Local Contest Held On Friday

Dick Fanske, Newell Pollard, Harriet Craven and Maxine Rhoades Take Honors.

Dick Fanske, Newell Pollard, Harriet Craven and Maxine Rhoades took first places in the annual Wayne high school declamatory contest held Friday evening at the school assembly room. They will enter one of the four elimination contests. Winners in these will compete in two sub-district contests, and the winners in these meet in the district contest. One of the sub-district and the district contests will be held in Wayne.

Mrs. Lovice Sturtevant of Sioux City, professional critic and judge, was here Friday evening to judge the contest.

In the extemporaneous class Dick Fanske took first, speaking on "Prohibition and Politics." Max Ellis was second, his subject being "Two Outstanding Candidates for President."

In the oratorical class Newell Pollard took first, speaking on "The Masterful Man of the Ages." Marie Finn was second, her subject being "All-Embracing Americanism."

Those taking part in the dramatic class and the results were as follows: "The Phantom Aeroplane," Harriet Craven, first; "The Truly Mother," Dorothy Ross, second; "At the Dim Gate," Myrtle Wallace; "Engineer Connor's Son," Prudence Bush; and "The White Hand of Telham," Zola Wilson.

Results in the humorous class were as follows: "Tommy Sterns at the Library," Maxine Rhoades, first; "Hiny Bloss, Champeen," Joe Lutgen, second; "Jimmy Jones Studies Geography," Ethel Quigley; "Aunt Jane at the Missionary Society," Letha Porterfield; and "A Rural Dooryard Call," Ardyth Gildersleeve.

Wallace Beery is A Biscuit Shooter

Biscuits are again coming into their own as a standard article of humor, due to the efforts of Wallace Beery.

For many years pie-throwing in film comedies left biscuits sadly in the background. Biscuits were referred to only in newspaper jokes and cartoons. A bride's first biscuits were invariably hard enough to break hubby's teeth, or were thrown as substitutes for bricks.

But, in "Wife Savers," which is showing at the Crystal theatre this Friday and Saturday, Beery proves his pet contention that biscuits are really funnier than pies, especially when he makes them.

New Books Received At Public Library

Among the new books accessioned recently at the Wayne public library are the following:

"Splendor" by Ben Ames Williams, is the story of a little boy who grows up with a beautiful perception of life which makes it seem a lovely and romantic thing. The first thirty years of his life are the last thirty of the nineteenth century, filled with the brilliant happenings as seen through the young newspaper man's eyes—"Spanish War," "Free Silver" and Klondyke Gold.

There is a pageant of transportation through the book and the splendor of increasing speed.

"A Pilgrimage To Palestine" by Harry Emerson Fosdick, is a category by itself of an amazing pageant of historical association between geographical features of Palestine and contents of the bible. The author has the faculty of making the scene appear before one like an apparition.

"A Son of Mother India Answers" by Dhan Gopal Mukerji, is a challenging reply to "Mother India" by Katherine Mayo, who wrote an attack on the Indian people after a few months spent there. The author is a native of India and is known throughout the United States as an author and lecturer. The book is a rich storehouse of little known facts about Indian life.

"Lindbergh, The Lone Eagle" is a story of the great aviator's life and achievements. The book contains a chapter on the navigation of the "Spirit of St. Louis." It also contains a copy of the contents of a book presented Captain Lindbergh by State Secretary Kellogg, of world wide congratulations received by the United States government.

"The Best Stories of 1925 and the Yearbook of the American Short Story" is edited by Edward J. O'Brien. The book contains the work of the best short story writers and data concerning the authors.

Air Marriage Has To Be Repeated

Rev. Coy L. Stager Performs Wedding Over Omaha With Council Bluffs License.

Owing to an oversight in technicalities, a marriage ceremony performed last week Tuesday in an aeroplane by Rev. Coy L. Stager of Omaha, formerly of Wayne, had to be conducted twice. The license obtained by Miss Alice Milberger, 19, and Edward Teshak, 22, at Council Bluffs, was according to Iowa law, void because the marriage ceremony was performed in the air over Omaha. Iowa law is that the marriage must be performed in the county where the license is obtained.

When the matter was called to Rev. Stager's attention he immediately informed the couple of the situation. The couple drove to the Iowa end of the toll bridge and Rev. Stager repeated the ceremony.

SUNDAY MOVIES.

York Republican: Every community of size must face the subject of Sunday movies. In York the subject is receiving much discussion already. It is not unlikely that the people will be asked to vote on the question in a municipal election. Sunday amusements trouble the older people a great deal, the young folks very little. And since the new generation is replacing the old there is certain to be a change in sentiment about Sunday observance. Whether the elders like it or not, we are in an automobile age when those who want Sunday pleasure will go far for it. If it is not provided at home, some other place that provides it will have their patronage. And because the matter of Sunday observance must now be faced with a necessity for a change of view, Sunday movies, which are perhaps as unobjectionable as any form of amusement that could be suggested, begin to find friends where they had none a few years ago. It is certain that it is impossible with present day advances to keep the Sabbath in the old time way. What and how great concessions to make to the spirit of the day is the thing to be carefully thought out to reach a correct solution.

