SOWING OATS IS NOW IN PROGRESS ANNUAL CLEAN-UP

EVIDENCES of spring: Farmers sowing and sowing oats and praying for a few helpful showers. People are busy cleaning yards and alleys and getting rid of unsightly ashes and junk. Flower and vegetable gardens are being planted, and painters are busy touching up bare spots and renewing the good looks of residence properties. It is generally agreed that the season is three weeks ahead of that of a year ago, and that if Old Boreas doesn't interfere, vegetation will start an unusually early start. It is suggested as appropriate to the return of spring that ugly spots, often found on vacant lots, along highways entering town, should be freed of accumulations of rubbish. These forbidding spots do not establish the right of initial impression. It is further suggested that, after being cleared, unused ground might well be converted into attractive parks.

District Court Session Closes

Jury Term Comes to End Thursday Evening After Four-Day Proceedings.

Finish Few Cases

New Trials Are Asked in Couple Invoices—Other Settlements Made.

District court session closed in Wayne last Thursday evening with trial of the case of James Finn vs. the C. St. P. M. & O. railroad. Finn shipped one car and Frank Klopinski shipped five cars of cattle to Chicago and they were held over one day in Boone, Ia. The plaintiff alleged that by this delay the cattle suffered shrinkage and they also arrived in Chicago on a poorer market than they would have had they been sent directly through. After deliberation until 11 p. m., the jury awarded Finn damages of $250. The railroad filed motion for a new trial.

In the case of W. H. Eastburn vs. William Kenrick the jury gave the plaintiff $600, the amount asked in the suit. It was alleged that Kenrick agreed to pay Eastburn the amount asked if the Kenrick's foreclosure sale and raised the price of the sale $1,000 so that the sale would be set aside and a new one had. Eastburn asserted that he did raise the amount $1,000 but that another party offered an even higher price. Kenrick asserted that in the agreement with Eastburn the latter was to give the former an option to buy back the farm. The jury gave a verdict of $500 for Eastburn.

The jury brought in a verdict of $2,750 for S. E. Auker in the case of Auker vs. Richard Ritze, suit on a bond put up in foreclosure proceedings. The defense filed motion for a new trial as its side of the case was not presented.

In the case of Scottie Miller, charged with taking a cane press from the J. G. Chambers farm in the south part of the county, the jury found Miller guilty and placed the value of the press at $16. Judge Clinton Chase ordered that Miller pay the owner twice the value of the press, $32, and work thirty days on the streets. In presenting the matter, it was shown that some old iron and the cane press, belonging to J. G. Chambers, were lying on the ground at the farm. Chambers moved from the place and Harold and Chris Hjorth moved onto it. It was alleged that Hjorths, figuring the iron was of no value and that Chambers did not want it, told Miller he could have it. Mr. Chambers asserted that the things were of value and entered the charge against Miller.

CHANGE IN TRADE CONDITIONS AIDS COUNTRY CENTERS

CATALOGUE houses grew rapidly prior to the period of automobiles, good roads and moving pictures. In the old days it was not so easy to go to market, and consumption of time in doing so was important. Often it was easier to stay at home and order the family needs by consulting the pages of a catalogue. But conditions have changed, and to meet them catalog houses have been starting retail stores. Also chain stores, sensing greater trade possibilities, have been multiplying. Thus, merchandising over the country has developed and competition has sharpened, and much trade, formerly going to foreign markets, is kept at home. Old-timers, sailing along independently in the business are not hurt, but rather strengthened, by intensifying their efforts by employing modern methods to attract and satisfy customers. It is not necessary to send to a foreign catalogue house or to journey to a distant city to get the latest and best at right prices. Buying advantages of metropolitan markets are brought into rural communities by live dealers. These advantages, apparent in Wayne, are due to largely changed conditions.

Asks Damages For Injuries

Norfolk News, March 27: Charging that an agent, whose name was not given, of the defendant was negligent and careless in an automobile accident in which he claims he suffered permanent injuries, Carl Strate, Wayne county resident, filed a suit in the district court of Madison county against Henry Schmode, Norfolk, in which he asks $20,000 damages.

