Former Resident Tells of Industry

W. L. Paul of Coachella, Calif., former resident of Wayne and Wakefield, stopped here last week. A story of his date industry in the Norfolk-News July 14 is as follows:

W. L. Paul, who, since leaving Norfolk thirty-six years ago, has become known as the father of the date industry in the Coachella valley, California, was here Wednesday visiting with C. Donnelly, a former neighbor, and other friends. During the eighteen years since he started operating his date ranch Mr. Paul has seen the industry build up from nothing to a point where last year it provided American tables with over a million pounds of the fruit. Next year Mr. Paul estimates, more than a million and a half pounds of dates will be sent out of the Coachella valley.

PROPOSES 10,000 PEOPLE HERE BY CLOSE OF 1935

A LOCAL citizen has announced himself in favor of making Wayne a town of 10,000 people by the end of 1935, and he expresses his willingness to take off his coat and pin his shoulder to the wheel. Extending Wayne's trade territory and adding an employing industry from time to time will justify the growth, he believes. He thinks people should applaud and encourage the spirit of improvement. When a new building is proposed or started, people should express approval and appreciation. If a site is needed for development, it should be sold for a reasonable price. Growth should not be retarded and future values kept down by the shortsighted policy of charging more for property than it is reasonably worth. The man quoted thinks a liberal and constructive attitude will boost the town to the point suggested within the time mentioned.

HERALD'S EXTRA EDITION TO BE ISSUED AUG. 11

THE Herald's special edition which is now in course of development, will be issued August 11. The task of seeing people get the necessary word is so great that many are likely unavoidably to be missed. Thus, any who know of farm or town buildings that should appear in the edition, are asked to communicate with the Herald. Any who have stories touching the achievements, of past or present individuals, will be welcome contributors to the columns. The comparatively short time devoted to preparation demands the necessity of speeding up the making of the showing commensurate with merit. Any who want extra copies of the issue to preserve or to send to friends or relatives should let the Herald know with the number desired at an early date.

Horse Pulling Is Fair Feature

Dynamometer to Test Power Will Be in Charge of D. H. Cunningham of Wayne.

Has State Record

Eldor Ring of Wakefield, Owns Team Making Highest Test in Nebraska.

A horse pulling contest will be one of the important features of the Wayne County fair to be held September 28 to October 11 this year. The state championship belongs to Eldor Ring of Wakefield, whose team pulled 2,900 pounds a distance of twenty-seven and one-half feet last fall. Draft teams in Wayne county will be tested on this Collins dynamometer. While there is a chance that the state record will be broken in 1927, Wayne county has good reason to stand at the head of the list again. D. H. Cunningham of Wayne, will again have charge of this contest. Mr. Ring's team, "King and Bob," are grade geldings weighing 3,190 pounds. A team, grade Shire and grade Clydesdale, weighing 2,780 pounds and owned by Arthur Johansen of Osceola, Neb., pulled 2,400 pounds a distance of twenty-seven and one-half feet. This was the higher half record in the state.

Dark Forecast IS DEFEATED BY FAVOR OF FATE

AS if to mock and rebuke dark-vised gloom, prophets, prevailing weather could not have been better fashioned for the advantage of growing crops. Following a series of hot days, an inch of rain spread over the country Friday night. Then again came stimulating heat. Small grain is being cut, and corn is growing luxuriantly. Southern parts of the state are harvesting abundance of wheat, and prospects for small grain in western sections of the state are exceptionally favorable. If good fortune continues to smile on agriculture, crops of all kinds will be uniformly good, and conditions will be better instead of worse than usual, notwithstanding lugubrious prophecy.

Mathewson, Property At Norfolk Is Sold

Norfolk News, July 16.—One of the largest transactions, involving city property in Norfolk, to take place in the past few years was the sale of houses and lots that were owned by Mrs. Mary Mathewson who passed away recently.

L. W. Ray, well-known Norfolk-ian, purchased the property at the corner of Eleventh street and Norfolk avenue. This house was built during the early eighties and is one of the oldest in this city. Fritz Asmus now owns the property west of the Mathewson home, in which E. W. Asmus, Jr., who soon moves his family to Connecticut, lives. This home was formerly occupied by J. Storrs Mathewson.

C. C. Stahl, who has been a resident of Norfolk for a number of years purchased other Mathewson properties, including eleven homes located in various parts of Norfolk.

