Addresses Club On Conventions

Prof. J. G. Lewis Tells the Kiwanians Monday About Social Scientists.

J. H. Kemp Speaks

Several Worthwhile Programs Are Being Arranged by Men for Near Future.

Prof. J. G. Lewis addressed Kiwanians Monday, following the regular noonday luncheon at Hotel Stratton, on his impressions of the convention of several social science groups which was held in Chicago holiday week. These social science groups which were held in Chicago holiday week. These social science groups which were held in Chicago holiday week.

Some years ago the professor of social sciences was considered impractical. It was thought that only men actually engaged in business could give advice on business matters. Today, Prof. Lewis stated, the theoretical professor is practical. He sees mistakes of business men and can advise corporations or individuals on control, finance and such subjects.

He stated that one professor gave such practical advice to students that the latter established business corporations which were successful in every way.

The question of whether or not professors are being subsidized was brought up. Prof. Lewis stated that he is confident that professors in this country are not hired by foreign governments as propagandists. He does think that many are consulted, just as lawyers, for advice in business matters and that they sell this advice just as a professional man would.

J. H. Kemp spoke briefly to the club Monday, giving an inspiring talk about Kiwanian ideals and duties. In behalf of the club, he welcomed the new members, Rev. W. W. Whitman, Carl Wright and E. W. Hulse.

Will Entertain Farmers. The Wayne Kiwanian club recently entertained a group of farmers of the vicinity and plans to hold such meetings at intervals, hoping eventually to include all. The second meeting at which farmers will be special guests is January 28. Another occasion planned for the farmers of the vicinity is March 7 and Clyde Filley, head of the agricultural economics department of the state university, plans to be present at that time.

Ladies' Night. Ladies' night is being arranged by Kiwanians for February 4. Ernest C. Folsom of Lincoln, governor of the Iowa-Nebraska district of Kiwanis, will be here for the occasion. This will celebrate the anniversary of the club and an evening program in it is arranged.

Will Entertain Scouts. R. H. Larson explained Monday to Kiwanians about the boy scouts week observance starting February 8 and the club voted to invite the boys' special guests for February 11. O. S. Spillman of Norfolk, will speak on "Lincoln."

J. S. Horney, Kiwanian member who was in the Wayne hospital for an operation, was able to return to his home the last of the week and was again at his office Monday. E. E. Galey, another member of the club who is in the hospital for treatments, is improving nicely.

Secretary T. S. Hook issued the first Kiwanian bulletin Monday and this contains information regarding program plans and other topics of interest to the club members. Many interesting items appear in the first issue of the bulletin.

Is Employed By Vitaphone People. J. M. Shum who designed, built and installed former radio station KGCH in 1926 at Wayne, and who had been chief operator of radio station KFBP at Havre, Mont., for the past year, resigned recently from the latter position to be with the Vitaphone corporation in California.

Mr. Shum was operator at KSO, Clarinda, Iowa, before coming to Wayne. In the past year he installed power and speech amplifiers, studio microphone control and signed system, remote control lines and apparatus for station KFBP.

Mr. Shum took part time work at the college here toward an A. B. degree while operating station KGCH.

Head of Oakdale School Resigns. Supt. G. A. Jones, head of the Oakdale school since 1927, has resigned to accept a position as salesman for the W. M. Welch Laboratory of Chicago, his resignation to be effective February 16. Headquarters in his new work will be in Lincoln. Mr. Jones formerly lived at Carroll and he is a graduate of the Wayne college. E. A. Farris of Abie, Neb., has been chosen to head the Oakdale school.

SOME ESSENTIALS TO FARM SUCCESS ARE POINTED OUT

CAPPER'S Farmer makes some suggestions touching successful farming, explaining that they are not the product of city fellows; but are based on experiences of farmers throughout the United States. Good equipment is advised, good buildings, good fences, the latest in machinery and power. Wise rotation of crops, conserving soil fertility, is necessary. Discarding crops which yield small profit, is urged. Diversification is essential, including live stock and poultry, in order to bring a steady income through the year rather than one lump sum at the end of the season. Keeping books on earnings and expenditures is important, finding out leaks and determining branches of the business to be condensed. The comforts and conveniences of the farm home, with pleasant surroundings, are pointed out as contributing to material welfare.

Rites Held In Hoskins Sunday

Services Are Conducted for Albert Jochens Who Passed Thursday in Norfolk.

Lifetime Resident

Hoskins Farmer Dies On Monday

Fred Klug Passes Away Following Long Illness, Aged Almost 70 Years.

Rites Yesterday

Funeral Services Are Conducted At Hoskins Home and Lutheran Church.

Fred Klug, well known farmer near Hoskins for many years, died at his home in Hoskins Monday morning, January 21, at 8 o'clock following a prolonged illness, aged almost 70 years. Funeral services were conducted Wednesday from the home at 1:30 and from the Lutheran church in Hoskins at 2 o'clock with Rev. E. Brenner of Norfolk, in charge. Interment was made in Hoskins cemetery.

Mr. Klug was born January 29, 1859, in Wisconsin. He came to Nebraska with his father when 12 years old and settled on land that is now Klug's addition to Norfolk, living there forty years. Mr. Klug went to Sidney, Neb., for ten years, returning to a farm near Hoskins three years ago. He moved into Hoskins last year.

Mr. Klug married Miss Heckman at Norfolk about forty-eight years ago. The latter died, thirty years ago. Mr. Klug married Miss Amelia Klawitter in Norfolk five years ago.

Deceased leaves his wife and eight sons and daughters as follows: Robert Klug of Norfolk, Arthur Klug of Hoskins, Mrs. Ernest Hille of Norfolk, Mrs. Lawrence Shellpepper of Stanton, Herman Klug of Norfolk, Herbert Klug of Hoskins, Frederick Klug of Hoskins, and Mrs. Edwin Wittenberg of Hoskins. Two brothers, William Klug and Henry Klug of Norfolk, and one sister, Mrs. Frank Klug of Tilden, survive. There are twenty grandchildren.

County Treasurer Gives Statement

Statement of County Treasurer J. J. Steele shows collections from taxes, fees, etc., for the period from July 1, 1928, until December 31, 1928, to be $204,146. Fletcher-Karres

Edwar Fletcher and Miss Ina Karres of Concord, were married in Sioux City Monday.

LOCAL TALENT ON EXHIBITION DOES EXCELLENT WORK

AMATEUR talent had avenues for expression here last week, and we would say that interpretation of character was uniformly well handled. "Stunt Night" at the State Teachers College offered a large field for the operation of student genius, and the way the young people portrayed life was happily surprising. If they keep on developing and don't lie down with an idea that they have the world by the tail, they will score success and win due reward. Simultaneously young people of the town put on a play in the community house, and the talent displayed suggested professional work. There were no dumb-bells and no weak spots that invited sympathy or called for apology. We would say that participants not only have plenty of highly attuned gray matter, but know how to use it to best advantage.

Students Enter Essay Contest

Wayne College Will Be Represented in Bar and Chemical Competition.

To Give Prizes

Young Folks Have Previously Received High Ranking in Essay Work.

Students of the Wayne State Teachers College are again taking part in essay contests this year, about eighty entering the Nebraska Bar association contest and about five writing on the contest conducted by the American Chemical society of New York.

Subject for the Bar association essays is as follows: "Why Are the Courts of America Empowered to Declare Legislative Acts Unconstitutional and Void?" Three winners in the local contest will be selected, first to receive a gold medal, second to receive a silver medal and third to receive a bronze medal. The one receiving highest rank, the gold medal, will be entered in the state contest. This essay must reach F. S. Berry of Wayne, who has charge of the state competition, by April 21. Prizes in state are: First, $100; second, $75; third, $50; and fourth, fifth and sixth, each $25. Students here have already done considerable work on the essays. The length is limited to 4,000 words.

In past years the following students have received awards from the state: Mrs. H. Arnold Karo, formerly Miss Leila Mitchell, third; Miss Claudia Bruce, second; Miss Maude Curley, third; and Miss Genevieve Struthers, first.

Prof. J. G. Lewis has charge of the local competition.

National Science Contest. Wayne students writing on the contests conducted by the American Chemical society may select one of six subjects. The essays are sent to the national society by the first of March. Prizes are: First, $500; second, $300; and third, $200.

Wayne students first took part in the national contest two years ago, Russell Mellberg winning first and Miss Genevieve Wright winning third place. Students wrote again last year and Mr. Mellberg took another first place.

Prof. J. H. Britell and Miss Louise Wendt sponsor the local contest.

Wayne Boys Play In Four Games

First Team Defeats Emerson and Loses to Norfolk—Second Team Defeated.

Wayne and Emerson high schools met in basketball at Emerson last Friday and Wayne won by 20 to 13. The second team also played at Emerson and the Emerson boys won by two points.

Norfolk met Wayne here Saturday evening and the visitors won by 24 to 10. The Norfolk second team also won.

South Sioux City and Wayne met this Friday evening and had a good contest in planned. Frank Mielenz, brother of Miss Mary Mielenz of Wayne, is coach of the South Sioux City team.

Couple Is Wed Fiftynine Years

Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan, long time residents of Wayne county, observed their fifty-ninth wedding anniversary Sunday. Immediate members of the family called through the day, but the time was spent quietly because of the illness of Mrs. Morgan. The last named woman, is somewhat improved now and is able to be up part of the day. Mrs. Morgan is 79 years old and Mr. Morgan observes his eighty-first birthday in March.

