Homecoming Is Observed Here

Prominent Speakers Take Part in Special Services at the Methodist Church.

Will Close Sunday

Bishop F. T. Keeney, Dr. E. D. Hill, Dr. Hamilton Fox and Dr. M. E. Gilbert Here.

The first Methodist church of Wayne is holding its "homecoming" program this week, and several prominent speakers are taking part in the meetings which are attended by large and interested audiences. Bishop Frederick T. Keeney of Omaha, Dr. Emory D. Hull of Norfolk, Dr. Hamilton Fox and Dr. Marvin E. Gilbert of Lincoln, are the speakers. Rev. W. W. Whitman is pastor of the local congregation which sponsors the "homecoming" event.

Bishop Keeney and Dr. Hull, district superintendent, met ministers from a number of nearby churches Saturday here. Plans for the year were discussed. Bishop Gives Address.

Bishop Keeney gave the address Sunday morning when about 400 were present for the first "homecoming" service, his subject being "The People Who Are Just Good." Bishop Keeney stated that there never had been a time in history when so many people were good and obeyed the commandments. But, he stated, this is not sufficient. A person must not only be good himself but he must help others to be good. When each learns that he must aid another to do good, wars will cease, lawlessness will stop and the world will be a better place in which to live, Bishop Keeney concluded. Don't be just good but be good for something, he advised.

Special music for the Sunday programs was furnished by Mrs. H. Lynn Tuttle of Walla Walla, Wash., formerly Miss Frances Oman of Wayne. The college male quartet, consisting of Prof. J. G. W. Lewis, Rev. E. L. Corbit, Prof. A. F. Gulliver and Prof. W. C. Lowrie, sang Monday.

Dr. Hull Is Speaker.
A basket dinner followed the morning service Sunday. Dr. Hull gave the address of the afternoon, his subject being "The Preeminence of Christ." The theme of Christ has activated the culture of Greece, the imperial power of Rome and the skepticism of the nineteenth century, Dr. Hull asserted, and it is the greatest dominating power in the twentieth century.

Dr. Fox Addresses.
Dr. Fox of Lincoln, addressed the congregation Monday evening, his theme being "Who Modern People Say Christ Is." The speaker asserted that some say he is the greatest Jew; others say he is the greatest genius; still others say he is the founder of the world's greatest religion; and others say he is the apocalypse of all prophecies. Dr. Fox pointed out that Christ was all of these. He embodies all greatness and his greatness surpasses all others. His religion is the only satisfying one.

"The Place of the Church in the Modern World" was the topic of Dr. Fox' address Tuesday afternoon. He stated that the modern world demands a full expression of life, intellectually, morally, physically and spiritually. The church of today must meet this demand, he stated, and it can do so.

Dr. Fox spoke Tuesday evening as his text, "I am come that ye might have life and have it more abundantly." Christ came to establish faith and this alone, stated the speaker. Creeds have developed as branches. Dr. Fox pointed out various views of life: Stoicism which believes all is evil, and that the only way to be good is to suppress evil; Brahmanism which teaches no expression of emotions and results in great suppression; Epicureanism which asserts that all life is good and thus free reign is given to emotions; and the Christian religion which develops good and destroys evil. Dr. Fox pointed out the weaknesses of the first three named, and showed that the Christian religion is satisfying.

WAYNE MAN OWNS TWO PARROTS AND ONE POLICE DOG

R. H. JACQUES of this city, is an ardent lover of pets. He has a parrot which his mother bought twentyseven years ago, and the bird talks, whistles and sings with the facility of a finished scholar. A year ago he bought another parrot, only a few months old, and now it reels off words as glibly as its older companion, but it is thus far unable to whistle. We understand that parrots may live to be over 100 years old, and that they enjoy every hour of the time. Jacques' parrot don't swear or say anything out of place in polite society. Just lately Mr. Jacques added another pet—a police dog which is fast learning to obey and become a faithful friend.

Has Claim Against City For Injury

Winside, Jan. 24: Claiming that he was seriously and permanently injured through the negligence of the city of Winside, Henry Thielhold, resident of that place, has filed a claim for $10,000, against that municipality.

Thielhold, in his claim, states that on Dec. 21 he was driving his truck at a reasonable rate of speed on the principal business section of Winside, the vehicle striking a pile of frozen dirt full of chuck holes, about three feet above the pavement.

As the result the machine was turned over by the pile of dirt, Thielhold avers, and he suffered the dislocation of his shoulder, double fracture of the jaw bone and a badly bruised right arm and chest.

Following the accident Thielhold was brought to Norfolk where he remained under medical care for about two weeks before returning to his home.

Road Projects Make Progress

Over Half of Second Graveling of Wayne-Altona Highway Is Now Completed.

Are Moving North

Grade West of Winside Will Be Opened to Traffic When Bridges Are Finished.

Regraveling of the Wayne-Altona highway is progressing, and to date over half of the eleven-mile stretch has been finished. A one-inch layer of surfacing is being placed on the road which had previously been treated with a three-inch layer. Six miles have been completed and the others will be finished within a few days. Gravel for the highway is secured from a pit near Winsor. Work was started at the south end of the stretch and is progressing northward.

Graveling of the Wayne county sector of the Wayne-Laurel highway remains uncompleted near the north end of the road. All but two miles of this project was completed last fall. About one mile north of the Oscar Jonson corner northwest of Wayne, and about one-fourth of a mile east of the Jonson corner remain unfinished. Gravel for finishing this part of the road is to be taken from a pit near Coleridge.

The new grade west of Winside, eliminating two railroad crossings, is about complete. Bridges are, however, not finished, so the highway has not been opened to traffic. This will complete a newly graded highway from Winside to Hoskins and from Hoskins west to the county line.

LACK OF MOTIVE DECLARED CAUSE OF UNDULE FALL

A SPEAKER here recently said the reason some people make a good start and he is content to remain there. We have often wondered why some youths with prospects of exceptional success made such dismal failures, and the speaker may be correct in his diagnosis. If so, people should begin planting good and inspiring motives in the breast of every individual as soon as he is old enough to walk, feed himself, and understand.

Native Russian Gives Address

Maurico Hindus, Writer and Lecturer, Appears at College in Wayne Tuesday.

Tells Conditions

Asserts That Russia Is Destined to Be One of Greatest Republics in World.

Russia is destined to become one of the greatest republics in the world, Mauricio Hindus pointed out in a lecture Tuesday evening at the State Teachers College auditorium. A native Russian peasant, he has become educated and is now considered one of the most authoritative writers and speakers on conditions in Russia. He is a graduate of Colgate and Harvard, and is now writing a series of articles for World's Work, Harpers and other magazines. He has made three trips back to Russia since coming to this country, one being the past summer. He is thus well informed on present-day conditions there.

