Wayne People Home From Trip To West

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Oman arrived home last Thursday evening from an extended automobile trip through the northwest. They traveled about 6,500 miles and were gone eleven weeks. Leaving here, Mr. and Mrs. Oman drove to Dalton, and the former spent a month looking after harvest of wheat on his land. The yield near Dalton is good this year. They then went to Worland, Wyo., to visit their daughter, Mrs. Jason Gorst, and husband. The latter two accompanied them from there through Yellowstone national park and through Montana to Clarkson, Wash., where they visited another daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oman, Mrs. H. Lynn Tuttle. Mrs. Gorst returned to Wyoming after spending a few days in Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Oman, Mrs. Gorst and Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle and son then drove to northern Idaho, British Columbia, Lake Louise, Banff, Calgary and to southern Alberta where Mr. Tuttle has land. Mr. Tuttle remained there to look after harvest of wheat and the others went back to Clarkson to the Tuttle home. The Omans and Mrs. Gorst came back to Worland and the first named returned home, stopping again at Dalton. About half of the roads traveled were good and the rest were terrible, the Omans found. In Montana and in parts of Canada they found that the stone roads are worn and are full of holes which make very rough riding. Of course very little money is available for road building in the mountain districts. Crops of wheat are good in the irrigated districts of Wyoming and Montana, also near Spokane, and Walla Walla, Wash., and Pendleton, Ore. Wheat was of excellent stand south of Calgary, Canada, this year also. The Omans traveled most of the journey through timber and mining sections. Fruit crops in the northwest are excellent this season, the large quantity being of finest quality. On account of the plentifulness of it, however, the prices the producers receive are rather low.

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 18 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, Oct. 4, 1928. Vol. 2. Have you ever noticed? At election time, people don't seem to care so much who wins, as who gets beaten. We can furnish you anything for that new home of yours but the inclination. When you get that, see us. Well, the church I stay away from when I don't go, is the Methodist. There's a long, hard winter ahead. See us for your coal supply. Barber—"Will you have anything on your face when I've finished?" Customer—"Well, it doesn't seem likely." You can't hide a barn! No matter how it looks, the public is bound to see it. That's the reason a modern barn adds so much to the appearance of the farm. See us about one for your farm. We know a man who has told us the same story eleven times. "EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING WITH"

Famous Picture Will Come Here

"The King of Kings", undoubtedly the greatest picture drama of all time, dealing with the last two years of the life of Jesus, will be presented in this city October 14, 15, 16 and 17 at the Gay theatre. This is the remarkable work on which the eminent director, Cecil B. DeMille spent more than a year in the making for Pathe Exchange, Inc., from an adaptation made by Jeanie Macpherson, based on the New Testament narrative. In securing this production for his theatre, Manager Elmer Gallely guaranteed the highest figure ever paid for a motion picture in this city in order to give the people of this modern day, the same opportunity to see the wondrous life-drama of Jesus as was given to the people of Judea nineteen hundred years ago. The picture has enjoyed sensational success in all of the larger cities and has been more widely discussed by the press, clergy and laity than any other picture since the celebrated "Birth of a Nation." The reasons for its popularity are not hard to find because of the fact that it tells the world's greatest story in a reverent dramatization of the life of Jesus, and, above all, it brings a vision that truly visualizes and realizes the infinite tenderness, humanity and uplift of the New Testament story. "The King of Kings" is at present being presented in Europe and Australia for the first time and it is predicted that it will attain wider distribution throughout the entire world than any other picture ever made by an American producer. To quote the words of the Literary Digest: "This film will be seen around the world, even perhaps in the very land where the Divine Tragedy was enacted 2,000 years ago." We expect to see the next creation of General Motors look something like a camel in front and a brown derby in the rear. The Thomas E. Pickerill Service.

GOVERNOR of Nebraska

As President of the Constitutional Convention he rendered a great public service in directing the work of that body successfully and so economically that he turned back part of its appropriation to the state treasury.

A Most Unusual Endorsement

During the 1925 session of the Nebraska Legislature when President Codrill was considering Cabinet selections, the following resolution was unanimously passed in the House, every member present voting for it:

"WHEREAS, it has been widely published that the name of Honorable A. J. Weaver of Falls City, Nebraska, is being urged before the President as a suitable person for the office of Secretary of Agriculture in the Cabinet of the United States; and

WHEREAS, the Honorable A. J. Weaver being a practical farmer and a man of great executive ability in business affairs and of wide experience in public affairs, and is accordingly well qualified by reason of experience and ability for a place in the Cabinet; therefore

"BE IT RESOLVED by the House of Representatives of the State of Nebraska, that we heartily endorse Mr. Weaver for this position and strongly urge the President to recognize the agricultural interests of the great west by selecting him for this position."

