STORM DESCENDS RIPPING ITS WAY FROM THE NORTH

We do not know how much time and effort were devoted to planning and arranging yesterday's storm at headquarters in Canada, but we do know the job was so well done that when it arrived here it was almost a full-fledged blizzard, lacking none of the biting vigor that characterized the violent atmospheric outbursts of the early days. However, lack of snow in this vicinity made it rank somewhat below the hurriedly presented so familiar to first settlers. From a not intolerable level the mercury descended rapidly Tuesday afternoon and evening. Below zero temperatures registered all day yesterday, and enough snow was swept along by a fierce gale to revive stinging recollection of the rip-sporting blizzards that animated mankind at frequent intervals during the eighties.

A Business Built On Confidence. WE often meet our customers face to face. Many times we receive comments, but relatively very few, considering the vast number of our customers. Yet, year after year their circle widens; year after year the old ones stay, and new ones join the ranks. There is only one explanation for this: We are giving satisfactory, confidence-creating service. We enjoy our friends' and customers' confidence, because of our ever present aims to get the last penny out of every animal before selling. Get the last pound of fill on every head before weighing. In other words, give a distinctly worth-while service of definite usefulness that includes clean pens, fresh water, economical feeding (to avoid waste), careful handling (to avoid injury), and quick accurate accounting, which combined with financial responsibility, integrity and salesmanship means "DEPENDABLE SERVICE" and "DEPENDABLE SERVICE" has been RICE BROTHERS' motto for a quarter of a century.

Baptist Church. (Rev. A. C. Downing, Pastor.) Last Sunday was known as "Universal Bible Sunday." We gave several reasons why the bible should be read. We also want to say that the bible should be studied. One of the best ways of becoming acquainted with the book of books is by being regular in attendance at Sunday school. We meet at 10 o'clock every Sunday morning. You're invited. The subject of the morning sermon will be (D. V.) "Shorn Locks." We believe this message to be one of vital importance to the church of today.

Again at the evening hour we shall continue the story of the "Life of Jesus," using picture and song to illustrate the message. A goodly gathering last Lord's day evading in spite of the cold weather. Why should the heat of the cold affect our religion? There is a time coming when seasons will end. Remember life never ends. Then let us be prepared.

Saturday there will be a candy and food sale at Denbeck's meat market. The candy will be in charge of the intermediate girls, the food in charge of the "Green group." Your support is solicited. d81f

Rev. Keckler Host To Fifty On Birthday

Rev. L. R. Keckler entertained at a party Monday night at the M. E. church basement in honor of his fiftieth birthday. Fifty men of the congregation fifty years old or more were invited. The guests were seated at three long tables with different colored hyacinthums as centerpieces. A two-course dinner was served at 7 o'clock by members of the Ladies Aid society. Five men of Rev. Keckler's Sunday school class acted as waiters. The waiters were: Charles Nelsen, Walter Davis, G. K. Moore, Lem Bartlett and Clint Troutman. A short program was given before the dinner and the reasons for Rev. Keckler having this party were announced: Because he had never had a real birthday party before and because he wished also to celebrate different occasions as his conversion, first sermon, admission to conference and ordination as deacon and elder. He wished to share his birthday party with other men and also to create social life among men of the congregation. The program consisted of an address by Rev. J. Bruce Wylie of Walthill on "How Does It Seem to be Fifty When you are Forty-nine?" He also read one of Riley's poems, "I'm Thinkin' Back," and an original poem written for the occasion. G. A. Lewis gave an address on "How it seems to be fifty when you are fifty." Rev. G. H. Johnson gave a humorous reading, keeping the men laughing all the time he was talking. Rev. Wylie, in keeping with the idea of fifty, presented the host with a dish of fifty-cent pieces. The program was closed by all singing "Blest be the Tie That Binds." This was followed by an hour of visiting.

Northeast Nebraska coaches in selecting honorary all-sectional eleven found a wealth of outstanding material among the warriors whose performances on the gridiron this fall made them eligible for the mythical aggregations, this being especially true of backfield stars, there being many rated about equal.

Six high schools, Stanton, Wayne, Neligh, Columbus, Norfolk and Randolph placed warriors on the first team, according to votes sent to the sports department of the Norfolk Daily News by more than twenty coaches in this section.

On the second team the players are from the following schools: Spencer, Walthill, Hartington, Stanton, South Sioux City, Neligh, Albion, Randolph and Wakefield.

Ends Are Scarce.
Beaton, Norfolk, and Joselyn, Randolph, received the most votes among the end candidates, of which there were few outstanding in northeast Nebraska last season. Both of these brilliant flank guardians covered punts faultlessly and were skilled in the art of grabbing forward passes. Joselyn and Beaton were leading ends because they had the ability to turn plays to the inside and few ball jugglers ever circled their wings.

Undoubtedly, Reiss, Neligh's versatile star, is one of the most outstanding tackles that ever trod a chalked field in Nebraska. A plunging demon when he was assigned the oval, Reiss never stopped many times until he was towing two or three opposing tacklers. He is a punter of rare ability, an accurate passer and of triple threat calibre. He was good for yards every time he was given custody of the ball. Because of his ability to shrewdly play tackle on the defense, he has been given a place in the line of the honorary eleven.

His running mate is Yenney, 170-pound star, Norfolk, one of the leading forwards in Nebraska football circles. He has the ability to rush the forward passers and make the kickers hustle. He was difficult to take out of plays and opposing ends had plenty to do to prevent him from crossing the ball carriers' paths.

Insinger Is Chosen.
Insinger, Columbus, received more votes than any other guard in this section. There is little this boy doesn't know about playing guard. His skill in breaking through the line and running down the field under punts made him a player who was a lineman that every coach would want on his team. He seised attacks quickly and frequently drove through and tackled the oval tatter before he could get to the line of scrimmage.

