Nebraska Chickens Make Good Record

Lincoln, Nebr., July 22.—An average of $1.10 net receipts for every $1 expenses has been received during the past eight months by Nebraska record flock owners, the monthly report of J. R. Reddit, state poultry extension agent of the agricultural college here showed today. The past eight months were the best months of the year for production. Laying will fall off during the next four. The average number of eggs per hen in the state was near 70, while the record flocks in eight months had an average of 91.2. Part of the record flocks were trap-nested and the owner found this was the only sure method of getting the "loafers." Two hundred and two flocks owners turned in records on their hens, all of which were standard bred poultry. The total number of hens represented was 26,027. The Nebraska record flocks are started each year about November 1, and are a project of the Nebraska extension service. The object of the flocks is to stimulate greater interest, produce better poultry and bring about more efficient methods of management. The flocks also demonstrate by actual home records the value of more careful selecting, breeding and management and show the poultryman how to increase the profits from farm poultry stocks. In addition, poultry flocks are developed throughout the state in which better breeding and production qualities can be secured for distribution wherever improved stock is desired. Mr. Reddit emphasized the necessity of providing fresh ground, shade, cleanliness, comfortable quarters, proper and regular feeding and plenty of fresh clean water for poultry flocks. Now is also a good time to cull slow developing, unfathered chicks, he said. It is said, he pointed out, that there is a distinct and clean-cut correlation between early feathering and high vitality and therefore slow feathering means slow development.

In three years Mr. Harms will be able to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary as pastor of one congregation. Business.
Sioux City Journal: An improvement in general business conditions in the agricultural area is indicated. There already has been a perceptible recovery from the seasonal slump, which, while not marked, was felt in some lines. It looks now as though this recovery will gain momentum steadily for the next six or eight weeks, which will bring a close approach to the harvest and create a brighter outlook for fall and winter activity. Much of what improvement has been noted is due to a psychological condition. The freakish weather of late spring and early summer was discouraging. In the corn belt there was much disquiet because of anxiety over the crop outlook. The prospect was not bright. Planting was late, the weather was cool, and corn was given just an outside chance to win through. This situation made an unfavorable impression on trade. The merchants felt it, and so did others. All lines were affected, the only difference being in degree. Then came a change in weather conditions, and likewise, a change in the general viewpoint. Ideal weather for growing crops arrived before the end of June, and it has continued without a letup. Corn reacted wonderfully to the abundant moisture in the ground and the higher temperatures, with much of it being up to the knee high schedule by the fourth of July. Corn planted late has improved amazingly in the last three weeks. Never has it shown better color or more sturdiness and growth. So the corn belt will have good corn after all. It will not be a banner year for corn in any of the leading corn belt states, but there is a promise of grain of good quality. Possibilities of peril are still considered, of course. Hail, wind, drought and early frosts may present a tantalizing yet to be run by the farmers. But, given a normal weather condition from now until the middle of September, and the corn crop will be good. This is expected, too. High temperatures have been pretty consistent for the last five weeks.

A professional man, a physician, observed that he had noted a change in the view point of many persons. One might suppose that the practice of medicine and surgery was not affected by such things as crop conditions. But it is. The physicians said the people were "having work done" now which they had "put off" because of their anxiety earlier in the season. So, with the view point becoming more cheerful, general business is confidently expected to show a steady and decided improvement henceforth.

Used in Summer White House. O. S. Roberts, whose advertisement describing the Kohler Automatic Electric Plants, appears in another part of this paper has informed us that two E. K. W. Kohler Automatic Electric Plants are being used to supply electric light and power to the State Game Lodge in the Black Hills of South Dakota, where President and Mrs. Coolidge are spending their vacation.

These two plants supply electricity for the main lodge, which has thirty-two rooms, and also for other buildings, thirty-five of them in all. Among these are the homes for the Superintendent of the Park and the game keeper; the Governor's cottage and the cottage occupied by Senator Norbeck; garage, stables, mess hall, filling station, public camp, and various out-buildings.

Also Using Two Farm-size Plants
In addition to these two 5 K. W. Kohler Electric Plants, two of the 1500 watt, popularly known as Model D, have been installed to supply electricity in buildings located quite a long distance from the main lodge.

Thousands of these 1500 watt plants are in use on farms throughout the United States. They are of a size which will supply plenty of electric light and which also furnish power with which to drive milking machines, water systems, cream separators, washing machines, electric irons, and many other labor-saving devices and electric household appliances.

No Large Storage Batteries.
All Kohler Automatic Electric Plants are equipped with the patented Kohler Automatic switch, which makes a large set of storage batteries unnecessary. Only a small starting battery is used. They generate 110 volt current, the same voltage as is supplied in city homes.