A similar resolution was passed by unanimous vote in the Nebraska senate on the same day:

Arthur J. Weaver is still a Practical Farmer
a Man of Great Executive Ability of Wide Experience in Public Affairs
Exceedingly Well Qualified by Reason of Experience and Ability."

High Tribute To Hoover Recalled

Chicago Drivers Journal, Sept. 29: Hoover workers call attention to the fact that the live stock committee of the agricultural advisory committee under the national food administration, of which Herbert Hoover was the head during the world war, had as its chief duty the giving of expert advice to Mr. Hoover concerning all matters relating to the purchase and distribution of live stock and meats.

They further cite that on Jan. 28, 1919, this committee, the war being over and its work completed, held its final meeting in Washington before disbanding in this meeting it passed a series of resolutions which included this: "Be it resolved by the live stock committee of the national agricultural advisory committee, now in session in Washington, that we here record our high sense of appreciation of the extraordinary ability and uniform fairness with which Herbert Hoover has met and discharged the weighty responsibilities which have devolved upon him in stimulating home production without which we would now be facing a world shortage of food and consequent higher cost of living.

It is set out that the resolutions were passed because "there has come to the attention of the live stock committee of the national agricultural advisory committee through press reports and certain public statements, certain criticisms of the United States food administration," which reports, the resolutions say, indicate "in some quarters a lamentable lack of knowledge respecting basic facts connected with the stimulation of production, increase of conservation and control of distribution of foods."

An example of the kind of chic that can be expected of the new winter styles is shown here. At the left is an afternoon outfit of Celonese satin and Celonese velvet. Combined materials are also to be used in hats, as shown by the plush and Sheffland felt chapeau on the right. Many Fabrics Blend Among the best combinations are fur and repps; broadcloths and tweeds for coats and satins and velvets for frocks. Velvets are combined successfully with lame this year, too and even with lace and chiffon. But there is an affinity between satin and velvet that is not enough to express the joyous freedom from regularity and uniformity that styles now feel. There is, of course, more chance for individuality when two fabrics are used in each costume, instead of one.

Friday, October 12

50 Head—6 Fall Boars, 35 Spring Boars, 10 Fall and Spring Gilts

An Offering High Above the Usual Schug Standard

The Schug herd is one of the oldest in the West and some great offerings have been sold. From the point of pedigree, individual excellence and proper development, we know the boars that sell October 12th have never been equalled in a sale-draft from this farm. There is a good variety of new blood for old customers, together with the old stabilized Schug breeding that has satisfied Poland buyers for over 25 years.

Superior and The Tempter

Superior is unquestionably one of the greatest sons of the Night Hawk and one of the big boars of last season. He has made good as a sire and has transmitted the great size and quality, which made him so popular to his progeny. Some of the best things selling are by this boar. The Tempter, doing his second year's service, is the sire of many good things. He is a son of The Revenue, noted Iowa boar and faultlessly bred along the best big blood lines.

Choice New Breeding in the Herd

Four good pigs by Black Hawk from a New Hope dam are attractive. Three boars by Sunny Boy by Sunbeam, two by The Peacock from a dam by The Answer, as well as other attractions. People who cannot use the Schug breeding will be satisfied with these boars.

Leadership.

Lincoln Journal: The painful doubt obtrudes that Governor Smith failed to submit his St. Paul speech to the careful scrutiny of his own national chairman. It was devoted to an arraignment of the present administration, which he says has lacked leadership. As a result it was necessary for republican progressives when they desired to secure results to step outside their own party, he said. But it was Calvin Coolidge who is the presumptive leader of the nation, and it was John J. Raskob, the present democratic national chairman, who was so well pleased with the conduct of affairs by the president that he joined the movement to draft Coolidge. If Coolidge could have been drafted, Mr. Raskob, it is reasonable to assume, would be supporting the republican nominees and not those of Governor Smith's party. As it is Smith has offered him an opportunity for a joint debate.

But what leadership does Mr. Smith propose for that which now exists? Surely not his own. The majority of the democrats in senate and house are dry, and their spokesmen have made it plain that they have the will and the votes to make ineffective any attempt on the part of Smith to amend the Volstead law or repeal prohibition. The democratic senatorial candidate from this state promises to help them. The majority of them are opposed to the sort of tariff protection Smith champions, and they will write the bill that a democratic congress will pass, not Smith.

