Advertisements In The Herald Are Safe Guides

We are pleased to note that farmers and townspeople alike generally have formed the wise business policy of studying Herald advertisements each week and of being guided by them in making their purchases. No other advertising has the stability and standing of newspaper advertising, and people are coming more and more to appreciate the fact. The prevailing habit of looking to Herald advertisements for buying information shows growing care in handling and meeting the cost of living. People want to know in advance where to find the supplies they need and the prices they will have to pay. They want suggestions, as to styles as well as assurance of cost. Representative and progressive dealers appear in these columns, and they may be depended on to help solve problems incident to living in the most economical and satisfactory manner.

PRECEDENTS FOR COLD AND SNOWY APRIL WEATHER

WINTER April, with sharp teeth, have plenty of precedents. A Civil war veteran at Norfolk recalls a storm that started on Easter Sunday, April 13, 1873, and lasted two days. He planted himself on a homestead in Lancaster county on Good Friday of that year, traveling to the place behind a team of oxen. Two days later the storm broke loose, and it was one of the worst in the history of the middle west. Few windbreaks in the way of trees, fences or buildings gave the storm a clear sweep, and the snow piled into high and formidable drifts. People who had prepared firewood for Easter had to postpone wearing them, and the spring was late. So far as this season is concerned, work was so well advanced during the mid March that the cold snags of this month will not prove the handicap that they otherwise would.

Committed Suicide

Wallace Andrews Asserts He Buried Girl In Grave After She Shot Herself. In a sworn statement to authorities at the Oklahoma state penitentiary, received this week by Sheriff A. W. Stephens, Wallace Andrews, serving a six-year sentence for chicken stealing, has admitted that Miss Myrtle Sizer, 26-year-old Marion, Iowa, school teacher, who disappeared November 26, 1926, shot and killed herself on the night of September 29, 1927, in a car near Carroll, Neb. Sheriff Stephens is searching for the grave of the young woman, whom Andrews said he buried in a shallow grave in a grove, and the former asks everyone to assist in the search and report to him. The report from McAlester, Okla., April 14 is as follows: "The suicide took place, Andrews said, in a motor car near Carroll, Neb., in which he and Miss Sizer were making their getaway following his escape from the county jail in Wayne, Neb. "Fearing arrest on a murder charge, he said, he took the body and buried it in a lonely wood a few miles from where the girl took her life. "The girl was believed to have been slain and knowing she had been with Andrews at one time, Nebraska authorities traced him to the penitentiary. In January, on being questioned in regard to the girl, Andrews said he never had known her. "According to Andrews he met the girl at a cabaret at Fifteenth and Paseo, Kansas City, about the first of the year, 1927, and June 12, 1927, they traveled together as man and wife to Nebraska, eventually landing in Norfolk where Andrews was arrested on a burglary charge and placed in jail at Pierce. Later he was transferred to Wayne, where he broke jail September 29, 1927. Walking to Carroll, about twelve miles, he met the girl and taking a car they started to Norfolk. "Andrews, according to his statement, had decided to desert the girl, who was about 19 years of age, and told her she was going to leave her at Norfolk. She replied she could not get along without him and threatened to kill herself. About five miles southeast of Carroll, Andrews spotted his car to take a look at one of the back tires. The girl procured Andrews' revolver and shot herself through the head. Andrews drove on until he came to a thickly wooded section, where he dragged the body a quarter of a mile from the road and scooped out a shallow grave. He then drove toward the Kansas line, throwing the weapon into a bunch of high weeds along the road and the girl's suitcase into a small river south of Norfolk."

O. Gamble, about a year ago. She is a sister of F. E. Gamble of Wayne. Mrs. Johnson states that she likes Wayne and Wayne people but that Evanston is a fine place in which to live. The city has an excellent school system and a new $500,000 addition is to be made to the high school soon. The main building was erected about three years ago. The city is a great deal like Wayne, only, of course, much larger.

Evanson, writes Mrs. Johnson, is a very religious town. There are a number of churches and these are always well attended on Sundays.

Names C. H. Stewart As District Judge

The death of Judge Welch left but Judge Clinton Chase of Stanton, and Mr. Stewart of Norfolk, to be voted upon at the primary election. Both were named candidates as two judges are to be chosen in the district at the November election.

Mr. Stewart will take oath of office in the judgeship at once. He has lived in Norfolk since 1914. He is 46 years old and was born in Carroll, Iowa. When 9 years old he came to Pierce county. He attended school at the Fremont Normal and the University of Nebraska, receiving his bachelor of law degree from the latter institution in 1902. He practiced law in Osmond until 1908, when he was chosen Pierce county attorney. He moved to Norfolk in 1914.

Kiwanians Hold Annual Banquet

J. H. Heine of Fremont, District Club Officer, Gives Address at Wayne Thursday.

Wayne Kiwanians held their annual ladies' banquet and program Thursday evening at the Community house with ninety-two in attendance. J. H. Heine of Fremont, lieutenant governor of the Kiwanis district, was the principal speaker, and spoke to the group on the "Kiwanis International Program." He explained that each year the club outlines a definite plan of work for good citizenship and service. The program this year is to aid the underprivileged child.

