State Pioneer Passes Sunday

August F. Huwaldt, Early Land Holder and Banker of Randolph, Dies at Age of 75.

Burial Wednesday

Services and Masonic Rites Are Conducted at Randolph Presbyterian Church.

August F. Huwaldt, pioneer of northeast Nebraska and prominent land owner and banker, passed away Sunday morning at 3 o'clock at his home in Norfolk, aged 75 years, 5 months and 25 days. Mr. Huwaldt was ill with the flu about three weeks and had apparently recovered when he suffered a stroke of apoplexy and died four days afterward. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 at the Randolph Presbyterian church. C. H. Randall of Randolph, friend of deceased since pioneer days, gave an historical overview. Former Grand Master A. R. Davis of Wayne, officiated at Masonic rites which followed. Burial was made in Randolph cemetery, the eight sons of deceased acting as pallbearers.

For fifty years Mr. Huwaldt was connected with growth of northeast Nebraska. Coming from Davenport, Iowa, to land he owned, now the site of Stanton, in 1870, Mr. Huwaldt farmed his 80 acres there for a few years. He then traded this land for livestock and located on a homestead in Pierce county, three miles southwest of Randolph. He lived in a dugout and later in a sod house. He broke prairie on the site of Randolph before that town started. Mr. Huwaldt and C. H. Randall helped raise the grade for the railroad when the line was extended to Randolph.

Deceased acquired, through the timber claim right, land adjoining his homestead. He planted trees on this land which were saved in lumber in 1908 to build his new farm home. One thousand feet of lumber of his own raising were used in the structure. Mr. Huwaldt lived in this home southwest of Randolph until 1925 when he went to Norfolk.

Mr. Huwaldt increased his land holdings in Pierce county until he acquired 1,340 acres, all adjoining the original homestead. When he retired, Mr. Huwaldt sold all his land to his eight sons who now own it. The land is all farmed by sons, excepting that belonging to Edward Huwaldt, and a daughter of deceased lives on this.

Mr. Huwaldt was through many years connected with banking interests in this section of the state. He was a director for a long period in the Security National Bank of Randolph, and held this office until his death. He had been vice president of the Carroll State Bank since its organization four years ago. His son, Edward Huwaldt, is cashier of the same institution. Mr. Huwaldt was president of the Pierce County Farmers Mutual Insurance company for twenty years, and since his resignation four years ago his son, August Huwaldt, Jr., has held the office.

Deceased was an active Mason, being a member of Golden Shield lodge No. 295 of Randolph, the Scottish Rite consistory of Sioux City, and the Shrine of Omaha. In his daily life he exemplified the ideals of the order. He was always mindful of the blessing bestowed citizens of the United States and was a loyal defender of the country's principles.

Mr. Huwaldt was born in Holstein, Germany, on August 2, 1852. He came to America when 16 years old and located at Davenport, Iowa. He later acquired land in Nebraska and came here to live. He married his Christian wife, Christine, at Randolph, the latter died thirty-three years ago. He later married Miss Minnie Groepner. His wife and ten children survive. The children are: John Huwaldt, Mrs. Hattie Volk, August Huwaldt, Jr., George Huwaldt, Charles Huwaldt, Walter Huwaldt, Fern Huwaldt and Arthur Huwaldt, all of Randolph, Edward Huwaldt of Carroll, and Mrs. Lena Tracy of Cozad, Neb. All the children were with Mr. Huwaldt during his last illness and all attended the funeral. Mr. Huwaldt also leaves twenty-one grandchildren. He has one brother, Henry Huwaldt of Dunning, Neb., who survives.

Carroll State Bank was closed Wednesday afternoon to pay respect to the passing of this leader and pioneer citizen.

KIWANIANS WITH FARMER FRIENDS AT NOONDAY MEAL

SIGNIFICANT of closer understanding and greater mutual helpfulness is the touching elbows by farmers and townsmen evidenced at the Kiwanians' noonday luncheon Monday. The policy of the club to entertain brethren from rural precincts around Wayne to sharpen acquaintance and exchange viewpoints is wholesome and constructive. Wayne is an extraordinary town in qualities of perception and warm hospitality, and equally as intelligent and substantial are the citizens who cultivate the rich farms hereabouts and produce large crops and fine herds and flocks. Steadily improving as a town giving service to neighboring territory, Wayne is becoming more and more popular as a social and business magnet, and more and more people from longer distances are coming to share in the multiplying advantages here afforded. Fully sensing conditions, people in farming communities make this a real response. People from town and country alike appreciate their interdependence, cooperating for the welfare of all concerned. Thus, it is gratifying to see them get together occasionally, helping one another with their exchange of experiences and suggestions.

Father Wayne Lady Expires

J. S. Welsh, Father of Mrs. S. A. Lutgen, Dies Sunday After Few Weeks' Illness.

Nebraska Pioneer

Came in Eighties to Johnson County As Carpenter—Part in Early Building.

Jacob S. Welsh, father of Mrs. S. A. Lutgen of Wayne, passed away Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock following a few weeks' illness with flu and complications resulting from advanced age, aged 82 years, 3 months and 18 days. Dr. and Mrs. Lutgen and son, Joe, accompanied the body to Sterling, Neb., Tuesday and last rites and burial were held at the cemetery there, with the Methodist pastor of Sterling officiating.

Deceased was born at Mt. Joy, Lancaster county, Pa., November 9, 1846. He was one of a family of seven children, all of whom predeceased him in death with the exception of one sister, Mrs. Sarah Coulter, of Sheldon, Pa. Both the father and grandfather of the deceased were pastors of M. E. churches.

Mr. Welsh spent his early life as an apprentice to a cabinet maker, leaving this work to assist in caring for the family when the three older brothers enlisted in the Union army at the outbreak of the Civil war. Twice Mr. Welsh was refused as a recruit in the ranks because of his youth and had just received his acceptance when the war ended.

Deceased was employed in the P. H. Marsh factories at Mt. Joy as a cabinet worker and machinist until 1873 when he joined the railroad forces, going west as foreman of a bridge construction crew, working as far west as Missouri.

In 1877 Mr. Welsh returned to Pennsylvania and was married April 19 of that year to Sarah F. Carpenter, also the child of a Methodist pastor. Deceased reentered the employ of the Marsh company, but a few years later the family moved to Maryetta, Pa., where Mr. Welsh and his cousin, William R. Skinner, went into the undertaking business. Mr. Welsh made, trimmed and lined the caskets and Mr. Skinner acted as embalmer. The climate at Maryetta proved injurious to the health of Mrs. Welsh and the family contemplated moving back to Pennsylvania when a group from Maryetta locality moved to Sterling, Neb., and Mr. Welsh was requested to join the group because of the lack of good cabinet workmen and carpenters. As all pioneer men, Mr. Welsh was an adept at all branches of his trade.

Mr. Welsh had part in the building of almost every structure in the early history of Johnson county and was a well-known figure in the vicinity of Sterling. Until ten years ago Mr. Welsh continued to live there when he disposed of his property and divided his time between his two daughters, Mrs. J. B. Case of Portland, Ore., and Mrs. Lutgen of Wayne. In the past four years deceased had been unable to make the trip to Oregon and lived in Wayne at the Dr. Lutgen home.

Besides the two daughters deceased is survived by five grandchildren, Ray, Barbara, Willard and Helen Case of Portland, and Joe Lutgen of Wayne. Mrs. Welsh passed away twenty-five years ago in October.

Deceased was a charter member of the Nemaha chapter of the W. O. W. lodge of Sterling and members of the chapter there assisted with last rites.

Mr. Jurgensen was born August 5, 1846, in Frederichshorn, Germany. He married Miss Johanna Hoehne there November 14, 1871. The family came to America in 1890 and located at Yutan, Neb. In 1907 they came to a farm in Cuming county. Deceased retired from the farm in 1914 and moved into Wisner. His wife passed away in October, 1918. Mr. Jurgensen had since made his home with his seven children.

SIX DOLLARS PER MONTH, BOARD AND ROOM THROWN IN

MISS Charlotte M. White who returned last week from an eight months' sojourn with relatives in the Black Hills, was one of the pioneer teachers of Wayne county, and at one time served as county superintendent. In 1862 when the struggle was on between the north and south, Miss White taught in Ohio at $6 per month with board and lodging included. It was the custom to room and board around among school patrons, and in that way spread out and thin down the cost of operation. Miss White remembers that living quarters and the daily bill of fare were not overly luxurious. She came to Wayne county in 1865 when teachers' wages ranged from $30 to $40 per month. Later Miss White received $65 per month for serving as superintendent of the Winside school. In addition to supervising the work of the school, she taught five grades. Teachers were very much underpaid in the early days, as Miss White points out, emphasizing the fact that the responsibility undertaken in the development of citizenship is greater in the school than in any other field outside of the home.

Blaze Destroys Baker Residence

Fire of Unknown Origin Destroys Interior of Building and Some Furnishings.

Fire of unknown origin did considerable damage to the residence of Miss Kate Baker and the furnishings Tuesday at noon. Interior of the building is ruined, windows are broken and considerable furniture, bed clothing, etc., is destroyed. Loss to the building has not yet been estimated and is difficult to reckon as it is not known exactly what was destroyed. Miss Baker carried some insurance on the house but not sufficient to cover the loss.

Smoke was found pouring from the foundation of the building and firemen had great difficulty in locating the fire. No one was in the house when the fire broke out at the time. As the smoke was so dense and no blaze burst forth the interior of the structure was mostly destroyed before the fire was noticed. It is thought the blaze started between the walls in the basement as the back porch of the building burned first.

