SEVERE WINTER MAY FORESHADOW AN EARLY SPRING

If a severe winter is an indication of an early spring, as some old settlers suggest, we ought to have one this year. January which started in with spurs-on and which let up only long-enough to permit the unloading of fresh supplies of coal, was the coldest since 1918. If the prolonged Arctic variety promises to be followed by the timely arrival of vernal sunshine and warm showers, with assurance of normal crops, no one will complain. Little snow has fallen, but the mercury was being parked at and below zero so much of the time that it seems difficult for it to rise to a higher and more comfortable level. There were fourteen clear days during last month as compared with eleven during January of 1928. Severe weather is not local. Europe is struggling with unusually low temperatures. At Silesia the mercury has dropped lower than any here since 1690. Berlin had the coldest spell in 130 years.

STOPS IN WAYNE ON WAY TO VISIT HIS AGED FATHER

M. O. CUNNINGHAM who practices law in Omaha, was in Wayne Monday on his way to Bloomfield to visit his father, B. Cunningham, who, in his eightieth year, is still enjoying good health. The Cunninghams were pioneers of Wayne county, having located here forty-nine years ago. That was before the county had a railroad and before Wayne was established. M. O. Cunningham regards this section one of the richest in the state, and considers Wayne a town of exceptional promise. Referring to the period of his youth, he recalls that demands were fewer and living costs less at that time. People were more easily satisfied. Though opportunities have multiplied, he thinks youths of today will not fare better than he and others of earlier days did unless they eschew some of the luxuries and get down to earnest endeavor and dig out worthwhile results. Speaking of the longevity of his father, he thinks any one may prolong life by careful habits of eating and sleeping, by keeping busy and avoiding worry.

Blaze Destroys Home In Wayne

Fire of Unknown Origin Burns S. D. Relyea Residence and Contents Saturday

Nothing Is Saved

Three Narrowly Escape When the Building Fills With Smoke and Flames

Fire of the origin of which is not known, destroyed the S. D. Relyea residence at 715 Logan street in Wayne and the entire contents Saturday, the loss being estimated at about $15,000. Mr. Relyea, Miss Mate Relyea and Miss Edith Stacking had barely time to escape from the house before it was filled with flames and smoke. Insurance carried only partially covers the loss. Mr. Relyea plans to rebuild on the site.

Cause of the blaze which destroyed the property remains a question. Mr. Relyea had been in the basement to put coal on the fire about 5 o'clock in the morning and found the furnace fire in good condition then. When he returned there at 7 o'clock to look at the furnace again he found the basement in flames. Fire was burning the rafters and smoke and flames were so thick that it was impossible for Mr. Relyea to tell what had happened or to do anything in extinguishing the blaze. He called his daughter and Miss Stacking, who had not yet wakened, and they hurriedly grabbed what garments they could and escaped from the building. They found the floors hot when they walked on them. George Nankers, who was passing on the street, saw flames coming from the roof and smoke from the windows and he aided Mr. Relyea in turning in the alarm and getting help. When firemen arrived, flames seemed to be inside all the walls and the house filled with smoke and flames so rapidly that one dared enter the building. Two or three pieces of furniture were taken out with hooks, but they had been damaged beyond repair.

From the nature of the blaze firemen are of the opinion that the fire started in the morning and the pipe connecting the furnace with the chimney may have been loosened, causing this connection to fall and allowing the fire to escape from the furnace through this opening. It is thought the fire crept over the rafters in the basement and up the walls in the house, the blaze having been gaining headway for an hour or more.

The fire continued to burn most of Saturday and the house was in ruins by night. The firemen fought the blaze in temperature about twenty below zero.

Though the property loss is great, the Relyeas feel that they are very fortunate to have discovered the blaze as soon as they did and that no lives had been lost. Miss Relyea had been ill with the flu for a couple of weeks when she was obliged to escape from the burning home. Mr. Relyea and daughter are staying in the W. R. Hickman home, and Miss Stacking is staying in the Mrs. R. Craven home. All suffered somewhat from shock.

Mr. Relyea came to Wayne in 1881, when the town was just starting. He was one of the earliest contractors and took great pride in his building. The home which was destroyed was built by himself, with the great care which he always took in his workmanship, about thirty years ago.

THE KNOT-HOLE No. 27 Wayne, Neb., Thursday, February 14, 1929. Vol. 2 The season is now here when much high priced feed is wasted that is not fed in a self-feeder. See us about this. Prices, $4.70 and up. Ever notice? When a man reaches the age of about thirty-five he begins to wear rubber. That we spend more money annually for chewing gum than for education we do not doubt, but the fellows who pay the taxes are not the fellows who chew the gum. Put the increase on the gum chews if you can. We admit we don't know how. History says that the plow is the most important implement of civilization. Next to that comes the car open. Egg and poultry money help mightily to get one over the poor crop season. We'd like to see more poultry in the Wayne vicinity. If everything goes peacefully the consolidation can be effected in 1932, when the Methodist general conference meets. Some 4,000,000 Methodists and 2,000,000 Presbyterians will be affected. George Washington will have his birthday next, and his record as a soldier and statesman makes his life worthy of high praise.

Whether one believes in observing Lent as a religious custom or not, we think putting the brakes on the appetite is advisable for everybody as a health preserver. Most people eat too much.

The national director of the public health nursing service of the American Red Cross says twenty out of every 1,000 people are sick every day. We doubt if the percentage would hold good in Wayne county where, however, exceptional health prevails.

The annual district basketball tournament will be held at the State Teachers College the last of next week, and representatives of many high schools in this part of the state will be here to participate. The boys who come, and who are likely to enroll later as students in the college, should be made to feel welcome, given to understand that both the school and town are friendly and sympathetic.

Boy scouts should be encouraged by the attention they have received during the past week. In carrying out their programs, the boys have acquitted themselves in a most creditable manner. The banquet of which they had charge, was handled with dignity, the speeches reflecting sober thought and sound judgment. The principles taught and practiced by the scouts give reasonable assurance of useful and worthy citizenship, and the week devoted to stressing motives and purposes will strengthen the support of adult minds.

The legislative banking committee held a second public meeting Monday night to hear the guaranty fund discussed from the depositors' standpoint. All seemed to agree that the deficit should be wiped out and that depositors should be paid in full, but different ways were suggested to accomplish the result. It has been urged that coming legislation should be enlightened by a thorough investigation of the working

ONE'S JOB.

