To Build Bridge

Temporary Structure Over Logan Will Be Placed While New One Is Constructed.

The state department of public works, at a meeting in Lincoln Friday, let a contract for an additional one-inch layer of gravel on the Wayne-Altona road to Mr. Schneider for 8.7c. The work will be done this fall.

Grading of a new road north of the railroad track and joining Winside on the west is another project on which bids were received from the state. No bid was received on the 1.8 miles of grading, but afterwards arrangement was made with George W. Condon for this work. Mr. Condon was awarded contract for the bridge work on this project, his bid being $7,781.50. This includes one 32-foot steel bridge and one 26-foot wooden bridge. Culvert work on the same project was awarded to the Norfolk Bridge & Construction Company for $2,016. This job will be completed the coming year.

The state department received bid at Winside August 25 on paving of the section of the highway passing through that town. One bid was entered and this was rejected. It is understood that the state and Winside will divide the cost of the pavement.

Contracts let Friday by the state department were on forty-five road projects and the work is estimated at $750,000. Others in northeast Nebraska are as follows:

SERVE ECONOMY BY BUYING FROM LOCAL DEALERS

It is perfectly natural and proper to go to big cities, look around the noise, qualities and prices, but you should reserve buying until you have inspected offerings in your home town. We have heard of people who have gone to the city even with the intention of buying, but who, on investigation, came back to take advantage of local supplies, finding they could save money on articles of equal value. The idea of being able to find in some large market place goods that are better or cheaper than those offered at home is usually disillusioned by unbiased investigation. Go to the big city to see if you choose, but give your home town a chance to figure on the things you need. If it costs less to buy a while at home, you gain while showing your conscientiousness with the wholesome idea of being loyal.

Half of Paving Project Done

With Favorable Weather Streets to Be Finished This Week in Southeast Wayne.

Work on Highway

Grading at Culverts Will Be Followed by Placing of Gravel North of Town.

Six of the eleven blocks of paving being laid in the southeast part of Wayne, were completed yesterday. With favorable weather the other five will be finished this week. Alleys in two business blocks will then be paved. Some fine grading is still to be done on the alleys. The paving project in Wayne will be completed early in September.

The city council met Tuesday evening in regular session, and a special meeting will be held Friday to transact business in regard to the paving work.

Work North of Wayne. Culvert work on the Wayne county sector of the Wayne-Lunell highway is completed and the grade near the culverts is now being put in shape for graveling. Workmen began at the county line about nine miles northwest and are coming toward Wayne. Yesterday they were grading on the east and west road near the George Beiger place. This is about half way on the project.

Four corners on the highway will be rounded. Work for this has not yet been started but it will progress soon.

When the grade is in shape, the Abel Construction company of Lincoln will start laying gravel. The corners will probably be finished last. It is estimated that the graveling will require about 400 trucks of gravel, and trucks will carry this from the Wayne railroad tracks to the road.

MORE COME HERE FOR SCHOOL IF WORK IS FOUND

We understand more students would come here to attend high school and the State Teachers College if they could find places to work for their board and lodging. A boy or girl who is thus anxious to work while getting an education, is likely to be good help and a desirable companion. Couples who are alone and who are advancing in years, would, we believe, be made to feel younger and happier by the presence of sprightly students in their homes. If there is not enough work to justify the cost, there is liberal compensation in knowing that one is giving aid to worthy and ambitious youth. In doing such good turns, one swells inside with a most comfortable feeling.

Giving the News.

Hartington Herald: Newspaper publishers are sometimes confronted with the unpleasant choice between giving news which may reflect more or less discreditably upon somebody and thus incur their ill will and suppressing the public. The average publisher has no desire to hurt or offend anybody—he would rather please; but, if he is conscientious, he will not discriminate. It is as much a newspaper's business to give the news fairly and impartially as it is the business of a court to administer justice and it were well that this fact should be more generally understood. People who would never think of attempting to influence the court or the orderly processes of the law assume the right to dictate or suggest to a newspaper what it shall or shall not publish in the way of news.