Wakefield Firm Has Anniversary

Completion of New Building Marks Twenty Years for Ekeroth & Sar Company.

Ekeroth & Sar hardware and lumber firm of Wakefield, is celebrating its twentieth anniversary with completion of new and enlarged quarters. Starting in the lumber business in a small frame structure on the site of the post office, the company has grown since 1909 to one of the largest in this section and the new fifty-foot store with office is a fitting realization of progress.

C. A. Sar and M. F. Ekeroth came to Wakefield January 26, 1909, the former from Essex, Iowa, and the latter from Omaha. A few years previous both had been connected with the C. Paul and Tacoma Lumber company at Tacoma, Wash. Returning to the middle west, Mr. Sar was in the lumber and hardware business at Essex and Mr. Ekeroth was with the Adams & Kelley Sash and Door company in Omaha. They came to Wakefield in 1909 and bought the A. J. Coleson lumber yards. The office was a small structure on the postoffice site.

Mr. Sar and Mr. Ekeroth built a new building for the company on the same site in 1911. The men bought the hardware stock of William Kay, which was in the present variety store building, in 1914 and moved this to the new building.

The firm bought from H. P. Shumway in 1915 the property to the south of the store. The post-office was then located in the building. The lumber and hardware firm used the rear of the post office building for a warehouse.

In 1917 Ekeroth & Sar leased their corner building and remodeled the structure. The hardware and lumber firm was then moved into the property which the post-office had occupied.

Expansion of the firm continued and the owners needed more warehouse room. Four years ago they bought the Woodrough property, adjoining their store on the south, from Harry Brittain. The two buildings have been combined and remodeled the past year. Almost the entire structure is new, and fixtures have been replaced with new ones. The store has ample display shelves and tables, as well as sufficient office and radio rooms.

During the period Mr. Sar and Mr. Ekeroth have been building their firm, they have been active workers in their community. Mr. Sar has been mayor of Wakefield for eight years. He was city clerk three years and councilman six years. Mr. Ekeroth has served on the school board for ten years, being secretary most of that time. Both are active in the Salem Lutheran church and have served on the board of trustees, and Mr. Ekeroth is on the board of deacons. Mr. Ekeroth has assisted in musical circles in the church, taking part in the church male quartet and doing much solo work. Both men are members of the Wakefield Country club.

Ben Franklin, Sage

York Republican: Benjamin Franklin is rarely mentioned with the nation's great but there has not been a successor to him and he stands preeminent as philosopher, legislator and diplomat. Many have imitated him, but none have rivaled him or come within the shadow of his unique greatness.

His "Poor Richard's Almanac" yields sayings that are peculiarly applicable to human experience. His terse proverbs contain sermons in sentences, discourses in a word. Read a few of them again.

"The noblest question in the world is, what good may I do in it?"

"Reading makes a full man—meditation a profound man—discourse a clear man."

"Good sense is a thing all need, few have and none think they want."

"Laziness travels so slowly, that poverty soon overtakes him."

"It's the easiest thing in the world for a man to deceive himself."

"Plough deep, while sluggards sleep and you shall have corn to sell and to keep."

"Leisure is time for doing something useful."

"A wise man will desire no more than what he may get justly, use soberly, distribute cheerfully and leave contentedly."

"If you would reap praise you must sow the seeds; gentle words and useful deeds."

It has been said of Franklin that he never said a word too soon, never said a word too late and never said a word too much. While he never seemed to attempt eloquence, he never spoke without attaining it. He was sparing with words but lavish with ideas.

The recurrence of his birthday—his 223rd—recalls his immense contribution to American ideals, politics and thrift. He is the patron saint whose influence inspired hundreds of thousands of his fellow countrymen to think patiently, act prudently and spend wisely.

Long Beach, Calif., Jan. 20—Dear Journal: Unless a fellow is toughened to it, and doesn't care much whether he lives or dies, the Pacific coast ocean is no good swimming hole at this time of year. Opposite the parking space I am now occupying perhaps a half dozen lunatics take a short plunge every morning. One of these "regulars" informed me that he had adopted this system as a health measure. I frankly predicted that he would die of softening of the brain. He thought I was joking.

If ever I am driven to the extremity of some of the people out here on the "Pike" who advertise themselves as clairvoyants, palmists, cradle-to-grave historians, and all that sort of thing, I shall specialize as a mind reader. Already I can differentiate on sight between a native, one who has become seasoned to the troubles met with here, and the tourist. The native has a quiet and inoffensive manner, goes about his regular business, same as we do back east, and never looks at the ocean unless he is a fisherman and has some use for it. The seasoned resident is the speculator and booster. He observes the silver lining, and has more than a casual interest in oil and projects and scenic wonders, and seems to forget that everywhere in this wild and wicked world is about as wonderful as anywhere, dependent upon the angle from which observations are taken. It is perfectly easy to tell a tourist; he has on his face the expression of one who is looking for a remittance. He also sits on the beach benches, when the air is not too chilly and watches the "breakers" for hours at a stretch.

We had a day of it the nineteenth. The Birds took me over to Wilmington, and I went on the boat, the Calawii, to visit the Selckes before they embarked for Honolulu. The voyage across will last six days. If the Pacific is what its name implies, it should be a real pleasure cleaving the water at the rate of about fifteen knots an hour, no station stops and no side tracking for freights, but let the sea become angry, as it sometimes does, and passengers will think better of dry land than of anything else in the world. After wishing the folks the best ever, we drove hurriedly west on the inland road to a point opposite San Pedro and had a fine view of the ship as it sailed from the "port of Los Angeles" out toward the deep water where there is better going.

At 1 p. m. we were back in the bigger city and the five of us had dinner—it was no lunch—at a popular cafeteria where we were privileged to have green peas, string beans, tomatoes and new potatoes, fresh from the gardens. There were also carrots (but who wants carrots?) And I want to say right here, to the people of Nebraska, who may feel inclined to cherish race hatred, that Southern California, and the whole coast country for that matter, would be in what Billy Sunday calls a hell of a fix, but for the industrious, clean and intelligent little Japanese who are reluctantly tolerated as market gardeners but ruthlessly barred from owning the land they cultivate.

Nebraska once passed such a fool law in the dreadful fear that the state might otherwise be overrun with orientals and the rest of us be driven across to Council Bluffs in search of improved social and industrial conditions. Yesterday out near Wilmington I saw a number of Japanese children, as happy, sweet faced little fellows as anybody's children; and I could not help thinking they were as much God's folks as Doc Shannon, or Mose Ackerman, or Bill Porter, or Gosh.

Called to see the Furses and Harpham's and just missed meeting Mrs. H. B. Grainger, Mrs. Fol-son and two others from Lincoln. It was a keen disappointment. I have been invited to eat with both parties visited yesterday, and I hope these invitations will be frequently renewed for my resources begin to look like Mother Hubbard's pantry, and I don't want to return to Lincoln as impoverished physically as I sometimes feel mentally.

And I am in this fix. The glad sun never shines for me Bright as it once did. BIX.

Ordered to Pay Alimony Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 25—The supreme court has ordered Emil Haase, Madison county, to pay all alimony he was previously instructed to pay in full within 10 days or show cause February 4 why he has not done so. His wife, Hattie, is suing him for divorce. His wife lost in district court, but was held to be entitled to alimony pending the disposition of the case.

Referring to a speaker, some one remarked that he diluted two hours of thinking into two hours of talk. That ought to hold him in fidence for a time.

One farmer assures the Herald that last fall's rains soaked into the ground and put it in good shape, and that if average moisture falls in the spring, prospects for the year's crops will be favorable.

Groundhog day will be along next Saturday, but it has lost its importance as a weather forecaster. People expect nothing less than six weeks more of winter, and if they get less they will be profoundly thankful.

January will soon pass and with it recollection of a month, whose weary elements combined an unusually large number of sharp teeth. No terrible storms stopped traffic or caused live stock to suffer, but the weather has been sufficiently severe to mark the season and prevent one from mistaking it for summer.

Van E. Peterson, secretary of the state guaranty fund commission, testifying in court at Lincoln, declared that deflation following the war had caused the failure of 75 percent of the 269 banks taken over by the commission. He said the deflation period which lasted five years, impaired the capital of many banks.

Tuesday was the last day for filing bills in the state senate, and with 191 up to that time, the final day would have to bring a veritable flood to equal the number, 314, filed in the upper branch two years ago. Reduction in number of bills may be accepted as a favorable symptom, avoiding waste of time in smothering useless proposals and affording more time for consideration of important measures. AS TO LOYALTY.
 The Ponca Journal stretches its big type across one of its pages to urge everybody to buy everything at home. This reflects a most commendable spirit of co-operation with home dealers. It shows its desire to lend its influence in behalf of local trade development and community growth. But we note with regret, as evidence of bald incongruity, that not one advertisement of a dry goods store or clothing store appears in the newspaper. If, as a medium to reach its territory, a newspaper is not considered as being generous enough to local dealers to justify them in employing it in making regular appeals to buyers, they cannot consistently object to acceptance of advertising contracts from big city stores that appreciate the field covered and wish to invite business from it. In fact, a local dealer who hopes to get by without newspaper advertising, ought to applaud introduction of outside support that enables a newspaper to grow bigger and better and thus to shout more lustily for the home community. The newspaper which is inadequately patronized by home dealers, but which discriminates against foreign advertisers on the ground of home loyalty, is likely to be compelled to trim down service, finding frequent occasion to apologize, at the same time drawing scornful criticism from the local non-advertising merchant who says the "home paper is not what it ought to be." This same non-advertiser is likely to be one of those exercising high-powered voices in demanding restricted newspaper advertising and curtailed newspaper income. He is also a leader among those who go to outside markets to buy goods which he does not handle, but which he could buy from local fellow-dealers. The Journal's appeal to its parishioners to buy at home would not be tragic if its columns were overflowing with home advertising. In present fast changing conditions in rural communities, with distances reduced by improved transportation, people will trade where dealers are alive to popular needs and are alert to keeping present and prospective customers informed through the local press.

denes of helpful statesmanship by not choking the legislative hope with worthless bills that do not stand a ghost of a show of becoming laws. Now that the time for filing is over, members will turn undivided attention to earnest consideration of constructive business.

