Winside Man Dies Of Burns

Henry Wacker Passes Away Sunday Evening As Result of Kerosene Explosion.

Blaze Is Put Out

Daughter Extinguishes Flames From Father's Clothing After Coals Ignite Oil.

Henry Wacker of Winside, resident of Wayne county for twenty-six years, died at his home Sunday evening, March 5, at 8:45 o'clock as a result of burns sustained that morning when a can containing kerosene which he was using to start a fire exploded, the burning oil igniting his clothing.

Mr. Wacker had gone to the kitchen in his night clothing to start a fire in the range, pouring kerosene from a three-gallon can about one-third full onto the fuel. It is believed that live coals ignited the kerosene, causing the explosion.

Mrs. Wacker was awakened by the explosion and hurried to the kitchen to find her husband covered with flames. The shock caused Mrs. Wacker to faint. Loretta, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wacker, who was also awakened by the noise of the explosion rushed to the kitchen and grabbed a rug which she threw about her father. She managed to extinguish the flames in a short time but Mr. Wacker was fatally burned.

The injured man was tightly burned about every portion of his body excepting his feet and the top of his head. Mr. Wacker lost consciousness at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and passed away that evening.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home and at 3 o'clock from the Episcopal church four miles east and one mile north of Winside, with Rev. Mr. Heckman of Tilden, officiating. Interment was made in the churchyard there.

Henry William Wacker was born at Owensville, Mo., March 25, 1885, and died at his home in Winside March 5, 1929, at the age of 43 years, 11 months and 3 days. Mr. Wacker was orphaned in infancy and spent his early life with his grandparents and with an uncle, August Wacker, of Owensville. He came to Wayne county at the age of 17 and had lived here since, for a number of years on a farm between Wayne and Winside.

Deceased married Miss Emma Bruce October 20, 1909. One child, Loretta, was born to this union. Both his wife and daughter survive Mr. Wacker.

After leaving the farm Mr. Wacker engaged in the implement business at Winside with the firm of W. H. and H. A. Bruene until it was sold about nine years ago. He then went into the plumbing business in which he was engaged at the time of his death.

Mr. Wacker was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith at Owensville, Mo., while a young lad and remained a faithful worker in the Evangelical church throughout his lifetimes who survives deceased besides his wife and daughter are a brother, Fred Wacker, of Winside, and a step-sister, Mrs. Emma Overbeck, of Missouri.

Those present from a distance for last rites were: Mr. and Mrs. August Wacker, son, Clarence, and daughter, Mrs. John Kormeier, of Owensville, Mo.; Frank Bruene and Herman Dammie of Burlington, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. H. Dammie of Silver Creek, Neb.; Theo. Harms of Manley, Neb.; Theo. Harms of Manley, and Elmer of Sioux City; Gus Wendt of Omaha; Mrs. H. M. Blair of Lincoln, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Bredemeyer of Carroll.

Mr. Wacker was an influential and respected citizen of Winside and a host of friends regret his untimely passing.

Hold Meeting Of Blacksmiths

Business Session, Demonstration and Banquet at Stratton.

Blacksmiths of Nebraska met last Thursday in Wayne with about 100 men and women in attendance. Henry Robinson of Omaha, was the principal speaker. The men held a business session at the city hall in the afternoon. Salesmen for blacksmith equipment demonstrated their machinery at the S. J. Ickler shop afterward. The men and women enjoyed a banquet at Hotel Stratton in the evening.

The organization plans another meeting in Wayne March 25. New members will be invited. A picnic for the group is planned in Wayne this summer also.

Annual Pie Day Sale Is Successful

Wayne high school held its annual pie day sale Saturday at the Blair store and net proceeds amounted to about $60. This sum goes into the student council fund. Seniors sponsored the pie sale.

Running Stores In Middle West Forty Years Ago

Running a store in the middle west forty years ago was distinctly different from what it is at this time. In the early period mentioned demands were few and easily satisfied. Comparatively little capital was required to engage in business, and people were almost uniformly hard up. A man who had assets aggregating $10,000 was considered well off, and one who had amassed holdings worth $50,000, was pointed out as rich.

In order to do business forty years ago merchants had to do a great deal of exchanging and cash long-time credits. No cash basis was possible, because of the prevailing scarcity of cash. But it is remembered that people took pride in settling obligations and when a debt became due, it was usually settled in some way to the satisfaction of all concerned. Starting an account at a store meant that it would continue through the year, and that everything needed would be bought at the one place. No money was available to send to foreign catalogue houses or to take to neighboring cities. Stores were not fixed up to attract attention, and their stocks were small, consisting of nothing beyond bare necessities. Merchants and clerks were not alert, as they are now, to well-

Dies On Way To Do Chores

Nels Petersen Suffers Fatal Heart Attack Wednesday at Winside Home.

Rites At Winside

Funeral Service Will Be Conducted at Methodist Church There This Week.

Nels Petersen, 75, resident of Winside for about fifteen years, died suddenly Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock when he was on his way to do milking at his place there. He had been failing in health this winter since he had had the flu and it is thought he suffered a heart attack. Raymond Bates, who lives in rooms in the Petersen home, was with deceased when he was talking to the barn-attender Mr. Petersen fell. Mr. Bates was taking him to the house when he died.

Funeral services will be held at the Methodist church with Rev. L. R. Keckler in charge, the time to be arranged after arrival of a brother of deceased, Rasmus Petersen of Hay Springs, today.

Deceased was born in Denmark, and was 75 years old this month. He came to this country when a young man and married Miss Christine Nelsen at Hay Springs, Neb. The latter died in Washington fifteen years ago. Since then Mr. Petersen made his home in Winside.

Besides his brother, Rasmus Petersen of Hay Springs, Mr. Petersen leaves a niece, Mrs. Thorvald Jacobsen, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Peter Jacobsen, of Winside, and brothers-in-law, James Nelsen of Hilger, and Andrew Nelsen of Carroll. A sister of deceased died in Wisconsin in December.

Predict Outlook In Agriculture

Three Specialists From Lincoln Will Address Farmers and Business Men Today.

Farmers and business men of northeast Nebraska will meet in Wayne this Thursday at the city hall to hear addresses by representatives of the state agricultural school of Lincoln, speak on the outlook for agricultural pursuits during the coming year. R. E. Holland of the extension service, and H. C. Filley and Ralph Cole of the rural economics department, will be present and speak. The outlook of the next year, predicted by statisticians at the university, was borne out quite fully so the importance of this meeting is recognized.

Probably prices of farm products, both livestock and grain, the dairy situation, farm records and livestock production are among the questions which will be considered. The meeting opens at 10 a. m. and continues into the afternoon.

Wayne business men and Kiwanians are sponsoring the meeting and all in attendance will be guests at luncheon in the city hall at noon.

Scouts Sponsor Drive Saturday

Girl scout officers and council women, assisted by boy scouts, will sponsor a Salvation army donation drive in Wayne Saturday, March 9. Mrs. P. A. Theobald is general chairman. A house-to-house canvass will be made between 9 and 11 a. m. and Salvation army emblems will be dispensed at 10 cents each.

Solons Favor Wayne College

Legislators Who Visit School Commend Economic Policy of the Executive.

On Tour Of State

Visitors See Need for Finishing Dormitory and Making Other Improvements.

Nebraska legislators who visited Wayne State Teachers College Friday, while on their tour to all state institutions, stated that the Wayne management has received, in proportion to amounts spent in other schools, more for the money than institutions elsewhere in Nebraska. Request has been made for funds with which to complete the girls' new dormitory, Neihardt hall, and make some improvements in other buildings here, and the visitors expressed favor of Pres. U. S. Conn's plan.

The finance ways and means committee members, who were here are: Harvey A. Lissam, of Beatrice; Vincent J. Leavy, of Omaha; Vernon J. Andrews of College View; Dan L. Ough of Benkelman; E. Preston Bailey of Carleton; Rola C. Van Kirk of Lincoln; and Elwell Johnston of Orchard.

The state institutions committee members who were here are: Charles L. Jones of Schuyler; E. E. Binfield of Prosser; A. E. Allyn of Hastings; J. G. McBride of Lincoln; J. D. Saunders of Kearney; T. McMahon of Omaha; Obed Kausch of Norfolk; and Max Adams of Dannebrog.

Other legislators who accompanied the two groups are: August Wittler of Wayne; R. C. Reegan of Columbus; and F. G. Rundell of Aurora, and Dr. Carleton of the Norfolk state hospital.

The solons were in Norfolk Thursday, inspected the state institution there, and came to Wayne Friday morning by special car. The men were guests of Pres. U. S. Conn at breakfast in the college cafeteria. They then inspected the buildings and saw the needs of the local school.

The visitors left for Milford, Beatrice, Hastings, Grand Island and Kearney enroute back to Lincoln.

Addresses Club On Eastern Trip

Pres. U. S. Conn Speaks to Faculty Group and Students at Wayne School.

Pres. U. S. Conn, who last week returned from attending the department of superintendence of the National Educational Association in Cleveland, Ohio, addressed the college faculty club Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Pres. Conn has attended each of the mid-year sessions of the national association since 1908, this being twenty-one conventions, and he spoke to the local faculty members about changes in methods, terminology, etc., which he has noted in the time he has attended.

Pres. Conn spoke in chapel Wednesday on his trip to Ohio. He, with Pres. Ben Elliot of Chadron, visited the manufacturing plant of the International Harvester company at Chicago, with a cousin of the latter, and this visit Pres. Conn described to the students.

Prof. W. Irving Horn of the music department, is preparing an operetta "The Marriage of Nerette," which will be presented in April by boys' and girls' glee clubs of the college.

Pres. U. S. Conn went to Lincoln this Thursday on business.

Wayne County Couple Marry

Miss Minnie E. Gathje Becomes the Bride of Ernest G. Koch Wednesday.

Miss Minnie E. Gathje, daughter of Mrs. Christine Gathje who lives eight miles southeast of Wayne, and Mr. Ernest G. Koch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Koch who live about five miles southwest of Wayne, were married Wednesday afternoon, March 6, at 3 o'clock at the Evangelical Lutheran parsonage in Wayne, Rev. H. A. Teckhaus performing the ceremony.

Miss Marie Koch, sister of the bridegroom, and Herman Gathje, brother of the bride, attended the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Koch will make their home on a farm four and one-half miles southwest of Wayne.

Rents Building To Lincoln Firm

The north one of the five buildings which Walter Savidge has just completed on south Main street he has rented to A. D. Aden of Lincoln, who will come this week to open a produce house. Mr. Aden has leased the building for one year with an option for three months. He represents a large firm which buys poultry, produce and cream and sells feeds. Mr. Aden and his family plan to move here this week.

HERALD GRATEFUL FOR RECOGNITION BY SPECIALISTS

We wish to express appreciation for the high rating given this newspaper by Prof. John H. Casey, distinguished newspaper specialist connected with the University of Oklahoma. We have also just received a certificate of award by the journalistic department of the University of Illinois, for which we wish to make grateful acknowledgment. Prof. Casey of Oklahoma, has placed us as "full back" in his all-American team, but as we do not know the meager rudiments of football, we will have to find out what it means to be "full back" and learn how a "full back" ought to act. Like other occupations or professions, a newspaper has its sunshine and shadows, its flowers and thorns; one propels and the other steadies. Of many excellent American weeklies, it is not easy to pick leaders, and no publisher, understanding the facts and ambitious to improve, will not entertain a feeling of superiority. So much is yet to be accomplished to place the rural press where it belongs in the realm of service that no newspaper can afford to tarry long in counting its past achievements. Weekly newspapers of the nation have been steadily going forward, and Nebraska has many that rank among the best.