IT TAKES a good deal of grit to stick to one's job at all times, under all circumstances, allowing no streak of ill fortune to chill his courage or obstruct his path. People have their ups and downs, sometimes more down than ups, and then they feel like abandoning tasks undertaken, hoping for relief in other occupations, perhaps in other fields. Due to drouth or hail, or to some other unavoidable calamity, a farmer's crop is short and his earnings are greatly reduced, or perhaps the money he had saved, for improvements is caught in a bank failure. He must practice extra self-denial until a better harvest rewards his effort or until the bank which he trusted, goes through its long and weary process of liquidation. When he experiences near despair, the farmer wonders if some other line would offer richer opportunities. But during slow periods, he finds retailers and mechanics and others suffering inadequate returns, and in a similar quandary as to the advisability of staying with what seems at the time to be slipping and profitless employment. One learns by searching for the facts that every line of work is beset by obstacles and is often pursued at a loss. The true condition revealed shows that one endeavor has little or no advantage over another. Often people become discouraged, and want to quit and do something else; or they imagine golden opportunities in some distant place and they want to move there. But it is found there are no sure profits, no easy rows to hoe, no country free from shadows. There are hardships to be overcome, losses to be endured, and rewards and sunshine to be enjoyed in every occupation everywhere. Every hill climbed strengthens endurance, and every cloud dispersed, heightens appreciation of the clear sky that follows.

of the guaranty system. It is presumed the legislature will become sufficiently informed before adjournment to make wise solution of the problem. It is hoped so.

The theory advanced to keep farm prices up by limiting production does not appeal to us as the best means to help farming communities. Keeping down output would operate against efficiency and curtail employment. Agriculture needs new markets, cheapened transportation, and a more friendly tariff. It is not in keeping with enterprise and progress to ask a farmer to reduce acreage and stifle ambition.

Asked to give his formula for a happy life, Thomas A. Edison said on his eighty-second birthday: "I am not contented with any one who is happy." If happiness means (complete and long sustained joy, we doubt if any one who is capable of responsibility or serious thought, has ever reached that state. People have a feeling of spouting relief over a thing accomplished after much effort, but there are too many problems to scale, to feel an inward tickling that might be interpreted as happiness. Something attained causes passing satisfaction, soon forgotten in the endeavor for another and higher goal. Edison is probably right.

Frank O. Edgcombe has just concluded thirty-five years as proprietor of the Geneva Signal, one of Nebraska's leading weekly newspapers. Mr. Edgcombe has conducted his newspaper along lines of sound business principles, investing patronage on a basis of full and adequate service, never expecting support merely as a wordy contribution. He has made his Signal indispensable as a news and advertising medium, and is receiving liberal and just reward. Mr. Edgcombe's nearer guesses. He finds the facts, and acts accordingly. His habit of landing on a solid foundation and exercising sound judgment, have had much to do in shaping his course and fortifying his success.

Clearing Decks To Take Up Big Problem

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 13.—Lesser measures before the legislature are being handled in an expeditious manner with a view to clearing the decks for the problems of the session. Legislative leaders contend that minor measures should be out of the way when the banking, code revision and other important bills are taken up for consideration.

The banking problem, especially they declare, should be dealt with in a deliberate manner in both houses and should not be sidetracked or delayed by other things while under consideration in the legislative chambers.

The house of representatives was kept on the job yesterday until its general file was cleared. During the afternoon session in the committee of the whole, one measure was indefinitely postponed and four were advanced to third reading.

The bill executed limited the order to stop payment on checks and drafts to ninety days unless the order was renewed. A storm of opposition arose against this measure and it was swept into discard by a decisive vote on a motion to indefinitely postpone.

After striking the mandatory provision, the committee also advanced a measure providing that school boards should set aside $5 a year for each teacher employed, as a library fund.

Other bills advanced made the following provisions:

That notaries may act outside their home county after obtaining a certificate from the county clerk; minor changes in the law governing notarial certificates and authorizing the state department of agriculture to sell Edward Pasolt a parcel of land bordering his lake near Fremont.

By a vote of 63 to 27, the house passed the measure making new political parties meet all requirements for existing parties before being given a separate ballot at primary elections. The Democratic members generally were aligned against the bill.

The national guard measure providing a military code in accordance with the national defense act was passed by unanimous vote. The primary purpose of the measure is to strengthen military discipline by making enlisted men subject to courtmartial and authorizing county jail sentences for infractions of the military code.

Other bills passed increased the maximum bovine tuberculosis indemnities from $30 to $50 on purebred cattle and from $15 to $25 on grade cattle and changed the trapping season on raccoons and opossums to between Nov. 16 and March 1 and on muskrats to between Nov. 16 and April 15.

The senate passed bills repealing the statute that says that refusal of a witness to testify shall not create a presumption against him, or to be mentioned by attorneys for the opposition; exempting corporations having $50,000 capital or less from the provisions of the blue sky law, and allowing the judge to examine witnesses without a jury and impose sentence upon a person pleading guilty to first degree murder.

EDISON.

Thomas A. Edison, greatest inventor the world has ever known, is, on his eighty-second birthday, still working and still giving to the world the results of his genius. On the occasion of his birthday anniversary, Monday, he was made the recipient of highest honors, and he took a lively and responsive interest in the attentions bestowed on him. Edison's contributions to the service of mankind have been many and valuable. Before he conceived ways to harness electricity and develop its uses, cities were lighted by gas and small towns groined in darkness. People going about at night carried lanterns or felt their ways along in most uncertain fashion. In early youth, Edison showed strong tendency to mechanics. Electricity was his hobby, and his experiments led to one triumph after another, adding new facilities and multiplying means of convenience and comfort for people everywhere. No sooner did he finish one invention and turn it to practical use than he became engrossed in another, and his masterful genius invariably led to success. He is still actively employed in working out new contrivances with which to enrich the world, and to his industry and constructive ideas may in large measure be attributed his unsurpassed health and vigorous mentality. Into the world's history he has etched a name that will never fade.

CAPTAIN SPOERRY AND FAMILY IN CHINESE COSTUMES.

Army Captain To Speak Here

G. W. Sperry of Omaha, Will Talk Before Three Groups in Wayne Monday.

Tells of Orient

Captain Spent Four Years Studying People and Conditions in Far East.

