STALKS USED IN MANUFACTURE OF PAPER PRODUCTS

I. W. Carpenter, jr., of the Carpenter Paper Company, Omaha, has secured from the chemical engineering department of Iowa State College some information regarding the manufacture of paper from corn stalks. He found that the percentage of stalks that may be used varies according to the type and quality of the product. In making high-grade paper from thirty to thirty-five per cent of the raw material may be used, and in cheaper products, from fifty to sixty per cent. It is said to be the experience of farmers around factory centers of Danville and Dubuque to realize $8.00 per ton of stalks delivered. Cost of gathering stalks runs about $2.40 per ton, and the cost of hauling twenty cents per mile. The factories pay about $2 per acre for stalks as they stand in the field. Finished sheets for stationery seem to be much better for the purpose than those made of newspaper use, and it would appear that the latter will need—as will doubtless follow—considerable improving to make them as serviceable as products from wood pulp.

Tells Of Orient

Describes Leprosy Colony in Islands—Also Shows Pictures Through China.

People afflicted with the dread disease of leprosy can now be cured, stated Captain G. W. Sporey of Fort Omaha, in an address to Wayne Kiwanians Monday following their noonday luncheon at Hotel Stratton. Oil taken from Chaulmogra nuts, which are secured in the tropics and which are scarce, is injected into muscles of patients and is found to be a cure. The oil can help most cases, the captain stated, especially those which are not in too advanced stages. Proper diet also aids.

Captain Sporey spent several years in the orient with U. S. army and he investigated the leprosy condition carefully. In one leper colony on the island of Molokai there have been 1,000 cured and liberated. The treatment of oil, which is used once a day for two or three years, takes effect and helps patients. After the people are thought cured they are released. Ninety percent, however, return later as the disease usually takes a second hold. When cured the second time they usually are able to leave permanently, the speaker stated. Some return to the colony of their own free will, though because often their friends do not welcome them back as they fear the disease.

J. H. PORTER SAYS WASHINGTON HAS HAD BAD WEATHER

A LETTER from J. H. Porter who moved some years ago from Wayne county to Snohomish, Wash., which is located thirty-eight miles north of Seattle, says Arctic weather has prevailed there for several weeks. The ground is covered by fourteen inches of snow and the temperature has dropped as low as eight below zero. Sleighting is an unusual experience. Mr. Porter says nearly all sawmills and logging camps have closed down and many people are out of work. He indicates that fuel dealers are the only ones who are kept busy. The Snohomish river is driving along under an eight-inch layer of ice which is unusual. Since the phrase, "unusual weather," has not been copyrighted by California, Washington people feel free to use it. Mr. Porter says, old settlers, tell him of such weather. It never happens here and it will never happen again. He suggests that eight below zero in a damp climate makes a man feel as though he should have voted for Al Smith. Mr. Porter wants to be remembered to Wayne county friends.

umns of the Lincoln Journal, finds the weather out there "unusual" again, unusually cold, and he advises that Oregon is frozen up, that it is twenty below zero at Pocatello, that Salt Lake City is wallowing in snow, and that "no one in Wyoming is complaining of the heat." Dr. Bixby adds: "It has been cold enough here, Lord knows, but I have learned to suffer and be strong."

A table of figures appearing in a bulletin issued by the University of Nebraska shows amounts paid for taxes per $1,000 valuation in thirty-seven leading towns of the state, and it appears that only four towns in the group pay less for school purposes than Wayne. It also appears that in total municipal taxes paid per $1,000 valuation, only seven in the lot pay more than Wayne. Thus, it would seem that the cost of operating the city schools here is comparatively economical.

Iowa City has an ordinance which prohibits any one from being on a public street after 11 p. m. without a reasonable excuse, and under the regulation a man was recently fined $5 and costs. We can imagine a person projecting himself into the streets after 11 to imbibe fresh air or to study the stars, but these could be explained satisfactorily to the average officer. The purpose of the ordinance doubtless is to get rid of midnight prowlers who give reason for suspicion, thus taking a few hitches in the crime wave.

Frequent murders in Chicago have prompted suggestion of a reorganization of the police with more intelligent direction of activities and greater sense of responsibility to society. It is rare, indeed, that one would find an individual of fine sensibilities and high ambition on a metropolitan police force, and it is not surprising that many thus employed are susceptible to evil influences and use their authority for personal advantage rather than for public safety. Establishment of an intelligent governing board, as suggested, might help solve the crime problem.