... yet Buick clears the ruts and gives head-room as well

Buick's remarkable combination of modish, graceful beauty—maximum head-room—and ability to clear the ruts—is the direct result of the Buick double-drop frame. This brilliant advancement, pioneered by Buick months ago, places Buick far ahead of other cars in beauty, safety and all-around roadability.

Develops Amazing Power from Low-Grade Fuels

Hart-Parr 12-36's, sold as three-four-plow tractors proved their amazing power by pulling seven 14-inch plows in high gear at Salina, Kansas; at Wray, Colorado; at Floyd, Iowa; at Menno, South Dakota, and many other places. They proved that the power was there; so that a Hart-Parr can do its rated work without overloading—thus guaranteeing long life and good service. And this power was developed from cheap, low-grade fuel, costing on the average from 8 to 10 cents a gallon. The Hart-Parr is the one tractor that develops tremendous power from cheap, low-grade fuels. Hart-Parrs are now equipped with 3 speeds ahead and are made for small, medium, and large farms. Ask for a demonstration on your own farm.

As harbingers of warm spring-time, robins are here in great number. The weather has been warm enough to invite plowing and planting, and if favorable elements continue, fields will soon be astir with workers preparing for another harvest.

The current Literary Digest contains interviews and newspaper excerpts showing the healthfulness of rice as a diet. Prepared for the table in different ways, rice is palatable and people learn to like it. Besides being nutritious, it offers the advantage of being cheap.

Mystery surrounding disappearance of the Iowa school teacher who is reported by an Oklahoma penitentiary convict to have suicided between Carroll and Pierce, remains unsolved. Officers have been asked to go to Oklahoma to interview the prisoner in regard to the case, and possibility of clearing the mystery would seem sufficiently important to justify the cost of a trip to Oklahoma.

It is chiefly in the home that children learn life habits, and it is up to parents to inculcate and exemplify worthy and wholesome principles. If parents are dishonest or regard dishonesty with indifference, or if they otherwise do violence to social order and regularity, they cannot expect their impressionable children to measure up to correct standards. A college professor once said: "Parents cannot communicate a life that they do not possess."

Senator Walsh of Montana who is a Catholic and "bone dry" on the liquor issue, is in the field for the democratic presidential nomination to defeat Al. Smith of New York who is also a Catholic and who is considered "wet." In the primaries and in the democratic national convention the Catholic democrats may take their choice, indirectly emphasizing their preference on prohibition. Mr. Walsh is a leader in the senate and is regarded one of the ablest constitutional lawyers in the country.

We are pleased to note that the city council has found it possible to reduce the electric light rate, thus enabling people to cut down the high cost of illumination or have more illumination at the same cost. Decreasing the burden of lighting one's way is a source of relief. We also note that the council is figuring on buying a water softener to improve the water for use in the boilers at the power plant. These boilers accumulate lime, and therefore cost

CRIME NEWS.

How far one should go in suppressing crime news is a question that excites much discussion and causes many sharp differences of opinion. The local Woman's club debated the question recently, and each side was supported by convincing arguments. The debate revolved around the idea of preventing crime and each side sought to show that best ends were served by diametrically opposite courses. In an editorial recently the Albion Argus contended that a newspaper virtually becomes a partner in a crime by suppressing the facts. That would depend on the character of the offense and the circumstances surrounding it. Among young people and children charged with first infractions of the law, reformation may be hindered by newspaper publicity. Under some circumstances, reformation may be helped. These conditions must be carefully considered and decided by the editor upon whom rests full responsibility for the policy adopted. Those involved are likely to think a newspaper is not lenient enough, whereas those on the side lines, sometimes seeking retaliation and indifferent to possibly far-reaching consequences of publicity, think the newspaper is too lenient. If a youthful offender can more likely be saved from wreck without publicity, publicity ought to be withheld. If not, it should be given in the measure deemed advisable. Many think the other fellow ought to be soaked. The guilty think otherwise, and they hunt for cover when clouds gather and trouble presses.

SIGHT IS GAINED.

Many church people who profess to believe in the so-called miracles of Jesus, do not attribute to divine providence any phenomenal occurrence in these latter days. They think the day of miracles is over. Now comes an 18-year-old Lincoln girl whose sight was suddenly gained after suffering blindness from birth. Her parents had been given no encouragement that she could ever see. While she was educated as a blind girl, hope was entertained that providential relief would some time come. It was on the night of Jan. 3 that sight came to her, and it was the occasion of much rejoicing within the family circle. This gaining of sight will be accounted for on every conceivable material ground, and many who say they believe in the efficacy of prayer, will try to find some earthly reason for the cure. In ancient times it was said the blind were made to see, lame to walk and incurably sick to be well through divine power. If true then, why not now? If attributing to supernatural forces brought cures of mind and body then, why will not a similar state of mind bring similar results now?

Congressman Edgar Howard has introduced a resolution in congress to prohibit ex-members of the United States senate or house of representatives from lobbying for money before any committee or either house. His resolution fixes punishment in the shape of a fine of not less than $5,000 or imprisonment for not less than two years or both according to the gravity of the offense. The congressman charges that ex-member lobbyists receive larger salaries for their services than those which go to senate and house members who are manifestly paid enough. It is likely the ex-member lobbyists will pay themselves solely against the congressman's resolution.