Peasants comprise ninety percent of the population of Russia, Mr. Hindus stated. Ownership of the land has been the great problem confronting these people for three or four centuries. They have been struggling for ownership continually, and stated Mr. Hindus, the Czar would probably still be in control of the government had he granted this privilege to the people.

The Bolshevik sympathizers in the minority in Russia, Mr. Hindus asserted. When they wished to gain control of the government a few years ago they promised ownership of the land to the peasants in return for support of their regime. So anxious were the peasants to secure ownership of land, that they accepted Bolshevik rule. The peasants have thus gained a right hold on the land and the villages. The Bolshevik supporters remain in the cities and have complete control there. They favor government control of everything. Peasants are not yet allowed due representation in the government but they will secure this, Mr. Hindus believes. The peasants have a grip on affairs which will eventually result in their control, Mr. Hindus stated.

Resources of Russia are vast and the possibility of the country having been realized in only a small degree. The peasants are becoming educated. They are forming cooperative associations and will thus learn government management.

No. 34 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, Jan. 26, 1928. Vol. 1
You can generally tell a married man by the number of hands he uses on the steering wheel. Is your kitchen convenient? Wouldn't some built-in features lighten the daily household tasks? We can help you plan them. We know a man in this town who never laces his shoes clear up to the top. He always ties the bow about half way down. 99 per cent of our population, we believe, want to own a home sometime. Wayne is a good place, now is a good time. You will be surprised how easy it is to finance a new home. Ask us for figures. Just about every "profit-sharing" plan we ever got in turned out to be a "profit-sharing" plan, so far as we were concerned. Whether it be steel, concrete, brick or wood construction, we are at your service. Our years of experience in the material business better. It's been tested. The price is only 4c per square foot. Special prices on full rolls. Ninety-five per cent of all wives think their husbands are too selfish. And eighty-seven per cent of them are right. We can furnish you anything you want in wood work. We give you a "tailor-made" job on window frames, door frames, moldings, etc. Give us your specifications. We'll do the rest. "Have you anything to say before the trap is sprung?" "No, sir, boss, only just this. This ship is going to be a lesson to life!" Right now is a good time to build a poultry house. It need not be an expensive one. We have plans for small buildings that will pay big dividends to you in egg and poultry sales next season. See us. Discouragement is banished when you hear the cackle of a hen.

Neligh Tests New City Water Well

Neligh, Neb., Jan. 21.—The city authorities are testing out the deep well at the waterworks pumping station to ascertain whether the gravel bed in which the point is located, will furnish an adequate supply of water. If it is determined it will, the prospects are that another and larger well will be put down to this stratum and coupled up with the present one to furnish city water.

The present Kelly wells furnish an abundance of water, but it is hard, while the water from the deep well is soft. The suction line to the five Kelly wells is so long that it is constantly leaking air and causing trouble. Competent well men believe that it is possible to obtain an adequate supply of soft water in that district. The test being prepared for will demonstrate whether or not it can be done at an expense not out of reason.

Suicide shirks responsibility which every normal person should be glad to assume. Life is short enough if it is nursed along to the limit.

We used to write feelingly against boys learning to smoke cigarettes, advising them to take up some other less harmful way of amusing themselves. Look at results. Most of them smoke. Now as we turn attention to urging them to fight shy of cigarettes, we wonder they will turn out to be any as contrary.

...ative of an electric service corporation was here last week, feeling around to ascertain the prospect of buying the Wayne plant and adding it to the list served by a central plant. He claimed his corporation could supply service cheaper than is possible under municipal ownership. Perhaps, Wayne rates are comparatively high, and they might be reduced somewhat without hardship to the city.

York is a wonderfully attractive town surrounded by a rich country, and the York Republic is a representative newspaper in all the essentials of news service and editorial excellence. It lacks nothing but advertising, and this deficiency is unexplainable in view of all the facts. York's live merchants are missing an opportunity by permitting the Republican to issue without liberal representation in its columns. They ought to take lessons from their neighbors at Fairbury.

An author writing for a December magazine treats as an affliction his inability to reach conclusions. Between men and issues, he says he cannot decide, but if he happens to decide any question, big or little, he is soon beset with doubts and he wonders if he has decided wrong. Tardiness involving doubt in reaching conclusions, has the merit of comprehensive analysis, reflecting a capacity to see both sides impartially, not convinced that either is wholly right or the other wholly wrong. But if one stands still, enmeshed in a maze of doubt, always undecided what to do and when it should be done, he will go forward slowly.

OUTSIDE THE LAW.

There are some destroying and often killing injustices that are not mentioned in criminal codes and do not fall within the power of courts. An unsuspecting individual falls victim to a sharp practice, loses his money in a worthless investment, and his family becomes impoverished. Distracted by consequences, he finds struggle along without advantages, and the latter may or may not become worthy and useful members of society. Notwithstanding that the sharper is the cause of wrecking a family's means of support and darkening its future, he has kept within the law, and he regards his success merely the result of clever manipulation. Far from scorned and reviled, he feels that he ought to be exalted and lauded as a man of great business sagacity. One who thus preys on unsophisticated people—too busy attending to their own business to look out for cunningly spread nets—may do society quite as much harm as the pronounced felon. A father or mother or both may starve children into wardenship by denying them peace and love that should be inherent in every home. By insidious methods a father may try to turn a child against the mother, or the latter may try to do the same thing against the father, and the outgrowth may be a ruined child. Some meddler may project his or her nasal appendage into family affairs and estrange a man and wife and thus cause endless trouble and often serious consequences to descendants. All these afflictions on society happen within the law and cannot be disturbed by the courts unless they are called on to settle resulting disputes or to fix responsibility for a violated statute.

if at all. It is better to run the chance of deciding wrong than permit long delay.

Charles W. Bryan, former governor, has declined to have his name appear on the Nebraska primary ballot as a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination. His withdrawal will encourage democrats to unite in giving the state's delegation to Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Omaha. If Al. Smith should happen to fail to secure the nomination early in the balloting, and the convention should look around for another candidate, the distinguished Omaha editor very reasonably might be chosen.

The fact that F. O. Edgecombe has omitted his usual editorial columns from his Geneva Signal two weeks in succession led us to make uneasy inquiry as to the cause, fearing that the inspiration which he used to refer to as essential had been holding off. He explained that he had been too busily engaged in handling business increment to engage in editorial writing. We are relieved to know there was no lack of inspiration, though we are surprised to learn that the genial Geneva publisher would compel the divine afflatus to surrender to such bald worldliness as business.

An athletic coach should not be measured by the ability of his team to gain victories. We are told that the coach of the Iowa state university received a storm of disapproval because his team lost a succession of games, and yet we are assured that his manner of handling students inculcates the highest principles of manhood and sportsmanship. The public should first expect student improvement—development of mind as well as body—and then victory on the field if reasonably possible. A winning coach for a school's spiritual and physical growth does not necessarily pile up winning scores on the field of contest.

