ESSEX THE CHALLENGER

Twice now... in 30 days... production has had to be increased

Essex the Challenger sweeps aside the barriers of price class. It challenges the performance, the style, the luxurious roomy comfort of any car at any price, on the basis that no other car gives you back so much for every dollar you put in.

A glance at its 76 advanced features reveals at once why Essex exceeds no car in its challenge. For point after point in fine car construction, performance and detail, brings you directly to costliest cars to find comparison.

It is the finest, largest, roomiest, most brilliantly performing Essex ever built, and the price the lowest for which Essex ever sold—but little above the lowest priced car on the market.

With above 70 miles an hour top speed, Essex the Challenger, in thousands of demonstrations, is proving the endurance and ability to do 60 miles an hour all day long.

That is why the acceptance of Essex the Challenger is the talk of motordom. Join the van of 1,000,000 Super-Six owners who are demonstrating its right and ability to challenge the best that motordom offers.

Scene and Chief Characters in Inaugural

Here are the scene and principal characters of the traditional ceremonies to be enacted in Washington, March 4, when Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis become 31st president and vice president of the United States. Chief Justice William H. Taft, the only living ex-president, with the exception of the outgoing chief executive, will administer the oath of office to Hoover on the east portico of the capitol, after ceremonies in the Senate chamber have inducted Curtis into office. The inaugural ceremonies proper are comparatively brief and simple, but custom has added inaugural address and other features. Preparations have been made this year for one of the most elaborate inaugurations in recent years.

THE STORE WITH THE SAVING POWER

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Mappin.

March 1 will be the 62nd anniversary of Nebraska's entry into statehood. The enabling act which admitted Nebraska as a state was signed by President Andrew Johnson on March 1, 1867. The first attempt to achieve statehood was abortive, because the constitution of the proposed new state did not provide for Negro suffrage. President Johnson refused to assent, so a new constitution that did provide for Negro suffrage was adopted, and statehood became a fact.

Statehood meant two senators from Nebraska and one congressman elected at large. A few years later an effort was made to secure an additional congressman, and Thomas J. Majors was elected as "contingent congressman," and controversy being in Nebraska had a newly elected legislature to warrant another representative. A bitter fight and some political scandal was the result, but Mr. Majors was not seated.

It may not be generally known that the first rural mail delivery route in the United States was started in Nebraska. It was started as an experiment, and soon became so popular that demands for its extension became too insistent to deny. Now there are 444,743 rural free delivery routes in the United States. According to the Nebraska City News-Press there are 33,000 miles of rural mail routes in Nebraska. Custer county heading with 943 miles.

Barada, Richardson county, nestling in the beautiful hills that overlook the Missouri river, has several claims to fame. It was in Barada that former Governor McCord, now congressman from the first district, made his Nebraska debut, and started in the banking business after teaching a few terms of school. And Barada, a hospitable little community, is remarkable for the fact that it hasn't a single filling station. It has a couple of gasoline pumps, but if a tourist wants water of air he has to pump both air and water himself. And another remarkable fact about Barada is that it only has 11 village ordinances. Recently the village was reorganized and all the ordinances but the 11 were scrapped.

It seems only yesterday that a large proportion of Nebraska's rural population lived in sod houses. Now sod houses are a curiosity to all save the oldest inhabitants. There may be a few families who still enjoy the comforts of a "sod-die," but they are very few. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Parish of Cedar county were among the last to give up the cheerful and homelike old "sod-die" and move into a brick and frame home on a farm near Hartington, which they recently purchased.

Which reminds the writer of a glorious opportunity lost because of lack of capital. He was working on the World-Herald when the Trans-Mississippi Exposition was projected, and conceived the idea of erecting a sod house on the exposition grounds to be used as a refreshment stand and provide a place for visitors to eat their lunches. Not having any money to float his scheme he tried to interest his employer, G. M. Hitchcock, but Mr. Hitchcock couldn't see it. Later a woman, whose name has been forgotten in the flight of time, erected a sod house on the exposition grounds and made a nice little fortune out of it and a similar one erected on the Buffalo exposition grounds. It is mighty embarrassing to concoct a great scheme and then be unable to secure the capital to float it.