On Sept. 30, 1928, according to the petition, Strate while driving near his home, was in a car wreck, his machine overturning on the highway. He then employed Schmode, garage owner, to tow his car from the scene of the accident. Schmode, through his agent, according to the petition, undertook to transport the plaintiff from his home to the location of the car.

Strate contends he asked Schmode's agent to slow down his automobile, which he was driving from fifty to seventy-five miles an hour, but the driver did not heed the warning. As a result of the defendant's employee's carelessness the automobile left the highway and crashed into an embankment, the petition says.

In his petition, Strate lists a number of injuries including several fractures. He claims that he suffered traumatic pneumonia as a result of the injuries, and a permanent shock to his nervous system.

New Episode In Buskirk Estate

INTRODUCTION OF SPRING CLOTHES BRINGS CONTRAST

NEW spring garments remind one of the great change that has taken place in styles during the past forty years. While one looks askance at fashions as they are inflated and often approaches them with reluctance, he wouldn't go back to those of the earlier period if he could. Especially marked are changes in women's fashions. People who recall the hoop skirt and later the trailing skirt and how jiggers and disease germs were caught up and distributed, would not have the lungelesome, sweeping old style restored. Big bustles and vis-like corsets and towering hats, crowning heads overlaid with artificial hair, oppressed women without improving their looks. Present-day fashions, permitting greater freedom, make for comfort and health and improved appearance. Some of the things with which women used to be taxed in the way of wearing apparel, were atrocious.

Electric Siren Bought By City

New Oil Burning Engine Will Be in Service at Plant Here Next Week.

The Wayne city council, at a regular meeting Tuesday evening, voted to buy an electric siren for the fire department, the cost being about $500. This was made necessary on account of installation of the oil burning engine at the plant, which does not produce steam for the siren which is in use now. The old siren will be kept to use in the winter when steam is available.

The new oil burning engine, which was recently installed in the power plant, is being used to furnish the city power part of the time. It is being checked so as to furnish perfect operation before being hooked onto the city line permanently. This will be done in about a week.

The council decided to plant shrubs and trees and to do other things to beautify the city hall grounds this summer. The matter of attending to this was referred to the park committee. Carl Wright, B. P. Strahan and Prof. J. G. W. Lewis.

Reach Agreement

Sheriff Is Called to Farm When Lawyers Seek Settlement of Shares.

D. VanDonselaar and F. A. Bald Return Fees to Walter Buskirk Saturday.

The George B. Buskirk estate, in the courts for several years, and largely wiped out by litigation, was hearing settlement. It appears that D. Van Donselaar, attorney of Sioux City, and F. A. Bald, attorney of Winner, S. D., formerly having his legal shingle exposed in Wayne, have figured as attorneys in some of the court actions. It is alleged that the two attorneys who had been here during the week, attracted by proposed final disposition of the remains of the Buskirk estate, had visited Walter Buskirk a number of times at his farm in Leslie precinct and collected fees claimed due from him in the course of settling his share of the estate.

Ray Buskirk who lives on a farm in the neighborhood, had seen the attorneys journeying to the Walter Buskirk place and had become suspicious. Thereupon Ray visited his brother and learned of the request for additional fees. While the two brothers were talking, Saturday night, the attorneys appeared again, and Ray hid himself behind a door. After the lawyers had disclosed their mission, it is said Ray, highly incensed and armed with a shotgun, issued from behind the door and commanded the visitors to put up their hands and keep them up.

At this juncture Ray instructed his brother to call Sheriff Archie Stephens which he did. In the excitement Van Donselaar managed to escape, retreating with flutering coat tails to his automobile where he awaited developments. A crowning gun kept Bald in a quiet and prayerful mood pending arrival of the officer from Wayne. It is said a few warning shots into the air punctuated the proceedings.