Mrs. J. Storrs Mathewson and daughter, Charlotte, plan to return to their home in Riverside, Calif., on Sunday July 24, traveling by rail. Mr. Mathewson plans to leave Norfolk in his automobile next week.

Interesting Bits of Wayne County History

Quilting bees were enjoyed by early settlers of Wayne county. When one of the women had such work to be done, she invited her friends to her home. All worked together for each other and such occasions were pleasant social gatherings.

LIGHTENING THE LOAD

The greatest service which the funeral director can render is to lighten the overpowering load which falls suddenly upon the shoulders of the family of one who has passed away. Their grief is great. Additional worries may bring it to a bursting point. We relieve their minds of all details in handling the funeral. That is our duty, and one which we never fail to fulfill.

Consult your local carpenter and material dealer about roof and roofing materials. Some in this vicinity who failed to do so, recently have to pay a stranger a lot more than roofing jobs are worth. One woman used her roof peddler she was going to see Mr. Carhart before she bought. Her roof measured 14 1/2 squares and they asked her $150.00 to reroof it. Our price for exactly the same material and work was $101.60, a nd that insures us a good profit on the job. You may be sure this woman did NOT let the roof peddler have the same Moral—See your local dealer first before you sign on the dotted line for a stranger.

The oil game is a woman's game as well as a man's. That is the philosophy of Miss Lela May Barnum of Amarillo, Tex.

Miss Barnum owns oil wells by the score and oil lands by the thousands of acres in the Texas Panhandle and her balance in the bank is growing rapidly every day as new wells come in on her lands.

Struggle at First

At first it was a hard struggle. Miss Barnum had made and saved a small stake as a professional entertainer. But she was determined to make it a big stake and she had heard of riches in oil.

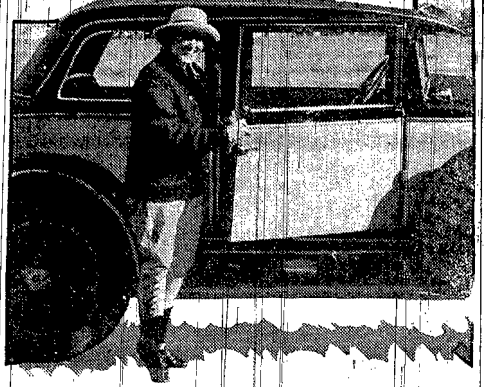

So she made her way to Texas. Her first well was a "duster" but she was not to be discouraged and in the next attempt, when her funds were running low, she struck oil.

She bought and sold leases and put down more wells. Now she is one of the richest women of the southwest.

Tours Field Daily

Her daily routine calls for a tour of the field each morning. In this she dresses in canvas boots, gaiters, breeches and a short jacket. She drives her own custom-made motor car.

Evenings find her enjoying her strictly feminine home. Then she dons her Paris gown and shows no resemblance to the oil field business manager of the morning hours.

Down's Secret Husband

"Please tell the men who read this, that it will do no good to write me proposals of marriage," Miss Barnum said to an interviewer in Amarillo. "I am happier without a husband. Can I do the spending without help?"

It is understood several hundred marriage proposals have been turned down by Miss Barnum since it became known she had acquired wealth.

Frank E. Claycomb Tells Of Club Week

Frank E. Claycomb writes of his recent trip to Lincoln to attend the state club week program as follows:

"I arrived at Lincoln at 10:20. We were met at the station by a man wearing a button saying, 'Ash me, I live here.' He took us to a bus which took us to the agricultural college. There we met Mr. Wisner and his wife, and they went to our quarters. I was put in the west room of the horse barn. We went to our quarters, put up our cuts and then we looked around until dinner. Dinner came at 12:30 at the home economics building.

"After dinner we went to the agricultural hall for some movies about the state fair of 1926. Gene White, president of the university club, took a group of us boys around the farm, and after that we went back to the agricultural hall for a talk on 'The Summer Camp' at 6:30. After supper we went to a pageant, 'The Quest.' We went to bed at 10:00.