Ohio Engineer Speaks To Club

S. S. Weyer of Columbus, Addresses Kiwanians on St. Lawrence Waterway.

Opposes System

Speaks Before College Groups and Public While in Wayne This Week.

S. S. Weyer of Columbus, Ohio, consulting engineer for the fuel power company of Cleveland, addressed Wayne Kiwanians Monday following their regular noonday luncheon at Hotel Stratton, speaking of the proposed St. Lawrence waterway. He presented viewpoints opposing the plan.

Mr. Weyer pointed out that water power is not a question of free power. Its use requires expense, just as fuel power, Mr. Weyer stated. He showed that one steam turbine has been made which develops twice as much power as a Muscle Shoals and can be housed in a room 100 feet long. The power of Muscle Shoals is greatly overrated, the speaker thinks, and it is not as important as many have believed.

The speaker presented data to show that Chicago diverts through the Chicago river as much water as normally flows over the American falls at Niagara. This irritates Canadian and American interests at Niagara. Chicago converted the Chicago river into use by lowering the bed of the river from the lake out for nine miles.

The speaker mentioned three factors as argument against the St. Lawrence waterway. Ocean going steamers cannot now dock at harbors on the lakes and considerable expense would be incurred by need of lowering the harbors and rebuilding the docks. The statement is made that a western farmer would receive 9¢ per bushel more for wheat sent from Chicago or Duluth to Liverpool. The speaker stated that there might be that much saved in transportation but whether or not the farmer or some middleman would receive it is a question. Proponents of the waterway feel that the six million horsepower developed would furnish revenue to care for all expenses of the waterway. Mr. Weyer stated that developing the system would cost as much as it would to allow steam to flow through the machines.

The club heard the presidential inaugural ceremonies Monday also at the meeting.

Walter Savidge To Open Season

Amusement Company Will Start Twenty-third Year in Wayne, First of May.

The Savidge Amusement company, owned and operated by Walter Savidge of Wayne, starts its twenty-third season in Wayne the week of May 6. Mr. Savidge has most of his plans for the season completed and expects to take his company onto the road bigger and better than ever. He will go through western Nebraska and to the Black Hills.

Through Mr. Barrett of Lincoln, Mr. Savidge has secured a miniature locomotive which will be a popular riding device for the children. The engine, which is run by steam and which is just like ordinary train machines, is twenty-two inches high. There are four cars which have capacity of sixteen children. The train runs on a six-pound rail and twelve-inch track. A midgeet operates the train.

Mr. Savidge has his dramatic troop-picked and they will soon come from Regina, Canada, New York, Los Angeles, San Antonio, Texas, and Kansas City to prepare for the season.

Wayne County Wed-Saturday

James E. Brittain and Miss Marie Gettman Are Married in Hartington.

Miss Marie Gettman and Mr. James E. Brittain of Wayne, were married Saturday, February 23, in Hartington, County Judge H. N. Wallace performing the ceremony. After a visit in Norfolk, Mr. and Mrs. Brittain returned to Wayne to make their home.

Mr. Brittain is a son of Mrs. Mary Brittain of Wayne. He is a graduate of the Wayne high school and the State Teachers College. He finished the law course at the University of Nebraska and has been associated with F. S. Berry in his law office in Wayne for five years. Mr. Brittain is a member of Sigma Chi.

Mrs. Brittain is a daughter of Mrs. Magdalena Gettman of Norfolk. She completed the Grand Island business college course and has been employed in the Berry office in Wayne as stenographer for several years.

Wayne Citizens Party Meets Friday

Candidates for School Board and Members of Council Are Nominated.

At the annual convention of the Wayne Citizens party, local political organization, held in the city hall Friday evening, Paul Mines was chosen chairman and L. E. McClure secretary. As mayor, clerk and treasurer hold over another year, only members of the board of education were nominated.

C. E. Carhart was named to succeed himself, and R. B. Judson was named to succeed J. H. Kemp, who, on the presentation of his name, declined to be considered. At the conclusion of the convention, caucuses were held in the three wards to select members of the city council. Present officers were renamed as follows: First ward, W. S. Miller; Second ward, B. F. Strahan; and Third ward, Ernest Bichel.

An opposing political organization passed out of existence a few years ago, and so no other convention will be held. The election will take place Tuesday, April 2.

Couple Married In Kansas Home

Charles W. Senter of Sioux City, Weds Miss Marcie Matthews at Wichita.

Mr. Charles W. Senter, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Senter, of Wayne, and Miss Marcie Matthews, daughter of H. W. Matthews, of Wichita, Kan., were married Saturday, March 2, at high noon at the home of the bride's father, Rev. Mr. Roth of the First Episcopal church performing the ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends. Wedding breakfast was served at 1 o'clock at the Matthews home and Mr. and Mrs. Senter left afterward for Kansas City to spend the week-end. They returned to Sioux City the first of this week.

Miss Matthews wore white with touches of hand-made flowers at the wedding. Her going-away suit was an ensemble, a long coat of heavy crepe in sage green over a pink frock in which the same shade of green predominated. Her felt hat, slippers and bag were of cream and she wore a handsome red fox. A Wichita friend attended the bride and a Sioux City friend attended Mr. Senter.

The bride attended the university in Lincoln and is a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Mr. Senter is a graduate of the Wayne high school and college and also attended the state university. For the past year he has been in business in Sioux City where the young couple will live in a new apartment.

SUPT. T. S. HOOK who has decided to retire as head of the Wayne school.

EIGHT FEET OF FROST IN GROUND UNUSUAL RECORD

LITTLE snow and extremely cold weather for two months caused the ground to freeze to an unusual depth. Frost is said to extend down as far as eight feet. It will take a considerable stretch of warm weather to put fields in shape for plowing and seeding. Already March has brought some fair days, suggestive of spring warmth and returning verdure, and it is hoped winter elements will now lay off until after another harvest, with an additional hope that this year's crops will in a measure make up for the deficiencies of the past few years. This section deserves and needs a year of big, well matured crops. It is a kind of farm relief that is reasonable and within the range of strong probability.

Early Resident Wakefield Dies

August Danielson Passes at Red Oak, Iowa, at Advanced Age of 91 Years.

August Danielson, resident of Wakefield from 1886 to 1921, passed away in Red Oak, Iowa, at the home of his son, John Danielson, Wednesday morning, February 27, aged 91 years, 4 months and 24 days. The body was brought to Wakefield by the son with whom he lived and funeral service was conducted Monday afternoon from Salem Lutheran church with Rev. J. A. Martin in charge. Interment was made in Wakefield cemetery.

Dr. Danielson was born in Smalán, Sweden, on October 3, 1837. He was baptized and confirmed in the state church there. He married Miss Charlotte Peterson in 1858. To this union were born six children, five sons and one daughter. Two sons and one daughter passed away in early years. The three sons who survive are: John Danielson of Red Oak, Iowa, Charles Danielson of Harden, Wyo., and Oscar Danielson of Glendale, Calif.

Mr. Danielson's first wife died in Sweden in 1878. Deceased married Miss Louise Anderson in 1877. The family came to this country in 1881 and located in the Nyman community south of Red Oak, Iowa. In 1886 the family came to Wakefield. Mr. Danielson and his wife affiliated with Salem Lutheran church and remained faithful members until death. Mrs. Danielson passed away in 1921 and since then deceased made his home with his son at Red Oak.

Besides his three sons, Mr. Danielson leaves five grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Mrs. Ed Sundell of Wakefield, is a cousin of deceased.

UNFAILING INDEX.

Edgar G. Harris, publisher of the Blytheville Courier-News, and for 14 years owner and publisher of the Laurel (Miss.) Daily Leader, and a tireless booster and builder, declares...

"The trade of a town or city follows the circulation of its home newspaper just as certainly as civilization follows the flag."

"Show me the circulation records of your home newspaper and I will make an accurate map of the trade radius of your town or city."

"Newspaper advertising is a certain index to a town's progressiveness, and the more who read newspaper advertising can measure accurately the importance of its stores and their ability and willingness to read or customer service."

"The merchant or business man who figures advertising as an expense will never get very far. Inasmuch, an investment as the merchandise which it is designed to sell, and the element of good will which newspaper advertising carries and builds and fortifies, it is worth more to the right sort of business than any amount of money invested in merchandise and fixtures and fine buildings."

"Good will created by newspaper advertising is worth more than personal sales, which is an important factor in any small city establishment, and this fact has been eloquently demonstrated by the chain stores, which have, through the use of newspaper advertising, made tremendous strides within recent years."

"Here in the office of the Courier-News, we do not run free publicity of any kind. We do not accept gratuities. We do not permit advertisers to give us business to help the paper. But we sell advertising as a service, and believe we are thus adding to the prosperity of our patrons and the city in which we have invested our money and are making our home."—The Arkansas Publisher.

State Funds on Hand

Lincoln, Neb., March 4.—Although the Nebraska general fund is experiencing its first "lean period" of 1929, which will last until May 1, there was a total of $851,572 in the fund at the close of business for February, W. M. Stebbins, state treasurer, reported today. It is fairly certain, he said, that no deficit will be incurred by the fore real estate taxes begin coming in.

The total cash reserve in all funds increased by more than 400 thousands dollars in February, owing mainly to the fact that about 600 thousand dollars of motor vehicle license money was collected last month, while only 79 thousand dollars was paid out of that fund for highway maintenance, Mr. Stebbins asserted. Gasoline tax also brought 100 thousand dollars more than was paid out.

The general fund, on the other hand, was depleted by heavier withdrawals than receipts, the report showed. The amount taken in was $402,916, while $519,281 was paid out.

Combined income of the state treasury from all sources in February was $1,970,630, with disbursements totalling $1,557,506. As a result the cash balance in all funds increased during the month from $3,679,346 at the beginning to $4,092,469 at the close.

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 40 Wayne, Neb., Thursday, March 7, 1929. Vol. 2

We have some goat-getters here in Wayne. And we also might add that we have a goat-getter or two.

A few days ago a customer said, "I'm going to buy some field fence this spring and believe I'll send to Henry Field's for it."

Whereupon we dug up Henry's catalog turned to page 68 and find by quotes 24-inch fencing at 35c per rod f. o. b. Shenandoah. The freight rate to Wayne is 72 1/2 per hundred. Henry says his fence weighs 650 pounds per hundred rods. That would make the freight 4.61 1/2 per hundred rods. The cost of the fence delivered in Wayne would therefore be one-quarter of a cent less than 40c per rod. On the basis of what Henry says his fence weighs, it will cost 6 1-10c per pound delivered in Wayne. We sell our American 26-inch fence at 40c per rod, the same price as Henry's, but ours weighs 680 pounds per hundred rods of 5.88c per pound. Our customer can buy a heavier fence from us at the same price per rod and at less per pound than he can from Henry.

When we turned to page 69 and find Henry quotes 87 to 90 pound slate roofing at $2.50 per roll f. o. b. Shenandoah. The freight to Wayne is 74c per roll or a total cost in Wayne of $3.24 per roll. We sell exactly the same slate roll roofing weighing 87 to 90 pounds for $2.75 per roll. Henry's price is therefore 49c per roll higher than ours. Henry offers his Hexagon Strip Shingles, weighing 190 pounds, at $4.95. The freight is $1.38. The total cost in Wayne is therefore $6.33 per square. We sell you our Hexagon Strip Shingles, weighing 220 pounds at $6.00. Thirty pounds more weight for 33c less money! Better see us before sending good money to any catalog house.