William Everett of Omaha will have to yield his claim to being the oldest man in Nebraska, a claim he has been making for several years. Mr. Everett recently celebrated his 104th birthday. Comes now Henry Taylor of Furnas county, who has just celebrated his 105th birthday. Mr. Taylor was born in Virginia on Feb. 18, 1824, and homesteaded in Furnas county in 1878. He is believed to be the only man alive who voted for both Henry Clay and Herbert Hoover. Mr. Taylor admits that he has smoked for a bit more than 90 years.

But Mr. Taylor isn't the oldest Nebraskan. You haven't heard anything yet. Solomon Rickner, who lives near Palmett, celebrated his 107th birthday on Feb. 18. He admits two habits, chewing tobacco and listening to the radio. He cast his first presidential vote for William Henry Harrison, and when the civil war broke out he was refused enlistment because he was too old for the service. His wife died 25 years ago, and only one of his children is living. Mrs. Cora Corbett, 64, who lives with him and acts as his housekeeper.

It is believed that William Beckler held a record, at least for Nebraska. He died recently at Columbus in his 86th year. He was probably the oldest city clerk in the United States, certainly in Nebraska. And he was serving his 36th consecutive year as city clerk of Columbus when death called him.

The Blue Triangle Club of Hastings, an organization of young women employed in Hastings business and professional institutions, recently introduced an innovation. They gave a banquet to their employers. Fifty-three girls entertained 78 employers, and employers responded to all the toasts except one, which was responded to by Miss Bessie Perkins, president of the club.

The founder of the thriving little city of Battle Creek, Herman Hogrefe, is dead at 80. He was president of the Battle Creek bank for more than 40 years. Mr. Hogrefe was born in Germany and came to Nebraska in 1860, taking a homestead, which is now a part of the town of Battle Creek. He is survived by his wife and two sons.

First Presbyterian Church.

On last Sunday our Sunday school rose to the high tide mark again. We could keep it to this or better if we would. Let us have the will to do and win.

In the evening the last session of the school of missions drew a good audience, and a drawing feature of it was the junior choir. Those youngsters surely did their part well. We want them on hand every evening possible. We appreciate the effort of Mrs. Fred Stange in starting this new feature.

Come to the interesting Sunday school next Sunday at 10 o'clock, and stay for the service of morning worship, and be back for the bible study at the Christian Endeavor at 6:30, and stay for the evening worship at 7:30.

The community not obligated elsewhere is always cordially welcome in all our services. We feel friendly toward everybody, and hope for the same friendly feeling of all others toward us.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our sincere appreciation for the kindness and thoughtful plans shown us during the recent departure of a near and dear one.

Forrest also wishes to thank his many friends for letters, cards and gifts received during his illness.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

OF THE FOUR NEW MAJOR LEAGUE MANAGERS, BUCKY HARRIS IS MOST LIKELY TO CLICK. MARTIN THINKS—A'S MAY PUSH YANKEES

BY PHILIP MARTIN

THERE are only four new managers in the major leagues this summer, and of the four, only one is regarded as having a ball club that will be greatly improved over last season.

The Cards will be run by Billy Southworth, the Tigers by Bucky Harris, the Senators by Walter Johnson and the Braves by Judge Puckett, the owner. And it is Bucky Harris' club that seems the one likely to get along better than it did last season.

Of course, Southworth is in that unenviable position of having taken over a pennant winner. He can do better than that, it was done last season and it does worse he'll have the genteel St. Louis fans on his neck.

The Braves, shy Hornsby, seem the same old Braves, and the Senators are somewhat an unknown quantity.

That leaves Detroit and it seems the opinion of wise baseball men that the Tigers will be dangerous all down the line this summer.

One of the four new major league managers this year is Bucky Harris of the Detroit Tigers and great things are expected of him. This picture of Bucky and Mrs. Harris was taken at Miami Beach, Fla., recently, just before the couple left for the Tigers' Arizona training camp.

THE reason for this, and perhaps it is the best reason one can give, is that Bucky Harris will make the players breeze along at their most efficient clip from the time they report to him in Arizona until the end of the season.

A smart fellow, this Harris. One of the smartest in the business. And he hasn't a bad ball club to make a bid for the pennant this season. Problems—yes, he has them; but he didn't acquire his reputation for smartness through an inability to cope with difficulties.

ened, mostly from the addition of minor league material. If so, they may win some of those games that were lost last season.

THE Red Sox also look like they will be a greatly improved aggregation over the 1928 gang. If those pitchers come along as Carrigan expects them to, and as they have showed signs of doing, Boston will be better. They are sure to have a better infield, and perhaps a better outfield. And the club, as a whole, should shell out more base bats.