Mr. Heine showed that the underprivileged child may be one who is crippled physically, the one who has ability and yet has insufficient funds with which to make the most of this ability, the one who is wayward, incorrigible and delinquent or the one who has all the advantages of wealth in the home and yet who is denied the high ideals and right influences which he should have.

Kiwanians are responsible, Mr. Heine stated, for the welfare and citizenship of all. He pointed out that high ideals upheld are far more important than money. He mentioned the case of two boys, 7 and 9 years old, who were sentenced to the Missouri state penitentiary for going into an unlocked home and cooking a meal and they leaving. Through efforts of a boys' home and Kiwanis officials the governor was persuaded to parole the boys to a boys' home, rather than making hardened criminals of them by placing them with such people. Mr. Heine stated that many such deeds can and should be done by Kiwanians to help unfortunate young folks.

The Kiwanis club has been careless, the speaker stated, in its selection of members in some places. Men of high ideals should be selected. Quality rather than quantity is important to stress.

The Wayne Woman's club served the three-course dinner for the banquet. Young women of the city school faculty and a few others assisted. Belle Randolph sang solos, accompanied at the piano by Miss Marjoline Lewis. Group singing of Kiwanis songs was enjoyed. The high school orchestra, directed by Prof. F. C. Reed, played selections and furnished music for dancing at the close of the program.

C. M. Craven, president of the local club, presided at the banquet program. J. H. Kemp was chairman of the committees in charge of the evening's plans.

Kiwanis colors of blue and white were used for decorations in the hall.

Wholesalers Are Coming in May

Will Stop in Wayne Over Night During Visit to Ninety-two Towns in Two States.

Omaha, Nebr., April 18.—Omaha and Council Bluffs wholesalers on their annual goodwill trade excursion, will visit Wayne on Monday, May 14 as a part of their tour of 92 towns and cities in northern Nebraska and South Dakota during the week of May 14.

The excursionists will stop at towns that have a population which totals nearly 70,000 and will pass through counties whose total population is 238,655.

The trade special will have eleven cars, two diners and two baggage cars, the latter filled with samples and souvenirs, several tons of candy, merchandise of all sorts and 10,000 toy balloons. There will be noise makers galore, including 20,000 cowbells in addition to whistles and squakers.

In previous years the merchants in towns on the tour have taken advantage of this attraction to hold trade days and thousands of visitors have come in from the respective trade territories. This will probably be repeated in many places this year.

Dan Desdunes' band of colored musicians, the hit of several excursions, will be along again this year, as well as quartets and other entertainment.

The trip will be made on three railroads—Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha; Chicago and Northwestern and the Burlington. With the exception of Butte all towns are on railroads. The drive to Butte will be made from Spencer and the excursionists will again meet their train at Anoka. Night stops at Wayne, Hartington, O'Neill, Norfolk and Winner will be featured by band concerts.

Each member of the delegation will wear the official white hat, with the red, green and yellow Ak-Sar-Ben colors. Each will carry an umbrella of similar colors and raincoats.

Don Babcock, who has the distinction of being conductor on every trade trip since their inception nearly thirty years ago, will again be at the helm. When Mr. Babcock began his duties it was back in the days when whiskers were in style and derbies were the latest wrinkle in head-gear.

The itinerary follows: Monday, May 14: Blair, Herma, Tekamah, Craig, Oakland, Lyons, Bancroft, Pender, Thurston, Emerson, Hubbard, Nacora, Wayne, Winside, Hoskins, Wayne (night stop).

Tuesday, May 15: Bloomfield.

SUNDAY MOVIES

York Republican: Sunday movies was an issue in a score or more of Nebraska towns and cities at the recent spring election period. In a number of progressive cities the proposal to allow Sunday movies carried by a substantial majority. In others, just as progressive, the proposal was defeated. The result, however, makes it clear that long held notions about Sunday observance are undergoing a change; or, rather, the new generation is compelling the older one to accept a change. This does not mean at all that the pendulum is swinging to Sabbath desecration. It merely indicates that a growing number are coming to think that gathering together on Sunday to view motion pictures is not a wicked and Sabbath-polluting practice. Let us not consider that civilization is going to the bow winds. It isn't. But some of our cherished observances are undergoing transformation. We may not like it but we will have to make the best of it since the majority rules.

Girl Is Pinned Beneath An Auto

Osmond, Neb., April 12.—When the Camp Fire girls and their guardian, Mrs. E. W. Weeces were returning from the A. E. Childs home Tuesday evening Mrs. Weeces took seven of the girls in her car, Dorothy Hering, 13, and Fern Fisher riding on either side on the running board. Mrs. Weeces, while raising the glass in the car door drove too near the side of the road, the car turning over pinning the Hering girl under the car. The occupants of the car managed to get the car door open and got out and lifted the car enough to get the girl out. A farmer was called and she was taken to town for examination and it was found no bones were broken. With the exception of some bruises, and being saturated with gasoline, she seems no worse for the accident. None of the others was injured. The car was only slightly damaged.