A speaker in Lincoln recently referred to the wonders accomplished by science, mentioning specifically instant communication around the world. But he suggested the uselessness of the accomplishment if we neglect our intelligence and have nothing worth while to say. In developing use of inventions, he cautioned people not to forget to develop their minds if they would employ facilities to advantage and make life richer and more desirable. It seemed to be his idea that if brains are not trained and improved they will in time play out, and then phenomenal advances in science would be worth nothing.

Herbert Hoover, president-elect, will be inducted into office Monday, March 4, and the oath which he will take at inaugural speech which he will deliver, will be heard by radio in all parts of the country. The first general use of the radio in inaugural ceremonies was four years ago when President Coolidge was clothed with authority as chief executive. Improvement in the radio and in the broadcasting service since then will make the coming national tie-up with Washington more satisfactory, and the increased number of radio sets in use will enable a largely increased number of people to share in the events of the occasion.

David Lawrence, well known Washington newspaper writer, announces that Herbert Hoover will go into the presidency with a full understanding of farm problems and with a determination to apply practical means of solution without needless delay. Mr. Lawrence suggests that the president-elect will do for the farm business what he has done for other branches in which he has undertaken

IN OMAHA.

The Omaha Bee-News has been publishing the results of reportorial visits to drinking resorts in that city, showing how the prohibition law is being violated and how some people ranging from school age up, spend idle time. The revelations will doubtless arouse authorities to greater efforts for law enforcement in the Nebraska metropolis. Policemen have been stirred to action, and officers from the state sheriff's department have started their raids. Influences that corrupt youth may be checked and fewer young people led to ruin. Some will regard the exposure as evidence of the weakness of prohibition, while others will accept results as valuable in reducing lawlessness and hindering means for human destruction. The reading public should understand that Omaha is bad only in spots, and that it is probably better than most other cities of its size. It should be understood that most of its people are law-abiding and worthy of confidence and respect. They pursue the even tenor of their ways, observing accepted standards of sobriety and social regularity. The Bee-News' exposure of law violation only emphasizes exceptions to the rule.

responsible leadership. It is said Mr. Hoover would employ the tariff more effectively to preserve the home market for farm products. He would cheapen transportation and eliminate waste in the process of distribution. He has in mind a federal board composed of men who understand farm problems and who are in sympathy with them, to assist farmers in co-operative marketing and stabilization of prices. By coordinated efforts it is believed satisfactory adjustments may be made and that in due time the farmer will find his business on a sound basis without damaging price fluctuations. A president-elect cannot be expected to work miracles, nor bring instant results, but assuredly he has the caliber and experience to insure practical leadership in bringing healthy and permanent relief to agriculture, and he may be depended on to do it.

Stimulating Food Consumption Nebraska Farmer: A fight for the food appetite of the nation is being waged. Several big advertising campaigns by large food processors and distributors are in progress. No meat producers seem to have gotten the cue from other national food and confectionery advertisers and have raised a fund to advertise meat as a food.

Meat producers are especially interested in educating the American housewife and retail merchant on the value of the cheaper cuts of meat. The demand for the better and high-priced cuts is always good, but some of the others go begging. No doubt considerable good can be accomplished in such a program, more than from a single objective to increase meat consumption. The food appetite of human beings does not vary a great deal and usually any increase in consumption of one product is at the expense of some other food product.

There is no inherent handicap to the producers of food that will always exist so long as farm products are used chiefly for food. As the industrial use of certain products and by-products of the farm broadens, as it now promises to do, the consumption of food products will no longer be directly limited by the capacity of our stomachs.

"Ten Commandments."

Sioux City Journal: The advisory council on crime prevention in Massachusetts, after investigations in 10,000 homes, believes there is a hope for improvement in the future if parents only will assume the human responsibility toward their children which civilization has the right to demand. The council insists that its recommendations are not mere theories but, instead, are ideals at which men and women may aim and with the knowledge that full attainment is not always possible.

Parents undertaking to make any headway at all toward the objective outlined by the Massachusetts council first must realize that their progress will come according to the degree in which they retain the spirit of youth, themselves. There has got to be on the part of the adult the ability to share the viewpoint of youth. It is not every man who is a boy again with his son, nor every woman who goes back to girlhood along with her daughter. (The council has suggested "10 commandments" for the guidance of parents in this undertaking. They are as follows:

- 1. "Give your child the love that comes from an understanding of heart; be a good friend, a fellow adventurer in life."
2. "Give your child a home that offers a ready welcome to his friends; make your home the center of his social being."
3. "Give your child a place in the home to call his own, a corner, a room, an attic, a part of the basement, if it is clean, ventilated, warm and dry."
4. "Give your child chores to do and see that he does them, because he wants to do them; enlist his active co-operative interest in the management of the home."
5. "Give your child equipment with which to play; toys, pets, with them, to assist farmers in co-operative marketing and stabilization of prices. By coordinated efforts it is believed satisfactory adjustments may be made and that in due time the farmer will find his business on a sound basis without damaging price fluctuations."
6. "Give your child the opportunity to use his own judgment, encourage initiative; recognize and praise his feeblest attempts, don't harp forever on his shortcomings. Respect the personality of your child."
7. "Give your child a place to read; get good books from your public library and have wholesome magazines available."
8. "Give your child a strong body; see that he has thorough physical examinations; watch teeth, eyes, hearing and correct faults immediately."
9. "Give your child a healthy mental and emotional life; educate him to his fullest capacity, but not beyond; correct bad habits early; consult child clinics."
10. "Give your child a parent he may emulate and in so doing become a citizen worthy of the name he bears, be an example."
Sociologists have said for years that home environment was responsible for much of the tendency toward crime. In more recent times the criticism has been made that the American home has lost much of its interest and charm for the younger members of the family, and largely because of the indifference, or selfishness, or neglect of the parents. A revival of home interest may be the most pressing need in America today. If best can be achieved by the parents themselves.

Market Report.

Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.

Sioux City Stock Yards, Feb. 21.—The cattle and hog markets carried a strong undertone this week but bearishness ruled on lambs. Increase in receipts caused the improvement in the two former markets.

The 11 leading markets of the country received 74,000 cattle the first two days of the week, 12,300 less than a week ago. A warning was issued from the leading primary center last week that unless cattle receipts were curtailed the market would suffer more severe losses. Shippers took heed this week and if they continue to send in moderate and light supplies, the trade may work back to the only thing that will help.

Eastern dressed beef markets were glutted last week and have been all this year, forcing declines which were reflected back into the cattle trade. The hide market reached the lowest level in five years but that also has shown a tendency to strengthen this week. Lenten season generally has a bearish effect on the cattle market. Too many feeders should not try to take advantage of any slight strength in the market or the trade will become demoralized again.

Yearlings have been in broad demand this week and spots show a quarter advance over the close of last week while others sold on a firm basis. Weighty cattle held a steady to strong basis. A top of $12.50 was paid for a load of good 1,021-pound steers. A few sales scattered down to $11.25 with the bulk from that figure down to $10.00 and odd lots ranged down to $9.00.

The stock moved more freely than for the past several weeks. Outsiders were on the market and packers were satisfactory buyers. The market rounded out on a strong to quarter higher basis with few showing the full strength.

Yearling heifers topped the market at $11.25 in odd lots and $10.75 in load lots with the bulk at $9.50 @ 10.25. Koshier cows sold up to $10.00. Bulk of the butcher cows sold at $7.50 @ 9.00. Butchers brought $6.50 @ 7.00 and canners, largely $5.75 @ 6.25.

The bull market held steady with the bulk of the medium body logs at $8.00 @ 8.50 and heavy grades to $8.75 with plain light weights under $8.00. Veals topped at $13.00, $1.00 lower than early last week.

Stockers and feeders were rather scarce but demands were narrow and sellers partied on a steady basis. Most of the material was on the plain and medium order. Bulk of the steers sold at $9.00 @ $10.25 with a few light weights to $11.50 and a number of lots under $9.00. Heifers brought $8.25 @ 8.75 and cows, from $7.50 down.

Hog receipts totaled 225,000 at the 11 leading markets on Monday and Tuesday, 32,000 less than last week and 92,000 short of the number received the corresponding period a year ago.

The short receipts forced values to the highest level of the season. Shippers were big buyers and packers dogged the trade on the late orders, cheapening up as much as possible. However, they had to come through with strength.

On Tuesday, the top reached $10.05. Bulk of the butchers sold to shippers at $9.80 @ $10.00 and to packers at $9.85 @ 9.90. Sows sold largely at $9.50 @ 9.60 and stags at $8.25 @ 8.75. Pigs advanced to top at $9.25.

lements, motors, food, products, chemicals, mining and smelting, oils, steels and amusement companies.

The greatest gain, however, was made in a line over which there has been a vast amount of anxiety and in behalf of which there has been unusual propaganda. The long suffering public utilities corporations do not appear to have been suffering at all as a general rule. Seventeen concerns that have reported so far show a 20.1 per cent gain over a year ago. This does not indicate that the public utilities concerns are threatened seriously nor that stockholders need worry in public degree over their holdings. Public protests over rate making in electric power, gas, waterworks, telephones and street car lines may come as a result, but there ought to be no apprehension on the part of bond salesmen.