Along with the usual pre-season optimism, Cleveland and Chicago are said to be greatly strengthened.

ALL of this, in a round-about fashion, may serve to indicate that this writer has a hunch the Yankees won't have such an easy time arriving as the American League representative in the next world series. There are many reasons for the hunch.

Reason No. 1—The Yankees themselves.

Reason No. 2—Those other clubs who look more powerful than they did in 1928.

The Athletics are sure to be in there pushing the Yankees. Procy Barnard of the American League,

The Tigers are sure to be better and the Browns, barring misfortune, should be about as strong as they were last season. With every other club apparently improved, it leaves the question—are the Yankees better?

No one knows. It all depends on how Babe gets along, whether those sore arms of Herb Pennock, Wilsey Moore and Tony Lazzeri are really well as they say, and whether Huggins juggles his infielders around to get a satisfactory man at shortstop and third base.

640 Acres Yield $5,000,000

California's winter celery crop is fast reaching large proportions and is gaining considerable attention by its high cash value per acre. Here is shown a part of the crop grown at Chula Vista, near San Diego, going to market. Thirteen hundred carloads were taken from 650 acres. Returns indicate that the celery will yield about $5,000,000 to a section of land—640 acres. Note the field in the background dressed in paper wrappers to bleach the stalks ready for the table.

Spring Promises Wide Use of Fur Trim

BEAVER, SKUNK AND OTHER WINTRY PELTS ARE BEING USED TO ADD UNUSUAL TOUCHES TO ALL TYPES OF FEMININE COSTUMES

BY HARRIET

IF the little fur-bearing animals look to the oncoming spring and summer world of fashion with any hope that they can keep their hides till next winter at least one walk down the avenue with all the shop windows aglow with crisp and fresh new spring styles would soon dishearten them.

For the fashions that bloom in the spring, era, la have nothing to do with the case of spring fashion as compared with the animal pelts that bloom on spring coats with all the abandon in which they swelter the winter mode.

The usual pretext of "summer furs" does not even seem to be entered into. Solid, substantial winter furs of beaver and fox and squirrel and nutria, and even skunk, are seen with all the frequency of the more summery monkey fur or ermine.

Not Mere Collars

Maybe the fashion makers expect a cold spring. Maybe they expect an extra hot one and therefore, with the delightful vagaries of old Dame Fashion, are piling the pelts on thick. But whatever the answer, the furs are there.

They are applied in bewildering variety. There is the neat tweed motor coat with a mere fur collar. Or there is the same top coat with deeper fur cuffs and collar. There are dressier models of soft nap fabric with applied bandings of fur and dollars reaching to waist depth or hem length.

Perhaps fox is the prevailing fur for fox in its myriad shades of beige and brown and cocoa, platinum and silver gray, black and blue and rose lined, blends as does in all their with the spring fashions of fur and colors of browns and grays, blues, greens, and lavender.

Beaver Is Good

Oxfortian mixtures of gray and blue beige and brown, green and gray find a pleasing complement in matching or harmonizing fox of beige or silver, black or blue.

Beaver is a prime favorite, topping neat little street and motor coats of beige and brown mixtures.

These two spring coats, the one at the left a strict sport model, and the one at the right, a summer dress or evening wrap, show the use of fur in the spring mode.

England has outsped the United States in the air and is now making a determined effort to beat us on land and sea.

Her sportsmen and business men believe that success will help check a growing inferiority complex among Britons and will stimulate the British automobile industry, which has been sadly worsted in competition with the American manufacturers. As one automobile man from London recently expressed it: "Even in our own colonies we can hardly give away a British car with a pound of tea."

Holds Air Record

A British pilot in a British plane won the last Schneider cup race, making the coffee at a speed of 283.660 miles an hour. Major Mario Bernardi of Italy holds the official record for the fastest speed ever attained in the air, which is 318.624 miles, but a British pilot has since flown more than 319 miles an hour and would have been credited with a record except for the rule of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale which requires that a new record must beat the old by at least eight kilometers.

The present automobile record for one mile is held by Ray Keesh, an American, who drove his White Triplex at 207.552 miles per hour last year. Major H. O. D. Segrave of England had topped the record from 156.04 to 203.75 in this country in 1927, and Captain Malcolm Campbell raised that to 206.95 shortly before Keesh made the existing mark.