THE KNOT-HOLE No. 46 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, April 19, 1928. Vol. 1 While good clean posts are moving freely at this time, our BANNER steel posts are still the best about here. There is no use talking, the Banner simply sells all around a ny steel post we ever had. We tried to sell Anchorite, Red Top, Cantary, and some others, but had to give it up in favor of the Banner. There is a reason—more value for the money spent. You may think you have a hard time, but how would you like to make your living selling buggy whips? Just this past week we received another car of EDGEWOOD red cedar shingles. They are a great seller, and a great bargain. If properly laid they should last fifty years and the price is only $5.60 per square. Compare that price with the ready products that will not last much more than half as long and we believe you will recognize with EDGEWOOD. Remember that HOT NUT coal is just the thing for spring and summer cook stoves. Here lies the bones of Fido Jones, the poor unlucky pup; His master spilled some moonshine hooch, and Fido licked it up. An increasing number of folks are re-flooring with oak. It makes a remarkable floor and at a price low enough to be within the reach of all. Let us tell you what it will cost. Some of the boys were telling us the other day about an automobile accident. A burlesque fellow covered in mud, was crawling up the driver's pants-leg. Result, a badly wrecked automobile and two bruised passengers. Our sympathies are with the driver. Any man who can steer an automobile while a bumblebee explores the dark recesses of his trousers, is a hero. Don't you say so? Beautify your home. A little shabby property placed, a few dollars on, and you will be amazed at the transformation. Carhart Lumber Co. Wayne, Neb. "EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING WITH"

Why Are Some Permanents Cheaper Than Others?

Joe Smolsky, of the French Beauty Parlor, returned the first of the week from Chicago where he took a touch-up course in permanent waving from John Mueller and Emil Rhoads. While there he also attended the National Hairdressers' convention held April 9, 10 and 11. He brings back many new ideas in styles of hairdressing and facts on permanent waving. Many operators buy machines, take a few hours of instruction of inexperienced teachers, buy inferior brands of supplies and begin giving waves at reduced cost. Only the best supplies should be used. The next step is to judge the quality of hair. This has to be studied carefully as it is easy to misjudge. If too much heat is given a kinky wave results, and if not enough heat, the hair is straight. Hair, treated with henna, takes greater heat as there is a coat of dye to penetrate. The next step is to judge the hair as to winding. There are four kinds of hair: Coarse, medium, fine and very fine. Each kind takes a different wind. It may be a quarter twist, half twist, whole twist or flat wind. After all of these things to be considered have been thoroughly studied there is no danger of misjudging the quality of the hair, and the operator is capable of producing a beautiful wave. The machine does not make the wave. One machine is the same as another. The success depends upon the operator.

Wayne Track Men Compete In Practice Thursday With Students of Sholes

Senior Class Chooses Play to Be Presented—Other News—Notes of City School.

The Wayne high school track team, accompanied by Coach C. T. Mau, went to Sholes Thursday for a practice meet. Fredrick Dowling took first in the 100, 220, 440 and 880 yard dashes. Kelly Peterson tied for first in the high jump and took second in the broad jump. Evan Dennis, Henry Reynolds and George Downing jumped over eight feet in the pole vault. Dot Surber took two seconds in the discus throw. Maxwell Hendrickson placed third in the 100 yard dash. An amusing feature of the meet was the half-mile relay. Dot Surber and Kelly Peterson were first in running and Evan Dennis was to follow. Evan was unable to get his sweat clothes off so he started running with the pants still on one foot. Wayne lost this event but had much fun from it.

Paul Peterson and Walter Sund, two other track men of the Wayne team, were unable to go to the Sholes contest last week.

The local team plans to meet Norfolk and Madison in a meet at Norfolk Saturday. The local men also enter the district track meet at the Wayne State Normal on May 5.

Miss Mollie Vlasnik was in charge locally.

Health posters on the subject of what should be put into the mouth were finished. They bore toothbrushes, food and table tools. A 120-word spelling test was given last Friday. Alice Mae Young, Frank Gamble and Harry Cook received 100 percent.

"The Child's Garden of Verses" and "The Little Lame Prince" are new books in the grade library. The pupils have been studying Robert L. Stevenson and Miss Marjorie Pease is reading some of the poems from the books to get the children interested in reading others.

In teaching the use of punctuation Miss Pease had members of the class tell stories. Others of the class were commas, periods and other punctuation marks. When occasion rose in the stories for use of the marks, the ones representing the correct usage arose.

Fourth Grade. All pupils are back in school after an epidemic of illness. The A class is studying the island possessions of the United States. The B class has started the study of Pacific states.

This will enable students to be graduated and to receive high school diplomas. The school has previously just had ten grades, students entering the college afterwards.

The interscholastic contest was held Saturday in the training school building. Miles Tyrrell and Robert Gulliver entered in English composition. ### Recount Changes Election Results

County Judge Finds Issue for Increasing Band Levy to Mill Carries by Five.

According to a recount of the ballots cast at the Wayne city election April 3, conducted by Judge J. M. Cherry last Thursday the question of increasing the band levy from three-fifths to one mill carried by a majority of five votes. According to the previous count the proposition was defeated by four votes. The recount by Judge Cherry was conducted after contention that the Sunday motion picture and band votes were confused in some instances was filed by Dr. J. C. Johnson and others.