Nineteen twenty-eight also showed a marked increase in America's foreign trade. A handsome trade balance in America's favor is shown. Our exports increased over the figures for 1927 except those to Asia and Oceania, which showed a slight decline. Meanwhile our imports from every region of the world declined with one exception. We bought more last year from South America than in the year before.

Canada was the best foreign customer of the United States last year. More American goods were sold to the Dominion than to Great Britain. The Canadian-American trade is much heavier than one might have believed. Exports from the United States to Canada last year were valued at $916,155,506. American imports from Canada were the largest last year in history, going to $488,999,157. Revenue freight car loadings for the week ending February 2 are 946,892, a gain over the preceding week of 20,704 cars and over the corresponding week last year of 20,630. Miscellaneous freight showed a enormous increase, indicating a strong demand for general merchandise.

Market Report.

Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.

Sioux City Stock Yards, Feb. 21.—The cattle and hog markets carried a strong undertone this week but bearishness ruled on lambs. Increase in receipts caused the improvement in the two former markets.

The 11 leading markets of the country received 74,000 cattle the first two days of the week, 12,300 less than a week ago. A warning was issued from the leading primary center last week that unless cattle receipts were curtailed the market would suffer more severe losses. Shippers took heed this week and if they continue to send in moderate and light supplies, the trade may work back to the only thing that will help.

Eastern dressed beef markets were glutted last week and have been all this year, forcing declines which were reflected back into the cattle trade. The hide market reached the lowest level in five years but that also has shown a tendency to strengthen this week. Lenten season generally has a bearish effect on the cattle market. Too many feeders should not try to take advantage of any slight strength in the market or the trade will become demoralized again.

Yearlings have been in broad demand this week and spots show a quarter advance over the close of last week while others sold on a firm basis. Weighty cattle held a steady to strong basis. A top of $12.50 was paid for a load of good 1,021-pound steers. A few sales scattered down to $11.25 with the bulk from that figure down to $10.00 and odd lots ranged down to $9.00.

The stock moved more freely than for the past several weeks. Outsiders were on the market and packers were satisfactory buyers. The market rounded out on a strong to quarter higher basis with few showing the full strength.

Yearling heifers topped the market at $11.25 in odd lots and $10.75 in load lots with the bulk at $9.50 @ 10.25. Koshier cows sold up to $10.00. Bulk of the butcher cows sold at $7.50 @ 9.00. Butchers brought $6.50 @ 7.00 and canners, largely $5.75 @ 6.25.

The bull market held steady with the bulk of the medium body logs at $8.00 @ 8.50 and heavy grades to $8.75 with plain light weights under $8.00. Veals topped at $13.00, $1.00 lower than early last week.

practical top at $16.00. Ewes were unchanged with the best quoted to $9.25.

Moral: Next Time Take It.

H. D. Leggett in Ord Quiz: I turned down a nice big advertisement from a Grand Island merchant the other day and the very next day I was in a local store where the same line is handled and saw the boss-unpack a box containing an article not handled by him on which he saved a few cents by ordering it. He should have walked over to his brother merchant who handled it and paid the usual profit. In other words, he should be willing to do what he feels that I should do.

ETERNITY.

While eternity and all things beyond this life are carefully guarded as mysteries, not to be solved by mortals, we occasionally hear the story of some one who believes he has penetrated the celestial veil and gained a glimpse of a future existence. We sometimes hear one who has recovered from serious sickness, declare that he had been temporarily absent from the body and that he had been delighted by the harmony and happiness evident in the great beyond. We once heard a man say he traveled a considerable ways out of his body and away from mortal ills, but could not entirely detach himself and so, to his disappointment, returned to his earthly tenement. In a recent magazine is the story of William Dudley Pelley, author, who firmly believes that while alone in his bungalow in the mountains near Pasadena, Calif., he was wafted into eternity and remained there several minutes. Pelley says he was thrilled by the experience and did not want to come back, but on his re-establishment in the flesh he became a changed man, less selfish and less hating, seeing the good rather than the evil in the world. Some will doubtless attribute his experiences mentioned to an unusual state of nerves or to an abnormal imagination, but the stories, whether based on fact or fancy, invariably reflect no fear or hesitancy. On the contrary they reveal sensations that remove the terror which is often associated with so called death. Passing on, as suggested by experiences explained, is but a natural and agreeable sequence to this life and it would seem that the nearer one may become attuned to spiritual ideals here, the more easily he may become adjusted to the peace and harmony of superfluous life. But it is a safe bet that he can't do it by buying and defrauding his neighbor or by worshipping money to the exclusion of all other considerations.