"The next morning Tuesday, we got up at 6:30. When we were all up we washed and then had some setting up exercises. Breakfast came at 7:15. After breakfast the boys had a talk on 'Gas, Spark, Boom, Come and See What's Left,' by Mr. Smith of the chemistry department. Mr. Loeffel gave a talk on the feeding of calves and pigs. The boys played some games and had a sing. Mr. Johnson in charge. When we were done playing games we went to the student activities building where W. H. Brokaw and C. B. Steward talked to us. Dinner came at 12:30. After dinner we went to the assembly room for some movies and talks about the European corn borer and the alfalfa weevil. We were told that the corn borer is approaching us from the east, and the alfalfa weevil is the closest. Then we went to the state capitol and we went to the hands with Governor McMillan State Treasurer Stubbins, State Superintendent of Schools Taylor, spoke to us and State Treasurer Stubbins showed us bond of $13,000,000. We went through the supreme court room and then out the south door. Every county in the state of Nebraska has a stone helping to build the capitol. The Wayne county stone is on the south side. Then we got in our trucks and went through residential Lincoln and past the pen and then back to Antelope park where the Rotarians entertained us at a picnic. We had a picnic at the Rotarian and we had the picnic, after the picnic we went back to our quarters and went to bed.

"We got up Wednesday morning at 6:00. We went in groups to the Agricultural Engineering buildings to wash up. Then we had some setting up exercises. Breakfast came at 7:15. T. H. Gooding talked to us on getting the culture out of agriculture. He said the way to do it is to top off our elb work by coming to the agriculture college. The groups of boys divided up and each group took a different subject. Group F, the group I was in, had a talk and some demonstrations on fitting a calf of the for the show ring. After that we played games with Mr. Johnson in charge. Miss Buchanan led some singing and Mr. Erickson and Mr. Keeny talked to us. After dinner, Prof. Whelan talked to us and showed us pictures of bees. Then we went down to the university and watched some freeman rescue men with life nets and ladders. The boys and girls who got their trips from the Nebraska Farmer went through the building.

"Mr. McKelvie talked to us and we saw the big press that Mr. McKelvie said cost over $100,000.

Books Accessioned At Wayne Library

Among the new books accessioned at the city library are several for the junior department:

"The Young Farmer at College," by W. A. Freehoff, is the story of a farm lad who is enabled to attend college by winning a prize. "The Young Farmer at Work" is a sequel to the book first mentioned, and relates the use the boy makes of the new-fangled notions learned at college. "Patriotism," by Carlisle E. Jacobs, is the story of three sisters, Pauline, the practical, Hilary, the delicate, and Patience, the irrepressible. "The Slipper Point Mystery," by Augusta Huelil Seaman, is a mystery story for girls, the plot laid along a river in New Jersey. "Peggy Owen at Morktown," by Lucy Foster Madison, tells the story of a girl who is captured by the British forces while trying to get to Virginia to nurse a wounded cousin, and of her experiences at the scene of Cornwallis' surrender. "Peggy Owen at Liberty," gives more exciting tales of the same Quaker girl and her cousin, the British officer.

"Honey Sweet," by Edna H. L. Turpin and the title is the nickname of a girl who finds a home in a lovely old southern village. "Grandpa's Little Girls and Their Friends," by Alice Turner Curtis, is an interesting account of the Newmans as pupils of Miss Wagoner's school. "Grandpa's Little Girls on a House-Boat Party," tells of the joys of a vacation trip for the Newmans. "Mayfield's Fighting Five," by Harold M. Sherman, is a lively basket ball tale featuring a group of boys who try to wake a sleepy village. "Bob Hanson, Eagle Scout," by Russell Gordon Carter, gives a thrilling account of the bravery of one boy of the Cedarville troop, on a long cruise for the Cedarville natural history museum. "Masterman Ready," by Captain Marryat, is an account of the experiences of a shipwrecked family, a black servant, Juno, and an old sailor, Masterman Ready. "Green Gate," is by Agnes McClelland Dalton and is an entertaining story of four orphan girls for the junior. "The Imperfect Impostor," by Norman Venner, is another story of mistaken identity, the youngest son of a peer and a wild adventurer.

Two books of the Ruggedy Ann stories by Johnny Grudle, have been accessioned for smaller children. "The Tale of Mr. Jeremy Fisher," by Beatrix Potter, is another interesting child story. Tales of the outdoors by Thornton W. Burgess are: "Mother West Wind Howl Stories," "The Adventures of Reddy Fox," "The Adventures of Old Man Coyote," "The Adventures of Old Mistah Buzzard" and "The Adventures of Johnny Chuck." "The Sapphire Signet," by Augusta Huelil Seaman, is a thrilling mystery story for boys and girls, with a picturesque and historically accurate background in old New York. "The Little White Bird," by J. M. Barrie, is another lovely story by the author of "Peter Pan." "The January Girl," by Joslyn Gray, is for the junior girl and is a wholesome, interesting story.

