Man Is Killed In Auto Wreck

N. C. B. Nelsen of Concord, Dies Sunday When Car Skids on Gravel Near Wayne.

Wife Is Injured

Machine Is Demolished When It Turns Over on Highway North of Here.

N. C. B. Nelsen, 68, harness maker of Concord, was instantly killed when the Ford sedan in which he and his wife were driving south on the highway three and one-half miles north of Wayne, skidded in loose gravel about noon Sunday and turned over on the road. Mr. Nelsen was thrown through the windshield and was cut by the glass. Mrs. Nelsen, who was thrown through the top of the car, suffered two broken ribs. The machine was wrecked.

Others on the road stopped at the scene immediately after the accident. A doctor was summoned but Mr. Nelsen was dead, having been killed instantly when his neck was severed by the glass. Mrs. Nelsen was taken to the Wayne hospital but was suffering from shock mainly.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelsen were alone in the machine. It is thought a tire punctured and caused the car to swerve in the gravel. Another theory is that Mr. Nelsen suffered a heart attack and lost control of the car. After the accident the machine was headed north. The fenders and front of the car were badly broken. A back wheel was off. The top and all the glass were demolished. The Nelsens were going to Carroll when the accident occurred.

NATIONAL THRIFT WEEK OPENS ON BEN'S BIRTHDAY

BENJAMIN Franklin was an outstanding example and disciple of thrift, and so national Thrift Week is to begin on his birthday anniversary, January 17. Besides being naturally thrifty, the fact that Franklin was a publisher doubtless gave him extraordinary incentive to be so. An inspiration to habits of thrift comes appropriately early after the holiday buying. Thrift means to buy with careful regard for one's needs, making a dollar go as far as possible. To do so, we invite attention to the Herald's advertising pages from week to week. Strict heed to these pages is a reasonably sure road to thrift.

Golden Wedding Christmas Day

Mr. and Mrs. James Stephens of Carroll, Were Married Fifty Years Ago.

In County Early

Family Located on Farm Near Wayne When Country Was Mostly Prairie.

Christmas day was the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James Stephens of Carroll, residents of Wayne county for the past forty-two years. The family had planned a reunion in honor of the occasion but illness of Mrs. Stephens prevented carrying out the arrangements. However, the couple were honored with visits from relatives and friends, and they received many gifts and words of congratulation.

Mr. Stephens is 71 years old. He was born in Kamo, Mo. Mrs. Stephens was born in Sheffield, Ill. She is 70 years old. The couple were married December 25, 1878, in Sheffield, Ill. After living a short time in Illinois, the family came to Carroll county, Iowa, where they lived three years. They moved in the fall of 1886 to a farm one-half mile south and one and one-half miles east of Wayne. Five years later they went to a farm six miles northwest of Carroll, the land having been homesteaded by Levi Root. Mr. Stephens bought the place for $3,505 and sold the land last year for $24,000.

When the Stephens family came to Wayne county, land was mostly prairie. On their farm near Carroll were only a small grove of trees and two shacks, one for the house and other for the barn. Most of the site of Wayne was then prairie also, Mr. Stephens recalls. The site of the Wayne college was bare prairie. Travelers cut across vast expanses of land, not finding houses in miles. No buildings were between Carroll and the Stephens farm.

CHRISTMAS RUSH AT POST OFFICE EXCELS RECORD

CHRISTMAS packages handled by the local post office this year were far more numerous than a year ago, and the number of cards was more than doubled. The volume of mail matter going and coming far exceeded that of any previous year. Notwithstanding the unprecedented task, everything was distributed by Monday night. Under strict orders from the post office department no mail was distributed on Christmas day. Only mail was received and dispatched. Members of the post office force worked like Trojans, making extra deliveries in both residence and business sections. Among obstacles which the post office had to contend with were packages, letters and cards without complete or legibly written addresses. Some omitted addresses and all kinds of identification. The annual Christmas rush fixes a heavy tax on the postal system and its passing is a source of relief.