Governor Sets Budget Plans

Recommendation to Legislature Includes Building Appropriation for Wayne.

To Open New Hall

Public Is Invited to Visit New Dormitory Next Week Friday After Girls Move.

Governor Arthur J. Weaver, in presenting the budget message for 1929-31 to the state legislature Tuesday, recommended appropriation of $45,000 for building improvements at each of the state teachers colleges. Providing the budget is favored by both the house and the senate, this assures completion of the new dormitory for girls at the Wayne State Teachers College within the two-year period. The sum is sufficient to build the wing, it is estimated.

Heating plant at the college here needs to be enlarged since the construction of additional buildings and the school hopes to make this possible within the two-year period. The cost would be met either from the state budget or from the cash fund.

Opening of Nelhardt hall, the new dormitory, is planned for Friday, February 1. Dr. John J. Nelhardt, Nebraska poet laureate for whom the new hall is named, was invited by Dr. U. S. Conn to be here for the opening but Dr. Nelhardt was unable to accept the invitation because of being in New York at the same time as guests of honor at the national poets' association. Dr. Nelhardt, however, plans to visit the school at a later date.

College girls will move into the hall this week-end and will assist in showing the guests through the building next week. Girls will move from Kingsbury in Nelhardt, Terrace and North halls. Young men will move from East to Kingsbury hall and East hall will be removed.

College girls will move into the hall this week-end and will assist in showing the guests through the building next week. Girls will move from Kingsbury in Nelhardt, Terrace and North halls. Young men will move from East to Kingsbury hall and East hall will be removed.

Dies Few Days After Husband

Mrs. Ensey Moore Passes Away at Illinois Home on Birthday Anniversary.

Here Many Times

Couple Visited Relatives in County and Looked After Land For Many Years.

Mrs. Ensey Moore of Jacksonville, Ill., passed away at her home there Saturday, January 19, on her seventy-eighth birthday, just eight days after the death of her husband, Mrs. Moore contracted bronchial pneumonia just a few days before her death.

Miss Clara King was born January 19, 1851, in New York state. When she was a young girl the family moved to Illinois. Deceased was married October 29, 1873, to Ensey Moore of Jacksonville. Deceased is survived by five children, one son, Lawrence, having died in infancy. The surviving children are: George K. Moore of Winside, William Walter Moore of Travers City, Mich., Miss Margaret and Miss Ainslee Mopre and Mrs. B. C. Nelms of Jacksonville. There are nine grandchildren. Mrs. J. W. Jones and W. K. Smith of Wayne, are niece and nephew of deceased. Mrs. Paul Harrington of Omaha, is also a niece.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore had visited Wayne county a number of times, looking after land interests.

Services were held at Jacksonville and interment was made in the cemetery there.

Couple Married In Fremont Home

Miss Pearl Goldberg of Concord, Becomes Bride of George Magnuson of Laurel.

Miss Pearl Goldberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Goldberg of Concord, was united in marriage to Mr. George Magnuson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Magnuson of Laurel, Wednesday noon, January 16, Rev. O. G. Gullean, a cousin of the bride, officiating at the ceremony which took place at his home in Fremont.

The bride wore a satin dress trimmed with rhinestones and lace, and had a tulle veil with a pearl head-dress. She carried a shower bouquet of sweetpeas and pink and white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Esther Goldberg, student at Wahoo. Miss Goldberg wore a green dress with a tiered skirt and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. The bridegroom wore a suit of blue. His brother, Glen Magnuson, acted as best man.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. C. J. Gullean sang "Oh, Promise Me," and Lozetta Gullean sang "Don't Forget to Pray." Mrs. Gullean served a dinner to the bridal party after the wedding.

After an extended trip to Wahoo, Malmo, Omaha and points in between, Mr. and Mrs. Magnuson will live on a farm southeast of Laurel.

Wakefield National Bank to Open As New Institution In February

Application For Charter Is Approved—Capital and Surplus Total $50,000.

The Wakefield National Bank, with capital stock of $25,000 and surplus of $25,000, has been organized and will open for business within a week or two. Application for a charter has been approved by the treasury department, and the bank will start as soon as suitable location in Wakefield is found. The date will probably be about February 9.

Organizers of the new Wakefield institution are the following: Carl Anderson, Theo. Gustafson, Fred Muller, C. A. Sar, Robert Anderson and Thomas Rawlings of Wakefield, and the Toy National Bank of Sioux City. Officers will be named later.

Wakefield has been without a banking institution for two months.

Legion To Meet In Wayne Soon

One of Thirteen District Conventions Will Be Held Here on February 5.

State Speakers

Army Luncheon, Business Session and Banquet Are Planned by Wayne Men.

Wayne will entertain one of the thirteen district conventions of the Nebraska American Legion on Tuesday, February 5, and it is expected that fifty delegates from twenty-three posts will attend. Wayne, Dixon, Cedar, Thurston, Burt, Dakota and Cuming counties are in the third district, and Wayne was chosen the center for the meeting in this district.

The state organization at a meeting in Lincoln last week, planned thirteen such conventions in permanent units. H. A. Welch of Wayne, attended the Lincoln meeting.

Wade Martin of Stratton, state commander, C. W. Conklin of Lincoln, state adjutant, Sam Reynolds of Omaha, member of the national Legion committee, and Colonel Douglas of Lincoln, member of the state relief fund commission, are among the speakers who are expected to be in Wayne for the meeting.

An army luncheon is planned at noon with Joe Meister and Harvey Hostetter in charge. A business session will be held in the afternoon. A banquet will be arranged for the evening for visitors and the local post.

Dies Suddenly At Wakefield

Mrs. Andrew Okeson Passes Monday Evening Following Strokes of Apoplexy.

Will Hold Rites

Funeral Services Will Be Conducted This Week At Salem Lutheran Church.

Mrs. Andrew Okeson of Wakefield, passed away Monday evening about 10 o'clock following two strokes of apoplexy, aged 47 years. Mrs. Okeson was working about her home as usual Monday and was taken suddenly ill about 7 o'clock in the evening. Funeral services will be conducted at the Lutheran church in Wakefield with Rev. J. A. Martin in charge, the time to be Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Okeson's maiden name was Miss Marie Erickson. She was born in Sweden April 10, 1881. She came to this county about twenty-five years ago and located at Wakefield. She was married to Andrew Okeson of Wakefield about thirteen years ago.

Besides her husband, deceased leaves one son, Kenneth. She leaves three stepchildren, Miss Vera Okeson and Anton Okeson of Chicago, and Nels Okeson of Omaha. Mrs. Okeson leaves one sister and two brothers in Sweden, and three brothers in this county. Nels Erickson of Two Harbors, Minn., Otto Erickson of Duluth, Minn., and Albert Erickson of San Francisco, Calif.

Local Dealers At Omaha Convention

Harold Sears, H. W. Kugler and Earl Fitch went to Omaha Sunday to attend the DeLoe-Light convention held there Monday. The fact that local dealers attended the regional convention is a tribute to their work because only those accomplishing a definite quota of sales were allowed to attend. Statistics brought out the fact that 325,000 DeLoe-Light plants are now in operation on farms of the country. In the past twelve months 25,000 plants have been manufactured. This gives evidence of the growing demand for farm electricity. Several new products were demonstrated. The Wayne men returned home Tuesday.

Are To Observe Boy Scout Week

Nineteenth Anniversary of Organization to Be Remembered Throughout Country.

Arrange Features

Programs for Each Day Are Scheduled in Plans Which Are Formulated.

Boy scouts of America are observing the nineteenth anniversary of establishment of the organization in this country the week of February 8, and the Wayne scouts plan a program for the occasion. The scout council arrangements are arranging the observance.

A men's and boys' banquet will open the week Friday, February 8. The boys scouts will occupy positions in the city for Saturday, February 9, and the plan is to have them take active charge of the city duties from 9 a. m. until 6 p. m. that day. The boys will act as mayor, police officers, etc. Special services will be arranged for Sunday at the Presbyterian church with scouts attending in a group. Rev. Fenton C. Ford will have a special scout service for the occasion.

Kiwanians will have the scouts as their guests at luncheon Monday. Former Attorney General O. S. Spillman of Norfolk, will speak. The boys will present a program of their scout work before the city high school Monday and before the college training school Tuesday. Parents of scouts will be entertained Tuesday evening. Scout masters will entertain the boys Wednesday evening. Boys will have a program Thursday, February 14, for the troop committee and court of honor and merit badges will be presented. A display of scout handiwork will be made in a downtown window during the week, and the scouts will conduct military ceremonies for lowering and raising the flag.

Norfolk will entertain scouts from forty troops Saturday, February 9, and one of the Wayne boys will represent the local groups.

Teaching of citizenship is stressed by the scout organization. Records in juvenile courts throughout the country show that no first class scout has ever committed an offense which has taken him before the courts. Juvenile Judge Larson of Sioux Falls, S. D., in trying 3,800 juvenile cases, has never had a first class scout before him. One second class scout and two tenderfoot scouts, boys who started the work but did not continue, are the only ones who have appeared before him.

Heart Attack Proves Fatal

Mrs. E. Morgan of Randolph, Resident Here Many Years, Dies Suddenly.

Service In Ohio

Mr. Morgan Accompanies Body to Cincinnati Tuesday for Rites and Burial.

