County Fair Is Setting Record

Displays Surpass Those of Previous Years in Many Departments This Fall.

Good Amusements

Features Being Carried Out Are Better Than Any Before Contracted by Board.

Wayne county fair opened yesterday with displays and entertainment features which surpass previous years. Unfavorable weather the first of the week delayed placing exhibits, but by Wednesday afternoon displays were in place. Weather changed to favorable Wednesday morning, and a good attendance marked the opening day.

Exhibits of hogs are better than ever before, there being entries from Le-Mars, Iowa, Allen, Plainview, Emerson, Hubbard, Pilger, Okdale and Madison, besides many from Wayne county. Baby heaves and hogs raised by the pig club make an especially fine showing this year. The heaves number about forty. The animals show an improvement in quality also.

In the cattle department is stock from Belden and from Wayne county. F. J. Miller of Wayne, and Mr. Griese of Belden, have notable showings of beef cattle. D. S. Wightman has the only dairy cattle on exhibit. H. C. McKelvie of Lincoln, judges the livestock this Thursday.

The display of horses and ponies is not as large as last year, though the quality is good. Oliver Shields has sheep on display. A single litter of ten German police puppies is an interesting entry.

The fancy work display is about the same size and quality as last year. The same is true of the fine arts work. A notable increase is shown in the amount of canned fruits and other domestic products, however. Mrs. James McEachern of Lincoln, judged exhibits in these departments yesterday.

Educational hall is filled as usual this year with exhibits from rural and city schools of the county. The work is of high quality. The agricultural tent is filled with farm produce. The showing is about the same size as last year, and the quality is fine. Well matured corn is displayed. Variety is notable. The floral display is similar in size to last year's.

The value of raising good chickens is being realized more and more, is noted in the continual improvement in the poultry exhibits. The number and quality are good this year.

The farm machinery display of Wayne dealers is especially noteworthy this fall. Thompson & Bichel have several carloads of implements all in operation. Those who visited state fairs remark that no exhibits have surpassed this. Tractors, mowers, sweeps, corn pickers, binders, elevators, silo fillers and many others are shown. Fine displays of new model automobiles are shown in many makes this fall. A number of merchants also have displays.

Concessions number about twice as many as last year. The number of eating places is also larger. Several churches have prepared meals, and the large crowds are thus served quickly.

Entertainment features of the fair are especially high class this year. The Kasting Kays, Be-Ho Gray company, Robinsons, Prof. W. P. Newell, Miss Somerville and trained dogs and monkey are among them. Exhibitions in mid-air flights, whirlwind skating, educated horse stunts, lariat throwing and other features are shown each day. A baby clinic is a new feature of the fair this year. Doctors of the county will examine children under five years free; this Thursday.

The first epoch of the pageant, "Nebraska, Dream of the Pioneer," written and directed by Mrs. Grace Welsh Lutgen, was presented most successfully last evening. One epoch will be given each evening.

Songs will be represented by schools of the county in the pageant scheduled for Saturday afternoon. The parade of prize livestock will follow.

Baseball, football and band furnish entertainment each day. The Wayne band played yesterday, and will play again Friday and Saturday. Winside band furnishes music today. The horse-pulling contest is scheduled for this Thursday and Friday. State record was set at the Wayne fair last year by the team belonging to Eldor Ring.

Seating capacity of the grandstand has been increased to 2,000 this fall. Two box offices are provided and the crowds are thus handled quickly. The fair board office is located conveniently in one of the booths in the grandstand.

Birth Record.
A daughter was born Sunday, Sept. 25, to Mr. and Mrs. James Wax of ten miles southeast of Wayne.

BETRAYAL IS AN EVIL BANNED IN NEWSPAPER GAME

WE are sometimes warned to be careful not to permit people to see advertising proofs in advance of publication. Strict caution is always observed in every reputable newspaper plant. We doubt if we ever had in our employ any one who was so low in sense of fairness that he would knowingly allow facts touching an advertisement to leak out in advance of the finished newspaper. In our long experience we have never known an advertiser to indicate an anxiety or even a willingness to find out in advance what a rival expected to advertise. Surreptitious giving or receiving of advertising facts in advance would be equally contemptible, and there may be fellows who are inclined to such pernicious faithlessness, but we have never known them. Business men should feel free to intrust their advertising news to a newspaper with full assurance that there is no possibility of betrayal. Any one connected with a publication will hold advertising matter in perfect confidence if he is worthy of his responsibility.

Synod Meeting To Be In Wayne

Presbyterian Ministers and Elders of State Come Here Middle of Next Week

Speakers of Note

Programs of Value Have Been Arranged for Fifty-Fourth Session of Church

About 150 ministers and elders of Presbyterian churches will be in Wayne next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday to attend the fifty-fourth annual session of the Synod of Nebraska to be held in the Presbyterian church. Business will be transacted during the day sessions, and programs of valuable and interesting entertainment are provided for the evening sessions. The public is invited to the evening meetings.
Guests will be entertained on the Harvard plan. Lodging and breakfast will be furnished. Ladies of the congregation will serve meals in the church parlors at 12:30 and 6 Wednesday, and at 12:30 Thursday. Lodging has been provided for all but fifteen to date, and any who can assist in this matter are asked to notify the pastor, Rev. Fenton C. Jones. The favor will be appreciated.
Officers of the state synod are as follows: Rev. M. S. Axtell of Scottsbluff, moderator; Rev. L. J. Lewis of Kearney, vice moderator; Dr. Julius F. Schwarz of Omaha, stated clerk; Rev. William F. Perry of Fairmont, permanent clerk; and Rev. Paul C. Payne of Fremont, chairman of synodical council.

The opening program will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30. Rev. M. S. Axtell will speak, and an address will be given by Rev. John A. Marquis.
Rev. Cleland B. McAfee speaks Wednesday morning, the session starting at 9. Business follows. Rev. Marquis of the board of national missions, also speaks.
Following committee reports Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Moses Breeze, representative of the Presbyterian board of ministerial relief and sustentation, will speak. He will also lead round-table discussion.
Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, professor of systematic theology in McCormick theological seminary, will give an address.
Rev. William P. Schell, executive secretary of the board of foreign missions, addresses the group Thursday morning. Reports and transaction of business will close the synod.

Twenty-Six Cars Stock Out and In

Stock shipments from Wayne for the week beginning September 21 include the following: James B. Grier, four cars of cattle to Chicago; four cars of hogs to Sloup City; Gildersleeve & Noakes, two cars of cattle to Sloup City; Herman Heinemann, one car of hogs to Sloup City; and Charles Meyer, Jr., one car of cattle and hogs to Sloup City. Stock shipped in was as follows: Gildersleeve & Noakes, three cars of cattle; John T. Bressler, Jr., three cars of cattle; George Brunns, E. J. Auker, Walford Carlson, Carl F. Meyers and Ray Robinson, each one car of cattle; and C. J. Lund, two cars of cattle.

Rain Delays Play in Golf Tournery

Rain the past week-end delayed rounds in the Wayne country club golf tournament. In the championship flight F. G. Dale, J. F. Ahern, Carl Wright, W. P. Cannon, L. E. Robertson, Prof. W. C. Hunter, Jack Pickard and C. M. Craven were still to play.

Early Resident Of Wayne Dies

Mrs. George D. Bush Passes Away at Home Here Tuesday at Age of 71 Years.

Funeral Is Friday

Services Will be Conducted at Residence and at the Presbyterian Church.
Mrs. George D. Bush, resident of Wayne county for thirty-nine years, passed away Tuesday morning, September 27, at 8:15 after several months' illness, aged 71 years and 15 days. Funeral service will be conducted Friday afternoon at 2:15 at the home in Wayne and at 2:30 at the Presbyterian church with Rev. Fenton C. Jones in charge. Interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery.
Deceased had been failing in health for fifteen years. She had been critically ill for several months, though she was confined to her bed just a week. Every care was provided her.
Mrs. Bush's maiden name was Miss Susan Daley. She was born in Lockport, Ill., Sept. 12, 1856, and was a daughter of John and Julia Daley. She was married April 7, 1886, to George D. Bush. In her early childhood deceased united with the Episcopal church. After moving to Nebraska, Mrs. Bush united with the Presbyterian church here. She was faithful to her church and attended as regularly as her health permitted. She was devoted to her home and will be missed there.
The Bush family came to Nebraska in 1889 and located on a farm near Wayne. They lived in town for the past twenty-seven years.
Besides her husband, deceased leaves three daughters and one son as follows: Mrs. Ray Purdue and John Bush of near Wayne, Mrs. C. R. Glenn of Detroit, Mich., and Miss Lottin Bush, at home. One daughter, Lillian, died a number of years ago. She also has one brother, Thomas Daley of Fort Scott, Kan., and one sister, Mrs. Ed. McCoy of Lockport, Ill.
Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Glenn and daughter of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Bell of Norfolk, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chapman of Hoskins, are among those from out of town who will be here for the funeral.

Wedding Ceremony For Winside Couple

Miss Amelia M. Nissen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Nissen, and Mr. Edward Claus Rathmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claus Rathmann, both of near Winside, were married Wednesday, September 28, at Winside. Rev. J. Bruce Wylie performed the ceremony. The young couple will live on a farm near Winside.

SATURDAY NIGHT SHOWS PEAK IN BIG TRADE WEEK

SATURDAY night was the culmination of a big trade week in Wayne. The fall business revival had set in in earnest. Frost in the air suggested fall and winter supplies and bountiful crops gave good reason why things needed could and should be bought. Thus, the new season's trade started off at a lively pace. Accordingly, the business district was filled with happy shoppers and merchants were kept busy meeting growing requirements. Coming weeks promise to put increased momentum behind trade conditions here, eminent-ly justified by increased stocks, low level of prices and improved standards of service. The Wayne business district is prepared to sell city goods at country prices, as Photographer Craven would say, and the increasing number of people who have been coming here, testify to fine appreciation and high satisfaction.

An Indian Kills Deputy Sheriff

Under Sentence to Term in Pen. He Slays Thurston County Officer and Makes Escape

Posse In Pursuit

Sheriff Jensen Makes Organized Effort to Capture Prisoner—Indian Sends Threats.

Since the killing of Deputy Sheriff William Adams of Thurston county by Wesley Bradford, 21-year-old Indian, last Saturday, a posse, headed by Sheriff Iler Jensen has been in pursuit of the murderer, but up to Wednesday he had succeeded in eluding the officers. Bradford has sent threats from hiding, and trouble is expected in effecting his capture.

Pender, Neb., Sept. 24.—Corrored by two deputy sheriffs in a house where he had taken refuge after breaking jail here, Wesley Bradford shot and killed Deputy Sheriff William Adams of Thurston county, late today.
Bradford, who was awaiting removal to the Nebraska penitentiary to begin serving a five-year term for a statutory offense when he escaped, is being hunted by posse throughout Thurston county tonight.
The escape was made Friday night and Deputy Adams and Deputy Sheriff P. J. McManus, of Homer, had trailed the jailbreaker for 20 hours before cornering him in a vacant farm house five miles northwest of Winside.

Tells Kiwanis Club About Trip

Prof. E. J. Huntmer Explains Advantages of Pay Tourist Camps in the West.

Report On Benefit

Committee Plans Another Entertainment Soon to Raise Funds for Band Units.