WINSIDE SCORES SUCCESS IN ITS ANNUAL PICNIC

The old settlers' annual picnic which is reported in the Herald's Winside department, is one of the largely attended and greatly enjoyed events of the year. For long time Winside has looked after the picnic, arranged its programs and shouldered all responsibility. Events are made appropriate to the occasion, and they are elaborate enough to satisfy all expectations. This year's picnic was no exception to the rule. Thousands gathered to imbibe the town's spirit of enterprise. Old and young listened to a recounting of early-day experiences with keenest relish. Will Maupin of the Omaha Bee-News, who is familiar with development of the state, was thoughtfully chosen to speak, and drawing from his large fund of reminiscences, he held the close attention of his big audience. Winside deserves much credit for managing the old settlers' picnic each year and thus materially helping to perpetuate memory of pioneer struggles and triumphs.

Big Attraction At Crystal Next Week Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in announcing John Gilbert in "The Big Parade," which will be presented at the Crystal theatre next week, suggest Gilbert as likely candidate for the suffrages of the fans as "greatest screen lover of all time." They point with pride to his Prince Danilo ("The Merry Widow"), his James Apperson ("The Big Parade"), his Rudolph ("La Boheme") and to his spectacular work in "Bardelys the Magnificent," "Flesh and the Devil" and "The Show." However, John Gilbert in his recent studio work has exhibited a larger virtuosity in the gentle art of inspiring romance than any other idol of the time. The Gilbert hair, eyes, profile, smile and figure are equally fascinating in all his protean changes. A New John Gilbert. A real surprise awaits the Gilbertian fan in "The Big Parade." His Make-up is the "mad pack" of the trenches. All the disfigurements of "active service" are realized. Those who have seen the picture say that begrimed and dirty he is just as easy to look at—and just as compelling—as when dandified. It might be mentioned that this new—and probably greatest—screen lover was born in Logan, Utah. He didn't leap to fame. He began his acting career at tender age with Eddie Foy. He was a juvenile lead after that in Western stock companies. Then he went into picture acting. He was a scenario writer for Maurice Tourneur, and later was a director. Then Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer took him up and made a star of him. There is little question that John Gilbert not only is the screen's newest and greatest lover, but also that he is one of the wholesomest, finest and most appealing in a contagiously wholesome way to his audiences. Renee Adoree is featured opposite Gilbert in this big King Vidor production of the Laurence Stallings story.

THE KNOT-HOLE No. 14 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, Sept. 1, 1927. Vol. 1 Many attempts have been made to imitate hardwood floors, but it can't be done successfully. Hardwood combines beauty with usefulness. Hardwood floors give the finishing touch of beauty to any room. An old person is a person who is twenty years older than you are. How many times have you needed a ladder in the last year? We have just exactly the "ladder" you need. A deaf woman sat down in a seat well to the front of the church and adjusting her ear trumpet, settled herself to listen to the sermon. The sexton "tipped up and leaning over her whispered, "One foot and out you go." If everybody in Wayne owned and lived in his own home, what effect would it have on the community? Good or bad? We know exactly what you'll say, and you'll be right, too. Carhart Lumber Co. "EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING WITH"

Don't Worry makes a better mother for a cookies instead of the butt of her cigarette. Have you ever thought about making an extra room or two in the attic? If you'll come in to see us, we'll tell you how this can be done with wallboard. It can be installed under any weather conditions, and at any time of year. It can be papered, painted, calcimined, or paneled; any decoration to suit your taste. We've just had an argument. How many brides in this community can quote the price of a barrel of flour? Mildner says there are just as many as there are in the rooms who can raise the price of one. Roof with our Very Best Stained Shingles — they'll last a lifetime. And they'll look good all that time, too. We are enthusiastic about CURTIS woodwork. We have been handling it here in Wayne and at our other yards for twenty years and it has made good. Not Guilty, Either. Fairbury News: When we begin to gain momentum in our slide toward the western slope, there will perhaps be few outstanding features in our life to afford us proud reflections. We never shouldered arms in defense of our country; we never led any great reform to a signal victory; we never performed an heroic act that merited a Carnegie medal; we never thrilled the multitudes with our oratory or astounded the world with our philanthropy. But when we indulge in retrospective fancy where the shadows longer grow, it will be gratifying and soul satisfying to reflect that we never pasted the picture of a bathing beauty on our car window. HAPPY VACATION. Geneva Signal: Probably the finest and most complete as well as the largest special edition ever issued by a Nebraska weekly newspaper was put forth August 11, by the Wayne Herald, Editor E. W. Huse had the assistance of the superintendent of the Wayne city schools in gathering the vast amount of material appearing in its pages. That ought to be a happy way for a teacher to spend a part of his summer vacation if he happens to have a flare for that sort of work. It is a very good way to gain a vast store of knowledge about human nature and the wide variations in the characters, habits, activities, ambitions and prejudices of individuals. What a fine field of operation for a student of psychology. We must confess that we have only had time thus far to examine a few pages of this monster edition, but as far as we have gone it seems to be all that could be desired in every respect. Editor Huse has established a record for other Nebraska publishers to attempt to equal.