Mrs. E. Morgan of Randolph, resident of Wayne county for a number of years, passed away Tuesday morning, January 21, about 7 o'clock from heart trouble, aged almost 60 years. She had been ill with leakage of the heart for some time but was feeling well when she awakened Sunday. She was in the kitchen and Mr. Morgan was in another room when the latter heard Mrs. Morgan fall. He rushed to the kitchen and found her lifeless on the floor. Short service was conducted at the home in Randolph Tuesday by Rev. Mr. Wilcox, Methodist pastor, and Mr. Morgan left with the body in the afternoon for Cincinnati, Ohio, for services and burial.

Mrs. Morgan's maiden name was Miss Mary Evans. She was born at Oak Hill, Jackson county, Ohio, February 1, 1862. She was married in April, 1902, to E. Morgan, who had come to a farm southwest of Carroll in 1898. After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan went to a Wayne county farm three miles south of Randolph. In 1909 they moved to a farm near Carroll, the place now occupied by G. W. Wingett. There they retired from the farm and moved into Randolph.

Deceased leaves only her husband, besides distant relatives.

Baptists Gather In Wayne Church

Baptists of northeast Nebraska met at the church in Wayne last Thursday for one of the ten winter conferences being held in the state to promote the missionary program. Norfolk, Obert and Pilger churches, besides the Wayne church, were represented, and attendance at the programs throughout the day was good. Women of the Wayne church served meals to the visitors.

Dr. G. C. Vress of New York, pioneer missionary worker in the church in Kansas, Montana and Wyoming, lectured on "Pioneer Days," telling experiences of the early workers and urging continuance of the missionary tasks.

Mrs. W. E. Lincoln of New York, explained the trend of missionary endeavor. She represents the missionary organization. Dr. H. Q. Morton of Omaha, state executive secretary, gave figures in regard to work being done. Mrs. Clement of Lincoln, also spoke.

Obituary of Man Well Known Here

Late Enslay Moore was frequent visitor to Wayne—Life Time Resident of Illinois.

The death of Enslay Moore who passed away at his home at Jacksonville, Ill., aged 83 years, will recall to many people his frequent visits to Wayne county in the interest of land holdings here. All his life he made his home at Jacksonville, Ill., and the Jacksonville Courier of January 11, gives the following story of his life, which, covering a long period, will be of general interest:

Death claimed one of Jacksonville's best known and most highly respected citizens Thursday night when Enslay Moore, passed away at Jackson hospital. Mr. Moore's death occurred at 8 o'clock, after an illness due to pneumonia. While Mr. Moore had been in failing health for some, his serious illness was of short duration.

Enslay Moore had been associated with seventy-one of the little more than 100 years that Jacksonville has existed. As a boy he came to Jacksonville, and since that time his interest in this city has grown as he has become older. Certainly no person took keener pride in his home city than did Mr. Moore. He was prominently identified with every project that was for the good of this city. He came with his family to Jacksonville in 1857, to the residence at 857 West State street, and that was his home until the time of his death.

He attended the West District School under Bateman, Tunnell and Kirby, and entered the preparatory department of Illinois college September, 1862. While a student at the college he became a member of Sigma Pi society, an institution in which he maintained an unusual interest during his lifetime. As a new member of the society he learned to love its traditions, and his fondness increased with the years. Annually it was his custom to attend the opening meeting of the society, and to take part in the program, an act which afforded him much enjoyment.

He was graduated from Illinois college in 1868, with the degree of B. S., and delivered an address historical of the Sigma Pi society in 1871, at the annual literary exercises.

Mr. Moore joined Westminster church March 1, 1863, and was elected a trustee in 1870, serving many years as secretary and as treasurer of the board, and being president from 1886 to 1902. During that time Mr. Moore was chairman of the building committee in constructing the new stone church building. He was superintendent of the Sunday school 1880-1883 inclusive.

In 1894 he was elected president of the Morgan County Bible society, serving until 1900. In 1893 Mr. Moore became an elder in the church and has served in the Presbytery and Synod and was three times commissioned to the General Assembly.

The love of church affairs played an important part in the life of Mr. Moore. He was ever striving to promote its interests, as is evident from the many offices held by him.

College and civic affairs claimed much of his time also. In 1873 he was elected secretary of Illinois college Alumni association, and served until 1897. He was elected a trustee of Illinois college in 1892, resigning in 1901. He was also a charter trustee of the Illinois Conservatory of Music for many years, serving a portion of that time as secretary of board.

His activity in politics dated from 1874, when he was elected alderman from the second ward. In 1882 and 1895 he was elected a member of the Board of Education, serving also as a water commissioner from 1881 to 1883. He has been a delegate to city, county and state conventions of the Republican party. He served on the committee of reception to General Grant in 1880, and in 1901 Governor Yates appointed Mr. Moore a member of the Board of State Commissioners of Public Charities.

Throughout his life, since leaving college, he has read and studied along social, political and religious lines. He was a member of The Club, one of the city's oldest organizations. He was local editor of the Jacksonville Journal in 1869, assistant editor of the Jacksonville Independent in 1869-70, and wrote editorially on the Journal at times from 1878 to 1884.

His interest in and valuable contributions to history led to his election as vice-president of the Illinois Historical society, an office he held for many years. For many years he was a weekly contributor to the Journal, his news articles appearing under the caption "Old Jacksonville."

In 1870-71 Mr. Moore became a member of a book-binding firm, and he brought the first ruling machine to Jacksonville at that time.

Mr. Moore was born in Springfield, Ill., April 16, 1846. He attended school in Perry, Ill., until 1857, when he came to this city with his family. He was united in marriage with Miss Clara King on October 22, 1873, who with five children survive. One son, Lawrence died in infancy. Those surviving are William Walter Moore, Travers City, Mich.; George K. Moore, Winside, Neb.; Miss Margaret K. Moore and Miss Ainslee Moore at home, and Mrs. B. C. Nelsons of this city. There are nine grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, awaiting the arrival of relatives from a distance.

Crowds Attend Comedy Drama

"Aunt Lucia" Is Played Before Capacity Houses at Wayne Thursday and Friday.

"Aunt Lucia," comedy-drama presented by 100 local people under direction of Miss Georgia Seabury of the Universal Producing company of Fairfield, Iowa, was enjoyed by capacity crowds at the Wayne Community house Thursday and Friday evenings and netted the Wayne Professional and Business Women's club, sponsors of the play, $160 which will go into the treasury to be used for some worthy club work. Proceeds amounted to about $420, the sum being divided between the company and club after expenses were paid.

A baby pageant opened the play. With about fifty little tots on the stage, Mrs. F. A. Milder read "Take Me Back to Baby Land," Mrs. Percy Brandts furnishing the piano accompaniment.

Twenty men of Wayne comprised the college glee club which furnished feature selections. The flapper chorus, men who costumed to represent prominent feminine characters, was also a number. Another attraction was the chorus of ten young women dressed as sailor lads. Mrs. Lura Belle Johnson favored the audience with solos.

The main part of the play dealt with the amusing situations resulting from a mistaken notion that Jerry, represented by Henry Ley, is Miss Lucia Wakefield, wealthy woman from whom Bula Bula college wishes to secure a gift for a new stadium. Jerry dresses as a woman for entertainment of his fraternity brothers and is caught in the act, having to continue the disguise. Finally the real Miss Wakefield sends word that she is unable to visit the college but sends the gift of money.

Mr. Ley as Jerry and Leslie Rundell as Prof. Gaddis, the eccentric bachelor, were outstanding characters in the play. Miss Lucille Noakes, Miss Aulda Surber, Miss Maxine Rhoades, Harry Fisher, Prof. G. W. Costerisan, Supt. T. S. Hook, L. R. Shreve, Miss Ruth Ross, Mrs. Clyde Oman, Henry Reynolds, Jimmy Morris and Donald Mason also took active parts in the play.

Miss Georgia Seabury of Plainview, who directed the play for the company, showed remarkable ability in handling the work so well in the few days of training. Her pleasing personality won the confidence of those taking part in the play as well as of the public. Miss Seabury is a former Wayne student, and her many friends here were glad of an opportunity to have her here again.

In his recent address before the National Coal Association, T. W. We have many years we have made our coal purchases on the basis of the actual value of the coal as disclosed by the analysis. To make a short but accurate comparison of a coal selling at $10.00, showing an analysis of approximately 25 percent water and 9, 125 heat units against a coal selling at $14.50 with an analysis of approximately 3 1/2 percent water and 14, 365 heat units would indicate that the consumer would actually be paying at the rate of $16.40 per ton for his $10 coal, for the reason that he is paying $2.30 for the water out of every ton and an actual difference of 64 percent in the value of the coal burned. Or put it another way, on the basis of every 1000 pounds of the $14.50 burned he would have to burn 1640 pounds of the $10 coal to produce the same results. Low price per ton is not a very consistent with high heat value, aside from steam coal or screenings.

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maubin.

Other than Lincoln, Hastings is the largest city in the state that does not permit Sunday shows. A proposition to allow Sunday shows in Hastings was overwhelmingly defeated several years ago. The question will again be submitted at a special election just as soon as details can be completed. The company managing two movie houses will defray the expenses of the special election.

At latest reports practically every city in Nebraska with a population of 2,000 or more was figuring on becoming the site of a cornstalk production factory. The manufacture of paper from cornstalks is not a new thing. It was done many years ago and might have continued had it not been discovered that paper could be made more cheaply from wood pulp.

Wilson Tout is editor of the North Platte Tribune. If Editor Tout ever held to the idea that people are selfish and unconcerned about others, he let go of it recently. He has just emerged from a hospital after a long illness, and he insists that "folks are all right." Friends and strangers alike sent him books and flowers and delicacies; they visited him by phone and in person, and inquired of one another about his condition. "It was a rich find," says Editor Tout.