TRADE CIRCLES HAVE BIG STIR THE LAST WEEK

THE last week before Christmas found the tide of business in Wayne running higher than customary for the season and higher than expected. With a short corn crop, perhaps people bought more frugally than usual, but, thanks to good roads, they came longer distances, and more than made up for any shrinkage due to weakened buying power. It is hoped another year will see corn reach its highest production and that both agriculture and live stock raising will reap just rewards, thus enabling all communities to maintain high standards of living without straining credit or causing other hardship.

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 30 Wayne, Neb., Thursday, December 27, 1928. No. 31

And now we must get right to work on our set of New Year's Resolutions. We hope to have them ready by December 31st. Are you making any?

Did you ever notice that the average driver on a highway will stop his car at the top of the hill? He assumes, we suppose, that because he can see in both directions, that is the safest place to stop. Right there is where he is mistaken. It is the most dangerous place in the road on which to stop. Drivers approaching from opposite directions will stop over the hill and in attempting to pass a car standing at the top of the hill may result in a head-on collision. Never stop at the top of the hill. Stop in the valley between the hills and drivers approaching from opposite directions can see to pass without danger to anyone.

To drink bootleg liquor is worse than to be made miserable by over-stuffing oneself with rich viands on a holiday or any other day, but either practice is clearly injurious and highly reprehensible.

Weather that has prevailed during Christmas week, proving a blessing to live stock, coal piles and human comfort, will not last all winter, as recollection of previous experience leads us to conclude, but it is appreciated, and the longer it continues, the higher will it rank in the esteem of inhabitants hereabouts.

The epidemic of flu, which is said to be more versatile, but not so fatal as formerly, seems to be subsiding. The disease reaches for the back or head or stomach, or all three simultaneously, if they are equally weak and defenseless, but in trying to do many things it seems to lose strength. Thus, it may be less severe on victims, by spreading and attenuating its energies rather than by concentrating attack on one department of the anatomy.

An exchange suggests that for convenience every holiday ought to be arranged to follow Sunday, thus making two days of rest in succession. It would be a sort of double-barreled holiday each time, prolonging a period of rest without intervening days of work. Christmas coming Tuesday, we rested Sunday, worked Monday, rested Tuesday and then dragged back to work Wednesday, causing the holiday spirit to act a good deal like an intermittent fever. We rather incline to the two-day vacation, fastening each holiday to Sunday and leaving it there. One day is long enough to become worn out from feasting and play, but not long enough to recover and get into the best of form for usual duties.

President-elect Hoover's visit to South America promises to have the desired effect of cementing friendly relations. Newspapers in Argentina, hitherto not overly friendly, say Mr. Hoover has succeeded in "selling" the United States to that country. Mr. Hoover has assumed no air of superiority, but has appealed to citizens of South America on grounds of exact equality, pointing out that all have similar problems to work out and that all are

YEAR CLOSES.
As we approach the end of another year, we are led to reflect on progress that has been made and try to visualize some of the things that may be or should be accomplished during the coming year. Wayne's business district whose buildings had long suffered by comparison with residence sections, made notable improvement during 1928. The new hotel, theatre, J. C. Nuss building, State Bank of Wayne building, J. J. Ahern, B. W. Wright, O. B. Hans, creamery, office and Community Creamery buildings, and W. A. Hiscok front were either built or remodelled and modernized during the year. The city's power plant has been undergoing extensive improvements, and is now installing a powerful, new engine. Walter Savidge is putting new, modern fronts on his buildings on south Main street. The artificial ice plant is now engaged in making additions to its equipment. All these forward steps contribute to the facilities and appearance of the business district. Outside this center, the new college building, about finished and ready for use, is an important addition to the school and to the city. Numerous, new residences in all parts of town have answered the demands of a growing population. In surrounding farm communities, new houses and other improvements have indicated worthy headway. Altogether long forward strides have been taken in permanent improvements during the year just drawing to a close. Looking ahead to 1929, we have confidence that needs will be met and that the spirit of improvement will not be allowed to lag. Wayne is gaining ground as a popular center, and it will continue to grow as such as long as the faith and enterprise of its people make it deserve to do so.

striving for the same high democratic ideals in government. His tour is a wise stroke in international diplomacy and will encourage the very thing needing friendly cooperation among nations.