The coaches selected Dasher, Stanton, as the left guard on the first mythical eleven. This warrior's ability to diagnose the opponents' plays placed him conspicuously in the grid limelight. He combined determination with ability and was able to spoil many interference combinations. A deadly tackler and a player that was rarely taken off his feet, Dasher was one of the reasons why opposing backs found the Stanton forward wall hard to penetrate.

Ellis, the 200-pound lad who was in the king-pin stall on Wayne's strong eleven, is a player that would make any coach's bosom become inflated with pride. He is the type of center that is respected by all opposing backs. It was seldom that a gain was made through the center of Wayne's forward wall, Ellis being the reason. Not only is he a power on the defense, but he passes the ball with accuracy.

Andrews Is a Star.
Andrews, Randolph, star who was chosen as the helmsman on the first honorary crew, is without a doubt one of the greatest quarterbacks a northeast Nebraska high school has ever produced. He weighs 152 pounds, runs the century race in football togs in 10.3 seconds, and is a skilled open field runner. He is a good center, has ability to kick out loose pass receivers, is a back number in receiving aerial tosses, and an excellent interference man. He averaged twelve yards each time he carried the oval last season. In the twenty-three games in which he played quarterback for Randolph, that team won twenty-one games and lost only two! On the defense he plays fullback, and backs up the line in the fashion of a college star.

The honor of being the right halfback on the first team goes to Hasselback, Columbus' scoring ace. He is rated as one of the leading halfbacks in Nebraska this fall. He is one of the drive force that ground is gained although there is opposition. Hasselback is an aggressive blocker, and has the knack of taking off tacklers in a deadly fashion. He is also a player of endurance, playing with as much skill at the end of a game as at the first, and a wizard at long distance gains in a broken field.

Stansberry Is Named.
Chosen as the right halfback and Hasselback's running mate, Stansberry, Norfolk, has been a consistent threat all season. He is adept in backing up the line, and a valuable ball carrier. He can pass well and is a punter of merit. Stansberry not only was a consistent ground grinder, but he starred on the defense, playing a tackle in some of the games when the opposition had the ball. He plunges hard and is difficult to halt. He played impressive football throughout the season and attracted the attention of sports writers and coaches in many parts of Nebraska.

One of the luminaries of northeast Nebraska football this season was Armbruster, Stanton's versatile halfback. He hit his stride early in the season and continued to play consistent ball until the final game. He hits the line with terrific speed, and only a few times during the season was he stopped at the line of scrimmage. He is a power in a 176-pound package. He is one of the best line backers northeast Nebraska has seen in many years. In the Norfolk game he averaged six yards each time he was assigned the oval.

If these eleven warriors could be training for a short time, they would undoubtedly give any high school eleven in the United States a terrific battle.

Among those who received enough votes to deserve honorable mention are the following:

Linemen—Lindstrom, Crofton; R. Peterson, Neligh; Beckwith, Neligh; Williams, Norfolk; Kesting, Norfolk; Atwood, Albion; Donnelly, O'Neill; R. Prouty, Spencer; Laudenslager, Spencer; Beckman, Pender; Hill, Pender; Peterson, Wayne; Busch, Pender; Bender, Tekamah; White, Winnebago; King, South Sioux City; Lyman, Wakefield; Webb, Stanton; Rave, Genoa Indians; O. Ewert, Columbus; Tomlinson, O'Neill; White, Albion; Hensckle, Wakefield; N. Tell, Wakefield; Reikofski, Tilden.

Backfield—L. Coc, Wakefield; W. Ewert, Columbus; Brownwick, Walthill; Smith, South Sioux City; Wolverson, Stanton; Arfin, Rosalie; MacLeod, O'Neill; Paul, Fremont; Barnecke, Norfolk; Martin, Pilger; Prouty, Stanton; Kirk, Spencer; Drexelow, Stanton; Peterson, Bancroft; Hancock, Tekamah; Manzer, Randolph; Miller, Hartington; Barker, Crofton; Perry, Wayne; Eck, Bloomfield; Craft, West Point; Schmidt, Neligh.

Second Team/Ends Chosen.
On the second team Wondra, Spencer and Olmstead, Neligh, were voted as the outstanding ends. Both are outstanding interference men and are clever pass receivers. Very few yards were made around their wings this fall.

Tackle positions go to Ludwickson, Walthill, and Little of Neligh. These players made stars of themselves by breaking through the line and going down under punts, nailing the safety in his tracks.
Strathman, Hartington, and Long, South Sioux City, are guards and the secondary eleven. These moleskin wearers were valuable to their teams both on offense and defense. Strathman and Long both have future grid careers ahead of them if they go to college, coaches predict.

Kasselbaum, Stanton's brilliant center, wins a place on the first team because he is a deadly passer and a power on the defense. Few yards were made through the center of the Stanton line this fall because this lad was in the path of the ball carriers.
He's a Heady Pilot.
Albion's heady quarterback Sloan, who is a shifty, pivoting backfield star, is the signal backer on the second crew. He is a wiz of a safety man and an excellent broken field runner.

Allison, Randolph, was selected as the right halfback. Against Neligh he alone accounted for 350 yards, 250 of which were made on returning punts. Several times during the season he ran punts back for touchdowns. He is not only effective around end and off-tackle, but a good line plunger.
Johnson, Stanton, the left halfback on the second team, was the scoring ace for his eleven. He is a dazzling runner and has the ability of eluding would-be tacklers in the open field.
The star gun of Wakefield's eleven, Nuereberger, is remarkably fast and a brilliant broken field runner. His playing commanded the attention of all fans.

who watched him repeatedly make gains.