Captain G. W. Sperry of Fort Crook, Omaha, will visit Wayne next Monday and speak on three occasions, addressing the Kiwanis club, at noon, a student group in the afternoon and the public in the evening. Captain Sperry will speak to the Kiwanians on "Leprosy" and will show lantern slides. His address at the college auditorium in the evening at 7:30 is sponsored by the American Association of University Women and is open to all who are interested. His subject will be "China." The captain will show a Chinese exhibit in the afternoon.

Captain Sperry is the father of Miss Barbara Sperry who attends the college here, and he is a cousin of Miss Margaret Schemel. He and his family spent four years in the Orient, returning in January, 1926. He has many pictures of the country and studied conditions there so he is able to bring valuable information to his listeners. He goes to Lincoln from here to speak.

Among the very amusing things he speaks of, is the banquet, at which were served hundred-year-old eggs, sharks fins, and birds' nest soup and whale milk and fish ears but he says by the time he had the last two courses he was too sick to touch for the genuineness of the articles and that the castor oil his wife fed him later actually tasted good.

"They do so many things just opposite to our way; for instance they have their desert first and soup last at a meal; shake hands with themselves when meeting you; wear the fur of a coat on the inside; and a hundred other amusing things.

"He says the country is thoroughly unionized, even the beggars have a union, and the head beggar is a very rich man."

Card of Thanks.

Winside Clerk Wins Scholarship

Announcement has been received from Chicago that Hubert Fleer, who for years has served the people of Winside in the Herman Fleer store, has been elected to a scholarship at the Dr. Scholl School of Advanced Orthopedics and has gone there to take the course. Much rivalry for this honor was rampant among the contestants—but Mr. Fleer, because of his ability and knowledge of shoe fitting, orthopedics and retail selling—was selected as the winner. Mr. Fleer, when asked how he felt about such an honor, stated he seldom comes more than once in a lifetime. He went on to say that the course of studies comprised a thorough training in the better fitting of shoes, foot anatomy and foot comfort aids. Returning with this knowledge he feels will be good news to his old customers whom he has so faithfully served at the Fleer store.

Herman Fleer, when interviewed, expressed himself as quite proud of his son. He has been exceptionally anxious to have one of his men win this scholarship, for it has always been Mr. Fleer's greatest desire to give his customers the best of service obtainable. With a highly trained shoe and orthopedic specialist in his organization, his patrons will be assured of better and more excellent results.

Filipino Is Found Dead At Norfolk. Norfolk Daily News, Feb. 13: Papers found in clothing on the man discovered dead in a Northwestern refrigerator car here Tuesday morning reveal his identity as Emil O. Obolia, a Filipino, who in 1927 was a mess boy in the merchant marine service.

The papers were found in a small leather purse that was overlooked by officers when they first searched Obolia. One of the papers attesting to Obolia's able seamanhood was issued by the inspection service of the United States department of commerce. The date on the paper, which was signed by Frank H. Turner and Joseph F. Dolan, local inspectors, was March 28, 1927, at which time Obolia was 27 years old.

Another paper, issued by the marine service bureau, 330 Battery street, San Francisco, Calif., shows that Obolia was a citizen of the Philippine Islands.

Authorities were first of the opinion that the refrigerator car victim was a Chinaman, and it was not until the papers were found that the nationality of Obolia was noted. Obolia, indications are, met his death when he crawled into the refrigerator car where a charcoal stove was burning and was overcome by carbon monoxide gas. He fell against the stove, the left side of his face and shoulder being badly burned.

Entertain Public For Anniversary. Ekeroth & Sar, lumber and hardware company of Wakefield, who have observed their twentieth year in business in Wakefield by enlarging and remodeling their business house, invited the public to a formal opening last Saturday and about 1,000 visited the store. The radio room in the building was arranged with wicker furniture, seven small tables, one large table and other facilities for making a home-like tea room in which luncheon, consisting of sandwiches, pickles, coffee and cookies was served. Mrs. M. F. Ekeroth and Mrs. C. A. Sar supervised the serving.

The Ekeroth & Sar firm opened here just twenty years ago and the men first dealt in lumber. They added hardware by purchase of a store and the firm has continually outgrown each building until the capacity was doubled the past summer.

Long of Wakefield, was one of the nineteen pupils in the Prescott, Ariz., high school of 560 to be in the final roll of honor in the mid-year examinations. He was neither absent or tardy during the semester, though he had a broken arm at one time during the period. Kenneth has been chosen for one of the leading parts in the operetta which is to be presented by Prescott students next month.

He will also represent the school in the music contest at Kingsford and he will take part in boys' glee club, band and mixed chorus. The young man will represent the sophomores in tennis in an athletic tournament. He was chosen president of the literary club, but declined as he felt he did not have time to attend to the duties the office required.

Let us all come.

First Presbyterian. (Rev. A. P. Cooper, Pastor.) Our school on missions at its first session on Monday evening at the church was a fine success, both in the mission study and as a social event. The study was presented in a most interesting way by H. A. Bowman and Mrs. A. P. Cooper to the adults, and by Misses Dorothy Spahr and Mae Nelson to the younger folks. The ladies served a delicious and beautiful dinner cafeteria style, and all seemed to have a pleasant evening. Mrs. V. H. Ranson presided as president of the missionary society, and was general superintendent of the evening. She led the devotional service and singing in an inspiring way.

The second mission study will take the place of the evening service at the church next Sunday evening. Everybody is invited to be present! The study is from Jean McKenzie's "Friends of Africa." Come and hear it. Our Sunday school increased ten last Sunday over week before in spite of cold and sickness. All services next week as usual, morning worship and Sunday school, and mission study at 7:30 p. m.

If you are not obligated elsewhere come to our services regularly. We are friendly and want your friendship.

Upkeep. World Herald: When those impractical visarities of the nineties were frittering away their time and energy with a mechanical contraption which they called a horseless carriage, the solid, substantial, practical men of the day told them there wouldn't be anything in it for them more than the personal satisfaction of knowing they could make the thing run—if they could.

It was fairly easy to demonstrate in argument that you couldn't permit a machine propelled by power generated within itself to run loose on the highways. It would be too dangerous to be tolerated by any sensible, civilized people. The place for such a machine was on rails and steam power and electricity seemed to be a perfectly satisfactory motive power for the rails.

In a way they were right. Last year, according to the estimate of the National Safety Council, 27,000 persons were killed in the United States in automobile accidents. There were 800,000 such accidents entailing an economic loss of $850,000,000. The number of the wounded is not reported, but it will run many times the number of those killed.

