Biggest Fair Is Held Here

Attendance Breaks All Records in History at Wayne Last Week Saturday.

Number Features

Exhibits in Departments and Entertainment Surpass All Expectations.

Wayne county's largest and most successful fair closed in Wayne Saturday with a crowd that broke all attendance records here.

Exhibits

Outstanding entertainment features this year surpassed every expectation. The number and quality of the hog exhibits surpassed most fairs, the judge reports.

Two Bands Play Here

The Wayne and Winside bands furnished music for the fair, the latter organization playing Thursday and the Wayne group playing the other days.

Fireworks Displays

One of the features of entertainment were the fireworks displays Wednesday and Saturday evenings. These cost the fair association about $1,000.

Lodges Have Drill

Modern Wagon drill teams from northern Nebraska competed here Thursday evening and state officers from Lincoln acted as judges.

Horse Pulling Contest

In the pulling contest Wayne county still holds state record in the heavy class. This was established two years ago by the team belonging to Eldor Ring.

Two Baseball Games

Scott's Giants of Des Moines, colored team, met the Murphy Didijs of Omaha in baseball games here Thursday and Friday.

Feature Free Acts

Three feature free acts entertained each afternoon and evening of the fair. The Smetlicka brothers, comedians, gave an exhibition of bar acts.

Boy Breaks Leg

Arthur M. Sellen of near Randolph sustained a badly broken right leg Thursday afternoon when participating in a relay race at the fair.

Results of Races

Races were part of each day's program. On the opening day the results were as follows: Sled-haul pony race, Irwin Anderson, first; Robert Theobald, second; and Raymond O'Keefe, third.

VIOLENCE OF AIR LEAVES RUIN AND DEATH IN WAKE

PEOPLE in attendance at the Wayne county fair Thursday afternoon saw ugly clouds moving to the southeast and northeast, but they little realized the monstrosity of the storm that had missed them and the terrible tragedy that was being enacted in less fortunate districts. If the revolving demon of the air had chosen its path through the Wayne county fair grounds where thousands of people were grouped, the toll of life would have been appalling.

Convention of Evangelism. The Presbytery of Niobrara is holding a convention on evangelism at the South Sioux City church this Wednesday and Thursday, under the direction of its committee on national mission. The pastor of the local church, Rev. Fenton C. Jones, is the chairman of this committee and has made arrangements for speakers of special talent and a program of real worth. Dr. Wm. F. Klein and Dr. Harvey Klear, both of New York City and Dr. Fred W. Backemeyer of Gary, Indiana, will lead the discussions and conduct classes. Among those planning to attend from the Wayne church besides the pastor are: A. R. Davis, C. M. Craven, F. G. Philleo, Mrs. J. H. Kemp and Mrs. May Young. Wayne People Visit In Kansas Points Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stambaugh, who spent August in Kansas with relatives, arrived here a few days ago. Leaving here August 1, they stopped in Fremont one day to attend the Lutheran assembly which was in progress. They then went to Lincoln. The Bryan memorial hospital and the home used for the nurses were visited by the travelers. The Stambaughs went to Tabitha home and the home for the children while in Lincoln. They visited F. C. Tweed at Tabitha home. Mr. Tweed formerly lived in Wayne. He is as well as usual and sent greetings to his Wayne friends. The Stambaughs visited the state capital. The building will be wonderful, but much work remains yet to be done. The tower is 360 feet high and the foundation for this alone took ninety cars of cement. Stambaughs went to the Methodist assembly and Epworth park. They stayed at the assembly and heard a minister from Birmingham, Ala. The Wayne people then went to Wymore to visit W. L. Fisher's eldest daughter, Mrs. Jones, and family, who have a nice home there. After leaving Nebraska the Stambaughs found rough, ungraveled roads. They reached the home of a friend of Mrs. Stambaugh at Waterville, Kan., the first day after leaving Lincoln. They went to visit in Barnes, Kan., and also at Hanover. Relatives and friends at Waterville and Greenleaf entertained the Wayne people in royal fashion. A friend of Mrs. Stambaugh whom she had not seen for twenty years, was there from Minnesota. Crops are good in Kansas this year. Corn is excellent. The visitors found corn good as far north as Lincoln, and from there to Wayne the fields are spotted. One man at Barnes, Kan., received $4,000 for wheat from eighty-five acres. Many farmers are beginning to use combines. Waterville is a town of about 1,000 people. An addition costing $40,000 has just been completed at the high school. The Stambaughs visited in Blue Rapids, Maryville and other places in Kansas. They saw L. W. McBride, formerly of Carroll, in Waggonville. Mr. McBride is operating a general store there. Enroute home the Stambaughs stopped in Beatrice. They saw Harvey Miller, brother of Wilson Miller of Wayne county, and also visited Rev. Mr. Lowe. They attended the state fair in Lincoln, there being 106,000 people there the same day. The Stambaughs arrived home after traveling about 1,000 miles. They had no car trouble on the journey.

Mrs. Weber's Aunt Passes In Omaha Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weber went to Omaha Thursday to attend the funeral services Friday for Mrs. Weber's aunt, Mrs. Myra E. White, who passed away at her home there September 11, aged 78 years. Services were held at the home in Omaha at 1 o'clock Friday and interment made in the Tekamah cemetery. Mrs. White was one of the pioneers of Burt county. Deceased is survived by the following near relatives: Bardwell Bailey of Omaha, a grandson; Mrs. A. T. White of Glens Ferry, Idaho, a sister; N. W. Bardwell of Tekamah, a brother; Arthur Bailey of Omaha, a son-in-law; Mrs. Clark Spivey of Anselmo, Neb., Miss Harriet and Miss May Bardwell of Lincoln, and Mrs. Walter Weber of Wayne, nieces; Raymond White, with the U. S. navy and Carl White of Glens Ferry, Idaho, nephews. Mrs. White had visited in Wayne a number of times. Service Conducted For Peter Sievers Funeral service was conducted Saturday afternoon at the home and at the Evangelical Lutheran church in Wayne for Peter Sievers who died Monday evening last week after a long illness, aged 72 years. Rev. H. A. Teekhaus and Rev. William Fischer had charge and interment was in Greenwood cemetery. Those here from a distance for the funeral were: William Sievers of Lancaster, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ludje of Cedar Bluffs, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lass and John Lass of Fremont, and Jurgen Hansen of Wisner. The Vice-President? Oh! he sits in the rumble seat.—Ashton Hood Syndicate (Philadelphia).

THE KNOT-HOLE No. 16 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, September 20, 1928. Vol. 2 The secret of success is still somewhat of a secret to us. Of course well planned, well equipped farm buildings add a lot to the appearance of your farm. But more than that, they shorten the hours of work and cut down labor expenses. What would you like to build? Talk with us about it. We know a husband who says his wife has three different voices—a telephone voice, a "company voice" and the one she uses on him. The coal strike in Illinois was called off, so that there is a plentiful supply of coal from that state as well as with the exception of Colorado Anthracite. A surplus of nut size at the mines is making the price size difficult to get. Fortunately we are introducing a new furnace hard coal called Yukon Anthracite. It is selling rapidly at $16.50. A girl advertised for a husband and landed him in a short time. The ad cost $3, the wedding cost her $6, total $9. "EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING WITH" Here's a suggestion of your figuring on making fence— We know a lady who borrowed her neighbor's cat to rid the basement of mice. Good idea. Buy a cat and rent 'er out. The annual mouse season is here. They are looking for warm winter quarters in the furnace rooms. Have we forgotten to mention in these columns that we have a stock of Long Term Panted Posts? Well they're here. It is calculated that they will outwear the regular post two to three times. The price is only a little higher.

Final Dividend Ready At Carroll National George G. Conkleton, receiver of the late First National bank of Carroll, is now paying a final dividend to those holding certificates and urges everyone to get in touch with the receiver so that checks may be delivered. The receiver will be at the Carroll State Bank on Friday and Saturday, September 21 and 22, so that as many of the checks as possible can be delivered. Attention is called that all having claims in the above bank must bring with them receiver's certificates before they can get their checks. Checks that are uncalled for within two weeks from this notice will be forwarded to the Comptroller of the Currency at Washington, D. C. It is therefore urged that all having claims get in touch with the receiver. After Friday and Saturday of this week, the receiver can be reached at Wayne, Nebraska. Appreciation. I wish to thank the Fair Association and all those who took part in the donation for me, when I had my leg broken at the fair. I appreciate it very much. Arthur M. Sellon. Card of Thanks. We wish to express sincere thanks to friends for the many kindnesses and for the floral tributes at the time of our bereavement. We also want to thank the choir for music. Mrs. Emma Sievers and family. What would really have settled the whole thing is for Mr. Kellogg to have written into his peace pact that no nation engaging in war could borrow money of the United States.—Chicago Tribune.