As Dr. A. L. Bixby's spirits run low over the death of his wife in an automobile accident, friends over the state have a feeling of deepest sympathy for him, believing, however, that the fine philosophy of his life will sustain him at a time when the greatest courage is needed. It was an ideal home relationship maintained all through the years by Dr. and Mrs. Bixby. It was radiant with unselfish devotion and mutual helpfulness. They shared each other's ups and downs, triumphs and defeats, joys and sorrows. Mrs. Bixby was a helpmate of sturdy and sympathetic type, and her loss would be a crushing blow to Dr. Bixby if he were not able to arouse his native fortitude, and just as sure as immortality, "Mollie," as he familiarly called her in his column, will be waiting to welcome him when his earthly task is over.

Editor Stone of the Hartington Herald suggests that life is one tremendous struggle and that every advantage gained is the result of battling on and on. He rightly points out that there are no soft and easy courses that lead to success, but we do not relish the idea, if it is so meant, that life is a field of conflict in which blows must be exchanged in order to make headway. We do not want to waste time and energy in watching and being suspicious of other fellows. We do not want to employ effort needlessly in one's own constructive work to wrest from the world earned returns. We think life may be regarded as a struggle—and a wholesome one—in so far as it relates to exertions demanded by success—the often hard task of establishing a sound basis for success—but in so far as it would assume an unfriendly world and the need of fighting to secure reward for merit, we think it would eventuate in waste. As used in overcoming obstacles that fly into every one's path, as doubtless intended by Editor Stone, militancy may be suggested, but as an attitude in which one must assert his rights and secure his dues, it would seem to be unnecessary and unhealthy.

Words of An Ex-Convict.

Literary Digest: Saved from the gallows almost at the last moment, Joseph Pensendorfer, now fifty-three, has managed not only to rehabilitate himself and reestablish his fellow in the esteem of his fellow men but to help others who, like himself, have served their enforced penance and been released. Usually the ex-convict needs help, and if it is not forthcoming, he is likely to find himself in the coils of the law again. More than a quarter of a century ago, we read in the New York Times, Pensendorfer stood in a courtroom in Philadelphia and heard himself sentenced to be hanged for the murder of his father-in-law. Two days before he was to die the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, and he was sent to the penitentiary. While in prison, Pensendorfer, who was pardoned nine months ago, became a woodworker, mastering the arts of carving and inlay, and patented devices for wood-work processes. When freed, he had $50,000 to his credit in a bank in Philadelphia from royalties on his inventions and the sale of his work. Recently he sat in the office of his busy-woodworking factory at West Berlin, New Jersey, and told of the realization of his dream of furnishing employment to men who had served prison sentences. "During my time in prison," he said, "as he is quoted in the Times, 'I saw that the released convicts had no chance in the world. I saw them come in, serve their term and go out with the determination to go straight. Then I saw them come back again, licked. They had tried, but their prison records and the cops were too much for them. They would go back to crime again, because there was no other road open to them.'"

So Pensendorfer dreamed of the time when he might have a business organization where he could give these unhappy men a chance. The factory has been in operation more than eight months, and he feels that his dream "is beginning to come true." His superintendent, we read, had served ten years for murder, and had been pardoned; his chief draftsman had been a bank cashier, and had served a similar term for embezzling. Business, he says, has grown to such a volume that he intends soon to double the capacity of the plant. Fifteen men were at work turning out radio sets, ship models, and all manner of wood objects, at the time of the Cigarettes.

(Will Caplin in Omaha Bee-News.)
"Dear Bill: Some one has asked me to ask you to figure this out: During 1927 there were 97,000,000,000 cigarettes sold in the United States. If a cigarette measures 2 1/16 inches in length, what would be the distance if all the cigarettes mentioned were laid e. to e.?—Anxious Inquirer."

Now this opens a wide vista of speculation and figgeration. Firstly, we would say that if "Anxious Inquirer" smoked those 97,000,000,000 cigarettes, end to end, they would reach from here to nervous prostration. But if laid end to end they would reach a bit over 3,000,000 miles. If smoked all at once the smoke clouds would obscure the sun and moon and stars for a period of 22 days, 13 hours, 56 minutes and quite a few seconds. If smoked all at once and the smokers coughed simultaneously, the resultant reverberations would shake the Rocky mountains down to a level with the plains and send a tidal wave sweeping half way across Europe—or Asia, if it happened to start in that direction. If the smokers of those 97,000,000,000 cigarettes who are always saying "Gimme" were to say it all at once something like 116,000,000 pair of ear drums would be shattered.

Chevrolet Company To Sponsor Program

Announcement was made today by Corvett Auto Company, Chevrolet dealer in Wayne, that all past sales records for any new model of any car have been broken by Chevrolet with the sale and delivery of 250,000 cars since January 1.

According to word received here from the company's headquarters in Detroit the event is to be celebrated on Monday evening, March 19, with a big radio party, broadcast over thirty-two stations extending from Boston to San Antonio and including the territory as far south as Jacksonville, Fla., and as far west as Omaha, Neb. The Chevrolet division will thus be host, not only to the General Motors "Family," but to several million listeners.