Easter is coming and we haven't had a minute to think about our new spring bonnet.

The editor is very proud to acknowledge the arrival of a 3 1/2 pound grandson born in Randolph, February 25.

We've just been reading about a girl named Helen. It seems she married a man named Fall. That made her Helen Fall. But the worst of it is that he now says she is the same in winter, spring and summer.

The slogan, "Reach for a Lucky instead

In furthering our own interests it's so easy to step on somebody's toes, isn't it?

Stars Shine on Their Mountain Cabin When These Children Start to School

IN this day of consolidated schools and school buses few children are faced with the difficulties which faced pioneer children in their attempts to gain an education. But in a little mountain cabin in Watauga county, North Carolina, about 11 miles from Boone, live five brothers and sisters—the youngest a 6-year-old girl—who walk 10 miles a day to and from school.

The trail, which leads to the cabin of their widowed mother Mrs. Ida Rogers, is so steep and rough that the school bus cannot possibly get over it. In fact, to 2 1/2 miles down the almost perpendicular side of the mountain the path is virtually unmarked and traversable only by very alert and sure-footed animals or persons. Every inch of the way is covered with sharp stones so sharp that the feet of the five Rogers children have many times been severely cut and bruised by them. In addition there are three swift streams to cross and for about 100 yards a broad creek is part of the trail.

Records Are Good. According to the compulsory school law, children who live more than 2 1/2 miles from school are not permitted to attend unless transportation is provided.

Despite this and the hazardous long walk, the children are so eager for an education that Turner, 13; Blanche, 15; and Lettie, 11, have missed only three days in two years. Villas, a 9-year-old boy, cut his feet so badly on the stoniest last winter that he had to remain out for nearly two weeks and three weeks, for she was too little to plow through the snow drifts. Turner has led his class ever since he started to school, and the marks of the others have been almost as high.

These children walk 10 miles a day to attend school. Their daily march takes them over a mountain, along a trail that is a swift-running creek part of the way. Their mother, Mrs. Ida Rogers, is the widow of a North Carolina mountaineer. Left to right: Villas, 9; Blanche, 15; Marie, 6; Turner, 13, and Lettie, 11.

Tear nothing but rattlesnakes and copperheads. "All mountain people are good," she has told them, and they fear no harm from persons.

Cleared Forest. The mother's story is one of actual heroism. She was left not only penniless, but in debt when her husband died five years ago. First she had to struggle against the attempts of "kindly" people to send her children to an orphanage. Then, together they started to work on their 39 acres—wood-land, except for a tiny garden. Only those who have cleared virgin forest land can realize how difficult it was for this woman, her 10-year-old daughter and 3-

School Notes. The Junior class started work on a play, "The Man Higher Up," which is to be given toward the end of the school year.

The basketball team entered the tournament in class G at Lincoln. The boys play Primrose high school today at 3:40. They are staying at Lincoln hotel.

Grammar Room. Those who had averages above 90 for the six weeks were: Norris Weible, Clarence Witt, Virginia Troutman, Evelyn Richer, Freda Weible, Allen Carpenter, Henry Nielsen and Kathryn Lewis, all of the eighth grade. Maxine Jones of the same grade had an average of 96.

Those of the eighth grade having averages above 85 were: Richard Moses, Lydia Jensen, Evelyn Moeding and Emma Koll.

Those of the seventh grade with averages above 85 were: Dorothea Bartlett, Irene Koplin, C. B. Missett and Cecil Jordan.

The eighth history class had their fourth debate Wednesday. The topic debated was "Resolved: That the Mexican War was justifiable." Henry Nielsen was chairman and judges were: Lydia Jensen, Russell Prince and Allan Carpenter. The affirmative side won the decision. Frieda Weible and Virginia Glascock upheld the affirmative and Emma Koll and Kenneth Miller the negative side.

Norris Weible, Henry Nielsen and Norma Wolff earned gold seals for nine months of perfect attendance.

Frieda Weible brought the heart of a pig for study in the physiology class.

Mrs. Carl Wolff visited the grammar room last week Wednesday afternoon.

AFILIATING MEMBER

 The paper is recognized for general advertising by the Nebraska Association.

A contributor to a current magazine explains how his popularity as a society star, club member and office holder in a community so monopolized his time that he finally sold out and moved, and that then, amid new surroundings, he commenced to enjoy life. Before then he couldn't say "no," and his consequence he had no time to devote to himself or his family.

We do not know where or how March winds are made, but we do know they contain more energy than any other kind. Probably the purpose in mind in creating these winds is to renovate the atmosphere and dry up the ground, drive out disease germs, but the ground in shape for cultivation and insure a better state of health. A March wind has some good points.

A Hollywood, Calif., motion picture address makes public a story of the horrors which she suffered in conquering the drug habit. She explains how the drug was administered to relieve pain, and how in due time she became hopelessly addicted to it. She fought desperately to get rid of the habit, and she has finally succeeded. She warns others to avoid habit-forming drugs, and thus escape the tortures of an earthly hell.

President Hoover is reported strong for work, but not for exercise intended merely for recreation. He is said to regret the physical exercise which he receives according to established custom and is glad when it is over. He works fast and sits fast, goes to bed at 10, awakens at 2, and reads until 5 when he drops into another slumber which lasts until 7. He manages to live and keep healthy on six hours' sleep each day. He smokes cigars and a pipe, but never smokes cigarettes.

The eighteenth amendment was considered an issue in the late presidential election, and the result at the polls was interpreted as popular endorsement. The candidate favoring modification was defeated, and the victorious candidate has reason to accept his election as a mandate to carry out the law. If a majority of the people do not want prohibition they can have it nullified in an orderly way. If they do want it, as indicated in November, they should cooperate with the administration in securing effective enforcement.

As Nebraska raises sugar beets and corn convertible into sugar and syrup, and does not grow tobacco nor manufacture cigarettes, the state legislature has been asked to frame up radio programs within the state that encourage smoking cigarettes instead of eating sweets. In addition to this standing up for home production.

HOOVER'S SPEECH.
 The inaugural speech by President Hoover, on being invested with the office of chief executive March 4, was plain-spoken and clear-cut, and millions who listened, were impressed by his sincerity, high purpose and firm resolution. The president stressed the importance of law observance and called to the attention of citizens their duty to uphold the law. He pointed out that it is just as much the duty of citizens to observe the law as it is for the government to enforce the law. "The worst evil of disregard for some law," said President Hoover, "is that it destroys respect for all law. For our citizens to patronize the violation of a particular law on the ground that they are opposed to it is destructive of the very basis of all that protection of life, of homes and property which they rightly claim under other laws. If citizens do not like a law, their duty is honest men and women is to discourage its violation; their right is openly to work for its repeal. The president said, far rather and limited changes in the tariff were needed and indicated that he would soon call a special session of congress with recommendations to act. The president is accepted as a man of sound and progressive leadership, and people have reason to look forward to his administration with confidence.

It may be said that cigarette smoking does not encourage people to make a consumption exceed that suggested by the rules of health. One senator expressed the feeling that tobacco interests of other states were operating to the injury of the agricultural prosperity of Nebraska.

Reports from the legislature indicate that attention during remaining days of the session will be centered on banking. Several bills treating the subject are before the two-houses, and they are thought of and analyzed often and heard by the members. How to handle the deficit and how to provide for the future are difficult problems up to the legislature for solution. Governor Weaver's measure providing for a thorough investigation of previous operation of the guaranty law is reported likely to pass without serious opposition, the same having been advanced to the third reading this week. Members of the legislature have been talking an intensive course in banking this winter, and doubtless each has been praying for the wisdom of Solomon to illuminate and direct his course.

President Herbert Hoover is a product of the service and character development which he expressed in the following quotation: "When we traverse the memories of those who have builded state and nation, we recall those acts which are rooted in the soil of service. We find that none give us such comfort and satisfaction as the record of service we have been able to render. I do not believe that people have lost those finer qualities of rugged character, self-reliance, or initiative nor have they lost the great quality which they embodied in American character, the quality of neighborly cooperation and mutual service. It is in this quality that our hope must lie in the solution of our great problems."

 come buyers and to see that they were so well treated that they would come back.
 Forty years ago stores had no paper bags to convey purchases. Goods were wrapped in straw paper piled in flat reams on the counter. There was no granulated sugar. Bleached brown sugar, called coffee A, was used. No refrigeration gave preservation, and only canned and dried fruit were kept in stock. Cream separators were few. Farmers made butter and traded it for merchandise. Some of the butter was fresh and good, but, without cooling processes, some of it became strong enough to demolish a fort. If sold as low as five cents a pound, a quarter for two pounds of the best butter was considered a fair retail price. Customers always ground and often roasted their coffee. So called breakfast foods were unknown, which fact may be regarded by some as no disadvantage to the time.
 The dry goods department was not stylish. Calico at five cents per yard was a popular seller. So called fast prints which descended from calico, retail now at about forty cents per yard. Unbleached muslin which now sells at 25 cents per yard, used to retail at 5 cents per yard. Little silk was on the market, and silk stockings were unknown. Women wore more clothes at far less cost. A man could dress himself from head to foot for $15. A boy could be fitted out for $1.50 during summer.
 The average merchant was in a narrow groove forty years ago. He did not stir himself to create new business, nor did he exercise himself much to hold what he had. Trade came to him as long as he could extend credit. He had a comparatively small investment and light overhead, and he made lib-

MALIGNANCY.
 The malignant spirit often prompts one to dislike another without real ground. It is expressed in a desire to tear down some one who appears to be doing well and who seems to be occupying an easy berth. The facts are not apparent. The price paid for progress or success is not known or understood. One may be attending to his business and giving his best services only to find he is opposed by less active or less constructive interests or individuals whose idea of living is to slow up the procession and give everybody an easier time in trying to keep up. In the absence of other conceivable ground, this may often explain shafts of hatefulness fired with the idea of hampering or unholing industry and innocence. Sometimes, malignancy is expressed in seeking revenge for trivial or fancied wrongs. One imagines another has not given him a square deal, and he wants to play even. He does not take into account the possibility that he is mistaken until after he has retaliated. Then it may be too late to redress the wrong. Words are often spoken and acts done to hurt others of grounds that do not exist, and the result is unjustifiable injury. People soon see errors of judgment, but sometimes not soon enough to avoid damage that is not easily repaired.

eral profit on what he sold. Today a big stock of expensive goods is necessary, the overhead mounts skyward and margins of profit are small. People have money and they buy where the goods, service and prices suit them. Now a merchant cannot wait a customer aside to be waited on after he finishes a game of cards or completes a round in croquet.

Banking Bills Up To Special Order

Lincoln, Neb., March 6.—With all the banking measures before them, other bills are being considered as secondary matters by the Nebraska legislature.
 In the lower branch of the assembly, however, all the banking bills have been fixed as special orders of business and will be taken up at the scheduled time, but the state senate is taking up its bills at their regular turns on the calendar.
 Having virtually disposed of Governor Weaver's measure providing for a thorough investigation and audit of the guaranty fund commission and banking department, the representatives have centered their attention on the remedial banking bills.
 As a result of the prompt action yesterday in advancing the investigation bill to third reading, little opposition is expected on final passage. One of the principal objections raised while the bill was under consideration yesterday was over the $150,000 appropriation to defray the expenses of the investigation. Representative Spender of Barnston offered an amendment reducing the appropriation to $75,000, but it was decisively defeated.
 Acting on its first remedial banking measure, the state senate passed a bill providing a constitutional amendment making stockholders immediately liable when their bank becomes insolvent. This bill repeals the present law, which makes stockholders liable after all the assets of the bank have been liquidated.
 Thirteen other measures, twelve of which were house bills, also were passed by the senate. They include the provisions:
 Allow registration of voters in cities from 7,000 to 25,000 up to and ending on the tenth day preceding all elections.
 Change from the sixth to the third Monday after election, the date for canvassing state election returns.

