California Exaggeration.

Lincoln Journal: E. H. Bemis, editor of the York New Teller, discussing California propaganda, complains that a recent snow storm that was worth many dollars to Nebraska was heralded far and wide in the newspapers as a blizzard. "Nebraska doesn't have a blizzard once in twenty-five years," he says. "Before the winter is out we will have another fall of snow. If the temperature is too far below zero a few blocks of telephone poles will go down, some of the buses will be late and the cub reporters will start raving in the headlines anent blizzards. California papers certainly do love to copy our blizzard headlines. That wonderful snowstorm was about as close to a blizzard as heaven is to Chicago. Along next August there will probably be a few days of hot weather. An old man with Bright's disease and an old lady whose heart is bothering her will kick in about that time and the papers will break out in big headlines with the news (?) that 'Two Are Dead in the Heat Wave'."

Concerning this matter E. W. Edwardson of the Omaha Chamber of commerce writes: "We have looked up the definition for blizzard in two standard dictionaries and this is what we found: 'Blizzard—A high, cold wind accompanied by blinding snow.' 'Blizzard—A dry, cold violent storm with high wind and fine, driving snow.'"

"It also occurred to us to look up the definition for 'cyclone,' a term much misused to the detriment of Nebraska and the middle west. To be a cyclone, a storm must have all of these characteristics and conditions: 'A system of winds circulating about a center of relatively low barometric pressure, and at earth's surface, blowing spirally inward; the centers, at times, being stationary, but often advancing as rapidly as thirty miles an hour.'"

Thus, blizzards and cyclones are disposed of and California newspapers are cheated of their best news. The next storm will be the snow that covers and protects against the ravages of winter an eighty million dollars wheat crop, and gentle zephyrs that give life and health to a commonwealth that can find heaven within its borders.

The younger generation may be dumber than the older generation, but you must admit they didn't blow in $12,000,000 on an election that had already been settled by The Literary Digest—Washington Post.

Market Report.

Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.

Dec. 6.—Increased receipts of live stock caused general bearishness in the markets this week. Declines were scored on nearly all classes with hogs suffering most.

The 11 leading markets of the country received 133,800 cattle the first two days this week, an increase of 36,300 compared with the same days last week. Local receipts were light but the leading primary center received excessive run.

Red yearlings were in fairly good demand and the market held close to steady with any changes reflecting weakness. However, weighty cattle and plain warmups were hard to move and sellers were forced to take off a quarter in some instances. A load of real good 1,350-pound steers sold at $15.50 and a few sales were made from $15.00 down to $12.00 with the bulk under that figure and down to $10.00 with some plain warm-ups at less money.

Yearling heifers moved freely at firm prices with spots stronger compared with the close of last week. However, cows were in dull demand and the market eased off a quarter in most instances. Heifers sold largely at $10.00 to $11.50 with a few cows above $9.00 and the bulk at $7.50 to $8.50. Canners and cutters moved mostly at $5.50 to $6.50.

The veal market held a steady basis with the packer top at $12.00 and selected light weights topped at $12.50 to independents. Bulls were unchanged. Bulk of the native bolognas sold at $8.00 to $8.25 with a few beef grades above $9.00 and common bulls under $7.00.

Stockers and feeders were scarce, receipts being the lightest of the season, and the market advanced strong to a quarter in spite of the bearishness on killers. Country demand was fairly good on the first two days.

Quality was on the plain and medium order as a general thing. Bulk of the material cashed at $9.00 to $11.00 with a few stockers to $11.50 and calves to $12.00. Choice calves would beat $13.00, as they did last week. A few feeding cows sold at $6.00 to 7.25 and heifers at $7.50 to 9.00

Business.

Sioux City Journal: Nineteen twenty-eight promises to go on record as the most prosperous year in American industrial history with reference to earnings. The figures are in for the first nine months survey, and they show a remarkable progression for industrial earnings. Heavier gains are recorded quarter by quarter. It is confidently believed that at the year ends a record will be established.