Sheriff Stephens arrived on the scene in due time and escorted the two lawyers and two brothers to Wayne where C. H. Hendrickson, county attorney, was summoned. It was near midnight, and Mr. Hendrickson decided not to call the county judge. The county attorney says that while he was trying to find blanks and prepare complaints, the two offending attorneys proposed to the two brothers to give back to Walter all the fees they had collected on their pilgrimages to his place during the week. It appears this was done and the matter was dropped.

Conflict over the Buskirk estate has continued since 1925, and the result has been that the major part of it has been dissipated in court costs and attorneys' fees. It is reported that an estate valued at $62,000 has been reduced to $15,842. Aside from a few matters awaiting determination, the estate is said to have been finally settled yesterday.

Casey's Team.

F. O. Edgecombe in Geneva Signal: Each year for several years Prof. John H. Casey of the Oklahoma university school of journalism makes up what he calls an all-American team of weekly newspapers, attaching football designation to the publisher of each. He may have been wrong when he picked for this team the York Republican, the Hartington News and The Signal, although none of us will confess it, but we can all agree that when he picked the Wayne Herald for a place on his 1928 team he selected one of the best weekly newspapers in the United States, one of the best from every point of view.

This writer doesn't know a thing about football but the designation "Allback" sounds important and therefore entirely suited to the Wayne Herald and its able publisher, E. W. Huse. It is nothing new for Mr. Huse's newspaper to be singled out for distinguished honors of this character and always they are deserved, but each new word of commendation and approval is a testimonial to the effect that the Herald is growing in grace and in popular esteem, as must be the case with any newspaper that keeps up with the progress of the world, and is therefore very welcome.

Haddorff Used in Recording Universal Movietone Pictures

The Haddorff Style B grand has been selected by Universal Pictures Corporation of Universal City, California, for use in recording films for Universal movie-tone pictures.

The credit for this deal belongs to Worth Hathaway, Haddorff dealer in Santa Monica. The piano was selected in competition with several other makes by Bert Fish, who has supervision of all music in connection with Universal movie-tone films.

The Haddorff piano has previously demonstrated its excellence for broadcasting work and the requirements for success in the Universal studio are very similar. The main point is that all reproductions of this kind tend to magnify undesirable over-tones at the expense of the fundamental pure tone. Charles Haddorff, in all of his scales, devoted the main part of his attention to subduing undesirable over-tones and the success of his efforts is demonstrated more clearly perhaps than in any other way by the remark-costs, and at the end of the year, the net income was often largely a matter of guess. Under government requirements, it is necessary to keep an accurate record and know from time to time exactly how things are running.

Dr. A. L. Bikby, Lincoln Journal philosopher, observes: "In the current number of Christian Herald, H. W. M. writes on the 'beauty of stillness.' He is disturbed by the noise of modern machinery and the restless roar of gasoline engines. The fumes of carbon monoxide gas clog his nostrils, and his eyes are filled with dust from the unimproved highways. We are living in an age of hurry and unrest, and it breaks his heart. He wants to be out of it. He craves a quiet nook where he can think worth while thoughts without danger of interruption. The mountain fastnesses no longer call, since the most desirable caverns among the hills are occupied by mountain lions or mousetraps. The stillest place we can recommend to our distracted friend is the little sod-roofed city where the weary are at rest."

Congress is called to meet in special session April 15 to consider legislation designed to help agriculture, and it is hoped a practical plan may be worked out. The president is in sympathy with any program that is sound and gives promise of relief without entailing burdens in excess of benefits. He has expressed himself on the subject, but he does wish to encroach on congressional prerogatives by suggesting a specific plan. If the radicals on the one hand and the ultra-conservatives on the other will yield to the logic of the middle group, workable results may be expected. Rearranging the tariff in the interest of agriculture has been mentioned by the president, and means to regulate the marketing of products is advised as more practical than sale abroad with the equalization fee attached. The special session has been called in hope of solving farm problems and developing government aids that will bring increased prosperity to farming communities, and it is hoped the outcome will warrant expectations.