 Entitle political parties to a separate ballot at primary elections held after their formation, the same as for already existing parties.
 Make minor regulations governing state law and reference library.
 Make it the duty of persons engaged in the construction of any project that may endanger land marks to employ the county surveyor to perpetuate such land mark.
 Amend law relating to drainage ditches by allowing bond of supervisors to levy an annual tax sufficient to pay expenses of repairs, maintenance and administration of such district.
 Prescribe proceedings for the abandonment or continuation of a drainage district project.
 Permit incorporation of Catholic parishes, K. D. Catholic Workmen and the Western Bohemian Catholic Union, Z. C. R. J.

Permit captain of guards at penitentiary to act as deputy warden in absence of warden and deputy warden.
 Authorize chief executive officers of state institutions under board of control to invest in United States bonds all trust funds they hold for inmates.
 Establish a code of military laws for the state relating to the organization, maintenance and government of the national guard.
 Prohibit peddlers or agents from soliciting orders from school teachers between the hours of 8:30 a. m. and 5 p. m.
 Permit use of township funds for improving county roads, as may be voted by annual meeting.

Here is a comprehensive aerial view of the beautiful seacoast estate where King George of England is now convalescing after his long fight with pneumonia. The mansion is Cratwell House, near the small village of Bosnor, on the Sussex coast. Its owner, Sir Arthur Guinness, recently spent a half-million dollars on improvements. It now contains a motion picture theater, ballroom and two pipe organs.

Blind Proof Reader Detects Errors in Braille Made by Experts With Sight,

OF ALL vocations in which one would expect to find a blind person engaged, proof reading certainly stands near the top. Yet Miss Mary Hays, blind since the age of 6—who has never seen an automobile, nor any of the other modern inventions—has intimate, technical knowledge of most of them through reading about them every day at the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross.

Her sensitive fingers move over long pages of Braille type and detect errors which are made despite the best efforts of an expert staff who transcribe the text into Braille. And, despite the fact that all who do the work of transcribing have normal vision.

During last year 150,000 pages of Braille were put into libraries for the benefit of approximately 100,000 blind persons throughout the United States. Miss Hays, whose official title is "acting director of Braille," proof reads the manuscripts which are copied from popular works into the Braille by volunteer workers, all of whom have their sight.

Miss Mary Hays, although blind, is employed by the American Red Cross to detect errors made by a staff of experts with normal vision in transcribing books into Braille. She is shown here at her desk. The Braille typewriter before her is used by Miss Hays to call attention of contributors to errors they have made.

Student of Books

"Volunteers are given preliminary instructions here," says Miss Hays, "and generally begin their work when they understand the Braille system, by copying a few short stories."

She held up two bundles of paper with the dotted writing. "These are the two best short stories of last year," she said.

"You see I come in contact with the best of all kinds of literature, but I prefer biography, travel and history."

In addition to reading proof on the manuscripts, Miss Hays acts as instructor for those who wish to learn the Braille method and become contributors. When she finds a mistake in the work of one of her pupils she makes a note of it for the typewriter and explains to the transcriber so that the error will not occur again.

"Generally the workers bring in a few pages of a story at a time and I correct it if necessary and divide it for sub-titles and send it to be bound," she says. "When finished it is sent to libraries that have a section for the blind."

Works Are Lengthy

With the exception of Adeline Hoyt who is acting national director of Braille for the Red Cross, Miss Hays is the only blind woman known who is employed as a professional certified proof reader.

She has just finished reading proof on Ludwig's "Napoleon," which fills 1631 pages of Braille.

The "Romance of Leonardo da Vinci" was transcribed and took 1277 pages. Some of the other recent works which were transcribed are "Dmitri-Mozzkowski," "Modern American Poetry," "Trader Horn," "Washington Spools for Hickok" and "Castles in Spain."

Before this system of transcribing was worked out there were but few books available for the blind except the Bible and a few others. Now many of the books which are proof read by Miss Hays are sent to the Congressional Library, where they can be procured by anyone without charge—not even postage for mailing to different parts of the country.

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin.

Nebraska may well lay claim to the oldest harnessmaker in the United States. E. Kuenneth of Minden has worked continuously at his trade. More than that, he is still working at it. The writer does not know how long Mr. Kuenneth has worked in Nebraska, but does know that Mr. Kuenneth was stitching away in his shop at Minden when the writer first landed there more than 13 years ago. Statistical sharps here have an opportunity to do a little figuring. Counting six stitches to the inch, how many miles of harness stitches do you suppose Mr. Kuenneth has stitched in the 66 years he has been stitching harness?

Perhaps Nebraska can boast of the longest serial story published in a weekly newspaper. Not the longest in number of words, maybe; but the longest in length of time it has been running. The Bertrand Herald each week has a story under the caption, "Local History From Earliest Times," written by E. W. Brown. The 120th weekly installment will appear this week.

Bion J. Arnold, a native son of Nebraska, has just been honored by the Western Society of Engineers with an award for notable engineering achievements. Mr. Arnold is recognized as one of the greatest consulting engineers in the world. He was born at Ashland and early showed a bent for mechanics. His favorite pastime was hanging around the local blacksmith shop, "making things."

At the age of 12 he had constructed a little locomotive that was an exact replica of those then in use on the Burlington. It worked under steam pressure the same as any other locomotive.

Reports of golden wedding anniversaries, and beyond, are becoming numerous, and are certainly more worthy of mention than divorce. Divisions brought by member of the "movie colony." Here are some recent ones: On February 21 Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Reesler of Auburn celebrated their 54th wedding anniversary. On Jan. 2 Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Cadwallader of Lincoln celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary. On Feb. 22 Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hinsley of Lincoln celebrated their 75th wedding anniversary.

Nebraska has 869,000 acres subject to irrigation from water permits to canals now operated. Each year more than 820,000 irrigated acres are cultivated. Scotts Bluff county has the largest irrigated acreage. Other counties with lands irrigated from canals are Morrill, Kimball, Cheyenne, Keith, Lincoln, Dawson and Buffalo. Well irrigation is growing rapidly in Buffalo and Hall counties.

How many banks in Nebraska have been continuously under the management of one family for more than 25 years? The writer has knowledge of but two. The Kingsleys of Minden, and the Rogers of the same city have been operating banks in that city for more than 40 years. This week the Roseland State Bank celebrates its 25th anniversary, and it has been under the management of Ed Hall for the entire time.

Although born in Missouri Walter W. Head will always be considered a Nebraska product. His rise in the world of finance has been little short of spectacular, though richly deserved. Mr. Head has moved to Chicago to become president of one of the largest banks in that city. Mr. Head taught school in Andrew county, Mo., for several years before securing a position in a bank at St. Joseph. But for one thing he might have been a farmer. And thereby hangs a tale. While teaching school Mr. Head decided to engage in farming and stock raising, but not having sufficient capital to buy the stock he wanted he went to Savannah, the county seat, and tried to negotiate a small loan, about $100, wherewith to buy a couple of cows and two or three brood sows. The banker turned him down. This discouraged Mr. Head and he decided not to become a farmer. Later he became the head of the St. Joseph bank. "And I had to borrow from $50,000 to $150,000 from Mr. Head more than once," said the banker who had refused to loan Mr. Head $100.

How many Nebraskans know that Nebraska owns and operates a railroad? So far as available records show Nebraska is the only state in the Union that does own and actually operate a railroad. It is only about three miles long, however, and its rolling stock consists of one or two dummy engines. It runs from the capitol grounds to a junction with the Burlington railroad in the southwest part of Lincoln, and the only traffic it carries is material used in the construction of the new state house.

Mentor A. Brown, editor of the Kearney Daily Hub, and nestor of Nebraska newspaperdom, recently celebrated his 78th birthday, and practically the 60th anniversary of his entry into the printing and publishing business. He is the oldest editor in point of actual service in the state, and still going strong. He has published the Kearney Hub for more than 40 years, and prior to that published a newspaper in Beatrice for a number of years.

Nebraska has more miles of frontage on a single river than any other state in the Union.

Lindy will be one bridegroom who is not ignored at his own wedding.—New York Evening Post.

Business.

Sioux City Journal: With winter weather believed to be definitely in the past, the spring outlook for business is considered somewhat remarkable. An earlier upswing from the midwinter low in activity is expected. There has been no appreciable letdown since the first of the year, yet the interesting thing now is to determine whether there shall be a striking contrast between January and February on the one hand and March, April and May on the other.

Most observers are of the opinion that industrial activity this spring will be much better than for the past two years. The peak of production is looked for much earlier than was the case last year. Spring is likely to get an early start this year so far as business activity is concerned. It looks now as though predictions made recently in this respect will be borne out.

The railroads of the country in making their reports show a January gain in net income that reflects in an impressive way the prosperity of the country as a whole. The first 37 lines to report their earnings had a total net income for the month of January of $41,921,000. This was an increase of $12,448,000 over January of last year, or 29.6 per cent.

The eastern lines as a rule showed the greatest gains, although some western and southern roads had returns that were most satisfactory. The report of the Pennsylvania is especially interesting since it shows the increased demand for haulage. That line was able to show a net gain of about 25 per cent for January as compared with the same month last year in spite of the fact that railway operating expense, maintenance of equipment and transportation costs all were much heavier.

Freight car loadings for the week ending February 16 numbered 958,051 cars, a gain of 2,573 over the preceding week and a gain of 69,465 over the same week of last year. It also was a gain of 3,257 cars over the same week in 1927, so it may be seen that seasonal business volume is heavier than it has been for at least two years.

The showing in freight car loadings is somewhat remarkable when it is advised that decreases were suffered in the total loading of grain and grain products, live stock, coal, coke and merchandise in less than carload lots. The inference is that general merchandise must have been demanded in increasing volume to bring the total to the figure reported.

All optimistic predictions of the year's outlook made at its beginning seem to have been well founded. Business this year ought to be as good as it has been at any time since the world war.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

HELEN HICKS, 17-YEAR-OLD LONG ISLAND HIGH SCHOOL LASSIE, LEADS LIST OF NEW WOMEN GOLFERS—AND HOW ABOUT SHARKEY'S WIN?

BY PHILIP MARTIN

IT IS said that a high school romance with Jack Mackie, son of the veteran Inwood pro, is responsible for the remarkable game of golf that Helen Hicks, the 17-year-old lassie from Long Island, has been playing. Whether true or not, there can be no question but what Miss Hicks has arrived in the top flight of women golfers.

Miss Hicks had just been given a set of clubs when she met Mackie. This was five years ago. He was a sophomore in high school and she a freshman—and you know how those high school romances get along.

Anyway, Mackie set out to improve her game. That he made a fine job of it can be attested to from the manner in which Helen plays. She has as finely grounded a game as any woman player; she has smooth freedom of drive and her fairway play is excellent.

Her game is not but five years old and she never has taken a lesson from a professional. All she knows is what she has learned from Mackie, or from watching other ones play and practicing herself.

ONE of the New York newspapers staged a driving tournament last summer. Miss Hicks entered it, and won. The shortest of her three screeching drives carried 225 yards and that, as you know, is a drive any man, woman or child should be proud of.