Kohler Plants were first placed on the market about seven years ago and have established an enviable record for dependable and economical service. They are manufactured by the Kohler Co. of Kohler, Wisconsin, who are known throughout the world by their trade name, "Kohler of Kohler." This company was established in 1873 and is one of the leading manufacturers of plumbing fixtures as well as Electric Plants.

Mr. Roberts says that what's good enough for President Coolidge is certainly good enough for the people in this vicinity who do not as yet have electricity in their homes. He has been busy calling on people in this country and already has made quite a number of installations. He will be pleased to explain the services of the Kohler Plants to all who do not as yet have electric service available. j281t.

Easier Ironing—Better Ironing—Quicker Ironing

That's what the Coleman Iron means to you. It makes ironing a more pleasant task. Its large, smooth, highly polished surface glides over the crinkles and wrinkles and causes them to disappear as if by magic. And when the ironing is finished you note with pleasure each perfectly laundered piece—so quickly done, so beautifully done and with so little effort.

The Hot Point, too, helps you to do better ironing. It slips into the gathers and puckers and smooths the wrinkles that are always so hard to iron. And the heat can always be instantly regulated to just the temperature you want—for the softest and daintiest garments or for the heaviest household ironing.

The Cool Blue Handle is never overheated because it is protected by a two-piece asbestos lined ventilated lid. In summer you can iron in the coolest room or out on the shaded porch. You are not confined to a hot stuffy kitchen.

And the one iron does all the work. No changing of handles; no changing of irons. The Coleman is ready for use in five minutes. No need to keep a hot fire going in the kitchen range because the Coleman heats itself.

The Coleman Iron does more happiness in your housework—gives you more time for leisure—keeps you young. Use the Coleman and forget your ironing day troubles.

We do not relish prize fights or any other kind. We do not relish seeing punishment administered.

Any one knows that profanity is not needed to bolster up and enrich the English language.

An encouraging note is sounded in South Dakota. The state patrol officer there says crime is on the decrease as evidenced by the fact that the number of prisoners in the penitentiary at Sioux Falls is steadily growing less.

Each advertiser in the special edition to be issued by the Herald August 11 is entitled to a reasonable number of extra copies free.

The House of David whiskers, distinguishing a baseball team by that name, carried in town this week.

The prognosticator who predicted a cool summer and immature crops, ought to have a job with a threshing crew here this week.

One field of barley, just threshed in this county, has turned out over forty bushels to the acre, and the quality is reported good.

Mrs. Anne U. Stillman might have been sensible and ornament to society if she had been hard up and compelled to work and save.

MISJUDGMENT The tragedy of misjudgment has caused much needless distress in the world.

A few grass steers sold to packers this week and sales on odd lots were recorded as high as $10.

Grass butcher stock had advanced mostly 10 to 15c since last week.

Veals dropped 50c to $1.00 this week in line with reports from other centers.

A fairly large assortment of stockers and feeders was received Monday but supplies have been short since that day.

some bumps, but they managed to secure enough pictures to interest the curious public.

We have received a lot of thrills from a review of Sunday's Lincoln Journal which issued an extraordinary newspaper on that day in celebration of its sixtieth anniversary.

The Journal was founded by Charles H. Gere immediately following location of the state capital at Lincoln.

Mr. Gere was known as a man of broad vision and a writer of clear expression and incisive wit.

For thirty-seven years and until his death in 1904, his dynamic force permeated the management and shaped the policies of the Journal.

He has had most worthy and capable successors whose abilities were enriched and stimulated by association with the founder.

Contributions to the issue by Will Owen Jones, editor-in-chief, and Dr. A. L. Bixby, poet-philosopher, and other members of the staff form an inspiring record of struggles and triumphs.

The story of the beginning and growth of J. C. C. Seever in the business of the Journal reads like a piece of fiction.

He was a man of foresight and many impulses, and as suggested, his judgment was more often right than wrong.

Frank L. Williams, managing editor, has been connected with the Journal for thirty years, and we remember when he was pointed out to us as a great power for valuable achievement.

All departments are in thoroughly competent hands, and the result is a metropolitan newspaper of highest standards.

News and editorial features, win popularity, and they are the basis for business volume developed by carefully trained heads.

A history of the Journal's growth is a history of the steady advance of Nebraska and of Lincoln.

It has been a signal force in the onward and upward movement of the civilization of the state.

COURTING YOUTH. Editor J. H. Walsh of the Auburn Republican whips up his courage and fights off the shadows with this observation:

Bro. Huse of The Wayne Herald joins with Will Maupin of the Bee-News in passing a law to outlaw the cannon fire cracker.