Ballots for voting on the increased band levy and for Sunday motion pictures were of the same size. It was thought by those filing complaint that the two kinds might easily be confused, and thus a recount was asked. The two groups of ballots were counted. Judge Cherry found that both propositions carried. The vote stood 346 for and 341 against the band levy, and 434 for and 273 against the Sunday motion picture issue.

Mistakes in the count which changed the results on the band proposition were found in the First and Second wards. Two ballots were counted in the wrong places in the Third ward but they did not change results in that ward.

The levy of one mill will provide about $2,300 for the band. The three-fifths levy of the past gave the band about $1,400.

Fred S. Berry Gives Pre-Primary Speech

Following is the speech broadcast from the Norfolk station by Fred S. Berry of Wayne just before the late primary.

"I appreciate more than I can tell you the kind words and communications which have come to me from listeners of this station during the past few days. Politics is not my business and the desire for public office does not permeate my veins. But I am a citizen of this great country and I try to appreciate the liberty and the opportunities which have come to me as a heritage from the blood of the soldier and the sacrifice of the pioneer. I was largely educated in this state at the expense of its taxpayers. A Divine Providence has given me health, and a free country has given me the opportunity, as it does to every citizen, to rise to whatever destiny my ability and energy may carry me. I try to realize that an obligation is upon me, as it is upon you, to contribute as best I may to good government and a better citizenship to the end that your children and my children may have the blessings of free government and unlimited opportunity which you and I now enjoy.

"At the outset I want to call your attention to the fact that in this country a great revolution in the theory of government has taken place. During the past few years we have gone more and more from the original representative government of the fathers to direct rule by the people. Will this change be for our ultimate good or for our ultimate ill? Will the new system work successfully? Will it bring us better government, will it bring us greater happiness, will it place in our hands a sounder and better citizenship, better morals, and a greater America? Whether it will or whether it will not depends upon us, upon you and me, and the balance of the voting citizenship of this country. The primary is one of the examples of this change from representative government to direct action by the people and the primary election in Nebraska takes place tomorrow. Unless we are willing to accept the increased responsibility upon our citizenship which the primary brings with it, unless I am willing to accept and you are willing to accept the obligations which we must accept under a free government such as we have, then, my friends, our present system will not be a success because the people of this country will eventually have only the kind of government for which we are capable and of which we are worthy. So I urge upon you and bring you this message, accept the obligation of the primary election and serve your country and go to the polls tomorrow and vote.

"Again it is not only necessary that we vote but it is necessary that we vote intelligently, so I urge upon you in the second place to give a little thought and time and study until tomorrow and then vote in accordance with your conscience and your enlightened convictions to the best of your ability. I assure you that I sympathize with you in your task because the burden cast upon us by the primary law at times seems almost beyond intelligent solution. But it is a burden we must assume and a responsibility we must accept if popular government is to last. Because, my friends, if we cast our ballots upon misinformation rather than upon information, if our votes be based upon prejudice and bias rather than upon enlightened reason and logic then I say to you that the government of Washington and of Lincoln and the liberty bought by Valley Forge and the blood of Gettysburg will eventually go down to destruction in that fallacy and discontent which have ever been the grave and the sepulchre of democratic institutions and of popular government.

"In order to vote intelligently it is necessary that we be able to distinguish facts from selfish propaganda, truth from hypocrisy and deceit, constructive state-manship from the wiles of the demagogue, and the friend of liberty and honest government from the unscrupulous politician who, with no honest concern for the people, poses as the friend of those things only for the purpose of exalting himself and for personal ambition and gain.

"The purpose and object of a political campaign ought to be to give the people the facts and correct information and permit voters to act thereon according to their beliefs and their judgment. And I have sympathy for any person, or group of persons, who willfully and knowingly deceive or misrepresent or for anyone else for himself or for anyone else by untruth and false propaganda and by scurrilous attack, or who tries to deprive another candidate of votes by any such methods. Men who are capable of those things are a greater menace to this country than the highwayman who robs and the gangster who stalks his victim in the dark, in my opinion."

The Fishers have lived in Los Angeles, Calif., the past five years but have now decided to return to Nebraska. They will live in Lincoln and Mr. Fisher will travel for a company, having headquarters there. They drove back from California and stopped in Norfolk first to visit the Verber Fisher family. They came here a week ago Saturday to visit in the Ben Ahlvers, J. W. Souders and Alfred Fisher homes.

We do not expect to get rid of the primary, and might not be well to do so, but it ought to be so remedied that voters may have a fairly clear idea as to whom and what they are voting for.

If the fellow serving a term in the Oklahoma penitentiary maintains that he buried the Iowa school teacher's body in a shallow grave between Carroll and Norfolk, it would seem that money would be well spent in bringing him back here to identify the spot. That would appear to be the way to solve the mystery.

The farmer who is successful is the one who diversifies his sources of income. He is the one who does not depend on marketing just one big crop, but who raises different crops and surrounds himself with different kinds of live stock. He looks to different branches of the business for support, and then if one fails, he is not lost.