Bromwich Named Center.
Bromwich, Winner, who is placed at center for the all-Rosebud team, was undoubtedly the most outstanding warrior in that position this fall. His knowledge of the game made him a valuable man on both the offense and defense.

Guards on this honorary eleven are Winger, Winner, and Bresley, Colome. Both have the weight necessary to make aggressive forwards, and are speedy enough to come out of the line for interference. Bresley was used at certain most of the season.

Tackle assignments are given to Kulhavey, Dallas, and Horton, Gregory, both of whom have excellent knowledge of football that enabled them to star in many Rosebud games this fall. Both are hard chargers and skillful blockers.
Karnes, Dallas, and Gaskill, Colome, were assigned to wing positions. Both are neat defensive players and artists in snagging aerial passes. Opposing backs had a hard task to gain around Karnes' and Gaskill's flanks.

Wilkerson, Winner, the helmsman on the Rosebud mythical eleven, is a smart field general and an outstanding quarterback in the state of South Dakota. He is a triple threat warrior, having the ability to escort the oval for substantial gains, pass and kick.

Hoffie Is a Star Half.
Hoffie, Bonesteel, left halfback, is a speeder on the gridiron, and has every qualification for a great high school halfback. He was a constant threat during the playing season, and was feared by opposing elevens.

Hoffie's running mate on the honorary crew is O'Halleran, Winner's siege gun. He was one of the few triple threat men in the Rosebud this season. He never let up in his scrap, and kept lunging, plunging and tearing when carrying the pigskin.
The fullback job goes to Doctor, Dallas, one of the hardest hitting backs in the Rosebud. He has ability to back up the line in a masterful fashion. His brilliant playing was one of the reasons Dallas escaped a defeat this fall.

Business.
Sioux City Journal: Although the business turnover is not so great as some observers may have expected it to be Dun's describes the condition as normal. It is a time of inventory taking and of planning, especially in industry. Consequently a slackness peculiar to the season brings no surprise. Indeed this slackness may indicate a closer approach to a normal condition than has been made since the postwar reconstruction period began. In the old days there was always a slackness at this time of the year. In recent years there was nothing of this kind simply because business momentum became so great that sheer weight alone carried it through. That was when the building program was so impressive, when industry was expanding to meet a constantly changing situation, when public confidence was increasing in strength and when the whole country was taking advantage of an opportunity to forge ahead as other countries lagged behind.

It is seen however that the promise of a brisk holiday trade is bright. Much buying already has been done. This is true particularly in the middle west and in the northwest. There is a strong Christmas spirit with heavy shipments of holiday goods and a good turnover.

Car loadings have fallen below the million mark again. The total for the week ending November 19 was 968,103 cars, a decline of 6,759 under the previous week. This was a decrease of 103,604 below the same week for last year. Coal, coke, ore and miscellaneous freight, all showed declines, indicating that the seasonal slackness in industry was largely responsible.

Quite the most impressive thing industrially is the activity of the Ford Motor company which has just shown its new car and announced prices together with quality that are expected to influence heavy buying in the automotive world. The Fords are employing nearly 80,000 workers and will increase the figure to 140,000. A production of 1,000 cars per day is the goal for January.

Henry Ford's plans as announced by himself are expansive. He has determined to go ahead for the reason that he sees prosperity continuing without a letup. He looks for good business in 1928, and this leading industrialist has made few mistakes in the past. Indeed the Ford Motor company may be employed at this time as a business barometer.

Bank Held Up and Robbed.
Wabash, Neb., Dec. 2.—Two men, one waiting in a car outside, held up the Farmers State bank here this morning and escaped with about $700. Wabash is thirty-five miles south of Omaha.

The robber who entered the bank was dressed in overalls. He locked Theodore Miller, cashier, and his wife in the vault.
Townspersons were attracted to the bank by cries of the imprisoned couple. They worked nearly an hour trying to release the man and woman, but Miller finally opened the door from the inside. The robbers had nearly fifteen minutes' start in their getaway, none being aware the hold-up was in progress.

Farm and City.
Omaha World-Herald: Census statistics being what they are and all one may be pardoned for wondering if everybody wants to leave the farm for the city. It looks sometimes as if the old folks were ready to leave if they could only sell out to advantage and that the youngsters were only waiting to grow up.

But looks are deceiving. There are apparently quite a lot of the younger generation who like the farm for something other than its financial return. They prefer it as a way of life in contrast with the way of life of the city. Members of boys' and girls' farm clubs, in Chicago during the International Live Stock exposition, looked the city over and pretty generally concluded that it is a nice place to visit, but no place to live.

One girl objected that "You don't know anybody," another that the city is so dirty and a third didn't like it because she wants things convenient. We should hate to enter into a controversy with these youngsters in the effort to defend a preference for city life. Country and city each has its advantages and disadvantages and luckily for the balance of population between the two there is a wide range of taste in appraising them.

As to convenience, we rather thought we had it over the average farm, but as to dirt and the want of friends we are inclined to agree with those shrewd young critics. The girl who complained of knowing nobody would in time find acquaintances, to be sure, but we think that all her life she would miss something of the finer quality of neighborliness which she knew on the farm. One forms friendships in the city of course, but too often his friends seem as but grains of sand in a Sahara of strangers.

If there is really concern over how we are to keep them on the farm, perhaps the answer is to be found in these boys' and girls' clubs.