A radio program of unusual distinction is announced for the "Party." It will be a "Romberg Hour," similar to the "Friml Hour," which was presented by the same sponsors a month ago, and enthusiastically received by the radio audience. Sigmund Romberg, composer of the "student Prince," "Desert Song," "Blossom Time" and other popular light operas, will be heard on the air for the first time, playing his own, best known selections with orchestral accompaniment.

For the vocal presentation of Romberg songs, noted for their melodious beauty, Martha Attwood, the dashing young Metropolitan star, a quartet and a mixed chorus have been secured. Instrumental music as a background for the program will be furnished by a special symphony orchestra and a full band.

Born in Hungary, Romberg was educated to become a construction engineer. He never attended a musical school but took lessons casually from individual teachers, discovering his talent for composition almost by accident after he came to America about twenty years ago.

Miss Attwood is a product of New England. Born in Dorchester, Mass., she studied in Boston, sang with the Boston symphony was "discovered" while pursuing her musical training in Italy and returned to the United States where, for the past two years, she has been one of the most popular artists of the Metropolitan.

The Chevrolet hour on the 19th will come from the new studios of the National Broadcasting company in New York and will be heard from the following stations:

WEAF, New York; WEEL, Boston; WTIC, Hartford; WJAR, Providence; WTAG, Worcester; WCHS, Portland; WLIT, Philadelphia; WRC, Washington; WGY, Schenectady; WGR, Buffalo; WCAE, Pittsburgh; WTAM, Cleveland; WWJ, Detroit; WSAL, Cincinnati; WGN, Chicago; WEMJ, Milwaukee; KSD, St. Louis; WCCO, Minneapolis; WOC, Davenport; WHO, Des Moines; WOW, Omaha; WDAF, Kansas City; KVOO, Tulsa; WFAA, Dallas; WHAS, Louisville; WSM, Nashville; WMC, Memphis; WSB, Atlanta; WBT, Charlotte; WJAX, Jacksonville; WOAI, San Antonio; KPRC, Houston. m1511

Hopes to Follow Dad's Career

"Like father, like son" is a proverb that hasn't held true very often in big league baseball. Sons of famous players have seldom fit into their fathers' spiked shoes, but here is Charles Hargreaves, catcher for the Brooklyn Robins, and Charley, Jr., who says he is going to be a "great catcher like dad." The two are at the Robins' training camp at Clearwater, Fla.

Writes Tribute To Mrs. A. G. Pond

Pays High Respects to Former Wayne County Resident Who Died in West.

C. E. Stites of Powell, Wyo., writes a tribute to Mrs. Almon G. Pond, formerly of Wayne county, who died March 1 at the age of 34 years, 2 months and 1 day. Deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Bressler of Wakefield. An obituary was published in last week's Herald. The tribute is as follows:

Inez Almeda Bressler was born December 29, 1893, near Pender, Wayne county, Nebraska. She departed this life Thursday, March 1, 1928. Those left to mourn her loss are, beside her husband and children, her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Bressler, four brothers, Pierce, Harry, Len and George, all residing near Wakefield, Nebr., and one sister, Mrs. Mayme Schlotfeld, also of Nebraska.

She was baptized into the Methodist Episcopal church as a child and grew through childhood with thoughts of her final, eternal life as her guide. Maturing into womanhood that faith and hope she had held as a child was ever hers.

As a child she attended public school at district No. 7, Wayne county. After graduating from the eighth grade she later took two years' Normal work at Wayne, where she ranked high as a student and was very popular with the faculty and with the student body. On February 11, 1911, she was united in marriage to Almon G. Pond. To them were born three children, Dean, Donald and Mardene.

After a short period of time in Nebraska, deceased with her husband moved to Powell, Wyo., which has since been their home. Like all early settlers, Mrs. Pond with her husband went through the trials of the first settlers, but trials to her were met with a smile; she accepted things as they came along, never with a word of complaint. Her home was always neat and cheerful. Her multitude of friends were always cheered after a visit with her, and helped along life's pathway by her smile.

Mrs. Pond's ideas of the future were always optimistic and bright. Enough can never be said for this young wife and mother. She was sincerely devoted to her husband and children, but she has been called from us to join the innumerable hosts, who have gone before.

"Inez, your place is vacant. It can never be filled. Your bright smile and happy voice are stilled forever, but your memory is cherished by your friends, and loved ones. The thoughts of your bright smile and cheerful voice are locked in our hearts forever. Your face of welcome in the doorway will recall, and the wave of your hand at departure remain printed on our minds forever. Your smile healed many a heartache, turned darkness to sunshine.

"Words though to you are expressionless things, now that God in His wisdom has called you home. We must place our trust in Him who doeth all things well. Yours is the life that we would have kept with us, but we must abide by Him who is ruler of all. Though your physical body is gone from us, the memory of your life is ours to retain forever and treasure as the desert does the rain. Time, though based on eternity, is but a short while. Then you will be joined in your eternal home by father, mother, brothers, sister, husband and children, and the dear babe that you left us. Then your smile will welcome us again in that home where there are no more partings. You lived, so that you met death, not as death, but as one who wraps her robe about her and lies down to pleasant dreams."