Spring Opening...

After a winter's work of manufacturing we now have our show room arranged for inspection. We have the largest stock we have ever had and prices are lower this year. . . . If you are contemplating making a selection of a Memorial for delivery by Decoration day we suggest that you come in because we maintain a display room so that you may see what you buy. A satisfied customer is one who sees what he buys rather than make a selection from a photograph. 1929 designs portray the height of Memorial art. We anticipate a large business this spring and to do our best must not be expected to the last minute. We cater to the immediate territory because we owe our growth and development to our friends and neighbors. An appreciation of this cooperation is expressed by price quotation as well as quality material.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

PHYSICAL HANDICAPS CAN BE OVERCOME—EVEN IN THE FIELD OF SPORTS —KINREY MATSUYAMA PROVES IT—HE'S A BILLIARD FLASH

BY PHILIP MARTIN

THERE are no such things as handicaps in sports when you have a fighting heart and the flesh is willing. Take the case of Kinrey Matsuyama, the tiny Japanese billiard player.

Matsuyama has reached the upper crust among billiard players despite the physical handicaps of weighing only 92 pounds and being but 59 inches in height.

He lacks reach and stature and those readers who have ever indulged in a game of pool or billiards know how much of a handicap a short reach can be on a regulation table that is ten feet long, five feet wide and 32 inches high.

Little Matsuyama, who proved the sensation of the recent international tournament in New York and who at one time looked the probable winner over Schaefer, Cochran, Hogenmans, and other competitors, realized his handicaps many years ago, but determined not to let them worry him.

He hasn't—and the result is that he is one of the foremost cue artists in the world today.

He even thinks he could beat any rival at billiards if the two were to play under the same conditions. That is, if each played on a table compatible with their physical size.

Of course, that can never be Matsuyama must work under handicaps.

And the fact that he has climbed to the top despite these handicaps makes him stand out as one of the most colorful characters in sports today.

Despite the fact that he weighs but 92 pounds and is only 59 inches tall, Kinrey Matsuyama is proving a sensation in the billiard world.

Baseball will introduce dozens of new faces within a few weeks, and the college sports, as one expects with their constantly shifting classes, offer new faces every season.

THE major league clubs are about to set away for their annual spring training jaunts and there are a number of new faces to keep track of in the next few weeks.

The Yankees, rebuilding their club at spots for another pennant drive, have colorful youngsters in Lyn Lary, Gordon Rhodes and Roy Sherrill. The Indians have two high-pitched outfielders in Averil and Porter. The Tigers have outfielder Johnson, the Cards a new second base combination in Selm and Gilbert, the Pirates a promising hurler in Steve Swetonic, and one could go on forever naming rookies.

IT is this writer's belief that the Detroit Tigers will be the dark horse of the 1929 American League race, and that George Uble may make a pennant contender of the Tigers.

With Bucky Harris, able in every respect, managing the Tigers, they seem in a nice position to shoot to the front at the start of the season and stay ahead the year around.

The big "44" in this case Uble as a pitcher, Hollmann or Alexander as first baseman, and rookie outfielders. But the rookies look great and one shouldn't be too surprised if Uble has one of his best years. Uble having one of his best years will be enough to give the Tigers a punch.

Monaco, Where Taxes Are Unknown, Has Dictator and Gambling Slump

ON the face of things there should be few happier people on earth than the inhabitants of Monaco—Europe's smallest independent kingdom. Their country is one of the loveliest strips of land on the whole French Riviera. The skies are eternally blue. The place is a wilderness of flowers. There are no taxes upon the natives. But right now, affairs of state rest heavily upon the patriotic Monagasque, Prince Louis II, who rules the principality from his chateau near Paris, has dissolved the National Council, abolished the constitution and postponed the elections scheduled for this winter. In place of the liberal monarchy established by his father, he has set himself up as absolute dictator. And here is the serio-comic story behind the coup:

Business Is Poor

The treasury of Monaco and of the principality is filled by payments from the syndicate which runs the world-famed gambling Casino in Monte Carlo. The syndicate maintains the lovely public gardens, the wonderful roads and practically pays for all public improvements. Hence, there are no taxes for the 22,000 inhabitants of this eight-square-mile country. But recently the Casino has found itself no longer unrivaled as a place where the fashionable may gamble for large stakes. Cannes, in the nearby French Riviera, has established a popular Casino, and in the Italian Riviera, San Remo, rooms as a still more powerful attraction for bloated purses. Hence the syndicate has not been paying so much to the principality as formerly, and business for the Monagasque shopkeepers has scarcely been "as usual." Full of these grievances, the National Council recently expressed itself in bitter terms. It complained also because so few Monagasques were employed in the Casino, and besides, the gas service in the whole principality was terrible.