Do Rocks Grow? Lincoln Journal: A farmer in a region where the soil abounds with rocks, a condition of which Nebraskans know little, found that year after year, despite the fact that he hauled loads of them away and built fences, barns and houses with them, his field was still strewn with stone. He decided that rocks grow. Since his conclusion was contrary to general opinion he sought information of the geological survey and was not satisfied that his observations were incorrect until the survey gave him a positive opinion. In regions where the ground freezes and thaws, the geological survey explained, the process causes rocks to work to the surface. Ice expands on freezing and so the rock is lifted slightly when water seeps beneath it and freezes. When the ice thaws the rock does not settle back into its old position because the dirt works under it. The appearance of larger rocks in later years, which further mystified the farmer, is explained by the fact that the smaller ones are likely to be moved first. The survey was not at all surprised by the question. During each year it receives numerous inquiries on this point. Such processes as those explained, the survey adds, "might cause a farmer to think that rocks actually grow and increase in number in his cultivated field."

The appearance of larger rocks in later years, which further mystified the farmer, is explained by the fact that the smaller ones are likely to be moved first. The survey was not at all surprised by the question. During each year it receives numerous inquiries on this point. Such processes as those explained, the survey adds, "might cause a farmer to think that rocks actually grow and increase in number in his cultivated field."

Newspaper Advertising. Fairbury News: Some time ago a convention of manufacturers was held in New York, at which advertising was discussed at great length. The firms represented had spent immense sums of money to advertise their wares, and they were naturally interested to know what avenue of advertising brought the greatest return. It was the consensus of opinion that magazine and large daily advertising reached mainly those living in the cities, and that the farmers, who were the large purchasers of their wares, were not being reached as they should be. It finally resulted in the convention going on record as favoring a very greatly increased expenditure for advertising in weekly local papers. It is a fact that is being realized by the greater students of advertising today, that advertising in local weeklies yields a greater return, in proportion to the number of readers, than any other class of publications. Fairbury merchants realize this and that is why you can always find most of them represented in this paper. A Mexican wife has one advantage. When she tires of her man, she can persuade him to be a candidate.—Sumter (S. C.) item. Money talks, but it takes a lot of it to talk turkey nowadays.—Arkansas Gazette.

At 3 P. M.

The most beautiful range in the world! What will you give for it?

Every piece of vitreous enamel on The South Bend Malleable Range is paneled right over the outside of our three-ply regular black range, without bolts or rivets, in such a way that the enamel parts are perfectly protected yet very easy to remove if ever necessary.

They are built for those who want, at a reasonable price, the very best range possible to build. The entire cooking-top, reservoir-top, doors, handles, hinges, latches, dampers, drafts and frames are the finest quality Unbreakable Malleable Iron.

A one-piece, highly polished, 16-gauge, copper-bearing range body, heavily asbestos lined, over which, through the flues, is a patented aluminum fused metal upon which rust, creosote, or even acid has virtually no effect.

The oven is 12-gauge copper-bearing special armor plate, so closely riveted into malleable angle frames that they are air tight and gas-tight and wonderful bakers. A 12-gallon heavy copper reservoir insures abundance of hot water.

The fire-box alone weighs 100 pounds; scientifically vented so that all the fuel gasses are burned. The large circulating air chambers back of each heavy fire lining section add many years to their life and the double end draft insures perfect combustion.

Missionary Competition.

Lincoln Journal: The members of the laymen's convention now in session in Lincoln have a great deal more to do than to consider the preaching of the gospel in foreign lands.

One phase of their problem is outlined by Stanley High in Harper's Magazine under the title "Russia's World Game." This young man went out from Lincoln a few years ago to travel widely over the world. He had gone across Asia more than once and has also passed over other continents. Complacent people who have expected the soviet government to fall under its own weight will be amazed at the evidence he collects of the activity of the missionaries of communism in carrying their theories into far countries, especially South Africa and Asia. They are indeed the chief opponents of the Christian missionaries at the present time. They are able, suave, trained and well supplied with funds.

They have more to offer in the way of immediate returns than the Christian worker. The latter must depend upon more or less abstruse and distant rewards. The soviet missionary has a tangible reward and it is in plain sight. He points to the wealth of the country and says to his audience: "These good things, are yours. Organize and take them." In South Africa, Mr. High points out, the blacks are being organized by agents from Moscow, and their number as compared with the white population makes their work a menace to white supremacy on the Cape. It is not surprising that the British government should lose its customary poise and strike a bit too swiftly, perhaps, at Arcos, the Russian house in London.

The effort to redder the politics of China is too well known to require repetition. Mr. High is convinced that these missionaries of hate and bloodshed are spreading all over the world, a challenge to the Christian missionaries everywhere and a source of concern to every established government.

If the crisis is as great as this traveler and observer believes, it is fortunate that the Christian missionaries are at work throughout the world, for they form a nucleus of activity which will be of great value in meeting the new peril. The laymen do well to cogitate over the new situation and the best method of carrying on their work in a changing world.

Eggs.

Omaha World-Herald: One often hears of high finance, but here is a bit of a story of low finance. Paul Monroe of Duluth dries dishes in a restaurant as a preferred calling, switching to odd jobs when there are no dishes to dry. Occasionally he tramps over the country, working his way as he goes. During such rambles he has traveled through 31 states, but always gets back to his old job in Duluth. In 1923 he decided to open a savings account in one thousand American banks by depositing $1 in each. To date he has opened seven hundred accounts. Each week, if possible, he reaches one thousand he purposes to begin adding to the various accounts and keep at it until he has accumulated enough to see him up in business. He is now 24 and expects at 30 to have his initial business sign painted. One is almost justified in suspecting that Mr. Monroe doesn't believe in keeping all his eggs in one basket.

Allen Couple Wed Fifty-Four Years

Allen, Neb.—Mr. and Mrs. Joe Isom, pioneer residents of Dixon county, have just celebrated their fifty-fourth wedding anniversary. Mr. Isom was born in England on June 14, 1849. In 1855 he came to America with his parents and settled in Wisconsin. He came to Nebraska in 1871, driving overland with a yoke of oxen, crossing the Missouri river on a ferry at Sioux City, and following the trail westward as far as Springbank, where it ended, and from there he set out across the prairie to the Henry Allen homestead, now a part of Allen townsite.