Prof. E. J. Huntmer of the Wayne State Teachers College, spoke to the Kiwanis club following the noonday luncheon Monday. He told of the trip which he and his family took this summer, following the southern route to California, then the western coast to Canada and from there back to Wayne.
Wayne Kiwanians have been interested in tourist camps, feeling that this is one of the big needs of a town after improvement of roads. Prof. Huntmer told of the camps he visited in the west, explaining that the pay camps best served their needs. Some of these, he stated, are maintained by individuals and some by the municipalities. The cost averaged about 50c, and conveniences and protection were provided. Prof. Huntmer expressed belief that the Wayne club might later consider such a tourist camp feasible here.
The desert, falls, glacier formations and other wonders of nature seen by the Huntmer party, were described by the speaker. He especially mentioned the beauty of the Canadian Rockies, the Yellowstone park formations and the beauties of the desert.
Mrs. A. R. Davis and Miss Kathryn Lou Davis favored the club with vocal music.
L. W. Vath, chairman of the committee planning the benefit dance last week for raising funds for the high school band uniforms, reported. The sum realized was not sufficient to pay off the obligation which is about $1,000, and another benefit entertainment will be held in the near future.

Masons To Come School Instruction

Masons from fifteen lodges of northeast Nebraska will be in Wayne Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 4 to 6, to attend the central school of instruction to be held here under the management of Grand Custodian Lute Svajdige of Omaha. Schools of instruction are held in the local lodge about every two years, and the central schools of instruction are here less frequently. The closing evening is planned as an open meeting and social time for members and their families.

Teachers Convene In Institute Here

Annual Wayne county teachers institute will be held in the Wayne high school building next Monday and Tuesday, October 3 and 4. All teachers of the county are required to attend the sessions, and schools will be closed for the two days. Miss Pearl E. Sewell has secured instructors of state prominence for the occasion.

Wayne Hospital Notes

Henry Francon, of Laurel, is a medical patient.
Mrs. Sarah Nettleton is receiving care for injuries sustained in a fall.
Mrs. Roy Fenhollow of Wayne, underwent an operation Sunday.
Fried Frevert had his tonsils removed.
O. G. Ruback underwent an operation Monday.

Plans Are Made For Convention

Wayne Will Probably be Represented at International Student Gathering.

On Lecture Course

Seven From Local College Attend Estes Park Conference in Colorado.

The tenth quadrennial convention of the Student Volunteer movement is announced for December 28 to January 2, 1928, at Detroit, Mich. Miss Maude Joseph Smith, faculty member, and Miss Clara Dewitt and Robert Rinker, students, represented Wayne at the last meeting which was held in Indianapolis. Nearly 40,000 students representing forty-three nationalities, were in attendance and came from all parts of the world. It is planned that Wayne will again be represented this year.

The purposes of the gathering, as set forth this year, are as follows: To visualize the world situation today with reference to the mission and expansion of Christianity and especially to comprehend the new forces and factors which have entered into it; to discern what is good in non-Christian cultures as well as to see Christ as supreme and necessary to life of the world; to see the task of making the world Christian; to understand what is involved in present-day missionary service; and to bring the spirit of Christ to prevail in every respect to modern national and international life and to make for the development of His world kingdom.

School Fair Is Featured Here

Exhibit of Farm Produce and Program Are Enjoyed in District 72 Near Wayne.

A school fair was featured Friday in district 72 last week, and many patrons attended. A display of vegetables and corn was brought by the pupils. The children sang several songs and gave the flag pledge. A spelling contest was conducted for all present. Irene and Edith Sals chose sides, the former's group winning by having five up. The group talked about the school float to be entered in the pageant at the Wayne county fair Saturday. Luncheon, prepared by mothers of the pupils, was served.

The display of farm produce was judged and honors were awarded as follows: Potatoes, Sals, first; and Houchins, second; tomatoes, Joy Bush, first; ever-bearing strawberries, Anita Bush, first; ground cherries, Lessman, first, and Sals, second; muskmelon, Ruth Gartner, first; wild plums, Anita Bush, first; radishes, Ruby Gilbert, first, and Sals, second; onions, Ruby Gilbert, first, and Ruth Gartner, second; kohlrabi, Sals, first; beets, Adaline Beck, first and Sals, second; cabbage, Houchins, first; corn, Anita Bush, first, and Sals, second; melon, Ruth Gartner, first; citron, Ruby Gilbert, first; Hubbard squash, Ruth Gartner, first; pepper squash, Anita Bush, first; pie pumpkin, Ruth Gartner, first, and Sals, second; field pumpkin, Ruby Gilbert, first, and Sals, second; garden huckleberries, Gilbert, first; black walnuts, Sals, first; carrot, Adeline Beck, first, and Sals, second; apples, Sals, first, and Anita Bush, second; and turnip, Lessman, first, and Houchins, second.

Pilger Wins Game Of Baseball Here

Pilger won from Winside in the baseball game played yesterday at the Wayne county fair. The Sioux City Stock Yards team meets the Murphy Dits of Omaha this Thursday. Pilger and Wayne high schools play in football Friday afternoon. Wayne Modern Woodmen and Wisner meet in baseball here Saturday.

Paper Making Is Shown In Display

The Wayne Herald has received from Omaha a display showing stages through which wood goes in the making of paper. This is sent through courtesy of the Western Paper Company and will be kept here a few days. The display may be seen at the office.

A. R. Davis Goes To National Meeting

A. R. Davis leaves this Thursday for Denver, Colo., to attend a national meeting of Masons. Mr. Davis is grand master of the Nebraska grand lodge.

Journalism Class To Printing Plant

The journalism class of the Wayne State Teachers College training school visited the Wayne Herald office Tuesday afternoon to study the processes in the printing of the paper. The class included the following: Ina Ruth Johnson, Alphonse Martischang, Frederic Martischang, Dean Wingard, Miles Tryrell, Helen Steele, Eleanor Mae Johnson, Ruth Stamm, Mary Jane Morgan and Gustav Wendt. Miss Pearl Ruth-errid, Miss Carol Vlasnik and Miss Gladys Quigley accompanied the group.

Grading of Corners on North Highway Between Wayne and Laurel Progresses

Let Contract for Paving Sector of Norfolk-Sioux City Highway in Winside.

Grading of corners on the Wayne-Laurel highway is progressing at both the north and south parts. The corner two miles north of Wayne, turning off the highway east toward Wakefield, was finished Saturday. Work on the corner four miles north of Wayne started Tuesday. Men are also grading the corner near the Oscar Jonson place, about nine miles northwest of Wayne. Those between will be done as fast as possible.
The grade for the highway was prepared for gravel this summer. As soon as the corners are rounded, the road will be in shape for the surfacing. Some of the gravel may be laid before the corners are finished.
For the corrier grading, not a great amount of dirt work is necessary. Horse-drawn shovels and scrapers are being used.
Paving at Winside.
Contract for paving the five and one-half blocks of the Norfolk-Sioux City highway passing through Winside was let last week to Booth & Olson of Sioux City. About twenty blocks of paving were finished in Winside this summer, and this will complete the project. Work was started this week.

Severely Bruised In Fall Thursday

Mrs. Sarah Nettleton was severely bruised last Thursday when she fell down the cellar steps at the home of her sister, Mrs. Mary Saxon, at Decatur. Her right shoulder and arm received the main injury. Mrs. Nettleton was visiting in Decatur. She had been out of doors and was returning to the house when the accident happened. The door leading to the house also opens into the cellar. Mrs. Nettleton happened to step off the platform and fell. Mr. and Mrs. Hobert Auker drove to Decatur Friday and brought Mrs. Nettleton here to the Wayne hospital. Mrs. Nettleton makes her home with her daughters, Mrs. Auker and Mrs. Oscar Jonson.

Wayne Doctors Are Invited To Norfolk

The northeast Nebraska osteopathic association will hold its quarterly meeting at Norfolk Wednesday, Oct. 5, in the Hotel Norfolk. The principal speaker will be Dr. Harry J. Marshall of Des Moines, president of the Des Moines polyclinic, instructor in eye, ear, nose and throat in the osteopathic college there and a member of the Iowa state board. His main address will be given in the afternoon, and he will probably speak from radio station WJAG at noon. A number of Nebraska doctors will also be in the program. A banquet is planned in the evening. Dr. T. P. Jones and Dr. L. W. Jamieson of Wayne, are among those invited to attend.

I. E. Ellis Sells Palace Cafe Here

I. E. Ellis who has operated the Palace cafe in Wayne for a few years, sold his business to J. H. McCurry Friday. The latter will take possession October 1. Mr. Ellis has not as yet made his future plans. Mr. McCurry came Monday to prepare for taking over the work. He formerly lived at West Point, and recently had a hotel in Scottsbluff. He sold the latter to R. A. Dunn of Wayne several weeks ago.

Wisner Man In Fatal Automobile Accident

Norfolk Daily News: Funeral services were held at the Methodist church at Wisner Sunday afternoon for W. E. "Doc" Mann of that place who died Friday morning in a Norfolk hospital with injuries suffered in an automobile accident Thursday evening. The accident occurred west of Pilger about 6:30 Thursday evening.

Many Attend Fair On Children's Day

Many school children of the county attended the Wayne county fair here yesterday, it being children's day. The training school at the State Normal was dismissed Wednesday afternoon and will be out at 8 o'clock this Thursday and Friday. Class work at the Wayne high school starts at 8 each morning this week and continues until 12:30. In order that pupils may be dismissed for the afternoons.

ADVERTISING IN NEWSPAPERS IS APPROVED MEANS

SUCCESSFUL business men who have tried all kinds of advertising usually express preference for newspaper advertising as the kind that brings the best results. Bills and circular letters and other means are more transient and are not easily available for reference. Since bustles are no longer in fashion, bills are generally tossed into wastebaskets. Statements and prices given in newspapers are down in black and white and never disappear. Newspaper advertising has the widest circulation in the most inexpensive way, and commands the most interest and respect. Many successful business men employ no other kind.

Will Open Bids For Dormitory

Ten Companies Will Enter Figures at State Board Meeting in Lincoln Monday.

Exhibits Judged For County Fair

Judging at the Wayne county fair was done Wednesday and today. Those in charge are as follows: Cattle, horses and sheep, Claud McKelvie of Lincoln; swine, K. C. Fouts of Seward; poultry, L. R. Lips of Columbus; farm produce, John Davis of Dakota City; women's department, Mrs. James McEachern of Lincoln; and flowers and fruit, D. Hall of Wayne.

Digs Self Out Of County Jail

Wallace A. Andrew, serving on a chicken stealing charge, escapes Wednesday.

Digs Self Out Of County Jail

Wallace A. Andrew, sentenced to serve sixty days on a charge of stealing chickens from the Ray McMillan place west of Winside, escaped from the Wayne county jail Wednesday evening about 7 o'clock. Authorities are in search of him.

Many Attend Fair On Children's Day

Many school children of the county attended the Wayne county fair here yesterday, it being children's day. The training school at the State Normal was dismissed Wednesday afternoon and will be out at 8 o'clock this Thursday and Friday. Class work at the Wayne high school starts at 8 each morning this week and continues until 12:30. In order that pupils may be dismissed for the afternoons.

David Koch Edits Annual At College

David Koch, of Winside, student at the Wayne State Teachers College, is editor-in-chief of the Spizzerinkunk, school annual, this year. (Work of taking pictures for the book has started.)

Proposed Hotel Makes Headway

General Favor Expressed and Encouraging Support Guaranteed For the Improvement.