The democratic candidate for president weeps with a fervor great enough to excite the envy of the most tearful crocodile at the spectacle of a half-dozen so-called republican progressive senators repudiating the leadership of Coolidge, and is utterly unable to visualize the certainty that a majority of the senators of his own party will walk out on him should he become president, and start heading them around on issues he himself says are important.

Leadership? Why it is the last issue Smith ought to raise as between himself and Hoover before the American voters. Imagine Woodrow Wilson, W. J. Bryan, Theodore Roosevelt or Herbert Hoover making speechmaking tours of the country with so little confidence in their own grasp of affairs as to require carrying with them, as does Smith, a pair of Tammany jurists, to advise him what to say and what not to say when he faces strange audiences in portions of the country he has never cared, insular as all New Yorkers are, to become acquainted with until he seeks its aid to intrrench Tammany in the control of the nation's business!

What qualities of leadership does he himself exhibit when he says that if elected he will follow the will of a conference of farm advisers and that he will accept whatever congress decides shall be done with a waterway to the Atlantic ocean?

The Smith Plan.

Lincoln Journal: State control of the liquor traffic has been tried in this country. It was for relief from state control, that the country turned to national prohibition. What Governor Smith proposes in the way of liquor control is a step backward, not forward.

From about 1910 to 1914 many of the states began to adopt prohibition. During the period from 1914 to 1919 about one-half of the states were dry. At that time it was realized that state control would not work. It was then found that no solution of the drink evil could be reached by having one-half of the states dry and the other half wet, with the wet states transporting intoxicating liquors into the dry. The result was the eighteenth amendment.

National prohibition is difficult to enforce. But it is not as difficult for the nation to guard its borders, where it must maintain a watch for the importation of other kinds of goods and the immigration of foreigners, for liquor as it would be for each state to protect its individual borders. Even many of those who deplore the present enforcement of the prohibition amendment, will oppose a backward step of the kind Smith proposes.

It might make an entrancing talking-movie just to let the actors and actresses say what they used to say during the filming of the silent drama.—Detroit News.

The Influence of Home.

Fremont Herald: I have in mind two men, now in middle life. The one was reared in an ideal home, where there were comforts such as the moderate means of a country merchant could provide; where an atmosphere of love and peace prevailed. It was a religious home and so far as I could ever see, a happy home.

The other was reared in a home of barren poverty, its atmosphere frequently disturbed by the snarls and quarrels of persons of incompatible and explosive natures. There never was any such thing as luxury here, never any such things as constant affection or peace or religion.

Neither of these men has made his mark in the world.

The first probably had too easy a time of it. The second probably had too hard a time.

The first got the advantage of a college education. But he was forced to choose a vocation aside from his preference. His love was in electricity; his parents were set on his becoming a physician. He compromised by becoming a pharmacist. He is today a small town druggist, in comfortable circumstances, no doubt.

The other, self-educated, like all too many folks, was forced into his vocation more by accident than by sober judgment. He is today, at middle life, but an obscure and mediocre member of his profession and still as poor practically as when he started.

No doubt, "be it e'er so humble, there's no place like home" in shaping a man's character and in determining his success in this world.

Comparison.

Aurora Republican: The Florida hurricane just past is far more disastrous than the one that punctured the boom some time ago. Compared to it, Nebraska's little cyclone shrivels to insignificance. Yet there are few of us who do not quail and quake at the mere thought of being in a cyclone. Where our cyclone killed one, the hurricane took the lives of hundreds. The property damage is too great to estimate accurately. So it goes. Nebraska is hit by its misfortunes, but they are seldom as disastrous as those that strike at those sections of the country that can be flooded, hurricaned or earthquake.

EFFICIENCY EXPERTS.

York Republican. The editor of this newspaper has a common feeling with Editor Huse of the Wayne Herald who thinks efficiency experts sometimes accomplish nothing more than to take the joy out of life. The Herald is one of Nebraska's most influential newspapers and one of the most productive of country weeklies. But according to figures published by efficiency experts in the newspaper publishing business, he has been losing money for years because he has not been charging high enough prices. While this sad state of affairs has been in effect, the Herald has grown in size and quality, it has a new home, new presses and equipment, and the editor is having a happy time enjoying the financial rewards and professional remunerations. Success in any line cannot be gauged by efficiency experts. They are cold blooded and unsympathetic. They start with the dollar sign and end with the dollar sign. They allow nothing in the shape of profits from professional attainments or in the way of satisfaction that one has given himself and his tent with which he has been entrusted. We are cheered by the example of Editor Huse, who, despite the warnings of the experts that he is headed for the rocks, is life editing and publishing one of Nebraska's finest newspapers and occasionally buying a new press or new equipment or a new car for his family use. We like to think he is affording the rest of his fellows in the newspaper business an example they could emulate with profit to themselves and discomfiture to those pessimistic experts who croak that it doesn't pay.