She next bobbed up in the women's national at Hot Springs, but nothing she did created any interest. She went out quickly.

She entered the Bermuda championship this year and tied for medal honors with Maurine Gr-cut and then defeated Ada MacKenzie, several times Canadian champion, in the finals to win. She next attacked the Miami championship to show her Bermuda victory was not just a flash of form.

There remains no doubt that she will be formidable competition in all women meets in the future. She has an ideal temperament for tournament play and the physique to stand it. Broad shoulders and powerful wrists she has. She likes the game, likes to win, and she doesn't mind spending the hours necessary for practicing shots when they go badly.

WELL, the Sharkey-Stribling thing is over and where are we?

The Sharkey fellow must be rated right up there, probably the outstanding pretender to the throne vacated by Gene Tunney. Stribling can't be counted out. He lost by a narrow margin but gained experience in the Sharkey fight that should enable him to keep climbing in the heavyweight race.

Mr. Sharkey needs to take some recognition of Paulino and Maxie Schmeling. Paulino, you know, defeated K. O. Christner in much more decisive fashion than the Sharkey fellow did, and Schmeling's knockout of Risko, forgetting for the moment that many thought Risko was gone back too far to be much of a test for the young Garman, puts him right in there.

As for Dempsey—well, he probably won't fight any more. His taste of the promotion racket at Miami Beach, was very pleasing and he probably will continue at that game.

So it might be said, that Messrs. Sharkey, Paulino and Schmeling are the boys up there now—with Tommy Loughran, who wants to get in but hasn't so far, an outsider worth keeping your eye on. And don't cast Stribling overboard yet.

THE CONTRAST. Relating to a recent editorial in the Wayne Herald, touching newspapers in pioneer days as contrasted with other lines of business, Editor Stone of the Hartington Herald offers this comment: "The distinguished father of Editor Huse of the Wayne Herald was a pioneer in the newspaper business in northeast Nebraska, having been the founder of The Hartington Herald almost 50 years ago, and the son is no doubt qualified to speak on conditions in pioneer days. Personally, we like to think of the country newspaper evolving along with other lines of business from a small beginning to the commanding place which it occupies today, but, if there was any essential difference, we shall have to admit it. However, we can agree with Editor Huse's conclusion that now 'since the country has developed and publishers have improved their service commensurate with demand and with that of other lines of endeavor, mixing sound business principles with literary effort, the 'poverty joke' has lost its point, if, indeed, it ever had one.' We like that expression, injecting effort. That contains the ideal of the best newspapers of the present day and that is the important thing—that the newspaper is now, not what it used to be."

A Modern Richard Wagner Needed in American Music World

ing prototypes to check their talent. Many of the orchestrations made by American jazz arrangers, he says, are now being used in European universities to teach harmony. "It Goes Like This That Funny Melody," a fox-trot song is an instance of an interesting arrangement," he illustrates. "After all, Johannes Brahms and Franz Liszt were only arrangers of the folk tunes of Austria and Hungary. They made elaborate arrangements of these folk dances which have lived on all over. Somewhere an American arranger will come forward who will do the same with our folk tunes. The arrangement of 'It Goes Like This That Funny Melody' while not yet in the class of Brahms or Liszt, is a great step forward. It has many new ideas.

Jack Albin Predicts Great Future for New Musician

New York City.—Somewhere in America there is a musical genius of the new school who will emerge to rival Wagner in the arrangement of harmonious orchestration. This is the prediction of Jack Albin, musical director. "Development of the art of arranging is the next step in the evolution of modern popular music," says Mr. Albin. "At this moment, the creative growth of popular music is at a stand-still. We have come to the point where America must develop a new musical art—the art of arranging. A few pioneer arrangers have ventured into this new field. The financial returns they are receiving will attract more talent to this specialized field.

"Whether the Wagnerian genius will arise from one of these, or whether he will spring up from the unknowns, I cannot say. But he will come—and soon." Mr. Albin points out that arrangers of the past were not hindered by precedent, but are free to create brilliantly with no hamper-National Group Meets in Ohio. Pres. U. S. Conn and Dean H. H. Hahn Attend Educational Association Convention.

Pres. U. S. Conn and Dean H. H. Hahn who attended the National Education Association in Cleveland, Ohio, are home, the former having arrived Wednesday of last week and the latter having come this Tuesday. The convention was the annual session of the department of superintendence of the association. Pres. Conn attended the meeting for college presidents which was held ten days ago. Dean Hahn attended the session for those superintending training of schools.

Before and after the convention Dean Hahn visited normal schools in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio and Illinois, going to Mankato, Winona, LaCross, Ypsilanti, Kalamazoo, Kent and DeKalb. He also visited two brothers at Orville, Ohio. He found that the Wayne school stands well in comparison with other teachers' colleges.

Miss Edith Beecher, Miss Elizabeth Bettcher, Miss Tamin and Clarence Linton, formerly of Wayne, were among those in attendance at the meeting.

Die While Singing. Brunswick, Neb., March 5.—While singing in community hall here, Mrs. George Brown, 49, dropped dead of heart disease. She survived by a widower, mother, two sons and two daughters.

Urges Religion In World Peace

S. S. Wyer of Ohio Asserts That Teachings of Jesus Only Can Accomplish End.

S. S. Wyer of Columbus, Ohio, in an address at the Wayne State Teachers College last evening, on "The Shift of Civilization," stated that only when all nations observe the teachings of Jesus, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," and "The truth shall make you free," will world peace come. Nationality and race must be forgotten, militarism and fear must be taken out of religion and the teachings of Jesus "must be observed. Peace pacts are worth only the paper they are written on until this happens, the speaker stated.

Factors in the development of civilization the speaker named as religion, law, science and art. As art develops more or less along a separate line, the speaker stated, the other three were traced from the beginning of history and their interdependence shown.

Religion was first to rise; Egyptians formulated a religious aspect, recognizing a controlling power. They made a calendar, having recognized order in the universe. Their religion was based on fear and this element has come to the present day.

Hammurabi codified religious laws and this was the first attempt to organize these for the people. His contribution was thus definite rules of conduct.

With the rise of the Roman empire and the beginning of the Christian religion, there was conflict between the pagan and Christian ideas. The Christians instituted the idea of the Trinity in religion, the speaker stated, as a means of winning people who had previously had the idea of many gods. Pagans had a mother deity and thus the idea of deifying the mother of Jesus was instituted. When the Roman empire failed, in order to save the church, the power was shifted to the pope. This established a church head.

To the Jews the world looks for development of the idea of nationality. To show that the idea of referendum is not always safe, the speaker pointed to the vote of the people in the trial of Jesus. Left to the will of the masses, justice was not rendered. The idea each nation had was that it was right and others wrong. This nationalism has come to the present and is a great factor in delaying world peace, Mr. Wyer stated.

Romans codified law, which began to develop in the period of Roman supremacy. On this codification many present laws are based. The United States patent law originated from one of that time and through this has the great development in science been made possible. Inventors were encouraged and protected.

Science developed in religion and these continue to the present, separating into groups people who should all be working together. Books of the bible were brought together and made available to the masses.

Dante's contribution to civilization, the speaker stated, was his writing in the vernacular in order that the masses might read. This disseminated learning to all and allowed freedom of thought. And this freedom of thought, the speaker stated, is necessary if civilization advances.

Columbus' discovery of America was important in the fact that it led to investigation. It was shown that the Mediterranean sea was not the whole world. It also showed that the world is not flat. Magellan's circumnavigation of the globe was a step farther, showing that the world is round. This was the first step in science.

Watt's invention of the steam engine was a new step, another development in science. Since this time religion, law and science have been interdependent.

Science, the speaker showed, has gone by leaps and bounds in the past fifty years. Power has been developed from 70,000 horse power in 1900 to 1,028,000 in 1929. Farmers of this country, Mr. Wyer stated, have thirty-eight times as much power machinery on their places now as at the opening of the century. The animal power has remained practically the same. The increased amount of machinery has advanced costs in farm operation and this is one of the main factors in the farm problem, he stated. The World war showed the horrors which science develops. Mr. Wyer stated that another war would mean a war based on such advances in science. Masses of people would be wiped out with one small gas bomb.

With such strides in science, Mr. Wyer asserted that the only way to prevent war and continue civilization is to place more stress on religion and law. He commended Herbert Hoover's statement that laws are only valuable when effectively enforced. He also urged freedom of thought with practice of the teachings of Jesus.

Homer Carrier Serves Faithfully

Homer, Neb., March 4.—Twenty-seven years of mail carrying by George Whaley, 82-year-old Homer "old timer," have come to a close.

During 27 years of his service, meeting trains twice a day, Mr. Whaley has made the trip about 14,000 times, and could count on his fingers all the trips he has missed.

Beginning the mail service in 1900, Mr. Whaley has been at the work almost all the time since. His first route was an overland line from Winnebago, Neb., to Pender, which he made with a team and wagon daily for two years and more, without missing a trip. He then was transferred to Homer, where he hauled the mail from Dakota City to Winnebago for four years, again without missing a one trip.

Mr. Whaley then was employed on a bridge crew for nearly two years, but on the completion of the railroad to Homer he began carrying mail from the station to the postoffice and has been so employed since then.

Since taking the Homer route 21 years ago, Mr. Whaley says that he has made only two mistakes. At one time getting the pouches mixed he carried one of the outgoing pouches back to the postoffice with him. At another time his watch stopped and he was late for the only time during his service.

Mr. Whaley was born in Ohio, on the banks of the Ohio river, but spent most of his early life in Marshalltown, Ia., where he was married for the first time. In 1874 he came to Nebraska, but was forced to return to Iowa because grasshoppers destroyed crops. He came again in the 80s and took up farming near Homer. He bought a farm, lost it, and began the mail service. He later bought his present home in Homer. He was married to his present wife in Sioux City, in 1898. He is the father of 10 children. One son, Charles, living in Marshalltown, fought in the Spanish-American war. Two, Marion and Snyder, served in the A. E. F. during the last war.

Although more than 82 years of age Mr. Whaley, in addition to carrying the mail regularly twice each day, milks and takes care of a cow besides doing other work. Longevity is a trait in the Whaley family. Mr. Whaley's grandfather, a revolutionary war soldier, lived to be more than 90, and at that age could outrun any of his sons. Mr. Whaley's father also lived to be 90 years of age.

Youth of Inman Is Found Frozen

Inman, Neb., March 4.—The funeral of Ted Davis was held here Friday afternoon, from the Methodist church, the Rev. R. Poe having charge of the service. Mr. Davis' body was found, Feb. 25, sitting on a log in a wooded lot, north of Crystal Lake, near Sioux City. He had been missing for two weeks. The body was frozen when found. His car and suit case have not been recovered.

Mr. Davis was born near Inman in 1905, and he grew to young manhood here, graduating with the class of 1925. Since then he had worked near Wisner most of the time. He is survived by his father, George Davis, six brothers and three sisters, all of whom were here to attend the funeral. Burial was made in Inman cemetery by the side of his mother and brother, who preceded him in death.

Sale At Pavilion One of Largest

Wayne pavilion sale Saturday was one of the largest of the season, the proceeds being $5,100. Attendance was very large. The sale two weeks before was larger in proceeds, the amount then being $5,500. D. H. Cunningham, sales manager, anticipates the largest sale of the year next week, March 16.

Crew Tests Sub Safety Device

The ill-fated submarine S-4, which was rammed and sunk by the U. S. destroyer Paulding, has been reconditioned and is being used by the navy to test out a new safety device which, it is claimed, will permit the crew to escape from similarly disabled submarines. The men above volunteered to act as a crew during the tests.