Committee Named

Intensive Campaign to be Made to Secure Sale of Balance of Stock For Profit.
The proposed new hotel, to be managed by E. O. Stratton, experienced hotel man, and financed by him, in conjunction with local citizens, is reported to have aroused encouraging support during the past week. Everybody expressed favor for it, and many either subscribed stock or indicated a willingness to do so.
To speed up the plan, a finance committee has been chosen by the hotel group as follows: John T. Bressler, C. E. Carhart, C. M. Craven, A. T. Cavanaugh, Don H. Cunningham, A. R. Davis, J. St. Geroy, E. W. Huse, Dr. T. P. Jones, J. H. S. Kneff, Hollis W. Loy, H. S. Saxe, H. A. Welch and E. O. Stratton. These men will be asked to meet at the city hall next Monday evening to organize for an intensive campaign to dispose of the balance of stock on hand. Additions to the committee are expected to be made.
It is pointed out that everybody in Wayne will profit directly or indirectly from a first class modern hotel. In the building it is proposed to employ local labor and material as far as possible.
People behind the hotel movement feel that they are making a safe investment, and they know they are supporting something that is vitally needed. It is not the intention to urge beyond reason any one to take stock. Merits of the plan will be presented, and it is believed that people will be able and willing to respond to insure the success of the undertaking.
Wayne is deemed ideally located for a profitable hotel venture, and the prospect gives assurance that it will be a desirable investment for home capital.

Larson went to Wakefield Sunday afternoon between trains to visit in the Emil Henrikson home. Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Ringland went to Spencer Saturday to spend Sunday with friends. Mr. and Mrs. William Baker and daughter of Winside, spent Sunday with Mrs. Emma Baker. Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Martin and Mrs. Alma Liedtke of Genoa, came Sunday to visit in the Oscar Liedtke home a few days. Miss Frances Erickson who teaches in South Sioux City, and Miss Esther Exleben who teaches near Pierce, spent the week-end at the Frank Exleben home here. J. Albert Johnson and family moved from 515 east Sixth street to the residence at 513 Main street, vacated by Mrs. E. Brown. Mr. Good and family of Laurel, moved to the house the Johnsons left. Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Williams of Grand Rapids, Mich., who were on their way home from a tour of the south and Pacific coast, stopped here Thursday to visit in the home of Mrs. Williams' uncle, Chas. Miller. The guests had been gone from home for three months. Mrs. E. C. Mahaffey left for Hot Springs, S. D., Saturday evening after visiting since the previous Tuesday with her mother, Mrs. Wiebke Hansen at the Henry Hansen home and with other relatives here. The Mahaffey family lived in Wayne a few years ago. They are now farming near Hot Springs. Annual Meeting of Teachers At Norfolk Norfolk, Neb., Sept. 25.—The program for the annual state convention of the Nebraska Parent-Teacher association which will be held here October 12, 13 and 14, has been announced by Mrs. Ida Yungblut Day of Lincoln, state president. Mrs. N. F. Pfunder of Norfolk is general chairman of the convention and will be assisted by Mrs. William Leferdink, Mrs. A. E. Rapp, S. C. Baker, Mrs. R. Gleason, Mrs. J. P. Cockburn, Mrs. A. Brandenburg and Mrs. H. Klueder. Following registration and round table conferences October 12 the business sessions of the convention will begin October 13. Superintendent H. B. Simon of the Norfolk city schools will welcome the delegates to the convention. Mrs. G. H. Wentz will make the response. Mrs. Lewis Smith of Omaha will tell of the national convention. Miss Chloe C. Baldrige will tell of the work accomplished at the national educational association convention at Seattle last summer. Reports of state officers and standing committees will be made. Reports of local presidents and an address by Charles W. Taylor, state superintendent of public instruction will feature the afternoon program of the same day. On Friday, October 14, concluding business meetings will occur in the morning and visiting delegates will be taken on a tour of the city in the afternoon. Among the speakers at the convention will be: Prof. A. V. Teek of Wayne Teachers' College; Mrs. B. W. Powell of Kearney Teachers' college; Mrs. Mark Pierce, Lincoln, Neb.; Dean B. E. McProud of Nebraska Wesleyan University; Superintendent E. L. Novotny, Central City, and Miss Emma Schwerin of Hartington, vice-president.

Letter From Austria To Lincoln Journal W. O. Jones, editor of the Lincoln Journal, writes that paper from abroad: Vienna, Austria, in September.—At Berlin we noticed a turn toward sport on the part of the young men of Germany that promises to revolutionize the habits of the people and in a few decades create a new national psychology. Today we went up to the "stadion" of Hohen Warte and saw a game of soccer football played by two semi-professional teams, the nationals of Austria and a younger group made up of exceedingly snappy players. Several thousand Austrians watched the contest from a natural amphitheater which will hold 65,000 people. Soccer is so good a game to watch that a great many people would like to see it take the place of Rugby. While it is very open and has a good view of the ball all the time it has some of the disadvantages of basket ball. It is so fast and depends so much on quick thinking and action that one who knows the other game soon begins to wish for its restful pauses and its strategy. It was an experience to watch this great crowd of Austrians and to see that they responded to the fine points of the game almost exactly like an American crowd. A nice appreciation of the playing was shown and an encouraging amount of good sportsmanship was displayed. The young Viennese who acted as my mentor was enthusiastic over the new devotion of the people to sport. He mentioned the training in clean living the players must submit to. They must abstain from liquor and other forms of dissipation. This in itself will have an influence upon the young boys who are taking athletes as their personal heroes. Again hundreds of thousands of men are now in open air watching contests every Saturday and Sunday instead of sitting in coffee houses and wine and beer halls loading unwholesome fat on their ribs. The great change reminds German students of the period in the last century, when patriotic men all over Germany organized turn societies and built turn halls and held turn fests to build up a physical race strong enough to meet the French. While he was telling me these things the crowd was harking encouragement to the players, and applauding the track men who saved a special exhibition and the companies of girls who appeared to help out the show. The man with the megaphone continued to speak of the players as representing the "Vienna club." I told my guide that it seemed curious to hear that pronunciation at such a place for all of the local people seemed to call their city "Veen," following the official spelling of "Wien." He said that many years ago a group of Englishmen came over to build gas works for the city. They formed "The Vienna club" and introduced cricket and football. It was kept up by the English who lived in the city in considerable numbers until the war. When they went away in 1914 they had already attracted many Austrian members who kept up the club and did not even bother to change the spelling of the name. Language is looked on in Europe as a tool, not as a sign of evidence of patriotism. It seemed to me that the crowd gave evidence of the trials thru which Vienna has been going. We did not go to the opposite side of the oval where the admission fee was so small that an American manager wouldn't go to the trouble of putting a man at the gate to collect it. Those in the covered stands paid about 14 cents, a ridiculous amount for a first class show. Nobody has a right to pass judgment on folk on so short an acquaintance, but if a city like Vienna is to be saved from a kind of socialism that verges on the red my opinion is that wholesome outdoor sport will do as much as anything for the salvation of these masses. With all its outward suavity, Vienna is not in a sound position industrially or politically. The appearance of this football crowd seemed to me to justify the fears entertained and expressed in confidence by American newspaper men who have been located here since the war. Passing up one of the broad and tree lined streets in the center of the city I faced the sign of the Chevrolet car in one of the windows, with the additional information that English was spoken there. The first person I met inside called a second person, who called a third. They held a consultation over me and decided that I was a case for the "engineer." A girl beckoned. I followed her out into the street, a couple of doors to the north, into a court yard, up a flight of solid stone steps, through two rooms and finally into the office of the head of the firm, a man who spoke English well and was apparently highly pleased to talk automobiles with an American. What he had to say wasn't oppressively cheerful. They could sell a great many cars from America. The people want them. They are better and cheaper than the Austrian cars. The trouble is that they are not allowed to import more than 300 cars a year from any one country. They did all they could to keep out the American cars by sticking on a duty of 100 percent, besides port dues, freight and some extra charges. This brings the retail price of a five hundred dollar Chevrolet up to $1,500 in Vienna. A Chevrolet costing $1,000 in America must sell for $9,000 in Austria. All other cars run the same way. Trouble the Detroit cost and you have the selling price here. Even then our cars would sweep the field. That is the reason they limit the number that may be imported. There are factories here that make a good product, but their output is so small that their prices are necessarily high. Much of the riding in this country is done on American tires. They have two factories here making a quality not at all equal to the ones brought in from across the ocean. The local factories charge exactly the same price as the dealers must charge for the better importations. They seem to have heard about protection over here. Every country is trying it. Even free trade England is looking longingly toward a shelter for such of its industries as are threatened by cheap continental labor. And right here is one cause for the business depression that undoubtedly exists over a considerable part of Europe today. W. O. J. Nature Points the Way. Nebraska Farmer: Taking the view of certain alarmists that a big crop is an unmitigated evil, it would seem that the present favorable attitude of mind of the Nebraska farmer is merely childish. In other words, he is not aware that he is on the brink of disaster. How'er that may be, we are very much of the impression that these farm folks know just exactly why they are contented and happy. Indeed, they have every good reason to be. Farm prices of some products will be lower than they are now, due to increased yields, but the farmer who has something to sell at any price is abundantly better off than the one who has nothing to sell when prices are at the peak. Ten bushels of wheat per acre and 20 bushels of corn, even though the price be $2.00 and $1.00 respectively, is not to be compared with twice that amount at half the price. In the first case, deductions must be made for seed and feed, thus leaving practically nothing to sell. In the latter, the surplus will yield some return, though it may not be profitable on the investment. Under prevailing conditions, it is not probable that farm prices will sag to unprofitable levels. The majority of those who crop wheat and largely of those who can hold it till better prices return. Corn probably will go lower than it is now, but not enough to deprive the grower of a profit if his yield is good. Too high priced corn is never a good thing, for the big market for this product is among feeders. They cannot operate successfully when they must pay high prices for their stock and a high price for the corn with which to fatten them. When this demand wanes, the grower always suffers. Prices for fat cattle should continue to be strong for there is a decided shortage of feeders. Producers on the range have come into their own after a long wait, and it is well that they should have before the last of them were forced out of business. If the price of corn is not too high, there is good reason to believe that there will be money in feeding hogs. The same is true of dairying. Poultry raising seems to have been somewhat overdone, but it too will see better days for the high price of other meats more and more encourages the consumption of poultry. So the farmer has very good reason to view the present with thankfulness, and look to the future with optimism. The things that are now at hand mean far more to us than anything that the government can or may do. It has been suggested that motor-horns and hooters should be standardized as to pitch and made more melodious notes adopted. Nothing is more irritating than an unmusical motorist who knocks his pedestrian down in D-flat. Funch. No. 17 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, Sept. 29, 1927. Vol. 1. The only time we have any trouble with rheumatism is when we try to spell it. Twenty million dollars is the yearly loss to farmers of the U. S. A. because of rust and deterioration of farm machinery left exposed in fields or open sheds. Many Wayne county farmers are contributing their share towards this enormous loss. We build good sheds at considerable cost to protect our lumber from the elements because it pays. Farm machinery is entitled to the same protection because it pays. Our lumber sheds run into thousands of dollars but a farm machine shed seldom costs to exceed three hundred dollars and many are built for between one hundred and two hundred dollars. ### County Meeting Held In Wayne

Annual W. C. T. U. Program Is Conducted Friday at the Methodist Church Here.

Wayne county convention of the W. C. T. U., held Friday in the Wayne Methodist church, was successful in attendance and interest. Mrs. Ed. Murrill and Mrs. C. E. Jones of Carroll, were president and secretary respectively and were in charge. Mrs. Earl Lewis of Wayne, local president, deserves much credit also for her efforts in helping make the meeting a success. Mrs. William Beckenbauer of Wayne, was chosen president for the coming year. Mrs. Jones was re-elected secretary.

The program Friday was opened with devotionals, led by Mrs. W. D. Nokes of Wayne. Mrs. Earl Lewis led community singing. Miss Crystal Dragon played a piano solo, "Night Vision," by Schumann. Mrs. C. O. Mitchell of Wayne, spoke on "A Plea for More Workers." Mrs. Beckenbauer spoke on "Our Duty as Parents." Mrs. O. M. Davenport reported on the year's work in the Carroll union, and Mrs. W. C. Fox reported on the work in the Wayne union. Mrs. Beers and daughter, Miss Audrey Lewis, sang a duet, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." The women voted to send $10 of the county fund to flood sufferers in the south. The newly elected president was chosen to attend the state convention to be held in Omaha October 18 to 21. The meeting closed with prayer offered by Mrs. John Grimsly.

