year. Once more the hope is revived that 1928 may equal or surpass the figures for last year, and 1927 was admittedly good. Whether it would yet be possible for this year to equal 1926 is doubted since a more complete recovery than is now indicated would have to be made.

It also was an increase over the same week in 1926, 16,719, which may be taken as encouraging still. The great gain was made in miscellaneous freight loadings, the figure for the week ending September 29 showing an increase of 39,274 over the same period last year and one of 35,810 over the same week in 1926.

With the campaign at full blast, and with hurricanes and tornadoes hitting here and there, it might not be inappropriate to refer to 1928 as the "Year of the Big Wind."—Seattle Times.

"Four Sons" Will Appear In Wayne

It is safe to say that there will be no adverse comment on the actions of German officer characters in Fox films "Four Sons" when it appears on the screen of the Gay theatre October 21, 22 and 23. And for good reason. Every man appearing in these interpretations is a former member of the German army.

Following director John Ford's stay in Europe, during which time he spent several months in Germany, it was decided that only ex-soldiers would be considered for these highly important atmospheric bits.

Numbered among those players is His Royal Highness, Archduke Leopold of Austria, whose first screen appearance is made in the new Ford production, and Captain Carl von Haahtman, former member of the German Air Service.

In the important roles are Margarete Mann, who plays the stellar role of the grandmother and Earle Foxe, noted screen comedian, who hurls his comic mask to the winds in his characterization of Von Stomm, villain extraordinaire.

Francis X. Bushman, Jr., George Meeker, Charles Morton and James Hall essay the roles of Grandmother Bernie's four sons, around whom most of the dramatic action revolves.

Hughie Tolaire, Albert Gran, August Mackay and Michael Mark are cast in pivotal character roles, while June Collyer plays the feminine lead.

Out-of-town parties, and those using our local hospitals, find all their requirements met in this quiet, dignified mortuary. It provides all the comfort and privacy of home to the strangers in our midst.

The usage of our funeral home adds nothing to the cost of our service, as it makes for efficiency. Still, we are always willing to conduct the funeral at the church or private residence when that course is preferred.

From one end of the country to another—in New York, in Miami, in Chicago, in Los Angeles and all towns between—overwhelming praise for the distinctive beauty of the Silver Anniversary Buick with new Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher!

All agree that here is a new style—a new mode—an entirely different and original interpretation of motor car beauty, forecasting the trend of smart body-design for months to come.

About Nebraska and Nebraskans
Will M. Maupin.

The third appointed governor of Nebraska Territory was William A. Richardson of Illinois, appointed by President Buchanan. Gov. Richardson arrived in Nebraska at Omaha on January 12, 1858, right in the midst of what is known as the "Florence Secession." Addison E. Sheldon, in his interesting book, "History and Stories of Nebraska," tells of this secession. The war between the North Plate and the South Plate sections was very bitter. The South Plate had the largest population but the North Plate had the territorial capital at Omaha. South Plate had the majority membership in the legislature and passed a bill removing the capital to their section, but Gov. Izard vetoed the bill. A capital removal bill was again introduced and resulted in numerous fist fights on the floor of the legislature.

The next day, January 8, 1858, a majority of both houses adjourned to Florence, six miles north of Omaha, where they met and passed laws, while the minority members remained in Omaha and did likewise. Gov. Richardson refused to recognize the secessionists or sign the bills passed by them. After 40 days both parties to the fight adjourned and went home without accomplishing anything. Soon after this Secretary of State Cumming, who was acting governor for a time after the death of Gov. Burt, died, and J. Sterling Morton was appointed to the office by President Buchanan.

The present prohibition law of Nebraska is not the first on the statute books. Prohibition was in force during early territorial days. Gov. Richardson called the fifth session of the legislature to meet on September 21, 1858, and one of its first acts was to repeal the prohibition law. Richardson county was named in honor of Gov. Richardson, who was succeeded by Gov. Samuel W. Black in 1869.

No man is infallible, and the memory of the best of us slips now and then. In last week's letter it was stated that John Reese of Broken Bow was the second commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. to be elected from Nebraska. He was the third. Capt. Clare B. Adams of Superior was the second Nebraskan to be thus honored.