In a speech before the D. A. R. convention in Washington City Monday evening, President Coolidge made plain his belief in individual initiative and individual ownership. He said the way to keep the government in the hands of the people, was to keep it as far as possible from interfering with private business.

Catalogue houses that have for a long time restricted themselves to a mail order business handled at a central point, are now going into the retail business. Not long ago Montgomery Ward & Company made arrangements to establish retail stores at different points among them, one at Kearney, Nebraska, and Company have purchased a six-story building at Omaha for the purpose of engaging in the retail business. To afford inspection of goods is suggested as a reason for the establishment of retail stores. It is also suggested that sharp retail competition over the country has persuaded the catalogue houses to enter the retail business.

FARM RELIEF. L. D. Richards, prominent citizen of Fremont, is quoted as saying that seventy-five per cent of the farmers in the vicinity of that town are against the McNary-Haugen bill, and he suggests that the farmers are better off than the business men in town. Every town or city has a number of unqualifiedly for any and every legislation or public policy that gives assurance of helping agriculture and live stock raising, because whatever aids those two important industries helps all centers of population that depend on them. Whatever helps farming communities stimulates the prosperity of the country generally. Farmers and townspeople suffered alike from the post-war period, and all have been struggling to get back on their feet. We have had to contend against the sudden deflation which prostrated all kinds of investments. We have had to curtail wild and rampant habits of living. Values went down and demands diminished, and if we were going at too swift a pace when things were running in high gear we fell farther and hit harder, and recovery has been more difficult and painful. Many doubt the practicability of the McNary-Haugen bill as a solution of farm problems, and regard it as a scheme to win votes that is a sound basis on which to strengthen farming communities. Whatever may be done in the way of readjusting the tariff to create more favor for agriculture should receive the support of farming communities. Whatever may be done to encourage demand for agricultural products and promote cooperative marketing would seem feasible. But many people pronounce the aid proposed by the McNary-Haugen bill as a scheme to win votes that is a sound basis on which to strengthen farming communities.

field. In any event, opening retail stores will increase overhead costs and place the houses on a basis similar to that on which the average retail business rests. We believe people are enjoying themselves if social functions, play spells and joy rides are any basis for judging. Social relationships are kept up seven days in the week, and people do all they can do socially in a week without adding more days.

Senator Brookhart has charged Vice President Dawes with insincerity in his position for farm relief. The low senator is said to be unpardonably misled, and he would be disposed to misinterpret the vice president's utterances or actions, regardless of what they might be. And the antagonism of Brookhart will tend to strengthen the vice president in popular estimation.

The American Legion is supporting a measure providing for universal draft in case of war. It proposes to draft everybody and everything in the event of trouble leaving no chance to impoverish some and enrich others. It does not permit some to sacrifice lives and property while others are profiteering in safe retreats. It is believed the most important step yet taken in behalf of peace, and it would seem to be the most effective way to meet possible hostilities and quickly terminate them. The universal draft would have a wonderfully deterrent influence on home people, and it would make other nations think a long time before engaging in conflict with a country whose resources could be immediately mobilized in their entirety for defense. In the possible eventuality of war, it would put everybody on an equal footing with no fancy pay for anybody.

Will Maupin of the Omaha News, deprecates absence in Nebraska of orators of the caliber of Bryan and Thurston and others. If there are men of the distinguished oratorical talent of those who have passed on, they have failed to come to the surface. In observing the suggestion in the Fairbury News adds that the quality of our statesmen in Washington has deteriorated, due, it thinks, to faulty judgment on the part of the people. With multiplied means of communication and information and travel and entertainment, the old-time demand for oratory has greatly diminished, and consequently the incentive to become a spell-binder with no one wishing to be spell-bound, has quite disappeared. But the need for wise statesmanship is just as pressing as ever, but it is up to the people to find men and women who measure up to requirements and draw them into the public service.

"Do you think you will ever amount to anything?" asked a fellow facetiously. But seriously, the question leads one to wonder what it means to amount to something. Does it mean just to make money and leave a good-sized estate? Rather, doesn't it mean to develop and inculcate habits of right living and right thinking, habits of industry and usefulness? We expect to see people who are prosperous. It is unpleasant to contemplate the plight of those who want much for little who yearn for more than they are willing or able to earn. But amounting to something must be considered above monetary rating or ability to amass material wealth. A rich man who lives up to himself and only for himself, doing nothing that benefits society, amounts to little or nothing. The rich man who develops industries or creates opportunities, who improves and beautifies the landscape, who breathes hope and courage into drooping souls, is a benefactor and amounts to a great deal. Edison and Burbank are not thought of in terms of dollars and cents, but their contributions to science are of permanent value, will serve forever and never be forgotten. In less conspicuous strata of life are men and women who, though of necessity providing material support, are constantly directing their efforts in behalf of public improvement and social welfare. The service one's business or profession or industry gives enriches the community in which it is exercised. Whether prominent or inconspicuous, one thus employed, with pride in service taking precedence over selfish gain, is doing something eminently worth while and amounts to very much, abundantly enough to sustain courage and impel effort.