In her talk on "A Plea for More Workers," Mrs. C. O. Mitchell inspired her hearers. She urged that in the W. C. T. U. is a real opportunity for service. In this age, when everything, even the church, is being modernized, there arise new angles to age-old problems. Mrs. Mitchell stated. The fight against sin is being waged today, just as ages ago. Frances Willard sensed the need to combat one of the forces of sin, the liquor traffic, and she organized the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and the fight it has made against sin is known around the world.

Organized effort is most effective in combatting sin, Mrs. Mitchell asserted. If every woman in Wayne county were organized against sin, Mrs. Mitchell stated, evil doing would have to go. Comparing the work to an automobile, Mrs. Mitchell asserted that only by running slowly and pulling hard can the W. C. T. U. go through the rough and difficult tasks. Forward is the slogan.

Mrs. Beckenbauer, in her address on "Our Duty as Parents," gave an interesting account of the great opportunity parents have today of abolishing harmful things which tend to weaken health, morals and intellect. She used a sketch of a beautiful baby and both of milk to illustrate her plea to parents to work for the things which make for a better childhood and a cleaner, finer manhood and womanhood. She urged parents to get together and work together.

Following the program Friday, a sumptuous two-course dinner was served in the Methodist parlors. Much credit is due Mrs. Walter Miller, chairman of the dinner committee, for the menu and service. In a short talk after the dinner, Mrs. Murrill of Carroll, retiring president, thanked the Wayne women for the afternoon of entertainment and inspiration.

Carroll members present were: Mrs. C. E. Jones, Mrs. W. E. Belows, Mrs. W. W. Garwood, Mrs. Rodney Garwood, Mrs. Griffith Garwood, Mrs. B. Wilson, Mrs. O. M. Davenport, Mrs. Ernest Elder, Mrs. Franklin Rees, Mrs. Thomas Sylvanus, Mrs. S. W. Elder, Mrs. Ed. Murrill and Mrs. M. S. Linn.

Studying Vegetable Life At University

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 24.—If you would know the vegetables in your garden, you must first know their roots, says Dr. John E. Weaver and William E. Bruner, faculty members of the University of Nebraska department of botany.

An unpropagated squash, or pumpkin often sends roots out from twelve to twenty feet on all sides of the plant, and a common tomato plant has roots occupying 280 cubic feet of soil. These are some of the interesting findings of the two botany instructors. Dr. Weaver and Mr. Bruner have just published the results of long investigation and study of garden plants in a book, "Root Development of Vegetable Crops," designed for vegetable gardeners and students of gardening.

The root systems of all the common garden crops from asparagus to watermelon have been studied and mapped at several stages in their development; and rather a new thing this is, says Dr. Weaver, for the aerial parts of garden plants have been studied and investigated to a great extent while the underground parts have been comparatively neglected. This is all the more strange because the root is at most important part of the plant. That is, Dr. Weaver says to the gardener, "know the root, and know the plant."

The investigations for the new book covered fourteen years. Dr. Weaver and his co-workers dug deep trenches by the side of plants to be studied, and observations of the roots at each stage of growth were made directly. The work was done at Lincoln and at Norman, Okla. The results of the study, definite data have been set down for the first time on the relation of root habits to crop production. The gardener who knows root habits knows that sweet corn does best in a deep, well-drained soil which has an abundant supply of water, and he knows that cabbage, because its root system is extensive and finely branched, is "hard on the land," thoroughly exhausting the water supply in the surface foot of soil. Beans have the reputation of growing in any soil, but the study of roots teaches the gardener that beans respond more readily to moderately fertile and well-drained but moist soil.

The investigations by Dr. Weaver and his co-workers were made possible by aid from the Carnegie Institution at Washington.

Early Settler Dies at Sidney

Funeral of Mrs. Louie Larsen Who Passed Away September 17, Is Held Wednesday.

Mrs. Louie Larsen, early settler of Wayne county, passed away at her home in Sidney, Neb., Saturday, Sept. 17, aged 75 years, 3 months and 8 days. Mrs. Larsen suffered a stroke of apoplexy a week before her death. Funeral service was held at the Sidney Lutheran church Wednesday of last week with the pastor in charge. Interment was made in the Sidney cemetery.

Mrs. Larsen's maiden name was Miss Marie Jensen. She was born in Denmark. She came to this country when a girl and lived in Michigan. She was married to Louie Larsen at Kentwater, Mich. The family lived at Manistee, Mich., before coming to Wayne county and locating on a homestead southeast of Wayne in the early eighties. They lived here until about nine years ago, when they went to Sidney.

Besides her husband, deceased leaves the following children: Miss Hilda and Miss Ella Larsen of Sidney, Mrs. Laura Putnam of Superior, Wis., Theodore Larson of Wayne, Lars Larsen of Canton, Minn., Fred Larsen of Kansas, and Arthur and Grover Larsen of Gurley, Neb. Two daughters died of typhoid fever. She also leaves a sister in Texas and a sister in Michigan.

Thos. Larson and Nels Nelson went from Wayne to attend the funeral, and returned last Thursday.

Kiwanians Present Trophy To Fremont

A group of Wayne Kiwanians went to Fremont Thursday evening to present to the club there the Gordon trophy which is being passed to Kiwanis clubs of this district to create better inter-club acquaintance.

The trophy, a shield, is the gift of the Gordon chapter and will be returned to Gordon at the district meeting. The date each chapter receives the trophy is engraved on it. Norfolk brought it to Wayne, and Fremont takes it to Omaha.

C. M. Craven represented the Wayne group in presenting the trophy to the Fremont club. He, F. L. Blair, H. A. Welch, W. R. Ellis, J. E. Brittain, R. L. Larson, Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Casper and Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson went from Wayne.

Carroll Church Is To Entertain

Elkhorn Valley Congregational Association Will Convene Last Of October.

The Elkhorn Valley association of Congregational churches will hold its annual meeting at the church west of Carroll the third week in October. A committee from the congregation has met in conference with Rev. W. S. Rowden of Coleridge, moderator, and Rev. Louis Hieb of Hartington, secretary, and a worthwhile program is being arranged. Twenty-five churches of the state belong to the association.

Former Residents Grow Large Peaches

Miss Maryetta Whitney of Omaha, formerly of Wayne, is pictured in the rotogravure section of the Omaha Bee, holding a branch from a peach tree at her home which bore eighty peaches, many of which were eleven inches in circumference. Miss Whitney is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Whitney who lived in Wayne for a number of years.

Station Is Heard In South Australia

Henry Gulliver has received word stating that the Wayne State Teachers College radio code station, 5WK, was heard Jan. 6, 1927, at Eden Hills, South Australia. Mr. Gulliver, Merrill Shum and Carl Israelson were last year's licensed radio operators for the station. Only code messages are sent.

Hawks And Owls Help Kill Rodents

To learn exactly to what extent certain birds are aids to agriculture and to determine whether their good qualities overbalance the evil they do, the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture has for many years been making scientific studies of their food habits. All that can be learned out-of-doors by watching the birds is valuable, but the sure way of finding out what a bird eats is to examine the contents of its stomach and to identify what is found.

W. L. McAtee, a biologist in the bureau describes the method of examining the stomach content of a bird. "It consists of washing all material into a white-lined tray, separating the larger particles on white blotters, catching the more finely ground food on a blotting cloth, transferring this to blotters, and finally identifying the component parts of the whole under a microscope. Identification is facilitated by comparison with collections of seeds, fruit, insects, snails, and bones of birds, mammals, reptiles, and amphibians in fact, of all classes of objects eaten by birds. A card prepared for each stomach contains a full inventory of food items and their relative percentages by bulk, and when a sufficient number of these index cards have been accumulated for any species of bird the percentages of the principal items of food for each month are calculated, and the average for the season or year is taken. These are the figures quoted in official reports on the food of birds. From the percentages and the economic value of the food items the utility of the bird can be closely estimated."

It is on the basis of such information that the Biological Survey has been able to combat prejudices against certain birds, such as hawks and owls. The sharp-shinned, Cooper, and duck hawks feed largely on birds and are injurious. The great horned owl gets only poultry that is improperly exposed at night, but is otherwise beneficial. The re-

Apoplexy Is Fatal To Norfolk Editor

Norfolk, Neb., Sept. 25.—W. H. Weekes, 72, editor of the Norfolk Press and the oldest newspaper man in Nebraska in point of service, died at his home here this afternoon.

Mr. Weekes suffered a stroke of paralysis September 15 shortly after he reached his home after having worked as usual at his office during the day. As a result of the stroke one side of his body was paralyzed and he was left almost speechless. He had been in a critical condition from the time of the stroke until he died today.

Mr. Weekes began his newspaper career at Grand Island in 1879 but is better known from his long association with the Norfolk Press and for his "Old Man's Column" in that paper, which has won comment all over the country. He had a keen wit and the paragraphs in his column were tinged with his sparkling humor.

He was president of the Northeast Nebraska Editorial association, having been elected by unanimous vote at the convention held in January of this year. He had been active for many years also in the state editorial association and helped prepare the big celebration at Norfolk this year for the national editorial association convention.

He was the husband of Marie Weekes, who has been active editor of the Norfolk Press during the last few years and is widely known for her success as a newspaper woman.

Announcement

I have purchased from W. A. Truman the establishment of the Wayne Cleaning Works, and I am now in possession. The services of John Huth, reliable tailor, will be retained. Improvements will be made to facilitate work, and everything will be done in a prompt, careful and business-like manner. I have had many years of successful experience in this business, and I feel confident that I can satisfy the demands of the public.

I am anxious to extend acquaintance and invite opportunities to show what we can do in the way of service and workmanship.

THE WAYNE HERALD

The Oldest Established Paper in Wayne County

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY

Entered at the postoffice at Wayne, Nebraska, as Second Class Mail Matter in 1886 under the act of March 3, 1879. Known office of publication, Wayne, Nebraska.

E. W. HUSE, Editor and Prop.
Subscription, $2.00 Per Year in Advance.

TELEPHONE 146

People do not like to be accused falsely. It is bad enough to be accused justly.

It is interesting to note that prices for cattle have nearly reached the high war time level. Farmers who have fat cattle to market will be generously rewarded.

A preacher at Grand Rapids, Mich., is trying to disprove the claim that he is the husband of three wives. He ought to know, and so, too, they ought to know.

Increased number of prisoners in the Nebraska penitentiary and reformatory may not indicate increased crime, but rather show increased convictions. Jurors may have decided to put an effectual crimp in the crime business.

A government report states that investigations have proved that hawks and owls are good for something. They destroy rodents. We wonder if any one will ever discover that rats and other rodents are good for something.

Editors of the state will regret to hear of the death of W. H. Weekes, publisher of the Norfolk Press, at his home in that city Sunday. Mr. Weekes was prominent in district and state newspaper organizations, and he was a resourceful writer. His wife, Mrs. Marie Weekes, well known newspaper worker, will have the sympathy of all.

We can't see how Tunney could feel so refreshed after having been knocked down in the seventh round that he could renew the battle with intensified force that brought victory in the tenth. In the seventh he seemed about used up. In the tenth he proved a dynamo of energy and smashed his way to triumph. Knocking him down seemed to put new life into him.