Guaranty Law. Lincoln Journal: Both political parties in Nebraska in the last campaign pledged their representatives to strengthen the guaranty of deposits law. At no time during the legislative session has there been any movement of any proportions designed to wipe out this law and leave nothing in its place. On the contrary, while sentiment has been strongly against further continuance of the experiment in its present form, each house has had before it at all times proposals for what their sponsors believe to be better ways. The house has placed its approval upon the individual bank guaranty method, which able men like former Speaker Burke, one of the house leaders, believe will be almost a hundred percent guaranty. If substituting a hundred percent guaranty system for one that now is having trouble to be 40 percent good is not strengthening the law, a further search for definitions is indicated.

When the campaign was on nobody knew that there existed a sixteen million dollar deficit in the fund. If it had been known, more definite methods of treatment of the situation might have been suggested in party platforms. The legislature has a difficult job in handling the situation, and its members have shown every indication of a wish to get the correct solution. They should not be bedeviled on all sides so long as their sincerity is apparent. The big job is how to do justice to the 65,000 persons who hold certificates of deposit in failed banks without imperiling the interests of the 400,000 depositors in the solvent bank, and at the same time provide so that in the future the possibility of a repetition of pre-

We heard a fellow-townsmen of the Kiwanis club express admiration for the group of citizens gathered there Monday for luncheon. And how much better, how much more wholesome and constructive to see the good in a crowd and manifest a feeling of appreciation than to sit in a critical, frowning mood, disposed to pick flaws and find fault. It is this spirit of good will that buoy and cements helpful social relationships.

The annual income tax has prompted better accounting methods. Before answering to the government if one were responsible only to himself there was a temptation to neglect the work of keeping track of revenues and

E. O. GARDNER. The passing of E. O. Gardner, senior publisher of the Wayne Democrat, recalls our acquaintance with him as a fellow-worker during the past eighteen years. We recall with satisfaction that nothing during the time appeared in either newspaper reflecting unfavorably on the other, and while this record harmonizes with ideas of modern journalism, we believe it was not forced merely as a wise policy, but followed a course suggested by impulses of good will. Mr. Gardner liked people, and he enjoyed visiting with them. In his rounds for news, we think he enjoyed meeting trains and getting acquainted with people who were going and coming. In this relationship, he was quick to perform little acts of helpfulness—helping women and children with baggage or giving them information as to destinations. Mr. Gardner was a life-long democrat, and we believe his political position was based on sincerest conviction, never on desire for party preference or other personal advantage. Mr. Gardner was a hard worker and while ill health slowed down his pace for a few months, he never relaxed interest in his task and he was in the harness, actively going about his business, on the last day of his life. Feeling better than usual and looking to the future with confidence and happy anticipations, he retired to fall into a sleep from which he never awoke, no pain, no struggle marking transition. A community appreciating its kindly fellow townsman will remember him with esteem and respect and esteem sympathies to his surviving family.

CROOKS.

People who are crooks, people who try to get along by ways that are back and transactions that are fraudulent, forfeit confidence and make nothing in the end. A crook may occasionally trick an unsuspecting lobster or unsophisticated fledgling into giving up honestly acquired shekels for spurious service or other empty value, but he soon reaches the end of his string, and he falls far short of the goal of dollars for which he is willing to sacrifice every principle of integrity. Even if he had the power to reform, no one would trust him, and he leads an uncertain existence, respected by none, despised by many. The same effort which he puts forth to get something for nothing to gain credit which he knows he will violate, to worm his way into the credulity of his fellows, would earn a satisfactory competence and win popular esteem which is worth more than money, and have the reward of a clear conscience if he has one. If he is wholly lacking in that quality of mind which hurts when he commits a wrong or when he suffers compunction over a plundered victim, he should see that his ignoble course fails to yield returns and that a policy of square dealing is essential to lasting success if not necessary to peace of soul. An unscrupulous charlatan loses everything and gains nothing.