The day following his arrival he picked out and filed on his homestead, three miles south of the present town of Allen, where he later built a dugout. To their humble dwelling, which was destined to be their home for the next nine years, he brought his bride in October, 1873. Mrs. Isom was born in Waterloo, Iowa, in January, 1856.

In those early days Mr. Isom hauled all produce to Sioux City and distinctly remembers of being stuck in the mud with his oxen, where Davidson Bros. store now stands. He recalls especially one such trip when he sold a load of chickens and turkeys for 3 and 4 cents a pound, respectively.

Two years in succession grass hoppers destroyed their crops leaving only sugar cane. In this patch he trapped prairie chickens during the winter, letting them freeze until he had a wagon box full, when he took them to Sioux City where they sold for $2.50 a dozen.

Mr. Isom made his own overshoes from calf hide, turning the hairy side in and sewing them with strips of the same material. They were laced up the back, after the shes were made he filled them with sand and applied a coating of salt to the outside. The bottoms were treated with yasin to keep them from slipping.

Feeding Indians was no uncommon occurrence for Mrs. Isom, even to the last crumb she had in the house, while her children took refuge in the tall sough grass, sometimes remaining in their hiding place for six hours waiting for a band of Indians to pass. A spring near the house was utilized by Mrs. Isom as a natural refrigerator for butter. After first wrapping the rolls of butter in white muslin, they were placed in a heavy sack which was then staked down in the spring.

Snakes were very plentiful and Mr. Isom relates how a bull snake entered their dugout several nights by pushing the door in at the bottom. Arriving home from work late one evening after the family had retired he heard a loud crash in the kitchen. On entering he lit a lamp and saw a broken crock and a puddle of milk in front of the cupboard and a telltale wet streak from the spilled milk to the door.

Mr. and Mrs. Isom still live on their homestead. Their original dugout has been replaced by modern buildings and modern equipment and the last semblance of the frontier has disappeared. They are the parents of seven children, three sons and four daughters, all of whom reside near Allen. Both are in excellent health and do all the work about their home.

Joe, as he is familiarly called, has no use for an automobile, having once narrowly escaped with his life while riding with a friend, when the car turned over in a ditch. His favorite way of locomotion is the buggy and his old horse.

Interesting Bits of Wayne County History

Two winters in the early eighties stand out vividly in the minds of early settlers. One was severe and deep snow banks remained from fall until late spring. The other was so mild that flowers blossomed out of doors until near Christmas.

Driverless Plane Gives Great Thrill

What makes an airplane wild? A pair of drivers who have never been in one before. It is demonstrated in "Now We're in the Air," the Paramount comedy starring Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton at the Crystal theatre this Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Beery and Hatton take a flight with Malcolm Waite, the villain of the story and Beery, forgetting that he and Hatton can't drive, knocks the pilot, Waite, "cold" with a monkey wrench.

The frantic struggle to revive the pilot and get the airplane righter before it crashes in one of the thrilling situations of the picture. Louise Brooks is leading woman and the cast includes Russell Simpson, Duke Martin and Emile Chautaur.

Beastly Work.

Omaha World Herald: It was a German who was speaking to Englishmen, at Central Hall in London. A German of parts was he, General Von Schoenaich, described as the idol of the German militarist press during the world war. And this, as reported in a dispatch to the Baltimore Sun, is what he said:

"I owe explanations of how I came to be a changed man. For 37 years I was a soldier with all my heart. I made my first step toward pacifism during the war. Formerly soldiers' work was deemed chivalrous. Perhaps it was in the old days, when one gallant knight fought another."

"But what has modern technique made of this once chivalrous occupation? In modern war one man with a big engine stands about 10 miles behind the front and kills with his engine perhaps hundreds or thousands of soldiers behind the enemy's front. He never sees these killed soldiers and all he knows about them is that they are men with wives and children, just as he is himself."

"Victory now is not a matter of bravery, but of the one who has the best gun. The only man who makes a good business out of this new warfare is the manufacturer of its engines. They are very expensive, and the wives and children of the killed soldiers must pay for them. This is not chivalrous—it is beastly work."

"My second step as a pacifist was made after the war. I read in a newspaper that during the war Lloyd George said that after it was over every Englishman would be happier and richer than before. That is the idea which all statesmen in all wars have had, but I ask you English people—'you have won the war, but are you happier? Are you richer?'"

"There were cries of 'No! No! We are worse off,' and the general conclusion was:

"How does the economic condition of the world look today, nine years after this stupid war? We have in the world millions of idle workers and thousands of idle factories. Victors and those who have lost the war have been damaged alike."

The soldier's trade has become what this soldier terms it—"beastly work." It is impersonal, mechanical, dirty. It strikes as much at women and children as at men, as when the Germans sank the Lusitania and the British enforced the starvation blockade. Whatever that was picturesque, chivalrous, inspiring, it may once have had it has lost. Men, however devoted, however dauntless, however admirable, become only its cannon fodder. Poison gas and stink bombs have replaced the manly sword as its fitting emblem.

And to victor and vanquished the result is the same—incalculable and irretrievable loss, with no compensating gain.

War stands pilloried today as the supreme human folly, the supreme human sin. And pilloried along with it, in the eyes of multitudes of good men and women, are the despised "pacifists" whose sole fault is that they are seeking to banish war from civilized society.

"This is a mad world, my masters."

Foolish.