"Bill" says it is peril to life and limb and peace of mind, and Bro. Huse says that a law prohibiting its manufacture would meet with popular endorsement.

When you get too old to enjoy a circus or the noise of a Fourth of July and little four-inch crackers you are drifting into the class of the senile.

Thus, we would expect Editor Walsh to smile in the face of a bursting bomb or suffer a hand to be blown into the next county by an exploding firecracker.

In order to show that he is young, but we doubt if a carnival of flying Fourth of July shrapnel is necessary to prove that one is full of youthful emotions, and we would recommend to the editor some less dangerous way of establishing evidence.

Market Report. Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.

Sioux City Stock Yards, July 28.—Live stock markets carried a good undertone so far this week and advances were scored on most departments of the trade.

ABUSING CREDIT. While it is the part of wisdom not to ask for credit beyond one's means to pay, it is quite as important for the one who extends credit, to ascertain the basis for it.

Some people have chronic habits of buying things on time—often things they do not need. They acquire possessions with a small payment down, and then they struggle and sweat blood to make payments.

Sometimes they succeed, sometimes they have to give up, and they lose what they have invested, and down goes their commercial rating.

Like an automobile, credit is valuable and often necessary if it is not abused. But stretched to the breaking point, it is ruinous.

The individual who seeks credit and the one who extends it, are guilty of dangerous business indiscretion if they do so blindly.

for the right type. Fair and medium steers sold at $7.00@8.00 with common lots down to $6.00.

Stack cows sold at $4.50@5.50, the same as last week. Bulk of the heifers sold at $6.25@7.25 with choice white faces quoted at $8.00.

Broad demands were noted for all classes of hogs on the first day of the week and the market advanced sharply.

Shippers continued to pay strong prices on the following day but packers held out for lower prices.

Butchers have been moving along with lights and sows this week but were in very dull demand all last week.

Light hogs topped at $10.80 on the second day of the week, the highest price in over three months.

Good lights sold above $10.00; butchers, all the way from $8.50 to $10.00 and sows $7.75@8.25.

Present conditions in the hog situation favor an advance in prices of well finished medium and light hogs during August and September.

Light hogs advanced $1.25 during July and sows advanced 75c per hundred.

Lambs up 50c this week and topped at $13.75 on the second day. Ewes held steady with the best at $6.50.

Swedish Mission Church. (Rev. John G. Nelson, pastor) Sunday school at 10 a. m. Morning worship at 11. Rev. E. Wallin has consented to preach at the morning service. In the evening we join in the union service held at the Lutheran church. Wednesday, mid-week service at 8 p. m. Friday, choir rehearsal at 8 p. m. The pastor left Monday morning for a visit in Minnesota. He expects to be back the first Sunday in August.

Methodist Church Notes. (Rev. F. Farner, pastor) Preaching services at the regular hour of worship next Sunday. No preaching service at our church in the evening, as we will unite in the union services under the auspices of the Community Welfare association at the Swedish Lutheran church. Plans are going forward for the tent meeting to be held on the church lawn August 18 to 28. We hope that vacations, and the most urgent farm work will be out of the way so that the largest possible good might be derived from these services. Watch for further announcement.

The Epworth League is planning a special program and luncheon next Sunday evening at the Pleasant Valley church.

Pleasant Valley Church Notes. Regular services every Sunday morning at 9:30. We appreciate the splendid attendance of young people and hope that we can develop special musical numbers for these programs. There will be special services at the church next Sunday evening at 8 p. m. The Epworth League of Wakefield, are planning to come in a body and extend an urgent invitation to the young people of Pleasant Valley to join with them in a picnic supper and devotional meeting. The Luncheon supper is called for 6:30 p. m., followed by the evening's devotions led by members of the League.

Salem Lutheran Church. (Rev. J. A. Martin, pastor) Swedish communion, 10-10 a. m. English communion, 11:30 a. m. Sunday school, 10:30 a. m. Next Saturday the Junior Mission band meets in the church parlors at 2:30, entertained by the David Nimrod, Ed. Sandahl, Jr., and Henry Ruback children.

The board of deacons will meet Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock. Next Sunday communion services in the morning and in the evening the Welfare association will sponsor the meeting when the Rev. E. Wallin of Chicago, will speak. Monday, August 1, the vacation bible school will begin with Clarence Withenstrom of Rock Island, as teacher. A room in the public school building will be used. We are looking for a good attendance again this year. The school will be held from 9 to 12 a. m., five days each week.