Rights Name

Figures are supposed to count for a lot in feminine lives, but plain old everyday numbers meant enough to the pretty San Francisco co-ed, above, to have her go to court and change her name to a more harmonious figure numerologically speaking. (She entered court as Doris Madeline Canney. She left as Rosaline Claire Canney, declaring that the new name would bring success.)

NORMAN, OKLA.—For the third time in as many years (an All-American Country Weekly Newspaper eleven has been selected by Prof. John H. Casey, country newspaper specialist at the University of Oklahoma. Based on his observations from March, 1928, to February, 1929, Professor Casey chooses to honor eleven men on his third all-mythical team.

This year's team is built around three stellar weekly newspapers, sample copies of which, Professor Casey suggests, should be procured and studied by other weekly publishers to be fully appreciated. They are: The Wayne (Neb.) Herald, the Freehold (N. J.) Transcript, and the Milford (Del.) Chronicle.

Publishers of each have developed newspaper properties highly profitable to their owners. But more important than that, they have built up newspapers as equally great, influential, and generally beneficial in their respective small communities as are such dailies as the New York Times, the Kansas City Star and the Dallas News in those larger centers, according to Casey.

Of the Wayne (Neb.) Herald Professor Casey says: "I find this newspaper one of the most consistent in general merit week after week that has ever come to my attention. From 16 to 24 pages are not an unusual run with a total of $25,000 advertising revenue during 1928. Job printing and circulation revenue comes in on top of that. Wayne is a town of 2,500 people. The Herald is an eight-column paper clearly printed on an extra good grade of newsprint, and most attractive in typographical make-up. On a tripod of news presentation, editorial excellence and advertising content this paper is equally meritorious. The Herald is published in a model plant, housed in a new brick building since January, 1927."

H. C. Bartels of Carroll was a Wayne visitor Tuesday.

The Pilot Charts His Course.
Lincoln Journal: No section of the country was more interested in what took place at Washington Monday than Nebraska, and the middle west, not only because this area is naturally interested in the inauguration of a president, nor solely because Mr. Hoover is the candidate of its choice, but because the Hoover administration promises much for the middle west and agriculture. Mr. Hoover takes party pledges seriously. His party promised legislation intended to help the farmer. The farmer's problem cannot wait so a special session is promised.

One of the chief national problems in Mr. Hoover's estimation, is the failure to enforce crime laws. Crime is increasing and confidence in rigid and speedy justice is decreasing. But he still has faith in the ability of the government to enforce the laws, and he intends to do the utmost to make the government justify this faith. The weakness of the machinery of justice has been developing for many years. Prohibition has helped along the process was underway long before prohibition. In the way of a remedy the new president proposes an investigation of our system of jurisprudence with the idea of reorganizing and reforming the machinery.

As for our foreign policy, Mr. Hoover is pleased with conditions as they are. He finds the Coolidge policies happy ones. He does feel, however, that the United States owes to the world and peace some further effort to enter the world court.

The keynote of his policy in other affairs is co-operation. In education, public health and other national interests the government must lend every assistance without taking over control. The farmer may look to the Hoover policy of co-operation by the government for more actual relief than any one piece of farm relief legislation.

In brief, President Hoover will undertake in compliance with the pledges of his party to maintain the integrity of the constitution; vigorously enforce the laws; continue the Coolidge policy of economy; keep the government out of business; but continue to regulate it; avoid controversies with other nations; reorganize the departments of the government; expand public works and promote welfare activities.

The republican party and Mr. Hoover must thank the outgoing president, Mr. Coolidge, for the more important of these policies and the country owes Mr. Coolidge a great deal more for the successful manner in which he has conducted affairs during the dangerous post-war period. "For wise guidance in this great period of recovery," Mr. Hoover said in his address, "the nation is deeply indebted to Calvin Coolidge." As time passes Mr. Coolidge will grow in the estimation of the public as a great president who accomplished wonders in a period of little opportunity.

He managed to interest his chum, Ringer, and the two of them are putting their hobby to practical use. During the past year Lenser has given 20 shows in and around Yankton. Recently he was billed as the main event of a carnival in Yankton, sponsored by the American Legion. The longest trip he has made from Yankton was to Brookings, S. D. This trip was during the last school year, when he went to State college to appear as a feature of a Y. M. C. A. carnival there. Lenser says that he has found it hard to "work up a trade" in South Dakota during the short time he has been here. In and around Tilden, Neb., it is three or four times in Norfolk and regularly in 15 other Nebraska towns.

The official organ of the Society of American Magicians is the Sphinx, in which are printed original tricks and stunts. Maurice has had five of his tricks printed in the journal. He is not yet a member of the organization, however, for he has yet to reach the age requirement, 21. The membership roll of this organization comprises the best in the United States and it is regarded as quite a distinction to have an original trick published. It is still more of an honor to have a stunt accepted before one is old enough to be a member.

Tires for the new Ford are specially made to give long wear

WHEN the new Ford was designed, it was immediately apparent that a new tire would have to be made to match the car's performance. It was distinctly a new problem, for here was a car with quicker acceleration, greater speed and more braking efficiency than any car of similar size or weight.

So that every Ford owner might be assured of maximum tire mileage at the lowest cost, the Ford Motor Company devoted many months to research and experiment in conjunction with the leading tire manufacturers.

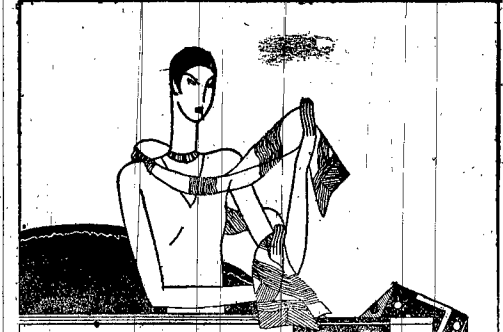

As a result, certain definite specifications were developed for tires for the new Ford. These specify cords of certain strength and texture, a large volume of tread and side-wall rubber, sturdy non-skid design, and reinforced plies for protection against bruise breaks—all the strong features of construction formerly considered for only the largest tires.

Great care also was taken to secure the best riding qualities in connection with the transverse springs and the Houdaille shock absorbers.

Wakefield Bank Opens Saturday

New Institution Is Visited by Many People—Souvenirs Are Given to All.

Wakefield National Bank, new institution in Wakefield, held its formal public opening Saturday and about 1,500 people visited the bank. Over 200 accounts were opened the first day and deposits amounted to $77,000. All who called at the bank Saturday received souvenirs, flowers, cigars, pencils and pencil boxes.

The new bank is the eighteenth in the chain of Toy associated banks which are located in Nebraska, Iowa, and South Dakota. James F. Toy of Sioux City, is president; C. A. Sar, vice president; E. S. Kierman, cashier; and Robert Anderson, assistant cashier; Thomas Rawlings, Carl Anderson, T. M. Gustafson and Fred Muller, directors.

C. C. Childs, Mr. Darling and C. A. Johnson of Sioux City, were from out of town for the opening Saturday.

Pastor Of Church Going To Omaha

Rev. A. P. Cooper has been extended a call from Park Forest Presbyterian church in Omaha and presented his resignation to the local congregation last Sunday at the morning services. Rev. Cooper has accepted the call and plans to go to Omaha within a week or two. The Park Forest church is located at Thirteenth and Felt streets in Omaha and is an active, good-sized church. The invitation means a promotion to Rev. Cooper, and though the Wakefield people regret to have him and his wife leave, they are glad for his promotion.

L. C. Cooper, son of Rev. and Mrs. Cooper, has just recently moved from Dubuque, Iowa, to Council Bluffs, Iowa, and thus the pastor and his wife will be close to him which is another advantage in the new location. L. C. Cooper was supervisor for the Bell Telephone company at Dubuque. He has been promoted to district manager now.

Wakefield Band Presents Concert

Wakefield band appeared in its first concert of the season, since the organization was under direction of O. B. Karr, last Friday evening in the local auditorium. A capacity audience attended and appreciated the program.

Dramatic Contest Held On Thursday

Wakefield annual high school declamatory contest was held Thursday evening and winners were chosen to enter the sub-district contest. Mrs. Maude Joseph Smith of Wayne, was judge. The dramatic class winners are: Helen Patterson, first; David Bengtson, second; and Adeline Sar, third. Oratorical winners are: Imogene Davis, first; Lawrence Carlson, second; and George Larson, third. Humorous class winners are: Alice Larson, first; Charles Barto, second; and Helen Swanson, third. Orville Brittain was the only one participating in the extemporaneous speaking. Helen Patterson, Imogene Davis, Alice Larson and Orville Brittain will represent the school in the sub-district meet March 22.

Finals in the girls' inter-class basketball tournament were held Tuesday and the class having the largest scoring won. First rounds were played Monday, the juniors winning from the sophomores, seniors winning from the freshmen, juniors winning from the seniors, and freshmen winning from sophomores. Juniors thus had the highest rank at the close of the Monday games. In the contests Tuesday the juniors met the freshmen and the seniors met the sophomores.

Miss Dorothy Spahr gave Hart's geometric tests to thirty-four pupils and five had perfect scores.

The class median was twenty-seven, three points above the standard.

Wakefield students will enter the state academic contest this year in all available subjects except chemistry and botany. Examinations sent from the university will be taken locally.

School board held its regular meeting Monday evening.

Language examinations were heard by all pupils in the school Monday. Ekeroth & Sar installed a radio set in the high school; Fulton Lumber company, in the grades; and Wandell brothers, in the junior high.

Sophomores plan a party for March 15.

New pupils at Park Hill. The Surber children and Harold Jahn moved from the district the past week. The teacher, Clifford Linden, made candy for the pupils one afternoon.

Several hired men have begun their season's work, Archie Garner at Peter Miller's, Gunnard Swanson at Wallace Ring's, Vorace Packer at Art Long's, Herman Moeller for Walter Grose, Ernest Mueller at Will Wolter's.

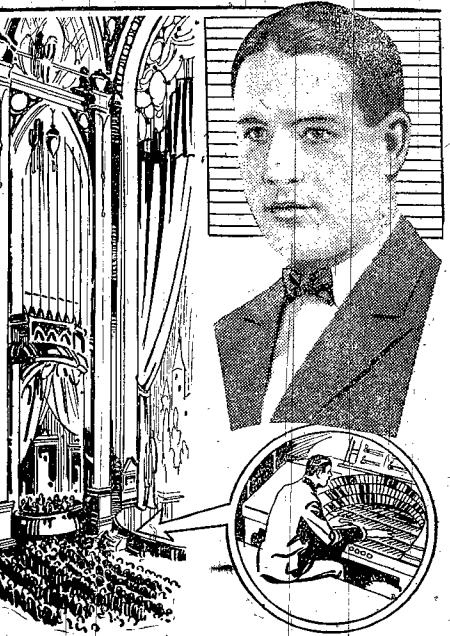

Wallace Ring marketed a load of cattle in Sioux City on Wednesday and horses on Thursday. Mrs. Ring accompanied him to the city on Wednesday and visited Mrs. Henry E. Anderson at a hospital. Little Richard underwent an operation for mastoid that day. He rallied from that but later passed away. All that medical skill and loving care could do for the little fellow were done but his long siege of sickness left him in too weakened a condition to stand the shock. The Anderson family have the sincere sympathy of a host of friends and neighbors in their hour of sorrow.