The automobile running, high, wide and handsome on the public highway is just as dangerous as the croaker's prophesied. But they missed their guess about what sensible, civilized people would tolerate, that is assuming that we are a sensible, civilized people, which Mr. Mencken denies.

We not only tolerate this danger to the extent of registering about 24,000,000 of these dangerous machines a year and licensing them to run upon the highways, but we are striving with might and main to add to the number every year. The casualty list, if it were printed daily, would read like that from a battlefield, but it doesn't impress us seriously. The newspapers feature the casualties in their own communities but there is no news in those from afar unless they occur a busload at a time. We get an idea of what is going on only in statistics and there is no horror in statistics. The statistical revelation of these 27,000 humans crushed under the wheel of a god-damn juggernaut strikes us hardly more than the firestorm staff and sponsor, Miss Clara Johnson, had a party at the school Monday evening. Games were enjoyed.

Tables of beef animals knocked in the head in our abattoirs. There is no first cost but the upkeep that counts in automobile ownership. When all the items of running expense are taken into account there is grim seriousness in that plausantry, for gasoline, and oil and tires and garage bills are by no means all of them. Those 27,000 lost lives and the permanent cripples and the $850,000,000 economic loss are part of the bill.

But frightful as the cost is the automobile must be worth the money. The pleasures of motoring, the convenience of greatly increased mobility, its aid to industry, the excitement of speed, these things are offsets to the price that is paid.

There isn't the slightest indication that we shall ever change this estimate of the value of the automobile. In hardly more than a quarter of a century it has gone through the economic categories of luxury and comfort and landed solidly in that of necessity. If every machine were ordered off the highway tomorrow the result would be something like that if flood, fire, earthquake and tornado were to hit us altogether and all at once. We shouldn't know how to carry on without the automobile. In all probability we should cry, take our 27,000 lives and give us back the car.

And there isn't any likelihood that this human cost of operation will ever grow less. It is more likely to go on steadily increasing with the increase in automobile registration. If the auto ever becomes obsolete it will be only because something even more dangerous takes its place, the airplane for instance.

CHRISTIAN PRAYER LIFE

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 17. The Christian's Prayer Life. Mark 6:5-13; Luke 18:9-14; 1 John 5:14, 15.

PRAYER is an inevitable aspect of human experience. Even those who have renounced all faith in God or in any spiritual reality instinctively pray.

The teaching of Jesus concerning prayer is admirably related to human needs and to human relationships. Prayer is the thought of Christ is the sincere expression and desire of man's soul in relation to his environment. The first thing, therefore, about prayer is that there shall be an entire absence of hypocrisy.

What good could prayer do to a man whose desires are not sincere? It could only be a meaningless form, a pretense. That is, in fact, what for many people the profession of prayer actually becomes. It is nothing but a form in their lives or if it is more than a form, it is an expression merely of fear or of some vague need, or even of some selfish desire.

The man who never thinks of his duty to God or his fellowmen may pray instinctively when he is in danger. But that sort of prayer has little relationship to the sort of praying that Jesus inculcated by precept and example.

There is, also, that conception of prayer which makes it the demanding of things from a great power who is reluctant to give but who may be induced to be favorable to one's demands if there be much urging, and especially if there be some sort of spiritual bargaining.

Now let us note the positive and constructive teaching of Jesus about prayer. First of all, there is the profound emphasis upon the sincerity of the soul's quest of God in righteousness and truth. Even public prayer lacks reality if it is prayer to the public, or prayer in public, rather than prayer to God the Father. Jesus deprecated what are called vain repetitions. At one place he told the parable of the unfortunate widow and the unjust judge, not to show that God answers us because of our persistence, but to show that it is an unjust judge.

could be persuaded by the importings of a poor widow, the just and loving God must surely be all the more ready to bestow his gracious gifts upon his children.

When, also, he spoke of the friend arising in the night to give his neighbor loaves of bread because of the neighbor's importunity, it was not to suggest any unreadiness of God to bestow gifts upon us, but rather to enforce the truth that we could hardly receive that for which we did not ask. The whole emphasis in the teaching of Jesus was upon the persistence of man and not upon the reluctance of God.

The parable of the Pharisee and the publican is a vitally human commentary on the true spirit of prayer, and the passage from 1 John is a mystical statement which all may ponder. Its clearness and its meaning may not be apparent, but the more we pray in sincerity and in truth, the more capacity will we have for understanding the mysteries of which the poet has reminded us: there are more in heaven and earth than this world has dreamed of.

Ge, it's a wonderful relief to be living in a world that is absolutely pledged not to resort to war, unless it feels like it.—Ohio State Journal.

right place for the publication of the following editorial discussion reprinted from the Nebraska City News-Press:

"A lawyer, an educator, a minister of the gospel and a physician were asked to speak at a Kansas Rotary meeting on the subject: 'How I Would Edit a Newspaper.'"

"The lawyer declared he would edit his journal in such fashion, that accuracy of news stories, fairness in editorial comment, would forever preclude possibility of a libel suit."

"The educator, frowning on slovenly 'newspaper English,' declared he would 'polish' every sentence until it shone, to the end that the readers of his journal would point with pride at the finished product."

"The minister said he would preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ, ban all allusion to crime and the more sordid details of life and make his readers realize that the Perfect Journal had arrived."

"The physician, of course, frowned on advertising as unethical, roasted the patent medicines, osteopathy, chiropractic and all 'heathen' practices, would preach health and the necessity for calling the family doctor whenever earthquakes or other physical phenomena 'ripped' the bellies of his readers."

"Those are the Idealistic aspects of the newspaper business, worthy, creditable, the hope and aspiration of all newspaper men, but they are not quite applicable."

"Libel suits are not frequent, but they cannot be dodged, and the newspaper editor prefers to go ahead, write the facts as he obtains 'em, and then call on the lawyer when he faces a damage suit."