Review: PAUL'S WORK The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 30. Review: Paul the Missionary. THE review of the quarter's lessons takes us through the life of Paul from his pre-Christian period as an earnest young Pharisee intense in his convictions and roused to persecution in opposition to those of the strange new Christian faith, and his own dramatic conversion to that faith, down to the period of the second missionary journey and the bringing of Christianity into Europe. No quarter's lessons have been more characterized by vigorous movement and dramatic quality. It is unfortunate that Shakespeare was never attracted by such a theme. We have the young man standing and holding the garments of those who stoned Stephen, profoundly impressed by the death of that martyr as he calmly met his fate calling upon God to forgive his persecutors. Voice of Accusation. Then in the next act comes the remarkable experience on the way to Damascus which with its outward accompaniments brought the deed of accusation in Paul's inner consciousness. Then we have the coming of Paul to Jerusalem, the fear on the part of the disciples of the one whom they had known as a persecutor, and the courageous championing of the new convert by Barnabas. Here and there we have glimpses of the dangerous nature of these new experiences as Paul is forced to escape from Jerusalem and go to his birthplace, Tarsus, for safety from persecution. Hither Barnabas comes in search of his new friend, and having found him introduces him to the disciples at Antioch where the disciples were first called Christians. First of all Paul and Barnabas start upon their first missionary journey, passing through many strange adventures before they are returned to the city. Then we have a human touch in the controversy that broke out between Paul and Barnabas over the second missionary journey and the question about taking John Mark who had been with them on part of their first journey. Paul seemed to think that John Mark had left them without cause and he was strongly opposed to taking him with them. The contention was so sharp that the two men separated, and while Barnabas and John Mark went on a journey of their own, Paul with Silas as his companion began the journey during which he had the call to Europe. Tragic Chapters. The Macedonian call brought Paul into new scenes and inevitably emphasized the ministry of the Gospel to the Gentiles. Here Paul came in contact with Greek culture and with paganism. But the tragic happenings that befell him had to do more with the conflicts of the Gospel as it came in collision with the selfish purposes of unscrupulous people. The cry that Paul was uneducated in teaching customs that were not lawful for Romans to observe and that he was perverting the religion which the people generally professed led to Paul's accusation and imprisonment. But this imprisonment has given to the world the remarkable story of the Philippian jailer with its striking illustration of the way in which men become conquerors of their need of salvation under the ministry of Paul and the clearness with which he presented the possibility of salvation in Christ Jesus.

Sheriff's Sale. By virtue of an order of execution issued by the clerk of the district court of Wayne county, Nebraska, upon a judgment rendered December 10, 1927, in said court in favor of George G. Cronkleton, Receiver of the Citizens National Bank of Wayne, Nebraska, plaintiff, and against John S. Lewis, Jr., defendant, which said judgment has been stayed by virtue of a stay bond filed in said case where Kate F. Lewis and Walter T. Savidge are sureties, said execution being issued against John S. Lewis, Jr., as principal, and Kate F. Lewis and Walter T. Savidge as sureties, I will on Monday, the 22nd day of October, 1928, at ten o'clock A. M., in the forenoon, offer at public auction, for cash, and sell to the highest bidder, the following described real estate, which I have levied upon as the said defendant, principal, John S. Lewis, Jr., to satisfy said judgment above set forth, subject to valid existing liens against same, to-wit: Lots one (1) two (2), and three (3), in Block six (6) Crawford's Addition to Wayne, Nebraska; Lot ten (10), in Block six (6) Crawford's Addition to Wayne, Nebraska; Lots one (1) to six (6), inclusive, and Lots thirteen (13) to twenty-two (22), inclusive, in Block nine (9), College Hill First Addition to Wayne, Nebraska; a tract of land described as follows: commencing at a point five hundred forty-five (545) feet South of the Northeast corner of the Southeast quarter (SE 1/4), Section 13 (13), Township twenty-six (26), Range three (3) East of the 6th P. M., Wayne County, Nebraska, thence West four hundred forty-seven (447) feet, thence North two hundred (200) feet, thence East four hundred forty-seven (447) feet, thence South two hundred (200) feet to the place of commencement; also at the same time, if property of principal is insufficient to satisfy said judgment, I will sell the real estate of the sureties, Kate F. Lewis and Walter T. Savidge, which I have levied upon, or as much thereof as is necessary to satisfy said judgment, to-wit: East fifty (50) feet of Lots five (5) and six (6), in Block eleven (11), Original Town of Wayne, Nebraska; Lots fourteen (14) and fifteen (15), and the South one (1) foot of the East ninety (90) feet of Lot sixteen (16), all in Block twenty-one (21), Original Town of Wayne, Nebraska.

Said sale will be held at the door of the office of the Clerk of the District Court, in the Court House, in Wayne County, Nebraska, to satisfy said judgment, the amount due thereon, in aggregate, being the sum of $6,160.57, and interest at 10 per cent from the 10th day of December, 1927, and $14.05 costs, and accruing costs.

Dated at Wayne, Nebraska, this 18th day of September, 1928. A. W. Stephens, Sheriff of Wayne County, Nebraska.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT OUTCOME OF "CRUCIAL" SERIES BETWEEN YANKEES AND MACKMEN KEEPS ODDS ON YANKEES TO WIN PENNANT—WESTERN GAMES WILL TELL BY PHILIP MARTIN THAT crucial series between the Yankees and Athletics is over and both clubs are now engaged in their final western trip of the year—AND the Yankees seem headed, with no great degree of certainty, towards another world series. There's a chance that the Macks will be able to overhaul the world champions on this western trip, but that chance is slim. The A's were one and one-half games behind the league leaders when they hopped off for points west. The Yankees had 15 games to play against western clubs; the Macks only 13. And an effort to give the A's the better chance of meeting with greater success on this trip, by citing statistics of their play against western clubs, gives merely a fraction in odds. THE Mackmen have won 54 games and lost 21 from western opponents before this present jaunt. This gives them a percentage against western clubs of 72. The Yankees have eight less victories and six more defeats against the same opposition, giving them a percentage of 63. In all, the A's have played .090 better ball against westerners than the Yankees have. On western soil, the Yankees have won 15 of 24 games; the Athletics have won 21 of 24.

fact is that more boys than usual have enrolled—a fact that augurs well for the future of the country. The Wayne college has grown larger and more useful from year to year, and its part in the training of the youth of the land is more pronounced than ever.

The Wayne county fair which closed Saturday, had the largest attendance in the history of the organization, and it would have had more if the weather had not exhibited an ugly and threatening disposition at different times during the week. Saturday's crowd was a record-breaker, more people passing through the gates than on any other day in the history of the fair. Officers and directors of the association have reason to feel encouraged, and they will doubtless make plans for a bigger and better show than ever.

With radios multiplied in number and improved in service, people may sit in their comfortable homes and listen to the leading speeches of the presidential campaign. Before advent of this wonderful service, one had to spend time and money in going to a center where a speech was to be given, or wait for the newspaper to bring the report. Now the man in the audience has no advantage over the listener many miles away, with extra privilege for the latter to dispute the speaker or put him off without giving offense.

The straw vote polled by the Hearst publications relating to the presidential race, shows a majority for Hoover with strong possibility of carrying some of the southern states which threaten to leave democratic ranks on account of the liquor question. Another straw vote of considerable consequence is that of the Pathfinder, a publication without party bias, and out of the total ballots, coming from every state, Hoover receives 233,315 and Smith 197,408. Much independence of party lines is shown, and at this time neither candidate would seem to have certain ground to feel assured of victory, though the straw voting thus far gives the republican candidate the advantage.

Sir Oliver Lodge does not agree with his compatriot, Dean Inge, that civilization is drifting backward. Sir Oliver is of the opinion that the human race is still in its infancy and that great heights are yet to be attained in mental and spiritual growth. He thinks that while people seem to have lived many thousands of years, they are now just getting fairly started. If the world waits for civilization to reach the standard pictured by Lodge, its end will be indefinitely postponed. "Our squabbles are like those of children in a nursery, but they are deadly, and I hope we will have no more of them," says Sir Oliver. Civilization has made wonderful progress within the memory of the present generation, but it will not have gone far enough to brag about until wars cease to threaten and until an individual is stayed by conscience from seeking selfish gain through the injury of another.