The Omaha Bee presents figures to show lower market values on agricultural and live stock products under the Underwood tariff of 1913 as compared to the tariff arrangement of 1927. The Bee adds: "Everything the farmer has to sell is protected by an import duty. Farm implements of all sorts are on the free list, lumber, leather, and generally what he has to buy comes into the country duty free." The tariff should be considered and readjusted from time to time with regard for the best interests of different sections of the country. It should not be subject to party prejudice, nor should one section of the country be allowed special favor over another. The tariff ought to be handled in a non-partisan manner, aloof from party politics and free from the football practice of rival party candidates.

The attendance of President Coolidge at the international conference in Havana and his effort to clarify the intentions of the United States will do much to extend understanding and insure peace. Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state, made a banquet speech in Havana that promises to do much to knit together the mutual interests of countries in the western hemisphere. He explained that the United States had gone into Nicaragua at the request of both parties in that country to secure order and permit a fair election. He made it plain that this country has no desire to gain advantage. It wants only peace and good will. He suggested that the motives of the United States will be accepted as sound as they become understood. It is believed Mr. Hughes' speech in support of better feeling among nations of this hemisphere will go down into history as one of the most notable ever delivered by an American statesman.

ENVY.

"We still maintain that, if there are radium deposits on the farms of Wayne county, we have them on the farms of Cedar county. We stoutly refuse to be out-classed in any respect by Wayne or any other county."—F. D. Stone in Hartington Herald.

Didn't the Lord give you valuable gravel pits? Didn't he give you the mighty Missouri river to cast a refreshing mist over your fertile acres? Didn't he give you J. P. O'Furey to illuminate the way and insure successive triumphs? What more do you want?

Business.

Sioux City Journal: Small but steady gains are being made by business over a widening area. Actually there is now indicated a sure recovery from the reaction that came when holiday trading was over and the expected slack season began. Shipments fell off rather heavily at the close of the year, but they are now increasing with every promise that in the next few months business will be as good as or better than it was last year.

Freight car loadings have gained appreciably, but are still far below the million mark to which the country had become accustomed. For the week ending January 7 the total was 754,062 cars, an increase of 74,462 over the preceding week, but a decrease of 179,828 below the same week in 1927. There were decreases as compared with the loadings last year in every line, the heaviest being in miscellaneous freight.

An explanation of the decrease in car loadings involves two considerations. One is that the year end brought a general decline in business activity. The other is that industrial production was curtailed in the closing weeks of 1927 with wholesalers and re-

CRIME NEWS.

Dr. F. A. Paden of Hartington, writes the Norfolk Daily News protesting that publication of so much crime news in metropolitan newspapers tends to incite crime. He points out that the half-baked moron fills up on crime news, and then, forgetful of consequences, goes forth to express his evil inclinations. Dr. Paden thinks publishers should boil down crime stories and cut out sensational details. On the other hand publishers contend that emphasizing the horror of crime and of the penalties exacted tends to lessen crime. They also say the public would not be satisfied with less than full particulars and that when the demand lessens, the supply will decrease. It is probably true—lamentably so—that the moron is sometimes influenced to commit crimes by the examples fully set forth by the metropolitan press. But like the theatre, the newspaper will shape its course in the quality of its product according to popular wishes as evidenced in patronage. Probably the time is coming when greater care will be taken in what is said in print and elsewhere with reference to the impression likely to be made on the public. People will also more and more guard against bad thoughts as damaging to self as well as indirectly to others.

tailors putting their dependence

in greatly increased transportation facilities for quick deliveries. Goods are not on shelves now in such volume as was known a few years ago. This, because merchants have found that they can obtain cars for shipments without delay.

However, even with the comparisons showing the car loadings to be thousands of cars below the figures for last year and 1926, shipments are now better than they have been. This improvement is expected to continue. Employment is better as the new year progresses, which means heavier industrial production, and that in turn indicates a stronger demand for goods.

The frequently predicted recovery of Europe in an industrial sense appears not to have come. The United States continues to enjoy a heavy trade balance in its favor. Imports fell off heavily during the last year. The trade balance totals $681,707,000, nearly twice what it was in 1926. This is encouraging in that it shows the country is more than holding its own in foreign trade. The trade balance this last year shows that a much greater volume of the American surplus was marketed abroad. Fears that the United States might lose in foreign markets apparently were not well founded.

Market Report.

Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.

Sioux City Stock Yards, Jan. 25.—Signs of hesitation entered the cattle trade this week, but the market managed to cling to the high level, with hardly an exception. Consequently values are still on a crest level for an eight year period and give indication of remaining high for some months to come.

The 11 leading markets of the country reported an aggregate of 110,000 cattle the first two days of the week, about 10,000 more than arrived the same days last week.

Weight seems to be a commanding factor in the steer trade. Good 100 day fed heaves again sold between $16.00 and $17.00 for tops, with outside sales over that level, although no ripe feds were shown and might $18.00, if offered. Fair to good kinds of shortfeds are quoted from $12.00 to $15.00, according to weight and quality, with light plain kinds down to $10.00 and even lower when trashy. Feeder buyers have afforded stiff competition for high quality warmed ups.

Fair to good yearling heifers sold from $10.00 to $12.00, with choice kinds as high as $12.50. Eastern kasher buyers took prime weighty cows as high as $11.50, but the good to choice heavy cows passed through regular channels from $9.50 to $10.50, with fair to good from $8.00 to $9.50. Plain cows merged with cutters just over the $6.00 line, while cutters stood mostly from $5.50 up. Canners averaged close to $5.00. Veals advanced another 50 cents and the outside top on select calves to city butchers now stands at $12.50. Bulls look steady for the week to date, with heavy fed types from $8.25 to $8.75 and fair to good bologners from $7.50 to $8.25.

Fair to good stockers and feeders are forming the bulk of the current incoming thin steer delegations and earning firm prices from $10.00 to $12.00. Choice green steers might find an outside top at $13.00, while as high as $13.50 can be quoted for choice quality shortfeds taken away from the killer buyers.

Feeding heifers have continued scarce and high. Choice quality kinds are moving mostly from $9.00 to $9.50 with some exceptions over that level. Light heifer cows top consistently in advance of $7.00, while most of the good regulation feeding cows sell off a $6.50 basis.

The first two days of the week brought approximately 324,000 pigs to the 11 leading markets of the country, about 3,500 less than arrived the same days last week, but 84,100 more than arrived the corresponding period in 1927. As the aggregates indicate the annual movement is now practically at the flood stage. Butchers on the river markets are down on about an $8.00 level, but the eagerness shown by packers for the hogs at $8.00 indicates that the deal will sink no lower. In fact, an upward revision is expected in the trade in about another thirty days.

Bulk of the current runs are butchers of desirable quality, with only a sprinkling of sows included, together with scattered lots of light lights. The weight question has practically vanished from the hog trade, with quality and finish the dominating factors.