Most of the corn raised in Wayne county is fed here and converted into cash by way of live stock. Thus, the price of corn is not so important as the price of hogs and cattle, only as the price of one influences the price of the other. High-priced

PUGILISM

The ten-round fistie battle between Champion Gene Tunney and former champion Jack Dempsey was witnessed by 150,000 people who paid a total of $2,800,000 for the privilege. Tunney fought to defend his title as world champion. Dempsey fought to reclaim what he had lost some months before. Punishing each other was not safeguarding a cherished principle or to advance some worthy cause. The impact of sledge-hammer blows until one or the other surrendered in helpless exhaustion was not done to throw a ray of light on art, science, literature or invention, or to provide a way to lighten human tasks or strengthen human happiness. It was done to gratify the instinct for exhibitions of brute force and in return reap big material fortunes. The next day we saw two school boys fighting in the midst of a group of companions. Doubtless many youthful battles were waged without other reason than to ape the Tunney-Dempsey bill, but with as much reason as the latter, aside from the huge gate receipts and the opportunity offered for betting. Under this apparently approved pugilistic influence, is it to be expected that youth would not seek to imitate physical prowess so loudly acclaimed and so generously rewarded? It is not so surprising that men will fight for the distinction of being the biggest bruiser, with certainty of big stakes, as it is surprising that the masses do not faster grow away from frenzied interest in trials of brutality. But we are making progress. Contrast with pastimes relished by the old Roman empire reflects favorably on present civilization. Among other diversions, Romans amused themselves by flinging human beings into dens of wild beasts. In time a fight will not be considered a success in proportion to the amount of blood spilled or the number of inches inflicted. In time we may not wish to see people bruised or suffer.

corn tends to make high-priced live stock, but the chief problem that engages the attention of Wayne county farmers at this time is not to pay too much for their feeders, and thus not to fail indirectly in realizing all they should from their corn.

Mr. Meredith, Iowa publisher, is being analyzed as a presidential possibility, and the New York Times suggests that he lacks "the touch of eminence." The Sioux City Journal suggests that he is shy on ability to arouse passionate enthusiasm. It takes no many requirements to become an acceptable candidate for president that we are glad we have no ambition in that line.

An industrial head suggests that you can't hire a manager for a business or an industry who is capable of doing any successful managing until he grows solidly into the affairs of the institution. He says you can't employ a man, no matter how capable, and expect him to master details and triumph over difficulties unless he is thoroughly engrossed in the task. You might as well hire a man to laugh when he feels disconsolate and sad.

It would seem that the railroads have an increasing problem in their diminishing passenger traffic. Through lines are reported to be running full trains, but branch lines seem to have suffered steadily decrease. Every hard-surfaced road means less use of trains, and the demand for gravel and concrete is growing fast. What will be the future of branch passenger trains? Will they be operated at a loss or will they be discontinued? It is a question which doubtless at this time engages the earnest thought of railroad heads.

A town that stands out as exceptional in constructive endeavor unites its forces for the furtherance of every worthy and useful plan. Objections may be found for any forward movement suggested, and there may be many different ways to accomplish desired ends. But headway cannot be made if people lie down because they do not agree on directions to follow. It is wiser to run the risk of error than to grope in doubt and indecision and make no progress. The live town takes chances. The one that risks nothing never starts and of course could not expect to arrive.

Cold, wet weather prevailed during the fore part of the week and people were apprehensive that hopes for their county fair would be dashed to the ground. Snow in some parts of the state and intermittent rain here did not offer very strong encouragement. The elements became more friendly with the opening day, however, and it is hoped mild weather will continue through the week. All departments of the fair are rich in exhibits and show off well the resources of this section of the state. The entries and other attractions deserve an unprecedented attendance which will be realized if winter does not suddenly slide into the saddle.

The hotel project is going forward and promises to be concluded within a few weeks. The plan has been launched in good faith to meet a need which no one questions. The young man who is here to invest in the improvement and have charge of the hotel when it is completed, expects, by satisfying a pressing demand, to make a success of the business. None of the money subscribed will be used for promotion or to handle costly preliminaries. No donations will be accepted. The more people who take stock in the proposed improvement, the more people will be vitally interested in its development. It looks like a practical plan to secure for Wayne a new, modern hotel building.

A writer states that two or three hundred years before the beginning of the Christian era women dominated the men, and that they are now coming back to run things. It is stated that during this period women went forth to conquer and provide, and that men were herded at home and did what they were told to do. Finally the women weakened and became subordinate. They continued so for twenty centuries, but they are now coming back. The self-assertion of modern women is pointed out in mild contrast with their future status. Men who depreciate the forward activities of women are expected to open their mouths wider and depreciate louder as time goes on. As a matter of fact, however, elevation of the early role of women did not happen to appear in any of the histories that came within our scope of reading. It may have been purposely omitted.

FOR PRESIDENT

"William Ritchie, Jr., the Omaha lawyer who wants to be elected democratic national committee man from Nebraska, has given the newspapers an interview in which he says that Charley Bryan talked to him over the telephone and asked him to aid in the formation of a Bryan-for-president club in Omaha. Mr. Ritchie says Mr. Bryan said over the telephone that if he could get Nebraskans to organize for him for president he would go into other states and get out a presidential possibility to go out and organize clubs for himself, but Charley is nothing if not unusual.—Geneva Signal.

We do not wish to hamper or discourage the democratic party, though we would really like to see it agree on Charley and nominate him for president. Because the campaign would then be comparatively easy and free from doubt, even the expensive straw polls would be required to determine

TEMPER.
In a current magazine we read the story of a man who had controlled what he believed was the most violent temper in the world. For years his temper was the boss, and it got him into all kinds of trouble. He had boasted that he said what he thought without regard to the occasion or to people's feelings. He found he had no friends, and the little business he had was slipping away from him. On slight pretext he would burst into ugly anger, and the fact that people re-treated and said nothing was misinterpreted by him as evidence of bigness. But he engendered disgust, and people shrank from him as they would from a snake. He found that instead of being big he was contemptibly small. Finally he took his temper in hand and conquered it. He had no more wild outbursts of wrath. When he felt hot flashes creeping over him he kept still. Friendships developed, business grew, the world looked brighter and he felt better.

the outcome in advance. And if any one of a list of dozen mentioned by the republicans is nominated, the result could be highly satisfactory to the general public.

To What End?

(Sioux City Journal.)
"I am impressed," said the Gentle Cynic, as he settled himself comfortably in the editor's easy chair, "by the futility of human effort. A vast deal of such effort fails of its ultimate purpose. The best laid schemes of mice and men gang aft a-gley, and leave us nought but grief and pain for promised joy." Men toil laboriously for a lifetime, practicing self denial and sacrifice, and often ruin their health in accumulating an estate. Then, with little or no opportunity to enjoy the reward of their labor, they die, and their heirs quickly dissipate their accumulations in a riot of unwise spending. I have seen this procedure repeated times without number, although there are notable exceptions, and it is so much the rule that we have a saying that it is but three generations from shirtsleeves to shirtsleeves in this country.

"What profit hath a man of all his labor which he taketh under the sun?" This was the inquiry of the cynic who wrote the book of Ecclesiastes, and it may be applied to the men of our own time. What profit have they of all their labor under the sun? Very little, it seems to me. Doubtless they derive a certain joy and satisfaction from their labor; achieve a measure of happiness in the creation of the estates which they leave behind them when they die. Nevertheless, in so large a number of cases the effort turns out to be futile. The chief end of the creation of an estate is not attained, namely, permanence. They might well exclaim, when their comes to die, "What was the use!"

"And so I say," continued the Gentle Cynic, "as I see the profligate sons and incompetent daughters wasting the accumulations of their parents, 'What is the use!' If we could have an accounting of all the wasted effort, of all the futile labor and scheming, of all the profitless sacrifices and self denials, I presume that we would be appalled at the enormity of it. It seems to me that there is much unwise economy, and self denial. This saving for a rainy day may be all right, but I am not strong for it. People who save for a rainy day are likely to become so confirmed in the habit of saving that the day never comes when they are willing to spend a part of their accumulations for enjoyment of life. They live meekly and hang on to their money with a deathlike grip, and then when they are dead their sons and daughters or perhaps other relatives for whom they care less, have the fun of spending it. Vanity, all is vanity, said the cynic. Futility, all is futility, say I.

"Nothing is more pathetic than the futility of human effort; the failure of human plans; the labor that counts for naught. But this sort of waste ever seems to have been present in the world, and I am sure that nothing can be done about it. Men will continue to spend themselves in futile labor, as they have been spending themselves since time began.

"But we may be thankful that there are people who refuse to wear themselves out in such a struggle; who have no desire for accumulations, or for the bubble reputation, or for fame; who are content to live each day fully, enjoying life as it passes and extracting from it the maximum of satisfaction, lives, absolved from envy and interest; whose estate consists of a good name, a record of kindly deeds, and the esteem and friendship of their fellows."

Transportation.

Hartington Herald: We are advised by the newspapers that more and more important steps are being taken every day in the matter of transportation. First the ox cart, next the horse and buggy, then the Hiver and now the airplane—all this within the memory of men and women now living; and the end is not yet. The era of transportation is just begin and what progress will be made in the next hundred years no one can forecast. Wonderful things have been accomplished in the past, but there are still undreamed of possibilities in the future. In the same issue of a daily newspaper, we read that Ford is about to bring out an entirely new model of a low priced car, that a certain inventor has invented an individual flying machine which will weigh not over 100 pounds and will be propelled by foot power. Imagination can easily vision the time when not only will we be darting back and forth to our daily work in high powered and inexpensive motor cars, but will also fly higher, thicker and von in equally powerful and moderately priced airships and the golden era of transportation will have reached its apex. Whether trans-oceanic flying will ever become commercially practicable or not, is as yet an unsolved problem; but that a simple plane may be perfected which can be employed in short overland flights is quite within the realm of possibilities. We are living in an age when the dream of yesterday becomes the reality of tomorrow.

Radio Peril.

Omaha World-Herald: One of the most attractive things about radio is its comparative harmlessness. There are no grade crossing accidents in radio, no turning over in the ditch, no hit, and run driving, no tail hop, the kind of lawless driving that has become rampant in the automobile. It is as safe as playing with a Persian kitten and as sane as croquet. All you do is turn a knob light a cigar, lean back in your easy chair and let science and art take their course.

But hold, perhaps we are too hasty in this estimate of radio. It was yesterday when the foregoing paragraph was written. Today comes disturbing news. It knocks all our notions about the simple innocence of radio into a cocked hat. The wires carry the mournful intelligence that ten men lost their lives listening to the returns of the Dempsey-Tunney prize fight by radio.

One death might have been accounted for by the law of probabilities and two could have been dismissed as a coincidence, but ten can't be accounted for by only one thing, the reaction due to the dramatic intensity of Graham McNamee's broadcasting.

Judging only from the effect produced one must say that the voice of McNamee carried a thrill that was absent at the ringside. There were no deaths in the arena, nobody even suffered a stroke or fainted away, so far as we have heard. And this in spite of the fact that there is a special hazard where two or three are gathered together in multiples of tens of thousands. It took Graham McNamee and the radio to produce an effect which neither the fighters unaided nor mob psychology nor both confined could produce.

We might have known, as we sat and listened to the recital of this twentieth century bard, that something of the sort would happen. There were times when we thought the announcer was about to pass out himself. As his voice trailed off into a gasp following the details of some thrilling climax we more than half expected to hear the voice of a substitute announcing that he had taken the count. But for a stout heart and the fact that we had greater interest in the artistry of McNamee than in the fortune of either of the fighters we might have suffered the same fate.

Rising Cattle Market.