Reopening of the State Teachers College discloses an unprecedented enrollment for the beginning of the fall term, and nearly all of the students hold high school diplomas and are working for advanced degrees. Another important

GLOOMY OUTLOOK.
According to a newspaper expert's figures, as published in the current N. E. A. bulletin, we have been losing money on this newspaper ever since we started, and we had to start on borrowed capital. According to this expert, every edition has been issued at a loss. If this expert's figures are correct, we ought to hit bottom in due time with the remains carefully distributed among disappointed and embittered creditors. According to the figures, our circulation is double the size it ought to be for the advertising rate charged, and we pay employees considerably above the average. Looking to our subscriptions for relief, the expert solemnly says: "A little figuring will show that each yearly subscription which the publisher receives at $2 is costing him approximately $7." Other experts have analyzed the cost of producing job printing, and according to the figures we have invariably labored at a loss in that department. Thus, the possibilities for remuneration, and if each branch of the business is operated at a loss, we are headed for the rocks, and creditors—if there be any—may well tremble. But grave statisticians, wrestling with figures and some facts, may show that every body is gravitating toward ruin. The merchant is furnished blueprints to show that he is not making the grade and that he can't make it, but he that says it may, he actually does make it. The statistical gloom dispenser presents figures to show that everything the farmer produces costs him more than he gets for it. It costs him more to raise a bushel of wheat or corn or grow a horse or cow or pig or sheep or chicken than he can realize for it on the market, according to experts, but by combining revenues from all sources, it is found that he is making headway, and usually he lives in a modern home, has automobiles and radios, and his family is cultured and otherwise well provided for, and he has more money in the bank than any of his town brethren. And still he is producing at a loss. In every line figures could be made to show that people are doing the same thing, and still, never before in the history of the world, were luxuries considered necessities as they are today. If we are all working at a loss and wading in the direction of wrecked ruin, what are we doing in the luxurious townships of high-powered automobiles with plenty to eat and wear along the way.

SMITH TALKS.
Governor Al. Smith, democratic presidential candidate, was the center of attraction in Omaha Tuesday, and everywhere people tuned in to hear his speech in the evening. Strongly partisan democrats thought his speech was a masterpiece of constructive logic. Republican leaders rated it as feeble claptrap, and they found in what he said no practical solution for any problem before the American people. The audience that crowded the big Omaha hall to hear him, broke into frequent and loud applause, whether he had made a point or not. Whether impelled by approval of the speaker's utterances, or whether they were out for vocal exercise, no one will ever know, though the latter is given suspicion in view of some incidents that prompted noisy outbursts. Governor Smith treated agriculture at length, and he pledged himself to do everything in his power to lend assistance, and of course he could not do less and no other party would or could do less. He denounced the republican party in a way that gives stimulus to indifferent partisans who recall the ills following the war and the progress made by the country in debt reduction since then. He dealt largely in generalities, and he sought to convey the impression that he could and would do for the country what the republicans had failed to do and had no notion of doing. Thus we have Smith's first campaign speech, and at this juncture we would say he falls considerably short of the stature of his opponent in proven qualities of statesmanship.

called Government control on the sale of liquor.
"How does it work?"
"Ben H. Spence, 450 Confederation Life Bldg., Toronto, said on good authority to be one of the best informed men in Canada about the liquor situation, says this about Canada's experience:
"The tragedy of the old license system is being enacted. Drunks are again staggering our streets and glutting our police courts. Our jails are overflowing. People are paying a terrible toll in drink caused accidents. Our highways are being made unrecognizable human shambles. Lives are being wrecked, boys and girls debauched, and homes ruined."
"In Canada since Government control took the place of prohibition, distillery stocks are 300 percent greater.
"The drink bill of the seven provinces is $180,000,000 for a population of 9,000,000. That is $20.00 for each man, woman and child and rum running and bootlegging flourish.
"The verdict at the polls in November is going to decide pretty largely whether or not we shall have modification of the Volstead Act.
"Out here in Iowa we used to have a lot of institutions whose business was to cure drunkards. They are closed for lack of patronage.
"We believe that this is a better situation than they have in Canada with modification and Government control.
"Make no mistake. The fight for and against liquor is one of the dominant issues in this campaign.
"Conditions are not satisfactory now but they were infinitely worse when liquor was sold as a beverage under the sanction of the law.
"For America to take a great backward step on such a moral issue would be a catastrophe unparalleled in American history.
"America doesn't retreat."

Mr. Tunney is giving up prize-fighting to take a bride. Sort of hit-or-miss policy.—Dallas News.

THE POLITICAL FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS

The Newark Speech.
Lincoln Journal: Mr. Hoover's Newark speech deserves to rank as a state paper rather than as an argument in support of the election of the republican national ticket. The growth and development of this nation are clearly attributable to the tariff and other business policies it has followed with consistency in the last fifty years. If other evidence were lacking it would be found in the fact that they were deliberately molded for the purpose of making this the greatest industrial nation in the world. If an admission were needed it is supplied by the democratic platform effort to assure voters that it does not intend to disturb the fabric of business. This, together with its corollaries, the development of a high standard of living and the payment of what are now the highest wages ever exchanged for labor and fewer hours, constituted the theme of Mr. Hoover's speech.

The thoroughly constructive character of his program as it affects labor and that, in turn, all other forms of activities, including farming, must be apparent to all who heard it or have read it. This feature is what distinguishes it from the ordinary political speech, which is almost always besprinkled with baldness and inconsistent promises. He began with the bald declaration, that the figures amply prove, that real wages and standards of living have improved more during the last seven and a half years of republican rule than during any similar period in the world's history. Its truthfulness cannot be gainsaid, and it is for the continuance in power of the party responsible for it as it would have been held responsible for contrary results, that he pleaded.

And why should it not be continued in power? What do the people desire and ask of their government other than that it assure a full, fair and free opportunity to work at profitable wages, to engage in the practice of a profession in a land where the people are prosperous and to embark in business with reasonable assurance of success? We may well lose ourselves in a maze of argument as to whether this or that policy of control of the liquor traffic is best or whether farm relief shall take this or that form or whether this or so should guide congressional action as to other matters of importance, but what does it profit a man if he wins his way on that point and then loses his job? For Mr. Hoover has stated the full truth when he laid down as his primary proposition that the very foundation of economic progress to our industrial and business employes is full and stable employment. This is not as material as it sounds, because before a man can accomplish anything outside the material world he must first firmly establish his position therein, which means in the job. It is the first step toward his declaration of economic independence without which the spirit cannot soar and life receive the needed leavening.

Equipped for Trip.
Fifty-five picked men with Commander Richard E. Byrd of the United States Navy have left for the Antarctic. They face six months to two years in this desolate country with its merciless elements, and during that time every domestic task, from sewing on buttons to washing clothes, must be done by the men themselves.
Out of 3,000 applicants, fifty-five volunteers were selected for the trip after passing rigid tests and physical examinations. Equipment of all kinds was selected with the same care, and the Maytag washer, with its sturdy construction, cast-aluminum tub and many other outstanding features was chosen as the washday servant.
Not only the success of the adventure, but the health and life of the men depend on proper equipment and careful methods of living. Cleanliness keeps away disease, and so they are prepared to wash their clothes in Maytags. On the icy slopes of the Antarctic Continent, when the men dress in heavy skins and furs, the Maytag will be of course be impractical, but on the supply ship and during the long journey through the tropics and on farther south where the red in the thermometer drops nearly out of sight, there will be many days when the Maytag will find plenty to do keeping clothes fresh and clean for fifty-five men.

Count the shirts, socks, breeches, blankets, handkerchiefs and what not for fifty-five men. There is no place at which to purchase new supplies when clothes wear out. The nearest store is many, many miles away, so enough clothes are taken to last two years.
From these clothes the Maytag will have to wash away the dirt. It won't be dust—not in the Antarctic, but it will be grease from engines, grease from guns or instruments, grease from seals which are captured—real stubborn dirt, but with a good supply of salt water soap, the Maytag will take it out. $20

Speaks At Norfolk On Constitution
J. E. Brittain of Wayne, gave an address from radio station WJAG at Norfolk Monday, the first of a series of talks during Constitution week. His subject was "Liberties and Privileges of Citizens Under the Constitution."
Congress cannot make any law respecting the establishment of a religion, nor can it interfere with religious worship, Mr. Brittain stated. Congress has no power to abridge freedom of the press or of speech. The constitution guarantees to the people the right to assemble peaceably and to petition the government for redress of grievances.