In the first quarter of this year, according to the survey, 195 corporations exceeded the corresponding period of 1927 by 2.5 per cent, in the next quarter by 16.3 per cent, and in the third quarter by 38 per cent. These figures show the amazing progression in increased profits over the same periods last year. This is exactly in line with the weekly report on the economic situation for the last eleven months. The year started slowly, due to a slowing down at the close of 1927. It picked up somewhat in the early spring, and the increase from that time on was steady and strong. By midsummer recovery had been made and the fall upturn marked the beginning of the real prosperity for which the year now may be credited.

More figures on the industrial survey are herewith furnished to show the widespread gains. For the first nine months of the present year 260 industrial corporations reported net profits in excess of those for the same period last year of 20.1 per cent. One hundred and eighty-five earned 1.2 per cent more. Meanwhile, to strike an average for a larger number, it is shown that 492 concerns earned net profits 11.3 per cent in excess of the showing for last year.

The announcement of this survey is somewhat surprising as to the percentage gains, although it has been generally known that business was going forward with constantly increasing momentum. It is now easy to see why economists have been so optimistic over the outlook for the last three or four months. The year will go on with a momentum sufficient to give 1929 a running start, and it is likely that an era of great prosperity is to be enjoyed.

Freight car loadings for the week ending November 17 were up to a total of 1,059,701, an increase over the preceding week of 6,406 and over the same week of 1927 of 91,649. Miscellaneous freight gained an increase of $11,465 over the same week in 1927 and $3,026 over the same week in 1926. This indicates that a record holiday trade may be had this year.

The Matter of Laws

Lincoln Journal: Complaint is heard on all sides that we have so many laws that it is impossible for a citizen to be law-abiding, and it is asserted that the legislature could perform no more notable service than to repeal a great many of those now on the books. An examination of the statutes will disclose to those critics that they would face no more embarrassing task than that of deciding which of these laws should be repealed. Everyone could point out one, two or possibly half a dozen laws that he would recommend for repeal, but when it comes to picking out a larger number, the average man would find himself impotent if he wished to perform the assignment with intelligence.

The trouble is not so much that we have too many laws, but that we do not obey those which we have placed upon the books and which are necessary to carry out the constitutional guarantees of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. One who sits in at meetings of associations of business and professional men is struck by the fact that the discussions there with respect to existing laws is not so much that any of them should be repealed, but that more of them should be enacted, insofar as they touch upon the activities of members. He is still further struck by the fact that the most time is spent in discussing infractions of existing laws by men engaged in the same business or professional work affected and a demand voiced for a stricter enforcement of them.

An instance in point is supplied by the recent meeting of the Life Underwriters' association of Lincoln, where the subject for discussion was the laws as they now exist with respect to the work of agents, and where the most lively subject was the prevalence of re-bating. The law does not permit an agent to split his commission with a buyer of insurance; nor does it permit the buyer to solicit or accept a rebate. Yet it is no secret that both offenses are being committed right along. It was also disclosed that in their eagerness for business insurance companies secure licenses for men as agents when they know that they are being asked for so that the agent may write his own policy or those of employes so as to save the commission.

Advertisement for Gasoline featuring a cartoon character holding a sign that says 'Power Power Multipower'. Text includes 'A new GASOLINE by the makers of Marathon - it's MULTIPOWER' and 'Multipower means just what its name implies... power multiplied by power; but power is not the only requisite of a good gasoline or the only virtue of this wonderful new fuel. It is properly volatile... it starts quickly without fuss or splutter... and it burns completely. Only when a gasoline vaporizes quickly and completely is the full amount of its explosive strength exerted against the piston head in the cylinder to make the stroke that turns the crank that moves the wheels that speed you on your way. Speed? Yes! Multipower has it... just the right zip to get you "ahead of the pack" and out of tight corners at the moment you want it... dependable... and after you have been driving for a while you will find that Multipower is economical because every drop works... of incalculable value to the man who has carried out his own furnace ashes and noticed the big clinkers and unburned coal. How different from the small pile of white dust that better coal leaves... no soot, no sooty, less waste, and in the long run cheaper. That's Multipower.'