Business. Sioux City Journal: Unseasonable weather over a wide area in the middle west unquestionably is responsible for the slow trade in various mercantile lines during April. There is no denial of the fact that there has been a slump in buying. Reports from various centers of the west described as to the effect that merchandise is not moving rapidly enough to justify hopes of a spring upturn in business. However, this is believed to be a temporary condition that will improve as the season advances. This expectancy of improvement in the mercantile lines is based upon the encouraging condition of the basic industries. They are in much better condition, with production going ahead as though the quiet tone in trade meant nothing in the way of discouraging operations. Steel production, building and motor car manufacturing all reflect confidence on the part of industry. There is much more activity in these lines than in general. It is believed that the quiet tone of the open market is UNIQUE CANVASS. Richard L. Metcalfe, democratic nominee for United States senator, has challenged his republican opponent, E. B. Howell, to a joint canvass of the state, holding ninety meetings in fifteen weeks. As we assume, it is proposed to hold public debates and discuss current issues. Both are very capable men, and a fair and friendly discussion of the affairs of government from different standpoints would be enlightening and helpful. Senator Howell has been in Washington long enough to gain much first-hand information, and his interpretation of the trend of government and the needs of the people would be of value. Mr. Metcalfe is a life-long student of public questions, and he thinks clearly and knows how to express what he thinks. As we understand, the proposed canvass would not be designed to arouse bitter differences of party prejudice, but to inform the public while extending acquaintance, and then in the final analysis in November voters would be privileged to take their choice. People are entitled to facts, and a man in the field for a seat in the United States senate ought to be big enough to state, free from subterfuge, what he believes to be true, and what he thinks will be the best policy for the future of the country, and then submit complacently to the popular judgment.

not to be taken too seriously at this time. Moreover, the activity in stocks and bonds is interpreted as showing the financial confidence of the country in the future of business. There has been speculation on a large scale, with well known stocks ascending to high marks in Wall street and some records of long standing being broken. As to the money situation there is nothing to cause worry in that respect. Money is still plentiful and comparatively easy. Whether the political situation has influenced an unreasonable control of the business situation is problematical. Some observers think this has been done, without necessarily agreeing that it is at all logical. The uncertainty attaching to the outcome of the national election while acknowledged as a factor in business operations could not exert any appreciable influence if operators looked at the thing in a common sense way.

The chance for an improvement in the agricultural sections has not changed appreciably even with the senate passing the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill by more than a two-thirds majority. The case is fully expected to take similar action, but that does not mean that the measure will succeed when it reaches President Coolidge. The veto is again threatened. There will be no encouragement to the farm element whatever until the bill is enacted into law. Any improvement in trade conditions in the middle west area will be based upon actual economic developments, not upon political promises or gestures.

Rents and Wages On Farm Increase

Lincoln, Neb., April 13.—Cash rents and farm wages are slightly higher than a year ago, the state and federal division of agricultural statistics report. Farm land valued at $77 per acre brings an average rental of $3.80 per acre, the report says. Crop or plowed land valued at $107 per acre pays an average rental of $5.40 per acre. "The present farm labor supply exceeds the demand although the farm wages average slightly higher than a year ago, the report continues. Farm wages per month with board are $43.25, without board, $59.60, while farm day labor with board averages $2.35, without board, $3.10. "The progress of farm work is fully up to normal for this date," the report asserts. "The weather has enabled farmers to get an early start at the spring work. The past season has been very favorable for feeding livestock and more of each class of livestock has been on feed than a year ago. The marketing of corn has been abnormally heavy. Receipts of hogs from Nebraska during the past three months have exceeded all expectations."

War on the Corn Borer. Omaha Bee: The house committee on agriculture has taken a new start in the corn borer war. Instead of deferring the action until after another crop, as was proposed a little while ago, the committee now reports for passage a bill authorizing the secretary of agriculture to carry on the effort to exterminate the pest. A sum of $7,000,000 is set aside to pay the cost of the work. Corn growers will welcome this news. The steady advance of the pest into the heart of the corn belt has been discouraging. With Ohio and Indiana infected, the progress, unless checked, will soon include Illinois, then Iowa, and then Nebraska. The borer army does not turn aside, but steadily moves, to the ultimate extermination of corn. Broad authority is given to the secretary of agriculture in the bill, so that he may employ any or all means known to eradicate the pest. Vigorous, unrelenting warfare will now be waged, and this should be the order for the campaign.

Takes Short Course In Permanent Wave

Joe Smolski arrived home Sunday from Chicago where he spent a week taking special training in the art of permanent waving. He studied methods of waving and treatment of various types of hair from Emil Rhode and John Mueller, nationally recognized artists in the profession. While such instruction ranges from $10 to $25 an hour, the benefits are far greater than the expense, Mr. Smolski thinks. Each of these leaders passed on to Smolski the method of waving and judged it as perfect.

While in Chicago Mr. Smolski also took examinations in use of the King and Nestle permanent waving machines and received diplomas from each company.

Perfect permanent waving depends on proper method of winding the hair according to structure and on use of proper amount of heat. Mr. Smolski took special training in these arts while in Chicago.