Another unpardonable error was to name George Sheldon and Keith Neville as the only native born governors of the commonwealth. Samuel R. McKelvie was born on a Clay county farm.

A reminder of the old warfare between the cattle barons and the homesteaders of Nebraska's early days was the recent death of one of the Olive brothers. He had no part in the warfare but his brother was one of the active participants in the bloody fights in Carter county in the early 80's. What was known as the "Olive gang" made up of cattlemen and their hired gunmen, is said to have been responsible for the death of several homesteaders. Finally one particularly atrocious murder was fixed upon several of the gang, and they were tried before Judge Wm. Gaslin at Hastings. They were found guilty and hanged.

The political complexion of Nebraska from its earliest territorial days may be determined by a study of the organization and naming of the counties. Burt, Cumming and Richardson were named after democratic territorial governors appointed by democratic presidents. From the inauguration of Gov. Alvin Saunders, the first republican territorial governor and the last of that line, to the administration of Gov. James E. Boyd, the counties

You should try R. C. E. G.

IF YOU have used balanced Red Crown Gasoline for years—and your motor has always been quick-starting, had strong acceleration, plenty of power and gives you big mileage per gallon—you are inclined to stick to a good thing. On all these points you will look in vain for a better gasoline than Red Crown Gasoline.

But all motors accumulate carbon which builds up compression and causes gas knocks and loss of power. The new high compression motors can only do their best work on genuine high compression fuel.

In either case use RED CROWN ETHYL GASOLINE—which works best when compression is high—actually makes carbon a source of added power and eliminates gas knocks. It gives all motors smoother operation and a higher power range.

This knockless motor fuel is always-reliable Red Crown Gasoline combined with Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound. Costs more by the gallon but less by the mile. You should give R. C. E. G. a thorough trial and find out what your motor can do using this improved Red Crown Fuel.

For economy and satisfaction buy your gasoline and motor oil where you see the Red Crown Sign—the sign of quality fuels and prompt, courteous, obliging service everywhere in Nebraska.

Flyer Lands Blazing Plane

This charred shell of a U. S. navy plane was brought to a safe landing at San Diego, Calif., by Lieut. A. P. Storrs (inset) after a thrilling aerial race with fire. The plane burst into flames at an altitude of 12,000 feet. Unhaken by his experience, Storrs helped extinguish the flames after bringing the plane to earth.

LaPorte News

(By the LaPorte Com. Club.)

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hammer spent Sunday afternoon at the John Geewe home.

Woodrow and Don Lutt spent Sunday afternoon with their cousin, Johnnie Grimm.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lutt and family spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Johanna Lutt.

Miss Ardath Patterson who teaches in district No. 8 is boarding with Mrs. Wm. Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morse are keeping house for Henry Lutt and helping with the corn picking.

Because of the busy season and the bad roads social news in this vicinity is scarce this week.

Helen Laughlin who suffered an injury to her left knee last week has almost entirely recovered except for the puncture where a nail appears to have entered and that is doing well too.

Anna and Louis Lutt who drove to Rochester, Minn., to bring home their brother, Herman, who had undergone an operation there, returned with him Thursday. They report a pleasant trip. Weather and roads were fine. They made the trip home in one day.

The rains of the past week were helpful in storing water in subsoil and filling cisterns but they have not improved the corn fields for picking. The high winds of Wednesday and Thursday of last week did a great deal of damage. Much of the corn was blown over and many ears blown off the stalk. This nearly puts the mechanical pickers out of commission as they cannot get leaning and down corn. Some fields have a third of the corn on the ground.

All in Ten Seconds. Portland Journal: Amazed and horrified, a crowd of travelers from automobiles parked nearby, stood on a bridge and gazed at a sight below.

The onlookers conversed in low tones. All were in subdued excitement. All were in that state of mind always brought about when something terrible happens.

The bridge was an overhead railroad crossing on the Pacific highway near Comstock station. Part of the railing had been carried away. An automobile upside down under had torn away the railing as it went off the bridge in a sheer drop of 40 feet.

When willing hands finally lifted the car aside, two human figures were revealed. The woman, with face already blackened, was dead. Her husband, with head badly confused and mangled, did not open his eyes. With difficulty, he gave his name, and the address of his daughter at Oakland, Cal.