Miss Laura Lyons Writes From West

Miss Laura Lyons writes from Long Beach, Calif., to Herald readers September 18 as follows: "All Wayne people here are well, as usual. LeRoy Ley, Jr., who was run over by an automobile a week ago today, is now recovering nicely. His right leg was badly bruised and his left ankle was hurt, though no bones were broken. The accident happened when a neighbor did not see the lad and backed a car out of a garage, accidentally striking the boy.

"We received the sad news yesterday of the death of my uncle's wife, Mrs. Marion Kerney of Malvern, Iowa. She had been an invalid for over three years. She had visited in Wayne several years ago.

"September has been the hottest month this summer. We did not notice the heat at Long Beach as did those inland.

"I met some Prescott, Ariz., folk this year who had the word 'Smoki' on their car. Upon inquiry I found that the man has been one of a group who practice for months to give the regular yearly 'Snake' dance, such as the Hopi Indians do. At intervals, he explained, each one grasps a snake between his teeth and continues the dance. The priest calls to the gods to send rain. The same group went to the sequel-centennial in Philadelphia.

"Los Angeles is just closing the air meet with 300 participants. Three men were killed. When Lieut. J. J. Williams, army bird man, lost his life, 'Lindy' took his place as stunt man. It thrilled us here to see and feel the vibration of 100 planes going in formation of twenty-seven in a group.

"Long Beach is starting this week the erection of a horseshoe pier, from American to Pine avenues, extending quite a distance out into the ocean. When it is completed, the auditorium is to be built on it.

"The national Methodist foreign missionary executive meeting is to be held in Los Angeles next month. Our conference conference.

"The Pacific southwest exposition was held here July 27 to September 3. The art, industrial and school exhibits were especially fine. One display of interest was a night bus which goes between San Francisco and San Diego. It has all conveniences one finds in Pullman cars. The berth looked very comfortable.

"When we first came to California it was difficult to procure real Concord grapes. They can be bought now for 5c per pound and are just as luscious as in the middle west. Fruits and vegetables are all very reasonable, but meats, eggs and butter are high.

"In the schools here there are 5,240 in the high school, 1,260 in the junior high and 1,666 in the adult night school. The population is now 155,480, and when we came here in 1919 it was 48,000."

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin.

The first territorial governor of Nebraska was a South Carolinian, Francis Burt, who was appointed by President Franklin Pierce in 1854.

The heroism of the school teachers in the recent cyclone in Nebraska recalls similar heroism of school teachers in the big blizzard just 40 years ago.

Nebraskans frequently hear of how a Bohemian colony settled here, an Irish colony there, a Swede colony there, and so on.

Nebraska's largest county is Cherry; its smallest Sarpy, its most populous Douglas; its least populous McPherson.

The French are not much given to emigrating to other than French provinces, but there are three communities in Nebraska that were settled by the French.

Holt county was settled in large part by Irish families, led there by General Hugh O'Neill, in whose honor the county seat was named.

El W. Howe, who made the Atchison Globe famous, and who was made rich by the Globe, is writing his reminiscences for the Saturday Evening Post.

One day recently the writer scanned 84 weekly newspapers, published in Nebraska. Of that number 77 chronicled auto accidents, seven of them reporting three, and one reporting four.

Speaking of "straw votes" and their accuracy as forecasting results, the writer attended a little social gathering recently where there were 18 present, 9 men and 9 women.

An Omaha woman registered recently and answered all the questions which included date and place of birth.

Herbert Johnson, the famous cartoonist whose work appears regularly in the Saturday evening Post, is a native son of Nebraska.

Walter Wellman, famous newspaper editor and the first man to undertake to fly to the North Pole, was born in Clay county, if memory is not at fault.

Bion Arnold, one of the world's greatest consulting engineers, was born in Wahoo. Willa Cather, author of famous novels that have been "best sellers," was born in Red Cloud.

Nebraska has never had but two native born members of congress, Robert Simmons of the Sixth district, and former Congressman G. M. Hitchcock of the Second district.

Nebraska's largest county is Cherry; its smallest Sarpy, its most populous Douglas; its least populous McPherson.