William Matzke, 83, a veteran of the Civil War, died at his home at Milford recently. He was one of the squad of soldiers that arrested Jefferson Davis, president of the confederacy, near Dublin, Ga., on May 10, 1865. He was a member of the 1st Wisconsin Cavalry, and is believed to have been the last of the little squad that made the arrest. Mr. Matzke received $300 for his share of the reward offered for the capture of Mr. Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. David H. Kunkel of Osceola, Neb., celebrated their golden wedding on Jan. 14. More than 200 friends and relatives joined with them in celebration of the anniversary.

Fifty-four years ago a young journeyman printer left Golden, Colo., and landed in Falls City with his bride and a few weeks. It was not his first appearance in Falls City, for he had worked in the Journal office prior to going to Golden to conduct a paper of his own. But the Golden venture didn't pan out, so he returned to Falls City. His name was, and is, Edgar W. Howe. He acquired ownership of the Journal and christened it the Journal-Globe, probably in memory of his ill-fated Golden enterprise. Three years later he sold out and drifted down the Missouri river to Atchison and with a partner started a little paper called the Atchison Globe. The rest is history.

Now another Howe, Gene, son of the one and only Ed Howe, is at the head of the Falls City Journal. Gene Howe heads a corporation capitalized at $100,000 that will publish the Falls City Daily Journal. Mr. Howe has associated with him a number of experienced newspaper men, and it is their purpose to give Falls City a metropolitan newspaper.

Which reminds this writer that his first regular employment on a Nebraska newspaper was on that same Falls City Journal, nearly 43 years ago. Prior to that time he had "edged up ems" on the Omaha Bee, Republican and Herald, intermittently, meaning thereby that he had "subbed" while merely passing through. He worked on the Journal about six months for P. Poon and Thurman, then borrowed some printing material and established the Bridgeman at Rulo, where the Burlington at that time was building a bridge across the Missouri.

If proposed solutions of the guaranty law situation were legal tender, the guaranty fund could pay out dollar for dollar and have plenty left for emergencies.

Speaking of anniversaries, although it is a bit late to speak of this one, Dec. 5, last was the 68th anniversary of the last slave sale held on Nebraska soil. On that date in 1859, the sheriff of Otoe county sold Hercules and Martha at public auction.

New Yorkers may look upon Nebraska as being part of the "wild and woolly west," but New Yorkers do not have to come to Nebraska to see Indians. There are more Indians in New York state, not counting Tammany Braves, than there are in Nebraska.

Jan. 12 was the 41st anniversary of the "big blizzard." Nebraskans celebrated it by enjoying a springlike day, such as would be "unusual" in California, but which Nebraskans accept as a mere matter of course.

The Farmers Equity Co-operative Creamery Association, Orleans, has just held another annual celebration. A few years ago the association was deeply in debt. Then it secured the services of Ole Hansen as manager. Now it operates the largest co-operative creamery in the world. In 1928 it transacted business amounting to $5,000,000. One of its products is "fresh" or unsalted butter, which it ships to New York City by the ton. Unsalted butter is "kosher," and is used by orthodox Jews, who form a considerable percentage of that city's population. During 1928 the Orleans creamery made 30,000 gallons of ice cream.

Marine Picture Comes To Theatre

Richard Dix is back in uniform in "Moran of the Marines" his latest Paramount offering which is to be shown at the Gay theatre next Sunday and Monday. In his new picture, Dix essays the role of a marine back private and gives an admirable characterization typical of the kind which has brought him to the pinnacle of screen fame.

In this picture also does Ruth Elder, the pretty trans-Atlantic aviatrix make her bid for motion picture prominence. Although it is her first professional appearance on the screen, her acting is none the less convincing and she goes through her paces like a veteran.

"Moran of the Marines" is the story of a youth who gets into trouble and takes a few Chinese handouts and thrilling fight to get him back in good graces. Meanwhile he attempts to win the general's daughter and succeeds, but only after many hair-raising, humorous and dramatic incidents have come to pass.

An admirable cast contributes to the success of the film. Roscoe Karns gives his characteristic humorous portrayal; Capt. E. H. Calvert impresses with his marine general's role and Duke Martin convinces one that there are really hard-boiled sergeants in the Marine Corps. Brooks Benedict, the villain, gets over with leering and menacing, not to mention his attempts to cause Dix trouble and embarrassment.

The story is from Linton Wells, a war correspondent who, according to advices, has "been everywhere and seen everything." His attempt at film writing is a complete success.

Facts About Nebraska

Nebraska has 430 newspapers, 19 of which are daily papers and four published semi-weekly. In 50 towns two papers are published and there are three or more published in eight towns. Twenty-three papers are published for villages outside the office of publication. Hence 374 Nebraska communities have local publications. In 29 county seats there is but one paper published in each. Nebraska has seven operating railway systems. The income passenger revenue for 1927 was $12,327,562. The freight revenue for state business was $81,964,474. The combined earnings of $103,376,685 included express, baggage, mail, milk, storage and service car income. All roads paid taxes in Nebraska totaling $5,114,490.

Safety, silence and simplicity are features of the new Ford six-brake system

ONE of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal expanding type, with braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

The many advantages of this type of braking system have long been recognized. They are brought to you in the new Ford through a series of mechanical improvements embodying much that is new in design and manufacture. A particularly unique feature is the simple way by which a special drum has been constructed to permit the use of two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.

A further improvement in braking performance is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through

According to indications fewer people than usual will move March 1.

The weather has furnished a touch of winter this week and has caused unusual assaults on coal piles.

Without making any noise or burning any red fire, Governor Weaver recommends expenditures for the biennium that would be $1,716,442 less than the previous budget and $3,609,756 less than the total recommended by former Governor McMullen.

Advertising in a newspaper with known circulation has been proved superior to any other kind. Big stores everywhere recognize the fact, using newspapers to keep people informed as to latest styles, quantities and prices. News features in which people are interested, strengthen the value of newspaper advertising.

After getting comfortably over teething, children have to run the gamut of mumps, measles, whooping cough and other diseases incident to growing up. These diseases were so planned that they are catching, and thus so much time is saved in distribution that a child may have all the popular ailments of childhood properly recorded in his experience before reaching maturity.

The king of Afghanistan has lost his job and he left in an airplane to avoid dangers involved in delay. On returning from a tour of Europe, he dived up according to modern fashions that he had observed, and he tried to impose the same on his subjects. The latter revolted in such a threatening and disagreeable manner that he found it advisable to abandon his throne and leave the country.

Completion of the new dormitory for girls at the State Teachers College is a big forward step and is a source of pride to people interested in the growth of the institution. Another wing to the dormitory, now planned and assured, will give additional advantage to the school. The care and economy employed in adding one structure after another to the college have elicited many favorable comments from people who understand values and who appreciate the needs of a growing institution.

The bank guaranty proposition has been referred to the banking committee of the house for inquiry and illumination. Some one suggests a future safeguard, that each bank should assume the cost of guaranteeing its own deposits, without outside responsibility, but with such aid from a tax on deposits as would seem reasonable. Many ideas to take care of the present deficit and look out for the future have been advanced, and it is hoped in the final analysis the state's solons will be led to follow the wisest course.

We note as a sound indication of the value of boy scout training that no scout who had attained first rank, had ever been called into a juvenile court for questioning or punishment. It is also noted that out of 3,800 cases appearing before a juvenile court at Sioux Falls, only one second class scout and two tenderfoot scouts were in the lot. The fact emphasizes the training received in the fundamentals of good citizenship. The scout movement is a big one, and its influence in shaping character entities it to grow.

The constitution of the United States requires reapportionment of congressmen every ten years according to population, but this has not been done since the census of 1920, and much criticism has been hurled at congress for failure to obey the country's fundamental document which it has taken oath to uphold. In face of criticism congress has moved to reapportion, effective following the census of 1930. In redistricting, Nebraska would lose one congressman, which prospect would grieve us if we did not believe the remaining members could furnish sufficient representation.

To insure greater care in the operation of automobiles or other motor vehicles in the state, a bill has been introduced in the legislature by Senator A. B. Wood of Scotts Bluff making provision for an examination of applicants before licenses are granted. The purpose is to determine the physical and mental fitness of an individual to drive before authority to do so is permitted. Also the proposed law would attempt to keep drunks from driving cars and menacing the public. Strong penalties are fixed to awaken people to the importance of due observance. In addition, the bill would penalize any one who interferes with motorists by impersonating an officer. Numerous fatalities due to intoxication or to other incompetence, lead to the need of more legal restrictions, and the legislature may be expected to take steps in that direction.

Big Business.
Lincoln Journal: Agriculture in Nebraska has been admitted to the ranks of big business. Not only that, but those various phases of agriculture which are usually overlooked as being minor or unimportant, are also big businesses. The farmer's chickens, except in cases where the farmer devotes himself entirely to poultry raising or goes in for it on a large scale, produce an enormous revenue when the totals for the states are considered. The dairy business has long since been listed with the major enterprises of the state and even its subdivisions, butter, cheese and ice cream are distinguishing themselves.

Nebraska produced $1,000,000 worth of honey last year. Statistics are not accurate and do not indicate the total amount produced since many farmers consumed the entire output of their hives, yet the total value for the year is set at this amazing total. The value of the money produced in this state has never been under a quarter of a million dollars in the last twelve years.