The new novels selected for the city library are by well-known authors and include some gripping stories:

"The Imperial Marriage," by Gertrude Atherton, is the story of the great love of Aspasia and Pericles in an age where all women were held in an almost Oriental dependence. "The Black Knight," by Ethel M. Dell, is the tale of a girl understood by no one, a creature of moods, who finds her needed influence in the Black Knight. "More Ports, More Happy Places," by Cornelia Stratton Parker, is the account of further adventures of an American mother, her daughter, and sons in Europe.

"Fortitude," by Hugh Walpole, is a story into which the writer puts much intensity of thought and conviction in dealing with a great subject. "Pilgrims," by Ethyl Maun, is an intriguing romantic tale on par with the author's novels "Sons and Lovers" by D. H. Lawrence, is one of the most interesting of twentieth cen-

Does Advertising Pay?

Fremont Herald: Does advertising pay? If not, why would $5,000 national advertisers have spent the stupendous sum of $235,000,000 for newspaper and magazine advertising during the year 1926?

Note that the men at the head of these great concerns are the sharpest and shrewdest of figures. They don't spend a dollar without the best kind of reason for believing that the expenditure is going to pay.

Some 300 of these leading space buyers spent a little less than half of the total sum spent for newspaper and magazine advertising last year, or $109,317,000.

Chevrolet Motor company headed the list with an outlay of $3,122,000, while the Reynolds and American Tobacco companies ran a close race for the second and third places, with $2,500,000 and $2,435,000, respectively. At least two other tobacco concerns came in for nearly $2,000,000 each.

Dodge Bros. and Willys-Overland followed Chevrolet among the motor concerns with appropriations of $1,800,000 and $1,500,000, while Ford spent $400,000. These figures, of course, do not include advertising done by local dealers on their own account.

And an additional fact with reference to this gigantic national expenditure for advertising that's worth noting is that a large portion of it was distributed among the weekly newspapers of America, which the heads of these great advertising concerns have begun to openly proclaim as the most efficacious advertising mediums in the country.

There is a reason, of course, why leading advertisers recognize weekly newspapers as among the very best of advertising mediums. It is a readily recognized fact that people read home weekly newspapers more thoroughly than they read newspapers of more frequent issue. The home weekly newspaper, as a rule, is nearer and dearer to its readers than any other kind of

Allen Home Burns

Allen, Neb., July 15.—The farm home of Joe Bennett, three miles west of Allen, was destroyed by fire. Although the cause of the fire is not known, it is thought the kitchen stove exploded, throwing burning embers over the room, for when the fire was discovered just a few minutes after Mr. and Mrs. Bennett had left the house to do some work at the barns, the entire west wall of the building was a mass of flames.

Two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett were asleep in an adjoining room and barely escaped.

Nothing was saved from the house.

Seed Harvest Is Large At Wayne

The Nebraska Seed Company of Omaha, secured 92,000 pounds of baled blue grass and about 30,000 pounds of baled in the vicinity of Wayne this year. This is the second year the company has worked here but the yield just harvested is much greater than for the preceding year.

Three outfits worked for three weeks with five seed strippers in each crew to harvest the crop. The seed was sacked as the heads were stripped off, and two trucks were employed in hauling the sacks to town. The heads were spread out in windrows on the Marcus Kroger lots one block south of the depot, and six men were kept at work turning them to assist in the drying process. When sufficiently dry, three windrows were combined and placed closer together for protection in case of heavy rains. Ordinarily the heads are re-sacked for shipment but owing to the scarcity of sacks, they were baled with a common hay-baler. After the baling was completed the remaining odds and ends were gathered up by means of specially designed rakes and brooms, and sacked for shipping.

The seed must be threshed, fanned and cleaned upon reaching Omaha. There are but three or four machines in the United States for this purpose, including the one owned and operated by the Nebraska Seed company.

The grass seed harvested here is stored in the less than barns awaiting shipment. The machinery used is also stored in Wayne.

Farmers from whose property the seed was taken, were paid one dollar per acre. There is no loss to the farmer as only the heads are taken from the pastures. It is estimated that local laborers were paid $2,000 for work done for the company.

When business flags a little, some people are bent on exchanging condolences. The better way is to stimulate effort and pump fresh oxygen into the critter.

The hardest work in the world is to think earnestly, and that is the reason only enough of it is done to enable a fellow to get by. Most of us just let our minds coast.