Tall Corn Grown By Farmer Here

Adolph H. Claussen has grown corn this year on the Henry Claussen farm three miles southwest of Wayne, measuring fourteen feet and one inch. The corn is planted on former orchard ground, and Mr. Claussen estimates that the yield will be about eighty-five bushels to the acre.

Recollection is the thing that gives lasting pleasure, or prolonged pain. Happy or distressing incidents pass, but remembrance of them continues, imparting joy or sorrow. It does not take long to do good or do wrong, but reward for the one or punishment for the other keeps up for a long time afterwards.

Editor Shelley of the Fairbury News, registers firm objection to getting rid of bootleg liquor by throwing it into streams and killing the fish. He is a fisherman of long experience and he likes to catch fish in a sportsmanlike manner, but he is against taking undue advantage by changing the water with killing moonshine.

Dr. A. L. Bixby treats philosophically the suggestion by Prof. Elvery of Northwestern University that our sun may blow up and quit within the next million years. Dr. Bixby says the new capitol will be finished and paid for before then, and he can think of nothing else that should cause the final windup to be postponed.

Complaints have been made that dragging is sometimes too long delayed to put the highways in good shape for travel. It is said parts of the highway between Wayne and Wakefield were very rutty and rough this week. It is so important to the farmers and towns to have smooth roads that they should be given prompt attention after a fall of moisture.

People should be careful not to accuse without conclusive proof. Often very convincing circumstantial evidence points to the guilt of an individual who is entirely innocent. People are often charged with selfish schemes that they had not thought of and had no part in. A few nods of suspicious heads lead to conviction among groups without an effort to secure substantial proof. Many injustices are done in that way.

The vacation period of summer is about over and people are hurrying back to their accustomed tasks. Following relaxation, schools will soon open and teachers and students will renew their educational efforts. Stores are filling their shelves with fall and winter merchandise, and households are filling their bins with fuel. Through September, county fairs will show the fruits of the year and will excite comparison and wonder. Then frost will tint

"GETTING IN."
A map is quoted as saying it took him ten years to "get in" in Wayne — whatever that means. He may mean such recognition as is implied by asking his advice on points touching social or business policies. He may mean acceptance by dancing or "bridge" clubs or into the inner circle of some other carefully selected group. We wonder how one knows when he is "in?" We wonder if he can tell when probation has ended and he is compelled no longer merely to stand by and look on? Is he led by intuition or by metaphysical understanding or is he directed by some unwritten rule which instructs him when to climb over the bars and help himself? We don't know how much bunk — i. e., hot air — there is in this notion. One may be so busy in wrestling with his own affairs that he does not know when he is "in" or "out." He may be deliberately slighted and not know it. Also one may be so busy and self-absorbed that he forgets courtesy that due other people and especially strangers. But if it takes ten years to "get in" it takes too all-fired long. Many people hunger and thirst for social recognition, and they should not have to wait ten minutes to get it. If this town is exceptionally smug and coldly aloof in recognizing people who have not been here ten years, we did not know it. But if that is our reputation, we had better dissolve it by adopting a pronounced policy of sociability — one that will clearly manifest the cordiality which we know all feel. Everybody here — ten years, more or less — should personally welcome strangers and put them on rapport with the social and business activities of the community.

the foliage and paint wonderful hues, all foreshadowing the death of vegetation. All these multiplying evidences of autumn hint of the approach of winter whose prospect is not strong in its appeal to one who, unprotected by fat, shivers from cold and snow as the devil is reputed to shiver from holy water.