A recent issue of a Chicago newspaper refers to Mrs. David Burke of Lawrence, Mass., as the "best manager in the world." It says she is raising a family of ten children on her husband's wages of $40 per week, and a picture of the group conveys the impression of neatness and health. This example of frugality in administering a family budget should be a stimulus to people with fewer children and greater incomes. It is doubtful if this woman envies her neighbors or gives thought to deploring her own condition. She evidently accepts her task with courage, and by careful planning solves her problem from day to day without looking to society for charity or special favor.

Governor-elect Weaver has shown the good judgment to make his appointments early. We recall that a governor many years ago delayed naming appointees until all aspiring plum-seekers were mad, unsuccessful ones because they had been kept long in painful suspense and any thing giving attention to other things. Successful ones because their terms had been shortened and needed revenues decreased. An officer with appointments to make is wise to lose no time in making them. Disappointment to losers is modified, and winners feel more joyful. Also, the new governor is showing strong symptoms of economy by consolidating jobs and trimming down the state's pay roll. We have a strong conviction that he will prove an efficient executive.

A recent magazine article does not believe it is expedient to start life as either a rich boy or a poor boy. Neither is necessarily handicapped, but a comfortable mean is suggested as the easiest and most accessible. The author points out that either may work and plan and succeed, while, as often shown, either may weaken and fail. Plenty of examples of boys belonging to rich families have early settled down to business, used their heads and hands and have become useful and constructive citizens. Likewise many boys starting out with nothing have been spurred to fit themselves to fill with credit important niches in the world. Both the rich and poor boy may have hard sledding, but either may win his goal by buckling down to his task and learning to mix sound judgment with industry, independent of the critical observations or doubtful predictions of the world.

Business.
Sioux City Journal: A noticeable slowing down in general business activity has come as the year approaches the end. Trade in a general sense has become less brisk. Holiday business has been good throughout the country and would have been better but for health and weather conditions. The influenza epidemic, though a milder attack than that of 10 years ago, reduced the buying power appreciably.

General business, however, has not the momentum now that it had a few weeks ago. Industry is moving more slowly, wholesale and jobbing activity shows a decline and retail demands outside the regular holiday demand has fallen off somewhat. This is not viewed as in the least discouraging in any quarter. It is all a part of the normal, seasonal development which comes as the old year ends and the new one begins.

Industries are looking forward to inventory taking and completion of plans for next year's business. The basic foundation of the country's business, however, is perfectly sound. That is the general agreement of the industrial leaders, wholesalers, jobbers and retailers. The buying power has not declined in a way that possibly can be interpreted as ominous. There simply has been a letup, or a letdown, in trade activity such as reasonably could be expected in normal times.

Automobile manufacturers who represent a key industry are making plans for another big year, thus indicating their faith in the buying power of the American people. The announcement that 5,000,000 cars are to be built in 1929, or that plans for that number of units are under way, is an indication of the outlook for next year's business.

It has been held for some months as the present year went on to new gains that 1929 would inherit from 1928 a more powerful momentum than was the case 12 months ago. It is not at all necessary to revise this opinion of the outlook. That condition seems to exist at this time. No unusual slack winter season is expected after the first of the year. It is a certainty that the change will not be so impressive as that which came early in 1928. Nineteen twenty-seven bequeathed little to 1928, with the result that the first six months of the present year produced a struggle to rebuild. The upswing that started about the first of June was sufficient to bring a satisfactory recovery. In many respects the present year has been somewhat remarkable. It did what it has done from what might be called a standing start. Nineteen twenty-nine will have its momentum given to it after the fashion of the relay race.