Here is Monaco's royal family. Prince Louis II, with his adopted daughter, the hereditary princess; her husband, Prince Pierre, and her baby daughter, Princess Antoinette. Prince Louis is Europe's newest dictator, due chiefly to the fact that the Casino at Monte Carlo, in Monaco, is attracting fewer fashionable gamblers than formerly.

Enter Son-in-Law Prince Louis, from his French chateau, replied by scrapping the constitution and sending his son-in-law, Prince Pierre, to investigate.

When Pierre arrived at Monte Carlo, he was met by the entire Monagasque army of 24 sturdy officers and men. There was no outward sign of revolt. Pierre explained to the town fathers that business was bad at the Casino, due to competition, and that it promised to get no better fast unless everybody stood together. The syndicate, he said, was planning to improve the Casino, and that normal trade relations with wealthy foreigners would soon be resumed.

As to the constitution and when it would be restored, Louis was not so sure. It all depended upon how well the Monagasques deported themselves in the future.

Meanwhile, like Spain, Italy, Poland, Yugoslavia and the others of its big brothers on the continent, Monaco will have a dictator.

Care In Choice Hatching Eggs Lincoln, Neb.—"Save eggs for hatching when egg production of the farm flock is on the increase," recommends Prof. F. E. Mussehl, of the College of Agriculture, poultry department to the Nebraska ka poultry raisers. This practice has been found to give the maximum percentage of hatchability in the eggs and the greatest number of strong, healthy, vigorous chicks, he states.

High vitality in the breeding flock is of primary importance to insure hatching eggs that will produce fast growing chicks. When the egg production of the laying hens is on the increase, the vitality of the birds is greater than when the egg laying is falling off. Eggs from the high vitality flocks will produce more livable chicks than any other flock.

Feed, care, shelter and exercise are the things that influence the vigor of breeding birds. Where it is possible, states Prof. Mussehl, it is advisable to separate the best birds from the rest of the farm flock into a breeding pen where they can be given the best of attention.

Alfalfa has been found to be a good feed for breeding birds at the Nebraska station, for it supplies vitamins and minerals in sufficient quantities. Two kilograms of skim milk per 100 birds per day is sufficient to make the feeding of any meat scraps unnecessary, but a little bone meal should be added to the ration. Cold liver oil added to the dry mash mixture will promote vigor and thrive in the breeding flock, especially if the weather prevents the birds from getting out in the sun.

"Make the breeding flock work," says Mr. Mussehl, for good vigorous exercise in scratching for their feed will appear as added vigor and vitality in the chicks from the hatching eggs.

High fertility in the eggs is insured by having at least one male to every 15 hens in the light breeds, and one male to each 8 to 12 hens in the medium weight breeds.

Outlook Meeting To Be Held at Walthill

Walthill, Neb.—Thousands of notices are being mailed out by county agents of northeast Nebraska announcing the outlook meeting to be held in Walthill, March 6.

Prof. H. C. Filley, chairman of the rural economics department of the University of Nebraska; Ralph Cole and E. Holland, of the college of agriculture, are to be speakers.

The speakers will not attempt to tell farmers, bankers and business men assembled just what the future holds for them, but will tell what it likely holds for them. Economic conditions for years have been studied and from the mountain of statistics compiled it is reasonable to assume that the future can be foretold with reasonable accuracy.

The meeting will be held in the American Legion hall and will start at 10 a. m.

"The game you explained us there was too delightful to me and to my friends because in it we do physical training.

"It is true that our school is very different from yours. Here in the morning we have English, nature study and Spanish. In the afternoon we have: Arithmetic, moral and civic, health education, and geography.

"Our school is two stories high. It has fourteen rooms, a principal office, a large yard for us to play and a vegetable garden. Its name is 'Jose Nevarez Landron.' I am in the fifth grade.

"We have here an English club monthly to enrich our vocabulary in English. In it we have poems, songs, reproductions of stories and many other things.

"I am glad you have spent a good Thanksgiving day. Here we celebrate Thanksgiving day too. I am glad too you have had a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

"What I know about Arecilo is that it is a district and is crossed by a river named Arecilo's river. Also is at the north of the island.

"Humacao is another district and is near San Juan.