Geneva Signal: Rev. Charles Holler of Omaha, well meaning but impractical, tried to get the Omaha Ministerial union to declare a boycott on all merchants who sell any product that could be used for the manufacture of intoxicating liquors. Of course the union refused. The trouble with Mr. Holler was that he didn't stop to think how foolish and impossible such a boycott would be.

Many of our common articles of food are used in making liquor. It is an unfortunate diversion but passing a general boycott resolution would be just plain foolish. Erratic persons like Mr. Holler damage the cause they desire to support.

Says Dr. Welch, as quoted in The Literary Digest: "Laughter ventilates the lungs, stimulates the heart, sets the blood coursing through the body and makes all the organs work better." So, after all, ten dollars admission to Bill Thompson is pretty reasonable.—The New Yorker.

Prosperity is something the business men create for the politicians to take credit for.—Brunswick (Ga.) Pilot.

"FUEL KNOCKS" KNOCKED OUT

WHEN A MOTOR is choked with carbon, there is "knocking" when you start, "knocking" and loss of power in climbing hills or pushing through mud or sand. With straight gasoline you can't get rid of this "knocking" until you get rid of the carbon.

Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline makes use of the high compression caused by carbon. This condition suits Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline and lets it do its best work.

This wonderfully improved motor fuel

"knocks out the knock." It gives your motor added power. Gives you better mileage for your gasoline dollar—a smoother-running, livelier, more responsive and economical car. You'll never have to get carbon removed, and freedom from fuel "knocks" will reduce wear and repair bills.

The Standard Oil Company of Nebraska recommend Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline for constant use in motors of every make, age and condition. It is quick-starting, high quality Red Crown Gasoline with Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound added—a combination fuel that sets new power standards for the oldest Ford and the newest high compression motor. It won't harm any motor. It will improve performance.

Be sure you get the genuine which is sold only where you see the Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline sign—by reputable dealers and service stations everywhere in Nebraska.

McCormick-Deering Feed Grinders

Built in three sizes, from 6-inch to 10-inch, requiring from 3 to 16 h. p. according to size and type. Designed to grind various combinations of grains and forage crops.

Save 12 per cent to 26 per cent on your grain bill.

Actual tests with whole grain, fed to healthy, full-toothed animals, show an average loss of from 12 per cent to 26 per cent. In other words, out of every 100 bushels of whole corn fed, 26 bushels yield practically no nourishment. The unground out diet shows a loss of 12 bushels out of every 100. Even though you feed only a few animals, such feeding losses cannot be overlooked. A few minutes, now and then, with a McCormick-Deering Feed Grinder will turn the whole grain into nourishing, easily digestible feed at low cost.

McCormick-Deering Engines

Full-powered engines with removable cylinder, enclosed crankcase, magneto ignition, efficient fuel mixer, etc. Sizes 1½, 3, 6, and 10 h. p.

McCormick-Deering Corn Shellers

For every need; ranging from the 1-hole steel hand sheller to the power cylinder sheller of 350 to 400 bushel per hour capacity.

McCormick-Deering TRACTORS

Sturdy, 4-cylinder tractors, built in two sizes, 10-20 h. p. and 15-30 h. p. Also, the all-purpose Farmall. Ideal tractors for winter belt work.

For years the McCormick-Deering has provided the standard farm power, made in two sizes, 10-20 h. p. and 15-30 h. p. Fully equipped 4-cylinder tractors with ample power at belt, drawbar, and power takeoff. Thousands upon thousands of successful farmers rely on McCormick-Deering Tractors to keep down the costs of farming. They are beating down the high cost of labor by making that labor do two or three days' work in one, and that method leads to farm profit.

If our souls enter animals when we die, the plain pedestrian must find a grim satisfaction in being a occupant.—Washington Post.

Inspiring Youth. York Republican: There is nothing more inspiring than youth when its prodigious energy is well directed. The sight of boys, brimming with life and energy under good control, is energizing. Last week four hundred and more boys of Nebraska who belong to the Hi-Y organizations were in York. The town immensely enjoyed their presence. They broke no ordinances, they were not rude, they were not loud and boisterous. They acted like young gentlemen who have strong animal spirits under good rein. They demonstrated that religious training, such as they receive, has its certain effect in moulding good character. They are not ashamed, as older men sometimes are, to speak the name of God right out—boldly and reverently. They are not ashamed to pray in public and exhibit religious emotions. They are not ashamed to prove that a young man can be strong and forward and energetic and be at the same time a devout and respectful disciple of the Nazarene. It is good to see such splendid piety, that does not express itself in a long face or sepulchral tones. These young men are teaching their elder brothers that to be Christian is to be manly, and to be a humble disciple of the Great Teacher is to be powerful with spiritual courage and strength. Any city that has a visitation from the young men of the Hi-Y organization will be better for it—better in its improved conceptions of youth and better for the fine examples they have left for both young and old to emulate.

Sheriff's Sale. By virtue of an Order of Sale to me directed, issued by the Clerk of the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, upon a decree rendered therein at the September 1927 term thereof, in an action pending in said court wherein Margie S. Mellor was plaintiff and William Mellor, et al, were defendants, I will, on the 12th day of December, 1927 at 10 o'clock a. m., at the door of the office of the Clerk of said Court, in the court house in Wayne, in said county, sell to the highest bidder for cash, the following described real estate, to wit: The North Half of Section Thirty-One (31) and the South Half of Section Thirty-One (31) all in Township Twenty-Seven (27) North Range Three (3) East of the 6th P. The Matter of Judgment. Lincoln Journal: A car full of young people was run into by a train near York. Three of the occupants were killed and three others narrowly escaped death. Earlier in the week The Journal reported an accident in Washington county, Kansas, near enough to Lincoln to arouse our interest,

In which two cars of young people on their way from their homes to high school, indulged in racing on the highway. The driver of one car, not seeing an approaching car on account of frost on his windshield, locked wheels with it and was killed. Would, if anything, should be said about these heart breaking affairs?