BENIGHTED.
An author contributing to a December magazine calls attention to appalling ignorance and poverty that exist in large secluded areas of the south in the United States. The people are said to be poor, overworked and under-nourished, with no modern advantages and little or no education. While our national percentage of illiteracy is about six percent, which is said to be higher than in nine other nations of the world, it runs over eighteen percent in a number of American states. In such neglected sections, farm equipment and methods are the same as those employed 150 years ago, and it is said 15,000,000 people depend on that kind of farming. The writer charges that 10,000,000 are suffering from malaria, and that some are so ignorant that they do not even know they are sick. Not many years ago, it was found that from twenty to fifty percent of the population of the south staggered under effects of the hookworm with little done to get rid of it. The miserable existence in some sections of the south leads the author to conclude that those who assume that America is almost uniformly intelligent and prosperous do not know their own country. Either the federal government or charity organizations might well look into the reported conditions and make a concerted effort to penetrate darkened spots with the wisdom of outside experience and improve methods of production and lift standards of thinking and living.

MARTIN REVIEWS 1928 SPORT HIGHLIGHTS—YEAR WAS FULL OF UPSETS IN ALL SPORTS—FOUR NEW BASEBALL MANAGERS ANNOUNCED

BY PHILIP MARTIN

BEFORE the year 1928 takes on too much glamor in the minds of sport fans—after the manner of every year that has passed—it might be worth while to review its outstanding events.

Aside from the fact that the stars exhibited a marked ability during the year to handle the sports pages and land on the front page with antics not strictly athletic—Mr. Tunney's marriage, Bill Tilden's writing and the presidential campaign activities of Bobby Jones and Helen Willis, for example—the year witnessed some fairly spectacular sport doings.

Helen Willis, who swept everything before her during the past year and who probably will reign supreme for some time to come.

IT will remain for another year, however, to prove just what the status of pugilism is going to be. The past year saw it take a damaging body blow in the highly successful championship bout between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney. That fight lost Tex Rickard's corporation $250,000 and will undoubtedly prevent the staging of anything but "naturals" for some time to come.

The outstanding golfers of the year were Bobby Jones, Johnny Farrell, Walter Hagen, Leo Diegel and Gianni Collett. Jones won the American amateur championship for the fourth time in five years and he almost won the open, until Johnny Farrell, displaying superhuman golf, beat him at the last hole of the play-off round.

The Yankees won the world series in four straight games from the St. Louis Cardinals, but they have a time making the experts believe that the Cardinals were heavy favorites because of Bill McKechnie, who plotted the Cards to a league pennant, was fired and Bill Southworth was recalled from Rochester to replace him. Buckey Harris succeeded George Hojari as manager of the Detroit Tigers and Walter Johnson was called from Newark to take Harris' place at Washington.

Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Boston Braves, went to the Cubs, and Judge Emil Fuchs, owner of the Braves, announced that he would succeed Hornsby as manager of the Braves. Johnny Evers will assist him.

THE football season was featured by upsets which began in September and kept up during the entire season. Notre Dame lost four of its games for the first time in years and lost on its home field—to Carnegie Tech—for the first time in almost a quarter of a century. Its defeat in the Army, however, was one of the outstanding upsets of the year. The far west showed up the east in inter-sectional clashes. Southern California beat Notre Dame. Stanford trounced the Army and the Oregon Aggies walked through a New York University team that was supposed to be unbeatable.

The Olympic games resulted far from satisfactory for the United States, despite the winning of the track and field events. The field performers overcame the lack of pep of the runners. In fact, Ray Barburt, who won the 400 meters, was the only American to win a track event.

Percy Williams, an unknown Canadian high school boy, furnished just about the lone bit of real color at the Olympics by winning the 100 and 200-meter dashes.

Survey Shows That Janitors Well Paid

Some interesting facts were discovered in the recent survey of current school practice made by the Nebraska State Teachers association. Among other things the study revealed that the old time janitor was coming into his own. In many schools he was receiving a larger salary than some of the teachers, and in a few cases more than some of the principals. This may not sound reasonable to some folks, but such is the case. Of course many schools dignify him with the title of custodian of the building. However, an analysis of his duties led to the conclusion that his new title had not done away with any of his old time duties. He may carry the keys but has not ceased to fire furnaces, wash windows, sweep rooms and act as a whole sanitary squad.