Save Your Vision Week Visited

That sixty percent of defective vision is caused by improper lighting in the homes is the opinion of Dr. W. B. Vall, optometrist, who has issued an appeal to parents to consider lighting systems during Save Your Vision week, April 22 to 29. With electric lights so accessible there is little excuse for the lack of quantity of light in the home. But quality and color, the two things most often overlooked, are responsible for much of the eye strain.

One good thing to keep in mind, Dr. Vall says, is never to have unshaded lights in any part of the home. Any color of shade that resembles sunlight is the best possible choice, for the eye is most used to that light.

Optometric science has proved that effective vision requires much larger quantities of artificial light than is now in use. Rather than use a powerful central light it is better to distribute the quantity around the room with several diffused shades.

Harold Lloyd To Be In Picture Here

"The face on the cutting room floor" is an ode few actors like to chant. But to Harold Lloyd, who comes to the Crystal theatre Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, in his latest production, "Speedy," released by Paramount, it means better pictures. Lloyd is showing more important in the producing of a motion picture than careful "pruning," according to the famous comedian of the horrid rime.

One thing Lloyd's pictures have always been noted for within the industry is the meticulous manner in which they have been cut and edited. Lloyd pares out every foot of unnecessary film. Everything without vital connection with his story or its connection ends on the cutting room floor.

In "Speedy," the bespectacled comedian's latest opus, there is action from start to finish. There is not a moment that lags. Even the positions of the story developed to the building of his story, which are invariably slow places, maintain interest at domestic heat.

Lloyd used his usual preparation in the preliminary exhibition of "Speedy." Instead of holding five or six previews, as has been his custom for years, he found it necessary to stage only three before he was convinced that his picture was ready for public consumption, and as nearly perfect as it was possible for him to make it.

"Speedy" is one of Lloyd's most enjoyable works, diverting, funny, hilarious and novel. And nothing more could be asked of any comedian.

Harold has introduced to screen fans a new screen personality with Ann Christy, his new leading lady.

Predict Good Year For Cattle Raising

Lincoln, Neb., April 10.—Cattlemen generally, and particularly Nebraska sandhill cattlemen, are facing a period of unusual prosperity and profitable returns, the state and federal division of agricultural statistics reports.

Prospects on the range this spring are the best for years and prices are on a higher level than they have been any time since the war, the report says. The sandhill and western counties, including Wheeler, Garfield,

State Bakers Meet In Annual Session

Norfolk, Neb., April 12.—Carl Wilke, prominent Beatrice business man, was elected president of the Nebraska State Bakers' association here Thursday morning as the eighteenth annual convention neared its close. He succeeds L. A. McThompson, Norfolk, who has served in the presidency the past year.

Regional vice-presidents elected were as follows: C. W. Ortman, Omaha; Henry Baehr, Wisner; Robert Smith, Lincoln; Harry Keith, Columbus; C. A. Bellman, Nebraska City. They succeed C. E. Masterman, Lincoln; H. C. Green, Auburn; Earl Griffin, Hastings; F. J. Wiselssen, Fremont; C. C. Jesse, Aurora.

H. Lee Thompson, Crete, was elected secretary, and Emil Hahn, Fremont, treasurer. Mr. Hahn said that he had owned in that section which had ever yielded to exceed 25 bushels of corn to the acre, and planted it in sweet clover as an experimental proposition. The second year when it had grown up to some height in the latter part of May he turned it under, planting it in corn. When the season was over and the crop was harvested, it yielded 75 bushels of corn an acre.

Man At Tekamah Killed By Dredger

Tekamah, Neb., April 12.—Ward Smuthers, 30, an employee of the Burt-Washington county drainage district, was killed instantly near here today, when he became caught between the balance blocks of the huge dredger as the machine was in operation.

Smuthers' head was badly crushed and the accident was witnessed by another employe, Al Brinley, who was working near the dredger.

Faye Miller, operator of the machine, was unaware that Smuthers had been killed until Brinley motioned him to stop the dredger. Miller was absolved of all blame by officials of the drainage district.

Smuthers is survived by a widow and three children.

Why does the Doughboy look like a dud while the officer's smart and swanky? You know as well as we do.

The doughboy gets his clothes thrown at him—Somebody says, "Give that guy a 38," and the uniform is passed out to him.

But the officer—Ah! He gets his clothes custom tailored to his own measurements and every line conforms to his body.

That's the answer.

The officer's clothes are cut single—the doughboy's clothes are cut with a buzz saw by the thousands.

If you want to look like the officer, come here for your spring suit.