If business interferes with sports and fun, cut out the business; some one suggests. "Make life long gala day, for when you're dead, you'll be dead forever," another adds.

The weather tuned in with an electrical storm Wednesday morning. No great damage was done, but the way the lightning flashed and expressed itself made one think he had had a narrow escape.

Another thing we are thankful for is that we are not in line to become head of Roumania to succeed King Ferdinand who died Wednesday. The job would be harder and more perilous than running a newspaper.

Different Nebraska towns are providing talent from local fields for their chautauques this year, thus doing away with the cost of shipping with outside organizations. Every community has plenty of good talent, and by proper selection a series of attractive programs may be arranged.

An official census report just issued from Washington says Nebraska has gained 11,000 in population during the past year. There is still room for more people in Nebraska, and especially are opportunities for investment and industry attractive in the northeast part, which is comparatively new, but which is wonderfully rich in agricultural resources.

Editor F. D. Stone of the Hartington Herald, discourses long and learnedly in his last issue on the value of vacations, and we are listening to hear him flutter away to some mountain recess for leisure and recreation. We are planning to meet him there. One of the enjoyments of the vacation which he overlooked, is the profound relief felt on returning home and getting back into the accustomed harness.

Arthur Brisbane says that while he spend two billions of dollars per year on education, being more than on any other government function, we only spend for that purpose about half what we pay for cigarettes. He says people want the best cigarettes and that they have to pay for them. He adds that when they want the best possible public education they will be willing to pay ten instead of two billions for it.

Congressman Edgar Howard goes to Paris next month to attend as a delegate a conference of the interparliamentary union. As to going, the congressman suggests: Reason an American from the prairies may become pretty lonely.

RED. N. Webster and others pronounced red a fundamental color. Like concrete, it makes a sound base. Like a conflagration, it flames and shouts. It is vehement, and it uses powerful language if occasion requires and social ethics do not interfere. Achilles wore and saw red at the battle of Troy. The pillar of fire that assisted Moses in piloting the Israelites through the wilderness by night was red, and it never failed in its redness through all the vicissitudes of that harrowing trip. The landscape everywhere is dotted with red barns, because red is durable, will not fade, ravel or run down at the heel. Some bulls are red; others that are not red, become enraged when they see red. We think Apis, the sacred bull worshipped by the Egyptians at Memphis, was red, although one authority, whom we doubt, suggests that it was black. "We are told that as a premonitory symptom of the final wind-up of all things earthly the sun will turn red, looking more like one of our flannel shirts hanging up, to dry, than like the soft flush of a ripening peach. Red has been a popular color through all the ages, and has been the favorite color since the end of time."

south in France." Then the World-Herald observes: "Let Edgar be of good cheer. No place in the world is better designed to banish loneliness and dull care than the capital he is to visit next month."

An impartial observation of results will show that advertising in a newspaper which is popularly taken and carefully read, is far superior to that done through circulars or bills. In live communities of the north, many bills are shipped into wastebaskets or stoves and do a large waste of paper and postage. People pay for a newspaper because they want it, and thus they read it with interest and profit. They follow its advertising columns which serve their advantage in buying supplies.

The presidential boom for ex-Governor Lowden does not greatly excite us in view of the strong points in favor of President Coolidge who is likely to be a candidate for renomination. Coolidge may not smile for part his hair to suit some people, but he acts from honest conviction, and his judgment is usually sound. He does not deal in fireworks or grandiloquence, but he is quiet, positive and sincere. His sojourn in the Black Hills will bring him closer to western people and advance mutual understanding. It would be difficult to find serious fault with his record.

Alanson B. Houghton, ambassador to Great Britain, declares in favor of submitting to the people for vote any proposition looking to war, and he believes such means of settling disputes will usually prevent armed conflict. "If the danger of war is to be lessened," he says, "a sufficient measure of control, it seems to me, can be obtained only when the self-governing peoples definitely and constitutionally take the decision into their own hands." He points out that people have shown competence in governing themselves, and sees no reason why they should not exercise authority in the matter of determining the need of war. They should be allowed a voice in proceedings of such serious and far-reaching consequences. If the peoples of nations engaged in differences were permitted to express themselves, doubtless peaceful settlements would follow and the horror of the deadly battle field would be averted. Winners in any war are tremendous losers. Responsibility should rest on the people who have to do the fighting and who have to furnish the cash resources. Then in case of war every person and every dollar should be peremptorily drafted for the purpose. That arrangement would have a wholesome influence on the whole.