A Wheat Pool. York Republican: Ten thousand Nebraska farmers have signed agreements to pool their wheat. Their land holdings comprise 550,000 acres. Hundreds of farm elevators and farm organizations have signed what is known as the standard marketing agreement to pool their wheat when the fifty per cent. acreage has been secured. The movement is endorsed by bankers and business men who see in it the only reasonable solution of the elevation of wheat prices. The Nebraska plan is fashioned like that in use in Canada where under ordinary conditions the Canadian farmers now receive a larger price than the wheat farmers of the United States. It now appears that under systematic management of a wheat pool campaign the objective, long hoped for by farmers of vision, is within attainment.

the summer in Nebraska, it was claimed operation was impossible. Then again the doubters insisted milk production in the state had not been built up to a point where a cheese factory could depend upon the regular supplies necessary for economical production.

In the North Platte valley seven cheese factories have been built in the last five years and have enjoyed a profitable existence. Announcement Thursday that another factory was to be constructed at Bayard is an indication of the success which has greeted the efforts to establish the cheese industry. There are now more than 20 plants in the state, most of them small to be sure, producing 750 thousand pounds of cheese yearly. That record of production has given Nebraska important ranking in the nation. In the face of the earlier failure in this state, the present expansion of an industry which was tried and abandoned 30 years ago, only to be revived and carried through successfully, furnishes every reason for encouragement and pride.

Midland College Gets Observatory

Fremont, Neb., Nov. 28.—Midland college, according to an announcement made by President H. F. Martin, is to have an astronomical observatory which, with its equipment, will have a value of approximately $8,000. The building will be located at the Cottonwoods, summer home of Dan V. Stephens, Fremont banker and former congressman, who gave the site and also a large part of the money for the building. The observatory will be the eighth building in Midland's plant. The observatory will be a two-room, two-story building, 18 feet square, with the second story room a revolving dome in the shape of a hemisphere 13 feet in diameter. The building proper will be valued at slightly more than $1,000, while the telescope and its auxiliary equipment is valued at $7,000. The telescope, which is the second largest mounted instrument in the state, is one of the refracting type with a six-inch barrel lens and a 110-inch mirror. Its auxiliary equipment includes a heliostep for observing the sun, a spectroscope for observing the composition of the stars, a terrestrial eyepiece for observing objects on the earth in inverted form, and a battery of six eyepieces which give the telescope a range of magnification up to 600 diameters. The instrument was presented to the college by Dan La Fean, York, Pa., manufacturer.

Work on the observatory will begin immediately and the building, according to Dr. Martin, will be ready for use by the first of the new year.

Former Resident Dies In Laurel

Ed. Walters, resident of Laurel for twenty-six years and former resident of Wayne, died November 22 after a long illness, aged 58 years. Funeral services were held Saturday, November 24, with Rev. Mr. Wille in charge.

Mr. Walters was born May 2, 1864, in Madison, Ill. He came to Wayne in 1900 and after two years here moved to Laurel, where he had resided since.

Deceased leaves his aged mother and the following children: Amanda Bodenstedt of Bellevue, Hilda Helvig of Coleridge, Rudolph Walters of Los Angeles, Elsie Roth of Coleridge, and Bertha Bruggeman and Josina Swain of Laurel. His wife died in 1923.

Consolation. Dr. A. L. Bixby; Let Alfred Smith take consolation in the fact that the man who runs for president and is defeated has a happier time in prospect than the successful candidate. The job may be profitable, but it isn't pleasant. The president is pestered from morning till night by big men of the party, and men who merely think they are big, all with axes to grind or advice to give. And congress passes bills that he has to veto, and some that he has to sign. He is called on by committees, overburdened with letters and telegrams, has to attend cabinet meetings, and entertain foreign ambassadors, and once a year or oftener, write a long message to congress on the state of the union, or hire somebody to do it for him.