Sweet Clover Is Proved Of Value

Sioux City Journal: A few years ago the farmers, as well as everybody else, considered sweet clover a noxious weed. It grew wild along the highways, but was never allowed to grow in the fields. By and by somebody discovered that this idea about sweet clover was wrong; that sweet clover had meritorious qualities; that it made not only a pasture that cattle and hogs relished, but was a fertilizer and a soil builder and a savior of uncultivated soil that was not surpassed by any other known plant. The state experimental stations put it to a test and verified these statements through their experimental work with the plant and recommended it not only as a producer of provender and pasture, but as one of the cheapest fertilizing propositions for enriching the soil that had yet ever been discovered. Some years previous to that the government experimental station at Washington discovered that the bacteria living on the roots of the leguminous family of plants, of which sweet clover is one, could be bred and preserved for soil inoculation to the benefit of different varieties of legumes. Under the influence of sunlight this family of plants gather the nitrogen from the atmosphere, which the bacteria living on the roots transmit to the soil, and the sweet clover of this family of plants surpasses any other variety in producing this result.

A man who at one time was at the head of the National Farm Bureau, in an informal talk before a gathering of seedsmen a few years ago, told his experience with sweet clover in eastern Ohio. He had heard of what sweet clover would do as a fertilizer and restorer of old, run down, worn out farm land, and was determined to try it out. He said that he took a 10-acre plot on a farm that had ever yielded to exceed 25 bushels of corn to the acre, and planted it in sweet clover as an experimental proposition. The second year when it had grown up to some height in the latter part of May he turned it under, planting it in corn. When the season was over and the crop was harvested, it yielded 75 bushels of corn an acre.

Nature's Own Plan.

There is an old proverb which relates that "the hair of the dog is good for the bite" that may be a delusion, but this amazing feature in the nature of plants that the plant of one family will restore the soil that is worn out and fertilize it to the great advantage of another family of plants for an abundant yield is absolutely no delusion. This is nature's own plan, based on the law of variation, in the vegetable kingdom of restoring the soil.

Here is another comparative illustration. A few years ago a farmer planted 1,500 pounds of sweet clover seed at a cost of $9 on a hundred and enough of bacteria to inoculate the seed thoroughly, both together costing $1.07 an acre. The second year after the sweet clover had made some growth he turned it under for a crop of corn and obtained wonderful results. At the same time, alongside of this field, he planted another field of corn fertilized with barnyard manure that cost, perhaps, twice as much to haul and spread. He found when the season was over and the harvest was garnered, that the field

What's the Answer?

Why does the Doughboy look like a dud while the officer's smart and swanky? You know as well as we do.

The doughboy gets his clothes thrown at him—Somebody says, "Give that guy a 38," and the uniform is passed out to him.

But the officer—Ah! He gets his clothes custom tailored to his own measurements and every line conforms to his body.

That's the answer.

The officer's clothes are cut single—the doughboy's clothes are cut with a buzz saw by the thousands.

If you want to look like the officer, come here for your spring suit.

Teeth are no better nor worse during a presidential year, and an ugly tooth is not prejudiced against one party or one individual above another. It acts entirely independent of politics. Last Sabbath we enjoyed an uplifting communion service of the Lord's supper. We welcomed nine new members, and one was baptized. This sacred sacrament always lifts one up on the mountain of inspiration, if observed in the right spirit, and prepares one to come down again to the valley of everyday life and service among one's fellowmen. Next Sabbath is another opportunity to do one's best for Christ and the church. Let us do it with all the heart. Begin at 10 o'clock with the Sunday school, and stay for the morning worship, and come to the evening worship at 8 o'clock, and if you are a Christian endeavor, be present to help and be helped there at 7 o'clock. The reports at the annual meeting on last Wednesday showed some unusually good work for the year in all lines. The little cradle roll report was overlooked. We have been so fortunate in having on that roll and the most faithful and efficient superintendent of that work is Mrs. Anna Temple.

Week's Review of Herald Exchanges

Bloomfield fireman held a banquet April 17.

Albion city council voted to have a new well for water.

Jury term of district court convenes in Madison April 23.

Red stop signs are being placed in the pavement at Tekamah.

Chris Cordts, Jr., of Pierce, died Monday of last week, aged 33 years.

Miss Martha Marks and George Poigne were married at Pierce on Easter.

Dr. E. M. Thies, physician of Hartington, died Wednesday of last week at a total of 82.184 cars and trucks.

W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, announced here today.

This record output is 70,000 units more than the turnout during the corresponding period last year, and gives substantial backing to the statement made a week ago by Chevrolet executives that the country is in the midst of an unusual era of prosperity that is destined to hold throughout the greater part of the year.

In March Chevrolet built 133,657 cars and trucks. This is 17,000 units better than February, 1928, which previously was the largest month's output in the sixteen year existence of the company, Mr. Knudsen pointed out.

On top of the new high performance in March, the fourteen domestic Chevrolet factories are producing cars as fast as precision methods will permit, with the exception of that April, despite having two less working days than March will show practically as high a production volume as the month just ended. Mr. Knudsen stated that still higher records are possible when a new assembly plant with a capacity of 350 cars a day, which is shortly to be opened at Atlanta, gets underway to augment the output of the other factories.

An unusual feature of the March output was the fact that more than 113,000 units of the total volume were absorbed by the domestic market to assure all dealers of an adequate number of prompt delivery.

The remarkable showing of the company was interpreted here as a sweeping endorsement of the refinements embodied in the bigger and better Chevrolet as well as a tribute to the far-reaching policy of Chevrolet officials in arranging their production facilities so that cars might be instantly available to the public.