Omaha World-Herald, Sept. 28.—Prices of fed steers approached wartime levels on the South Omaha live stock market Tuesday when Fred Nelson, Oakland, Neb., cattle feeder, marketed 22 head of long yearling Hereford steers averaging 1,102 pounds that sold for $15.40 per hundred. The steers were bought on this market as calves last fall and put on a full feed of alfalfa hay and ground corn last March.

The steers were sold on an outside order for eastern slaughter interests. This is the highest price paid for cattle of any weight on the South Omaha market since June, 1920. Nelson also had on the market 43 head of straight Hereford yearling steers averaging 950 pounds that sold for $15, which until Tuesday equaled the extreme market top for steers of their weight so far this year.

Another noteworthy transaction was the sale of 25 head of horned Hereford yearling steers averaging 999 pounds that sold for $15.25. This price is the highest paid so far this year for yearlings. The shipment was marketed by George Wehrer of Wisper, Neb.

According to local live stock commission men, still higher prices are anticipated, due to a noticeable curtailment in the marketing of strictly choice and prime beefs. Yearling feeders marketed by Arthur Fitter of Grey Bull, Wyo., sold for $10.25 Tuesday, which is another new high market this season for yearling feeders, and still over $1.40 higher than feeders sold upward to $11.40.

Shipments of feeder cattle from the sandhills and western ranges are running far below those of last year. According to the best available information, there is no shortage of cattle, but the slump in receipts of feeders is due to direct buying. It was reported in live stock circles some weeks ago that enormous numbers of western range cattle had been sold direct to corn belt feed lots at prices ranging from $7.50 to $9.00 per hundred.

Former School Head Sells Tekamah Paper

Decatur, Neb., Sept. 27.—Robert Maher, former state editor for the Associated Press, has purchased the Burt County Tribune from H. H. Reimund of Tekamah. Mr. Reimund will start work for an Omaha book and paper company.

Before going into newspaper work, Mr. Reimund was superintendent of the Tekamah schools for 15 years.

Two Are Members Life Saving Corps

Miss Alice Berry and Miss Marie Denkinger of Wayne, students at the Wayne State Teachers College, became members of the Red Cross Life Saving corps this summer. They received their swimming instructions from Miss Esmer Dewitz, head of the physical education department for women at the school here. The two passed their examinations at the Sioux City Y. W. C. A. This is the first time in the history of the school that students have achieved this distinction.

Sunday school and young people's meetings as usual. No evening preaching service.

Inside Problem.

(New Yorker.)
We have always felt that too little of what goes on in big business conferences ever leaks out. Therefore, we are happy to be able to report one occurrence of which we got wind this week. The problem was that of relations with a certain concern. "As I see it," said one executive, "our best plan is to ignore them utterly for two or three months. That will bring them around." The suggestion was indorsed heartily by all save one hesitant conferee. "Yes," he said, "but how are we going to get word to them that we are ignoring them?"

What Mr. Meredith Lacks.

Sioux City Journal: The New York Times, analyzing Mr. Meredith's qualities and qualifications as a presidential possibility, discovers him to be impeccable. In brief, the Times finds nothing against Mr. Meredith's leadership, but its discoverers also nothing in particular that makes him a leader. "He has no discernible qualities," says the Times, "calculated to put fight in the democratic party or to rouse the masses." * * * He lacks the touch of eminence. * * * In every way he typifies one of those worthy and unexceptionable men who are bound to be mentioned in every situation like the present, and then vanish from consideration. * * * It is difficult to think of him as such a pillar of fire and enthusiasm as Mr. McAdoo furnished in the last two conventions." What the present situation calls for, the Times concludes, is a man capable of arduous fierce opposition, and fiercer favor, like Jackson, or Cleveland, or Wilson. It is clear from this that Mr. Meredith will not be acceptable to Gov. Smith's supporters as a substitute for the governor, in the interest of party harmony. But has not the Times sized up the situation accurately?

This might be a large fat sheep-dog. But as a fact it's a musk ox which was captured in Greenland and presented recently to the London Zoological Society.

The democrats to win, will need a leader capable of arousing passionate enthusiasm. It is difficult to imagine Mr. Meredith, able and unexceptionable as he is, doing that.

Federal Court In Session At Norfolk Norfolk, Neb., Sept. 28.—T. A. Anthon, former president of the defunct First National Bank of Wausa, went on trial in federal court in Norfolk before Judge J. W. Woodruff Tuesday, charged on nine counts of violating the national banking act. Two cases, one of two counts and one of seven counts were consolidated, while another case of two more counts remains to be disposed of at the conclusion of the present trial. Anthony pleaded not guilty to all eleven counts. The greater part of the day was taken up with opening statements by attorneys and the introduction of documents, bank books, and other records in evidence. Two witnesses, H. H. Rose of Kansas City and George G. Cronkleton, receiver of the First National bank of Wausa, were put on the stand and testified as to the financial condition of the institution. Mr. Rose testified that the Wausa bank was a member of the federal reserve system. Court adjourned at 5 p. m., Tuesday until 9 a. m., Wednesday morning with Mr. Cronkleton still on the stand. The remainder of the court proceedings during the day had to do with the arraignment of liquor case defendants. Twenty-six persons pleaded not guilty to liquor charges and two entered pleas of guilty. The two pleading guilty, Otto Birdhead and John Strickland, were given fines of $25 each. The cases in which pleas of not guilty were entered were: Clem Dommissie, Otto Knudson, Dave Milligan, Andrew La Prath, George Nordhouse, Ervin Kuhl, alias Kenneth Kiel; Hugo Mittelstadt; Fred Heckman and Hugo Mittelstadt, Jack Harlander, Jack Linderman, Christina Henry and Samuel Meek, Alex Schultz, Fred Heckman, Fritz Miller, W. Obert Merchant Is Sentenced To Pen Hartington, Neb., Sept. 27.—Floyd T. Long, Obert merchant, was sentenced to from one to five years in the state penitentiary following conviction in district court here of committing assault with intent to do great bodily injury to Peter Lund, Wymot butcher. The assault grew out of differences between Mr. Lund and Long's father, who had rented a part of Lund's market in Wynot for a grocery store. Later moving the grocery stock out, he used the room for storage for pig feed until fined in county court for violation of health rules. Later, when young Long met Lund on a street in Hartington, he struck him on the jaw so hard that when Lund's head hit the sidewalk, he suffered a fractured skull and concussion of the brain. Norfolk Hen Makes Egg Laying Record Norfolk, Neb., Sept. 26: With the "crisis" over, poultry fanciers and others interested this morning continued to watch Lady Norfolk, a Norfolk hen that is making history and adding to the fame of Norfolk, with the expectation that she would deposit her 151st consecutive egg in her nest in Omaha today. Lady Norfolk, referred to in metropolitan papers by the name of Babe Ruth, owing to her "home run" abilities, broke the world's egg laying record Sunday when she laid her 150th egg in as many consecutive days. Lady Norfolk is owned by Allen R. Landers, proprietor of the Landers Leghorn farm, and was sent to Omaha to take part in an egg laying contest. No marked ability was noticed in the hen when Mr. Landers picked her out of the flock to represent the Landers Leghorn farm in the national contest. George A. Danforth, who has charge of the contest in Omaha, says she received no special care; that she had the same food as the other hens and that she was just a chicken to him until he was compelled to take notice of her by her marathon egg laying tendencies. Then it was Mr. Danforth named her Lady Norfolk. The previous record was held by Lady Lindy, a hen entered in an egg laying contest at Fayetteville, Ark. Lady Lindy laid eggs on 149 consecutive days. District Meeting Is Held At Pierce Pierce, Neb., Sept. 28.—One hundred and twenty-five enthusiastic members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows gathered here last night for their semi-annual district meeting. Norfolk Madison, Tilden and Pierce lodges were represented at the meeting. Among the distinguished guests present was Grand Master Charles W. Ray of North Platte, who conducted a school of instruction, and made one of the best talks Odd Fellows in this district have heard on Oddfellowship. The Tilden degree team put on the initiatory work and the Madison team exemplified the third degree. Members of the Rebekah lodge served dinner at 6 o'clock in the basement of the Congregational church. The next meeting will be in the spring at Pierce. In Defense of the Boy. Atchison Globe: Now and then one meets a man who has reached the age when men forget the "cussedness" of their boyhood days.

And that man draws down his face and curls his lips and makes assertion that the youth of today is a "bad one."

So it is refreshing to meet men who are of the opinion that the young men of today are, after all, wholesome and sensible.

Yesterday this reporter met two fathers who believe their sons are better young men than they were when they were young.

One of the men said: "My boy is 18 years old, and is a better citizen than I was at his age."

"He is interested in science and electricity, and sometimes I think he is a genius along those lines. He is polite to his teachers."

"He makes good grades in school."

"About twice a week he stays out as late as 10 p. m. On other nights he is home by 8:30 or 9 o'clock."

"He belongs to a lively gang of young people, but as far as I know that gang behaves itself."

"He doesn't mind working—every summer he gets a job of some kind."

"He knows what he wants to be when he gets out into the world."

"When I was his age I didn't give a dang."

"I hated school and school teachers."

"I had no idea what I wanted to do when I got out into the world."

"I had no manners."

"I played cards in saloons."

"I belonged to a gang that put on three keg parties a week."

"That gang started a fight at every dance."

"I'd worry my head off today if my son were as much a rough neck as I was when I was his age."

Here's the tribute the second man paid to his son:

"My boy is out west on the coast."

"I get good reports from him."

"Judging from these reports, he has more sense than his daddy ever had."

The man who said that has always been regarded as one of the most sensible and successful men in Atchison.

Motorized Kerrihard Automatic Oil Burner

A five minutes' study of the remarkable facts presented here in plain, non-technical language will give you an entirely new conception of Automatic Oil Burners. Kerrihard engineers with 14 successful years of domestic oil burner experience behind them have produced the most sensational development in the history of heating homes with oil.

It does not matter how you are now heating your home, you should know about the new Motorized Kerrihard. Everyone knows the advantages of an oil heated home—with the new Kerrihard you have all of the advantages and comforts without the disadvantages that have been encountered with motor driven burners.

Just think of this! The new Motorized Kerrihard is the only oil burner equipped with an electric motor driven fan or blower that will operate and heat your house efficiently without the use of the electric motor driven fan or blower. Does not that give you a feeling of security, to know that no matter what happens to the electrical equipment through breakage or the discontinuing of current from the electric company, you can always have heat?

The new Kerrihard burns so quietly that "you have to listen for it." Noise has been reduced to the minimum and all this has been accomplished without cumbersome attachments or tubes.

The Kerrihard burns clean—there's no trace of unpleasant "oil burning" odor in the house. You will enjoy more heat, better health and comfort.

The Motorized Kerrihard is one of the few automatic burners that can be installed in any kind of heating plant—hot water, steam or hot air. There is no brick work necessary to protect your furnace or boiler. With this burner you will be free from the many mechanical worries that have no doubt caused you concern when you considered oil heat. No mechanical knowledge is required to operate it.

Man by nature will pay back and break even. So it would help us considerably when repeating the Lord's prayer to ask ourselves if we do forgive and forget. If not, we have no earthly claim to ask God's forgiveness, for our prayer really is for something from God equal to what we tender our fellowmen.

Nebraska Journalist Writes From Bavaria

H. W. O. Jones in Lincoln Journalist. MUNICH, Bavaria, in September.—Don't let anybody tell you that the German people do not know they lost the war.

The man across the table was complaining about the new social order that has arisen all over Germany as the result of the war.

On the train coming over from Vienna was a high class Bavarian, an intellectual who knows both Austria and Bavaria.

At the Munich handicraft exposition one of the directors walked with me through his department and talked about the future of Germany.

archist who wants the empire restored, but not under the Hohenzollerns. They don't know how the old institution is to be put back, but they long for the old times, before the world came to an end.