Wayne electric rates still seem high to large users of the service and especially when compared with those fixed at some other points. We understand that Wayne's rates contrast sharply with those established by a corporation at Neligh. Rates ought to be revised downward as much as possible to warrant the policy of municipal operation.

Bernard Shaw once wrote that he was not in the least naturally brilliant and that if literary men generally had gone through the grind which he had experienced, he would have a thousand rivals more brilliant than himself. He added that anybody could acquire his skill by paying the price. "Ninety-nine percent of me is just like everybody else," said Mr. Shaw. It is the one percent—persevering energy—which adds the element of genius.

We understand the federal government has suggested that a light showing Wayne be fixed on a high building for the convenience of air travel. Also a local citizen suggests that Wayne ought to have an airport. This is being done in many places, and we should not lag behind in looking out for advantages that will accrue from air navigation. Sailing through the air is gaining in practicality, and whether we take to the idea or not, we might as well plan accordingly.

H. E. Fosdick says the estimate of an increase in the number of church members of 573,723, and a decrease in the number of churches of 1,470 is a hopeful sign. He emphasizes the need of larger and fewer churches and of changed and advanced forms of ministry. He notes an increase in religious education among people who have no intention to preach, but who, in different lines of endeavor, become students to lend efforts in behalf of spiritual ideals. Fosdick sees closer inquiry and enlightened interest with promise of a richer and deeper religious faith.

A Long Beach newspaper mentioning effects of an unusual storm along the southwest coast, calls attention to the odd experience of a family who moved from Minnesota to California chiefly to escape severe electric storms, but who suffered the hard luck of having their lately acquired California home struck by lightning. Disappointed and homesick, the lightning will give them an excuse to move back to Minnesota where they will likely stay for a year and then return to the coast. Like the experience of many others, they will have to move back and forth several times before deciding where to locate permanently.

An archaeologist who had been in Mongolia digging up and classifying fossils, and who expected to leave there again this week to extend his investigations, talked over a radio tie-up Tuesday night. According to this man's experience, Mongolia is an uninviting country for human existence. Temperatures vary from 140 above to 50 below, and sand storms are so harboiled that flying particles perforate the skin. Trying to locate evidence of prehistoric life is a hard task and calls for great courage and endurance. The explorer, just leaving for another battle to wrest new facts from the earth, was successful in finding the remains of dinosaurs which lived thousands of years before recorded time, and which are reported often to have attained a length of seventy feet. The

CITY SCHOOLS.

Education is more generally and evenly distributed than it was in the early days, due to increased appreciation of its advantages, more uniform prosperity and improved school systems. In the old days material needs were often so pressing that education was neglected. Fewer social contacts and circumscribed vision, with comparatively few opportunities, did not fire the ambition of many to be carefully schooled and especially to acquire advanced knowledge. With the years, more people have been able and inclined to take advantage of the public schools, and the result is a better informed and more highly polished citizenship. To many in the old days attending school was a task, approached reluctantly. It was usually a narrow grind, with learning restricted to a few subjects and with little or no encouragement for initiative. Now courses of study are calculated to develop individuality and resourcefulness, with variety that invites interest and arouses pleasure. An examination of the Wayne city school reveals advanced and successful methods to bring children to maturity with well grounded foundations in the essentials of orderly, useful living. The Wayne school is under fortunate leadership, Supt. T. S. Hook who has been in charge for a number of years, is neither too old to stand still nor too young to be fanciful and unstable. He has shown himself alert to sift new ideas and new methods and to give his work advantage of the best to be found. His strong teaching force—product of his judgment—merits and receives general approval. Supt. Hook has not only proved his good qualities as a school man, but he has entrenched himself as a most desirable asset to the community by his activity in support of public affairs generally. A man who assumes the responsibility of such successful leadership in a community, deserves encouragement and support.

philanthropist would be consistent enough if he did not shrink from thought of shelling out our own earnings or putting forth our own efforts for the popular welfare. Willingness to get something for nothing may weaken our character fiber, as the Canadian community believed.

SMITH'S APPEAL.

Former Governor Al. Smith, defeated presidential candidate of the democratic party, spoke over a radio tieup recently, urging members of his party to wipe out a deficit of $1,500,000 and form a closer organization for future campaigns. In regard to the late contest, it is likely Smith's talks over the radio insured victory for the republican candidate.

In the course of his late speech, he makes this appeal: "It has been the habit of the Democratic party to function only six months in every four years. Waste and extravagance are necessary companions to hurried organization. "When the Democratic party finds itself facing a national convention, it begins to shop around the country for the place likely to put up the most money toward the liquidation of the deficit. "The party should be responsible to the rank and file, and the whole system of calling upon a few rich men to make up a party deficit is wrong. It tends to place too much power exactly where it should not be, and that is in the hands of a few. "The Democratic party must be a progressive, vigorous, militant party, standing firmly for the rights of all people, constantly laboring for the vindication of the policies and principles underlying the establishment of our country. "Obviously, to be effective, the party cannot confine its activities to the short period of time immediately preceding a national election and allow its adherents to be lulled into the belief either that the problems have been settled or will eventually settle themselves. "The National Democratic Committee should have suitable and well-equipped offices where Democrats throughout the country may keep in touch with the members of Congress and the affairs of the nation. "I am entirely dissatisfied to have the Democratic party be simply a party of opposition."

Economy.
 Lincoln Journal: President Coolidge threw a handful of gunpowder on the flames of the cruiser fray in the senate when he again urged that the time clause be removed from the cruiser bill. The president has been a supporter of the cruiser bill. But the president is the same Coolidge who made economy in national government famous. On the face of it reconciliation of these two positions seems impossible. However, the president has something in mind more than the mere addition of fifteen cruisers to our fleet. He wants the construction authorized, but in the interest of economy, left to the president's discretion as to when construction shall begin. Immediate construction of fifteen cruisers and an aircraft carrier would be a heavy drain on national resources. It is highly improbable that the president would refuse to sign the cruiser bill even if an unsatisfactory time clause was included. His devotion to his economy program is hardly strong enough to lead him to veto the bill, especially since the latter is another of the president's pets. We do have an example, however, in a national figure of a man who seems to put economy before everything else. Secretary Mellon who sees national financial problems in the same light as the president, is fighting the prohibition enforcement appropriation to the last ditch because it means the expenditure of $25,000,000. His opposition cannot be attributed to wet sentiment be-causes the wets in the senate favor the bill. It is simply because the appropriation threatens the budget that Mr. Mellon is indignant. It is pleasant, for a change, to have two such zealous guardians of the treasury in office. There is a real danger in not spending money where it is needed. But there are plenty of men in congress who are so willing to spend government funds that a budget is easily struck. The drag Coolidge economy effects on congress is a boon to the country.

Pump Irrigation.

(Omaha World-Herald.)
 In central Nebraska where the rainfall is uncertain and the threat of drought an ever present worry, many farmers have solved the problem of moisture insurance by what is known as pump irrigation. Each farm has its own private irrigation system, the water being pumped from wells.

If there has not ever been any doubt whether or not such a system is worth its cost, the experience of Dolmar S. Anderson of Dawson county, one of this year's master farmers, ought to settle it. Mr. Anderson had 250 acres of alfalfa which was an old stand and which he wanted to break up and put in corn. Observation had shown him, however, that corn on alfalfa land in that region gave only a poor return unless there was plenty of moisture. Instead of taking a chance on rainfall he invested five thousand dollars in an irrigation system. Last year he broke out the land, planted corn and raised 45 bushels to the acre. But for hail damage he estimates his crop would have made 70 bushels. Neighbors on the same kind of land but without irrigation, raised an average of 15 bushels. A little simple arithmetic will show the earnings of his five thousand dollars' worth of pump and ditches to have been 8,250 bushels of corn. That is the excess over the 15 bushels per acre which the land would have raised without irrigation.

It rather looks as though Mr. Anderson's plan has paid for itself and earned a nice profit besides in a single year of operation.

House Ready to Look Into Bank Situation

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 30.—The forces of the house of representatives were mobilized and ready to day for their investigation of the banking situation but rumblings were still heard from yesterday's battle when the maneuver was executed that side-tracked the senate's investigation plan.

In an almost straight party alignment, the joint resolution from the senate calling for thorough investigation was "shunted" into the house finance committee, while approval was given to an investigation by a sub-committee of the house banking committee. The motion referring the resolution of the finance committee was adopted by a 67-to-30 vote. Six Republicans joined with the twenty-four Democrats against the motion but no Democrats supported it. Republicans opposing the motion were: Representatives Harry A. Foster, Omaha; George H. Moyer, Madison; Henry Oelkers, Eustis; Obed Raesch, Norfolk; George M. Story, Rainview, and Stanley Wright, Albia.