Two Fires In One Day. Plainville, Neb., March 4.—Two fires in one day was the experience of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Straub on their farm southwest of here.

While fighting a fire in a hog house, one started in a chicken house. Both were caused by kerosene stoves. Hogs and pigs were badly gassed but all survived. They lost about 200 little chickens.

Once civilization got men out of caves; now it drives them into subways.—Florence (Ala.) Herald.

Organ, Greatest Of Musical Instruments Gaining Recognition

BOB CORDRAY

God-night—Dear, good-night—There's a light in your eyes shining bright.

Detroit Organist Predicts Great Innovations in Instrument

Detroit.—The greatest musical instrument in the world, the organ, is still in an embryonic state of development. Invented over two thousand years ago, its potentialities have been permitted to lie dormant until within the last ten years.

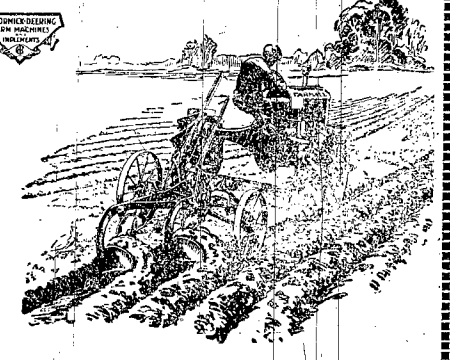

This is the opinion of Bob Cordray, leading organist of Detroit, and an internationally recognized authority on the history and technique of the organ.

"The musician who uses the organ as a medium of expression has before him a noble instrument, one that can reproduce the effect of a whole orchestra or of the simplest single instrument," says Mr. Cordray. "What greater wonder have we in our whole list of musical mediums? It is, however, only within the last ten years that the possibilities of the organ have been recognized. For over two thousand years we have relegated it to the church loft. Its great voice and infinite versatility of expression were used to express only one kind of music, serious sacred music.

"Within the last ten years, the organ has been placed in every theatre of any size and in many homes. It has been 'discovered' anew. I predict that the instrument will play an increasingly more important role in the musical world.

"Many pieces have been developed which give the organ a great chance. 'Good Night,' a waltz based on the theme of taps, is a good example. The bugle qualities give especial scope for the organ. 'Of course 'Good Night' is so popular it would be hard for it, but nevertheless I predict that within a few years all ballrooms will have to be equipped with organs."

Plow with the Farmall!

The McCormick-Deering Farmall offers the row-crop farmer a wonderful advantage. With this sturdy, 4-cylinder, 2-plow tractor on the farm you can put all of your work behind you quickly with power—from the first tillage job in spring to the last belt job in winter. The Farmall pulls a 2-bottom plow as ably as does any other tractor. It turns short, handles easily, operates economically, and requires very little attention.

As the season progresses you can shift from one important job to another with amazing speed. Tilling, plowing, seeding, planting row crops (with 4-row planter) cultivating row crops (with 2 or 4-row cultivator), mowing, raising, loading hay, harvesting grain, harvesting corn, and doing the hundred and one belt jobs around the farm.

You can't beat the Farmall. It makes the horseless farm practicable and possible. It cuts the corners off expense and puts the profit in your pocket.

We can't tell you the whole Farmall story here; but we can prove every point in mighty quick time if you'll ask us for a field demonstration.

Don't Forget the Six-Speed Special.

Jazz, First Music In History To Become An International Issue

DICK ROBERTSON ED SMALLE

Legislation Passed Upon It in European Countries

New York City.—Like jealous little boys, English and European musicians are sticking out their tongues at American singers and musicians and chanting, "you can't come over to my house and play."

Ed Smalle and Dick Robertson, radio favorites and two of Broadway's leading writers, recently returned from London, declare that it is time America retaliated for the discrimination foreign countries are showing toward modern American music.

"Never before has the music of one country been discriminated against in any place in the world," declares Mr. Smalle. "But today you find abroad active antagonism against American jazz. There is no hostility toward foreign music in America. We have always and will always demand foreign operas."

"The popularity of American jazz with the European public is so great that native musicians must be one of two things—learn to play it or accept American talent," Mr. Robertson adds.

"To do both would be the most intelligent and generous gesture they could make.

"The foreign public demand for American music is so insistent that something must be done. We were treated with great courtesy and acclaim.

"On occasion, because of union regulations, American musicians have not been permitted to play with English orchestras. But when the European public sees you, as they did us, their welcome is most enthusiastic.

"We found that they liked our ballads better than any other type of music. 'I Tore Up Your Picture' was an especial favorite. The foreign musician can interpret the ballad type better than they can 'hot jazz.' When 'You Said Goodbye' to a universal story, and it made no difference in what country we sang it, it was always well received."

Baptism and the Lord's Supper

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 10, Baptism and the Lord's Supper. Matt. 28:19, 20; I Cor. 11:23-29.

THE discussion of the Christian ordinances which are the theme of this lesson brings us very easily into the realm of acute controversies of the sort that in the main it has been our aim in this column to avoid. Possibly even the nearest comment on baptism and the Lord's Supper cannot be made without encounter with the strong, contentious upon these matters held in some quarters. The very terminology in use concerning them indicates the divergence of opinion and the intensity of feeling. Some churches are what are called "close communion"—the principle of inclusion and exclusion of other professing Christians in the fellowship of a local church having to do with the nature and form of baptism. Other churches which do not speak of "close communion" hold very strict and particular views concerning the nature and significance of the Lord's Supper. An Extreme We have heard of the wife of a nonconformist missionary in the depths of Africa who wrote to the archbishop of Canterbury inquiring whether she would be committing sin in partaking of the communion with her husband and other nonconformist missionaries in the mission field. What is, perhaps, a very extreme instance, but it typifies the general attitude of a fairly large number of professing Christians toward those of other churches and communions other than their own. There are some general facts which may be emphasized with value. There is, first of all, the reminder that baptism was primarily not a Christian ordinance. John the Baptist was a forerunner of Christ and he baptized and the fact that he used baptism as a part of his method of propaganda and discipleship showed that it was a practice already in vogue before the time of Christ and to which Christ himself submitted. The comment of Christ upon baptism in submitting to that rite is perhaps the most effective and significant that we have. "This it behooves us to fulfill all our obligations, and that we probably did not attach great importance to baptism as a rite, but he did attach much importance to

Three Injured In Plane Crash Neligh, Neb., March 4—A near fatal airplane crash took place on the Harry Krebeck farm a few miles north of here Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock when Ralph Lindquist, pilot, and Misses Gladys and Wilma Wagner, young sisters, were seriously injured as the machine struck the ground after plunging about 150 feet. All three of the occupants were severely injured about the head, face and ankles. Wilma Wagner, a student in Neligh high school, who suffered the worst injuries, was still unconscious at 8:30 o'clock this morning. Her sister and pilot Lindquist regained consciousness about five hours after the plunge. Lindquist, who has been the owner of a plane the past two years and who lives with his parents northeast of Neligh, had planned to take the two sisters to their home southwest of Neligh. When the plane was about 150 feet in the air, the motor went dead, causing the machine to plunge.

All Will Recover. Mr. Kjebeck brought the unconscious trip to the Hall hospital here shortly after the crash. Dr. Hall, owner of the hospital, stated this morning that all of them would recover. Wilma Wagner sustained a gash about one-half the distance around her head and a deep cut on the top of her head. Both of her ankles are badly injured. Her sister, Gladys, who is the teacher in an Antelope county school, has severe head and facial cuts. Lindquist escaped with fewer cuts and bruises than his two passengers, his worst injury being cuts about the head. In the past two summers, Lindquist had employed a pilot to operate his plane at county fairs and other celebrations. The machine was badly damaged.

In Sacred Concert. Thirty-five singers from Dana college, without text or instrument, will give the entire program in a concert at Laurel, on Sunday, March 10, at the high school, 8 p. m. The choir, which comes under the direction of Waldo B. Nielsen, B. A. B. Mus., is a Lutheran institution and all the members are students of Dana college at Blair, Neb., a college maintained by the United Danish Lutheran church of America. The choir plans to visit the Scandinavian countries this summer and will be in Copenhagen, Denmark, for the second Lutheran world conference. You are cordially invited, the public as a whole. A collection will be taken for the choir. A. N. Skanderup, local pastor.

Hereford Sale March 14th The annual spring Hereford Cattle Sale will be made at the sale pavilion Norfolk, Nebraska on Thursday, March 14th. The sale will include eighty head of registered Hereford bulls and females. Most of the sixty-five bulls selling are of breeding age and farmers and breeders will have an opportunity of selecting high class herd bulls in this sale. An excellent lot of cows, with calves at side, and heifers are in the sale lineup. Mrs. Charles Corke and Sons of Tilden, sell a very choice lot of bulls sired by Anxiety 44th and Blanchard Jr. They are thick, hard, heavy-boned cattle of the ideal beef type. F. L. Wilkerson and Sons of Laurel sell some top bulls and females. A. G. Clark of Craig sells five strong aged bulls. R. H. Mortimer of Madison sells some splendid young bulls of Good Donald, Don Arthur, and Beau Brumel breeding. H. J. Peters of Scribner consigns some select bulls and females by Double Astri, Venjohn Bros. of Wisner, Paul Bize of Julian, Walter Muhs of Stanton and Weinrich and Sons of Osmond, each consign some top bulls. Those interested in better Hereford cattle should attend this sale. It is an annual event and the breeders selling cattle in this sale reserve their best for it. Write for the catalog, addressing Charles Corke, Sale Manager, Norfolk, Neb. Remember the date—Thursday, March 14.

Going! Going! Gone!

When this 150-foot smokestack at the Newark, N. J., airport was razed recently because it was a menace to air traffic, workmen first had to knock the stack and supported it temporarily on wooden beams, and let the law of gravity do the rest. That accounts for the smoke which can be seen still issuing from it in this remarkable picture.

Mrs. H. Anderson of Rockford, Ill., arrived in Wakefield Saturday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Warren Anderson, and relatives and friends in Wayne. She came to Wayne Monday and returned to Wakefield Tuesday. Mrs. Anderson formerly lived here and will visit in Wayne and Wakefield for a few weeks. Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clark and Dr. T. T. Jones left Monday for Los Angeles, Calif., where the Clarks will spend a few months. Mr. Clark has been suffering from heart trouble and Dr. Jones accompanied him to assure his crossing the mountains safely. Dr. Jones will return immediately, planning to arrive home the first of next week.