Two Britons to Try

Segrave and Campbell are now undertaking to retrieve the record for Britain. Segrave is in Florida and will operate at Daytona Beach. Campbell is in South Africa, where he will use a dry lake bed. Meanwhile the owner and manufacturer of the Triplex, J. M. White of Philadelphia, is preparing to defend the record and his car will also be at Daytona Beach next month.

Besides his new car, the Golden Arrow, Segrave has also brought home a Campbell raised record of 206.95 existing mark.

At the right is a stunning evening wrap which shows the use of ermine on black crepe woman. The use of the fur to form a pocket and fashion a very novel sleeve is effective.

Britain Seeks Auto Speed Record in U. S. To Add to Her Laurels of the Air

Here is the Golden Arrow, latest speed creation of Captain J. S. Irving of London (left, above), which Major H. O. D. Segrave, right, hopes to drive to a new world speed record soon at Daytona Beach, Fla. The new super-racer has a theoretical speed limit of 240 miles per hour, but Segrave will have to do "only" about 207 miles per hour to capture the record.

Segrave's machine weighs more than 5000 pounds and to get it going at sufficient speed a starting course of four miles is marked off at Daytona Beach before the car reaches the mile stretch where Segrave is measured for the record. There is another stretch of four or five miles to stop the car. If Segrave hits 240 miles an hour he will be traveling 352 feet a second. A deviation of only three degrees from a straight course would send him, in a single second, nearly 20 feet off his course.

commercial interest is involved, and the speed trials will be made under the supervision of the contest board of the American Automobile Association.

The Golden Arrow is streamlined to the ultimate. Except for the engine every part has been specially designed for the attempt. A 12-cylinder Napier engine, with a capacity of 900 horsepower, of the type which won the last Schneider cup race, will propel the car.

Has British Sanction

The British government has semi-officially given its endorsement to Segrave's attempt, as no

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 2, The Christian Church, Mark 4:26-32; Eph. 1:22, 23; 4:1-6, 11-16.

The teachings concerning the Christian Church in our lesson are given in relation to the Kingdom of God. The question might very naturally be raised whether the Christian Church and the Kingdom of God are one and the same thing.

The Church is defined in one of the passages of our lesson as the body of Christ. It should be remembered however, that that definition applies only where that body embodies the spirit of Christ. It is useless to speak of the church as the Church of Christ if the body professing to be a church be dead, and it be not alive through the presence and power of Christ.

If churches were tested by that positive side of the definition, perhaps we should feel a little more the reality of identifying the Church with the Kingdom of God.

Spirit and Purpose

No profession can make any organization a church unless the spirit and purpose of Christ be there, and on the other hand no one can be excluded from the Church of Christ who is acceptable to God through him and has his place in the Kingdom of Heaven.

At present the minds of many men are deeply concerned with the possibility of bringing all churches into one great organization. Probably that is a worthy ideal, but is it not more important to bring into the modern religious the unified spirit of love and good will?

Would our so-called sectarianism be such a serious thing were it not characterized by narrowness and bitterness of spirit? If we love one another in the name of Christ and in the spirit of Christ, would not our diversity take on a new meaning and a certain value? Would we not be glad to recognize the liberty of our fellows to worship God and follow Christ in their own way? Is the spirit that makes the Church

Mr. and Mrs. Max Brudigan drove to Sioux City Sunday and brought Mrs. Doring home. Clara passed through her operation successfully.

Owing to an unusually long cold spell and absence of snow many farms are having trouble with their water systems freezing up. In some cases hundreds of feet of underground pipe are rendered useless for the present at least and the water for stock has to be carried long distances or forced through pipes laid above ground. These pipes can only be used on comparatively warm days as the water will freeze while passing through them in sub-zero weather. This is a very unusual condition. The pipes are laid four and one-half feet underground and have never given trouble before. Those who have had experiences with frozen pipes say that they will not thaw out until about the middle of May.

Market Report.

Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.

Sioux City Stock Yards, Feb. 28.—Strength characterized the cattle market again this week while weakness was noted in the hog and sheep departments with losses and advances from day to day.

The 11 leading markets of the country received 77,700 cattle the first two days of the week, 3,300 less than a week ago and the lightest run of the season since last summer. Lighter supplies were accounted for partly by the fact that road conditions have been bad and to the effort on the part of shippers to curtail receipts to stave off the declining tendency of two weeks ago.