It may do harm to observe that children have native intelligence, but not native judgment. They are smart, bright and quick. But judgment can come only with age, by the exercise of intelligence upon experience, and more important, the instruction of elders.

If responsibilities are placed upon the shoulders of children which require a degree of judgment in excess of what at their age they can be expected to possess, and bad results follow, the children cannot be blamed. Judgment would prompt a driver to extreme caution when the windshield was frosted. Judgment should remind a driver of his great responsibility when his car is loaded with human freight, and prompt him to caution at all times, whether approaching a railroad or not.

No doubt the occupants in the car at York were cautioned by their parents before leaving home. How many times had the mother of the boy killed in Kansas urged him not to race, and not to drive too fast? She arose each morning while it was yet dark, and helped him do his chores, that he might have plenty of time to drive the twelve miles to high school without undue haste. The last words she said to him on the morning of the accident were: "Now—don't you race." He did not heed them, but destroyed one car, wrecked another, killed himself and narrowly escaped killing the young school teacher in the other car, and has thrown an entire neighborhood of relatives and friends into a sad and prolonged bereavement.

But if children will not heed cautioning or warning—or urging or imploring, what then? Discipline? Can anyone think of another answer? Attics full of spoiled rods mean a world full of spoiled children, in the opinion of many old-fashioned people. But did the mother know of the boy's recklessness in time to offer needed chastisement? Does punishment build the judgment, the caution that naturally comes with the years? If not, the use of cars by young people must continue to be one great menace of the day! Almost as great, we hear some cynic remark, as the reckless driving of cars by their elders.

A statistician has figured out that there are 1,320,000 members of the Smith family in the United States, and there are 1,139,999 that the Republicans aren't worried about at all.—New York Evening Post.

We suspect that the fiction shelves of Chicago's city library contain a number of books that need burning worse than their histories.—Des Moines Register.

M., Wayne County, Nebraska, to satisfy the aforesaid decree, the amount due thereon being $8,527.04, with interest and costs and accruing costs.

Service Too Strong For Man From West

Sam R. McKelvie in Nebraska Farmer. The thinking of a friend from the big open spaces who was a guest at one of Chicago's well known hostesses. He was liked by the shower of services, the receipt of each one of which was supposed to be acknowledged in the form of a coin across the palm. In other words, he was well enough city-broke to know that bell boys, waiters, hat girls, doormen and a hundred-and-one other servants do not rush around doing things without expecting a material reward, and he strove to be "regular" no matter how painful.

After two or three days of this, he was served his morning grapefruit in the center of which was a half cherry. The fact that the half cherry was put there as a decoration and not as a part of the ration mattered not. He would not spend another minute in a hotel that was "so small as to cut a cherry in two." He flew the coop after telling the manager in a few well chosen words what he thought of his "dump."

Telling me about it several months later, he said with manifest heat, "Do you know after I had spent my money like a drunken sailor around that hotel, flipping everyone but the manager, the low-down twopen actually put a cherry in two on me?"

I agreed it was a personal affront and an act of less majesty not to be countenanced by any self-respecting citizen. The reverse of this was a horny-handed son of toil within my acquaintance, who flew into a western Nebraska hotel at noon time on a winter day. Asked by the waitress what he would have to eat, he took a look at the generous list of items on the bill of fare (American plan), and said, "Bring me the whole shebang." And she did.

When that countryman's order was stacked around him, the rest of us had to move out. And he ate it all.

No tip, no extra charge—only a hearty welcome.

Officers After Man Who Pursues Girl

Creston, Neb., Dec. 3.—Vernice Freyermuth, 16, was pursued across the fields from the highway south of here to her home, nearly a mile, by an unidentified motorist who tried to entice the girl into his car. Before abandoning the chase after the fleeing girl the man fired once at her with a pistol, according to the girl's statement to her parents.

Miss Freyermuth attends high school here. She stayed after school to practice with the girls' basketball team and did not get out for home until nearly dark. Friends gave her a ride in a car to a point two miles south of town and a mile from her home. Leaving their car she was walking along the side road when a car approached and the occupant cut in ahead of the girl and invited her into his car.

The girl left the road without answering and climbed through a fence into the fields. The man, she says, left his car and started after her. Vernice says she ran as hard as she could the distance

Utopia Assaulted

Ord Quizz: Editor Huse of the Wayne Herald has built up around his ideal of family harmony a little Utopia in which there will be "no family jars, no ugly asperities, no divorces." "Couples would think in pairs, progress would be stimulated by relationship with other couples..... a few couples would lag but enough would forge ahead to kick off cobwebs, enlarge knowledge and advance civilization." All this is to be accomplished, according to Mr. Huse, by the wife agreeing with everything her husband says, and vice versa. But somehow we can't quite swallow the idea.

We believe that more divorces, more strains on the family tie, are caused by unthinking capitulation of husband to wife and wife to husband than are caused by disagreement. The phrases "John says that" and "John thinks that" are familiar to every person who ever listened in on a conversation between a wife and her husband more than that a few men want to shout: "Woman, don't you ever have an idea of your own?"

In a way, though, Mr. Huse may be right. We believe it was Charles Pierre Baudelaire who advanced the idea that the leader in the home, both in thought and action, is the one who loves the least. Capitulation and agreement is the lot of the one who loves the most, in the majority of instances, said Baudelaire.