At this town hall dinner, one of the most elaborate affairs any of us have ever attended, my neighbors noticed my attempts to keep the waiters from filling my glasses and were sympathetic in helping me to get water.

Having been told that beer in Munich is not an intoxicating drink but is a harmless and wholesome food I asked about that phase of the drink problem.

Two Banks Robbed.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 28.—Banks at Milford and McCool Junction were looted by robbers last night, the state sheriff's office was informed today.

Little information could be secured from McCool Junction because the robbers had cut cables and aerial wires in the village.

The Milford bank officials refused to give out the amount which was in the safe and were waiting the arrival of state officers before opening it.

Entrance to the Milford bank evidently was gained by means of a key to one of the doors.

County Donations To Flood Sufferers

Many donations were received by the American Red Cross chapter in Wayne within the past few months for the Mississippi flood sufferers' relief. The total sum of $400 was sent to the Red Cross headquarters at St. Louis, Mo. The amount included $223.10, individual and group gifts, and $176.90, chapter gifts. W. M. Orr, treasurer, reports the amounts. Those left at the First National bank of Wayne were the following: Mrs. W. E. Back for club $4; Monday club, $5; no name $6; Methodist church, $5; George Bruns, $2; Acme club, $5; Miss Bertha Berres, $2; S. E. Auker, $5; Charles Ulrich, $1; A. R. Davis, $5; W. A. K. Neely, $5; and A. G. Wert, $5.

Contributions left at the State Bank of Wayne are: Margaret Auker, $2; W. H. Gildersleeve, $10; James Rennie, $1; Professional and Business Woman's club, $10; W. H. Hollman, $1; Mrs. Julia Lage, $10; Mrs. Grace Gunther, $15; S. B. Whitmore, $15; Mrs. Henry Giese, $5; Carl J. Slevers, $2; Rollie W. Ley, $5; Henry Schmitz, $1; Miss Edith Stocking, $2; Henry Ehlers, $5; George J. Davis, $5; Alpha Woman's club, $5; C. E. Gildersleeve, $5; Altrusa club, $2; Methodist Sunday school, $9.60; Henry Westerkhaus, $10; St. Paul Lutheran Aid, $5; K. Henry Meyer, $2; C. E. Wright, $5; Mrs. W. E. Lindsay, $5; and Janice Leed, $1.50.

Amounts received at the Hopkins State Bank were as follows: Pio Anderson, $5; Dan McCarigan, $10; Gust Bekman, $3; Fred Ulrich, $5; Fred Chapman, $2; Mrs. Rohrk, $5; Caroline Wookman, $1; and Mrs. W. Kamier, $3.

Donations were sent direct to the flood sufferers from other individuals and groups in the county also.

Charity. Charity is pretty rapidly going out of fashion. The old ways of dealing with the poor and needy are no longer approved. Social welfare agents now look coolly around, discover the element that is born or inoculated with poverty thoughts, and proceed to set in motion the machinery that will care for these ineffective ones and keep them from becoming either a menace or a charge on the rest. Getting at the problem of ministering to the poor from the standpoint of social improvement of the rest, rather than help for the unfortunate few, is making charities more practical, and as they become more practical all they are better supported. A poor ye have with you always' and then sets about the task of caring for them in a systematic and thorough way. In time every community will have its own community chest for caring for its own unfortunate ones, both for the aid of the needy and the protection of the rest.

Mrs. W. E. Griffin Passes In Oakdale

Funeral service was conducted Tuesday of last week at Oakdale for Mrs. W. E. Griffin, mother of Mrs. Lillian Edwards of Carroll, who died Sept. 18, aged 66 years, 2 months and 27 days. Deceased had suffered a broken hip when visiting at Burwell, Neb., just four weeks before her death.

Mrs. Griffin's maiden name was Miss Margaret Huston. She was born in Tipperary, Ireland, on June 22, 1861. When a child she moved with her parents to Orillia, Ontario, Canada, where she grew to womanhood. She was married Sept. 18, 1885, to William E. Griffin. In 1892 the family moved to a farm near Elgin, Neb. Three years ago they went to Oakdale.

Mrs. Griffin leaves her husband and the following children: Albert Griffin of Neligh, Ellsworth Griffin of Elgin, Mrs. May Clubine of Winner, S. D.; Mrs. Lillian Edwards of Carroll, Mrs. Blanch Clausen of Pender, and Miss Eva and Miss Jeanette Griffin, at home. One son, Henry Griffin, died in infancy.

Wedding Is To Be Event Of November

The Los Angeles California Times announces the approaching marriage of Miss Pauline Brown and Burton Chace of Long Beach. The paper says:

"Mrs. Josephine Brown announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Pauline Bernice Brown, to Burton Chace of Long Beach at a bridge-tee given in the Pacific Coast Club at Long Beach, seventy of the honoree's sorority sisters and friends being bidden. The wedding is to be an event of November 18 at the Wisconsin Congregational church. Miss Brown completed her junior year at University of California at Los Angeles in June and is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. She was vice-president of her class and served in the same capacity in the Commerce club and Writers' club. Mr. Chace is a former University of Nebraska student and a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity."

Burton Chace formerly lived in Wayne and Stanton and is a nephew of C. A. Chace of this city.

Hope To Continue School Band Contest

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 22.—Whether the high school band contest shall be continued at the state fair, is a question on which the fair board now is in a quandary. George Jackson, secretary of the board, said today.

The contest was tried for the first time this year and $2,000 was set aside for it, he continued. Seventeen entries were made and these bands were advertised and expected to fulfill their part on the program. But, just one week before the fair, several bands can-

The Best Ever

The sun betimes has been a thief
To rob us in July
But now great gods of farm relief
Come from a cloudless sky,
While politicians, all forlorn,
Are being "rattled" by the corn.
The swine are fattening in their pens,
The cows in pastures graze;
The butter-fat and fat young hens
Deserve this song of praise.
Our agriculturist today
Is doing bully every way.
All day he toils without a frown,
His face and arms a-tan,
And in the evening drives to town
—For he's a movie fan—
His wife and children come along,
Their hearts, like his, attuned to song.
The politicians cause him grief;
Their gabble gives him chills;
They tell him that he needs "relief!"
From certain concrete ills.
And in one sense they haven't lied;
They are those ills personified.

Wayne School Work Is Schedules Early This Week on Account of County Fair

State Teachers' Association Congratulates Wayne Band on Recent Honor—Other News

Early dismissal is arranged this week Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the Wayne high school on account of the fair. Work will begin at 8 o'clock in the morning. Six periods will be completed by 12:30. Wednesday the fifth period classes were omitted; Thursday, the sixth period; and Friday, the seventh period.

Letter of Congratulation

E. Hosman, secretary of the Nebraska State Teachers Association, wrote Supt. T. S. Hook a letter congratulating the school administration and the town on the recent achievement of the Wayne high school band. This letter was read to the high school assembly.

The Office Notes

New books, to replace worn out or insufficient numbers for our modern standards of education, have arrived.

A new course of music books has arrived for the grade students. A letter box has been placed in the office where the teachers can get their school mail.

The teachers in the grades are teaching art to the pupils of their respective rooms. This is thought to be a decided improvement over the old method.

Health examinations have been carried on in the past week.

A new piano has been placed in the music room. This is a small style Bush & Lane piano. It takes up much less space than the old style piano did. It has the standard keyboard.

Assembly News

Last week the march was played by Maxine Rhoades at the piano and Robert Jørgensen at the drum. The drum accompaniment put more pep in the marching.

Mrs. Allis Pollard made the announcement that there would be boys' glee club each week on Monday and Wednesday, and girls' glee club on Tuesday and Thursday. There are twenty-six boys and thirty-five girls doing glee club work under the direction of Miss Laura Randolph this year. Physical examinations were given to all students in school. Four rooms were used for this purpose. Each room was occupied by a doctor. Several students acted as secretaries. The four giving the examinations were Dr. G. J. Hess, Dr. C. T. Ingham, Dr. E. S. Blair and Dr. S. A. Lutgen. The teachers who have taught in Wayne high school before were hosts to the new teachers at the Wayne candy kitchen a short time ago.

Tuesday, September 20, the teachers had a winter roast at the fair grounds.

A new classification for high school subjects has been arranged. First year classes are designated by the Roman numeral I; second year classes, II; third year, III, and fourth year, IV. This eliminates excessive numbering and serves as an indication of the high school year in which the subject is taken.

Boys' Glee Club Organized

The following twenty-five boys are enrolled in the recently organized boys' glee club: Stanley Barlow, Donald Beaman, Howard Beckenhauer, Fred Davis, George Downing, Max Ellis, Joe Ellis, Dick Fenske, Harry Fisher, Lawrence Gregwald, Charles Ingham, John King, Eugene Leonard, Leo Moore, Harold Marshall, Paul Peterson, Carl Peterson, Franklin Philleo, Newell Pollard, Walter Sund, Woodrow Schmelz, Marvin Thompson, William Wallace, Vern Waller and Leo Weber.

School Band News

A special meeting was called Friday, September 16, for those who cared to enroll for the band work this year. As a result of this meeting forty-one new members enrolled.

The high school and town bands combined play at the fair grounds on September 28, September 30 and October 1.

Athletic Notes

The football team is rounding into shape. The letter men back in their respective positions are: Captain Max Ellis, Doc Surber, Darrel Trumbauer, Verne Sylvanus, Harry Fisher, Herbert Perry and William Andersen. The non-letter men who are showing up well are: Blaine Ellis, Alvin Bertrand, Allan Perdue, Paul James, Roy Green, Paul and Carl Peterson.

The probable line-up for the Pilger-Wayne game to be played Friday at the fair grounds will be as follows: Captain Ellis, center; Blaine Ellis and Paul Peterson, guards; Perdue, Green and James reserves; Surber and Bertrand, tackles; Trumbauer and Carl Peterson, ends; Fisher, quarterback; Sylvanus and Andersen, half-backs.

Senior Class Notes

The senior class of 1928 met for the first time September 25. Supt. T. S. Hook gave a talk about the requirements of class officers. In speaking of the conduct of the seniors he said, "Seniors are to have fun, in fact they should have more fun and less foolishness than any other class."

Miss Mary Mjelenz and Supt. Hook as sponsors of the senior class explained the senior spirit and the necessity of the cooperation of each member to carry on through the year.

The class was called to order by Kathryn Lou Davis, the former vice president. She took charge of the meeting until the president was elected.

Dorothy Loomis, Maxine Rhoades and Stanley McChesney were nominated for president.

The last named received the majority of votes and will be the senior president this year. Kathryn Lou Davis was elected vice president. Dorothy Loomis and Wallace Johnson were nominated for secretary and treasurer. The former carried the election. Helon Rundell, Maxine Rhoades and Darrel Trumbauer were nominated for representative to the student council. Darrel Trumbauer was elected to this office.

A motion was made and carried that the money left over from the junior-senior banquet should not be refunded but left in the treasury to be spent for class necessities.

Harry Fisher, Annabel Davis,

Max Ellis and Maxine Rhoades were appointed by the president to act as a committee to decide about the expenditure of the class money. It was moved, and seconded that a committee be appointed to invite Frederick Perry to join the class in the next meeting. Frederick was president of the class last year and is unable to be with the group this year because of ill health. The business finished, the class adjourned.

Junior Class Notes

The juniors in English V have been studying the work of Spencer and the first canto of "The Faerie Queen."

In this course six book reports are required each semester. The first on this year will be written in class next week.

There are eight new pupils in the junior class this year. Edna Ericson has entered after a year's absence from school. The following pupils who entered the junior class this year are from the State Normal training school: Alice Beckenhauer, Howard Beckenhauer, Marian Jo Theobald, Frances Turner, Fern Wamberg, Roberta Whorlow, Viola Youm.