Fat lambs worked up higher over the first half of the week and fed westerns, which make up the bulk of the daily runs, topped at $13.60. Natives sold as high as $13.25 and feeder lambs as high as $13.00. Fat ewes made a top at $7.75.

The first two days of the week brought slightly over 100,000 sheep and lambs to the 11 leading markets, about 7,000 more than arrived the first two days of last week.

Homecoming Is Observed Here

The speaker stated that life may be controlled in two ways, from within and from without. Let love dominate, he stated, and life will be enriched.

Life is the most valuable possession, Dr. Fox asserted. Life given for love, brings a more lasting life. Love is the only motive big enough to control. It should be the motive which has mastery of each. No one should be willing, Dr. Fox asserted, to have anything conceived which should be marked by evil. The hand of love should touch all and bring all under control of God.

Sunday school board and teachers had dinner together Tuesday evening in the church parlors. Dr. Fox and Carl Wright spoke. Dr. Gilbert is here.

Dr. Gilbert of Lincoln, came yesterday and spoke last evening. He will also speak Thursday and Friday evenings.

Special services are planned next Sunday morning for the closing day of the "homecoming week," and a pageant, "The Coming of Truth," closes the programs next Sunday evening.

Christmas Seals Sale Successful

The sale of Christmas seals for the Nebraska Tuberculosis association, carried on through the schools of the county during December under direction of Miss Pearl E. Sewell, amounted to $229.52. Each teacher of the county received 300 of the seals. Many of the districts sold this number. A few teachers returned the entire 300. The seals sold for 1 cent each.

The Wayne city school received a volley ball for having sold the most seals of any town school. The amount received was $51.11.

The school in district 13 received a volley ball given to the rural school selling the largest number of seals. This district received $5.10. Mrs. Elsie Anderson is the teacher. Schools in district 23, taught by Miss Florence Yocum, and in district 44, taught by Miss Frances Taylor, sold $5 worth of seals each. The school in district 15 sold $4.13, and those in districts 64 and 19 sold $4 each. Miss Florence Morrow, Miss Leona VonSeggern and Miss Marvel Sleske are the teachers in these last three named districts, respectively.

About 450 double-barred cross pins were given to pupils of the county who sold twenty-five seals each. Fifty-three of the pupils have earned health games, each having sold $1 worth of seals. Three grades in the Wayne city school each earned a book of poetry, having sold $10 worth of seals.

The Christmas seals are sold for support of the work done by the Nebraska Tuberculosis association through the schools and through the counties for the benefit of the health of all citizens. Fifty percent of the proceeds from the sale of seals in Wayne county will be returned here for local health work. The remainder will be used for health work throughout the state.

The Politician.

Dr. A. L. Bixby in Lincoln Journal: A highly valued western exchange has its own program thus clearly outlined: "To reduce taxes and transportation rates. To support sound farm relief legislation. To restore farm values to a level nearer values of other lines of business and industry." It goes a little further and pledges itself to uphold the political and economic power of the west, at home and in the seat of the mighty at Washington, to the end that eastern ideas and prejudices may be subdued and set aside, while the special interests of the central west be made paramount and permanent, or to that effect. The program looks fascinating on paper, but is it workable? Practically, two long and difficult steps must be taken to accomplish the first brace of benefits, the reduction of taxes and transportation—there must be a sharp and decisive cut in wages, in rents and in the prices of life's multiplied necessities. Very recently railway employees have been granted a substantial increase of wages that they may enjoy the benefits of better homes, better food and raiment, and be able to pay for the high-priced fuel, so absolute a necessity in this friendly climate of the north-temperate zone. And again, speaking of "values," the same are not affected one way or the other by political flap-doodle. Land prices, along with the price of prunes, skyrocketed under the artificial stimulus of war activities, but "values" remained stable and stationary. To get down to brass tacks, values are intrinsic, same as human character. You estimate a man by outside appearances, his reputation, but you sometimes have to dig deep to find out his intrinsic worth. Unfortunately for the cause of civilization our land is literally overrun by political quacks who are lavish with economic remedies, and know absolutely nothing when it comes to diagnosis. They go about stimulating popular distrust and deadly class hatreds, and in congress or legislatures would do incalculable mischief but for the restraining hand of a patriotic president or a governor who, having a brain, is disposed to use it pro bono publico.

The New Lubricant.

Lincoln Journal: Probably the bow and arrow was originally devised by Mr. Stone-hatchet as a toy to amuse the children. When one of them playfully shot him in the back it occurred to him that the toy might have some use in the world. At least we know that gunpowder was first used as a necessary ingredient of fire-crackers until some stout yeoman discovered that he could knock an armored knight off his horse with the stuff.

Rubber was so named because it was supposed to be good for nothing but to rub out mistakes of the pencil. Electricity in Ben Franklin's day was a curious fluid used in galvanic batteries to shock people at so much per shock. The latest toy of the scientists is psychiatry which tells us why other people do the odd things they do, and tells us about our dreams, our suppressed desires and how to release our vast stores of submerged mental energy in an overwhelming flood and become rich and famous overnight.

There is evidence, however, that psychiatry is rapidly coming out of the child-toy stage, and will soon be working a genuine transformation and improvement in the world. The criminologists were among the first to recognize its value in the study and treatment of criminals, a great percentage of whom are found to be such simply because their minds are diseased.

Employers of labor are now beginning to consult expert psychiatrists for the purpose of eliminating friction and maladjustment among their employees. By the aid of such experts the health and efficiency of the employe is often greatly improved and his own happiness as well as his value to his employer thereby increased. Thus a vast field of practical usefulness is beginning to open to the legitimate student of psychiatry, while the charlatan is doomed to disappear.

I, too, appear in public with a mission;
Be this my slogan, my religious motto:
Reduce the gabble of the politician!
He's glib enough, but talks more than he ought to.

Give us the fellow with correct ideas
As teaching home production and consumption;
The truth he tells us may not always please,
But he will show energy and gumption.

Combined, will give us pleasure for our grief
A yearly gain instead of steady losses;
He'll show how scientific farm relief
Will never be the work of party bosses.

My program is a plan of greater worth,
My portion is to keep this goose-quill humming;
To give the politicians a wide berth—
Me to the wind-cave when I see one coming.

The New State House.

Dr. A. L. Bixby in Lincoln Journal: Compared with the modest and sometimes inadequate house furnishings of the poor the equipment of the governor's office at the state house is a starting contrast. But we scarce can reason that the first is what it is because of the second. In building adequate, and even luxurious apartments for those who serve the state, the expense is so spread out that the individual, unless burdened with visible assets, is not oppressed with a "burden" of taxation, but the mite he does contribute to all this magnifi-

Promise for Corn.