The power of the national government is hedged in many ways, Mr. Brittain stated. Congress cannot define treason. The constitution defines this and stipulates that no attainer of treason shall destroy the right of any relative of the culprit to inherit his property. Proceedings against persons charged with crime under the federal laws are controlled by several explicit provisions. Congress cannot act as a court by passing a bill of attainder condemning any person to death or to imprisonment or imposing any penalty whatsoever, he added. Congress can pass no law making an act a crime which was not a crime when committed, or adding new penalties after the commission of an act, or modifying the procedure in any such way as to make it substantially easier to convict.

The first ten amendments to the constitution, which are commonly known as the "bill of rights," established no new rights, the speaker said. They simply set down in black and white, in terse and vigorous language, landmarks for the future to which both courts and people could turn with certainty and apprehend with clearness.

Coryell Auto Co. Makes Improvements
W. C. Coryell of the Coryell Auto Company is bringing his Chevrolet headquarters up to the highest standard of equipment and efficiency. He now occupies the entire building and is installing complete Chevrolet equipment with complete Chevrolet parts. Two factory men are here putting in the improvements and arranging the parts. The enlarged and improved quarters permit increase of stock and facilities the work of the institution. It will have the same equipment and supplies found in every Chevrolet garage in the country.

The Teeth and Food
Dentists and physicians are agreed that the right kind of food has a great deal to do with the health of the teeth. In the much sugar and starch in the diet of the child is quite certain to produce soft, easily decayed teeth, while a wholesome diet of fruit, unsweetened cooked cereals and plenty of milk produces strong teeth not easily decayed.

Hears An Address By Former Pastor
 Bernard Pollard, who is spending a few weeks with relatives in Scappoose, Ore., a suburb of Portland, before returning to his studies at Leland Stanford university in Palo Alto, Calif., writes to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Pollard, stating that he heard Rev. John W. Beards give a lecture on Americanization at the Masonic hall. Rev. Beards was pastor of the Presbyterian church in Wayne several years ago. Robert, younger son of Rev. Beards, was with him at the meeting. John Beards, the elder son, will be graduated from high school this year. Bernard enjoyed Rev. Beards' address and also the visit with him.

Twenty Cars of Stock Are Shipped
 Stock shipment from Wayne for the week beginning September 12 include the following: Charles Meyer, jr., C. J. Lund, Henry Tamme, each one car of hogs to Sioux City; Dr. W. M. Hawkins, three cars of baby hives from Wayne county club calf to Sioux City; Gildersleeve & Noakes and Berres & Bergt, each two cars of cattle to Sioux City. Walter Herman, E. J. Auker, Ray Robinson, and C. J. Lund each shipped in a car of cattle. E. A. Surber shipped in four cars of sheep. W. F. Wright and Henry Tamme each shipped in a car of sheep.

Democrats Gather To Hear Address
 Democrats of this vicinity had a radio installed at the city hall Tuesday evening in order that those who wished might hear the address of Gov. Al Smith.

Birth Record
 A daughter was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Forsberg of Julesburg, Colo. Mr. Forsberg was formerly connected with the Golden Rule store here and is now manager of one of the stores at Julesburg.

Develops Tree Growth In West
 William F. Will of Carson, Wash., Son of Gus Will of Wayne, Is Raising Many Firs.

William F. Will, of Carson, Wash., son of Gus Will of Wayne, is developing a large industry in raising fir trees. The Portland Oregonian tells of his work as follows:
 "William F. Will, who makes his home in the Wind river valley near Carson, Wash., has a large family. It consists of 5,500,000 sturdy young Douglas fir trees now spreading their small branches into the life-giving sunshine and the Pacific northwest forest experiment station, United States forest service.
 "For Mr. Will is in direct charge of the Wind river nursery. He closely watches his charges for any signs of 'illness,' he thinks them as needed, transplants them, and finally makes them into bundles for replanting in all parts of the Pacific northwest, the United States and in many foreign countries.
 "The work of the Wind river experiment station and nursery is well known to foresters in this and other countries and also to many lumbermen, but to the people of Oregon and Washington it is still a sort of mystery.
 "Experiment Station Crows.
 "One drives to the station by either the North Bank or Columbia River highways, from Portland as far as Cascade Locks or Carson. From Carson, on the Washington side of the river, the station lies 10 miles up the Wind river valley, in the direction of Government Springs. There in a picturesque valley surrounded by rugged, wild peaks, is the station. Near houses where the forest service men live with their families, the pack-mules and horses, the weather station with its many strange instruments, and the nursery, these make up the settlement.
 "The work of the Wind river station is directed by Thornton T. Munger, who has his headquarters in Portland and it was first started in a small way 17 years ago. Its importance gradually increased as the government forest service found more and more problems to meet and more research work to be done. Today the station carries on work that includes the measuring of tree growth in various stands and at different altitudes, the study of natural regeneration of Douglas fir, the growing of trees from seed, the study of heredity in trees; and lastly, and of great importance to the logging industry of the Pacific northwest, is the weather station.
 "Weather Closely Watched.
 "The weather station is in charge of Gael Simson. Rainfall, duration of sunshine, wind direction and velocity, ground temperatures, evaporation, static and humidity are here recorded 24 hours a day. It is during the summer months when the ground and underbrush are dry and when puffs of actual smoke come from dry snags as the loggers' yarding lines whir across them, that the loggers of the region and Washington need to know exact conditions of the air; and it is then that the weather station is most appreciated.
 "Humidity readings are a comparatively new thing to the logging operator, but in the past few years he has come to find them invaluable. A large number of camps that carry fire insurance agree in their policies to suspend operations when humidity registers 30 or less. Many camps have their own psychrometers to measure humidity in their exact districts.
 "Fire Danger Checked.
 "Ground temperatures, evaporation, amount of rainfall and wind direction, as well as wind direction, all these play their part in indicating fire danger periods. Delicate instruments at the Wind river station record these and they are electrically transmitted to the station office where they are automatically recorded on paper forms.
 "On the sunshine recording instrument, for instance, a brief moment of sunshine will send the recording needle several points from its 'no sunshine' line.
 "In fire-danger weather readings are sent from the station to Seattle, where they are broadcast, and also to the many forest ranger stations in all parts of the northwest.
 "The extensive studies of the natural regeneration of Douglas fir which are being made at the station are in charge of Leo A. Isaac. Sample plots of fir trees are maintained on many parts of the Columbia, the Olympia and the Rainier national forests, and also on cut-over lands in private holdings. Mr. Isaac makes regular visits to all of these plots to determine, by scientific measurement, what each plot is doing in the way of growth. There is still a lot of timber in the Pacific northwest, but the cut-over areas steadily are becoming larger, and the day is not far distant when the growing of timber on these areas will be a most important matter.
 "One experiment carried out not long ago by Mr. Isaac and Mr. Simson is not only interesting because of its uniqueness but also because it indicates the exhaustive and painstaking work that is being done. 'How far will a Douglas fir tree scatter its seed and so be effective in seeding logged-off land?' That was the question. The two men rigged up a kite which carried, each time it was sent up, a carton in which were carried 25,000 fir seeds. When the kite had reached a height of 175 feet, approximately the height at which fir trees bear their cones, the bottom of the carton was tripped open by a string and the seeds released in a wind. The seeds fell on new snow and were counted. The test showed the distance and density with which fir seed is distributed by the wind and is valuable information in determining what steps must be taken to secure natural seeding of logged-off land from seed trees or from bodies of uncut timber.
 "At the Wind river nursery is a dry kiln in which Mr. Will dries and prepares fir seed for planting. Orders come from all over the world. There are approximately 42,000 seeds to the pound and a pound is valued at from $5 to $5.50. Fir trees planted from seed on May 4 this year have now attained an average height of more than an inch. The seeds are first planted in beds four feet by 12 feet, about 6,000 to the bed. Those now in the beds will be transplanted next spring. The output is 1,600,000 trees a season. There are fourteen acres in the nursery and, in addition to Douglas fir, there are 250,000 young trees of noble fir and smaller numbers of other species.
 "Mr. Will's associates told the writer that one of Mr. Will's many contributions to the nursery has been a root pruner for pruning easily and quickly the roots of young plants. This used to be done by hand. Mr. Will's device is worked in conjunction with a tractor and has made a labor saving of $1.75 per thousand trees pruned.
 "The device was so successful that soon there were callers at the station to see it work and how it was made. It is amusing to note that only recently a similar device appeared in California, and in that section, as the California Redwood root pruner, although it

New German Mystery Ship Sails Without Crew

At Wilhelmshaven, Germany, recently this armored cruiser, the Zohringert, went through difficult cruising maneuvers, signalled, fired and sent up a smoke screen although there was no one on board. It is the new radio-controlled ship perfected by German engineers. Control is from a torpedo boat a short distance away from the cruiser.

plain lots at $10.50 @ 12.00. Several lots ranged under $10.50. Feeding cows sold at $7.00 @ 8.75 and heifers at $10.00 @ 12.25.