"San Juan is the capital of our island and contains the most important buildings. They are: Casa Blanca, Gonzalez, Padia Store, The Capitol, School of Tropical Medicine, Carnegie Library, etc. It has the two most important hotels that are: Palace and Bandarbilt. It has paved streets, a work done by the Spanish when they were in control of the island.

"The island that are near Porto Rico are: Cuba, Santo Domingo and Jamaica.

"Then dear friend, I am glad you love my island as I love United States. I am willing to write you whenever you want it, and to give you any information you ask from me if I know it.

" Hoping to hear from you soon I remain, very sincerely yours, Fe Esperanza Hernandez."

Fuel system of the new Ford has been designed for reliability and long service THE practical value of Ford simplicity of design is especially apparent in the fuel system. The gasoline tank is built integral with the cowl and is unusually sturdy because it is made of heavy sheet steel, terne plated to prevent rust or corrosion. An additional factor of strength is the fact that it is composed of only two pieces, instead of three or four, and is electrically welded—not soldered. Since all adjustments are fixed except the needle valve and idler, there is practically nothing to get out of order. The choke rod on the dash acts as a primer and also as a regulator of your gasoline mixture. The new hot spot manifold insures complete vaporization of the gasoline before it enters the combustion chamber of the engine. As a matter of fact, the fuel system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little service attention. The filter or sediment bulb should be cleaned at regular intervals and the carburetor screen removed and washed in gasoline. Occasionally the drain plug at the bottom of the carburetor should be removed and the carburetor drained for a few seconds. Have your Ford dealer look after these important little details for you when you have the car oiled and greased. A thorough, periodic checking-up costs little, but it has a great deal to do with long life and continuously good performance. Because of the location of the tank, the entire flow of gasoline is an even, natural flow—following the natural law of gravity. This is the simplest and most direct way of supplying gasoline to the carburetor without variations in pressure. The gasoline feed pipe of the new Ford is only 18 inches long and is easily accessible all the way. The gasoline passes from the tank to the carburetor through a filter or sediment bulb mounted on the steel dash which separates the gasoline tank from the engine. The carburetor is specially designed and has been built to deliver many thousands of miles of good service. FORD MOTOR COMPANY McGarraugh-Briggs Motor Co. (Inc.) Ford Headquarters Wayne, Neb.

A number of books have recently been accessioned at the city library, among them books for little tots, for older children and adults.

"The Age of Reason" by Philip Gibbs, is a novel "about all of us." Into this story are woven threads of immensely exciting modern events as they affect the lives of the characters. It also shows the tragic background of modern life that has shifted its moorings.

"The Crimson Quest" by Dennis Barr is a tale of strange mystery surrounding an unusual murder. The colorful underworld of Constantinople, Constantza, Smyrna, and Salonica is brought into the story in unweaving the crime.

"The Clever One" by Edgar Wallace is a tale of the ferreting out of a master criminal by Superintendent Bourice of Scotland Yard.

In "The Fifteen Cells" Sturgis Martin emphasizes with force and logic the fact that no matter how clever the criminal, there is always some little slip or bit of evidence left at the scene of the crime. Retribution and prison walls await the guilty.

"Soundings" is a splendid love story by A. Hamilton Gibbs. It is the story of a young English girl brought up with the love of outdoor-dports and a splendid loyalty in an age of cocktails and jazz music.

Robert Nathan tells a most interesting tale in his book, "The Bishop's Wife." The eternal triangle develops through the arrival of an archdeacon called by the Bishop, and the loneliness of the Bishop's lovely wife.

"Old Pybus" by Warwick Deering is a story of the finding of a deep learning, philosophy and noble stoicism in the grandfather by the grandson, after the children of "Old Pybus," rich with passing years, have grown ashamed of him. The youth is well repaid by the old man's advice in his struggle for recognition in his art.

"The Closed Garden" is by Julian Green and is a novel of provincial French life. The subject matter is a stab, yet handled with remarkable skill. The author's ease in depicting sounds, images and odors is admirable.

"The Tree of Life" by Keweenaw Abbott is a story with a Christmas message.

"Beginning to Fly" by Merrill Hamber contains instructions for building a model airplane with a twelve-inch wing spread, which will leave the floor under its own power, circle gracefully around the room and make a perfect landing. The book contains an introduction written by Commander Richard E. Byrd.

"Ditch Byrd, Air Explorer" by Fitzhugh Green, is a book for boys about the great commander. It includes the early experiences of the boy, Dick Byrd.