Lincoln Journal: Owners of land in the corn belt will be interested in the report of prosperity from the Corn Products Refining Company and the forecast of an increased consumption of corn in 1928. The Viscose Company of America, which takes from Corn Products a large amount of starch and grape sugar for use in making artificial silk, has added 14,000,000 tons per year to its requirements by enlarging its plant at Parkersburg, W. Va. The plant at Rockanoke is to be enlarged at once. Corn Products is also building a million dollar sugar plant at Kansas City, with a capacity of two hundred tons daily. This increased demand for corn, coupled with the decrease in acreage caused by the fear of the borer, ought to establish a higher level of prices for several years to come.

Dry-cleaners will agree that all wealth comes from the soil. Thomas E. Pickering Service.

that the terms of two of the appointed members close at the end of each two years corresponding to the term of office of the governor, and at that time the incoming governor appoints two members to take the place of the outgoing ones. This makes a perpetual body of the governing power of the state teacher training institutions.

Work Recognized by All Schools.
"All of the teachers colleges in Nebraska are members of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and they are also class A schools in the American Association of Teachers Colleges. This means that the work done in any of these institutions receives full recognition in like departments of colleges and universities in this country."

Formerly Privately Owned.
"The people of northeast Nebraska are more especially interested, however, in the teachers college at Wayne. The beginning of this school was the Nebraska Normal College which for many years operated as a private institution. In connection with the bill, however, which provided for the establishing of a normal school at Wayne there was an appropriation for the purchase of the Nebraska Normal College which provided that it should become a state institution. In the transformation from the private normal college to the state normal school and teachers college an attempt was made to retain the prestige of the old school as well as the better features of the school for the benefit of the new state institution. Many students who attended the old Nebraska Normal College have since the reorganization attended the State Teachers College, have graduated and have gone out into educational and other fields of endeavor."

Many Improvements Made.
"When the state purchased the property of the Nebraska Normal College it consisted of two school buildings and a number of frame dormitories located somewhat away from the town. Since that time, however, the grounds have been extended until now the campus contains forty acres; a complete system of water and sewerage has been installed; new modern fire proof school buildings have been erected, excellent equipment has been provided and faculty trained for the needs of a state institution has been employed so that now those who attend this institution may do so with the assurance that they are attending a high class professional school, organized for the primary purpose of training teachers for the schools of Nebraska."

"When the state acquired this property there were but two school buildings. One of these buildings has since been torn down and replaced with the present administration building; this administration building contains the general offices, the auditorium and quarters for the classes of mathematics, English, music and commerce. Other school buildings which have been erected are the science hall and library, the industrial and physical education building, the training school building and Connell Hall which is used as a cafeteria and dormitory combined."

"A contract has been let for building the first unit of a modern fireproof dormitory for women. When this building is completed it will have rooming accommodations for 180 girls; it will also have quarters for the dean of women, a preceptress, repair room, sewing room, laundry, recreation room and parlor. It will have as part of its equipment two automatic elevators to be used primarily for freight service but may be used for passenger service. Every room will be provided with hot and cold water and every convenience necessary to make the buildings a comfortable, modern, up to date home for young women."

To Make Dormitories Comfortable.
"The present intention as soon as the dormitory now contracted for is completed, is to continue with the dormitory building program until the institution is able to house all freshmen students at least in fireproof dormitories on the campus. Experience has shown the management not only of this institution but of other institutions where it has been tried, that students are much more comfortable, better satisfied and do much better work when they may have their school homes in modern well kept dormitories. By the use of dormitories the element of expense can be greatly reduced. The students who are now accommodated in our old dormitories are charged from $1.10 to $1.50 a week for their rooms. This includes heat, light and furnishings for the room in all respects except laundering. Rooms in the new dormitory which is being provided will rent for $1.75 per week for each of two girls occupying the same room. It has always been the policy of this institution to keep other matters of expense at the lowest cost possible. This is a state institution and there are no tuition charges whatsoever. There is an entrance fee, however, of $5.00 which is paid by the student when he first enters school. This $5.00 is put into a special fund for the upkeep of the library and furnishes ample revenue for that purpose.

Adequate Library Provided.
"We have a library at present of some 16,000 volumes which covers the entire field of work offered in the various departments of the school. For the most part the books purchased are of a professional nature serving especially the needs of teachers and those preparing to teach. There are, however, numerous magazines, and periodicals as well as works of fiction and scientific treatises for those interested along other lines. No attempt has ever been made to build up a large library but we have been guided especially by the idea of securing books and other material which will contribute in the best way to those enrolled here as students."

Physical Education Urged.
"It might be of interest to some of my listeners to know what we are attempting in the way of physical and health education and athletics. In this regard I will say that we have two gymnasiums. One is located in the training school building and is used primarily by the children enrolled in the grades and the junior high school. Their work is conducted under the supervision of the director for physical education for women. Every child has the opportunity daily of taking part in some exercise intended for his physical benefit. For the college students we have a large gymnasium which is provided with lockers, shower rooms, a plunge bath, available for both young men and young women. Every student who completes the work necessary to receive a certificate for teaching is required to earn at least two hours of credit in some phase of physical education. Those who are preparing to teach in the grades have special instruction in the matter of playground supervision. This is done with the idea that the student who completes our work may receive the thing which will be valuable not only to herself physically but which may be used as a basis for the intelligent direction of plays and games in the school which she is preparing to teach."

"In connection with our athletic department we have a first class athletic field and cinder track as well as a covered grandstand capable of seating comfortably 2000 people. In addition to the activities of this department in football and basketball the department fosters an annual field day which is participated in by many high schools in northeast Nebraska."

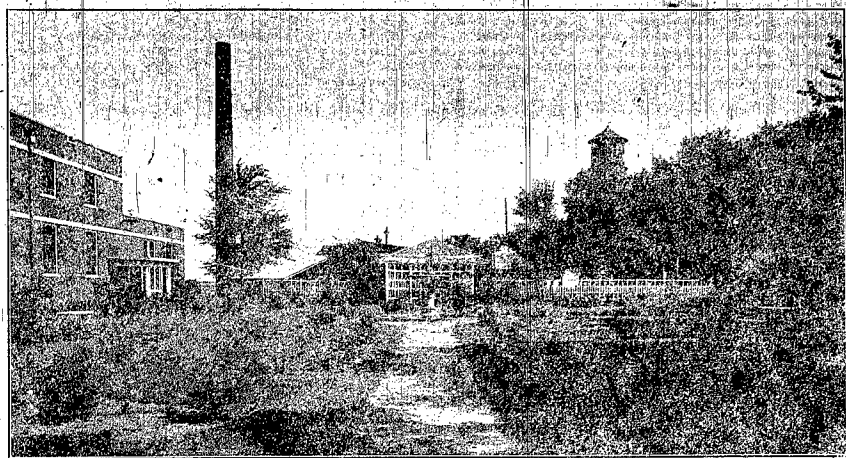

"At the close of the regular basketball season each year a tournament for high school teams of northeast Nebraska is held. The date for the tournament this year will be February 23, 24 and 25. For several years the number of schools taking part in this tournament has been increasing and this year the coach who is general manager of the tournament expect forty or fifty teams to participate."