Eggs, poultry and dairy products, of course, are valuable farm products. Sales of these products run into many millions of dollars annually. Within the last five years Nebraska has exported from the state as high as eighteen cars of cabbage and ten cars of onions in one calendar year. These amounts of course do not indicate the amount of the products the state produced since many car-

UNEARNED.
A SCHEME to rake in "un-earned shekels" is to pose as a clipping bureau and send out postal cards informing recipients that personal newspaper references would be sent to them on receipt of 25 cents each. At best, the clippings are not worth the price paid. But only recently the plan to get something for nothing was revealed in use of a copy of the Wayne Herald by a distant schemer who sent cards here bearing the usual curiosity-arousing notice, and those who replied received clippings containing inconsequential references which they had already seen. One Wayne citizen who sent 25 cents in anticipation of a worth-while notice, received the brief news item of a meeting which he holds every week and which he has reported himself. If one has received favorable mention in a publication anywhere, the fact will reach him in some way without responding to cards issued to draw in easily won cash. One who receives such a card should chuck it into the fire and forget it. This card system is one of many ways employed to impose on credulous people and work little sums of money out of them without adequate returns. One is certain to be "stung" many times in the course of an average lifetime, but the number of "stingings" may be reduced as one adds years and becomes experienced and seasoned.

loads were consumed at home. In 1927 Nebraska shipped twenty-one carloads of beans. Thousands of dollars worth of melons are produced and sold.

There are no longer any minor phases of agriculture in Nebraska. Beans, melons and cabbage, commonly referred to as minor crops, are, in reality, important ones when compared with corn, wheat and livestock. Little businesses have grown into big ones. Agriculture and all its subdivisions have entered the big business class in Nebraska.

Jangling Bankers.
Lincoln Journal: The community of interest that naturally attaches to all banks doing business in the state should be a sufficient urge to bring about a community of action with respect to the situation as it exists today in connection with the deposit guaranty fund. This is not being accomplished. Who is at fault is unnecessary to say, but the jangling going on will hinder and not help to secure a satisfactory solution.

One group appears to take it for granted that it is the duty and responsibility of the bankers as a whole or as individuals to inform the legislature what is necessary to be done. The other takes the position that it is for the legislators to devise its own remedies and then to test the value of these with the experience of bankers who have none of their own to offer, but are willing to point out what will and what will not work.

The first group has some justification in the fact that the average man has little expert knowledge of finance and little information as to banking operations, and that the legislature is but a cross section of a population made up in large part of average men. They overlook the fact that most men with experience enough to justify their being chosen for the legislature possess a common sense that is often as valuable in the solution of a vexed problem as the advice of the experts.

Whatever may be the verdict as to the tactfulness or lack of it in connection with either group, the fact remains that the bankers must get together and behind whatever remedy is finally decided upon, if this most important problem is to be solved.

Business.
Sioux City Journal: Marked stability of trade has accentuated the business situation since the first of the year. Activity in all lines has been steady, proving the contention of observers that the basic foundation of the economic structure was sound. This is the greatest dependence in industry. The feeling that business is on a firm basis pervades all lines, and, because of that, the outlook is particularly optimistic.

Political developments may be interpreted as distinctly encouraging to business at this time. The compelling thing now in the nation at large is the faith of the people generally that the Hoover administration soon to begin will be one constructive and helpful. A business administration is expected because of the belief that Mr. Hoover's training and character would permit nothing else. Likewise does the country look for encouragement from the executive in a business way. It is not believed that as president Mr. Hoover will countenance any undue interference with business. Existing laws properly enforced are considered sufficiently restrictive so far as business is concerned.

Another development that has possibilities as an aid to American business was ratification of the Kellogg peace treaty renouncing war. This understanding among practically all the civilized nations of the world automatically makes many adjustments that will have far reaching influences commercially. America's foreign trade logically could be expected to expand as a result of the pact's ratification. The nations of the world surely are now to be brought closer together politically, and that cannot help but mean that they also will enjoy more intimacy in their economic life.

Still another prospect is in sight. This is the accepted plan of the Hoover administration to call an extra session of congress to deal with the question of farm relief. It is now agreed that the short session of congress will leave this problem to the next body for solution. It is believed that the special session will be convened in April, thus providing sufficient time for the new law to be enacted before crops are planted.

A sensible farm relief law enacted in the spring would go farther than anything else in encouraging domestic business activity. Confidence would be restored in a degree that would influence buying. Farm relief of the right kind is not to be considered as sectional or class legislation. All lines would be favorably affected by it, and industry would not be the least element thus influenced.

Is Found Guilty.
Madison, Neb., Jan. 22—Jack Carter was found guilty in district court in Madison county of stealing a suit of clothes valued at $40 from the A. L. Killian company, Norfolk, an offense which carries a penitentiary sentence.

The verdict was returned after an hour's deliberation. Carter also is accused of having stolen an overcoat from Sax Bros. store in Norfolk. He is 26 years old.

Departing Pastor Given Purse.
Wisner, Neb., Jan. 21—At the annual fellowship supper and business meeting of the Congregational church, a liberal purse of money was presented to Rev. H. E. Linsinger and his wife, who soon will leave for Omaha, where Mr. Linsinger will take up work in the Omaha Bible institute.

Girl Forger Is Sentenced.
Madison, Neb., Jan. 21—District Judge Chase sentenced Viola Knuth, 19, of Beemer, Neb., to a term of 1 to 20 years in the state reformatory school in York for writing a bogus check on Mrs. Norris Hupp, Wisner. The check forged was for $13 and cashed in a dry goods store in Norfolk. She pleaded guilty.

New Equipment At Hospital Here

A number of therapeutic lamps for treatment of deep-seated infections have been received at the Wayne Hospital recently. These lamps produce the infra-red rays which are invaluable aids to health. A modern laboratory has been installed on the first floor. All therapeutic X-ray and laboratory work will be done on this floor. Miss Nicholson, graduate bacteriologist, has charge of laboratory work.

Severely Burned In Making Soap

Foster, Neb., Jan. 23—Mrs. Oswald Brand, living 5 1-2 miles southwest of Foster, was severely burned from her knees down Monday forenoon. She was making soap and had the stove jar on the back of the stove when the bottom broke throwing the hot lye soap on her. A doctor was called from Plainview and dresses the burns daily.

Prominent Reader In Program Here

Miss Evelyn Gaston, nationally known reader, appeared in a recital Tuesday evening at the high school under the direction of the Wayne Kiwanis club, Woman's club and school. She read the book, "My Lady's Dress," and gave a skillful presentation of it. A fair-sized crowd attended.

Pioneer Dies At Funeral Of Friend

Madison, Neb., Jan. 21—Earl Fichter, pioneer resident of Madison county, and for many years a resident of this city, died suddenly while attending the funeral of Mark Richardson. Mr. Fichter is survived by a widow, three daughters and one son.

91 In Baby Beef Clubs.

Norfolk, Neb., Jan. 21—Baby beef club work in Madison county this year has an excellent start, as 91 youths already have been organized as members of three organizations. In the next few days, club leaders expect the total membership may reach more than 100. Club leaders have set their goal at the largest membership of any county in Nebraska. Last year Madison county clubs held the distinction of being the largest of any county group in the state.

Orchids Thrive on Milk Diet

Pure milk is the diet which L. A. Fennell, noted horticulturist of Miami, Fla., feeds his valuable young orchid plants. These plants, shown by Ruth Andre (left) and Mildred Berg, are valued at $100 each and are more than 80 years old. They came from South American jungles and were propagated in southern Florida for the holiday trade.

Ruler of Picturesque European Kingdom Celebrates 70th Year of His Reign

DURING the past month an old gentleman, sitting in his rich palace in Vienna, celebrated what is a history-making event—the seventieth year of his reign as a sovereign prince—and so quiet has been his life and so small his country, that nobody outside of a few friends feted the day with him. He is John II, prince of Liechtenstein, who probably holds the world's record for length of reign and who certainly holds it for modern Europe. He succeeded to the throne of his country on Nov. 12, 1858, when he was 19 and, therefore, legally of age, and has held his job ever since.

John II, Prince of Liechtenstein

Queen Victoria was supposed to have set a modern record when she reigned over Great Britain for 64 years. But old John has her beaten by six years and is still going strong.

Has 11,000 Subjects
His country is one of the smallest in the world, only 65 square miles with 11,000 inhabitants and a capital, Vaduz, which boasts of 1200. Liechtenstein is between Austria and Switzerland. It is composed in part of an Alpine plateau, in part of a river valley and in many ways comes near being the Arcadia poets have dreamed about.

Farming and dairying are the main occupations. There are no industries. The cost of living is very low. The taxes are practically nil. Instead of paying out money for the support of the prince, the latter has over and over again paid into the treasury his private fortune to make the little state better off living in. It is therefore, no wonder that the little country has adopted the name of its rulers.

History Is Romantic
Its very existence is a romance of history and a history of romance.

In name. In 1719 the Emperor Charles VI raised Vaduz and Schellenberg into an hereditary state of the Holy Roman Empire under the name of the principality of Liechtenstein. The new ruler and his successors bestowed gifts upon their new subjects, but preferred to live in Vienna. In fact none of them even visited the place until 1842. But the family won a great name for itself in Vienna which was then the center of all power and influence in eastern Europe.

Family Is Old
Prince Joseph Wenzel of Liechtenstein was one of Empress Maria Theresa's field marshals in the Seven Years war. Aloysius I was a noted patron of the arts; John I was an Austrian field marshal in the Napoleonic wars, and in 1809 succeeded to the supreme command of the Austrian forces.