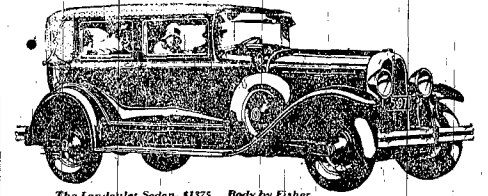

"The Lone Scout of the Sky" by James E. West, chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America, is a boys' story of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

"Three Boy Scouts of America" is a true story of the adventure of these boys, Robert Douglas, jr., David R. Martin, jr., and Douglas L. Olwer, camping, photographing and hunting big game in the heart of the African jungles.

"Tracks and Trails" by Leopold Rossell, is a nature classic for young and old, rich in story, values and knowledge, in the ways of "wild folk."

Do You Carry Health Insurance?

For your comfort, joy and satisfaction, health is most important. To insure health, proper refrigeration is essential.

Microbes and germs cause sickness, disease and many times death. In U. S. Department of Agriculture bulletins we find that food spoils quickly in temperature above 50 degrees. Will your refrigerator hold a temperature of 50 degrees or lower? Phone us to call and make a test for you. We do this as a service at no charge. Old ice boxes after years of service will not supply a cold temperature; besides, they waste ice.

The HERRICK Refrigerator company this year offers you 37 years' experience in building refrigerators. With the experience of years past, they now offer the public the highest quality refrigerator that men and money can build.

Mold and Moisture Proof
The HERRICK brings freedom from worry about food spoilage. Moisture cannot form in a well-iced HERRICK. In constant cold air circulation prevents odor, taste or decay. It is easy to clean and inexpensive to ice.

See our new stock now on display. A few models of last year's supply at special close-out prices. Place your order now while selection is complete.

Press Association to do at this time that to get behind the Historical Society's work, as it got behind the anti-pass campaign, and put it over. The splendid work of the State Historical Society under Addison E. Sheldon and his able associates is deserving of the heartiest support, moral and financial. Just about the time one has decided that one has learned a whole lot about Nebraska and Nebraskans, along comes someone to reduce the size of one's caput. Last week this department intimated that a certain couple that had just celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary were probably the oldest married couple in Nebraska. And then Karl Spence of the Franklin News uttered a loud ha-ha and called attention to the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Fagter and the oldest married people in Nebraska, but we are not going to say so until further returns come in. You don't catch us twice on the same bait. There should be inspiration for Nebraska boys in the story of Edward Kuncel, 15, of Omaha. Edward has been blind since birth, but that handicap has not prevented him from ranking with the highest students in South High school. He graded 98% or better in the four subjects he carried last semester. And Edward is not merely striving to make enough credits to get a diploma, either. W. T. Collings' buffalo herd near Beaver City has been increased by the birth of five calves. Collings, pioneer showman, scout and rancher, founded the herd a year ago. He has the only buffalo herd in the state, and one of the few remaining herds in the United States. Mr. Collings once had a national reputation as a trainer of horses. Mr. and Mrs. James Aspinwall of Leigh celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on January 22. The first pound of butter made in the new creamery at Culbertson sold for $125. It was sent to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as a peace offering. Before Lindbergh was a colonel, or anything else but a hobo aviator, he took his 'plane and went to the Culbertson fair to carry passengers. He used an alfalfa patch as a landing field without consulting the owner, and as a result was arrested. He squarred things by paying the costs and giving the owner of the alfalfa patch $25. Culbertson doesn't want him to forget the incident, but it does want him to forgive. (Robert G. Fuhrman, Pender, Nebraska, Attorney.) Notice to Creditors. Estate, No. 1400, of Lucinda Goreham, Deceased, in the County Court of Wayne County, Nebraska. The State of Nebraska, ss: Creditors of said Estate will take notice that the time limited for presentation and filing of claims against said estate is three months from and after the 1st day of March, A. D. 1929, and for settlement of said estate one year from said date; that I will sit at the County Court room of said County, at Wayne, Nebraska, on the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1929, to receive, examine, hear, allow or adjust all claims and objections duly filed. Dated February 4th, A. D. 1929. (Seal) J. M. CHERRY, County Judge.

branch of the railroad are protesting change in schedule which has been proposed. The proposal is to have a train each way morning and afternoon, using a morning train east rather than the evening train east. Stockmen prefer the late train so that stock will not have to be loaded until later in the day, thus avoiding traveling during the heat in summer. "Reduce the smoke nuisance" is now the cry in Washington, Caddy trust propaganda? Boston Transcript. California reports a population of 5,000,000. No wonder patronage problems trouble Herbert.