The 11 leading markets received 146,000 hogs on the first two days, 6,100 less than last week, and 4,800 more than the light period a year ago.

The hog market carried evidence of being top-heavy last week, even though receipts were moderate. The trade averaged close to steady, Monday, but slipped 15 to 25c on the second session with some of the butcher grades off more.

On Tuesday, the top was $12.75 but few sales ranged above $12.50. Fair to good butchers sold at $12.00 @ 12.50 with the top to packers at $10.85 @ 11.25 to packers and up to $11.50 to buyers.

Sheep receipts amounted to 203,000 at the 11 leading markets on Monday and Tuesday, 30,000 short of a week ago.

Lambs took a 50c loss Monday, and strengthened a little on Tuesday, topping at $13.75. Ewes moved up a quarter, with the best quoted to $7.00.

Business.

Sioux City Journal: Since agriculture is the dominant interest in business in this state and corn the leading crop, the outlook for Iowa is somewhat remarkable in view of the government forecast for the season's yield. Iowa's corn production is estimated by the agricultural department as of September 1 to be 493,611,000 bushels, the greatest in the history of the state. The record heretofore has been held by 1925 when the corn production was approximately 1,000,000 bushels less than the estimate for this year.

Iowa's corn crop is not only the largest in the country this year as to production and acreage but its condition is the highest of all states in the corn belt. The Iowa crop is 93 per cent of normal. Other states are listed as follows: Pennsylvania, 81 per cent normal, production, 54,027,000; Ohio, 79 and 135,256,000; Indiana, 79 and 173,022,000; Illinois, 84 and 369,014,000; Michigan, 78 and 49,063,000; Wisconsin, 88 and 85,858,000; Minnesota, 83 and 149,476,000; Missouri, 84 and 101,678,000; South Dakota, 66 and 107,276,000; Nebraska, 62 and 197,672,000; Kansas, 83 and 181,353,000; Oklahoma, 80 and 72,735,000; Texas 74 and 101,780,000.

The Iowa corn crop figures become even more interesting when the report comes from Chicago that hogs had reached a new high mark, selling at $13.80, the best price on the market for two years. Iowa corn will go largely into the hogs, and if the price of the stock holds firm as it promises to do farm profits in the state will be appreciably increased.

A development in general business conditions that is important has come with the last report on freight car loadings. The total of 1,116,948 for the week ending September 1 was a record for the year. It was only 412 cars below the same week last year and a gain over the preceding week of more than 36,000. Practically everything but miscellaneous freight fell off for the week reported. Miscellaneous freight increased 17,052 cars, which, perhaps, is a more encouraging thing than if another single line had shown a gain. It indicated, of course, that general merchandise demands were greater and that in turn was proof enough that the buying power was stronger. The increase in car loadings for the week was not due to grain movement. Grain and grain products loadings fell off 3,206 from the figure of last year.

The gain in freight car loadings has been steady since the first of the year. Henceforth with crop movement still to come record figures are expected. It is believed to be possible for the year's total to surpass that of 1927 and even that of 1926.

Market Report.

Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.

MARKETS

(Furnished by Steele-Siman Co.)

Sioux City Stock Yards, Sept. 20.—Sioux City live stock interests turned their attention to the 13th annual stocker and feeder show, being held at the stock yards this week. Western ranchers also had their mind on the show last week and this market was flooded with cattle on Monday. The run amounted to better than 20,000 cattle and calves, beating the former record for the yards by 3,400.

The 11 leading markets of the country received 224,100 cattle on the first two days of the week, 51,000 more than last week and 100,000 more than the same days two weeks ago.

About 80 per cent of the cattle went to the stocker and feeder division, leaving a small share for the butcher stock trade and very few in the beef steer and yearling department.

Good and choice corned steers and yearlings held firm on the first two days but some of the warmed-up stock slipped a quarter. Two loads of medium weight steers sold at $17.85 Monday, a dime better than any loads have sold previously this season, and the highest price in about nine years on this market. A few sales were made at $16.50 @ 17.50 on good and choice material with fair shortfeds down to $15.00 and a few plain warmed-up under that range. Some of the grass steers sold to packers at $12.00 @ 13.00 but they did not get any of the good and choice grades, owing to the broad demands from dealers.

Corned cows and heifers were very scarce and the market remained unchanged. Cows sold up to $12.00 and heifers to $16.00, with choice light weights quoted to $17.00. Grass heifers eased off a little and grass cows slumped a quarter and more. Heifers sold at $10.50 @ 12.00 with cows mostly at $7.50 @ 9.50, a few going to $10.50. Canners and cutters held steady, selling largely at $6.00 @ 7.00.

The veal market held a firm basis. Good and choice light weights sold at $14.50 to 16.00. Bulls were steady, Bolognas sold at $8.00 @ 9.00 with heavy beef grades to $10.00 and yearlings to $12.00 and cut.

Choice stockers and feeders moved to a stronger basis, reaching the highest level ever attained on this market. Some of the medium grades held close to steady while plainer lots slipped 25 to 50 cents.

Three loads of fancy 1,250-pound feeders sold at $15.25, Tuesday. One load sold at $15.00, Monday, with two loads of real light cattle at $14.75. Numerous loads sold at $14.00 @ 14.50 with good kinds at $12.50 @ 14.00, and

Draped Neckline Features Fall Frocks

GODET SKIRT AND SCARF COLLARS ARE MOST PROMINENT FEATURES OF NEW STYLES—LACE AND SELF-TRIMMING COMPETE FOR FIRST HONORS

BY HARRIET

THE draped neckline and the godet skirt are two prominent modes this fall.

These have come into its own as decoration. Black, brown and dark blue all combine nicely with beige shades of lace. The new rich plum shades of silks and satins need a darker tone to enrich them. Embroideries will be as good as lace, the right touch of embroidery used, perhaps with self-material or with a lace edge. But, somehow, there's a certain tailored smartness about the frock that uses self-material alone for its trimming. Perhaps it is prejudice that we sports are a hangover from the sports era which has just glorified the American style. But in a season when there may be too much lace used, if one can find or make the frock with self-trimming, it is a good buy.

Godets are just as good for lace frocks as they are for tweed ensembles this year. With woman's desire to keep slender lines, even though clothes grow fuller, the godet answers the need for flare without fullness about the hips. The accepted skirt is the one with godets in front and perhaps with the back plain.

Two street dresses for autumn are shown this week which employ different combinations of godet skirts with scarf collars.

On the left we have the beige brown washable tricot in a fine figured pattern. It is a coat-dress style, with one end of the scarf thrown back over the shoulder after Milady slips into it and ties it shut with a bow on one hip.

Because of the suppleness of tricot, this scarf collar falls very gracefully, giving a becoming neckline and a lot of style to the garment. If Milady is not so thin as she would like to be, this dress might fasten with one of the season's smart buckles, instead of a bow.

With this dress a dark brown solet hat with irregular trim is worn. It has a delicious shade of caramel brown velvet for its banding and its perky bow trimming.

business girl, the college girl or the young matron. It is made of marron washable satin, with a long, eight-inch wide scarf collar that can be tied in a bow in the back, with its ends hanging, or it can be thrown around the neck gracefully, as this is done.

Thirty-Dollar-a-Week Job May Be Step Toward White House Wedding

THIRTY dollars a week may not be a magnificent income. But if a young man has ambition, perseverance and Yankee ingenuity it can be the beginning of a yearly salary sufficient for two people in love, at least—to get along on.

If a young girl in Connecticut is reasoning along these lines, the strains of a wedding march may be heard in the beautiful home at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, D. C., before the lease of the present tenants expire.

Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of Connecticut's governor, and John Coolidge, are pictured here on the steps of the Trumbull summer home.

Admits "Understanding"

This, from latest reports, would seem to be the status of the most talked about romance in America today—the "understanding" which exists between charming Florence Trumbull, daughter of the governor of Connecticut, and young John Coolidge, only son of the president and Mrs. Coolidge.