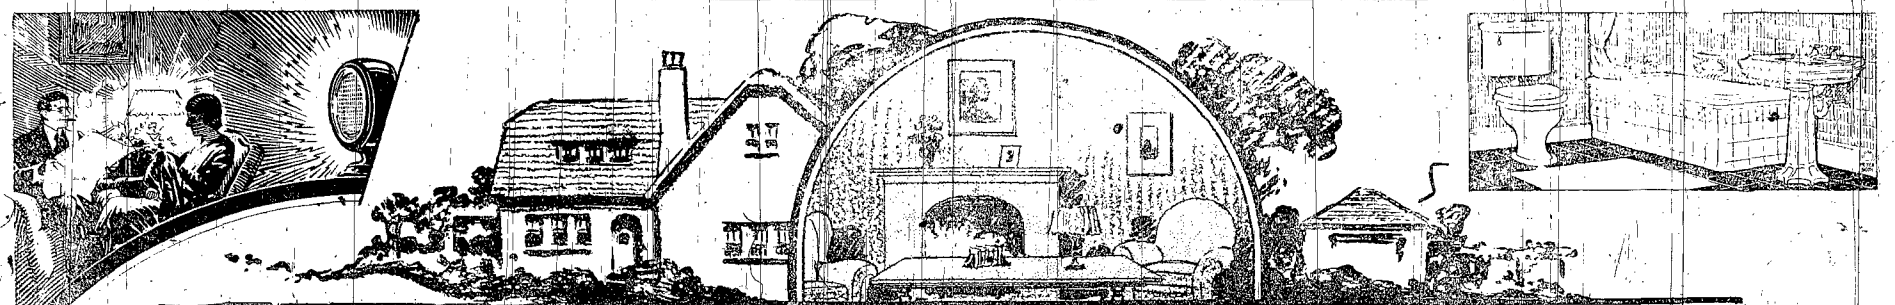

"To preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ is the newspaper man's aim, although he does it in a more practical way, perhaps than the minister does it, remembering too, that his paper is read by Jew and Gentile alike; that no denominational tenet has ever yet had 100 per cent reception in this hotted world."

"To 'polish' his English, as the educator suggests, would mean, of course, elimination of an orderly schedule of publication. News is written hurriedly. It comes pouring in from every source, it must be 'dished up' in a minute, the eye always on the clock, for presstime is approaching, always goading, goupink, gouping, a merciless task-maker."

"The physician's idea of a newspaper would deprive him of a circulation list within a week, for he could not operate without advertising and to preach his own ideas of hygiene, bacteria, operative surgery and a few other personal views which he would merely mean a controversial battle from which he would soon beg the Good Lord to deliver him."

"Why not let the trained newspaper man write and print as he does, his eye on the world, his ear to the ground, his heart throbbing in unison with the pulsations of his unseen audience—if possible? Let him do as he is doing, for he realizes his imperfections, his frailties, his incompleteness, to faithfully depict the kaleidoscopic panorama of the life that beats like a roar of old ocean all around him."

Ohio Postmistress' Salary Has Averaged 30 Cents a Day for 20 Years. THIRTY cents per day for 20 years as postmistress of a little Ohio town of 50 souls might not have proved a bonanza to Miss Ida Keller, but she has the satisfaction of being the first woman official to hold office in Monroe county, Ohio, a decade before the nineteenth amendment became effective. Saug in a little frame home at Malaga, with an office room 10 by 14 in size, Postmistress Keller and her first assistant, her mother, Mrs. Lucinda Keller, 80, have handled millions of postcards, letters, papers and packages for their neighbors—and their pay has been an average of 30 cents a day. Based on the amount of stamps cancelled at the office, the salary of the postmaster in this fourth class department has been on the decline ever since the advent of the auto and bus routes and ultimate faster delivery. No longer do neighbors mail their letters at Malaga, but place them on the many rural routes through the town, with the result Postmistress Keller's wages are cut down.

18 Hours a Day's Work. But the incoming mail's work on the increase for which there is no pay commensurate. Arriving at 6 in the morning, the first mail is received and "changed." Three more mails come in during the day and a final one at 7 in the evening. Mrs. Keller "tends" to the customers frequently when her daughter is out doing the chores around the little home. Recently, an entire day passed with not a single letter mailed at the office. Messrs. Kelly and Kelly, the day, two letters and a postcard was mailed—six cents in pay. Sometimes a nearby hatchery mails a case of eggs, for which Miss Keller receives from 30 to 40 cents

Here is Miss Ida Keller, sorting mail in the tiny postoffice at Malaga, Ohio, where she has earned an average of 80 cents a day during the 20 years she has served as postmistress.

This is a big day at the office. Does a hamlet of 50 population need or appreciate a postoffice? There's not a soul in the town but who would rather do without coffee than their postoffice. The little room, so nicely decorated with ferns, flowers and mirrors, is the gathering place for the people when the "mail comes in." It's an event when the bus is used to take a horse and rider pull up to the Malaga postoffice.

And does Postmistress Keller and the assistant object to the small wage the federal office pays? Would you object to a 30-cent

Market Report.

Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards. Feb. 14.—The cattle market carried a poor undertone this week but hogs strengthened to the highest level of the season and little change was noted in the sheep market. The eleven leading markets of the country received 86,500 cattle the first two days of the week, 4,000 more than a week ago. Receipts proved to be heavy enough to give buyers the advantage and they enforced declines. The dressed beef market at eastern consuming centers has been on the decline all this year and cattle buyers have made a big reduction in prices to correspond. The hide market also has broken sharply recently. Weighty steers were in very dull demand and the market has taken a full half-dollar decline and some sellers figure they have had to take off more. Yearlings have moved a little better than heavy steers but fully 25c to 50c has been taken off.

Bulk of the supply sold at $10.00 to $11.00 on Tuesday with many sales at $9.50 and a few down to $9.00. Good grades brought $11.25 to $12.25 with one choice load of 1,300-pounders at $13.00. The butcher stock market received moderate supplies and demands were fairly good from shippers and packers. The market dropped about a quarter on some grades but others were not much different than at the close of last week. Heifers sold mostly at $9.75 to $10.50 with a few to $10.75 and down to $9.00 and under. Good and choice cows sold at $8.75 to $10.00 with fair to good grades at $7.50 to $8.75. Cattle sold largely at $6.50 to $7.00 and canned lamb-unged down to $5.50. The veal market ebbed off with the practical top on light weights at $13.50. Bulls held a steady basis. Bulk of the medium bolones sold at $8.75 to $9.00 with heavy grades at $9.00 to $9.25 and plain light weight down to $8.00. The stocker and feeder market was slow and weak to lower tending downward in sympathy with the killer market. Most sales were made at $9.25 to $10.25 with a few to $11.00 and under to $9.00. Feeding cows brought $6.50 to $7.50 and heifers largely $9.00 to $9.50. Hog receipts amounted to 277,000 at the eleven leading markets on Monday and Tuesday, 26,500 less than the same days last week and a big decrease of 74,200 compared with the corresponding period a year ago.