The pastor and family will spend the month of August for their vacation. In the meantime Mr. Withenstrom will be in full charge of all the services.

The Dorcas society will be held next Wednesday in the city park. This will be the annual picnic and all the members will be solicited for the refreshments.

The young man who was here last week from the Augustana book concern, succeeded in procuring forty-one new subscriptions for our church papers. We rejoice over this good work.

First Presbyterian Church. (Rev. Stephen E. Yemm, pastor) Next Sunday will be my farewell services at the Wakefield church. The last service always comes as a man's last day will come on earth. No man can come to the end of a pastorate where he has been for nearly five years and know that his church relationship will be severed without feeling the throbs of emotion in his soul. So next Sunday morning my message will be "The Open Doors." There will be fitting music for the occasion.

We appreciate the splendid solos sung by Austin Vickery of Omaha, and C. C. Cochran of California last Sunday. Mr. Cochran led the song service for us Sunday evening. He used to be one of our Sabbath school boys.

In the evening there will be a union service at the Lutheran church under the auspices of the Wakefield Welfare association, Rev. E. Wallin of Chicago, will give the address. This will be a worthwhile meeting, and you will be wise to attend. This, too, will be the last opportunity of meeting with the Welfare association of which it has been our privilege to have a part.

We leave by automobile Monday, August 1, for Cuba, Ill., and after spending our vacation among our friends and relatives we will go to our new field of labor at Knoxville, Ill., which is about forty miles from our home and begin work September 1. Knoxville is a little city of close to 2000 people and is the center of Galesburg. There is a girls' college there and many of the students of Knox and Lombard colleges of Galesburg live there. But new surroundings and interests will not erase old friends from our lives and we will be glad to see any of our old friends at any time.

The boy scouts had their last meeting with their old scoutmaster last Monday evening at the Harry Brittain home and no better meeting has been held. Walter Bowman took Mr. Koeker's place and gave the first aid test. The boys did the mile walk and run, running fifty steps, then walking fifty, which is required in second class work. Then they built fire with one match (some used more) and cooked a quarter of a pound of beefsteak and roasted two potatoes without cooking utensils. This was interesting and their meal, interspersed with cookies and coffee given by Mrs. Brittain, made a very appetizing one. After telling stories around the camp fire and a word of goodbye by the scoutmaster, camp was made and we slept peacefully until morning. A group of thirteen were present. I appreciate very much the cooperation of everyone who has helped in any way to make the scout troop possible and trust that it will go on to be a great character building organization which it must ever be.

Service.

York Republican: A newspaper man had an errand at a drug store one warm, summer day. While visiting with the proprietor of the store at the soda fountain, two little girls came in and asked for a drink of water. The druggist pointed out to them the fountain at the curb on the sidewalk in front of the store. A few hours later the newspaper man was in the store of another druggist. A little girl came in and timidly asked the fountain clerk for a drink. He rinsed out a glass, put a spoonful of chipped ice into it, drew a glass of sparkling water from the fountain and handed it to the little girl who drained it and thanked him profusely.

Which of these stores do you say was giving service? The first one was proceeding on the theory of "no sale—no service." The other was proceeding on the policy of "service first—sales afterwards." Following the two policies over a period of years and to their logical trade conclusion, the result is obvious—the business of one store increases, the other stands still or declines.

Service is that extra value or attention beyond what one is obligated to give that invests a transaction with added pleasure. It is the surplus of courtesy that sticks to a business exchange and makes it also an exchange of friendship. It is the excess of attention that makes a customer know he is wanted and appreciated and the merchant feel he is giving a full value with every sale.

The gasoline stations have learned the importance of giving service. At the successful one when a car drives up a courteous attendant fills the radiator, wipes off the windshield, fills the tires, if they need it and takes pay only for gas and oil. If he is only an employee who has been told he must render the added service, he will discover, if he watches, that patrons come back and bring a smile for him when they come.

No one should encourage or defend the policy of giving away merchandise to sell other merchandise. That is neither good business or good ethics. But it is good ethics and good business to give service—a service like that commended by the Master. "Crossed down and running over." It is that quality injected into business transactions, that makes them surprising, pleasant and profitable.

Rumor has it that a number of Governments have informed Mr. Coolidge that if he will kindly lend them the money to build up a real Navy they will be glad to contribute with him later about cutting it down.—New York Times.

FALL FOR THIS CLUB? THERE ARE 33 MEMBERS AND THEIR MASCOT IS TRUSTY PARACHUTE

WHILE a crippled airplane was falling into a heap on McCook Field at Dayton, Ohio, a little over four years ago, its pilot was sailing smoothly down to earth and safety by means of his parachute.