The present prince did not hesitate when war broke out in 1866 between Austria and Prussia. He promptly sided with Austria and the Liechtensteiners sent a small military contingent. It has sometimes been jokingly said that Liechtenstein never recognized the victory of Prussia and that it was still technically at war with Prussia.

Ruler Is Benefactor
The present monarch has spent a good deal of money in building churches, art museums and municipal structures for his people. But they have not seen him for many years, because of his constant ill health and his great age. Nevertheless, John II is a small but representative donation made (the way to Vienna to wish him many more years of life as their liege lord).

It is probably the only monarch in the world who has not a personal enemy in his country.

KIWANIS CLUB.

WE retired from membership in the Kiwanis club a number of years ago on the ground that we were not needed and that our absence would not be missed. Since inception of the club we have been in full sympathy with its purposes, and have been willing to cooperate in pushing forward any public service which it deemed best to undertake. The organization has not devoted itself merely to eating and singing, only, as time wore on, to lose interest and fade into innocuous desuetude. But on the contrary the club has strengthened its foundation and extended its service as years have passed and experience has developed. It is the only compact organization of professional and business men in town, appropriately functioning in almost any direction suggested by the public welfare, and therefore, convinced that personal presence, even in a feeble way, is essentially supplemental to the spirit of cooperation, we were persuaded to be reinstated. We concluded that if we could be of greater aid to members and of larger service to the public through active affiliation with a constructive body like the Kiwanis club, we could not, in obedience to duty, continue to hold aloof while other fellows carry the load. The Kiwanis club has done many things in an unostentatious way to further the public interest and its endeavors have been felt in behalf of whole some and permanent progress.

Little Lord Fauntleroy. Sioux City Journal: When Frances Hodgson Burnett gave Little Lord Fauntleroy to the world back in the 90's she idealized for herself and for thousands of other mothers a type of young boyhood that has vanished almost completely in this country. Fathers must have suffered in those times, wondering whether their boys would ever develop into what nature meant them to be. Fathers must have known that curls and velvet breeches, wide lace collars and beribboned hats were handicaps in habitment difficult to overcome and outgrow.

Emancipation came at last. The long suffering fathers finally asserted themselves in the interest of their sons, and curls went the way of other hirsute waste in barber shops. (The result today is the man child who looks like a male of the species with short cropped hair, breeches of tweed or serge or whatnot, shirts like dad's and four-in-hand jauntily and bravely knotted in a way that has a distinct masculine appeal. While giving hurrans for woman suffrage, one or two might be offered appropriately for the freedom of the other sex, long misstrated but at last struggling through to liberty.

Any doubt as to this may be dispelled by the testimony of the late Wallace Eddinger who created the title role of Little Lord Fauntleroy. He said after he reached sturdy manhood that the public never forgot he had been the original "mamma's boy" of the stage, the "perfect" child, the "adorable darling." Subsequently he never was permitted to escape Mr. Eddinger had other roles, but the reminders that once he had been Little Lord Fauntleroy. It is said that "Dearest" was shouted into his burning ears as he made touchdowns for his alma mater, or if he succeeded in a business deal it was Little Lord Fauntleroy of old who had done it. Finally, just as Mr. Eddinger predicted, the first thing recalled when he died was that he had played the role when a child some 40 years before.

There pursued Wallace Eddinger throughout his boyhood an opprobrium from which he never could escape. Other youngsters more fortunate than he yelled "sissy!" at him whenever he went, and, while he fought battles with gallantry not expected in such a small boy, he never was able to subdue this spirit of devilry in his companions. It is not in the least surprising that he did not like Mrs. Burnett and that she, in turn, had no love for him. She expected perfection and he knew it was impossible, for, he plaintively observed in later years, he was "a real boy" and resented pretending he was "as sweet as a barrel of sugar."

Femininity and Farming. Nebraska Farmer: Dean H. L. Russell of the University of Wisconsin, in talking to dairymen on the Organized Agriculture program, pointed out very effectively one fundamental difference between the producers of food products and of other commodities, such as clothing, building material, furniture, automobiles, and luxuries. This difference is that food consumption is chiefly limited by the size of the stomach, at least for the greater number of our people, while the use of clothing, furniture, automobiles and luxuries is limited only by the purchasing power of the individual. As a result, the millionaire may not consume as much food as the working man, but for other commodities and luxuries of life he will spend many times as much, thus increasing without limit the demand for those products.

Dean Russell made this comparison to emphasize the need of new and commercial uses for farm products. As he put it there is need for more than a food string in the farmer's bow, and when those other strings are added, agriculture will play a different tune. However, Dean Russell thought that dairymen have a better opportunity than other groups in agriculture, to extend the use of their products as food, principally through the health appeal in milk and its by-products. He referred to the extensive advertising of such foods as grape fruit and orange juice from the health standpoint, and urged the dairymen to follow up the example.

Referring again to the limited consumption of food products, Dean Russell declared that the man child who looks like a male of the species with short cropped hair, breeches of tweed or serge or whatnot, shirts like dad's and four-in-hand jauntily and bravely knotted in a way that has a distinct masculine appeal. While giving hurrans for woman suffrage, one or two might be offered appropriately for the freedom of the other sex, long misstrated but at last struggling through to liberty.

Any doubt as to this may be dispelled by the testimony of the late Wallace Eddinger who created the title role of Little Lord Fauntleroy. He said after he reached sturdy manhood that the public never forgot he had been the original "mamma's boy" of the stage, the "perfect" child, the "adorable darling." Subsequently he never was permitted to escape Mr. Eddinger had other roles, but the reminders that once he had been Little Lord Fauntleroy. It is said that "Dearest" was shouted into his burning ears as he made touchdowns for his alma mater, or if he succeeded in a business deal it was Little Lord Fauntleroy of old who had done it. Finally, just as Mr. Eddinger predicted, the first thing recalled when he died was that he had played the role when a child some 40 years before.

There pursued Wallace Eddinger throughout his boyhood an opprobrium from which he never could escape. Other youngsters more fortunate than he yelled "sissy!" at him whenever he went, and, while he fought battles with gallantry not expected in such a small boy, he never was able to subdue this spirit of devilry in his companions. It is not in the least surprising that he did not like Mrs. Burnett and that she, in turn, had no love for him. She expected perfection and he knew it was impossible, for, he plaintively observed in later years, he was "a real boy" and resented pretending he was "as sweet as a barrel of sugar."

Femininity and Farming. Nebraska Farmer: Dean H. L. Russell of the University of Wisconsin, in talking to dairymen on the Organized Agriculture program, pointed out very effectively one fundamental difference between the producers of food products and of other commodities, such as clothing, building material, furniture, automobiles, and luxuries. This difference is that food consumption is chiefly limited by the size of the stomach, at least for the greater number of our people, while the use of clothing, furniture, automobiles and luxuries is limited only by the purchasing power of the individual. As a result, the millionaire may not consume as much food as the working man, but for other commodities and luxuries of life he will spend many times as much, thus increasing without limit the demand for those products.

Dean Russell made this comparison to emphasize the need of new and commercial uses for farm products. As he put it there is need for more than a food string in the farmer's bow, and when those other strings are added, agriculture will play a different tune. However, Dean Russell thought that dairymen have a better opportunity than other groups in agriculture, to extend the use of their products as food, principally through the health appeal in milk and its by-products. He referred to the extensive advertising of such foods as grape fruit and orange juice from the health standpoint, and urged the dairymen to follow up the example.

Reports were given out in all grades Friday.

The tenth English class is taking up work in composition. A number of very interesting reports on American authors were written last week.

The seventh English class is studying Neihard's poem, "The Song of Hugh Glass."

Manford Wolff completed his high school work at the close of the first semester. He will be employed in his father's shop for the remainder of the year.

Vincent Jordan was absent last week because of illness.

Grammar Grades. Those who had semester averages above ninety-five percent in the eighth grade are: Clarence Witt and Virginia Troutman. Those with averages above ninety percent in this grade are Maxine Jones, Norris Weible, Freda Weible, Evelyn Richer, Allen Carpenter, Henry Nielsen and Kathryn Lewis. Pupils with averages above eighty-five are Richard Moses, Evelyn Moeding and Lyda Jensen.

Dorothy Bartlett of the seventh grade had a semester average of above ninety. Virginia Misfeldt, Cecil Jordan and G. B. Misfeldt had averages of above eighty-five in the seventh grade.

Those neither absent nor tardy for the first semester are: Dorothea Bartlett, Evelyn Moeding, Henry Nielsen, Emma Koll, Norris Weible, Clarence Witt and Allen Carpenter.

Mrs. W. B. Lewis and Mrs. George Pinion visited the grammar room Friday afternoon.

The eighth history class debated the question, "Resolved That The United States Had More Reasons for Fighting France than England in 1812." Kathryn Lewis and Maxine Jones upheld the affirmative and Clarence Witt and Richard Moses the negative. Three seniors, Thilla Kant, Evelyn Nielsen and Walter Gerke, acted as judges.

Intermediate Grades. Frank Weible celebrated his tenth birthday Monday. Games were played and Frank served candy bars.

Members of the fifth grade are working on a health play to be given soon.

Rural pupils of the fifth and sixth grades are proud of their attendance record. Some of the pupils live two and one-half miles from school but not one of them has been tardy this year. The town pupils have five tardy marks.

Third and fourth grade pupils are planning Valentine decorations for their room.

Fourth graders started work in long division this week.