And once more remember that cry has come down through the ages to our day and this approaching Easter Sunday it will be recited, sung, and stated over and over again by thousands and thousands.

Wayne Debating Team Closes Season Thursday By Defeating Wakefield

Students Enter Commercial and Declamatory Contests at School News.

Wayne high school debating team won from Wakefield here last Thursday in the last district debate of the season for the local team. The decision was unanimous for Wayne, and the judges were Supt. E. P. Hodapp of Emerson, and Judge Ryan and Miss Single of Pender. Wayne had the affirmative of the state question and Dick Fanske, Irol Whitmore and Dorothy Davis presented Wayne's side of the question.

Wayne won from Newcastle Friday, March 15, by unanimous vote. Dorothy Davis, Irol Whitmore and Jeanette Lewis comprised the team meeting Newcastle. Hartington took the sub-district debating title by winning all contests this season. Wayne lost only to Hartington so was second in place in the sub-district. Hartington and Norfolk compete for district title.

P. W. Maynard may arrange debates with Pierce and Wakefield soon in order that all pupils may have experience in the work. Mr. Maynard is president of the district.

Commercial Contest. Wayne students went to Norfolk Saturday to compete in the district commercial contest. Miss Dorothy Cooley accompanied them.

Those who entered are as follows: Championship shorthand, Fern Wamberg and Esther Phis; novice shorthand, Harriet Craven and Evelyn Heikes; bookkeeping, Esther This and Marjetta Chichester; novice typewriting, Irol Whitmore and Doris Jackson; and junior typewriting, Jeanette Lewis, Audrey Lewis and Margaret Lewis and Margaret Fanske.

Every Pupil Tests. The Emoria, Kan., Every Pupil tests are to be given in April in the city school. They were given last fall and Wayne pupils ranked well in them at that time.

Declamatory Contest. One of the six dramatic elimination contests was held at Wisner last Friday and Wayne students entered. Dick Fanske and Newell Pollard entered the extemporaneous speaking and oratorical contests in the afternoon and P. W. Maynard and Mrs. Allis Pollard accompanied them. Harriet Craven and Mildred Bonavitz entered the dramatic and humorous classes in the evening and Miss Mary Mielenz accompanied them.

Other High School News. Boys of the high school are starting practice of track events. Miss Glennie Bacon went to Randolph Thursday evening on account of the serious illness of her father. Her classes were handled by other instructors.

The senior play, "The Whole Town's Talking," has been postponed until May 15. The advanced civics class taught by P. W. Maynard and the Cicero class taught by Mrs. Allis Pollard

Jean Mipes brought each pupil in the room a toothbrush and tube of paste, a gift of her grandfather, Dr. T. B. Hecker.

Pupils talked to the Taylor farm north of town to watch sheep shearing Tuesday last week. They enjoyed being the sheep sit on their hind legs while electric clippers were used to take the wool off of them. Van Bradford was absent on account of illness. Trees were made in art work. Study of bears has been completed and birds will now be taken up.

First Grade. Mrs. Paul Harrington and sons, Paul and John, were visitors last Friday. Mrs. L. B. Young and Mrs. R. L. Larson were callers last week also. Reva Barnes was 6 years old Thursday and treated the pupils. Arline Ulrich was absent last week on account of illness.

Kindergarten. Mrs. Louis Sund, Betty Sund and Paul Peterson were visitors last week. Wilbur Ahlyers and Hazel Thompson returned after long illness. Easter bunnies were made last week.

The Newspaper Eleven. (The American Press.) To the eleven splendid newspapermen selected by Professor John H. Casey for his 1928 All-American Weekly Newspaper Eleven go the congratulations of The American Press. Each deserves the honor—and, make no mistake, it is an honor. This is the third year that Professor Casey has picked an eleven and the roster shows that John Casey has done his work well. Special honors fell to the lot of his 1927 team, for the University of Oklahoma community newspaper specialist made up an attractive display from photographs and representative newspapers published by the members of this team and sent it to the International Press Exposition at Cologne, Germany.