Auto Fatalities. Lincoln Journal: An analysis of 21,000 deaths from automobiles in 1925 made by the National Safety council shows that in 33.66 percent of the cases the drivers did not have right of way; other causes found were: speeding 16.58 percent; on wrong side of street, 10.50 percent; failed to signal, 7.24; cutting in, 6.78; cutting left corners, 6.78; backing, 6.68; passing standing street car, 2.68; runaway cars, 1.75; driving through safety zones, 1.34; passing on wrong side, 1.24; and passing on curve or hill, .88 percent. The amazing thing about the figures reveal is that in 84.8 percent of these accidents which resulted fatally, the driver was violating a traffic ordinance. It is almost unbelievable that 10.50 percent of these fatalities were caused, primarily, by motorists driving on the wrong side of the road. There is no excuse for this offense.

The remaining 15.2 percent of the fatalities, although not occurring while the motorist was violating a traffic rule, are due to carelessness in a degree. Runaway cars are due to carelessness in setting the brakes or having them properly attended to. Backing in such a manner as to cause a fatal accident may be due to carelessness on the part of the motorist. Driving off the roadway may be due to careless driving or defects in the road. Passing on a curve or hill may or may not be illegal, but at best it is a dangerous practice. The small number of fatal accidents attributed to this cause is surprising. Judging from these figures one might say that if the traffic laws were strictly enforced, and citizens were law abiding, the accident problem would be solved. Carelessness is as destructive an evil as law breaking. How to combat it is a difficult problem.

Business. Sioux City Journal: The present lull in midsummer activity, felt over a wide area, may be indicative of the sure approach to a normal business condition in this country. Not for some years had seen all changes run true to precedent until last winter there was a noticeable decline in a sufficient number of lines to suggest a gradual return to the old order. Now with the summer lull seen, it begins to appear that the business pendulum is to swing as it used to do, slowly or rapidly according to the times and their influence. The phenomenon is not at all mysterious in any sense, whether one considers the disappearance of the seasonal decline, or the seasonal return. After the world war until the present year American business was engaged in the great task of reconstruction. It may be recalled that a building program never before known in history ran through a number of years when prices of material and labor were extremely high. It was an intensive building campaign that was carried on and it did not stop because of seasons or anything else. Other business conditions were so favorable that, finally it came to be known that the new American prosperity

CHILDREN. We are surprised and pained by the reflection of the dean of men of the University of Illinois who, childless at the age of 65, expresses doubt as to the advisability of bringing children into the world. He is of the opinion that the attending comfort is not warranted by the sacrifice. If all people entertained his selfish view, the dean would in time have no students to teach and the world would become depopulated. Well raised children fully justify the work and responsibility involved, as most parents will testify. The one who passes into helpless old age without the sustaining sympathy of near kin, is most fortunate. Children are an inspiration to effort and accomplishment. They aid in making one want to be better and do better. They lighten footsteps and impart courage to weary souls. Without children, the world would be a dreary place. The Illinois college dean ought to make closer inquiry.

Two Decades Ago. Hartington Herald: Just about two decades ago this week, come to think about it, that the present publishers of The Herald took charge of the paper. The thought is rather impressive for a retrospective view reveals many and marvelous changes in that period. We recall that it was hot—very hot—when we arrived on the scene and our first impression as we stepped off the main line at Wakefield, was waited for a mixed train, carrying cattle and hogs, to bring us to our destination, was not altogether favorable. And it was rather hard sledding for a good many months after that with many obstacles and discouragements to surmount, but one by one they were overcome and The Herald has prospered even beyond our dreams. Those were the "hand set" days when everything was done slowly and laboriously, but all that is changed now and the old methods have all been supplanted by the most modern and up to date machinery. The Herald of 1927 would have been an impossibility 20 years ago and the progress noted in the history of the paper has been duplicated in the history of the town. The Herald and Hartington have grown up together and most of the important improvements have taken place during the period referred to. Today people are kind enough to assure us that The Herald takes high rank among the newspapers of the state and the publishers appreciate the cooperation of the community which has helped win success. In no idle spirit of boasting, but with a deepening sense of responsibility and an ever increasing ambition for greater things, we turn the leaf, hoping that the next two decades in The Herald's history may record still larger achievements than the last.