Short receipts and nearness of spring infused a bullish undertone to the eastern dressed beef markets and this was reflected back into the market for live beef. Shippers were active, packers were good competitors, and quality showed improvement, all aiding sellers in their fight for higher prices.

Beef steers and yearlings advanced fully a quarter the first two days of the week, making some of them as much as $1.00 higher than 10 days ago, owing to the advance last week. Choice weighty cattle topped at $13.60 this week with several sales on all weights at $12.00@12.75 and a few to $13.50. However, the big end of the supply sold from $11.50 down.

The heifer market followed the trend of steers and demands were active. Choice light weights topped above $12.00 with several sales around $11.00, and down to $10.00. The cow market was a little slower than the trade on other cattle but some strength was added. Choice heavy weights topped above $10 with good butcher grades at $8.50@9.50 and fair kinds down to $7.50. Cutters cashed at $6.50@7.25 with cutters on down to $5.50.

Bulls went up a quarter. Bulk of the medium grades sold at $8.35@8.75. A half-dollar and more was added to veal prices and the extreme top reached $14.50 with bulk of the good and choice light weights at $13@14.

Stocks and feeders were in good demand and prices strengthened about a quarter on the average. Dealers were well cleared at the close of last week and they needed the fresh arrivals. Advances in the killer market the past two weeks aided sellers in getting higher prices for stockers and feeders. The market is not far from being even with the high level of the season.

Deal good light and weighty feeders topped at $11.50 with bulk of sales from $10.75 down. Choice calves might bring up close to $13.00. Feeding cows sold at $7.75 down and heifers ranged from $8.00 up to $10.00. Hog receipts amounted to 253,000 at the 11 leading markets on Monday and Tuesday, 28,500 more than the same days last week and 64,000 less than the corresponding period a year ago. The hog market took a short decline on the opening day of the week, shippers taking off 10 to 15c and pickers, 15c and more. However, order buyers bought hogs at strong prices on the following day and packers paid 20c higher. Lightness of receipts for this time of the year has helped the hog market to reach the highest level since early last fall. On Tuesday, the top reached $10.40. Bulk of the butchers sold at $10.25@10.35 with the long string at $10.35 to packers. Plain lights ranged under $10. Bulk of the sows cashed at $9.50@9.65 and stags topped at $9.00. Choice pigs brought $9@9.25. The 11 leading markets received 100,000 sheep the first two days of the week, 9,000 less than a week ago. The price was lower on the initial session but the loss was more than recovered on Tuesday. Good and choice lambs were quoted at $16.25@16.50 with mixed fat and feeding grades from $16.25 down. Ewes were quoted steady with the top at $9.

figure of four years ago. Another most observers is that in January this year industrial production was within a fraction of being as great as that for last October, which was the record for all time.

Industry since the first of the year has been running 10 per cent ahead of the same period in 1928. This shows how business has been speeded up this year, and it also bears out the optimistic predictions made at the close of 1928. The momentum inherited from last year was remarkable, the outlook was good, confidence was strong and expansion plans were completed. That accounts for the increased output in industry since New Year's.

According to the Standard Statistics company of New York, the seasonal peaks in industrial production came in May and October, 1925, but last month's showing was 6 per cent above the probably two months. March is likely to show a heavier production than is usually seen in May. There is not the slightest indication of a decline in any of the principal lines. The prospect ahead is excellent. It looks now as though 1929 will equal the best year in American business, and it could happen that a new record for the twelvemonth would be made.

Incidentally, February activity is moving along in a most satisfactory manner. The month no doubt will go ahead of the same period of last year. No midwinter slackness has been noted although weather conditions through the country were discouraging to trade in many lines. Business, everybody admits, would have been even better but for the extreme cold that has smashed the records of many years' standing.