The great we strain at, in Mr. Huse's argument, is that contact would cause communication of a new idea to a husband or wife, who would convey it to the other, upon which the pair would decide to either accept or reject it. What we can't understand is how such acceptance or rejection is to be arrived at without argument if the minds of both husband and wife are utilized. If people starting with the same premise will arrive at the same conclusion and the only way the idea could be accepted or rejected by both with the harmony prevailing is to allow one to do all the thinking and the other to act as "yes-man."

No, we'll take our domestic felicity mixed with domestic agreement instead of taking it straight.

that remained toward her home and as she approached it the man yelled at her to stop, fired once at her, and then gave up the chase.

Vernice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freyermuth, well-known farmers of this vicinity.

Sheriff Ed Kavanaugh of Platte county is conducting a search for the man.

Shop Early

(Dr. A. L. Bixby.) Why the dickens are you stopping, while the leaves of time are dropping?

What about that Christmas shopping?

Is the burden of my song? Winter winds are blowing colder, As the year is getting older— You've a burden now to shoulder; Do not put it off too long!

Have you money loaned out? Call it.

And with wampum stuff your wallet;

Get a span of mules to haul it.

If it weighs your pocket down, Bring your wife—by her directions.

After suitable inspections, You will make the wise selections Of the goods for sale in town.

Note how time is swiftly gliding, Not the least delay abiding— On the crest of winter riding, It will move as smooth as ice. Lest confusion make you surly, To avoid the hurlyburly, Do your Christmas shopping early, Is my serious advice.

In the making of your list, sir, For your mother, wife and sister, Don't forget the children, mister. Buy them toys to make them laugh;

Know you one by hard luck bested, Here's a comfort, tried and tested. Driftwood is the balm suggested— It's a dollar and a half.

Crossing Accidents

Albion News: The automobile crossing accident near Aurora last week in which Donald Wert and Alice Goodrich were killed and two others seriously injured reminds us of the ever-increasing difficulty confronting the great railroad companies in their efforts to reduce the number of fatal crossing accidents. The following statement was but recently given out by the Safety section of the American Railroad Association for the first six months period of the present year as compared with the same period of 1926: "The number of fatalities at grade crossings in 1927 was 1,061, being 4 less than in the previous year; the number of injuries was 2,902, being 208 less than in the previous year. This reduction is not large, but in view of an increase in the average mileage per automobile and particularly an increase in touring, this showing may be considered as an indication of effective work along educational lines." But despite this really remarkable showing of the educational campaign conducted by the railroads against crossing accidents there are still thousands of autoists who are indifferent to all warnings and whose indifference is only matched by their carelessness. They have furnished most of the fatalities in the past and until an educational campaign is launched that will penetrate solid ivory they will continue to furnish material for crossing accidents, fatalities and injuries.

Exit the Billboards

Ord Quizz: One hundred and forty-one large national advertisers and six of the largest agencies have agreed that the use of billboards shall be discontinued, says the Bayport, Minn., Herald. Their agreement came in response to letters sent out by the General Federation of Woman's Clubs, which has conducted a campaign against billboards on the ground that they deface the landscape.

The view of most of the concerns is expressed by the Haines Advertising agency, of Philadelphia, which wrote: "We have not been able to check any great tangible results from outside billboard advertising. Accordingly we prefer newspapers and cannot see why our beautiful landscape should be marred by promiscuous advertising."

More and more the national advertisers are coming around to the belief expressed by the Haines agency. This right-about-face has been induced partly by the indefatigable efforts of the woman's clubs, and other organizations and partly by the almost complete failure of billboards as an advertising medium.

The day will come when not a single unsightly billboard will obscure America's beautiful scenery.

Thrown Under Cars Both Legs Crushed

Norfolk Daily News, Dec. 3: Falling from the top of a moving Northwestern railway local freight train that was engaged in switching at Bassett, John Ben Brown, 49, conductor, living at Madison, fell beneath the cars, the wheels passing over both legs, about 9:25 o'clock last evening. He is given a chance to recover.

He was rushed to the Ainsworth hospital where his left leg, which was run over below the knee, was amputated, and his right leg, mangled and cut above the knee is to be taken off, according to a report from C. & N. W. offices here.

Mr. Brown, who was working with Conductor Walling of Norfolk, was walking on top of a box car at the time. The cause of his fall has not been learned by railway officials.

Mr. Brown has been an employe of the Northwestern for nineteen years. For a number of years he lived in Norfolk, moving to Madison some time ago. He is married, but has no children. Whenever he was called out for a run he drove from his home to Norfolk.

Where Nebraska Stands

Lincoln Journal: Mark Sullivan, as fair and zealous a correspondent as Washington can claim, sees so much disorganization among the anti-Smith democrats that Smith is likely to be nominated, altho half of the party is probably against him.

Under these circumstances the course of the republicans of Nebraska is clearly marked out for them! No issue can be more important here than to keep a volunteer nullifier of the constitution out of the white house.

This opposition can make itself most useful by sending to the national convention a delegation of strong, public spirited men—and women—who realize the nature of the new menace and will work untidely and unselfishly to meet it. This delegation, to be effective, must be free of hobby riders and people who are willing to trade votes for offices or prestige. This is real work, the naming of a candidate for president who can be elected. The Nebraska vote will probably be cast for Senator Norris. If his name appears on the ballot and no opponent is filed, the delegation will

A Sad Reminder. Hartington Herald: The latest announcement from the radio world is that the broadcasting stations are enabling people to take their Saturday night baths with greater regularity. Some man in one out of the way place in the west writes in and says he never used to be sure when Saturday night came, but that now the radio reminds him and that he takes his weekly bath punctually. This may be a blessing to many persons who were liable to forget this important matter, but we fear that by many others it will be viewed with alarm. The Saturday night bath was bad enough when one had a chance to skip it occasionally, but it is going to be far worse when the radios start broadcasting the date all over the country.