At least, "understanding" is what Miss Trumbull calls it. Reports of an engagement are premature, she assured news gatherers upon her recent arrival in New York from abroad, because John isn't earning enough to get married on.

But the use of that word "understanding" was enough to satisfy romantic millions, who see the possibility of a "White House wedding" before the Coolidges turn over the executive mansion to their successors.

one, the Trumbulls called often. Those who know John's mother and his fiancée remark the similarity in the personalities of the two. Both are persons of charm, poise and dignity. This means, among other things, that there will be no more publicity connected with their romance than Miss Trumbull can help. She has consistently refused to let herself be "misunderstood" in any of her references to herself and John. She has been frank, however, and this, primarily, is what has raised the hopes of those who thrill at the mention of a romantic wedding with the White House prominent in the background.

In appearance, John's fiancée is not "fapperish." She is above medium height, has reddish gold hair, an aristocratic and somewhat pliant nose. She loves to dance, read, to skate and indulge in all the normal outdoor sports that the typical American girl today enjoys.

Again like her rumored mother-in-law-to-be, Miss Trumbull parties questions of interviewers.

"Really, my opinions are still changing. I haven't settled convictions yet," is one of her favorite replies to tactless questioners.

But—there is an "understanding."

Frequent Visitors

Friends of the couple believe that the ceremony cannot be far off. While no announcement, of course, has been made by the parents of either, amateur social detectives place a great stock in the fact that the Trumbulls and the Coolidges were not even acquainted before John and Florence began "dating." Now, the Trumbulls are frequent White House guests. Even more significant, they say, is the fact that during Mrs. Coolidge's illness last winter, when the White House was barred to most everybody, the Trumbulls were frequent visitors.

Pomp Follows French Marshal to Grave

With all the pomp and ceremony which the French army reserves for the state burials of its great commanders, the body of Marshal Marie Emile Fayolle is shown being drawn to the grave. All the marshals of the French army, aged Marshal Joffre excepted, marched in the stately procession. This picture shows the coffin on the gun-carriage surrounded by a marching escort of French army notables, including Marshals Petain, Foch and Franchet d'Esperey.

Many Premiums Out.
 Livestock premiums have already been paid to prize winners in the various departments and premiums on other exhibits will be sent as soon as possible.
Ted North Company Here.
 Ted North players, a theatrical company of twenty-five, presented dramatic shows during fair week. Many concessions and stands were on the grounds. The Methodist, Catholic, Baptist and St. Paul Lutheran ladies served meals.
Storm Alarms Many.
 The grandstand at the fair grounds was crowded with people Thursday when the tornadoes veered northeast Nebraska and South Dakota. Clouds were threatening and the sudden change of temperature frightened many and hurried them home. Only a light rain fell here.
 The wind in the storm of Tuesday night last week blew down one of the hog tents, but this was put in place the same evening.
Officials and all others who helped make the fair a success deserve much credit. Their great satisfaction lies in the fact that the county is in a northeast Nebraska enjoyed the exhibits and entertainment.

County To Aid Stricken Area
 This and the concrete slab in which it was set has been pulled from the ground.
 The car belonging to Mr. Larson had the engine ripped out of it and carried a distance into a field. The body of the machine lies near the ground and is knotted into twists which resemble the curls in hair against it has been treated with a permanent waving machine. The engine was torn from the car which Miss Smith had on the grounds and the body of this has not been found.
 The Larson house, which stands on the hill, was not touched.
Place Cleaned Entirely.
 One farm east of Pender is cleaned of buildings and trees better than the work could have been done had one set out with this object in mind. Only the foundations of buildings and the sidewalk are there. No timber, no furniture, in fact nothing, remains on the hill top which was once the home of a good-sized family. Where the stove, auto, and other heavy articles were carried remains a mystery. The family was saved by seeking shelter in a cave.
 One horse on the farm, which was carried two miles by the storm, is the only horse which this farmer has. Others were killed or were so badly maimed that they had to be killed. Many hogs and chickens were lost. A few hogs, which were on the farm and not in the path of the storm, wander about the place trying in vain to find something to eat.
 No vegetation remains in the path of the tornado. Huge trees are twisted off as though they were mere weeds. Only stumps remain. Corn in some fields can not be seen. Some is plastered with mud and pounded into the ground. Other corn has all ears removed and the stalks stick up alone.
 This farm near Pender was destroyed by a similar storm twenty years ago.
Horses Are Unharnessed.
 On one farm near Pender horses were left standing in stalls and the harness was removed from them, no injury resulting to the animals.
 Buildings on a farm south of Pender, near the starting point of the storm, were wrecked but most of the lumber lies piled on the place. A car and truck which were in a garage are gone and the owner has not yet been able to find a piece of either. Broken dishes, twisted iron bedsteads and other articles are in the pile of debris. Other furniture, clothing, etc., have been scattered to the winds. A whole grove of trees near the place has the tops chewed off, and trees, hay, corn, furniture and all are packed into a dense mass. The family on this place was saved by seeking shelter in a cave.
 One of the framish tricks of the tornado rammed a tree through a residence near Hooper, no part of the house being damaged excepting at this point.
Chooses New Car.
 One man who had just driven home a new car and who left the machine standing by an old one in the yard when he saw the storm and sought shelter in a cave, returned to the yard after the tornado to find that the new car was gone and the old one remained.
 Miss Helen Rooney, teacher who was killed near Homer, was carried some distance by the wind and when found had three large tree limbs over her body and a door knob in one hand. Over her face lay a sheet from a book on which was a copy of the poem, "The Tempest." Miss Rooney had realized that a storm was coming and saw that all of her pupils got home. When urged to leave, she stated that she was not afraid of any storm. It will never be known whether she was trying to hold the door shut or was trying to escape from the building when the structure was destroyed and she lost her life.
 Miss Florence Beckenhauer, who teaches in Winnebago, states that the suction of the storm was so great during the storm that doors of the building could not be opened.
 Destruction wrought by the storm is being repaired as fast as possible. Gifts of money, clothing and food will aid the sufferers until they can provide for themselves.
Red Cross To Aid.
 The Wayne county chapter of the Red Cross received the following telegram from St. Louis headquarters concerning aid for the stricken area:
 "On the basis of authentic information now received through our representatives in the field it is clear that funds in excess of those which can be supplied by the communities involved will be needed for the relief of those affected by the disastrous tornadoes in Nebraska and South Dakota. The American Red Cross now has six trained workers in the disaster area and will make substantial contribution to relief fund. Your chapter should immediately inaugurate an aggressive campaign for contributions accepting $300 as your quota. Every community in your jurisdiction should participate."
 Wayne county officers of the Red Cross are Mrs. E. W. Huse, Mrs. H. H. Hahn and W. M. Orr, and they will take charge of forwarding gifts left at the banks.
 It looks as though President Coolidge did not have much confidence in the Kellogg anti-war treaties, as he is continuing his target practice. -Miami Herald.

Graceful Lines Mark New Fall Styles
 CHARMING SIMPLICITY OF NEW DESIGNS DIRECT ATTENTION TO THE WEARER RATHER THAN TO THE CLOTHES THEMSELVES

BY HARRIET

WHETHER it is furs you are buying or sports wear, the graceful, subtle garment is the one to select for autumn this season. For it is to be a graceful, gracious year with styles. They flatter women, and the correct attire is that which emphasizes the beauty and charm of the wearer rather than the bizarre kind that attracts attention to the clothes rather than to the woman.

In line with this new philosophy of subdued beauty in clothes, we have a new range of colors. Tawny autumn tones and dull reds are excellent. Gray comes into its own, in new bluish tints that blend right into the new medium blue that promises popularity.

These next few weeks will see fur sales of all kinds at which many a good bargain can be purchased—provided you know exactly what you want. There are always many novelties in fur coats. But one should buy a staple for the first fur coat; novelties may come later.

I show today one of the better of the new coats, the type that is eminently correct, stunning, luxurious and vastly becoming.

Fashioned in Japanese mink it has that luxurious slinky beauty that furs should have. It is cut on more ample lines than last season's garments, with the fuller sleeves that will be the thing this year.

Striking and a perfect frame for a pretty face is the fan-shaped collar of butter colored ermine. Bands of the ermine are inserted in the melon-shaped cuffs, another new note this season. This coat emphasizes the predominance of the light-dark modes this year.