The resolution, which was introduced in the senate by Senator Kenneth S. Wherry of Pawnee City, would have asked the government to name a committee of five men outside the legislature to make a thorough investigation and audit of the guaranty fund commission since its creation. The house sub-committee, composed of Representatives A. D. Spencer of Barneston; Earl Hasselbach, St. Edward, and Walter M. Burr, Juniata, has employed George F. Allen of Scottbluff to assist in the investigation. A stenographer and other clerical assistants probably will be employed by the committee, which plans to make computations of claims against the guaranty fund and assets of defunct banks. A measure proposing a four-year closed season on prairie chickens in Nebraska was given a favorable report by the house committee on fish and game. The bill allows no killing of these birds until October 1, 1933. After that an open season is fixed each year from October 1 to 15, inclusive. The same committee made considerable revision in a bill proposing drastic reductions in bag limits on ducks and geese. The measure proposed a limit of ten on the number of ducks to be killed on any one day, but the committee raised it to fifteen, and also made the possession limit twenty-five instead of twenty. The committee increased the maximum daily kill of geese from two to five. This leaves the limits on geese the same as at present, but lowers the limit on ducks from forty to twenty.

The house committee on privileges and elections reported favorably on H. R. No. 199, a constitutional amendment providing that initiated proposals to change the constitution shall be officially published in newspapers in all counties four consecutive weeks immediately preceding the general elections. This will make the publication requirements uniform for all constitutional provisions, whether submitted by the legislature or through the initiative.

Noted Magician Dies In England

Frank VanHoven, internationally known magician, cousin of Mrs. F. S. Berry of Wayne, died in Birmingham, England, Friday, January 18. He was taken ill with pneumonia while playing at Birmingham. The body will be brought to this country for funeral service and burial, and the rites will probably be held at Baltimore where a brother, Harry, lives.

Mr. VanHoven was born at Jackson, Neb., in 1886. He selected his profession when 7 years old after witnessing the mysterious feats of a magician who appeared in Jackson. After attending school at St. Joseph, Mo., he joined a medicine show, and received a dollar a day for his services. In 1910 his skill became recognized and he played a long run in New York and afterward traveled in Europe. He played seven request programs for the king and queen of England. Mr. VanHoven appeared on the orpheum circuit in Sioux City and Omaha several times during his career.

When his mother, Mrs. D. J. Splane, died in March, 1920, Mr. VanHoven was in Sioux City. He recently had been playing at theatres in England.

The Holstein heifer was 13 times junior champion and six times grand champion. Shows at which she competed included some of the largest midwestern state fairs as well as the National Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo, Ia., and the National Dairy Exposition at Memphis, Tenn.

Anniversary Of Circle Observed

Bible Class Celebrates Twenty-seventh Year Tuesday at J. H. Wright Home. The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wright afforded a happy scene Tuesday afternoon when the twenty-seventh anniversary of the Wayne Bible Study circle was celebrated. The fellowship was enhanced by several guests, Mrs. C. S. Beebe, Mrs. W. E. Mines, Miss Amelia Ring and Mrs. W. C. Jackman and daughter of Wakefield, and Mrs. David Rees and Mrs. W. O. Eichelberger of Norfolk. The addresses were appreciated and the solo by Mrs. Iva Walkick of Chicago, was enjoyed.

Miss Bessie Schram of Newcastle, gave the principal address. Her seven years of service in visitation and evangelistic work among the Tamilian women of southern India formed a fitting background for a study of God's work in many lives. Miss Schram's endeavors have been in a practically untouched field where the need is appalling. The people are illiterate, the economic conditions being so serious that few have time for anything but the eking out of the direct existence. A condition of famine prevails there, making living difficult. Teachers and gospel workers are needed in that hot and thirsty southern part of India, the speaker stated.

Miss Amelia Ring of Wakefield, whose term in China was shortened by the awful war conditions of the recent rebellion, told briefly and feelingly of God's provision and protection during days of suspense and danger in that land. Her story was inspiring. Miss Ethel Curtis of Seward, who has just finished her course in the Bible Institute of Philadelphia and who is taking a few months' work at the State Teachers College here while waiting to go to Africa, gave an interesting account of her work in Philadelphia and her plans for the future. Miss Genevieve Craig gave a testimony and prayer ended the fellowship. Dainty refreshments were served and greetings were exchanged. Representatives of nine denominations departed, unitedly relying on the work of Jesus Christ.

Youth Is Killed In Car Accident

Raymond Mittelstaedt of Norfolk, Dies From Injuries Received When Struck.

Norfolk News, January 30: While wiping the windshield on his automobile at the outskirts of West Point last night about 8:15 o'clock, Raymond Mittelstaedt, 21, Norfolk, was fatally injured when struck by an automobile driven by a hit-and-run driver. The young man died without regaining consciousness after being brought in an ambulance to a Norfolk hospital.

Mr. Mittelstaedt, together with his mother, Mrs. Carl Mittelstaedt, 813 South Tenth street, and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Rohrke, Hoskins, were returning to Norfolk from Omaha where they had been on a pleasure trip. When the windshield became covered with a coating of ice, obscuring his vision, young Mittelstaedt stopped his machine at the side of the highway. Driver Speeds Away.

He had barely started to wipe the windshield when he was struck down by the automobile, which hit the Mittelstaedt car a glancing blow. Without making any pretense at halting his car, the driver speeded away. No clue as to his identity has been obtained.

Relatives of the young man, who suffered fractures of the skull and leg, immediately summoned a doctor. After his arrival, it was then decided to rush the injured man to a Norfolk hospital in an ambulance, but he died two hours after the accident.

Mr. Mittelstaedt was employed by the Central West Public Service company as a bookkeeper, having worked in that capacity for about eighteen months.

Relatives Uninjured. Mrs. Mittelstaedt and Mr. and Mrs. Rohrke, who had remained in the car, were uninjured. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

This accident is somewhat similar to the one that cost the life of Harry Newcomb, manager of the Norfolk Creamery, in that he was struck down on a highway near West Point by a driver whose identity has never been learned. Since the first of the year, six residents of Madison county have lost their lives as the result of automobile accidents.

Soil Fertility Is Emphasized

Walthill, Neb.—Meetings were held recently at Walthill and Thurston to discuss crop rotations from the standpoint of building up soil fertility and preventing soil erosion. P. H. Stewart, of the Agricultural college, who assisted with the meeting, pointed out that Thurston county was fortunate to have the loess soil, which is generally agreed by soil authorities to be one of the richest extensive soil deposits in the world. "It will wear out, however," he said, "particularly in the organic or vegetable matter content and in nitrogen which comes from the organic matter through its decay." He stressed the fact that legumes like alfalfa and sweet clover restore organic matter and nitrogen and prevent erosion by increasing the intake and water holding capacity of the soil.

The most important question buyers of alfalfa seed should ask in getting seed from planting is "Where was the seed grown?" said Mr. Stewart in discussing alfalfa varieties and sources of seed. Much unhardy seed has been shipped into Nebraska from foreign countries and from southwestern states. A good way to get common alfalfa of known origin, according to Mr. Stewart, is to buy "verified" seed. This seed carries a tag showing the state where the seed was grown. Nebraska farmers should insist on verified seed.

The question of when to plow sweet clover was also discussed. It was pointed out that plowing sweet clover under when it is 8 to 12 inches high in the spring of the second year puts about 80 per cent of the nitrogen in the soil that would be secured in letting the sweet clover grow on the land the full two seasons. The sweet clover should not be allowed to get too high, as this will dry out the soil, and the subsequent corn crop on the land will suffer from a lack of water.

Sows Need Proper Food and Exercise

Lincoln, Neb.—The average grain ration lacks the proper amount of protein needed by brood sows at this season of the year. W. J. Loeffel, of the Agricultural college, told the hog men meeting at organized agriculture in Lincoln. Best results have been obtained at the college by mixing cottonseed meal, linseed oil meal or alfalfa meal with tankage, rather than feeding the tankage straight. Skimmilk or butter milk is one of the best protein supplements, if it is available in quantities and at a reasonable price. One hundred pounds of milk is worth half as much as a bushel of corn. Sows may be forced to take exercise by feeding them in the far corner of the lot or field. Some hog men drive their sows every day.

Greatest Bred Sow Sale

Monday, February 4th

AT THE FARM, 7 MILES NORTH OF WISNER, NEB.

The draft of sows that go into this sale are not show sows, but just the big, roomy, deep-sided, long smooth kind that it requires for real producers. And these sows have proven just that very thing in our herd by producing that great crop of spring pigs we raised last summer.

The tried sows being the mothers and the gilts are the litter sisters of our sensational spring crop.

For the general pork producer and the man who wants to raise his own boars, this offering comes as near filling those requirements as any offered anywhere this season. There will be none bigger, none showing more real breed character and future usefulness.

Take into consideration the great boars we have used in mating these good sows and gilts; THE DASHER—the great spring boar who has made a name for himself merely on his merits alone. While not a show boar, he outsold all the show boars of the past season; in fact the highest selling boar for many years.

ROLLER'S PRIDE—The sensational boar of 1927, selling at $460.00, the highest selling boar of that year; As a sire he has proven to be one of the best of the breed. His sons made the highest average sale of the year 1927; his sons and grandsons made the two highest average sales of the year 1928. The public sales being the most practical of all tests, selling to farmers, feeders and the general public combined, purchasing with ARMOUR in mind as he is the final judge, the pork barrel being the end of all hogs.

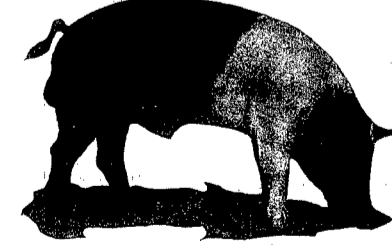

AGITATOR—a real boar as to type, quality and feet, a boar who sold as a pig at $225.00.

We have purchased this boar as an outcross on our big ROLLER'S PRIDE gilts. You will want some bred to him.