Lightness of receipts forced values to the highest level since October. Shippers were fairly good buyers. Packers held back, trying to hold the market back, but they came through with more money than the shippers on the close of both Monday and Tuesday. On the second session, the top reached $9.75. Bulk of the hatches sold at $9.85 to $9.90 with plain light weights down to $9.50 and under. Sows sold mostly at $9.40 to $9.50 with a few at $9.60. Stags cashed at $8 to $8.50. Bulk of the pigs sold at $8.25 to $8.75. Sheep receipts totaled 108,000 at the eleven leading markets the first two days of the week, 17,000 more than a week ago. The lamb market dropped a quarter on the initial session and held steady Tuesday with the top at $19.25. Practically no ewes were offered. The best were quoted up to $9.25.

Person With Axe Threatens Attack. Treasurer, Neb., Feb. 14.—A mysterious night attack on Mr. T. C. Cox, 20, about 2 a. m. Tuesday, had county officers to launch a thorough investigation. Mr. Cox, who, with his husband works for and lives with a farm family near Craig, Neb., was attacked presumably by a man wielding an ax or a hatchet, as she slept. She was awakened by a flashlight, she told officers, and immediately was struck. She is in a serious condition. The Cox family declared that all doors to the home were locked when they went to bed and that it was impossible for an intruder to gain entrance through any of the windows. There is a deep gash in Mrs. Cox's head, physicians said. Her pillow and the bed were covered with blood.

Chic Touches Move to Backs of Frocks. FRONTS MAY BE SEVERELY PLAIN BUT BACKS OF DRESSES AND HATS AS WELL MUST BE DECORATIVE THIS WINTER, SAYS HARRIET

BY HARRIET. LOOKING backwards this winter, one really sees the most original touches in styles. For, plain though the front may be, the rears of hats, coats, frocks and gowns show chic decorative touches that give individuality to them. For instance, a black broadcloth coat of velvet beauty, has a back yoke and little standing collar of black fur. In front it ties its collar shut with a broadcloth bow-knot. The rear yoke of fur is new and interesting. A black satin frock has a sweet lace yoke inside its rousing neckline. In the back this little inner yoke comes outside, forms a dainty bow and lets its cream lace end hang down.

Party frocks invariably concentrate on the back, whether the use of individual decollete to give originality, or whether they have new tail bustle effects of sweeping trains. Loose back panels appear on tailored suits. Worsted frock are using back skirt pokes, often when the front is plain or circular. Other ways of bringing out the importance of backs this year is to use the shiny part of satin for the rear waist portion, along with shiny sleeves and decorative touches with all the rest of the frock made full size out. Indicative of this new note in "backing into chic," is the smart little turban pictured this week at the left. It is a close-fitting little, rust-colored felt, with its plain edge following the face line closely. Over the ears it dips slightly, and is cut short in the back.

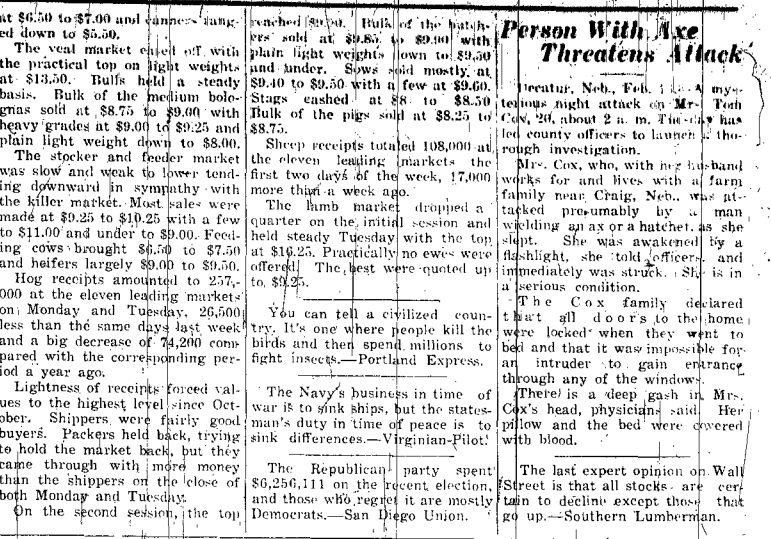

The front has no decorative touch. It is quite severely plain. But, beginning at the ears, little velvet flowers in tawny autumn shades start blooming, and the entire back of the little chapeau is a garden of flowers. This new trim should be an inspiration to a clever millinerwoman. By the addition of little velvet in pretty colors, many a circular flounce grows very deep in the back, extending clear to the waistline, where three little black bows fasten the soft girde. These bows are responsible for the surprisingly chic apron effect the skirt gives. This satin frock has touches of red embroidery for its cuffs and vestee. The vestee extends around the back, also, though it dips more in front. From the popularity in Paris of this type of full skirt that yet gives the slender figure effect, one can prophesy increasing vogue for the model.

Too busy for my lovin'— Too busy for my pettin' That is all that I've been gettin' from you. Song Writers Get Material from Natives of Morocco. Since the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique has made Morocco safe and comfortable, musicians have swarmed in by the scores to attend the native dance and music festival. "Just what effect this will have on modern music will be interesting to watch," declares Felix Lachenez Heude, official of the French Line. "The Moroccan is most hospitable and does everything possible to please the foreigners, repeating native dances over and over for the onlooker. There is something about the rhythm of these dances that is most gripping, and while I do not think it is exactly the same as the music of the Southern United States, there is a striking similarity. Perhaps at one time all of Africa had the same kind of syncopation. In any rate, Africa is the cradle of modern African music." "Too Busy" has something of this rhythm. It was the rhythm which the natives oddly enough used, both in warfare and in lullabies. And while there are more notes in the scale of African music than there are in our own, their melodies are as easily learned.

Farmers Testing Their Seed Corn

Lincoln, Neb.—It may be hard to think of corn planting time when the thermometer is down to zero, but many good farmers are busy these days with their seed corn supply. A few bushels of field selected and well dried food of the right type are highly prized property to any farm. Germination tests on this corn to make certain that it will grow add to its value. The first thing to do is to examine each ear and spot out those that are the best type and with kernels that look healthy. Then a simple germination test may be made by taking two kernels out of each ear and placing 100 kernels on a blotter in a dinner plate. Moisten the blotter, invert another dinner plate over the first and keep the plates in a warm place for a week or more. Moisten the blotter often and try to keep the temperature between 60 and 80 degrees if possible.