Market Report. Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards. Sioux City Stock Yards, July 21. —The advance guard of western range cattle put in its appearance at this center on the opening day of the week. Receipts included some cattle from western North Dakota, Nebraska and the Missouri river territory in South Dakota. Cattle will be coming from the range country in larger numbers each week from now on. Receipts here were heaviest of the season Monday, but other centers were moderately supplied. The 11 leading markets received 112,000 cattle the first two days of the week, a decrease of 11,600 compared with a week ago. Cornfed steers and yearlings made up a small portion of the early week supplies, but made up the major end later. Demand was fairly good and the market held practically steady. Some easiness was reported on plain grades. No fancy drylots have been offered so far this week and sales about $12.50 have been scarce. Choice weights cattle are quoted to $14.00 and yearlings to $13.00. Bulls of the fair to good steers sold at $10.50 to $12.00 this week with common lots ranging under $9.00. Cornfed cows and heifers have been offered in very limited numbers and prices have remained stationary. Good and choice yearling heifers were quoted at $11.00 to $2.00, with fair cows sold at $8.00 to $9.00. A few fairs sold at $8.00 to $9.50. Grass butcher stock was too plentiful on the opening day of the week and the market slipped nearly a quarter. However, prices were relatively high here compared with other leading centers last week and an adjustment was expected. Fair to good grass heifers sold at $7.00 to $8.25, with cows of the same caliber at $6.50 to $7.75. Low grade cows sold down to $5.75, with canners and butters largely at $4.00 to $5.50. The bull market did not change. Bulk of the bulls offered sold at $6.00 to $6.50, with light bolognas at the lower price. Veals continued to range at $6.00 to $12.50. A large supply of stockers and feeders was received on the first day of the week. Sellers had no trouble disposing of good and choice kinds at steady prices but had to peddle the plainer types at weak to a quarter lower rates. No $10.00 feeders were included in the week's sales, as they were made at $8.50 to $9.50, with both heavy and light cattle at the top price. Fair and medium grades brought $7.50 to $8.50 with common lots under $7.00. Few stock cows were handled. Sales were made at $4.50 to $5.50. Several loads of stock heifers were offered and sales ranged at $6.00 to $7.75. The hog market broke sharply last week, but played a comeback this week, as the price recovered with most of the decline covered. Shippers were small buyers at the close of last week and packers had orders to break the market. Receipts were short on the first two days of this week and demands were broad from all sources. The 11 leading markets received 180,000 hogs the first two days, a decrease of 32,500 compared with the previous week and little different compared with a year ago. Tops went above the $10 mark this week after stopping at $9.75 late last week. Light butchers sold at and near the top with strong and heavy weights around $8.50 to $9.25 and sows at $7.75 to $8.25. The lamb market suffered a severe decline on the second day of the week when receipts increased sharply. Lambs broke to a top at $13.00 as against $14.00 last week. Ewes held steady, owing to the small number on hand. The best were quoted at $6.25.

Comparison. The Rear Seat in Sioux City Journal: New York welcomed Lindbergh because it was bursting with a desire to let itself loose; it welcomed the other Atlantic fliers out of a sense of duty. Receptions were arranged along the same general lines, but there was little resemblance between the highly decorous and somewhat formal affairs of this week and the riot of enthusiasm that marked the arrival of Lindbergh. The throngs that turned out to see Lindbergh would have held their places against a second Johnstown flood. The comparatively few folks who lined up to see the fliers who had followed him across the Atlantic allowed, themselves to be driven to cover by a momentary fall of rain. While the committee in charge went through the motions of reception everything about it lacked the zip that characterized the welcome to Lindbergh. Even the newspapers, which are supposed to have in stock an inexhaustible supply of black type, exclamation points and other equipment for thrilling the cock-eyed world, could not muster up any great show of excitement. None of which is to be taken as a reflection on the brave fliers or as lack of appreciation of their achievement. It simply means that, for the present, at least, folks are pretty well fed up on transoceanic hopping, and that, unless somebody somehow or other, can think up some way of outdoing Lindbergh, there is little chance for other fliers getting much of a demonstration out of the American public.