And the janitor is getting well paid for his service, better paid than the average grade teacher, better paid than many a high school teacher and in some few instances, better paid than the principal. The average salary in one janitor schools ranged from $780 to $1,300; in two janitor schools from $720 to $1,300. In schools having more than two janitors the salaries averaged $1,280 with a range from $1,200 to $1,620. The average salary of a grade teacher is $900 in the smaller schools and $1,100 in the larger schools. Evidently the janitor has the best of the salary proposition.

Do you think that the average janitor should be paid more than the average grade teacher? Is he worth more to the school than the teacher? Is the janitor being overpaid and the teacher underpaid? These questions the association is trying to solve with the aid of those interested in education.

Mr. Ford's Recipe.
York Republican: Henry Ford uttered a statement the other day that would challenge the believers of that old adage, "save and have." Mr. Ford holds to the doctrine that it is better to "spend and have."

On his way the other day to dinner at the White House Mr. Ford took time to offer this comment: "You often hear advice given to young boys that to succeed they must work and save their money. This is partly wrong. No successful boys ever saved any money. They spent it as fast as they could for things to improve themselves." Mr. Ford mentioned Thomas Edison as a type of successful man who never had "any money until he got so much he couldn't spend it."

Perhaps the philosophy of Mr. Ford does not differ so diametrically from the philosophy of the banker as it seems at first glance to do. But it does utter a harsh verdict on the individual who believes in the almightiness of the dollar. There is a current view that a dollar is worth one hundred cents. To the individual who believes that, a dollar can never be worth but one hundred cents. But to him who believes that a dollar can be multiplied by using it to buy the things that benefit and culture an individual or several of them, it is a thing of incalculable worth.

The Road Tax.
Fairbury News: It might be all right to raise the gas tax two cents provided the road tax were taken off of gas vehicles. There has been for years a tendency to give the man who owns an automobile the worst of it. He must first pay a personal tax on the value of the car. Then as he is the chief beneficiary in the good roads movement, a road tax was placed on the car, which varies from twelve to twenty dollars, according to the weight of the car. Then a gas tax was levied, on the theory that it was the fair way to get funds for road improvement because you pay only in proportion as you use the roads. But the special road tax was not taken off the car, and along comes the state authorities and rule that this special road tax must be paid whether the car is ever driven on the road or not. We shall favor a gas tax of any amount necessary to cover this state with good roads—provided only—that the iniquitous and unjust road tax is taken off. There is nothing that can logically be said in defense of this special road tax.

Value Of Crops State Estimated

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 21.—Nebraska's 1928 crops are valued at $328,070,000 as compared to $373,165,000 last year, $254,097,000 in 1926 and $310,533,000 in 1925, the annual inventory of the state and federal division of agricultural statistics reveals.

"However, these figures do not mean much except in the way of comparison, because less than 29 per cent of the farm income comes from the direct sale of crops," the report says. "Live stock and its products are the leading sources of farm income."

Corn exceeded the preliminary estimate with a production of 212,710,000 bushels as against 201,446,000 bushels last year and the five-year average of 226,251,000 bushels, the survey shows. The December 1 price was 71 as against 62 cents last year and the value was $151,018,000 as compared to $180,697,000 a year ago.

Spring Wheat Breaks Record.
"Winter wheat has exceeded expectations throughout the season and finally ends up with a production only slightly less than the record production of 1927," the report asserts. "This year's crop of 66,697,000 bushels is second on the record. Last year's crop was 70,868,000 bushels and the five year average 44,760,000 bushels. The December 1 price was 94 cents as against $1.09 last year and the value was $62,695,000 as compared to $77,246,000 a year ago.

"The final estimate of spring wheat is 3,222,000 bushels, as against 2,958,000 bushels last year and the five-year average of 2,233,000 bushels. The average yield of 17.9 bushels is the highest on record, exceeding that of last year by nearly a bushel. The production of all wheat totals 69,919,000 bushels as compared to 73,826,000 bushels last year and the value was $65,498,000 as against $80,352,000 last year."

Oats exceeded last year's crop by a large margin with 79,935,000 bushels as against 69,813,000 bushels last year and the five-year average of 69,220,000 bushels, the resume says. The average yield was 33 bushels as against 28.6 bushels last year, and the value was $29,996,000 as compared to $27,925,000 last year. The price was 38 cents as compared to 40 cents on December 1 a year ago.