Card of Thanks. We wish to express our sincere appreciation to the firemen and to many other friends who so prompt action saved our home. Mrs. Bertha Carpenter and children.

The Walter Ulrich family and Mr. and Mrs. August Wittler were guests Sunday in the Chas. Ulrich home in Wayne.

"Common Honesty."

Springfield, Reuben: For returning to the owner bank a package containing 52 thousand dollars in bills, after he had discovered that the package contained that amount of quick wealth, a New York painter has been given $1,500 as a reward. He deserved it. The man had been out of work when he found the money, which had accidentally dropped out of a trucking company's armored car. Unemployed and low in funds of his own, the painter acted promptly in restoring the property. The case has attracted much attention. Here is something you can believe and rejoice over when you read it in the paper.

The press has so much to print concerning crime, villainy, stealing, maladministration in public office, unfaithfulness in private life and the general laxity of morals that when Alexander Lubrowsky turns up one likes to salute and welcome him to "our columns." He is an exhibit that heartens and exhilarates. Here is the real thing—that "common honesty" we have always read about. It does exist.

Please note, also, that the unemployed painter, who found 52 thousand dollars in bills and gave it all back to the owner, is named Lubrowsky. Not a Mayflower descendant, or a Son of the Revolution, but someone clearly who came to America on one of the last boats. The "skys" everywhere should be proud of their New York representative. Their immigration quota might be increased on the strength of his gallant performance in renewing public confidence in the human race, if quotas could be apportioned by law on such a basis.

Where does honesty come from? What is its nature? Can you segregate it, like a germ or a bacillus in a laboratory, and learn from analysis of it how to make synthetic honesty as one would make synthetic rubber or synthetic gin? "Honesty is the best policy," wrote Poor Richard; but that sort of ethics does not seem to account for Alexander Lubrowsky. There is nothing synthetic in his honesty. Mere policy might have let him slip away with the 52 thousand dollars without ever being detected as a thief.

The old moral philosophy of intuition could have accounted for him, or his church would claim him as a well-taught child. Perhaps he is something for the modern behaviorists to take notice of. What pleases most is that he was just a common man, evidently "lowbrow," with an empty stomach and no work—and still could resist the impact of 52 thousand dollars. He encourages one to think well of mankind.

Life is a Struggle.

Hartington Herald: From every point of view—anthropological, racial, moral and commercial—life is a struggle. From the very beginning of time, the individual has been struggling his way upward and has had to fight for everything he has gained and what is true of the individual is also true of the race. Nothing that is worth while is achieved except through effort and figures of speech which picture life as a race and a contest are both vivid and accurate. Strenuous, constant, persistent fighting is the only way to reach the top. Through struggle, the human species emerged from the lower orders; through struggle, the human race gained supremacy and, through struggle, the individual has obtained whatever moral victories and commercial advantages he enjoys today. Life will prove to be a great disappointment to anybody who regards it from any other point of view than that of a lusty battle in which one must learn to give and take blows. There may be a small class of people in the world who have been relieved of all endeavor and to whom life is easy and soft; but they are not true types. They are parasites who do not count in the onward march of civilization and society is well rid of them when they are consumed. What the world needs and demands is workers, fighters, strugglers and, to the normal, ambitious man or woman, struggle becomes so much a matter of habit and state of mind that any other condition would be intolerable. To such a person, life presents only the spectacle of a glorious conflict and he or she craves nothing more than to be in the thick of the fight. To eliminate the element of struggle from the experience of such a person would be to take away the chief incentive to effort and to leave him drifting on the sea as purposeless as a ship without a rudder. A soft and easy life is as uninteresting as it is uninspiring and useless and has no charm for those who have become accustomed to battling their way through difficulties. Such hardy souls ask no odds and no favors—only the chance to fight, knowing that this way lie success and victory.

The Guardian of Health

NATURE in her all-knowing way devised a sheath to protect the delicate nerves that control health. It is the spinal column. It had to be supple. So it was constructed of many hollow segments.

In many instances these segments move out of line and squeeze the nerve cords, which results in an ailment induced by the nerves so pressed against.

We as chiropractors simply remove the pressure by readjusting the spinal column. It is painless—requires no medicine—and gives instant relief. Drop in at our office or phone us to call at your home.

Life In Home Is Subject of Talk

Mrs. J. J. Ahern Urges Parents to Provide Social Life and Discipline.

Mrs. J. J. Ahern spoke to the Wayne Woman's club Friday on "Social Life in the Home," and gave some very helpful observations and experiences.

The home should be the center of the children's social life and parents should take an interest in planning it thus, Mrs. Ahern explained. She also pointed out that respect and obedience must be learned in the home.

In citing her experiences, Mrs. Ahern stated that when her children were small she consulted older mothers about how to handle problems arising in training the young folks.

Mothers should cultivate confidence of their children, Mrs. Ahern said, and hold this always. A child who feels free and anxious to consult his mother on every problem has formed a valuable companionship.

Obedience should be taught early in the lives of children, Mrs. Ahern explained. Parents should make reasonable requests and then teach children to obey them.

For her son and daughters Mrs. Ahern has made the home the center of their social times during their youth. Mr. Ahern has encouraged and assisted in this plan also.