Congratulations are also due Professor Casey for hitting upon the idea of selecting such an "eleven" and for being the ideal man to make the selection. Professor Casey was brought up on a country weekly. Although we aren't absolutely certain of this, he probably learned to read from one of Iowa's best weeklies, the Knoxville Express, published by William J. Casey, his father. And in his work at the Missouri and Oklahoma schools of journalism Professor Casey has been in close touch with the weekly situation. So, it is apparent, he knows his weeklies.

And while he hasn't by any means exhausted the possibilities of the field, the roster of his three All-American Weekly Newspaper Eleven is a real honor roll. We know some editors and publishers are sorry not to see included, but, after all, there is room for only eleven, and Professor Casey will probably include these in his team next year. He has done amazingly well so far, as anyone who takes the pains to study the papers these men publish can easily see. Incidentally, his tip about studying the three papers he singled out for special mention is a good one. There's many a hunch for better newspapers and more business to be found in the columns of those three papers.

How much power is in your garden?

NATURE can do only so much with any seed. The seed itself must contain the promise and the power. You would feel convinced of the power of Ferry's purebred Seeds if you could see the great Ferry stock seed farm and trial gardens. Here are acres and acres of specimen plants. Every plant that is mature is big, vigorous, beautiful, and bountiful. Only the best plants are allowed to mature—all else are weeded out. Any plant that doesn't produce true to type gets weeded out. And only seeds from the plants that measure up to the Ferry standards in size, color, flavor, productivity—are the Ferry's Seeds you can buy.

In these seeds is the power to produce flowers of superb beauty, and vegetables of superior flavor and size.

Surely all the work you put into your garden deserves just these seeds. Ferry's Seeds have to be all you expect when you buy them. In addition, they are fresh. No packet of Ferry's Seeds is ever carried over by the dealer for sale the second season. Ferry's Seeds may be had at "the store around the corner." Write at once for the Ferry's Seed Annual—with its good garden advice. Address D. M. Ferry & Co., Dept. H, Detroit, Mich.

opportunity were gloriously upheld. Born on farms, orphaned in their early years, and thrown largely upon their own resources, these two men came up through the vicissitudes of life. There was no short royal road to greatness, except as well applied. Industry may be so defined and indeed that is a royal road. Of more than incidental importance is the fact that for the first time in the history of our country the President and Vice-President came from West of the Mississippi river. In this respect the great West is almost like the Father who prayed for a son and got two at the same time.

Who is the boy that has not held out to him the vision of some time becoming President? The example of our President and Vice-President would contribute to that encouraging thought. However, there have been but thirty Vice-Presidents in our history, so it is better for the American boy to take the lives of these men as illustrative of the height to which any well intended, industrious boy may rise, not alone in public life, but in whatever line of endeavor he may choose.

Use a FARMALL with its Row-Crop Equipment and Your FARM POWER PROBLEM will be Settled!

CORN and other row-crop farmers have solved their power problems by using a true general-purpose tractor. In all parts of the country they are enthusiastic about Farmalls and Farmall equipment. This tractor has every advantage the best tractors have offered, and new features besides.

The Farmall leaves nothing for animal power to do. It can replace six to eight horses on the average and handles every power job on the row-crop farm—plowing, tilling, planting, cultivating, haying, harvesting, belt work, etc. Because of its exclusive design, short turn, and high clearance, and special 4-row planters, cultivators, and other fast-capacity equipment, the Farmall is revolutionizing corn growing.

FARMALL IN THE HAY!

One of the biggest advantages of Farmall farming is the fine work it does in haying. Here it is cutting a 14-foot swath. You can cut up to 60 or 70 acres a day in this way.

Cultivating on a big scale by tractor. It takes the Farmall to do it. This 2-row outfit cleans up the field at the rate of 20 to 25 acres a day in early goings over, and 25 to 40 acres a day later cultivating.