Four shades of gray go into the making of the smart sweater suit shown today. The evening lines of the stripes show again the tendency towards more graceful effects than those of the jagged, criss-cross blatant angles of the summer's decorations.

The skirt of this frock is circulatory, with the light-yeo hip line that will prevail this year. It is of the darkest tone of gray, unheveled by any bit of trimming. The body of the jumper and the sleeves are of dark gray, with two tones of lighter gray and a medium gray silk finishing a smart eye.

One should note the collar, of silk, that knots in front like a regular kerchief. This is indicative of the newer, more flattering necklines that the season sponsors.

For next to sleeves and their treatments, necklines still come in for a large share of attention.

Some of the new neck touches are fur collars, usually little narrow strips of fur, lace plastrons, lace and ribbon yokes and regular set-in yokes of embroidered or jeweled fabrics.

In spite of much talk of extreme dressiness and very full skirts, the silhouette tends to remain gracefully clinging and the better frocks comparatively devoid of fussiness. Ornaments take the form of very rich decoration in many cases in self-color, rather than excessive use of flowers and ribbons just stuck on.

In the Eighties—And Now

As a minkin parade in London recently, Mijsnska, the famous model wore this period dress of 1880 (right) and a modern dress (left) to show how completely Dame Fashion has changed her mind since that pre-airplane age. The modern gown is said to illustrate the correct gown for 1928.

William Beckenhauer and daughter, Miss Faye, were in Sioux City Thursday. They drove through the territory in which the tornado passed that afternoon. They went to Winnebago to see Miss Florence Beckenhauer. The suction of the wind in the storm was so great there that teachers could not force the doors of the school building open. They took the pupils to the basement and let them sing while the storm raged. Afterward a number of the pupils found their homes blown away. Mr. Beckenhauer saw a path about a mile wide from Sioux City to Winnebago in which the wind had torn buildings and trees.

Play Ball Order In New Picture

The command to "Play Ball!" substituted for the order "Camera!" when Richard Dix started his new starring picture for Paramount, "Warming Up."

For "Warming Up" is a story of the baseball diamond, with the popular star to offer a composite of Babe Ruth, Roger Hornsby, Ty Cobb and John McGraw.

The picture is an original by Sam Mintz. Ray Harris was assigned to write the adaptation and the screen play.

The picture was directed by Fred Newmeyer, who recently completed a picture for Universal and who made his bid for fame as a director for Harold Lloyd.

"Warming Up," which will show at the Crystal theatre September 23 and 24, is expected by Paramount officials to ring again the high note of popular acclaim that sounded after release of the Dix picture, "The Quarterback."

This story of the baseball lots is filled with machine gun action, comical situations abound and the role for the star is said to be exactly suited to his athletic talents.

Invited to inspect. Dr. A. L. Bixby in Lincoln Journal. Next year, if he is unhampered by political activities—and an off year should find him quite at liberty in the early autumn—we would like to welcome Franklin D. Roosevelt to the Nebraska state fair, and have him see the exhibits, along with the people who make them, and the thousands and thousands who buy season tickets and stay through for the very joy of seeing as much as one possibly can in a week of what Nebraska can produce of hay, grain, fruit, livestock and manufactured goods.

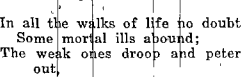

It is of western states the chief, it fairly rolls in fat; And while some howl for farm relief, And some for this and that, Those who incline to work and save Are not disposed to rant and rave.

In all the walks of life no doubt Some mortal ills abound; The weak ones droop and peter out, So runs the world around. He who has nothing, gets the razz And straightway loses all he has.

The rich old rooster proudly crows, If crowing suits his mind; Death comes, and then away he goes And leaves his wealth behind. The ones who share it are content, And say "It's just as well he went."

Nebraska moves, without a hitch, A state that's fairly fixed; Some middling poor, some very rich, And many just betwixt. The multitude is fairly clad, Well-housed, well-fed—that's not so bad.

Beauty

The poet has said "A thing of beauty is a joy forever." This expression is a truly fitting description of any one of our line of caskets which are on display in our stock room.

The love of beauty is universal. In a casket it lends dignity and cloaks sorrow. Such a casket is a tribute to the character of the one gone before.

To Be True Blue. York Republican: One of the school exhibits at the state fair shows this motto, strikingly embellished with a drawing of Uncle Sam: "Be a true blue American." There are not many citizens who do not consciously or unconsciously claim company with that illustrious group. They salute when the flag is flown. They rise when the national anthem is played. They regard the sacred traditions of their country with passionate jealousy. When the call to action comes they answer quickly. But these acts, worthy as they are, do not mark the true blue American. The test of a good citizen is made not when patriotism runs at high tide. It is when he is about his daily duties. It is when his pulses are normal and his citizenship is functioning unostentatiously. If then he observes constitutional authority, obeys the laws, respects the rights of his neighbors near and far, and does not try to make license of liberty, he may win the right to be called a true blue American.

Start To Survey For New Railroad

Yankton, S. D., Sept. 7.—Offices of the Yankton, Norfolk and Southern Railway company, recently opened here, announced today engineers would start Monday on permanent survey of the route of the proposed rail line from Yankton to Norfolk, Nebr., establishing grades and gathering necessary data for submission to contractors. Work will commence from Yankton south and will cover the entire seventy miles of the proposed road.

General Manager A. S. King of Omaha is in charge of the local office. Russell T. Loth, of Minneapolis, traffic expert, has been appointed traffic manager and L. V. Carter, superintendent.

Childs Family Is Making Good

Members of the A. E. Childs family of Osmond are making good in their school work according to the following from the Osmond Republic of August 29:

"Milton, Maurice, Gale and Weldon Childs returned from a trip to the Black Hills, Sunday. Milton will leave for Sundance, Wyo., the latter part of this week, where he will teach in the Sundance schools as athletic coach and commercial instructor. Maurice will go to Rapid City, S. D., with his brother, and plans to enter State School of Mines at that city, entering this for Freshman year. Gale Childs will teach at Wynot, Nebr., this year and leaves the latter part of the week to take up his duties as instructor in the Wynot school. Weldon will be a senior in Osmond school this year.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Childs may well be proud of their sons who have finished the Osmond high school courses, and entered upon their chosen professions, that of educating the youth of the land, or seeking greater knowledge in the educational institutions of the U. S. A."

Two Tornadoes Visit Vicinity

Ten Are Killed, Many Injured and Much Property Lost in Storms Thursday.

Acts of Heroism

Teachers in School Houses and Others Do All Possible to Save Lives.

Ten persons lost their lives, more than 100 were injured and property estimated at $1,000,000 was destroyed Thursday afternoon in tornadoes which swept northeastern Nebraska and southeastern South Dakota. One of the twisters apparently started about seven miles southeast of Pender, and left death and destruction in its fifty-mile path toward Sioux City. The storm tore through Walthill, Winnebago, Homer and Dakota City. The other tornado started near Fordyce, Neb., and traveled northward into South Dakota, nearly wiping out the town of Davis.

Six persons lost their lives in the Nebraska twister and four were killed in the other. About 100 were injured and some probably fatally.

Those killed are the following: Miss Helen Rooney, of South Sioux City, killed when caught beneath wreckage of her school house near Homer, Neb.

Mary Belt, 10-year-old pupil of wrecked school near Walthill, Neb. Crushed to death beneath school piano.

Kenneth Norris, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Norris, of Winnebago, Neb., died in Sioux City hospital from injuries suffered in school house near Walthill.

Frank K. Rehnbeck, of Omaha, died in hospital at Pender, Neb., from injuries suffered when building on which he was working was demolished.

Baby Kunzi, 3-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kunzi, of near Winnebago, Neb., found dead in a straw stack half-mile from its home.

Unidentified farmer residing near Bancroft, Neb.

James Foley, 58, Yankton, S. D.

Oscar Haugen, 36, farmer of near Yankton.

Mildred Sylliasen, 11, of near Yankton.

Mrs. Jake Kremer, 21, of Davis, S. D.

Relief trains were sent from Sioux City to the stricken area to provide medical and surgical aid, and to give shelter, clothing and food to the victims.

Resembles Battle Field: Beginning at Pender and extending to Sioux City the territory resembles a stricken battle field. Houses, barns and other buildings are many of them broken into splinters and scattered to the winds. Others are crushed on their foundations. Groves of trees are uprooted. Livestock, killed and injured, was scattered over the country. Corn is blown away in some fields and is flattened into the ground in other fields.