At the end of the time, count the kernels that have not germinated, then those that have weak ear and place 100 kernels on a plate, each kernel counts 1 percent. If 95 per cent of the corn germinates and 90 of the sprouts are strong, the seed corn should be satisfactory without further testing. If the germination is low and the test has been fair, a separate ear test should be made with a rag doll tester or some other system of keeping track of results from each individual ear.

Winebago Bank Safe Is Damaged

Winebago, Neb., Feb. 8.—Due to inept bank burglars, who attempted to blow open the vault of the State bank here this morning, officers of the bank are unable to open the vault.

The burglars put a charge of explosive in the vault door, but it was not powerful enough to blow the door off, and only damaged it so that officers of the bank this morning found they could not swing it open.

Investigation disclosed, bank officers said, that nothing was missing from the bank. There are no clues to the identity or whereabouts of the burglars.

It was necessary for R. L. Grovener, president, to go to Walthill to get cash to run on until an expert could be obtained to open the vault door.

The GREATER HUDSON

and Motordom calls for LARGEST HUDSON output of all time

Already in response to the public's demand, production of the Greater Hudson has been increased, and then increased again - by far the largest schedule Hudson ever found necessary. In their own words, by their marked and recorded ballots, motorists by tens of thousands are telling us the Greater Hudson is truly the greatest of all time. Voting in every Hudson salesroom in the country, these enthusiastic multitudes have piled up the most convincing endorsement in Hudson history. Perhaps even more important, they have bought these beautiful new Hudsons in such numbers that we must make thousands more of them to insure prompt delivery.

Every experience and suggestion of the world's largest 6-cylinder ownership is incorporated in the 64 improvements of the Greater Hudson. As co-authors of these creations the 1,000,000 Super-Six owners are naturally first to want to see, inspect and drive them. It is particularly interesting to observe their special satisfaction in the numerous body improvements. In comment, these important developments in body design and appointment, fully equal the more dramatic qualities of the more than 80-mile-an-hour performance. They definitely set Hudson apart from like-priced cars, just as Hudson performance stands alone among all cars. Come, see and drive the Greater Hudson. We believe one ride will make it the car of your choice.

Chevrolet Dealer Claims Better Than 65 Miles An Hour

W. C. Coryell of the Coryell Auto Co., offers to demonstrate Chevrolet's amazing speed to anyone who is interested in modern high-speed transportation. Better than 65 miles an hour is the claim of Mr. Coryell for the new six-cylinder Chevrolet, which was just recently announced, and furthermore this new six will attain this amazing speed smoothly and with comfort to the driver.

Mr. Coryell says that Chevrolet runs smoothly at high speeds, due to the new 46-pound crankshaft which is both dynamically and statically balanced, and to the large bearings with which this new six is equipped.

So confident is Mr. Coryell of his car's performance that he is broadcasting an invitation to everyone to come in for a demonstration and experience for themselves the unusual speed and ease of control of this new car.

Mr. Coryell further states that the new Chevrolet six has an economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon, which is practically the same gas consumption as on previous Chevrolet models.

This statement was made in connection with Chevrolet's National Demonstration Week, which is being held in every city in the country from February 18th to 23rd inclusive.

Advertisements in 6,500 newspapers are inviting the public to come in and take a ride in the new Chevrolet. And it is expected that hundreds of local automobile owners will avail themselves of this opportunity to check up on Mr. Coryell's statements.

Is the Plane of the Future Pictured Here?

The world moves—especially the world of aviation. Here are shown three recent claimants for honors in the realm of the unusual. The large picture, above, is of a giant British plane in which two English aviators will soon take off in an effort to set a new world record for sustained flight. The plane has a wing spread of 82 feet and is capable of carrying 1000 gallons of gasoline. Quite the opposite is the Italian sport model (right) which has folding wings and can be kept in an ordinary garage. The Triad (left) is a land and water plane. The wings can be lowered below the pontoons to land on the ground or they can be raised and the plane brought to rest on water.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

MARTIN THINKS IMPENDING SHARKEY-STRIBLING FIGHT IS KEEPING MAX SCHMELLING OUT OF LIMELIGHT—HE MAY BE NEXT CHAMP.

BY PHILIP MARTIN

IT was said of Max Schmelling, when he first put foot on these shores, that he resembled Jack Dempsey. Now, after four showings in New York rings, it is being said of this young German wallop that he will be the next champion of the world.

Schmelling's most notable performance with the gloves in this country was his ninth-round knockout of John Biske recently. The tough little kid had carried the Cleveland rubber-man through the stinging blows of Tunney, Godfrey and other heavyweights wasn't tough enough to stand those punches that Herr Schmelling flings.

This isn't an effort to convince anybody, that Schmelling will be the successor to Gene Tunney, but it does appear, on the surface of all the pretty things being said of Schmelling these days, that whoever does get Tunney's crown will have to get rid of Schmelling somewhere along the way.

SCHMELLING arrived in this country with a string of victories, mostly by knockouts, of batters in Germany. Their names mean nothing to American fans. No defeats were included in his record that started in 1924.

His first fight in this country was against Joe Monte. He knocked him out in eight rounds. He gained a decision over Joe Sekyra in ten rounds, and also got the nod from Pietro Corri. And then he slapped Risko down.

Max Schmelling . . . he looks like Dempsey . . . he fights like Dempsey . . . both, somewhat.

SCHMELLING'S beaming eyebrows repaid one of Dempsey. His waving white in action is the Dempsey waving. The German admits he studied Dempsey's style in motion pictures.

Unlike Dempsey, however, Schmelling uses the weave to evade a punch. Dempsey used it to get set for a punch.

Schmelling has what Dempsey had—power in both gloves. He thinks his right hand is the better, but he also has caused no little talk

The Great Three-Fuel Hart-Parr 12-24

In official tests, conducted by nationally known engineers who used cheap distillate for fuel, the Hart-Parr 12-24 registered a drawbar pull of 2,950 pounds at 2.77 miles an hour and 2,192 pounds at 3 1/2 miles an hour. On the belt it pulled 32 horsepower, which means at least a 24-inch separator. The Hart-Parr is a three-fuel tractor, burning gasoline, kerosene or distillate equally well. It is the one tractor that develops tremendous power from the cheapest, low-grade fuels. Hart-Parrs are made for small, medium and large farms and have three forward speeds to speed up hauling and field work. Ask for a demonstration.