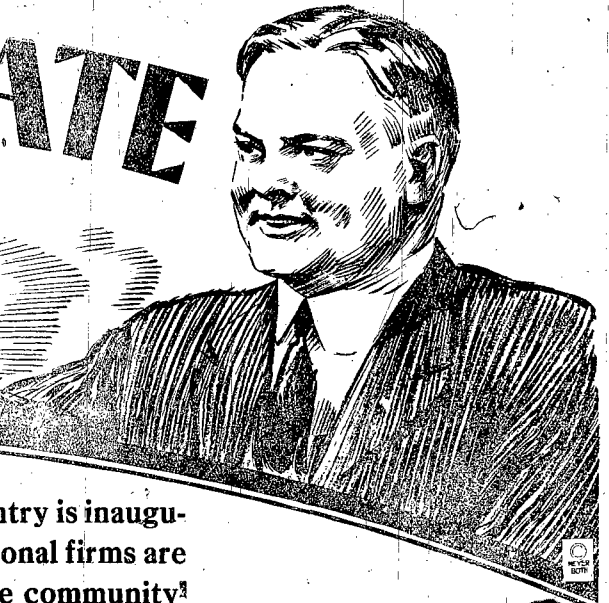

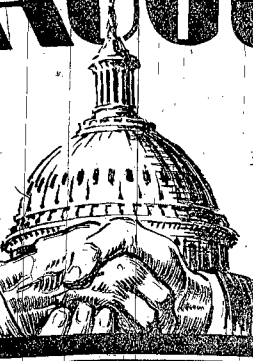

Revenue freight car loadings for the week ending February 9 reached the figures of 955,478, an increase of 8,586 over the same week last year. There were increases over the preceding week in all loadings of commodities except grain and grain products and miscellaneous freight, which showed slight declines. The increase over the same week last year was impressive, going to 49,601 cars. Miscellaneous freight gains over the same week of last year were 10,000 cars. Miscellaneous freight for the week ending February 9, was 1,292 cars ahead of the same week in 1927.

The outlook for the year is better than was expected. The prospect claimed in the presidential campaign of last summer and fall stands proved.

When Willie starts bringing in problems in the Einstein theory for home work there'll be another reason why men leave home.—Arkansas Gazette.

MAY Herbert Hoover merit the esteem of the people by his deeds as George Washington, the father of our country, who lives in the minds of all. Years to come, as is shown by history, messages on granite will tell this story. The same National Spirit that urged all to erect the great Washington Memorial, that he might live forever, is akin to patriotism. This spirit: Love, Divine Duty or Respect, works closer to one when a relative's life is to be perpetuated. There is a satisfaction in expressing one's reverence in granite; that it will last forever, and an obligation completed that has a consoling effect that we are unable to understand.

This Simplicity means money to YOU!

John Deere Farm Tractor

Simplicity in the tractor you buy is mighty important to you.

This quality means easier operation, fewer adjustments to make, fewer repairs to buy, less trouble, and, what's even more important, it means longer life.

In the illustration above, you see the remarkable simplicity of the powerful, light-weight John Deere Tractor. It shows you at a glance why the John Deere is known as the tractor of fewer, but sturdier, parts.

A strong, one-piece frame encloses the entire working mechanism, protecting all parts from dust or sand, and supplies a reservoir for automatic lubrication so that all working parts operate in a constant bath of clean oil.

From engine to drawbar, the John Deere is a simple, but powerful giant, with no unnecessary parts to add weight and cause loss of power.

When you're ready to buy a tractor, don't overlook the fact that the John Deere is actually hundreds of parts simpler than other tractors of similar power rating.

When you're in town come in and look it over.

At AUCTION

Saturday, March 9, Wayne, Neb.

Sale at 1:30 p. m.

On the date mentioned, I will offer to the public at my home farm one and one-half miles south and one-half mile east of depot at Wayne, just off of graveled highway No. 15, another select draft of Wisconsin dairy cows and heifers. Following is a detailed description of the cattle:

11 Head of Milking Shorthorn Cows and Heifers—Consisting of two mature cows and the balance heifers from yearlings to 3-year-olds. These Shorthorns are all purebreds and from a very good herd of Milking Shorthorns. Also one young purebred Shorthorn bull.

8 Head of Holsteins—Ranging in age from 2 to 8 years. One of these is a purebred cow, and also have some purebred heifer calves, and a purebred Holstein bull calf.

22 Head of Guernseys and Jerseys—Ranging in ages from 2 to 6 years.

This consignment of cattle, I believe, are up to par and compare very favorably with any draft I have ever had. The cows and heifers are either fresh or close up to calving, and are a mighty useful lot. They will be sold to you fully guaranteed as to udder and free from tuberculosis. I stand behind the rest.

Sale will be held in a comfortable pavilion and we will sell the cattle regardless of weather. Be my guest that day.