Mrs. Ahern reviewed a few short articles from magazines and papers. One, "Job or Joy Ride," by Blanche Creel, pointed out that the responsibility for the type of young people today rests entirely on parents.

Children have always been the same. "The only difference between today and the dead yesterday is that our mothers were on the job and did not let us get away with anything," the author states.

The writer says, "If a girl of 13 has to rouge, smoke and drink in order not to be apart from her crowd, what greater proof is needed that she's with the wrong crowd?"

Parents should wrap protective arms about their children and guard them well until character is crystallized. "Morals, tastes, deencies and duties are not natural instincts but the slow fruit of care and training; it is criminally stupid to let a growing child dictate its actions and conduct; motherhood is not a joy-ride out a job."

In reviewing another article, Mrs. Ahern pointed out that children should not be laughed at for thus a child's personality is destroyed. Inducing a child to "perform" before company is also bad for the child comes to expect the center of attention and later he is sorely disappointed.

"Divided Attention Isn't Enough to Give Your Children," is the subject of another article reviewed by Mrs. Ahern. This urges mothers to lay down their work and pleasure occasionally and give undivided attention to conversation with their children.

State Pride Varies Capital Diet

State pride furnishes official Washington with quite an assorted menu. President Coolidge (top) is shown receiving the box of oranges which won the diamond medal recently at the annual National Orange Show at San Bernardino, Calif. The fruit was grown by O. H. Price of Etiwanda, Calif. Congressman Philip D. Swain (right) made the presentation. A truckload of Idaho's finest potatoes (bottom), sent by the state chamber of commerce, arrived almost simultaneously to receive official greeting. Senator Frank E. Gooding (right) of Idaho and Wallace MacBride, president of the Iowa State Society, are inspecting the selected "20s" which were served at the annual official luncheon.

Tragedy Enters Dr. Bixby's Life

An Automobile Accident Proves Fatal to Mrs. Bixby—Dr. Bixby Suffers Injuries.

The death of Mrs. A. L. Bixby, wife of the poet-philosopher of the Lincoln Journal, in an automobile accident last Thursday morning, is a source of profound regret among many people who knew the esteemed couple personally, as well as through Dr. Bixby's "Daily Drift" in the Lincoln Journal. Dr. and Mrs. Bixby visited Wayne a few years ago, guests in the home of E. W. Huse, and it will be remembered that while here Dr. Bixby addressed the high school.

The Journal's report of the accident follows: "Mrs. A. L. Bixby, wife of Dr. A. L. Bixby, State Journal poet-philosopher, was instantly killed and Doctor Bixby was injured, though not seriously, when the car driven by him went into a ditch ten miles north of Seward on the Sunshine highway Thursday morning shortly after 10 o'clock. The couple were en route to Battle Creek where Mr. Bixby was to deliver a lecture before the county medical association. The victims were taken to Seward by passing motorists and Dr. Bixby's injuries were attended by Dr. Bert Morrow. He sustained a broken collar bone, two broken ribs and his arm was badly bruised.

"The accident occurred as the car was ascending a rather steep hill. Although the road is gravelled, those who were first at the scene said that the car had skidded and gone into the ditch. The gravel was wet and the tracks of the car indicated that the brakes may have been applied as the machine started down the incline causing it to skid. The embankment is not high there, about four or five feet, and the car did not go clear over but landed on its side.

"W. H. Frost and wife of Lincoln were first to the scene of the accident and took Doctor Bixby to Seward.

"Doctor Bixby said, he was driving at a moderate speed and encountered a steep hill north of Seward. It was freshly gravelled and his car slipped off the grade and upset in the ditch. He was caught under the car and couldn't see his wife. When he spoke to her and she didn't answer, he thought she was probably unconscious.

"Mary Adelle Bates was married to A. L. Bixby at Estherville, Ia., May 14, 1878. Five children were born to them, four of whom are now living: Mrs. M. Johnson, Salt Lake City, Utah; Mrs. Charles Burns, Lincoln, Neb.; Roy Bixby, Porterville, Calif.; and Lorena Bixby, Pocatello, Idaho. Lillian passed away many years ago at the age of eleven, as will be remembered by readers of one of Mr. Bixby's most pathetic poems. All the living children had planned to be home May 14 for the celebration of their parents' fiftieth wedding anniversary.

"Mrs. Bixby came to Nebraska with her husband in 1878 soon after their marriage and pioneered courageously with him first on the Pawnee reservation in Nance county, and later in North Platte, where Doctor Bixby practiced medicine until the spring of '81. The record of her helpfulness in all Doctor Bixby's enterprises has been recorded by him for many years under "Daily Drift" with the home name, "Mollie."

"Since 1892, when Doctor Bixby came to Lincoln to conduct a column on The Journal, having previously been in newspaper work at Columbus and Fullerton, Mrs. Bixby had made her home and family her first interest, although attracting also a large circle of other friends through her sincerity and kindness. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and for many years affiliated with Trinity at Sixteenth and A streets.

"Walt Roberts of Lincoln went to Seward to return the body of Mrs. Bixby and J. C. Seacrest and Fred Seacrest left as soon as word came to Lincoln to accompany Mr. Bixby.