Take the day off February 4th, and be our guests—have a big dinner with us and see one of the best herds and some of the best boars you ever saw.

CHILCOTT BROS.

D. H. Cunningham, Auctioneer Wisner, Nebraska

The Dasher. The offering to be made by Chilcott Brothers February 4 will far surpass any they have heretofore made in size, type, smoothness, feet and bone, good heads and everything considered. The offering includes ten head of tried sows, the equal of which is seldom seen. They weigh as high as 660 pounds, and each one is a producer. The fall gilts to be sold are of like quality and soundness, not a poor one in the lot, all having good soundness, high backs and good feet. People are invited to the sale at the farm on the gravelled highway No. 15, seven miles north of Wisner, and they will see a pig show representing the best blood lines of the breed.

The Dashers. The offering to be made by Chilcott Brothers paid $455 last fall, being the highest selling pig for many years. He is a pig of body depth, high back, good feet and bone, and in all respects of highest quality. The senior boar, Roller's Pride, is one of the largest of the breed, and he is regarded one of the greatest boars of today. Agitator is another boar belonging to the Chilcott herd. He is a real boar, selling at $225 as a pig in 1927. These three outstanding boars belong to the Chilcott herd, and their pigs will be found in the sale which Chilcott Brothers will hold February 4 as will be noted by an advertisement in this issue of the Herald.

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin.

Life is full of compensations. For twelve years the great Krug brewing plant in Omaha has stood idle and deserted. Now it is to be utilized in the manufacture of pulp from cornstalks, thus putting roofs over the heads of children instead of taking roofs from over their heads.

The south half of California is equal in area to the entire state of Nebraska. Southern California in 1928 produced $248,000,000 worth of agricultural and fruit products—$118,000,000 less than Nebraska's corn and wheat crops were worth, to say nothing of Nebraska's additional $50,000,000 worth of sugar beets, oats, alfalfa and rye. Nebraska's butter and egg crop was worth more than California's citrus fruit crop. Nebraska's poultry crop was worth more than California's boasted orange crop. Stand up for Nebraska!

When Nebraska sets out to do big things she knows no limitations. When "Bob" Simmons was re-elected to congress by a majority of 53,000 last November he received the largest majority given to any successful congressional candidate in the entire republic.

When Miss Ellen Harn of Kearsaw celebrated her 100th birthday recently she rounded out a century in which the world had made its greatest developments. She was approaching womanhood before there were a thousand miles of railroad in the United States. The only illuminating agents were gas and whale oil. Morse had not yet invented the telegraph. Nebraska was an eventuality of future time when she started to school. There was a tinge of gray in her hair when the first rail was laid on a Nebraska railroad. During her lifetime the number of states in the Union more than doubled.

On March 12 the two Tjarks sisters were married to the two Vanlengen brothers at Glenvil. On Jan. 17 the two Vanlengens wives each gave birth to a daughter.

An old-timer recalls the fact that cornstalk manufactures is not a new thing. He recalls the time when he made cornstalk feedies.

Mrs. Laura Roper Vance of Enid, Okla., formerly of Nebraska, came back to the old home state recently and with old-time friends at Oak endeavored to locate the spot where she was captured by Indians on August 7, 1864. Laura Roper was then a girl of 16. She started across the prairie to visit a neighbor, Mrs. Enbanks. In the evening Miss Roper started home, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Roper and their two children. They were attacked by Indians and Miss Roper carried away. After being traded back and forth among various camps she was finally rescued from a bluff overlooking "The Narrows" of the nearby river.

Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Cray of Guide Rock celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Jan. 26.

The city of Lincoln points with pride to the fact that it has enjoyed 35 consecutive months without a homicide.

When T. M. Casad retired from the publishing of the Bartley Inter-Ocean and leased the paper to Virgil Lantz, he had just founded out his 54th year in the newspaper business.

Speaking of paper mills, Nebraska had a paper industry more than 40 years ago. Not news print but strawboard. The mill was erected at Lincoln during the days when the bonus system was in vogue. Just as the mill was beginning to function it burned down and was never rebuilt. For many years the boiler and two great iron vats were features of the landscape.

The bonus system of encouraging the establishment of local industries was played to a fare-you-well in Nebraska some forty years ago. A Chicago concern worked the best system of them all. The concern promoted the erection of local creameries. Its system was to send a representative into the community and explain that the concern was a great creamery concern and only needed local cooperation. A creamery plant would cost only $8,000 or $10,000, depending upon the "sucker" crop. Of this amount the creamery concern would subscribe 51 per cent, local investors to put up the other 49 per cent. That looked good. Nobody in the community thought to investigate the matter of milk supply. The 49 per cent was put

Invent Bombs To Spray Fruit Trees

Walthill, Neb., Jan. 28—J. A. Moffett, of this town and L. A. Moffett, Fremont, have been studying fruit tree spraying for years in connection with their nursery business. As a result of an idea which they had, there has been developed a spray bomb which will be made in various sizes, ranging from an apple size to a pumpkin size, to be used according to the tree to be sprayed. The bomb is hung in the tree. It contains the powdered spray and an explosive chemical of sufficient power to "put" the powder under the skin of the tree, so that it goes up, and the top of the leaves as it settles back down. Bombs have been made in Omaha and tested at Fremont. The results have been very satisfactory and successful, it is said. It is stated by Moffett brothers that they expect to be able to put spray bombs on the market so that the cost of spraying will be less than under any method now in use. In a commercial orchard bombs could be hung on wires running through the trees and the fuse touched off by electricity, permitting complete spraying of a large orchard at a single operation of an electric switch, according to J. A. Moffett.

Never Again, Says Howard

Lincoln Journal: Writing to Nebraska newspapers on the night before the new year came in Congress man Howard of the Third district, made known his intention never again to attend a New Year's party at one of the popular Washington restaurants where reservations cost big money and where people within the shadow of the capitol violate the Volstead act. He says: "Keen scalpers bought up blocks of reservations at the most favored restaurants at this evening are reaping fat profits from the purses of the careless ones who failed to buy reservations before the scalpers got them. I know one place where the 'coveted' reservation was advertised at $10 per person, and this evening men are scrambling for a chance to buy a seat at those tables for $20."

Business Sold By Winside Man

Monday, January 28, on the twenty-first anniversary of his advent in the mercantile business at Winside, a transaction was made whereby the R. H. Morrow general store there became the property of Rev. J. B. Bruce Wylie. At almost the same hour twenty-one years ago Mr. Morrow purchased the business, then a dry goods and millinery store, from A. H. Carter. "Uncle Bob," as Mr. Morrow is best known to Winside people, has with the help of his wife, carried on a growing business for nearly quarter of a century. Many of his patrons "Uncle Bob" has never seen but he never fails to recognize their voices and footsteps. Mr. Morrow has a complete knowledge of the stock in the establishment and has done most of the ordering. Charles Under has been "right hand" man to Mr. Morrow for a number of years. When the Morrrows first purchased the business, the stock was housed in what is now the G. C. Francis cafe. Nine years later the establishment was moved to the building two doors east of that site and a line of groceries was added. Mr. and Mrs. Morrow continued in business there until January, 1928, when the stock was moved to its present location. Robert H. Morrow was born at Lovington, Ill., October 19, 1870, and lived there until he went to Hall county, Nebraska. He was married to Miss Minnie M. Bright December 8, 1898, at Grand Island. In September of 1902, Mr. and Mrs. Morrow left Hall county and went to Basset where they resided until the following spring when they came to Wayne county. For six years Mr. Morrow worked for W. H. McClusky on a farm two miles east of Winside. At the end of this time he found it necessary to go into other work and bought the A. H. Carter store. The present owner, Rev. J. B. Bruce Wylie, came to Winside as pastor of the Methodist church in 1915. Three years later Rev. Wylie bought the farm two and one-half miles southeast of Winside, and lived there for eight years. While on the farm he was pastor of the M. E. church at Wisner, driving back and forth. Two years ago Rev. Wylie rented his farm and he and Mrs. Wylie went to California for a visit of seven months. After their return Rev. Wylie was pastor of the M. E. church at Walthill until last September when he resigned and returned to Winside. William Wylie, oldest son of Rev. and Mrs. Wylie, now operates the farm in conjunction with his father. Rev. Wylie wishes it understood that he will continue work from the pulpits whenever possible. Because of throat trouble he has been unable to continue preaching regularly. Rev. Wylie was in the mercantile business twenty-four years ago. Mr. Morrow will assist Rev. Wylie in the store for some time. One of the Coolidge policies which Mr. Hoover is already carrying out is silence.—Louisville Courier-Journal. MILLER HUGGINS AND CONNIE MACK, WHO BOSSSED AMERICAN LEAGUE'S LEAD-ING 1928 CLUBS, APPEAR SET FOR 1929—LYN LARY IS NEW

BY PHILIP MARTIN

IT is apparent that Miller Huggins, whose New York Yankees won the American League pennant last summer, and Connie Mack, whose Athletics ran second, are content with practically the same squad that they had last summer to wage the 1929 campaign. One is convinced of this after glancing over the rosters of these two clubs. The Yankees are taking a few more than 30 players south to training camp and the A's have less than 30 to entertain during this period. But every jack in the lot is a major league player, with one or two exceptions. The Yankees, to be true, have sent away a few of their 1928 players, but not any of major importance. And, as a result, only one new face is likely to be seen out there every day—Lyn Lary, the shortstop phenom from the Pacific coast.

Lyn Lary, erstwhile Pacific coast shortstop phenom, is going to get a chance to play the same position with the Yankees this year. And that is a chance!

