation in which we engage. Thus all higher forms of art, which subvert humor to other qualities, are tragically snubbed, while the so-called "lively arts" are immensely popular. Our symphony orchestras, operatic companies and art museums usually have tough scheduling, while our jazz, movies and popular humorists find the picking exceedingly easy. But there seems to be a notion that humor should not intrude into agrees with me. Furthermore, he hints openly for an invitation to help eat, one of those famous strawberry shortcakes Mrs. Copper makes and which I couldn't help eulogizing here in these columns. The trouble is, the strawberry season is past—the wife thus explaining the absence of those shortcakes at our present evening meals—so what's to be done? Even at the risk of a calling down when Mrs. Copper reads this, I'm hereby extending Editor Huse an invitation to dinner (we used to call it supper when I was a kid back on the farm.) We may not have strawberry shortcake, but I would like to convince this Wayne editor that my wife is quite as competent in the art of making a nice pie as she is in that of making shortcake. Fire at Elgin. Elgin, Neb., July 9.—The farm house and all household goods belonging to August Kludker living about six miles northeast of Elgin, burned to the ground yesterday morning. The men of the family were away at the time. The fire had gained such headway, before being noticed that it was impossible to save any of the household goods or personal effects. The cause is unknown. Try Wayne Herald Want Ad.

Wonderfully Improved McCORMICK-DEERING BINDER

Points subject to the greatest strain have been made strong on the new McCormick-Deering binder. Ball and roller bearings make the day's work easier for both men and horses. Mud and undergrowth do not collect between the main wheel and chain. McCormick-Deering is easy to handle as necessary adjustments are few and simple.

The McCormick-Deering binder has a world-wide reputation for dependability under all conditions. The McCormick has a reputation for strength and ability to stand hard usage, while the Deering has long been recognized as the lightest draft machine. The combination of the best features of both machines in the McCormick-Deering means all the advantages of the sturdy McCormick construction with the Deering lightness.

Many Improvements Not On Old Machines

1. Improved bevel gears.
2. Improved ball-thrust bearing on bevel gear shaft.
3. Improved adjustment of ball-thrust bearing for meshing bevel gears.
4. Ball-thrust bearings on both ends of the main wheel hub.
5. Removable roller bearing in grain wheel.
6. Roller bearings on both ends of main elevator driving roller.
7. Improved self-aligning roller bearing.
8. Vertical bolted connections between main frame and platform.
9. Improved connection between platform and elevator frame.
10. Better bracing for outside reel support.
11. More space between main wheel and main drive chain, eliminating accumulation of dirt and undergrowth.
12. Better platform canvas adjusting device.
13. Controlling levers easier to reach and operate.
14. Wider range of adjustments on reel.
15. Choice of either McCormick or Deering binder attachments.

Ask us to show you this new machine. With a new, smooth-working binder, the day doesn't seem so hot or the job so tedious.

This hard-to-suit age chooses Camel

MODERN people are hard to satisfy. But Camel has pleased them and they have made it the most famous cigarette of all time.

Present-day smokers are "tasty," and they recognize in Camel the choicest tobaccos grown, blended for smoothness and mellowness. Camel leadership in this modern world is an overwhelming tribute to the taste and fragrance of this quality cigarette.

Camel will prove itself to you. What a cool, satisfying smoke! When you try Camels, you will see why they are first and favorite with present-day smokers. "Have a Camel!"