HART PARR TRACTORS

What this writer thinks will come about:

To sum it up, Mr. Schmelling appears to have something in him that may carry him to the championship. At least he has confidence. He thinks himself that he will be the next king.

Of course, were it not for the coming Sharkey-Stribling fight, you would hear many more beautiful things about this youngster. But too much can't be said about Schmelling until the Sharkey-Stribling thing is out of the way. The gate might suffer and it can't stand too many raps.

Perhaps that is at it should be. The thought of having Schmelling or Griffiths or Emanuel or some other youngster as champion seems a more pleasant thought than the one of seeing Sharkey, Stribling, Heeney or some of that, mucky eliminating game sitting atop the heavyweight world.

And somehow or other, that is what this writer thinks will come about.

Horses Should Be Fit For Spring Work

Lincoln, Neb.—It costs from $92 to $121 per year to keep a horse in the various corn belt states, according to the best information available from a farm survey. A good share of this expense is for farm grown feeds, and for shelter. The average horse works 800 hours a year, making his labor cost from 11 to 14 cents an hour in the various states. Being in condition to do this work is important. Coarse alfalfa hay or clover hay that cattle will not eat makes good horse hay for one feed each day this time of year. This legume hay will help supply the food materials needed to keep the horse in good condition to build up their reserve strength for the coming year. If a horse is in good flesh, he will need little or no gain until about six weeks before the spring work begins. A handful of linseed oil meal with each feed of grain will help loosen his winter coat of hair and make him shed off before the heavy spring work begins. Ten to 12 pounds of grain is plenty until heavy work starts. Then the amount should be gradually increased until the horse is getting a pound to a pound and a quarter of grain per hundred pounds of his weight. For example a full feed for a 1,800 pound horse would be 15 to 18 pounds of grain. Oats and corn are the best grain feeds for horses.

In London a society has been incorporated to aid wealthy persons in distributing their funds. In America such an organization is known as a night club.—San Diego Union. The recent honors heaped on the inventor of the airplane are enough to make any man feel that he'd rather be Wright than President.—Southern Lumberman. The pronunciation of "margarine" with a soft "g," as advocated by the B. B. C. experts, is in our opinion less objectionable than the practice of pronouncing it "but-ter."—Punch.

Rupture Shield Expert Coming to Sioux City, West Hotel, (TWO DAYS) MONDAY and TUESDAY FEB. 18 and 19

Norfolk, Norfolk Hotel Wednesday, Feb. 20. FROM 10 A. M. to 3 P. M. Evenings by Telephone Appointment Only. No Charge For Consultation. Mr. C. F. Redlich, the successful expert says: The "Rupture Shields" hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief, contract the opening in a remarkably short time and strengthen the weak tissues (the real cause of ruptures) so that they frequently recover their previous natural retaining power, needing no further outside support. Stomach trouble, backache and constipation often caused by rupture promptly disappear. Truly remarkable and prompt results have been obtained not only with recent and not fully developed ruptures, but also with old, long neglected ones. Ingenious, recently perfected devices are now holding ruptures firmly which heretofore never had been retained. No elastic belts nor filthy leggings are used. Guarantee to hold the rupture and also the durability of my absolutely sweat and moisture proof, sanitary appliances. 75 per cent of ruptured children recover completely through expert mechanical treatment according to statistics. Do not waste your money on widely advertised mail order contraptions. You cannot fit yourself. C. F. REDLICH, Rupture Expert, 535 Boston Block, Minneapolis, Minn.

Humor Which Brought Lincoln's First Fame Keeps His Personality Alive

THE sense of humor which first brought attention to Abraham Lincoln as a backwoods lawyer and saved him during the wreckage of years of his presidency has gone a long way toward perpetuating his memory in the hearts and minds of the American people. While recent biographers have rather definitely disproved his authorship of some of the stories attributed to him, recent research has found a number of new "Lincoln yarns" which clearly illustrate the intense human side of the Great Emancipator. Unlike Benjamin Franklin, Lincoln did not usually give himself up to generalizations. Although he was slow by nature, his humor was spontaneous and the simplest incident in his life as a backwoods lawyer, or the most momentous event in his career as a war president, could bring to his lips a priceless bit of humorous comment. It is doubtful if the saying most frequently attributed to him: "You can fool some of the people all the time, and all of the people some of the time, but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time," really originated with Lincoln. Many of his biographers assert that there is no proof that he is its author. There is a little too much of the ring of a generalization in it for Lincoln, unless some specific incident inspired it first. Lincoln was not an abstract philosopher. All his philosophy and humor sprang from the world which surrounded him. Here are a few of his funniest remarks—each uttered to give point to a topic which engaged him at the time, and not in a studied effort to philosophize. The ground must touch a man before he can amount to anything. There are always some people who are trying to put the big kettle inside the little one. If you don't believe in the sway of fashion just go to meeting with your wife's hat on. My brothers, let us not be too sure of the politics of God. DURING the hectic days of the Civil War a disgruntled state governor came to the office of the War Department to argue a point with the president. Several hours later the governor left, good humor written all over his features. "You must have made large concessions to him," a friend commented to Lincoln. "No," came the slow reply. "I conceded nothing. There was a farmer out in Illinois who had a big log in his field. It was too heavy to haul, too knotty to be cut and split, and too soggy to burn. "There's just one way to get rid of it," the farmer said to his son. "How is that?" the latter asked. "Just plow around it," said the farmer. And that's the way I got rid of the governor. I plowed around him for three hours and every minute I was afraid he would see what I was doing." MOST of Lincoln's anecdotes date from his years as an Illinois lawyer. He found them valuable in adding conviction to his arguments then, but seems to have regarded them as too simple for his more sophisticated Washington associates after becoming president. Here is one he used in an Illinois courtroom, one not summered obviously for its enticing effect upon the jury. His legal opponent was a pompous gentleman who removed his coat during the heat of debate and revealed a unique shirt, "buttoned up the back. It suggested the kind of artificiality which the simple-hearted folks of the community disliked. When the visiting attorney finished his speech to the jury, Lincoln arose and said: "Gentlemen of the jury, having justice on my side I have no fear of the issue, for I am sure you will not be influenced by the gentleman's pretended knowledge of the law, when you observe that he does not even know how to put on a shirt."