Connie Mack is more of a stand-patter than Huggins. Of the 27 men being taken south this year only four are real newcomers to the majors. They are Pitcher Winiard, infielder Rhyme and outfielders LeBourveau and Summa. However, Mack has two problems on hand. One is at first base, the other is at third. And those two difficulties may harass him quite a bit. Mack can use Fox, Orwoll or Dykes at first. He can use Hill, Dykes, Rhyme or Fox at third. It is generally believed that Fox will be at one of these spots, because of his aggressiveness and hard hitting, but which spot is the question. His outfield is certain to include Simmons and Miller. But the third man is uncertain, although Haas is believed to have the edge for a regular job at this time. All those good pitchers are there, and that good catching staff is on hand.

THE prospects of the rest of the clubs may be summed up, briefly: Boston—Carrigan should have an improved ball club if some of his youngsters carry on as he expects. Washington—Johnson should get good pitching. Many positions are uncertain at this time, especially in the outfield. Cleveland—Only two men who played the opening game last summer are to start again this year. Plenty, plenty youngsters on hand and you know youngsters. Chicago—Nothing that impresses you except Falk, Lyons and Thomas and a few rookies. St. Louis—To be in the race all the way. A well-balanced club. Detroit—New manager in Becky Harris, one new outfielder and George Uble, who may have a big year. Watch 'em.

We have been having great times this past week. Sunday was a success. We want to thank the double male quartet for the excellent music both morning and evening. Everyone was blessed by the men's and boys' supper Tuesday night. Everything was good. A thoroughly impressive talk by Rev. J. I. Elrod and also by Mr. Larson. The boy speakers made their hit, too. And, say, how we did sing. And the double male quartet was with us again. The second of the Fellowship suppers on Wednesday night was in a class by itself. This has been a great, good week.

REPENTANCE AND FAITH
The International Union Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 10. Repentance and Faith. Acts 2:32-39; Luke 15:11-24.

THE alternative title of this lesson for young people and adults is "The Way to Forgiveness." Combining these lesson titles we have the proportion in accord with the essential teaching of scriptures that the way to forgiveness is the way of repentance and faith.

The man who has no faith has no real sense of values. He cannot discern rightly the things that are to be forgiven of the spirit and meaning of forgiveness itself. The man in whose life there is no place for repentance can hardly be expected to understand the meaning of repentance in others, or the forgiveness which any gracious man, mindful of his own faults, is ready to accord to his fellows.
Divine grace in forgiveness is the glorified aspect of this quality of human sympathy and understanding. Or, perhaps, we should put it the other way round and say that human sympathy and understanding, especially as they become expressed in a forgiving attitude toward our fellow men, are the earthly counterpart of heavenly grace.
New Attitude
The experience that founded the Christian church was an experience of repentance. It established at once the new attitude of heart and mind in which a new structure of love and fellowship was possible. It was the note of repentance that was sounded in the days of preparation. The cry of John the Baptist as he came from the wilderness was, "Repent, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand."
The first manifestation of the teaching of Jesus was in the winning of sinners. It was seeking these, he declared, that he had specially come, and his appeal and invitation found response as many sinner and discouraged souls turned to him with new hope and devotion.
The picture of the woman who was a sinner bathing the feet of Jesus and drying them with the hairs of her head is one that touches the very heart of this gospel of love and of repentance. The stern Pharisee, Simon, even though he was a large-spirited enough to invite Jesus to his guest, could not quite understand so beautifully human a manifestation of grace, and its response.

WHEN THEY HAVE CROSSED THE BAR. A Beautiful Rite. A funeral is not just a practical matter of fact affair. Human nature refuses to consider it in any such light. The last farewell to a loved one should be made an impressive rite which will hold sacred associations in the memory. This aspect of our work is given full consideration. While we strive for the utmost efficiency, we do not let it obscure the deep significance of the occasion. Every detail from the planning of the service to the selection of the smallest accessory, is made to contribute to the general effect. The result is a well-rounded service in which efficiency, good taste and consideration for the living are carefully blended. We accept this responsibility as a sacred trust. Business

Sioux City Journal: General business activity for January has been higher in all lines than was seen a year ago, bearing out the prediction made in December that the momentum would carry over strongly into 1929. This has been done in a marked degree. Reports from various industrial centers and advices on merchandising activities show a steady forward movement. It is true that extreme cold weather throughout the country since the first of the year has been more of a handicap than an aid. It is reasonable to believe that business would have been even better if temperatures had been milder. Activity was largely confined to the indoors. The coal industry has been helping materially, demands for fuel increasing appreciably both for industrial use and for home consumption. This, however, only served to equalize the coal trade, which fell off somewhat from normal during the mild weather of November and December. Freight car loadings for the last week reported, that ending January 12, showed an encouraging gain, 6,686 cars ahead of the same week last year. The total was 914,187, and it is possible that the million mark will be reached before the month ends. This is an excellent showing for a midwinter month, particularly one which has been emphasized by several cold waves, which, when particularly severe, discourage business activity in many lines. The loadings for the week noted a gain of more than 115,000 cars over the preceding week. This is accounted for largely by the fact that the New Year holiday reduced general activity, which is customary. But the point to be made in comparison of loadings now and those of last January is that 1929 has had a better beginning than had 1928. It is doubted that a lull now will come, and it is entirely reasonable to expect a lively spring and a good summer season. Figures on motor car production for the year are at hand, revealing that a record was made. The total output was 4,357,384 cars and trucks. Production was steady with all the leaders, and the sales appear to have justified the output. Incidentally manufacturers are now planning heavy production for this year, and it is explained that this is made possible because of an increasing foreign demand for American cars and trucks. Meanwhile the domestic trade in motor cars and trucks is holding up well, proving the manufacturers' theory of no saturation point to have been correct. Replacements account for millions of cars sold in this country alone, and this seems to be a rule on which manufacturers of standard makes safely may depend.

Motion Pictures Open New Field for Musical Development

Nathaniel Shilkret Makes Famous Musical Score New York City.—Jazz, the stepchild of the arts, is at last to find a place in the hall of musical fame, not heaven, the concert hall, but the cinema palace. Motion pictures, according to Nathaniel Shilkret, the country's most famous musical director, have taken jazz under their wing and have given it the opportunity to be accepted as serious music. Heretofore our modern American music has been confined principally to dance orchestras and a few concert pieces. Now it is being used to tell a complete story. When Mr. Shilkret wrote the score for "Lilac Time," a Colleen Moore picture, he didn't at first realize that he was opening the door for jazz to climb the heights. His work revealed for the first time the possibilities of a score in modern rhythm. The story is told by music and by camera at the same time. "Jeannine I Dream of Lilac Time," the theme song for the picture, is remarkably developed in fifteen moods and eighteen different arrangements. Heretofore pictures have usually been scored with the meliorations of foreign classics. This meant trying to tell an American story in a foreign language. Shilkret in "Lilac Time" has told a foreign story in an American idiom. He has interpreted a French story for Americans in their own musical language. "The greater works in modern American music will make possible greater developments in picture scoring," Mr. Shilkret comments. "Our music is too new for us to know what we can really do with it. Our children and our grandchildren who have absorbed the American jazz idiom will probably be able to do the real thing. Pioneers as we may, we still have certain foreign musical influences which we cannot and do not want to leave behind. The next generation will have shed this." Nathaniel Shilkret is a native New Yorker, and has been a professional musician since the age of seven. He plays every instrument in the modern orchestra, and is probably the greatest musical prodigy this country has produced. His earnings are far greater than those of any composer here or abroad.

CHARLES HYATT, PITTSBURGH'S CAGE FLASH, IS BECOMING KNOWN AS THE "GREATEST COLLEGE PLAYER IN AMERICA"—IT MAY BE SO

BY PHILIP MARTIN

IT seems to be matters of some importance going on these days among the college lads. And at a moment when nothing in particular has the sports public aching for news, one can be sure to find the campus lads for contribution to the news columns. Although one is at a loss as to how the greatest college player in America is determined, it has been said of late by a number of college coaches that Charles Hyatt, the Pittsburgh tackle, is the greatest college player in America. He can do everything there is to be done on a court. Here is Charles Hyatt, star Pittsburgh basketball player, who has been called the "greatest college player in America." He can do everything there is to be done on a court. He can't help but be good and that explains the high praise Hyatt is getting these days. THE surprise of the Big Ten basketball race this season has been the showing of the Michigan team and the apparent reversal of form that Indiana has shown. Michigan looks a good bet to win out, although Purdue and Wisconsin will be fighting with her until the end. Indiana, with the major ity of last year's veterans on hand, has been peking along in listless fashion, but may do an about face to make trouble for the leader-later. THEY'RE DOING a lot of shooting out at Seattle these days, shooting at Ench Bagshaw, the head coach or maybe the ex-head coach. While no one seems to know what it is all about, the student body isn't satisfied with Bagshaw. They want another coach. In view of the apparent unpopularity of Bagshaw, and the fact that Washington teams in recent years have been terribly disappointing, they probably will get one. No, not Reckling, perhaps one of his Four Horsemen, however, rumor has it. FROM these same Pacific slopes comes the news that Stanford and California are going to descend on the east this June with track and crew outfits as potent as those of last year. Stanford has more than 40 points left in school from the team that last year swept through the national track meets, and California has virtually the same crew that won 10 straight victories, including the one in the Olympics. Frankly it doesn't appear as if the east will cut much ice in these events this year with all that stuff to contend with from the Pacific. THE big news from the southland is that spring practice in football has started already at a number of schools. They never forget football down there. Perhaps that is the reason their teams have been so good in recent years. They're at it now, and will be at it, for about two more months, and the result will be many coaches will know their team before the year ends.