"This tournament affords an opportunity for many high school boys and their parents and friends to come to Wayne. We are glad to have them come and while here to inspect our buildings, equipment and grounds and if time permits to visit any classes they may desire. This institution belongs to the people and it is always a pleasure to us to have its owners come and see what we are doing."

Academic Courses Offered.
"There are many who contemplate attending college or who have friends who expect to attend and to those I would say that while this school is organized primarily for the purpose of training teachers, it is possible for a young man or a young woman who does not expect to teach to select such academic work, as he may desire to do, and omit the professional training which is given for teachers only. Many young men and young women in years gone by have been doing this."

"It is of special advantage to the high school graduate to enroll in an institution where the classes are kept at a teachable size and where it is possible to confer with the instructor and to talk over the difficulties which he meets. The student who has in mind eventually to study medicine, law, or engineering, may enroll in this institution and select just the work which it is necessary for him to do in the preliminary part of his program, looking toward any one of these professions."

Educational Work Varied.
"For those who are preparing to teach several courses are offered. The most elementary course is to be found in the ru-al elementary department. Those who desire to take this work must on completion have covered the course of study equivalent to a standard four year high school course and have taken the prescribed work in professional lines. The school issues also what is known as the general elementary state certificate. This is equivalent to one college year in advance of the standard four year high school.

"The normal school diploma is a two year college course and on the completion of this course the student is given a first grade state certificate which is transformed into a professional life state certificate after three years of teaching. Those who complete this course are qualified to teach in the grades of any school system in the country. This is recognized as the standard state normal school diploma. It forms the basis for a certificate in almost any state in the union. The time is coming, however, when those who expect to hold the better positions in teaching must have the minimum education represented by a bachelor's degree or four years of college work."

"Many of our students who have previously completed the two year course and others who have had two years of work elsewhere are now availing themselves of the advantages offered by taking the two additional years of college work and thus receive the degree. This degree as I stated before is the bachelor's degree and qualifies the applicant to teach in the better high schools of the country."

Growth of School Steady.
"The present is the eighteenth year of this institution as a state school. Since its organization there has been a steady growth, not only in the total enrollment, but in the preparation of those enrolled. The first class graduating was in May, 1911 and consisted of three students. Last year there were graduated from the regular two year course, or what is known as the standard state normal course, 184, and from the four year course granting the degree, 40. The total enrollment for the first year of the school of different students was 538, almost 90 per cent of whom were of high school rank. The annual enrollment now of different students is about 1800 almost all of whom are high school graduates. Our graduates are scattered all over the United States and for the most part are engaged in teaching yet there are a few who have entered other lines of endeavor."

Students Encouraged In Work.
"The young man or the young woman who really wants to get an education in given every encouragement is given this school. Wayne is essentially a school town. The people of Wayne have a sense of responsibility as to what it means to be the host to several hundred young men and women gathered in from the best homes of northeast Nebraska, and the surrounding territory, who have come here to make this their school home. Besides our dormitories, the best homes are open to students. There are no distracting influences and every student is on an equality with every other student in the school. There are many who earn their living or at least in part. The fact that there are no tuition charges, and that the laboratory and other fees are nominal, makes it possible for the student to attend here for at least half of what is often called for at other institutions."

Living Expenses Low.
"We have facilities at present for about 275 students in our dormitories. The rental which includes heat and light is from $1.10 to $1.50 a week. In private homes rooms may be had for from $8.00 to $10.00 per month for each of two students occupying the same room. The institution operates its own cafeteria where good wholesome well cooked meals are served at an average cost of 24c. In our cafeteria any one will find a selection of food which will compare in variety and quality with the best commercial cafeterias."

"The students who find it necessary to economize will be able to keep their expenses easily within the following limit: Board at the cafeteria for 36 weeks $180.00; room in a dormitory 36 weeks, $40 to $48.00. Room in private home $72.00 to $90.00. Fees and supplies $25.00 to $30.00. This means that the student who must economize and who is willing to do so can get through two semesters on not to exceed $300, and there are many who do so."

School Policy To Aid All.
"There is not much reason for the ambitious young man or young woman who really wants an education today to feel that he cannot get it. The most important equipment for the student is a real desire to get an education. It is the policy of this institution to make the boy or girl who has but limited means and who must work his way through school feel just as welcome as the student whose expenses are paid for him and who needs to give no concern about how his bills are to be met."

Education Is Imperative.
"In closing I wish to say that there never has been a time when a young man or a young woman without an education and without definite preparation for doing something well has faced a more discouraging future than now. Those who expect to teach can no longer hope to secure a desirable position without definite preparation. The ambitious student will not be content with the minimum preparation but he will get the best preparation possible in order that he may accept advancement when the opportunity offers."

"It is a mistake for any student to drop out of college to teach or to engage in any other line of endeavor before he has completed his work unless financial conditions make it imperative. Where an eighth grade education a few years ago was being sufficient, now nothing less than a high school education will satisfy and where a high school education was demanded, now two years at least of college work is required. Where graduates of the standard normal school were demanded, now nothing less than the degree is expected. Everything is progressing and the one who does not recognize this trend of affairs will soon drop out and fall far behind the procession."

MODERNITY STRIKES HAWAII

THE modern woman has arrived in Hawaii. Already, bold, shameless Chinese girls, going around with their trousers cut short—can it be believed?—just below the knee. Their mothers and grandmothers wall in protest in horror but they can do nothing. The Chinese girls, too, have entered a new profession. Not content to do the housework, or sit in their husbands' stoves and sell the goods while he talks to a cronny in the backroom, they have taken to barbering, and the sight of a demure little Celestial shaving one of her fellow countrymen is not unusual.

The Chinese are an industrious race, a thrifty people. They look ahead and plan for the future. As a contrast, there is the Hawaiian, a disappearing element in the life of the Hawaiian Islands. The old geography definition of the French character "a frivolous people fond of dancing and light wines" might well have been written of the Hawaiians.

Hawaiian Can Drive
The Hawaiian has his little home, with taro patch nearby. Fish nets and an outrigger canoe provide him with fish any time he elects to look for it. "Why, then should I work? I have plenty to eat, a nice wife, a boat. I am happy." And nothing can induce him to work—that is, at something he doesn't like. But mention automobile to him. Instantly his eyes shine, he makes magnificent gestures in the air. One sees him driving over the precipitous mountain roads at breakneck speed, zooming around the hairpin curves with wall on one side and cliff on the other, looking around nonchalantly to be sure he is admired.

The Wonderful Traffic Cop
The Hawaiian has a traffic cop.

tion in life. That is to be a traffic cop. To stand in the middle of the street, all decked out in resplendent uniform, to call a car forward with gentle wave of his hand, to leash it in its place with another wave—ah! that is bliss! It is rapture personified!