Grace Evans is a new pupil in the junior class this year. She came from Schuyler high school.

The junior class has twenty-three girls and twenty-two boys this year. Officers have been elected as follows: Harold Marshall, president; Fred Davis, vice president; Miriam Hase, secretary; and William Andersen, student council representative.

Sophomore Class Notes

The Caesar classes have started their study in the new Caesar books written by Ullman & Henry. Ancient history from the first of the works through the study of Greece has been outlined. Project work, the making of charts of Egyptian, Babylonian, Persian and Lydian civilizations, will be made.

The plane geometry class is busy with construction work this week.

The sophomore class has fourteen boys and thirty-three girls. Their officers are as follows: Fred Downing, president; Margaret Fenske, vice president; Dorothy Winterstein, secretary-treasurer; Dorothy Ross, student council representative.

Freshmen

The freshmen class elected the following officers: Letha Porterfield, president; Walter Bressler, vice president; Rhea Schmiedeknecht, secretary-treasurer.

The first semester algebra class made bar, circle and broken line graphs. The second semester algebra class is studying quadratic equations.

The public speaking classes have completed their clearness speeches. Clearness in speech teaches one to speak more slowly and clearly. The next work will be impromptu speeches. The public speaking class is keeping speed records. Each counts as far as he can in one breath. Paul Peterson has the highest record. He has counted to 200 in one breath.

Student Council

The classes were organized so that the student council can start functioning in a few days. The student council meets the first Tuesday of every month to carry on the business of the high school. If necessary special meetings may be called.

The student association meets on Tuesday of every fifth week to hear the report of the student council as designated in article 5, section 1 of the constitution.

Kindergarten Notes

The children in the kindergarten are learning the primary colors this week. The art of making circles and learning to skip was recreation study in the kindergarten last week.

Mrs. Leslie Ellis was a Wednesday afternoon visitor.

First Grade

The first graders are working out a very interesting project by means of a new book entitled "Work and Play With Words." This book is used to teach the children the colors. Pictures of a man holding balloons are cut out by the children and pasted on a large piece of paper. The pupils are instructed to paste certain colored balloons to the strings. In this way color instructions are completed.

Booklets of their pictures will be made and taken home once a week.

The girls had a perfect attendance last week. William Kemp was absent Monday.

Second Grade Notes

The pupils have completed the posters and handwork for the fair. They are also working on a seed exhibit.

Paper folding is being taken up in the art work.

The children are having a general review over first grade material.

Mrs. Leslie Ellis was a visitor Wednesday, September 21.

The second grade pupils were given a physical examination Tuesday, Sept. 20, by local physicians.

George Ahlvers and Dorothy Liedtke are absent because of illness. The latter consulted a Sioux City specialist.

Third Grade Notes

The bird house posters for the fair were completed last week. Margaret Randall had a birthday party last Friday afternoon, September 16. The children played games for a while, then Margaret gave each child a lolly-pop.

Eva Livinghouse has been absent this week.

Fourth Grade Notes

The B class has new arithmetic books, "Book One Part One," by Thorndike. The pupils are taking up long division by the Thorndike method, and are progressing quite well.

The history class has finished the study of Columbus, and the geography class is studying about the Eskimos.

The grade has begun the citizenship and health contest. Fifteen minutes is devoted to health inspection and a health story, the first thing in the morning.

Advertising posters for the fair are being completed this week. Margaret Jones and Marjorie Ellis were absent Wednesday, September 21, because of illness.

Fifth Grade News

The fifth A class is having an interesting time studying geography. The class is making a detailed study of Germany, its people, customs and products. It creates a greater interest in the pupils are bringing from their homes various articles that have been made in Germany. One of the boys entertained the class by counting to one hundred in the German language. Others were able to put the German alphabet on the blackboard and to sing a few of the German songs.

The progress in penmanship is very encouraging. Those who excel in the drill exercises earn the right to have their papers posted in the front of the room. This serves to urge the children to do their best.

The health class is studying table manners at the present. In the near future a miniature banquet will be held so that the pupils can put some of their newly acquired manners into use. Penmanship records are improving. Some of the outstanding papers may be seen at the present time on the honor board. These copies belong to: Opal Brown, Lee Porter, Helen Yath, Mary Alice Gildersleeve, Paul Bernston and Sylvia Burton.

Sixth Grades Notes
The sixth B class is having an interesting time in geography. At the present they are studying the peninsula of Florida.

The sixth B grade has a new set of silent readers by Pearson & Hunt. They also have new European history books by Gordy, and "Hygiene, Health and Success" books by Andreas & Evans.

The sixth A class is studying decimals in arithmetic. The art class is practicing pencil sketching and drawing. Romaine Simmerman was absent Wednesday and Thursday on account of sickness.

Seventh Grades Notes
Tom Livinghouse was absent last week on account of a tonsil operation.

Elsie Polck entered the seventh A class Monday of this week. The seventh grade drawing class has been sketching still objects, such as oval-shaped vases.

Eighth Grades Notes
The pupils in the eighth grade wrote business letters this week. Twenty-two health pamphlets from different companies, were ordered. These will be used as references in the physiology class.

The northwest corner of the eighth grade room has been fitted out with bulletin boards. Here will be arranged the health poster made by the class. Physiology drawings will also be found there. These booklets will give the students more interesting material for reference in this course.

The arithmetic class is reviewing decimals.

The reading class is having oral reading to see which row has the best readers. A leader is chosen for each row. It is his duty to see that each one in his row can pronounce difficult words and is able to read as best he can. This stimulates a greater interest in reading.

The history class has been studying the industrial revolution in America and the trouble among the laboring class of people.

Charlene Brown was elected president of the eighth grade; Meredith Robertson, vice president; Claton Powers, secretary and treasurer; and Lloyd Erickson, student council representative. There are eleven girls and fourteen boys in the class.

OUR MOST SEVERE CRITICS

We are the most severe critics of our own work. Every detail of the service given by this establishment, whether technical or commercial, has to pass a strict test to conform to the high standards we have set up. We can't afford to wait for others to point out our faults to us.

An Open Letter to the Editor

From the President of General Motors

LAST SPRING I wrote you that my belief in the country newspaper had led us in General Motors to decide to advertise our products together in the small-city press of the country.

The returns from the series of the messages recently published have justified that faith; and we shall continue to advertise in your community through your newspaper this fall.

It occurs to me, however, that some of your readers may be asking: "What is General Motors?" and "Why is General Motors?" These are fair questions and I should like to answer them as frankly as I can.

General Motors was organized some years ago on the theory that a group of large companies, working together, could render a better service than they could separately. In this we simply applied to industry a principle that is as old as civilization as regards the human family and human progress.

Original members of the General Motors family were Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland and Oldsmobile, together with the Delco-Light Company and other well-known companies manufacturing automotive equipment. By joining together their resources, we were able to establish great Research Laboratories, a 1245-acre Proving Ground and the GMAC Plan of credit purchase, to effect vast economies in purchase and manufacture and distribution; to assure and maintain the quality of every product in the General Motors family.

Has the General Motors family principle proved itself in practice?

The best answer, I think, is to compare the Chevrolet, Buick, Cadillac, Oldsmobile and Oakland of today with the models of five or ten years ago.

Then add Pontiac, a General Motors creation. Add LaSalle, another General Motors creation. And then consider how General Motors has developed these cars into a complete line, within which any family may find a suitable quality car at the price it plans to pay: "A Car for Every Purse and Purpose."

Another example is Frigidaire, the electric refrigerator. General Motors had the resources to spend millions to develop a satisfactory refrigerator, and then to apply to its manufacture the same processes which have increased the utility and lowered the cost of the automobile.

We believe that this record justifies General Motors as an economic institution. Its products are quality products, first of all. Their prices represent the economies of united effort passed on to the purchaser. In the last year one in each three automobiles chosen by the public has been a General Motors car. The service of Delco-Light electric plants has extended to more than a quarter million homes, while Frigidaire has become the world's largest selling convenience of its kind.

We believe also that the values now offered in the current General Motors products (which are listed below) prove anew that "many minds are better than one" and that a family of companies, working together, can produce results which are decidedly in the public interest and of increasing benefit to the individual family.

Very truly yours,
Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President
General Motors Corporation

Bumper Crops in the Northwest Splendid crops of wheat, rye, barley and flax have been harvested this year in the Northwest and are now being threshed. Net returns in many instances are paying for the land on which they were grown. Feed is abundant. The hay crops—alfalfa, sweet clover and native hay—have been immense. Corn promises a wonderful crop. Much of it has matured and is out of the way of frost. Cattle, hogs and sheep will be held and fattened on the farms and ranches. Property is assured for these farmers. What Education Is.
 York Republican: The president of York College explained to the students of his school in the opening session of the fall term the other day that "Education is not an accumulation of facts, it is the unfolding of character." The educator touched a theme that should be more widely put forth. There is a current belief that it is the function of a school to cram the mind of a student with useful information. It can never do that. It can only instruct him how to develop and use his mental processes. When he has learned that, he is educated. The rest is easy. The store of wisdom, of experience and of learning, will come as his life goes on. For he will have been taught how to absorb and classify and use knowledge.
 Let no young man or young woman believe that going to college will make him a master. He becomes a master through the unfolding of his mentality and that is something that requires a lifetime. An educated person is one whose experiences have taught the value of an open and inquiring mind. That mind is not a huge storehouse of information, but it knows how to get information and what to keep and what to throw away.
 Education is, indeed, as the college president declared, the unfolding of character through the training of heart, soul and mind.

Transcending flying, we learn from extensive newspaper reading, is doing wonders to promote international amity, and indicates entirely new methods of wreaking destruction in the next war.—New York Herald Tribune.

Are You Really Well?

For Good Health There Must Be Proper Kidney Action.
 Do you find yourself running down—always tired, nervous and depressed? Are you stiff and aching, subject to nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizzy spells? Are kidney excretions scanty and burning in passage? Know then that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system. If your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them with Doan's Pills. More than 50,000 users have publicly recommended Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Funeral Service Is Conducted Here Tuesday Afternoon for Almond Anderson.

Funeral service was held at the home and at the Salem Lutheran church in Wakefield Tuesday afternoon for Almond Anderson who passed away Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, aged 69 years, 3 months and 1 day.

Rev. J. A. Martin was in charge, and interment was made in the Wakefield cemetery.

Mr. Anderson was assisting his son, Charles Anderson, with farm work Saturday afternoon. He fell from a wagon of hay, and apparently was not injured. In a few minutes, however, he suffered dizziness and was taken to his home in town. He lost consciousness at 8:30 and passed away Sunday morning.

Almond Anderson was born June 24, 1858, in Swedona, Ill. He was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran church there. He married Miss Anna Rodeen Sept. 27, 1885. In March, 1885 they came to Wakefield, Nebr., and had lived here since. Three children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson. One daughter, Mrs. Mathilda Carlson, died at the time of the influenza epidemic in 1919.

Deceased leaves his wife and two children, Charles LeRoy Anderson and Mrs. Rutherford Nimrod of Wakefield. He also leaves seven grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Hamilton of Swedona, Ill., and Mrs. August Samuelson of Wakefield.

Mr. Anderson was a faithful member of the Salem Lutheran church. His pew was seldom vacant when there were divine services.

Sam Pierce of Farragut, Iowa, came Monday to attend the funeral. Others from out of town for the service were: Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Swanson and Mrs. Mary Kingsley of Rook Island, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller of Dakota City, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Richter of Sioux City, Mr. and Mrs. Markus Kroger of Wayne, and Clyde Sundell of Carthage, S. D.