Wakefield Church Has Narrow Escape
Fire thought to have originated from a defect in the chimney caused a blaze in the Salem Lutheran church Sunday morning. Several detected the smoke during service and the congregation was quietly dismissed early without being told of the circumstances so as to prevent any disturbance. Several men then investigated and found that the north wall of the building in the basement was hot. Chopping a hole in the wall a blaze burst forth. It was evident a fire had started between the walls and was gaining headway. Fire chief, V. H. R. Hanson, was called and by the use of chemicals he and men in the church extinguished the blaze. The fire might have been a disastrous one had there not been people in the building at the time.

Vibrating Ear Phones Enable Deaf Students to "Hear" Telegraphy

DEAF MUTES are being taught telegraphy at the Atlanta Opportunity School, Atlanta, Ga., through a remarkable invention which enables them to feel instead of hear the dots and dashes of the telegraphic code.

The device, which opens a field of endeavor to deaf mutes which hitherto has been closed to all except those with acute hearing, consists of a headpiece, similar to a radio earphone, its inventor, J. J. Cooper, believes that through its use telegraphy will become one of the most widely-taught subjects at schools for the deaf.

His invention substitutes for the usual carbon disk in telephone and radio receivers, a small projectile which presses against the chest, temple or ear of the student and transmits to him, by means of his sense of touch, the telegraph message.

"Utmost is no drawback to a telegraph operator," Cooper declares. "I am now attempting to prove it from a scientific as well as a practical standpoint."
He began experiments a year ago with two pupils, Ernest Heron and Shaaron Atcheson, pupils of the Atlanta Opportunity School, both of whom lost their hearing in early childhood.

Each is now able to take complicated messages in a minimum of time, with fewer errors than is usual among students of equal training who can hear.
In addition to opening a new field of work for persons handicapped by deafness, the vibrating earphone is believed by its inventor to be a possible cure for certain types of deafness. He declares, "I also believe that the study of telegraphy by this vibrator method will help to restore the hearing of the deaf. It will tend to do so because it co-ordinates sound and touch. Physicians who have become interested in the subject, say that such co-ordination may reactivate the auditory nerve to an extent, depending on the condition of the nerve. In some instances, much may be accomplished.

Shaaron Atcheson, a pupil at the Atlanta (Ga.) Opportunity School for the Deaf, is learning telegraphy. A remarkable invention, which fits into an ordinary appearing earphone, enables him to feel the vibrations of the telegraphic dots and dashes. Several deaf mutes at the school are learning telegraphy in this way.

"I see no reason why any deaf mute of good intelligence and sufficient background of general education and training, should find it impossible to learn telegraphy. And to back up the enthusiastic optimism of the inventor, there is the evidence of his pupils—translating the mystic dots and dashes of the telegraph into typewritten words. Words that they cannot remember ever having heard.

Mrs. Arthur Hageman, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Racherbaumer and son, Mr. and Mrs. August Longe, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Echtenkamp and son Dale, Mrs. Otto Miller, Miss Clara Wischhof, Herbert Echtenkamp and Ed L. Longe.

Mrs. Mathias Holt celebrated her fifty-first birthday anniversary last week Wednesday and in honor of the event the following spent the evening with her: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holt and daughter of Winside, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schneider and family, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Parker, Miss Velma Bomar and Mr. and Mrs. John Horstman and family. The time was spent socially and at cards. The guests served a mid-night luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Turner and family were Sunday dinner guests in the William Malmberg home.

The Farm Needs Better Lights

More than half the time it is in darkness.

DELCO-LIGHT Brings the dawn of a better day for the farm family.

H. W. Arnold, General Manager of Delco-Light Co.,
With DELCO-LIGHT plant No. 325,000 headed down the track for shipment. Over 25,000 Delco-Light plants were sold and installed in 1928, a 40 percent increase over 1927. This is evidence of a growing demand for farm electricity.

Delco has a complete line of light plants in 110 and 32 volts—battery charging, automatic, semi-automatic and battery-less plants.

From the first crude torches and flares to the candle, the oil lamp and the gas burner, the search has gone on. The desire has always been for a light as near the brightness and healthfulness of sunlight as possible—a bright light but not glaring, and of the right quality. Then too, the ideal light needed to be safe, in order to avoid any danger from accidental fire. Again it had to be convenient, easy to light and require the minimum amount of attention. Electric light best fills the need! No other so perfectly meets all the requirements. None is so simple to use—light at the touch of a button. None is safer. None is more healthful or easier on the eyes. Now, with electric service available for the farm home, the rural world along with the rest, may easily have the brightest, safest and best light known. Times change and in changing typify the never ceasing march of progress. Out of such an age of progress came DELCO-LIGHT. Created by research and developed by the most modern manufacturing methods, it stands out predominantly. When it appeared on the market as the pioneer electric plant, people in rural communities were quick to realize the big improvement electricity would make on their farms and in their lives. Today DELCO-LIGHT farm electricity is being a constant help and comfort to over 325,000 farm families—a willing servant 365 days and nights in one year. To these families DELCO-LIGHT has brought the dawn of a truly better day.

If you expect to need a new machine or repairs to speed up your work and increase production, come in and let us help solve your problems. We will cooperate with you in making your farm business easier and more successful.

McCormick-Deering Cream Separators

A good cream separator is needed every day of the year, and in buying a new one we would urge you to investigate the good points in the McCormick-Deering.

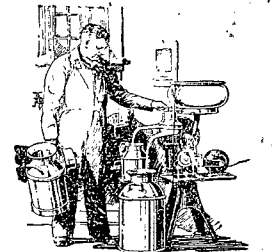

A New Product with an Old Name

Almost a quarter of a century ago the Harvester Company realized the importance of building a cream separator that would be a credit to the dairy industry and to its builder. The many thousands of McCormick-Deering cream separators that have been placed in service during these years is the best evidence of efficient and satisfactory year-in and year-out performance.

During all this period the Harvester Company has watched the rapid development of the dairy industry and improved its product to meet the ever-changing conditions.

The new McCormick-Deering ball-bearing cream separator is another step forward in this progress. This new machine, built in six sizes ranging from 350 to 1,500 pounds per hour, is not merely a new model but a distinctly new type. This complete range of sizes provides just the right machine to exactly meet the requirements of the man with a few cows or the dairyman with a large herd. The 1200 and 1500-pound capacity machines are especially recommended for economical operation in creameries, milk plants, ice cream factories, state institutions, etc. The new McCormick-Deering has many exclusive features, the kind that help make separating time a pleasure—not a task.

USE JOHN DEERE MACHINERY

1837— QUALITY FARM EQUIPMENT FOR ALMOST A CENTURY —1929

The John Deere trade-mark is the best known implement trade-mark in the world. It is the trade-mark of quality made famous by good implements.

It appears only on goods made in John Deere factories. It has a legal standing that keeps it from being used on inferior and imitation goods.

It is the certificate of character that represents John Deere prestige — the good opinion of enough people based on actual field experience to make John Deere implements the world's standard for nearly a century.

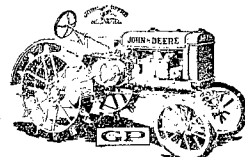

It is a guarantee of quality, work and performance from any implement bearing the name.

Now is the time to order your John Deere Equipment for Spring Field Work

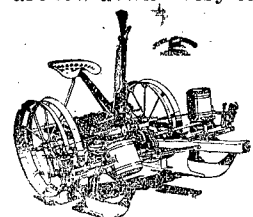

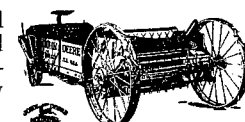

Heading the list, of course, is the JOHN DEERE Model D TRACTOR. Everyone who has seen this compact, light-weight tractor at work marvels at its power. We want you to see it—watch it in the field or at the belt—out-performing larger, heavier tractors under the most difficult conditions.

Or, for the farmer who desires a two-plow tractor and wishes to do his planting, cultivating, mowing, hay sweeping, etc., with tractor power, we now have the new John Deere general purpose tractor—a tractor of the same simple, sturdy construction as the Model D, but so designed that it will do all farm work.

John Deere manure spreaders, with beaters mounted on roller bearings on the rear axle, are simple and sturdy in construction, giving the user years of dependable service at a low cost for maintenance. They are low down—very easy to load and light in draft.

John Deere tractor plows hold the lead among tractor plows for the same reason that John Deere horse-drawn plows have held the lead for nearly a century—they do better work and last longer. You'll like their easy pull, their good, clean work and their great strength—they stand up under all conditions.

Nothing can take the place of accuracy in a planter. Your seed bed prepared—the John Deere 999 will help you do a good job of planting. The John Deere natural drop seed plate drops just the desired amount of seed into each hill "as accurately as the human hand." The 999 has increased the profits of thousands of farmers by enabling them to get better stands and yields. Use a Deere 999 planter—your increased yield on one crop will pay for its cost, as compared to using an inaccurate planter.

We have these and all other seasonable John Deere machines on display on our sample floor for your inspection. Make it a point to drop in during "Farm Equipment Week" to look them over and to have us figure with you on your spring requirements.

In considering needs in the way of new machines for 1929, remember the McCormick-Deering Farmall which will handle any power job on the farm. One man with his all-purpose Farmall outfit can handle up to 200 acres of intensively farmed land without a horse or mule on the place. It is the ideal tractor for medium and small-size farms as well as large farms.

Farmall equipment includes 2- and 4-row planters, 2- and 4-row cultivators, a 7-foot mower (and you can add a 7-foot trailer mower, making 14-foot cut.) sweep rakes, middle busters, 4-row lister cultivators, beet tools, potato machines, etc. It plows two furrows to any man's satisfaction. It does as good a job when it comes to belt work. We will help you equip to fit your needs. Use this most efficient combination of power and machines—and the Farmall will cut your production costs, doing a faster, better, more profitable job.