But when it comes to working in the sugar plantations or the rice fields, there is a serene indifference manifest by the little brown man. Not only on his face, but also on the face of his wife. Her husband's do all that hard work? Why, no. Why should she expect her husband to work at something he doesn't want to?

The Moral Mother Hubbard
O, but a favor? Certainly. Work? Well, maybe. There is a shade of reluctance on the little brown face, but every Hawaiian is essentially polite and kindly, so he will do the hated work. And his brown wife will help out with the housework, act as nursemaid to the children—although that is not a job she relishes—anything to do a favor.

When the missionaries arrived in Hawaii they found the natives had simplified the problem of dress by ignoring it. Without any ado the missionary women gave away that voluminous and dowdy garment known as a Mother Hubbard, and since then the Mother Hubbard has been the standard of feminine dress for the older Hawaiians; the astounding part of it is that the women seem able to invest it with a certain charm, not to say style. However, the younger Hawaiian woman discarded the Mother Hubbard and now is wearing American clothes, such as any girl would wear. She wears them when she is not clothed in overalls, which have a fascination for her.

The younger girls and some of the more intelligent women are inclined to work, too. Many of them sell the flower or paper leis, without which no tourist in Hawaii feels properly clothed. And when it is considered that fifteen is no unusual number to wear at one time, it is evident that there is quite a market for this product.

There is, however, one industry on the islands which appeals. It is that of pineapple canning. For one thing, the working hours are reasonable in length. The pay is good. But best of all, it is seasonal. There is no need to work day in and day out but all year long. Let the Japanese and Chinese and Filipinos and Koreans and Portuguese stick on the job if they want to. Little Miss Hawaii will work during the summer when there is no school and earn enough money to give her another term of learning.

She Likes the Factory
She likes the factory and the cafeteria where the good food can be bought so cheaply. But most of all she enjoys the rest room where, after her shower bath, she can sit and feast her eyes on the scarlet hibiscus blossoms and the green palm trees while she listens to the music of the victrola. For the true Hawaiian is never happy without music. Most foreigners enjoy Hawaiian music, those who do not like it describe it as four walls and a sob. But anyway, the little Hawaiian woman approves of it highly; but no less does she approve of such jazz ditties as "You Don't Like It—No, Not Much."

After the pineapple season is over she goes back to her home, pleased with the money she has earned, but more pleased to be home where there are no bosses, and where she can look with gentle amusement at the Chinese and Japanese women working so hard

Honest Minds Do Not Differ.

Fremont Herald: Honest men, sitting down to think out some problem or other, are extremely apt finally to arrive at identical conclusions. For that reason we have the adage, "Great minds run in the same channels."

Great minds, you understand, are honest minds. There are many great men, so-called, who differ widely in their alleged conclusions from the alleged conclusions of other great men, so-called. But where these so-called great minds are found differing, it is safe to conclude that one or the other of them, or possibly both, are not strictly honest. They have been influenced in their alleged reasoning by some selfish purpose or other.

Great men, it was a grief to me to learn as a young man of high ideals, are often guided more by expediency than by justice. That is exactly why we have such imperfect government as we have, a government which

Second Semester Opens At Wayne High School With Few Attendance Changes

Junior Band Is Organized with Many Enrolled—Other News of Past Week.

The second semester of the year at the Wayne high school opened January 16. Herman Sund and Lyle Hansen enrolled as new pupils in the sophomore class. Fred Luders entered the freshman class as a new pupil. Advanced civics, taught by P. W. Maynard, and American Literature, taught by Miss Mary Muenz, are new subjects offered this semester.

A junior band has been organized in the high school. In this and the other school band are sixty-eight students enrolled. Prof. F. C. Reed conducted rehearsals. The regular band practices each Wednesday at 4 o'clock and the junior band practices each Thursday at 4 o'clock. Individual lessons are also given the students.

The sophomore class, of which Mrs. Allis Pollard and Miss Dorothy Cooley are sponsors, is conducting a series of meetings for the purpose of instruction in parliamentary order drill. The project now under way is the purchase of a team of mules, buying of harness and food for the animals and naming them. Committees were named to give reports and they are as follows: Bridles, Baldwin Fisher and William Von Seggern; feed, Herbert Perry and John Claycomb; halters, Marvin Thompson and Luther Doctor; harness, Vivian Hurlbert and Mildred Bonawitz; mules, Evelyn Larson and Kathryn Kemp; and names, Helen Hanson and Marie Sand. Reports were given last week Tuesday.

The students consulted a number of sources to determine where they could secure the best business mules for the lowest prices. Prices were as follows: Bridles, $7.50; feed, per bushel, and halters, $1.25. The team of mules secured cost $300.00. Kathryn Kemp, in reporting the findings of the mule purchasing committee, stated that this pair of mules is brown, 6-year olds, still willing to run, gentle and broken to any amount of noise, not afraid of cars or bright lights. She also said, "They ought to be good for fifteen years and if we bought them we would still have a good team of mules when we are old men and women." Jack and Jill, Pell and Nell, Babe and Lena were among the names suggested for the new team. The drill has been of great value in teaching parliamentary order and has also furnished much pleasure as well as instruction in buying.

Sophomores elected Margaret Fenske president and Helen Hanson vice president for the remainder of the year. Coach Cecil Marx was in Britt, Iowa, last Thursday and Friday, called there by the death of his brother. Supt. T. S. Hook had charge of his classes and coached the basketball team during his absence.

Mrs. Abram Gildersleeve, mother of Lowell Gildersleeve, died last week. A number of students from the junior class, of which Lowell is a member, attended the services Friday afternoon.

The senior activity committee met last week to make plans for a party to be held soon. Leland Laase and Robert Adams played the assembly march last week.

William and Myrtle Wallace reentered school last week Monday after an absence of ten days. Donald Albert, senior, and William Von Seggern, sophomore, were absent all last week on account of illness.

Frances Meyer, freshman, was absent all last week on account of illness.

Practice Debates. The Wayne high school debating team, in charge of Proctor, W. Maynard, plans some practice debates in the near future. The affirmative team goes to Wakefield Friday, February 3, and the Wakefield affirmative comes here to meet the local negative team on Friday, February 10. The local affirmative goes to Hartington February 18, and the Hartington affirmative comes here

The glee clubs are practicing regularly. They plan a program for the school soon.

Roadside Courtesy. Omaha Bee: A young woman is dead today, because motorists, passing along a main thoroughfare, would not stop to lend assistance. A car was in the ditch at a not very dangerous place in the road, something that might have excited pardonable curiosity in any passing driver. Under that car were pinned two persons, a young man and woman. Pitifully the girl pleaded for help, but her companion could not aid her while her eyes were widened by "One finally stopped and extricated the imprisoned pair, but it was too late, so far as the girl was concerned."