One man with his all-purpose Farmall outfit can handle up to 200 acres of intensively farmed land without a horse or mule on the place. It is the ideal tractor for medium and small-size farms as well as large farms.

The No. 2 Little Wonder Power-Lift Tractor Plow

The Little Wonder is built for use with small tractors. In designing this plow, special attention was given to the elimination of as much weight as possible without sacrificing necessary strength. Special heat treatment of parts subject to strains makes it a plow that is remarkably light in weight yet equal to any reasonable condition.

Ample clearance has been provided between the bottoms and under the beams. The wheels are so located as to balance the plow correctly, both when plowing and when the bottoms are raised.

The No. 2 Little Wonder has two levers, one for regulating the depth, the other for leveling the plow. Both levers can be reached from the tractor.

The hitch is flexible up and down while plowing, so that uniform depth is not affected by the tractor.

McCormick-Deering Corn Planters

Imagine counting kernels from your right hand to your left hand—one, two, three and drop them—one, two, three and drop them. You could do that repeatedly until it became strictly mechanical, and drop three kernels every time with unerring accuracy, yet you can do it scarcely more accurately than the mechanism under the McCormick-Deering 100 Series planter or drill hopper will do it. By cunning devices the seed is herded, one kernel to a cell (in edge or flat-drop plates, two, three or four to a cell in full hill-drop plates) carried to the discharge opening and released to the seed channel in the boot, where the unique and smoothly working valve arrangement holds it until the proper time to release it to the soil.

The best brain talent of nearly three generations has gone into the perfection of these planters. The man who can see in a corn planter something more than just so much steel and iron, who can picture in his mind's eye inventors of past years working out principles which came to be more and more successfully applied as succeeding builders found simpler, more practical devices—to such a man one of these new McCormick-Deering planters must appear, as it is, a wonderful achievement.

The Cow. The cow is a female quadruped with an alto voice and a countenance in which there is no guile. She collaborates with the pump in the production of a liquid called milk, provides the filler for hash, and at last is skinned by those she has benefited, as mortals commonly are. The young cow is called a calf, and is used in the manufacture of chicken salad. The cow's tail is mounted and has a universal joint. It is used to disturb marauding flies, and the tassel on the end has unique educational value. Persons who milk cows and come often in contact with the tassel have vocabularies of peculiar and impressive force. The cow has two stomachs. The one on the ground floor is used as a warehouse and has no other function. When this one is filled, the cow retires to a quiet place where her ill manners will occasion no comment and devotes herself to belching. The raw material thus conveyed for the second time to the interior of her face is pulverized and delivered to the auxiliary stomach, where it is converted into cow. The cow has no upper plate. All of her teeth are parked in the lower part of her face. This arrangement was perfected by an efficiency expert to keep her from gumming things up. As a result she bites up and gums down. The male cow is called a bull, and is lassoed along the Colorado, fought south of the Rio Grande, and shot in the vicinity of the Potomac. A slice of cow is worth 8 cents in the cow, 14 cents in the hands of packers, and $2.40 in a restaurant that specializes in atmosphere.—Baltimore Evening Sun—reprinted from Agricultural Journalism by N. Scattering Peak Load. York Republican: It was only a few years ago that the retail stores in towns and the smaller cities did the bulk of their week's business on Saturday. While the other five business days might have paid expenses the merchant depended upon the Saturday sales for the major portion of his week's profit. Needless to say the average merchant would have been exempt from excess profits taxes in those days. The newspaper is given credit for discovering the possibility of scattering the Saturday peak load over the six business days of the week and it is newspaper advertising which has achieved the present more equitable distribution of the week's business. Saturday is still the merchant's busy day, but now he is only a little less busy on preceding five days. This is only one of the many services performed for business by newspaper advertising. It is irrefutable that a great part of the increase in business experienced by the retail stores generally in recent years has been created by newspaper advertising. Newspaper advertising has been the "Aladdin's Lamp" of the retail merchant. There are still isolated towns where one may see for himself what "might have been" the nation over if newspaper advertising had never been.