"Mr. and Mrs. Bixby had planned to make a stop with old friends at Columbus on the way and to return to Lincoln Monday morning."

Draws Comparison In Favor Of Nebraska

Royal, Neb., March 10.—Mrs. Walter Morrison has just returned from a two months' trip to California where she visited her son Roscoe and family at Oakdale, a brother in the northern part of the state and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Lyle, formerly of this place, at La Habra, south of Los Angeles. Mrs. Morrison says that she rode through the Golden Gate but that it did not come up to the expectations of beauty impressed upon her mind from reading description of it.

"I didn't see any flowers out of doors, except a few poinsettias at La Habra. Of course this is winter time, and maybe it is different in summer."

Mrs. Morrison said that just now business seems to be slow in California, and if it wasn't for the rich easterners coming in there to spend the winter, there wouldn't be much doing. In speaking of her trip, Mrs. Morrison said: "It is a wonderful pleasure trip and worthwhile from an educational point of view, for one sees many things worthwhile and learns a great deal. But I want to tell you that for glorious sunshine, silvery moonlight, starry skies and beautiful scenery give me good old Nebraska every time. Why I didn't see anything while I was gone that was as pretty as the scenery right here at Hering's Mill, and I wouldn't live in California in preference to Nebraska if they would give me the entire state."

(Rev. A. C. Downing, Pastor)
"Christ went to church on the Sabbath. An habitual churchless Sunday is not a Christian Sabbath."
Roosevelt said: "There are enough holidays for most of us. Sunday differs from other holidays in the fact that there are fifty-two of them every year. Therefore, on Sundays, go to church." Surely a word to the wise is sufficient. Every self-respecting person should be an habitual church attendant.
Sunday school meets promptly at 10 o'clock.
Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Sermon by the pastor. Special music.
Young People's meeting at 6:30 p. m. Merle Whorlow, leader.

BABE IN THE WOODS! LIFE'S JUST ONE THING AFTER ANOTHER!

Subject: "Thou shalt not commit adultery." This is the seventh of the series on the ten commandments. We shall deal with this subject frankly. If you do not like plain language we would suggest that you remain away. However we are persuaded to believe that it is the "truth" that most people desire. This is evidenced by the growing attendance Sunday evenings.

W. W. G. meeting will be held this week on Friday evening with Miss Lucie Norton. All members and friends are urged to be on hand.

Choir practice Saturday evening at the parsonage.

Arizona Cemetery Rid Of Prairie Dogs

After a struggle of 13 years by citizens of Flagstaff, Ariz., to rid a cemetery of prairie dogs, this task has finally been completed, but not without the aid of the government rodent crew, which worked in that section during the past season. Donald A. Gilchrist, leader of rodent control of the Bureau of Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture, working in cooperation with the State extension service of the University of Arizona, was instrumental in putting the government crew to work in the cemetery to exterminate the rodent pests; portable gas force pumps and rolled oats mixed with thallium were used.

The Flagstaff cemetery and adjoining land contained 9,000 prairie-dog burrows. Mr. Gilchrist reports that a few days after the poisoned grain was put out the burrows were all plugged. Two hundred were reopened by Mr. Laughlin is busy making individual hog houses. He bought the Ward school building when it was sold and after his improvements were complete found he had considerable short lengths of lumber left. He is using these in hog houses.

Fields are drying and farmers are expecting to be able to begin farm work before many weeks. Tractors are becoming quite numerous on the larger farms, and those who have them frequently assist the smaller farms with plowing.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Utecht and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Utecht visited at Richard Utecht's Wednesday evening and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Utecht and family and Mrs. C. R. Lindsay and daughters were Sunday evening visitors at the same place.

Mrs. George Von Seggern and son, Dale, and Mrs. Wm. Barelman and son, Melvin, went to Pender last week Wednesday to the animals, and to these the rodent crew went with the gas pumps on rainy days, injecting 15 strokes of gas into each burrow. From the 200 burrows thus treated and then plugged only six prairie dogs burrowed out. Into these burrows was then forced a double quantity of gas, and no rodents have been seen since. The greatest enemies of any good cause are the extremists who favor it.—Wooster Record.

Finnerty of South Sioux City, returned home Monday afternoon after visiting in the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. L. E. Panabaker. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Harmon of Gordon, Neb., have also been here, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Panabaker. Mr. Harmon is a brother of Mrs. Panabaker. William Assenheimer returned Saturday from Lincoln where he attended a meeting of county assessors. One thing considered by the assessors is the Iowa automobile tax for which provision is made in the purchase of a license. The license is somewhat higher than that in this state, but no other tax is levied, and therefore the total cost is less. The Iowa law saves a lot of costly work.

