Crazy Words and a Crazy Stunt

See how many sentences you can make out of these letters:

W A H I S C O X H A R D W A R E

For example, see how easy it is:

WE SELL A HOUSE PAINT, IT'S NAME IS MONARC. ANY TIME YOU WANT A ROOF COATING TRY VALDUR.

And to the person making the best job of it we will give FREE LARGE ALUMINUM WATERLESS COOKER.

All answers must be in Bunt's hands at Hiscox Hardware on or before 6 o'clock, Tuesday, February 28.

Answers to appear in the next week's Wayne Herald.

The idea is to have each sentence end with the name of some article of hardware that we carry in stock, and to get as many hardware names in each sentence as possible. So come to our store and look around and take the names right off our shelves.

There will be no ties 'cause the judges will pick the one that makes the most sense (not sentence) and the names of the most Hardware articles we carry in stock.

Everyone can try for this prize except the employes of this store, their wives and sweethearts.

An Industrial Policy. A York Republican: An industrial policy, recently announced by two great industrial plants at New Bedford, Mass., may sound harsh but it has elements of justice which may cause it to come into national favor. Every applicant for work there is required to furnish evidence that he is a citizen of the United States or that he is desirous of becoming one. Introduce that policy into all business and trade relations in this country and one of two things will happen. Either the non-assimilable aliens will be sent hurrying back across the seas where they came from or they will become citizens of the country whose bounty and opportunities they enjoy. Who could reasonably object to that?

they yet may cause the impression in some minds that this is one of the results of it being a presidential year. It is natural for some persons engaged in business to associate depression with a presidential campaign and election.
 The Journal has repeatedly urged that such association is both unwarranted and hurtful. Its contention has been that business would react to the condition of the times and not to the issues fought back and forth between the major political parties. Supply keeps up with demand.
 The Magazine of Business agrees wholeheartedly with this idea. It insists that the presidential year "depression" is always a state of mind. It observes that "along about February, once every four years, it has been our habit in America for a hundred years or more to unlock the alibi clothes press and take out the frightful old ghost mantle labeled 'presidential year bugaboo' and slip it over our heads and no about saying 'boo' to each other." So "merchants said 'boo' to manufacturers. Manufacturers said 'boo' to producers of raw materials and to their fellow manufacturers. Employers said 'boo' to their workers, and the workers said 'boo' to the grocery man and the butcher. And so it went, round in a circle. Everybody said 'boo'! This is a presidential year—business will be off this year."
 Statistics offered in support of an argument must be accepted as clinching it, so the Magazine of Business goes back to 1888 to reveal the record of presidential years. In 1888 business started below normal, but gained in spite of politics and closed above normal. Business was 10 per cent above normal in 1892. Believed to be due to free silver as an issue, business was below normal in 1896 and the depression lasted over until the second year following. In 1900 business was considerably above normal in the early months and slightly below at the close. Nineteen four was below normal. Nineteen eight began with a carry-over of depression from that of 1907, but showed marked improvement later. Business was from 5 to 10 per cent above normal in 1912. A boom year in 1916, 10 to 15 per cent above normal. Nineteen twenty was considerably above normal until the last three months, when postwar adjustments began. Business was below normal early in 1924 but showed a recovery before the close.

Which? E. P. Walker: The other day I read two obituaries of men I had known in their day. The stories were short—when they came into the world and when they departed: when they located here and there and the number of relatives each left to mourn a loss. In neither case was the story told. One had gone through life with a smile on his lips and a kind word for all. He died poor. The other one had been a bulldozer and tightfisted. He had exacted his pound of flesh in every business deal and the moan of the orphan and pleading of the widow had failed to soften his stony heart. He left a pile in the bank. The man who smiled and helped humanity had made money, but it was of interest to him only in that he could use it to help scatter sunshine and showing his family a good time. He left goodly life insurance and a reputation that will stand with his modest monument in the village cemetery. The other had toiled and slaved and raised his family in penury and fear of his wrath. He had pulled his load of gold to the edge of the grave and had to let go. Those who follow him will not grow sleek and fat in the sunshine of his money. Of him the neighbors say: "It won't take long for the boys to spend the old tightwad's