Barley Smashes Old Figures.
"A new high record was established by barley with a production of 14,018,000 bushels as compared to 7,577,000 bushels last year, the previous high record, and the five-year average of 6,741,000 bushels," the survey continues. "The average yield of 82.5 bushels compares with 30.8 bushels last year and has not been exceeded since 1866. The average price was 51 cents against 55 cents a year ago and the value $7,149,000 against $4,167,000 last year."

"The final estimate of rye is 3,486,000 bushels as against 4,110,000 last year. The average yield was 14 bushels as against 15 bushels last year and the price 77 cents for both years. The value is $2,684,000 against $3,165,000 last year."

"Tame hay fell short of last year and is considerably below the five-year average. The total production is 2,351,000 tons as against 4,145,000 tons last year and the five-year average of 3,780,000 tons.

Determine Content Of Corn Silage

Blair, Neb.—A local experiment has just been completed by Sam Stewart in which an effort was made to determine the amount of dry corn in 50 pounds of ensilage, George Bates, Washington county agent, states.

"This 50-pound sample was taken at random from a load as it was being put into the silo," he adds. "The sample was hung in a well ventilated place and remained there until November 16, when the corn was husked and weighed, there being exactly six and a half pounds of ear corn in the 50-pound sample. After the corn was shelled it weighed five and a half pounds."

"When people think of feeding from 40 to 50 pounds of ensilage to beef animals and dairy cows, one gets the impression they are feeding too much corn. Some feeders have been able to fatten steers for the market on ensilage, alfalfa and a little cottonseed cake in about the same time as when shelled corn in much larger amounts was used. Other outstanding virtues of ensilage are its palatableness, succulence and being easy to digest."

Finish Church Addition.

West Point, Neb., Dec. 21.—The new addition to St. Mary's Catholic church, which increases the seating capacity from 532 to 900, is completed. The entire interior of the church is refinished and redecorated, rose, blue and gold leaf predominating in the wall coloring.

Two large sacred paintings are yet to come from Europe. The new altar is of marble.

Construction work was started early last spring. There is no indebtedness, members having donated their services and money. Priests are Mgr. Ford Peitz and Rev. Father Zillig, assistant.

The Democratic party, $1,600,000 in debt, seems to offer its creditors their choice of faith, hope or charity.—San Diego Union.

Five Million Cars Next Year.

Sioax City Journal: Leaders in the motor car industry predict there will be 5,000,000 automobiles and trucks built next year. Plans are now perfected for this enormous production, which is close to the peak for any single year since the motor car was invented. Persons not directly connected with the industry are surprised by this announcement. They cannot understand how the industry possibly can see its way clear to undertake manufacturing on such a large scale. For with more than 20,000,000 registrations at the present time in this country and with the understanding that the United States must account for a majority of new car sales, they wonder how the manufacturers can hope to dispose of 5,000,000 units in 1929. The question is, how can more cars be sold to the American people?

Manufacturers have their explanation ready. It is that domestic sales take care of about 60 per cent of the production. Three million new cars are to be sold in this country alone next year, say the builders. That is the average figure believed to be safe year by year for some time. This takes care of replacements, with some new sales made to first owners. In other words the American motoring public junks or trades in about 3,000,000 used cars every year, thus creating a demand for that many units for replacement.

No saturation point has been reached here and none will be reached at any time, say automobile manufacturers. Henry Ford has been saying that for years, and there are other leaders in the industry who agree with him. This conclusion is reached because of the conviction that in a motoring age such as this automobiles and trucks are regarded as essential to life and business. Replacements have come just as in other commodities, purchased and used from day to day and from year to year.

In addition, automobile manufacturers call attention to the fact that the foreign market is opening up more and more. American built cars are shipped to every country in the world, and strong sales organizations have been established. Heavy shipments to South American countries, to Europe, to Australia and New Zealand and to China and Japan annually increase the export business. Practically every nation in the world is improving its economic situation with the result that there is a general trend toward motoring. Road improvement abroad has helped American manufacturers just as it has aided them here. It is believed by manufacturers in this country that the export business will steadily increase, with the possibility that in future years the majority of automobiles built here will be sold abroad.