Market Report. Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards. Sioux City Cattle Yards, March 7.—Higher prices ruled in the live stock markets this week, owing largely to shortness of receipts in all departments. Bad road condition was given as the main reason for the curtailment of supplies. The 11 leading markets of the country received 77,800 cattle the first two days of the week, practically the same as the like period a week ago when supplies were among the lightest of the season. Yearling steers were in broad demand from shippers and packers and the market strengthened about a quarter on the average. A top of $13.50 was paid for a short load, the highest price for some time on light weights, as there have not been any offered to warrant the price. Real choice yearlings would sell well above the $14.00 mark. Several other sales ranged above $12.00 but the bulk sold from that figure down to $10.50 and plainer warmed-ups ranged lower. Heavy steers were a little slower and they did not show much strength. Quality was on the medium and plain order and demands were narrow for this class. Bulk of the supply sold under $12.00 with a few to $13.00 with choice grades quoted to $14.00. Light weight heifers moved freely on a quarter higher basis. Bulk of the supply cashed at $10.50 @ 11.25 with a few loads to $12.00 and choice lots were quoted up close to the $13.00 mark. Plainer grades ranged down to $9.00. The cow market was fairly active but prices did not show much improvement. Good and choice

Local News (Continued) grades brought $9.25 @ 10.00 with fair to good at $8.00 @ 9.25 and plainer lots down to $7.50 and under. Bulk of the cutters sold at $6.50 @ 7.00 and canners ranged down to $5.75 and under. Bulls advanced a quarter and more. Bolognas topped at $9.00, the highest price for some time. Bulk of the bulls sold at $8.50 @ 8.75. Veals held a firm basis with most of the good and choice light weights selling at $13.00 @ 14.00. Stockers and feeders were in active demand and prices moved up a quarter, in line with the strength accorded killers. Supplies were light and inquiry from the country was fairly good. Bulk of the stockers sold at $10.00 @ 11.25 with very few above and below that range. Light cows topped at $8.25 and choice heifers sold up to $10.50. Hog receipts totaled 212,200 at the 11 leading markets on Monday and Tuesday, 41,500 less than the same days last week and 79,200 short of the number received the corresponding period a year ago. A short advance was scored on the opening day and a sharp gain was added on the second session that sent values to the highest level of the season. The top went a little above the $11.00 mark for the first time since September 25. The lowest top of the winter packing season was $8.15 on December 20, so the market shows about a $3.00 advance in a little more than two months. Sharp decreases in receipts forced values upward. On Tuesday, bulk of the butchers sold at $10.90 @ 11.00. Some of the plain lights ranged down to $10.00. Sows sold at $10.00 @ 10.35 and stags, $9.00 @ 9.50. Pigs were quoted to $10.00, the highest of the season. Sheep receipts amounted to 91,000 at the 11 leading markets on

Local News

Local News (Continued) The first two days of the week, 9,600 less than a week ago. The market advanced 25 to 50c, compared with the close of last week. Choice light lambs sold up to $16.50. Ewes topped at $9.65.

Local News (Continued) When you consider that milk is the only food which contains all the nutritive elements necessary to promote growth—that a liberal use of milk strengthens the muscles and vitalizes the blood, and that there is very little waste—it becomes a very economical article of diet. Its comparative cost is considerably less than any other food product you buy.

HOLSTEIN MILK

It is especially valuable for infant and baby feeding. Its fat—between 3.25 and 3.75 per cent—is easily digested and it contains full proportions of sugar, lime, phosphorus and other nutritive elements which make milk so nourishing and beautiful. Holstein milk is naturally light in color. Now supplying Wayne, Winside and Carroll. Milk Cooled, Bottled and Refrigerated at the Farm. FAIRACRES FARMS Winside, Nebraska Vitality!

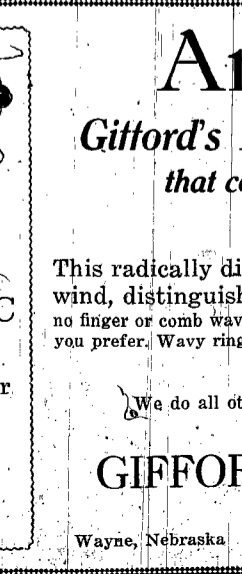

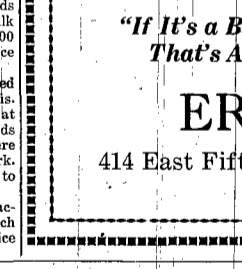

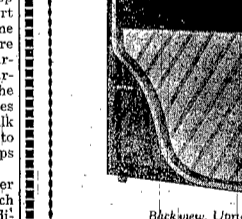

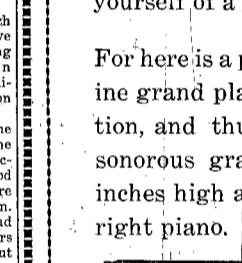

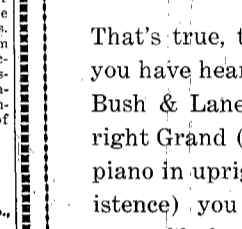

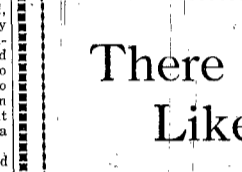

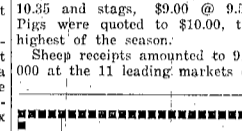

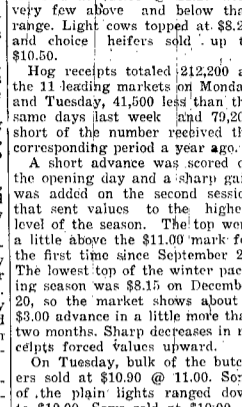

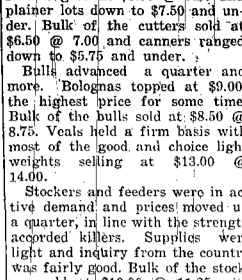

There Isn't Another Piano Like It in the World!

That's true, too, and unless you have heard and seen the Bush & Lane Style 32 Upright Grand (the only grand piano in upright form in existence) you have deprived yourself of a great privilege. For here is a piano in upright form containing a genuine grand plate, scale, soundboard and rim construction, and thus possessing that rare, beautiful and sonorous grand tone—yet standing only 4 feet 2 inches high and costing little more than the best upright piano. See this wonderful piano at my home—come in any time and give it a thorough inspection. Don't deprive yourself of this great opportunity.

IN THIS CITY under official newspaper observation, Essex the Challenger will demonstrate its right to challenge the best that motordom offers. It is dramatic revelation of an all round quality Six—big, fast, roomy, powerful—now available at the lowest price for which Essex ever sold and but little more than the cost of the smallest, lightest and lowest-priced cars on the market.

As you see it out-perform cars costing far more, remember that exactly the same performance ability, quality, economy and riding ease are characteristic in the Essex the Challenger which you buy.

And in Value—compare it part for part in every quality particular of appearance, finish, comfort and easy riding to those costly cars in which you pay the higher price for those very things.

Early Days in Wayne County

Early Days from the Wayne Herald for March 9, 1911. Dr. E. M. Thomas is moving to Augusta, Ga. S. B. Sease moved to a homestead near Lusk, Wyo. Oscar Ramsey plans to move to Winside from Phillip, S. D. H. E. Elliot and family left for their new home at Powell, Wyo. About 1,100 feet of new cement sidewalks are being built near the college. Gust Sedmeyer moved to the Bernhard Von Seggern farm near Altona. Harry Long returned from Alamosa, Colo., where he spent a few weeks. Miss Marguerite Chace and Miss Elsie Piper went to Lincoln to attend a party. The incubator factory is shipping out many machines now, 200 going one day. Fred Remondier of Morrill, Neb., visited friends here on his way to Michigan. Mrs. J. W. Gorbey's son was born March 2, 1911. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Abraham who have near Lufkin. Prof. E. J. Huesther and Prof. L. H. Beittel are starting new business near the college. Carl Will, son of Gus Will, has been missing resulting from slipping on a rusty nail. R. A. McCracken is having the interior of his farm home six miles west of town remodeled. Mrs. William Wainwright of Morrill is improving after an operation for appendicitis. Mr. and Mrs. June Conger and Mrs. F. E. Strahan attended the annual dance in Sioux City. Fred Sporing and Miss Margaret Kueper were married March 3, 1911. They will live near Altona. Mrs. Gus Wenzel and daughter, Mrs. Lee Sunday for Milwaukee, Wis., had a couple of weeks' visit. W. L. Grossland has been chosen one of the students to represent Washington university in debate. Walter Peterson moved from Altona into Winside. He bought the George brothers' livery and drug business. Mr. Albert Bastian and Viola left for their new home near Altona. S. D. Mr. Bastian went there earlier. Warren Shultze returned home from Omaha where he finished his course of study in a medical college. George Biezier and Miss Sicilia Kade, both of Sioux City, were married in Wayne by Rev. C. J. Ringer March 4, 1911. Mr. Biezier formerly lived here and is now in the painting business in the city. Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Skeen returned home from a Sioux City hospital where the former underwent an operation. March term of district court was called the first of the week when dockets were reviewed and cases set for trial. J. E. Glass moved to the Bert Lewis property he bought in Winside. Lloyd Prince moved to the farm Mr. Glass left. Mrs. Herman Milder and son, Teddy, went to Plankinton, S. D., to attend the silver wedding of the former's brother, Carl Furchner. Miss Nelle Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Taylor of Wayne, and Carl David Borg were married March 1, 1911, at Java, S. D. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cooper of Gilt Edge, Mo., visited the latter's sister, Mrs. Walter Webers, enroute home from an eastern trip. Evangelists Hart and Magann begin a series of revival meetings in the big tabernacle erected for the purpose. All churches united in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Woolshlager moved from Hoskins to a farm vacated by their son, Will, who goes to Hadar. Another son, Ernest, goes to the home place. Fire destroyed the Williams' This pool hall at Winside. It is thought the blaze started in the cooking room. The building and fixtures were almost a total loss. Insurance covers $1,700 of the amount. House roll No. 54 carrying an appropriation of $55,000 for a new science and library building at the Wayne State Normal building at the senate with only one vote opposed to it. There is every reason to believe the governor will sign the bill and students of the normal have contributed a penny each for the purpose of buying a gold ten to be used in performing the final act in making the measure a law. Miss Jennie Buskirk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Buskirk, and Abe Dolph, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Dolph, were united in marriage March 8, 1911, at the Buskirk country home. Rev. Alexander Corkey of the First Presbyterian church in Wayne, performed the ceremony. The young couple will live on a farm eight and one-half miles southeast of Wayne. This is the third wedding in the Buskirk family within a year. At the regular Commercial club meeting a letter from the state railway commission was read stating that a copy of the complaint set forth the need of a new depot in Wayne had been filed with the railroad company and an answer required by March 11, 1911. The site for the proposed new library building was discussed. The club members discussed raising enough money to buy the fifty-foot lot adjoining the present library lot. Notice To Creditors. The State of Nebraska, Wayne County—ss. In the County Court. In the Matter of the estate of Thomas Winston, Deceased. To the creditors of said estate: You are hereby notified, That I will sit at the County Court Room in Wayne, in said County, on the 22nd day of March, 1929, and on the 22nd day of June, 1929 at 10 o'clock A. Large advertisement for dairy cows. Text: 'DAIRY COWS. 42 HEAD. At AUCTION Saturday, March 9, Wayne, Neb. Sale at 1:30 p. m. On the date mentioned, I will offer to the public at my home farm one and one-half miles south and one-half mile east of depot at Wayne, just off of graveled highway No. 15, another select draft of Wisconsin dairy cows and heifers. Following is a detailed description of the cattle: 11 Head of Milking Shorthorn Cows and Heifers—Consisting of two mature cows and the balance heifers from yearlings to 3-year-olds. These Shorthorns are all purebreds and from a very good herd of Milking Shorthorns. Also one young purebred Shorthorn bull. 8 Head of Holsteins—Ranging in age from 2 to 8 years. One of these is a purebred cow, and also have some purebred heifer calves, and a purebred Holstein bull calf. 22 Head of Guernseys and Jerseys—Ranging in ages from 2 to 6 years. This consignment of cattle, I believe, are up to par and compare very favorably with any draft I have ever had. The cows and heifers are either fresh or close up to calving, and are a mighty useful lot. They will be sold to you fully guaranteed as to udder and free from tuberculosis. I stand behind the retest. Sale will be held in a comfortable pavilion and we will sell the cattle regardless of weather. Be my guest that day. E. J. AUKER, Owner D. H. Cunningham, Auctioneer. State Bank of Wayne, Clerk.'