Yes, Come and See.
F. O. Edgecombe in Geneva Signal: Editor Huse of the Wayne Herald walked down town one day and noticed that Wayne had no hotel, so he told the boys they'd just have to get to work and build one. He didn't have much to do, so he acted as secretary-treasurer of the building committee, although he made some other guy handle the money, the figures being too large to come within the range of the experience of a common editor. Anyway the hotel is finished and the next time you go to Wayne you won't have to sleep out on the prairie. The Herald is bragging a good deal about the new hotel and we are just going up to Wayne some day and see whether a lawyer and an editor and a few lumbermen and carpenters and such know how to build a regular hotel.

Madison Fair Success.
Madison, Neb., Nov. 29.—The annual meeting of stockholders of the Madison County Agricultural society was well attended and much interest manifested. Reports of the secretary and treasurer indicated that the fair this year was a financial success.

Old Age.
York Republican: When is old age? Not so many years ago Dr. Ossler insisted that all men should be pitifully chloroformed at sixty. But is sixty the age of decline? Not always. The discoverer of America was past the Osler deadline when he sailed from the Spanish port. Foch was sixty-seven when he was made commander-in-chief of the allied armies. Hindenburg is a vigorous president of Germany at eighty-two. Edison, at eighty, and Ford, at sixty-seven, are marvels of industry and undiminished ability. From which it may be concluded that years do not make a man old, unless he bows to them. If we make the mistake of fixing the span of life at three score and ten we shall grow old with the approach of that time. But, if busy at the accepted tasks of life, we refuse to consider years the master and time the arbiter, we shall improve with age and achieve with greater ease as the years speed along. When science and religion banish three score and ten from the calendar of life, men and women will be at their best in the afternoon and approach sunset with vigor and accomplishment.

Superiority.
Aurora Republican: How come so much intelligence resides in one place? The Wayne Herald blithely admits that "Wayne merchants have learned not to fall for combination advertisements on placards or other similar schemes whose advertising value is almost nil." What we want to know is who learnt 'em, and how? Having seen the kind of merchant that has learnt not to advertise in nothing else but, and others that has learnt not to advertise at all, editorial brethren all over the state will rise with this column to demand how to un-learn 'em, for the good of all.

Baby for Sale! Father a college professor; mother cultured and refined; heredity guaranteed. Price—$30,000. PASSIONATELY devoted to her husband, Marjorie often said she would sacrifice anything for his success and happiness. And now, as he faces failure, disillusionment, despair—all for a lack of money—she sees only one way out. She has heard of women, rich and childless, who would give thousands of dollars if they could adopt a baby, and be sure of its heredity. But as the golden dreams of approaching motherhood fill her soul, she wonders if she can go through with it. True, the secret of her coming baby is still her own. Even her husband does not know—need never know. But can she resist the loving touch of tiny, helpless baby hands that are already closing tightly around her heart? Can she sell her unborn child? January. Partial Contents for January. I Wanted a Husband My Price of Redemption Sacred and Profane Love The Woman Who Conquered Shame After The Elopement—and eight other stories. Even while she prays for courage to make this terrible sacrifice, she is thinking that perhaps the rich woman who comes to her aid could take her abroad, "for a few months' travel." There her baby could be born—to become the other woman's baby. It all seems so easy. Still, as she visions the helpless little mite of humanity that lives close to her heart—she wonders if she can do it. Can anything ever take the place of that little life that, for her, will die the moment it is born? Read her piteous story, "Nature's Vengeance," in January True Story Magazine. ### About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin.

John M. Thayer, who succeeded James W. Dawes as governor of Nebraska, was one of the most colorful characters in Nebraska history. When elected his home was in Grand Island. General Thayer came to Nebraska Territory while a young man and quickly became associated with its military and political life. At the outbreak of the Civil War he was commissioned colonel of the First Nebraska, an infantry regiment, with Thomas J. Majors, still living at Peru, lieutenant colonel. The First Nebraska served with distinguished gallantry, and was cited by General Grant for services at Fort Donelson, Tenn. Colonel Thayer was brevetted brigadier general for distinguished service. He served one term in the senate of the United States and in 1886 was elected governor and re-elected in 1888.