Plan Road Work In This Section

Norfolk News: One of the first road construction jobs scheduled for early spring next year is the graveling of about twenty-two miles of highway No. 32, between Madison and Newman Grove.

This important road upon which traffic is steadily becoming heavier was graded and improved in 1927. For some time there has been a demand for a gravel surface, and those who have been advocating this will realize their ambition next spring, it was announced in Norfolk Tuesday.

Four regrading projects are scheduled for northeast Nebraska this fall. North of Wisner on highway No. 15, for about nine miles a new gravel coat is to be placed. On highway No. 8 east of Tilden, two and nine-tenths miles a one-inch coating of new gravel will be laid, and between Clearwater and Neligh on the same road, for about ten miles, the roadbed is to be regraded.

Regrading operations between Walthill and Dakota City on highway No. 77 will also be under way soon.

No. 35 Job Planned. Earthwork will be carried on for a distance of seven miles on highway No. 35 north of Norfolk at the start of the construction season next spring. When finished this highway will be entirely graded between Norfolk and Winside.

This is another highway upon which travel is steadily increasing. Good roads advocates are confident the highway will be graded as soon as it is possible to do so.

By Wednesday or Thursday the temporary bridge over the Elkhorn river south of Norfolk on highway No. 81 will be opened to traffic, and will be used until the new structure is completed. Wooden approaches to the temporary bridge are now being put in place. Grading and claying operations on the approaches have been completed and with a few hours work they will be gravelled so the motoring public will not have any barrier in driving toward the structure. The large span that was a part of the old bridge has been moved to its new location and forms the temporary structure.

Know the Comfort and Economy of VECTO Heating

The Vecto circulates healthful warmth throughout the home for the usual cost of heating one room. Investigate the Vecto before you buy. We will gladly examine your needs and estimate your job free.

The Ideal Vecto Heater is a clean, compact, self-contained heating unit—a perfected, scientific application of nature's way of spreading warmth. Instead of radiating an intense heat for a short distance in one room only, the Vecto Heater distributes an even, comfortable warmth through every room. This it accomplishes by its very extensive and scientifically designed heating surface.

HEATING CAPACITY—The Ideal Vecto Heater is designed primarily for smaller homes and other buildings. If your home does not exceed 8,000 cubic feet, you will find in the Vecto Heater an ideal answer to your heating needs. If it is smaller, remember that the Vecto Heater can be regulated to heat the lesser space. While if your home is over 8,000 cubic feet, two Vecto Heaters or an Ideal Arcola Heater with American Radiators should be used.

- $35 Vecto heats from 1 to 3 rooms. $55 Vecto heats from 3 to 5 rooms. $75 Vecto heats from 5 to 8 rooms.

Special and Exclusive Features

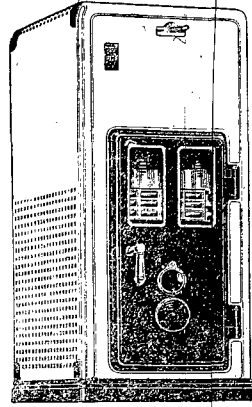

Body is made with high, projecting fins, presenting an unusually large heating surface. Large volumes of air are warmed at moderate, healthful temperatures. Simple and effective draft control gives just the warmth you wish. One-piece seamless construction insures cleanliness, safety and durability. Exterior finish is gray vitreous enamel, permanently beautiful. As easy to clean as a piece of china. Occupies very little space; can be moved like furniture.

All that remains to be decided is the relative numerical strength of Smith Republicans and Hoover Democrats. - New Bedford Times. Probable complaint to radio service station: "This set you sent me is no good. I can't get famous Players or Metro-Goldwyn." - New York Sun.

Earnest Consideration. York Republican: Governor Smith has come and gone. He is a stranger to the West. A distinguished visitor should and generally does command a generous hearing. Governor Smith was not an exception. Citizens of Nebraska and neighboring states gathered in Omaha in immense numbers both to see and hear him. The effect of his visit and his address will be better registered on election day than it is today in the press dispatches. Mr. Smith has a winning personality and a pleasing way. These are immense political assets in any candidate. But the result in November will hardly be decided upon winning ways or charming personalities. If this newspaper reads the signs of the time correctly the people are indulging in sober thought and they will judge the opposing candidates for the presidency by their ability and their accomplishments, rather than by their personality; by the promise they give of being able to accomplish great executive and administrative acts, not by the good fellowship they possess and disseminate.

Who said end fighting? A new U. S. cruiser is to be named "Chicago." - Council Bluffs Non-Parail.