Pride of the Household

That's what the McCormick-Deering Ball-Bearing Cream Separator is. It is beautiful to the eye—glossy black japanned with gold pin-striping. It has graceful lines. It is sanitary and easy-cleaning from the rounded supply can down to the open base, inside and out.

But the big things in the new McCormick-Deering are the ball-bearing equipment at every high-speed point, the wonderfully efficient bowl design, and the positive, automatic lubrication. These give you a surprisingly easy-turning separator, cleanest possible skimming, whatever the condition of the milk, long life for the machine, and top profit from your milking. Let us show you its good points.

Can You Live On 83c a Day?

83c a day or twentyfive dollars a month represents the income your family would receive from $5,000, under favorable conditions. Reduced to a daily or monthly income basis, your insurance seems pitifully small. The same way to figure life insurance is in terms of what it will do for your family. Measure it in terms of what the family will need. Use these two factors in determining the amount of life insurance you should provide with a Northwestern Mutual Complete Program.

Market Report. Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards. Sioux City Stock Yards, Jan. 31. Live stock markets have been a little uneven this week but generally do not show much change compared with the close of last week. Receipts fell off in all divisions on the opening day of the week and again on Tuesday, with exception of lambs. The 11 leading markets of the country received 88,200 cattle the first two days of the week, 13,000 less than the corresponding days last week. Local receipts amounted to 6,800 the same days, a little less than last week and the like period a year ago. Beef steers and yearlings were strong to a quarter higher on the initial session but this was lost on the following day when heavy reports were received from other centers. Yearlings were in fairly good demand and heavy grades were sluggish. Choice kinds were absent and the best on offer cashed at $13.25. A few sales were made down to $12.25 with the bulk from $12.00 down to $10.25 and plainer lots on down to $9.50 and under. The butcher stock market acted the same way as the steer market strengthening on Monday and declining on the second session. Quality was on the medium and plain order. Bulk of the heifers sold at $10 @ $11 with a few to $7.50. Most of the cows cashed at $8 @ $12.5 with a few to $10 and above and down to $7. Cutters sold mostly at $6 @ $6.50 and canners, down to $5.50. The veal market held a steady basis. The top reached $13.50 and many sales were made at the price. Bulls did not change. Bulk of the bulls sold at $8.50 @ $7.75 with a few at $9 @ $9.25 and down to $8. Stockers and feeders were in good demand and the market held a firm basis. Receipts were moderate and inquiry from the country was fairly good. Bulk of the stockers and feeders sold at $10 @ $11 with a few at $11.25 @ $12 and down to $9.50 and under. Few steers weighing over 650 pounds were included. Feeding cows sold from $7.50 down and heifers, up to $10.25. Hog receipts totaled 198,000 at the 11 leading markets on Monday and Tuesday, a big decrease of 117,000 from a week ago and 111,000 from the corresponding period a year ago. Receipts are falling to hold up to expectations and packers are having a hard time holding the market in check. Shippers have been big buyers again this week while packers have held back, playing for cheapness. Light receipts on the opening day of the week forced values up 25 to 35c and a little strength was added on the early rounds, Tuesday, but the close was slow. On the second session, the top reached $9.50, within a dime of the highest price of the winter packing season. Butchers of all weights sold mostly at $9.35 @ $9.40 and shippers and $9.25 to packers. Sows brought $8.75 @ $9 and stags, $7.75 @ $8. Most of the pigs cashed at $8 @ $8.25 with westerns quoted higher. Sheep receipts totaled 104,000 at the 11 leading markets on the first two days of the week, 5,800 more than a week ago. Receipts were light on the opening day and the market advanced a quarter. However, the Tuesday trade opened steady and closed a quarter lower. Lambs reached a top of $16.75, equaling the highest price of the season, and since last summer. Ewes also hit a new high peak at $9.75. Feeding lambs sold up to $15.50. Heirs of General Fremont Begin Fight In Congress to Regain His Estate

The name of General John C. Fremont, colorful, impulsive "Pathfinder" of the '50's, will be heard once more in Congress when the next session opens. Not, however, as in the past, when he was a popular figure of the new west, nor as an impetuous member of the Senate, when he came to blows with a colleague. His name will be used by his grandchildren who will revive a long fight to have turned over to them a part of Fort Mason, overlooking the Golden Gate at San Francisco, as property taken from Fremont while he commanded Union forces in the Civil War and which was never returned to him. This is called to mind the amazing career of the man who has no counterpart in American history unless he be accepted as a sort of frustrated George Washington. The two have many things in common. Both devoted many of their early years to surveying large tracts of government land; both were army men with valorous records. Washington was president, while the Pathfinder had to be content with the nomination for that office when Buchanan won the election. He was California's first United States senator. Shunted to New West. Fremont's colorful career began soon after his marriage to Jessie Benton, daughter of Senator Thomas H. Benton—known as "Old Bullion"—and for 31 years a senator. Benton objected strenuously to the marriage and never forgave Fremont. Even when fame and honor came to Pathfinder, Benton never forgot his bitterness and opposed him in his race for the presidency. By one of those odd twists of fate by which great names are sometimes made, however, Fremont had his embittered father-in-law to thank for the opportunities which brought him fame. A captured the Des Moines river region and was successful. Then

The name of General John C. Fremont will be heard in Congress during the next session when his grandchildren, led by Benton C. Fremont, below, renew a fight to have a part of Fort Mason, on San Francisco Bay, turned over to them. It was General Fremont's home, taken over by the government during the Civil War and never returned. Above is a rare picture of the "Old Pathfinder."

he was put in command of a party to find a new overland route to California. So successful was he in this that Congress highly commended his report. Other trips to California and Oregon followed. On one of these he discovered and charted Great Salt Lake in Utah. Then came his Mexican War exploits: the establishment of the California republic and, finally, statehood, and his election as U. S. Senator from California. Home Taken During War. Although a southerner, Fremont served with the Union during the Civil War, as commander of forces in the middle west. His wife aided in organizing the National Sanitary Commission. While both were away, the Fremont home, of 12 acres, overlooking the Golden Gate on San Francisco Bay, was seized with adjoining property as a military necessity. The home was razed and fortifications built. After the war, the Fremonts sought return of their property or reimbursement. Department officials opposed the claim. Fremont later was governor of Arizona territory, and left no property when he died. His southern relatives cut him off and Uncle Sam took his holdings. Congress voted Mrs. Fremont a special pension and the women of California bought her an orange grove home. Now their grandchildren, led by Benton C. Fremont, engineer, have started a new fight for restitution. Fort Mason now contains the quarters of the commanding general of the Army Ninth Corps Area. It harbors also the important army transport docks. The Board of Supervisors of San Francisco has memorialized Congress to give attention to the Fremont claim. So there is a prospect of the Old Pathfinder, dead these many years, causing a stir in Congress as he did back in the '50's, '60's and even the '70's.

Coats Are Good Buys at February Sales

HARRIET ADVISES AGAINST BUYING "BARGAINS" THAT HAVE ONLY LOW-PRICE TO RECOMMEND THEM—KEEP NEXT YEAR'S STYLES IN MIND

BY HARRIET THIS is the time of year when women should remember that nothing is a bargain unless it is something she needs, wants and can use. For nothing takes self-control more by the forelock than the alluring winter sales. Do not tempt everywhere during the late winter months. There are several things that the careful woman can save money on, if she keeps her head. Shoes, purses, gloves, lingerie and hosiery are safe bets, but even here one must remember her general color scheme, whether she wants accessories for daytime or more formal use and just what she needs most. Choose With Care. In the matter of frocks, this is the dangerous time in a woman's year. For these are usually the changes in styles between winter and spring modes than in any other seasons. Therefore, anyone purchasing bargains in frocks and suits must look to several points: be sure of some skirt fullness, watch for original methods of treating the neckline, choose plain colors in preference to patterns, for patterns change with seasons, and have assurance of somewhat greater length in skirts than winter demanded. Coats are the best buy of the year in early February. But any coat bought now should not only finish this season off with a flourish, but be the mainstay in the winter wardrobe next winter. Coats Are Good Buys. Therefore coat styles are of genuine interest now. There are two very different types of winter coats that should be bargains indeed, if one can find them reduced. First comes the dark cloth coat of more or less smooth surface. Lido cloth or something like that in Black is always good, navy blue or Oxford gray and perhaps brown might be classed standard colors now. I am surer of all of the colors save brown. There is great difference of opinion whether the vogue for brown can survive another winter. I show this week the conservative black coat (left), with ample fullness to keep around the shoulders for sitting. This has a removable cape of black Persian lamb bordered in gray. It is immensely voguish, flattering to any woman who wears gray well and pre-eminently correct. Since the cape collar can be removed, the plain neck of the coat underneath can be worn with a colorful scarf for a change. Style Endures. This is the kind of a coat that will be equally as stylish two years from now. Moreover, it is quite likely that next winter will see little fur capes like this one (they used to be called collarettes) worn with a top around the neck and given more stylish and useful next winter than now. On the right I show the newer cut of coat that still is new enough to be assured of continued vogue for next winter. It is a medium tannish homespun tweed, fitted slightly with quite a flare to its skirt portion. The sleeves are cut in one with the body of the coat and the closing is diagonal. There are cuffs and a small collar of seal, a fur that, always is charming and never out of style. Any coat similar to either of these would be more than a safe bet to buy at the sales this late winter, if one can locate such models. Buying either, Milady can well boast a "bargain."