Will O. Jones, editor of the Lincoln Journal, who is touring Europe with a group of American Journalists, is strong in his praise of thirty young American girls whom he met in Holland and who were devoting three weeks to seeing points of interest abroad. He said the girls gave no evidence of paint, lip sticks or cigarettes, and that they were "just nice, wholesome American school teachers, stenographers, and clerks," and he felt like shouting for American civilization.

We have received a booklet from Ralph Beaver Straussburger treating at length the wisdom of President Coolidge in saying that he did not "choose to run for the presidency in 1928," mentioning many precedents to show the patriotic judgment of the chief executive. Straussburger thinks every time a president puts his foot down and refuses to consider a third term, he plants his heel on any underlying influence that may want to establish an imperial form of government.

In his tour of American cities, Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh, first to cross the Atlantic in an airplane, attracted immense crowds to Sioux City and Omaha. People everywhere learned to admire Lindbergh on account of his simple, unaffected manners following performance of a wonderful feat. People become enthusiastic over exceptional achievements, but they don't like braggadocio and bombast. On the contrary, Lindbergh showed rare modesty, saying or doing nothing to dim the luster which crowned his heroic flight.

The annual state fair will be in progress at Lincoln next week, and people will gather to see the things that have been accomplished during the year. The state fair is the amassing of Nebraska's best products, and it brings together people from all parts of the state. It is the place to go to learn by observation and acquaintance. Here people from north Nebraska should attend the fair. On the gravelled highway the drive is not long nor difficult, and the experience is worth all its costs. More people here should share in the benefits of this great annual exhibition.

The two excellent Fairbury newspapers, the News and Journal, have written rather unfavorably of Fairbury as an advertising town in comparison with Wayne, and yet each one came out last week with eighteen pages, probably sixty per cent advertising. Besides, every week Fairbury newspapers carry a big volume of live advertising, the quality of their service and the size of their circulations making them eminently deserving of it. As a matter of fact, if the volume of advertising carried through the year persistently and consistently is taken into consideration, we think Fairbury, as an advertising point, will compare favorably with the best towns of its class in the state.

Business.
Sioux City Journal: Secretary of Commerce Hoover, while maintaining a strict silence regarding his boom for the republican presidential nomination, is willing to talk about the business outlook for the country. In fact he may be described as growing eloquent, even if cautious in saying that the outlook for the next five or six months is "very fair." He supplements this with the suggestion that "of course economic prophecy is always hedged about with doubt and difficulty."

Mr. Hoover, as head of the commerce department, probably knows more than any other individual in the country about business conditions. He has the figures before him, arranged by experts. And in referring to these figures Mr. Hoover finds a most satisfying situation for the first seven months of the present year. He made the following statement: "In construction matters, the accomplishment (for the first seven months of 1927) has been about 2 or 3 per cent greater than for the same period of 1926. The country's exports have been 5 per cent more than for the same period of 1926. The freight carriage on American railroads so far this year has been almost the same as last year."

There has been a good deal of variation in industry. Pig iron production has been 2 per cent below that of 1926, and textile and motor car production is also less. In general there has been a slight decline in factory employment, amounting to about 2 per cent in July under July, 1926. The most interesting thing discussed by Mr. Hoover, or rather, the most satisfying conclusion he reached, was the assurance of a continued strong buying power. He thinks that generally there will be maintained an encouraging demand for goods that will justify continued operations industrially without change from the present order. That, of course, is the biggest promise anyone can find in the economic outlook. So long as there is a strong buying power that long will there be good business.

August weather has been somewhat disappointing to farmers in the corn belt. It has not been warm enough to bring the late corn crop through for the time of year. September is nearly here, and an early frost would find a vast amount of corn just right for a crop. Growing corn is from two to three weeks behind schedule, according to the farmers who ought to know. So it is yet too early to predict with safety that the corn crop is out of danger. The short crop may be shortened still more before the time for the harvest.