Habitual Criminals.

Lincoln Journal: In view of the fact that it is possible that a habitual criminal law patterned after the Baumes laws in New York will be submitted to the next legislature, the dispute arising in Minnesota over the law in effect there, is of interest to Nebraskans. The Minnesota law specifies life imprisonment as the penalty for the fourth conviction of a felony. The opposition to the law at the present time is led by persons who object to the life imprisonment sentence in cases where the fourth offense has been almost of a minor nature, but, under the law, defined as a felony.

These people do not understand the theory upon which the law functions. It does not punish solely for the fourth offense. It does not comprehend punishment at all. The prisoner does not "pay his debt to society" by serving his term. He does that by reforming after he has been released. Under the principle of the Baumes law, the prisoner who has three chances and still does not take advantage of them, must be kept away from society permanently.

The theory is solely the protection of society. Criminals are treated all over the country with the idea of setting an example that will deter others, and in a manner that is intended to reform them, rather than with the idea of punishment. The Baumes law is an expansion of this theory, based on the belief that a person who is convicted of a felony for the third or fourth time, and it is probable that he has committed many others without being detected, is an habitual criminal who cannot be reformed and from whom society must be protected.

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin

Christmas in Nebraska. Christmas in Nebraska! Don't you hear the joy-bells ringing? Every body happy now And joining in the singing. See the smiles on happy faces Round the firesides warm and cosy; With a present glad and happy And a future warm and rosy.

Christmas in Nebraska! Don't you see the lights a glowing? Snow is spread out like a blanket, And beneath the wheat is growing. See the lights of Christmas candles Through the windows brightly shine; With enough to fill her stocking Old Nebraska's feeling fine.

Christmas in Nebraska! Every door an open door; Every blessing quickly doubled By dividing with the poor. Old Nebraska, rich with blessings In which all can have a part; If all those now blest with bounty Will keep Christmas in the heart.

William A. Poynter, populist, of Boone county, was elected governor in 1898. In April of that year war was declared against Spain and Nebraska enlisted three regiments for service. The first Nebraska was sent to the Philippines under command of Col. Bratt, who was soon succeeded by Col. Stotsenberg of the regular army. Col. Stotsenberg was killed in action. The first Nebraska fired the first shot in the Filipino rebellion. Thirty years ago this Christmas nearly 1,200 Nebraska soldiers observed Christmas in the Philippines, and through the activities of the Omaha World-Herald were privileged to eat Nebraska turkey, on that holiday. The second Nebraska under Col. Charles J. Bills spent the period of the Spanish-American war at Camp Chicamauga, Tenn., and the third Nebraska under Col. William J. Bryan spent most of their service in camp at Jacksonville, Fla. After Col. Bryan resigned many of the Third Nebraska re-enlisted and served in Cuba.

The Trans-Mississippi Exposition was held in Omaha during the summer of 1898, and was one of the most successful financial and otherwise, of any exposition ever held in the United States. An attempt to continue it in 1899 as the Pan-American Exposition proved a dismal flop. President McKinley visited the exposition in September of '98, and the attendance that day was in excess of 200,000.

In 1900 Charles H. Dietrich of Hastings, republican, was elected governor. William Hayward, who had been elected senator by the legislature of 1899, died before assuming office, and the legislature of 1901 was called upon to elect two United States senators. D. H. Thompson of Lincoln and Edward Rosewater of Omaha were the leading candidates, and a bitter fight resulted in a deadlock which was finally solved by electing Gov. Dietrich and Ezra Millard of Omaha. Lieutenant Governor Ezra P. Savage succeeded Gov. Dietrich and during his term pardoned Joseph S. Bartley, who had been sentenced to prison for embezzlement while state treasurer.