Another feature of this tragedy is that the car was overturned by a hit-and-run driver, who did not even look back to see what damage he had wrought. Whoever he is, he may have a conscience, and if he has any such, he will have with him always the pleadings of that girl for help. How he will justify

Stock Is Less As Population Grows

Although there are 35,000,000 more people in the United States now than 25 years ago, there are about 22,000,000 fewer beef cattle, sheep, and swine to provide meat for them, according to Dr. J. R. Mohler, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture. There are, however, about 8,000,000 more dairy cows, so the net loss in the number of food-producing animals is about 14,000,000 in 25 years. Ten years ago the corn fields aggregated about 107,000,000 acres. This year they amount to less than 98,000,000 acres, according to the latest estimates, representing an average shrinkage of nearly a million acres a year.

These and other changes, in Doctor Mohler's opinion, are evidences of a growing industrialization of the United States. "This country," he says, "is undergoing much the same change that occurred during the last century in Great Britain. At that time the British Isles were agriculturally prominent. Agriculture, in turn, was largely a livestock enterprise. I need not dwell on the excellence of British livestock, for it ranks with the world's best. Yet for many years it has been overshadowed by industrial development, such as manufacturing, mining, and the acquisition of a world-wide commercial trade. The United States is undergoing a similar change. We may point with pride to our 73,000,000 domestic animals. We may assert that the livestock population of the country, not counting poultry, exceeds the human population by 50,000,000. And we may call attention to the large meat consumption of the United States and the progress made in improving the quality of animals and in reducing the risks of production. But if we are honest with ourselves we must accept other facts. We must consider the livestock industry in relation to other developments."

Doctor Mohler admits there are partial substitutes for many of the products of meat animals, but he says these are not adequate substitutes. Two duties involve on the livestock producer, he believes. First, they should increase the biological efficiency of their livestock to the highest degree. Second, they should "convince and inform the public that livestock raising in this country is an essential industry, which, along with its various products, deserves consideration in proportion to the service it renders."

The Code Law.

York Republican: No one who has made any study of the code believes that the governor who may be elected this year or any other subsequent year will advocate the abolition of the administrative code in government. True, A. J. Weaver has uttered some strictures on the present operation of the system, but he has not indicated a purpose to tear the code up by the roots and throw it away. Being a good business man he could not do that. The present system is so far in advance of government by boards and commissions there is no successful comparison of benefits achieved.

The most outspoken friends of the code do not believe it is working at its best. It has to be remembered that the adoption of the code did not change the existing laws that were on the statute books. Many of these conflict and taken together they do not allow the state's business to be done without duplication and waste.

If the matter can be dissociated from politics and the governor and the members of the legislature join in an intelligent effort to adapt the existing laws to the code by enactments, changes and repeal, and then a cooperative undertaking be made to adopt and adapt all the benefits of the code system, the result will be that the wisdom of the legislature of 1919 in adopting the code will be recognized and approved.

Women Urged To Use Budget Plan

The woman in the home partnership often handles the greater part of the family money and keeps the accounts. The Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture believes in keeping records of family expenditures for the same reasons that business accounting is considered important. The various groups of home expenses—food, housing, clothing, and so on—may be compared to the different sections of a business enterprise. Without a satisfactory system of records there would be no way for the business man to know which departments were well managed and which needed to be reduced. In a similar way any group of household expenses must stay within the budget for that group. It is not enough, therefore, merely to list home expenditures in miscellaneous order and add them up. They must be classified under definite heads, so that they can be analyzed, and used as a guide to future spending.

Anyway, Lindy still chooses to fly.—St. Louis Star.

Belief in Old Age.

Fremont Herald: There's one thing worth reading in this particular issue of The Herald, and that's Dr. Frank Crane's editorial on the fallacy of 'observing birthdays.' He suggests that people would be far better off if they did not remember their birthdays and if they had no record of them. And in that, this paper believes, Dr. Crane is just about right.

It cannot be doubted that old age is very largely psychological. We grow old largely because we expect it. What we believe is largely so in this puzzling existence of us human creatures here on this puzzling little globe we call the world. After we pass a certain line, we begin to dread the whizzing approach of anniversaries of our birthdays. And dread, mind you, speeds the things dreaded.

There is on record, so I've read, the case of a woman in England who never grew old, who at seventy remained to all appearances the girl of seventeen, and that without the aid of powders and rouge. And it was all because she had, through a great catastrophe, become mentally deluded into the belief that she was living but a day. For her the flight of time had been stopped. It was this woman's wedding day, as I remember the story. She was waiting at the church for the groom, whom she loved dearly. On the way to the church the groom was killed in an accident. The news of the disaster upset the bride's mind. Ever after that she believed herself still awaiting her lover at the altar. She insisted upon being arrayed in her bridal clothes, and because she lived in that one idea and that one day, she never grew old.

It is possible that none of us would grow old if we didn't believe so implicitly that it is a condition inevitable. One thing seems reasonable, at least, and that is, we wouldn't grow old so early in life, if we didn't so fear it and earnestly anticipate it by the time we've attained to a certain milestone.

As a near-at-home proof, there's Uncle Tom Watt, well known Fremont negro janitor. Uncle Tom doesn't know exactly when he was born—that is to say, he has no record of his birthday. But he knows that he lived in the days of slavery, and he has his age figured out pretty accurately, so that he knows he's close to the century mark, if he's a day. But look at him: Here he is still strong and active, with a young wife and young children in his home, I'm told, and with less evidence of what the doctors call senility than many a man of fifty evinces.

No doubt about it, our beliefs, our fears and expectations have much to do in bringing old age upon us.

Correction.

Albion News: Editor Huse of the Wayne Herald, commenting on this editor's refrain from political ambitions in the future, made the mistake of saying that we were a member of the last legislature. Such was not the case, for when the votes were counted it was found that we were confronted with a shortage. But it was our experience during the campaign two years ago that convinced us that a newspaper man has little or no business trying to run for office. During the entire campaign the demands of our paper were such that we never left the office for a single minute to campaign for votes. And we decided right then and there that if a man couldn't find time to hold down the job if elected.

Value Placed In Timber On Land

It pays to know the volume of timber in a farm woodland before making a sale, says the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture. If the farmer does not know how to estimate standing timber, he would do well to call in expert assistance, which can often be obtained through the county agent or state extension forester. The value of such an estimate is shown by the experience of a woodland owner in Williamson county, Tenn. The highest bid which he received for his tract of hardwood timber before it was estimated was $2,700, which he was inclined to accept. However, he employed an experienced cruiser to estimate the timber and assist him in finding other bidders. Within three months the tract was sold for $6,500, half in cash and half due in six months. The cruiser charged $500 for his services, and the owner thus netted $6,000, or $3,300 more than he would have obtained without securing assistance.