To Encourage Poets. Lincoln Journal: A poetry exhibition has been suggested by a reader of the New York Times, as a means of stimulating encouraging unknown poets. There are places in Greenwich Village where poets read their work, but she charges it made that unknown poets are discriminated against unless belonging to a certain clique. The idea offered is that a place be selected where unknown writers may display their work, much as a painting is "hung" in an art gallery. This method would give more room for displaying works of poets of the village. Perhaps the juvenile crime wave may be attributed to the passing of the woodshed. — Florence (Ala.) Herald. FLYING SOMERSAULT IS 'PIE' FOR 70-YEAR-OLD CHICAGO MAN. ACROBATIC stunts that he learned more than half a century ago were part of the 70th birthday program of Irving K. Pond, well-known Chicago architect and writer. At an age when most men would enjoy gathering their relatives about them and celebrating quietly at the fireside, Mr. Pond "gave a show" and became a nimble-footed boy again. Somersaults, head springs, snappings, springboard somersaults, the catwheel and other acrobatic stunts were part of this extraordinary birthday party. Pond gave his unique exhibition on the roof of a Y. M. C. A. building in Chicago. He has been a member of the Central Y since 1879 and exercises daily in its gymnasium. Following his stunts, Pond was presented with a huge basket of flowers by the Y. When Mr. Pond was 35 years old he made up his mind that when he got to be 40 he would quit the acrobatics which made him a feature of the reunions of the University of Michigan's class of 1879, since the reunions began. But on his fortieth birthday he changed his mind. The lure of doing his flying somersaults and hand springs proved too strong. So he has kept right on. Birthdays really mean nothing to Mr. Pond. Forty-eight years ago he made the first and only touchdown in the University of Michigan's first intercollegiate game, played at the White Stocking park on the lake front in Chicago against Racine college. At the end of that game he turned 24 back somersaults down the field to celebrate the victory. "Continued acrobatics keep my body in constant good trim and give me a steady nerve," he said. "The sense of control and of co-ordinated muscular movement is always present. Exercise of this kind is highly invigorating to the mind and nerves. Games of ball and golf are nothing compared to the value of acrobatics."

Contract For Gravel On Three Projects

Norfolk News, July 15.—Contracts on three gravel projects in northeast Nebraska are being let today at Wausa by the state department of public works. Two of the projects are between Niobrara and Centet; one being on a stretch five and one-tenth miles in length, and the other on a job six and two-tenths miles. A three-inch coat of gravel will be placed on highway No. 12 on which both projects have been outlined. The third gravel project is on a four-mile stretch located between Pierce and Wausa on highway No. 81 or the Meridian highway. About one-third of the twelve-mile project west of Madison on the Newman Grove road is completed. This earthwork job connects with the one completed on the road that runs five miles north and three east of Newman Grove. Good roads advocates in that section hope 1928 will see a gravel coating on that highway. On account of a small construction force, the graveling on the one and one-half mile gap on North Thirteenth Street is progressing slowly. This job when finished will provide travelers going between Pierce and Norfolk with a continuous stretch of gravel.

Parik at Homer. Homer, Nebr., July 15.—A piece of land owned by the town of Homer has been filled on a contract held by Ed. Krause. The grounds are being converted into a town park. The park movement is being sponsored by the Homer Woman's club, which is putting in concrete flower beds and is planning to erect benches and tables for pic-nickers. The club also will plant grass and shrubs.

Put a McCormick-Deering at the POWER END of the BELT

The belt-work season is here again. Now the belt will come into play on many jobs and you will want dependability at both ends of it. At one end the machines will change many times in a year, but the same tractor must stand steady and ready with plenty of power through it all. Thresher, ensilage cutter, husker and shredder, feed grinder, hay press, wood saw, etc.—all are idle and helpless without power. The best of them are only as good as the power is. When the power is inadequate the machine is weak and inefficient. When the power is faulty, the job may be bungled, valuable time lost, and part of the crop value sacrificed.

Assurance of ample power and steady operation in belt work—as in all drawbar work and all power take-off work—lies in McCormick-Deering Tractor ownership. International Harvester tractor design has always given 100 per cent attention to the requirements for belt power. Study the 15-30, the 10-20, or the new Farmall, and you will see. Look at the big wide belt pulley; note its correct position, parallel with the wheels, ready for instant location in the belt. Note the throttle governor, which keeps the speed uniform, saving fuel and saving wear. Set the tractor on a belt-work job and leave it—you can always depend on a McCormick-Deering to run unattended all day long.

The Farmall is the new all-purpose McCormick-Deering, designed to handle planting and cultivating of corn and other row crops along with all other power work. This view shows the belt pulley. Farmall is perfectly fitted for belt work.

There is great and lasting satisfaction and pride of ownership in the standard farm power, the 4-cylinder tractors known the world over as McCormick-Deering. Your choice among these three quality tractors—15-30, 10-20, and the Farmall. See them at the dealer's store.