FEARS FADING.
Following a cold, wet spell, which caused people to fear an early frost and soft corn, the weather has been hot and dry, just the kind needed to mature the crop. If this weather keeps up for a few weeks, we will gather one of the biggest and best corn crops in the history of agriculture, and it will materially enrich farming communities of this territory. More calamities are feared than ensue, but enough of them fall within the path of agriculture to make it uncertain until all hazards are over and crops are assured beyond question. Business of every kind is just as uncertain because it is dependent on agricultural conditions. Dangers this year have not been due to too much or too little moisture, or too hot winds or hail, but to a late start and final immaturity. But this risk will soon be over if present ripening weather continues. Then uncertainties that beset agriculture every year will be over for the season and we will know what we can depend on.

Average Killing Frost Comes Oct. 2

(Norfolk Daily News.)

Anywhere from Sept. 12 to Oct. 25 north Nebraska farmers may expect Jack Frost to descend upon their cornfields and do his worst, according to a tabulation of killing frost dates made up from weather reports for the last thirty-four years. If he comes before the first mentioned date or after the second one, he will have established a new record for this vicinity, which is considered highly improbable even during this year of surprising weather.

Earliest Frost on Sept. 12

The earliest date of killing frost recorded here was on Sept. 12, 1902, and the latest on Oct. 23, 1914. The average date for Norfolk, according to the weather bureau sharps is Oct. 2. The chances that it will come this year on or before Oct. 1 would appear to be exactly 50-50, a count of the thirty-four years showing that in sixteen of these years the first withering freeze has come in September and in seventeen of them it has been delayed until October.

Whether or not an early frost is more apt to come after an unusually cool August may be open for debate, though a study of the figures shows that there is slight evidence to believe that it is. The three years of earliest frosts are 1902, August and 1916. In 1902 August was 1.9 degrees below normal; in 1903 it was 1.9 below and in 1916, 5.1 below. The three years of latest frosts were 1914, 1904 and 1910. In 1914 the August temperature was 1.9 above normal; in 1904 it was 1.4 below and in 1910 2.7 below normal. This evidence might be offset, however, by a closer study of the figures.

Land Sells Well In This Section

Norfolk Daily News, August 26.
 —There is a noticeable demand for northeast Nebraska farm land, which is declared to be among the best in the United States.
 The Brueckner farm near Hoskins, owned by heirs to the Brueckner estate, was sold this week for $36,400 to Fritz Mierhenry and Matilda Wantoc, living near Hoskins, the transaction being made in cash. A part of the farm is in pasture and the rest is tilled soil.
 One hundred and twenty acres of the John Ray land west of Norfolk was sold to J. Herbst, prominent farmer near this city, for $150 per acre, the sum involved amounting to $18,100.
 Another 120 acres of the Ray land, unimproved, was sold for $85 per acre, which is considered a good price.
 John C. Bick, 600 East Norfolk avenue, purchased about 160 acres of the Kost farm three miles west of Norfolk on the Omaha avenue road for $18,000 this week.
 One hundred and sixty acres of the farm occupied by Gus Schlueter, living ten miles northeast of Norfolk, was sold to Carl Strate of near Hoskins for $100 per acre.
 Another recent farm transaction involved the Schmidt farm near Hoskins, the name of the buyer not being learned in Norfolk. One hundred and sixty acres of land southwest of Madison was sold for $135 per acre, it was reported.

Interesting Bits of Wayne County History

Harvest picnics were enjoyed in the early days. Neighbors got together and helped husk corn, mingling a social time with the work. New barns were often the scenes for such merriment.

Dignity
 Dignity is the indispensable element in funeral service. Without it, the most elaborate equipment—the most scientific methods are worse than wasted.
 Although we have kept fully abreast of the times, our service has lost none of the reverence and dignity that is always associated with mortuary management. Respect for the dead and consideration for the living are blended in the proper proportions.

Perfect Comfort for the woman driver

The steering column is adjustable to suit your convenience

Buick for 1928 is extremely thoughtful of feminine comfort. One indication of this consideration is Buick's new steering column, which may be adjusted to the most comfortable position for women, as well as men.

Buick for 1928 pleases women because it is easier to drive—because it is more comfortable to ride in—because it is the style-leader among motor cars. That's why you see so many Buicks at fashionable gatherings, and on the smartest boulevards.

And in addition, Buick for 1928 has a new steering wheel—slender to fit feminine fingers—yet deep and solid to provide the firm grip men demand.