A great many congressmen who profess great reverence for the constitution when prohibition is mentioned, exhibit a supreme disregard for it when some other provisions are mentioned. There is the constitutional edict that a new basis of congressional representation be made after each decennial census. That has been studiously ignored because it would legislate many congressmen out of office by changing the boundaries of their districts. The lower house of congress is now so large as to be unwieldy, and reapportionment would increase representation in some states and decrease it in others. Michigan and California would gain in representation. Nebraska stands to lose one representative. If a reapportionment bill should pass, the present congress it would be the duty of the 1929 legislature to redistrict the state. As the legislature is republican it would of course seek to make as many districts as possible solidly republican. The democrats would denounce it as a "gerrymander." And, of course, a democratic legislature would do the same thing.

A "string fiend," in newspaper parlance, is a correspondent who is paid so much per column for all his stuff that is used. The average "string fiend" is anxious to sell as much stuff as possible. The more startling or spectacular he can make his story, the more chance he has of selling it. All this merely to explain why every little snow flurry in Nebraska is a "terrible blizzard" in the eastern newspapers.

Nebraska has not had a real blizzard since January 12, 1888. Even a blizzard of equal intensity now would not be one-tenth as destructive to life and property as that one was, although the population has more than doubled and property values quadrupled. Nebraska "string fiends" have worked incalculable injury to the state.

Oil wells are coming closer and closer to Nebraska, and none need be surprised if any day brings the announcement of a gusher being brought in within the confines of the state. Wells are now being drilled near Imperial, Campbell, Beaver City, Hebron and other Nebraska points.

Hayes Center, county seat of Hayes county, is 15 miles from a railroad. It is probably the only town in the state where a court house and a school house are combined.

Contempt of court is not unusual in Nebraska, but it happens that an editor is the first man to be adjudged guilty of contempt of the supreme court. The editor of an insurance magazine in Omaha waxed a bit too sarcastic, it is alleged, in his comments on the decision of the supreme court in an insurance case, and on motion of Judge Day was cited for contempt. He was sentenced to 10 days imprisonment. District courts in Omaha tried to catch Edward Rosewater on contempt charges more than once, but never succeeded.

It is becoming more and more apparent that the guaranty law will be the chief bone of contention during the coming legislative session. Any one with a real solution of the problem will be welcomed with open arms by the governor, the legislators, the bankers and the waiting depositors in failed banks.

Girl Killed When Horses Run Away

Decatur, Neb., Dec. 26.—Addie Gilpin, about 17, was killed instantly and her mother, Mrs. Sam Gilpin, was critically injured three miles north of here late yesterday when their team of horses, hitched to a lumber wagon, became frightened and ran away. The women are "Omaha" Indians.

After running a short distance the team and wagon struck the Wood creek bridge on the Omaha reservation, causing the horses to break free of their harness and plunging the wagon into Wood creek thirty feet below.

Addie's head was crushed and Mrs. Gilpin suffered a broken leg, severe lacerations about the body and possible internal injuries. The mother was brought to Decatur for medical attention.

Mrs. Gilpin and her daughter were returning to their home on the reservation after spending the afternoon Christmas shopping in Decatur.

The Best Farmer in Nebraska.—Omaha World-Herald: When the monuments are being passed around Margaret Lydoh of Belton should not be forgotten. Upon the heroism of such as she has the greatness of Nebraska been built. The grit of the pioneer women was in her soul and it gave her the strength to conquer when everything must have looked at times pretty hopeless.

When she was widowed thirty-eight years ago her inheritance was six small children and a mortgaged quarter section of land. She stuck to the land and wrung from it a deserved success. She paid off the mortgage, build improvements upon the farm and finally acquired more here. Today she and her sons own four hundred acres of good Nebraska land all paid for.

She says Providence has been good to her in sending her always the rain and sunshine to make a crop. But her neighbors say she is the best farmer in Nebraska. And why shouldn't they?

POWER POWER MULTIPOWER

Now! For a gasoline with greater pick-up and pull.

The modern American tempo is speed. The modern American spirit is power. Old, sluggish gasolines have no more place in our life today than the old, one-cylinder, two-cylinder engines that blazed the trail for the modern multi-cylinder high compression motor.

Multipower was made to meet a mighty need. It's best because it starts quicker and pulls better.