Such was the scene. Minutes before, the fated car glided smoothly on the bridge. The sun shone down and the spirits of the occupants were high. They were on a vacation, and full of hope. Then they struck another automobile, their course was changed by the impact, they could not make the curve, and over and down went the car.

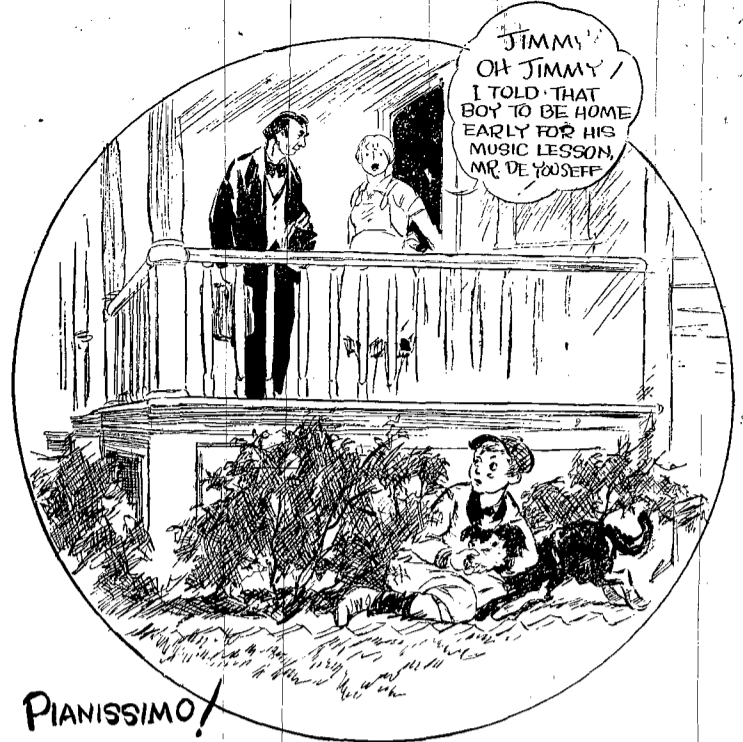

In 10 seconds, only 10 seconds, it was a leap from gay life to death. Just a slip, a mistake, mere seconds, and both went into eternity—the man died shortly after.

What a warning!

One thing about the G. O. P. It believes in looking forward and not back.—Dallas News.

Members of the LaPorte Community club and seventeen guests met Wednesday of last week with Miss Cora Haglund and Mrs. E. M. Laughlin at the home of the last named for an old-fashioned indoor picnic. Those receiving carnations for the best period costume were: Mrs. I. H. Britell, Mrs. George Fortner, Miss Pearl Sewell, Mrs. Claude Wright, Mrs. Reuben Lindsay, Mrs. Edgar Larson, Mrs. Ernest Sandahl, Mrs. Ray Agler and Mrs. Fred Sandahl. After the grand march in which all took part with Mrs. Fred Sandahl at the piano, a number of the LaPorte ladies challenged the Wayne ladies to enter a group of contests in which the Wayne ladies won by several points. Luncheon was served to them by the losers. Mrs. Fortner was the Wayne captain and Mrs. Edgar Larson the LaPorte captain. The handicap race was won by Mrs. Lottie Samuelson and the foot race by Mrs. Lou Owen. The best telegram using the letters in LaPorte was written by Mrs. C. Shultheis. Wayne also won a relay race. LaPorte won the broad grin, the clothesline race and the hoop race. Naming trees and shrubs from autumn leaves was won by Wayne. The club members brought clothes and bedding to pack a box for the tornado victims. The next meeting will be a Halloween party at the Frank Haglund home November 3. Mrs. Bert Surber of Winside was an out-of-town guest.

19 Killed, 26 Hurt Here

Nineteen persons were killed and 26 were injured during a recent race in Milan, Italy, as a result of the crash pictured here. Simon Materassi, famous European racer, traveling 120 miles an hour, crashed into another car, hurled over a guard rail and plowed through a crowd of spectators. The death car finally came to rest as shown. Materassi was among those killed.