At the same time, two newspapermen and an employee at the field were watching the fall with a sense of keen interest and amusement.

That incident and this watching group started a unique organization in aviation—the "Caterpillar Club." The pilot was Lieutenant H. R. Harris. The group consisted of M. H. St. Clair, who is still in the Parachute Unit at McCook Field, and the Dayton newspapermen, Verna Timmerman and Morris Hulton.

An Open Charter

The organization these men founded is the "Caterpillar Club," an outfit with an emblem, a membership and a principle, but without officers, constitution or by-laws. Even the emblem is unofficial and the membership is free for all dependent on only one qualification.

That is that only those are eligible to membership who have made safe landings from crippled airplanes by means of parachutes. Even St. Clair, the only surviving member of the three "founders," is vague on how they decided on the name "caterpillar." But the pilots at McCook Field have the notion that it compares the "winged" pilot with the caterpillar in the stage of attaining its wings.

Recognition

There is a slight tinge of official recognition of the "Caterpillar Club" by the government, in the collection of data at the flying section of the U. S. air corps at Dayton, pertaining to emergency parachute jumps, a short statement of the circumstances in each case and even a photograph of the person saved.

This may be considered the list of membership of the "Caterpillar Club." As far as these records show, there are now 33 "Caterpillars." Some have made more than one forced jump, so that the total

THREE HERDS OF ELEPHANTS

Quite Necessary for the Operation of the Circus—They Help to Unload.

The three herds of elephants—with Robbins Bros. Big 4-Ring Circus coming to Wayne on August 18 are not only worked in the four rings, but they assist in putting up the big tents. They also aid in getting the heavy wagons on and off the lot.

Without the elephants it would be a difficult task to move so big a circus, as the Robbins Bros.

In rainy weather, one or two of the big land animals are able to move a loaded wagon hub-deep in the mud, when sixteen horses would be unable to pull it an inch. Both species of elephants, Asiatic and African, are carried and all will appear in the free street parade given at noon.

McCormick-Deering THRESHERS

If you are on the market for a thresher, let us show you the famous McCormick-Deering product which is greatly improved and highly perfected. Included in regular equipment:

Combination tongue and stub pole. Self feeder, wind stacker. All belts except main driving belt to engine. Rockwood paper cylinder pulley, 9 1-4 inches in diameter with 8 1/2 inch face. One Chaffer sieve and extension. One Closz adjustable sieve for all grain. One weed screen for shoe bottom. Experience has enabled the making of many important improvements in this machine.

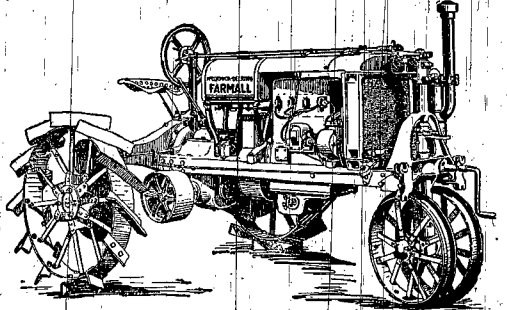

Put a McCORMICK-DEERING at the POWER END of the BELT

The belt-work season is here again. Now the belt will come into play on many jobs and you will want dependability at both ends of it. At one end the machines will change many times in a year, but the same tractor must stand steady and ready with plenty of power through it all.

Thresher, ensilage cutter, husker and shredder, feed grinder, hay press, wood saw, etc.—all are idle and helpless without power. The best of them are only as good as the power is. When the power is inadequate the machine is weak and inefficient. When the power is faulty, the job may be bungled, valuable time lost, and part of the crop value sacrificed.

Assurance of ample power and steady operation in belt work—as in all drawbar work and all power take-off work—lies in McCormick-Deering Tractor ownership. International Harvester tractor design has always given 100 per cent attention to the requirements for belt power. Study the 15-30, the 10-20, or the new Farmall, and you will see. Look at the big wide belt pulley; note its correct position, parallel with the wheels, ready for instant location in the belt. Note the throttle governor which keeps the speed uniform, saving fuel and saving wear. Set the tractor on a belt-work job and leave it—you can always depend on a McCormick-Deering to run unattended all day long.

The Farmall is the new all-purpose McCormick-Deering, designed to handle planting and cultivating of corn and other row crops along with all other power work. This view shows the belt pulley. Farmall is perfectly fitted for belt work.

There is great and lasting satisfaction and pride of ownership in the standard farm power, the 4-cylinder tractors known the world over as McCormick-Deering. Your choice among these three quality tractors—15-30, 10-20, and the Farmall. See them at the dealer's store.