Kenneth Storovich, Esther Nielsen, Shirley Bess Misfeldt and Adeline Flear of the fourth grade were absent last week because of illness. Vernon Selders and Pearl

Jugel were absent from the third grade.

Primary Grades. Gerald Brown, Shirley Loeb-sack, Russell Sanders and Donald Weible had perfect attendance the first semester.

Mrs. H. G. Trautwein was a visitor Thursday afternoon.

The first grade received new social science readers, "An Eng-gine's Story."

Schools Nebraska's Biggest Industry

The largest industry in Nebraska is the public schools. There are 13,502 teachers, 1,683 men and 12,819 women. There are 317,221 school children; 264,004 in city and village schools and 175,397 in rural schools. Of the total number of school children, 61,457 are enrolled in high schools.

The yearly current expense of maintaining the schools amounts to about 23 million dollars. About 22 million dollars of the amount is raised through taxes. The yearly amount spent for capital outlays, new buildings and grounds approximates 5 million dollars. School property is valued at 79 million dollars and the school debt is 36 million dollars.

It costs the taxpayers about $118.63 per year to educate each child in city and village schools and about $97.42 for each child in the rural schools, based on the enrollment figures.

Our public school system is the best guarantee the state can have. Nebraskans have generally provided for the education of their youth. The public school system does two things to insure the welfare of the state—first, it builds character into future citizens; second, it increases their capacity for service to the state.

Milady's Caprice.

Omaha World Herald: A lady in New York longs for the slenderness of girlishhood. She begins to diet and a potato grower in Idaho notes with dismay that the bottom has dropped out of his market. A speaker at the convention of the American Fruit and Vegetable Shippers' association says that professional exploiters of feminine grace and beauty have caused such a lessening of demand for starchy foods that the rice and potato markets have become over supplied.

It sounds plausible. Fads, fancies and fashions have undoubtedly had far-reaching consequences in our industrial and commercial life. It is only a step farther to trace their effect upon agriculture. A great industry has been built upon the increasing demand for cosmetics and modern fashion trends have completely altered the course of corset and hairpin manufacturing. Upon bobbed hair a comparatively new occupation has been founded. There were beauty shops before hair bobbing became almost universal, but where there was one 10 years ago there are now a hundred.

Much of the trouble in the cotton industry, experienced by the grower, the manufacturer and the jobber, has been due to the trend of fashion. When 50 million women and girls shook three-fourths of the yardage of cloth they have been in the habit of wearing and demand that much of the remaining fourth shall be of silk or rayon the effect is bound to be felt.

The caprice of milady may make or mar a man of whose existence she is completely unaware. And in common with lightning you can't tell where it is going to strike next.

RUNNER TROUBLE

Suits Are Becoming Style Favorites

NEW TAILED MODELS HAVE THREE MAIN POINTS OF INTEREST, SAYS HARRIET—DOUBLE DUTY COATS; YOKES AND LENGTHENED SKIRTS

BY HARRIET

THE suit is increasing in style favor each week this winter. The prevalence of the tailored suit in mid-winter gives rise to the opinion that next spring will be a "suit season." And from the suits of the moment the wise woman can glean many guiding hints. Therefore, watching style closely, the woman clever with her needle or clever at shopping at sales, can pick up a suit for small cost that will be just as good when the fur coat comes off and the robins make known it is really spring.

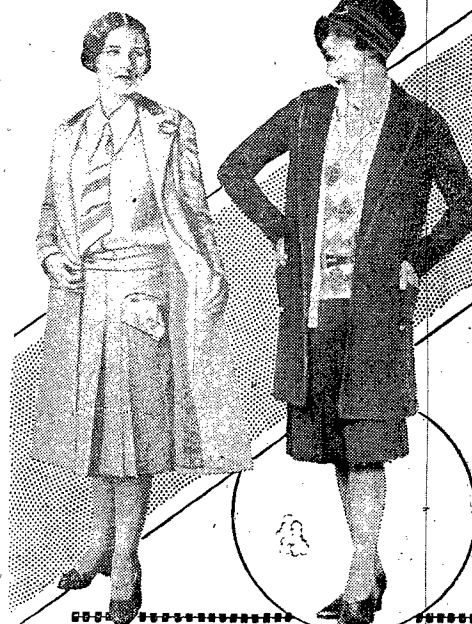

First, coats are as individual as women could wish them. The longer coat is advisable, for it serves a couple of purposes. It is not only a suit coat. It can be used as an extra with other frocks.

Second, skirts with yokes are way and ahead of plain skirts in numbers and in chic. The skirt the yoke joins the rest of the skirt allows one's imagination free rein. There are, in fact, no rules about this chic line. Some have front panels running down as part of the yoke. Others have diminutive little rounding, pointing, or squared yokes.

Third, skirts are longer. This has been said so many times that women have a way of laughing it off. But since evening clothes have begun to sweep the floor, the daytime costume, and especially the suit, has taken on new length and dignity.

Wide Color Range
Soft fabrics are the choice. Colors may range from very light pastel shades to midnight blue and chocolate brown. Since purple reds are so good this winter, it is likely that lighter shades of purple, all the soft beige lavender will be very good for spring. Since women are wearing more blue and more color under their fur coats, it is perfectly appropriate to choose a light colored suit for winter.

One beige tweed suit Paris produces, has a little brown velvet collar on its long coat, a yoked skirt with side pleats and a pocket on one side and a tuck-in skirt. It has a separate belt, of Harriet describes in detail in the accompanying article the two tailored suits illustrated here. The one on the left is a Parisian import of beige tweed, the other, a Fatou model of red serge de laine.

Diagonally striped beige and white. It is shown at the left. The beige blouse has deep pockets, to its collar, a front and back yoke, cuff-button sleeve and tucks in. A mannish striped tie in beige and dark brown completes this neat and very stylish suit.

Fatou Model Is Chic
Fatou might a red serge de laine suit (right, above) in very tailored fashion, relying on its gay color to dress it up. The skirt has deep pleats extending from a hip yoke. The long jacket has two side pockets and gold buttons.

This suit takes one of the little soft sweater blouses, a white one with red motifs in it and a gay red belt around the natural waistline. It has a little rolled collar that is fastened with a half dozen little silk buttons.

WHAT THE BIBLE IS FOR

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 3. What the Bible is For. Psalm 19:7-14; II Tim. 3:14-17.

WE have chosen as the title of this lesson the topic as given for young people and adults rather than the general title, "The Holy Scriptures." The subject matter for study is, of course, the same, but the former topic gives the study specific application and direction. It reminds us, also, that more important than anything else concerning the Bible is our practical attitude toward it and our proper use of it.

There is a great deal of reverence for the Bible of a sort that is very ineffectual and unexpressive of the spirit of the Bible itself. There are those who call it the "Holy Bible" who have never given it any place of real holiness in their lives. They revere it as something that they do not know or, at least, that they do not know with any familiarity. Such reverence is of little avail.

Response to man's restless quest of the divine.

The Bible is a great book of life, and if we do not take it into our lives, we miss altogether the very purpose for which it was written. The value of that devotion which the ancient book has been preserved for us and made available in our English speech.

Divine Precepts

It is the quality of all true religious writing to be "profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness"; and it is in proportion as writings serve that purpose, helping to make the man of God complete and furnished unto all good works, that such writings are characterized by inspiration.

In these days we are laying much more stress than formerly upon the human element in the scriptures. We are coming to see how these scriptures had their origin in human experience, that holy men of God spoke as the spirit moved them because they were holy and because they had visioned and experienced in their own lives the truth which they declared.

The Bible takes on a new meaning when we see it in this light. It becomes a great record not only of God's revelation of himself, but a record of that revelation as a re-

Not Meant as Oracle

The student who reads his Bible without taking into account the conditions of its origin and the progressive nature of its records is sure to miss the meaning of the Bible for today.

The Bible was never intended to be an oracle for man's life, taking the place of the Holy Spirit. Its purpose is to be not a barrier between man and God, but a means of bringing men to God and of leading them into that spiritual experience where, through communion with God they may find the guidance and help of his Holy Spirit. This is the supreme teaching of the Bible itself.

It finds its culminating point in the record of the life of Jesus of Nazareth who is the way, the truth and the life, and in its revelation of the work of the Holy Spirit, continuing in the souls of believers all that the disciples found in Christ's early presence and more. It is as the Bible produces this climax of experience in our own lives that we find its full meaning for us and drink most deeply of the fountain of life to which it leads.

Appreciation of Trust

To be entrusted with construction of Neihardt Hall, new dormitory for girls at the Wayne State Teachers College, is a compliment and confidence for which we wish to express sincere appreciation to Dr. U. S. Conn and associates.

The new hall embodies the latest and best in construction design and materials and we have taken great pride in this building for the Wayne college, large and growing educational center of northeast Nebraska.

Through the many years we have engaged in contracting work, our aim is to make each building a monument to the construction industry, enduring, comfortable and convenient as well as attractive.

Wayne college has for some time needed an up-to-date dormitory, and it is our wish that all enjoy the new hall as much as we have enjoyed building it.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

HORTON SMITH OF MISSOURI MAY BE SOMETHING OF A YOUNGSTER BUT HE'S HEADED STRAIGHT TOWARD BEING A "BIG SHOT" GOLFER

BY PHILIP MARTIN

It looks like all those whippers of the past two years about the golfing ability of one Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., pro, is about to break up in loud yells. To a certain extent, they already have. Mr. Smith, whose name seems very much in doubt, although he claims to be 21, seems the one new face of importance that has bobbed up in the golfing world recently. And a survey of what he has done in the money meets of the Pacific coast is enough assurance that he is on his way to big things.