Cedar County Wins In Supreme Court Hartington, Neb., March 12.—Cedar county has won a decision in the state supreme court approving the collection of $647 in back taxes from the Farmers' State bank of Belden, which was charged to the bank by check in the office of County Clerk H. A. Schager, the decision being of state-wide importance because it holds the state guarantee fund responsible for taxes levied against banks taken over by the commission, settling a point which has been in dispute for several years. Back in 1925 personal taxes were assessed against the bank by the county clerk. The following month the bank was taken over by the commission which refused to pay the back taxes. A distress warrant was issued by the county treasurer and a deputy sheriff threatened to levy on the property of the bank. A restraining order was served from District Judge Mark J. Ryan delaying action until the case could be heard. When the trial was held Judge Ryan held that the claim for taxes was a prior right over the claims of creditors and depositors. This position is now upheld by the highest court in the state. When Judge Ryan's decision was handed down the commission decided to appeal to the high court. In the meantime a change in county attorneys had taken place and Clarence E. Haley replaced R. J. Millard as attorney for Cedar county. In delving into the matter Mr. Haley discovered that the taxes were charged to the Farmer's State bank by error in the county clerk's office and should have been charged to the First National bank of Belden. The tax books in the treasurer's office were corrected and the error called to the attention of the Belden First National which promptly paid the amount due. But the guarantee fund commission wanted a high court decision on its responsibility for taxes levied before it took charge so the case was carried up, Mr. Haley writing the briefs in behalf of the county, this being the first case appealed to the high court after he took office. The outcome is a compliment to his work as well as to the decision of District Judge Ryan. Just who will pay the costs resulting from a two-year court contest as a result of the county clerk's error has not been decided. Southwest Wayne (By Staff Reporter.) Edgecomb in Geneva Signal: Nobody will dispute the fact that the place to borrow money is at the bank, unless one has a convenient uncle, a wealthy neighbor or some other rock to lean upon. When a retail merchant sells goods on time, even for only thirty days, and thirty days doesn't mean anything to so many people, he is loaning money to the purchaser. Also he is loaning it without any security whatever except the good character of the purchaser. Plaindealer and Bloomfield retailers seem to have been thinking about this. Good character is about the best security there is but that kind of loaning has its limitations. When a man goes to a money lender, or a bank, he asks for a specific sum of cash and he arranges with the lender to pay on a certain day and he gives such security as the lender demands. If his financial rating is such in the judgment of the lender that his personal signature is sufficient he gets the money on that basis. Otherwise he gives security on his property or secures the endorsement on his note of the name of some other person who is known to be financially responsible. When a person goes to a retail merchant and buys a few articles on time there is no such scrutiny of his character or his financial ability to pay in most cases. If he is known to the merchant to be a deadbeat credit is refused. It is the people in the twilight zone who fool the merchant and cause him loss, the folks who would pay if they could and the folks who are carelessly indifferent about whether they pay or not but who are not definitely hooked. The reason why a family does not pay for what it eats and wears doesn't make much difference to the merchant in the last analysis. His losses have to be made up for him by his paying customers or he goes into bankruptcy. The coming of a chain store into a community, if it is run up to the belt, makes a lot of trouble for the merchant who does credit business. The chain store people argue that they buy for cash and sell for cash and have no slow accounts and no losses. Whether true or not, they make a lot of people believe that they can and do sell cheaper than those who give credit. The natural result is that many people who always pay cash everywhere hustle around to the cash store and spend their money. Where do slow payers and the twilight zoners go? Why, to the credit merchants, of course. Does that make the credit merchant uncomfortable? We'll say it does. Only a retail millionaire can carry the people of his community on his shoulders. Unless he has a gold mine somewhere, he has to go to a bank and pay interest on borrowed money with which to buy goods to sell to his customers on time. Better sell for cash and tell the world why. The place to borrow money is at a bank. A merchant who sells for cash has something good to put into newspaper advertising. Porch Blown Off Home. Pierce, Neb., March 9.—The porch on the farm home of Fritz Horstman, north of Pierce, was torn from the house by the explosion of a blow torch that had been placed under the base of a power washing machine to warm it up preparatory to doing the week's washing. The members of the family were in the house at the time of the accident but no one was injured.

THE KNOT-HOLE No. 41 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, March 15, 1928. Vol. 1 The next real big event on our calendar is St. Patrick's Day. 'Rah for the Irish!' "I didn't know it was possible to get such beautiful oak floors for so little money," said a customer of ours a few days ago when we showed her the actual material received in our last car of oak. We cleared our throat and tried to say, "Then he slipped the information to us that this is a problem that nobody has ever been able to solve. We've been so blamed busy around the place here that we haven't been able to give the thing much time. Maybe next summer we'll trisect it for him. In the meantime, we suggest that he go right ahead and try to get it himself. He'll remember it better that way." Levi Thompson is getting fixed with a nice new hog house in anticipation of a spring crop of pigs. Good idea to get ready before they arrive. A Wayne business man received a payment on account the other day and a letter which said, "Please tell me how I stand in the rear." Yesterday a friend of ours told us his saving wasn't feeling very well. "Guess I'd better call her up and see how she is," he said and took the phone. Pretty soon he put the receiver up. "She's all right now. The line's busy." We have here in our office patterns of a hundred or more of popular trellis designs. Pick out the design you like and we will make them for you. We have several stock designs made up for quick delivery. Pick any ready-cut house in any catalog and we will duplicate all the material at no greater cost to you and in most cases at less. Furthermore, the material you get will be of better quality for floors, siding, sheathing, etc. We know, because we have all the catalogs here in our office, have read the specifications carefully, and believe we are competent to judge. Let us show you. "EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING WITH"