Of the other they remark: "Too bad. He was a mighty good man." Which?
Long-Lived Shoes. Royal, Neb., Feb. 11.—W. L. Seaman, farmer near here, who has worn a pair of shoes for twenty-five years and had them resoled but once and that recently, is receiving considerable notice from different parts of the United States. A shoe repair company in New York City wired him that they could make him a pair of shoes that would last fifty years. Others who had given shoes long service wrote asking him how he accomplished it.
 A woman wrote him inclosing a stamped and addressed envelope for a reply, asking him to tell her how many pairs of overalls he had worn out while sitting around to save his shoes. The shoes were purchased by Mr. Seaman twenty-five years ago for $2.50 of Mrs. Ida Fannon, still in business here, and were bought by her from the North Star Shoe company in Minneapolis. Mr. Seaman is offering $100 for another pair that will wear as long, but he says he will have to wear any pair submitted for twenty-five years before the money will be paid.

The POLICY of PROGRESS

A STATEMENT by GENERAL MOTORS

IT is the policy of General Motors to maintain continuous improvement, in every one of its car divisions, with no interruption in production.

This means that you enjoy the benefits of new engineering developments promptly — just as soon as they have been thoroughly tested on the 1245-acre Proving Ground.

It means that you can now order the new Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick, LaSalle, Cadillac, or GMC Truck, and receive immediate delivery.

Behind this policy of continuous improvement is an organization so widespread and resourceful that it can make and sell quality automobiles more economically than any automobile manufacturer in the world.

In the north and south it logs and mills its own lumber. In the east it makes its own ball bearings and radiators. In the middle west it produces its own plate glass. Its plants are busy in 33 important American cities.

From almost 5,000 suppliers, its materials are obtained—steel by the hundreds of thousands of tons—wire by the tens of thousands of miles—upholstery by the acre—nuts, bolts and washers by the millions. Its sales and service take place through 33,000 dealers. More than 275,000 families look directly to General Motors for their livelihood—almost a million and a half men, women and children in every community in the land.

Meaning so much to so many, General Motors has felt a supreme obligation to look ahead.

Are there methods by which General Motors cars can be better built to better serve?

Are there new ideas which can increase the utility and pleasure and safety of motoring?

Are there new materials which can add to owner satisfaction?

Such are the questions that all General Motors engineers have always asked. The answers have made it possible, year after year, to offer an increasing measure of beauty in design, modern performance, riding comfort and distinct style. Thus in every price class, from Cadillac to Chevrolet, purchasers are constantly benefiting from the General Motors policy of progress.

Farmers State Bank of Altona 9451.26 Report of A. W. Stephens, sheriff, showing amount of fees received by him for the quarter ending December 31, 1927, amounting to the sum of $264.07, and the payment of the same into the county treasury, as shown by receipts hereto attached, was examined and on motion duly approved.

Anson A. Welch, judge of the district court, ordered the payment of a mother's pension to Lalia Wamberg of $20.00 per month, for a period of six months, beginning December, 1927, for the support of her minor children, Maurice Wamberg and Donald Wamberg.

On motion the above order is duly approved and clerk ordered to draw the warrants in compliance with such court order.

Whereas, W. H. Rees, has filed an affidavit which is in the words and figures as follows: State of Nebraska, County of Wayne, ss. W. H. Rees being first duly sworn on his oath deposes and says:

1. That he is the duly elected, qualified and acting director of school district No. 44, Wayne County, Nebraska, and as such he has charge of the journal, records and files thereof. That during the year 1922 said school district voted $4500.00 bonds for the purpose of building a school house. Said bonds were dated August 1, 1922, due August 1, 1932, optional five years from date and bear interest at the rate of 6 percent per annum, in denominations of $500.00 each, numbered from one to nine inclusive.

On motion in view of the above affidavit as to facts in the case, the county clerk of Wayne county, Nebraska, is ordered to cancel bonds or record thereof of Nos. 8 and 9 for $500.00 each against school district No. 44 of Wayne county, Nebraska, and to notify under the seal of Wayne county, the auditor of public accounts at Lincoln, Nebraska, so that the said bonds or record thereof, may be cancelled by that department.

Comes now Albert Jacobsen and says that for the year 1927, he was assessed in school district No. 52 which makes his tax $7.99. That said tax was paid under protest for the reason that he should have been assessed in school district No. 18, which would make the tax $5.10, and he now asks that the sum of $2.89 be refunded.

On motion the county treasurer is ordered to refund to the said Albert Jacobsen, the sum of $2.89.

The following claims are on motion audited and allowed and warrants ordered drawn on the respective funds as herein shown. Warrants to be available and ready for delivery February 18, 1928.