School Is Destroyed. Twenty-six children were in a school five miles from Walthill with their teacher, Miss Phyllis Stewart, when the storm broke, and the building was crushed into splinters. Mary Belt, 8, was killed. Miss Stewart sustained a broken ankle and ribs when struck by a piano. Eugene Keyser, farmer, who was going to the school to get his son, saw the clouds and warned Miss Stewart. Mr. Keyser and Miss Stewart instructed the children to join hands and drop to the floor. Miss Stewart started to play on the piano when the storm struck, pinning some of the children beneath the debris and hurling others as far as 300 feet. Mr. Keyser was also injured.

The Kunzie baby of Homer was torn from his mother's arms and carried a half mile from the home. The infant was found about six hours later, dead, in a straw pile on a neighbor's farm. About twenty-five buildings in and near Dakota City were demolished. The damage at that place was estimated to be about $100,000. The Northwestern railroad station was blown down. Byron Buchanan, agent, and Raymond Ream, manager of the Farmers elevator, who were in the building, were injured.

Ten families were homeless at Dakota City. The garage of Wm. Roltz was the largest business building wrecked.

Teacher Is Killed. The body of Miss Rooney, the young school teacher who was killed near Homer, was found among the ruins of the buildings, the door knob of the schoolhouse door, clutched in her hand. She had sent the children home so none of her pupils were injured. What prompted her to remain will be a secret sealed by death, but she evidently had attempted to match her frail strength against the wild force of the wind. She must have been standing at the door, attempting to hold it shut, when the entire schoolhouse was lifted from its foundation and hurled to the ground.

At least ten farm buildings were demolished near Homer, Neb. The farms were those of Ed Bardhear, south of Homer; Arthur Harris, George Larson, Harry O'Connor and Ed Metz.

Frank Fletcher of Homer, was milking cows at the Richard Harris farm when the wind demolished the barn.

Mrs. Lewis Larson was able to save herself and son at Dakota City by clinging to a telephone pole and dodging flying shingles. Frank Rehnbeck and Frank Nonick were working in a building near Pender when the structure was demolished and the former was killed.

Places near Pender where loss was total are: John D. Fresco, jr., Albert Ronseld, Wilmer Potter, Joe Neill and H. A. Balin.

Dale Larson, young farmer near Pender, rushed to the school taught by Miss Dorothy Smith when he saw the storm approach. He led the teacher and children into a cave on the school property. The school was twisted from its foundation.

Many other acts of heroism saved lives in the storm area. Considerable part of the property loss is protected by insurance.

Hit and Run Drivers. York Republican: A coroner's jury, investigating the circumstances surrounding the death of a little girl on the streets of York, made plain the views of its members about drivers who do not show the common feelings of interest and compassion with which humans are presumed to be endowed.

A driver ran down a child, inflicted a fatal injury, and then proceeded on his way without returning to render assistance or show his concern. The jury conceived it a duty to express their criticisms of his conduct and to sound a warning to other drivers who do not observe the common duties of humanity.

There are times when circumstances make a fatality unavoidable. This was one of them. The driver could have diverted hostile criticism from himself and soothed the grief of the stricken parents by offering to render any service within his power. But he failed to do it. It may be seriously questioned whether that kind of a driver should be allowed the liberty of the road.

Week's Review of Herald Exchanges

The eleventh oil station is being constructed in Crofton. John Rich bought the tire and battery business of H. R. Flores in West Point.

Mrs. Joseph Schoenfeld of Madison, died September 1 at the age of 70 years. John Beckbohm and Miss Mary Wubbenhorst of Wisner, were married September 12.

Jesse Waite and Miss Rosina Thies of Pilger, were married on September 4 in Wisner. Miss Helen Hawks and Ray W. Norton of Elgin, were married September 10 at O'Neill.

Books of the Cedar county officers will be audited this fall. The cost will be about $750. Miss Martha Watz of Hartington, and Frank Eichhoff of Crofton, were married September 11.

Frank W. Voeks purchased the interest of A. O. Schramm in the Pierce artificial ice plant and filling station. A representative of the good roads association of the state spoke at Wausa Wednesday. The blind played.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George Holtzclaw of Pierce, died when his head was caught between rounds of his crib. Richard M. Finn of Randolph, died Sunday of last week in Norfolk, aged 62 years. His wife and five children survive.

August Reichinger bought an 80-acre farm near West Point from the Ludwig Prawitz estate, the price being $181 per acre. Laurel is sinking a second test well to find water supply for the town. Every effort to date has been of no avail in providing a new well for the city.

Lawrence G. Phipps had left the large solid door unlocked leading up to the jail on fourth floor of the courthouse out of compassion for other prisoners who complained earlier in the evening of the stifling closeness of the cells. The Preston family held a reunion at Laurel September 9 and all members of the family were present for the first time in years.

Buck Kelly's Glands. Omaha World Herald: Buck Kelly is presumably as dead as California law requires him to be but his glands, according to our understanding, go marching on.

John Sohier of Randolph, is in a Sioux City hospital with a fractured skull, the result of an automobile accident last week. Doctors give hopes of his recovery. The James Saunders farm near Dixon was sold to N. B. Curry of Coleridge, for $75.50 per acre.

A new bank, to be known as the Nebraska State Bank, will be organized in Plainview in October. The town has been without banking facilities for a few weeks. Members of the state railway commission will be in Madison Thursday morning, September 20, to hear the evidence in the request of the Madison Telephone company for a raise in rates.

Contractors plan to finish the grading of the Sunshine highway within the next two weeks, and the inspection will then take place, and perhaps some minor work will have to be made, before acceptance. Velma, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Krueger of Pilger, died Sunday of last week from a blood disease which specialists had been trying to cure for some time.

Geologists have recently become somewhat excited over the possible discovery of oil in the vicinity of O'Neill and as a result have leased 15,000 acres 17 miles northwest of that city on which they will start drilling operations immediately. E. H. Polley, field secretary of the Nebraska Good Roads association, will be in Randolph this Thursday at a good roads meeting being arranged for that day.

The board of directors of the Antelope County Mutual Telephone Co. held a meeting last week at Elgin for the purpose of considering an offer for the purchase of the company by the Madison Telephone Co., which is a subsidiary of the Continental Telephone Co. James McLean, pioneer citizen of Randolph, died Tuesday of last week at the age of 82 years.

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin. Answers to last week's questions: 1. Arthur J. Weaver. 2. Albinus Nance, who was 30 years old when elected governor.

Only two cities in Nebraska have streetcar facilities now, Omaha and Lincoln. Hastings, Kearney, Nebraska City and Red Cloud at one time had street cars, lines all operated by horse or mule power except the system at Kearney, which was electric.

Omaha and Lincoln came near being connected by electric cars. About twenty-five years ago right of way was purchased and most of the grading done, but the company became involved in financial difficulties and all work ceased after rail connections had been made between Lincoln and Bethany Heights.

Just a reminder to sportsmen. The open season on ducks, geese and waterfowl is from Sept. 16 to Dec. 31, inclusive. Prairie chicken and grouse, Oct. 1 to Nov. 1, inclusive; Jack and Wilson snipe, Sept. 16 to Dec. 31, inclusive.

The bitter truth might as well be told. Nebraska's 1928 corn will not be the "bumper" predicted August 1. Hot dry weather in August, coupled with a cold and late spring, caused an immense amount of damage in large areas of the state, materially reducing the estimates.

Unless legal complications arise, Omaha will vote on an $800,000 bond issue at the next general election for the purpose of erecting a non-toll bridge across the Missouri river. If Council Bluffs and Pottawattamie County, Iowa, fail to cooperate the construction will have to be postponed.

A count of the vehicular traffic across the North Platte river bridge between Gering and Scottsbluff, covering a period of seven days, revealed an average of more than four thousand vehicles a day. It is the busiest intra-state bridge in Nebraska.

Speaking of the social problem in Nebraska, the state maintains three institutions for females, not counting the two soldiers' homes and the state prison, which are not in any sense reformatories. The girls' industrial school is located at Geneva, the Girls' Reformatory is located at York and the Home for Erring Women is located at Milford.

Ransom, who was a member from Otoe county, if memory is not at fault. At that time Ransom represented a republican constituency. Later he was a democratic senator from Douglas county and introduced the bill requiring street car companies to provide motormen and conductors with closed vestibules in winter.

feet in the air and only has 200 feet more to go. Owing to a financial shortage in Omaha, the street lighting will be curtailed, one-third by turning off part of the lights and by turning on those left in commission a little later in the evening and turning them off a little earlier in the morning.