When James E. Boyd, first democratic governor of Nebraska, was elected, Gov. Thayer refused to turn over the office to him, claiming that Boyd was not a naturalized citizen, having been born in Ireland. The supreme court of Nebraska sustained Gov. Thayer's contention and he retained the office for several months, until the supreme court of the United States declared Gov. Boyd eligible. Gov. Thayer then retired, having served as governor longer than any other man in the state's history. The capitol building, torn down to make way for the new $10,000,000 capitol now in course of construction, was completed during Gov. Thayer's occupancy of the executive office. The building was largely constructed by convict labor, the material being obtained in most part from the same quarries at Louisville.

The Louisville quarries yielded limestone, but for many years were not worked. Now one of the largest cement factories in the country is being constructed there, and when in operation will have a capacity of approximately one million barrels of cement a year.

During Gov. Thayer's second term occurred the great "Q" strike of engineers and firemen.

Financial Status Shows Improvement

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 28.—The Kansas City Federal Reserve bank in its monthly report, issued tonight, said a forward surge in industry, trade and banking, which began in the Tenth Federal Reserve district with the beginning of the fall, gained momentum during October and has carried the volume of business to the highest point of the year and considerably above that of last year.

The outstanding development of the season was a strong demand for merchandise, the report said, which credited improvement in the agricultural and live stock industry with being responsible for the general expansion in business. While November floods retarded business in some sections, the report continued, and business was moving toward the end of the year in record volume. "Distribution by wholesalers," the report stated, "was larger than in either September of this year or in October of last year. Trade at department stores and single line retail stores, located in cities, showed substantial gains over the preceding month and the same month last year. It was observed that for the first time in many months all of the leading lines of wholesale and retail trade advanced at the same time, showing uniformly large increases in the volume of sales."

"Improvement in the agricultural and live stock situation accounted mainly for the expansion of general business. With crops practically all harvested, it was apparent from the official November reports that this year's farm production exceeds the production of last year, and is 7 per cent above the average for the 10 years preceding this one. October brought a seasonal increase in movements of live stock to markets, and a considerable revival in stock feeding operations."

IDEAL, the World's Wonder Grinder

THE Ideal grinder which we have just put on our floor for demonstration, grinds everything that grows on the farm. The Ideal can be operated with any make of tractor. If you haven't power on your farm, Ideal can be operated satisfactorily by the purchase of a good second-hand tractor or automobile engine. The cost of such power is small. You can do enough custom grinding for your neighbors easily to pay the purchase price of this wonderful machine in a very short time.

Years of painstaking work and development under all kinds of severe conditions all over the world, actual work and tests on the farm have resulted in the development of this wonderful grinder alone, in grinding capacities and low cost of production.

A grinder to do all kinds of grinding must be cheap first cost of purchase price but not cheap in construction. It must be strong and sturdy and last a life time without repairs. That describes the Ideal. It does the job quickly and economically without extra labor.

Three Years' Guarantee
Against wear, defective workmanship or material. We guarantee unconditionally to replace free of charge, F. O. B. Denver, any part of the Ideal Grinder that wears out from grinding in three years.

Feeding Ground Feed
Carefully compiled statistics by the U. S. government agricultural department and all leading agricultural colleges have proved beyond any doubt that there is a saving of from thirtythree and one-third to fifty percent in feeding ground feed, and in addition the great value in the quick growth, development, and fattening of all kinds of live stock and fowls.

The Gately Mills

The Gately Mill which we have on our floor was built by practical farmers and stockmen. It is designed to grind all kinds of feed and under all conditions. The Mill is exceedingly simple and rugged in its construction and will stand the severest abuse without chance of breakage.

Gately Mills are built in three sizes, and it is the No. 9 which we have on hand. It has exceptionally large capacity and is the popular size for the large stock feeder. There are no frills nor theoretical ideas built into a Gately Mill. Sound, practical and proven features account for its success.

Profitable Investment
Let us show you these two makes of grinders and see if your farm operations will not profit by such an investment.