Smith has sliced off the following record during the winter months: OREGON OPEN—Tied for eighth, 303. HAWAIIAN OPEN—Third, 292. SACRAMENTO OPEN—Tied for fourth, 297. CATALINA OPEN—Won, 245. LONG BEACH OPEN—Tied for third, 282. LA JOLLA OPEN—54 holes—Second, 217. SAN DIEGO OPEN—Second, 283. LOS ANGELES OPEN—Fourth, 294.

YOUR demon "statistical" fan easily bring out the fact that in these tournaments (the Catalina open excluded because it is a short nine-hole course), Mr. Smith traversed 27 rounds of golf against very stern competition in a matter of 1948 strokes, or an average of 72.8-9 strokes per 18 holes. And that is golf such that any man can be proud of.

PHYSICALLY, Horton M. Smith is a six-footer, with beautiful muscular development. He looks somewhat like Bob MacDonaid, the old Chicago master, but he hasn't the Scotch accent that Bob has. He is, in fact, a home-bred.

Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., says he's 21, but he looks younger. He is a coming golf champion if his winter record is any indication of what the future holds for him.

"When I get ready for a shot, I see the trees and the rough and the bunkers out there," said one old timer at the Los Angeles open, "but that Smith kid doesn't. He sees a golf ball and he holds the club and all he sees is the flag on the green. He doesn't know trouble lurks out there and it is a good thing."

YOUNG SMITH really has but one worry—and that isn't about his golf game. It is about his age. He says it is 21 but those who have seen him have some doubt about it.

His fear is that his extreme youth may prevent him from becoming attached to some of the rich clubs as pro.

"They are liable to think I'm just a big kid," he complains. He is just a big kid, but the kind of a fellow that many kind-hearted alumni go in search of every year to make tackles for their football teams.

WHISPERS have been heard for many months of the golfing ability of this Joplin youngster, but you know how whippers are. Keen competition often slows them down to silence.

Mr. Smith really came into prominence nationally at the P. G. A. meet in Baltimore. He was fourth in the qualifying rounds with 150 and he stayed on in the championship fight until the semi-final round when he was defeated by Al Espinosa.

He seems in the racket right now. And it seems a good thing to have somebody around who might win a tournament other than Hagen, Satapan, Diegel, Farwell, Mac Gregor and the others who have been winning the same thing for years and years.

Arithmetic Tests Are Given Pupils Throughout The Wayne City Schools

Second Semester of School Year Opens This Week—Other News in Classes.

A number of Compass Survey and Diagnostic tests in arithmetic have just been received. The Survey tests will be given to all the grade pupils to locate any difficulties they may be having in arithmetic.

The school board met Monday evening in the superintendent's office. The usual bills were allowed. A salary schedule for teachers was discussed and a motion made that it be referred to the committee to prepare a schedule.

Report cards were given out Tuesday noon. Information as to who will be eligible for the boys', girls' and mixed choruses, that are to take part in the music contest at Lincoln next spring, and the receiving of names of those wishing to enter declamatory work has been withheld until after these report cards were distributed because the pupils must have passed in three subjects in order that they be eligible to take part in either activity.

The teachers' regular business meeting was held Monday, January 14. R. K. Holder gave a talk on Physical Education.

A debate with Newcastle is planned for Saturday, January 29.

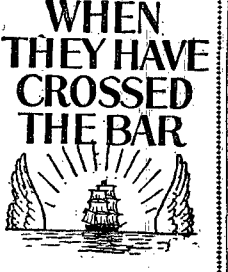

Lincoln and Wayne are trying to arrange an exchange of practice debates before the district season starts.

All the debaters listened to the radio debate over KFAB Saturday, January 12.

Next week practice debates will be held between the high school team and the district squad.

The solid geometry class reviewed the work that had been covered the last semester.

The U. S. History classes have begun the study of the Civil War. Donald Beaman, Fern Wamberg and Harriet Craven ranked highest in the Every-Pupil contest, each earning a grade of 83 percent. The Iowa General Information Test showed considerable progress for both classes. The fourth period class made the greatest progress. A good many pupils have shown rather exceptional improvement over their scores at the beginning of the year. A few days next week will Conventional Usage

Many complicated social customs have arisen in connection with death and burial, and a proper respect for those who have passed away demands that these be observed to the letter. It is part of the duty of the modern funeral director to understand these social usages and advise the bereaved family with respect to them. In our establishment we pay particular attention to this subject, and our clients may ask our advice on such matters with the fullest assurance that their confidence will be respected.

The visitors of the week were: Mrs. George Hoguewood, Mrs. T. S. Hook, Mrs. W. G. Stoven, Mrs. W. D. Hall and Evelyn Sorensen.

School Leaders Meet in County

Hartington, Neb., Jan. 18.—The Cedar county school board organization and patrons annual meeting was held at the courthouse under the direction of County Superintendent Emma Schwerin.

Thirty Cedar county school districts were represented.

The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: Oscar Beyer, president; Mrs. W. M. Dendinger, vice president; Mrs. Lena Hall, Coleridge, secretary and Jesse Lowther, Coleridge, delegate at large.

During the sessions, plans were discussed for securing a county nurse for Cedar county. This will be discussed further at the June school meeting.

Charles W. Taylor, state superintendent of public instruction, of Lincoln, gave the main address at the meetings.

Farm Interests Meet At Chadron

Chadron, Neb.—On January 22, 23, 24 and 25 the annual northwestern Nebraska farm congress, poultry and corn show will be held at Chadron. These meetings have been an annual event at Chadron for the past 15 years, and are looked forward to with great interest by the farmers in this part of the state.

The poultry show is one of the largest held in the west end of the state, and is held under the auspices of the Dawes County Poultry association. Cash premiums are offered by the Chadron chamber of commerce, and nearly 100 merchants are offering merchandise premiums as prizes in this show. In addition to the poultry, corn and small grains are exhibited, and an excellent showing made in these products.

Besides the farm exhibits other interesting features are scheduled.

Girls Win Prize For Dish Washing

Walthill, Neb.—Marie and Arline Bring, members of the Clever Cooks Cooking club of Dawes precinct, have been awarded a club pennant for being the champion dish washers of their club. The leader of this club, Mrs. Viggo Swanson, offered the pennant to the club members who during the summer months performed this rather irksome task most efficiently. Each member of the club kept a record of the times that they washed the family dishes and of the time required to do it.

By using the contest idea dish washing was changed from a chore to a game. The Bring sisters were best at the game.

Efficiency of Lamp Can Be Raised

Lincoln, Neb.—The family that spends its mornings and evenings at this season of the year in rooms lit by kerosene or gasoline lamps can improve the lighting of the room in four ways. First, by using more high candle power lamps; second, by using more than one lamp in a room; third, by putting the lamps in the kitchen above the level of the eye; and fourth, by shading all lamps so the light will fall where it is needed. A large proportion of such homes now have a gasoline lamp for the sitting room or dining room, but mother works in the kitchen by the light of a kerosene lamp on the table. If the ceiling is high, the lamp should be placed on a level with her eyes.

Employment Shows Gain In Nebraska

(By Staff Correspondent)

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 17—Meat packing plants, rubber tire factories and flour mills increased employment during December and indications are that their needs will be slightly better than normal for some time, the monthly report of the United States labor department said today.

"Holiday buying furnished temporary employment for clerical and sales help in the trading centers, but there is not a surplus of labor," the report continued. "Employment in railroad shops decreased slightly, as did calls for farm help. Winter weather curtailed building operations but the year ahead gives promise of much more activity in this line than in the previous 12 months. At present there is a surplus of both resident and migratory labor."

The Weather. York Republican: For exhilarating winters, give the palm to Nebraska.

For those whose blood has begun to run sluggishly and whose pedal extremities are extremely susceptible to weather changes, Florida and California may charm in winter.

But for those who crave exhilaration and zest and get it without subjecting themselves to fear and fatigue, Nebraska is strong in the winter.

Nebraska's winters are mild and delightful. Occasionally a breeze gets loose up in Wyoming and sweeps down expectedly from the northwest. But soon the resistance of Nebraska weather asserts itself and the Wyoming maverick is hurled back where it belongs. Then all is serene and delightful again.

Increase In Sheep Feeding This Year

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 18—Nebraska has 848,000 sheep on feed, an increase of 23 percent over a year ago, A. E. Anderson, state and federal agricultural statistician, declared today.

"This is Nebraska's banner sheep feeding year, despite the reduced corn and hay crops," he said. "Nebraska may well point with pride to the fact that she is not only feeding nearly 18 percent of the total sheep in the United States, but also has 30 percent of the total feeding sheep in the eleven corn belt states. Since the Scottsbluff, Neb., district has about one-third of the state's feeding sheep, this garden spot of the state is furnishing nearly 10 percent of the mutton supply in the corn belt states and nearly 6 percent of the country's present supply on hand."

The revised estimate of the number on feed a year ago is 690,000 head of which 235,000 head were fed in the Scottsbluff district, he continued. The sheep driven out to Nebraska feeders from Omaha during the last six months of 1928 was 121,000 head as against 75,000 head for the same period of the previous year.

"Market receipts of grass fattened native lambs and grain fattened lambs for the present feeding season total 476,000 head," Mr. Anderson stated, adding that market receipts for sheep in the year ending June 30, 1929, may reach 150,000 head.