We hope Coolidge takes this newspaper editorship offer. We know no better place to put a real test to this reputed talent for economizing.—Council Bluffs Nonpareil.

Reuben DeVerk died last week near Fairbury. "Rube," as he was affectionately known, was born a slave in Missouri. He was 21 years old when the Civil war closed. He traveled westward until he reached the Fairbury vicinity, and there he remained, working at odd jobs for a number of years. For the past 30 years he worked for Mrs. Westman Rosenberger on her farm, and it was there that he died. Everybody respected "Rube" for his industry and his good nature, and he was held in high esteem. His funeral was largely attended.

Les J. Ryan, legislative reporter for the Omaha World-Herald, can not claim the distinction of being the first newspaper reporter expelled from the Nebraska legislature. The council, or senate, of the Fourth Territorial Legislature by a vote of 10 to 3 expelled Mr. Robertson, editor of "The Nebraskan"—please observe that spelling. The first Territorial legislature on Jan. 18, 1855, adopted a resolution to the effect that

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin

The quickest way to learn something new is to unintentionally make a mistake. Recently this writer intimated that there were but two banks in Nebraska that had been under the management of members of the same family for more than 25 years, both located in Minden. The Howells Journal sets the writer right. The Banking House of F. Folda is established at Schuyler in 1887 by Frank Folda. That same year, Mr. Folda and two others established a bank in Howells. Frank Folda is dead, but the Folda family still controls the two banks, together with several others established later. Just about the time a fellow thinks he has learned a whole lot about Nebraska, something happens to convince him that he has only made a start at acquiring knowledge about this glorious young commonwealth.

Sixty-two years ago, a short time after Nebraska had become a state, Solomon Harpster homesteaded a quarter section one mile west of Blue Springs. He proved up in 1874 and received patent signed by President Ulysses S. Grant. Mr. Harpster died a few years ago and the estate reverted to his five children, four of them now living. The four children have just sold the old homestead, the first transfer of title since Mr. Harpster received his patent.

E. S. Towle of Falls City recently celebrated his 86th birthday. He was born in Indiana and served in the Union Army. He was the youngest member of the Nebraska constitutional convention in 1871. He represented Richardson county in the legislatures of 1873 and 1875, being speaker during his second term. Mr. and Mrs. Towle have been married 63 years.

The following golden wedding anniversaries have been tabulated during March: Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Greene of Gothenburg, 15th; Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Pearce of Dilger, 2nd; Mr. and Mrs. John W. Jones of McCook, 16th; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stribling of Omaha, 10th; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Buol of Norfolk, 10th; Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Brooking of Funk, 11th.

Charity has increased something like 200 per cent. in the last five years, according to one of the demon statisticians, but if you'll look over the first page of almost any newspaper these days you'll discover that it hasn't covered all sins yet.—New York Evening Post.

Whatever farm-relief is passed this spring in the fall of 1930 the campaign orators will be asking the farmers to give it time to work out.—Wichita Eagle.

a copy of every newspaper published in the Territory he furnished each member. On Feb. 15 the clerk of the house was instructed to notify the editors of "The Chronotype" and "The Palladium" that no more copies of their papers would be allowed members at public expense because they had "given false reports of proceedings," and "villified members and the present chief executive of the territory."

The grand lodge of Nebraska Masonry was established on Sept. 23, 1857. The first Masonic lodge in Nebraska was chartered Oct. 3, 1855, and worked under the Illinois jurisdiction until the establishment of the grand lodge in Nebraska territory. Lathrop B. Kinney was the first Worshipful Master of a Nebraska Masonic lodge. The first Nebraska Lodge No. 1, and was instituted at Bellevue. Its first altar was a pile of Indian blankets, its first jewels were cut from tin by a member, the first ballot box was a pickle jar, and a small stone deposited in the jar elected and a bullet rejected.

How styles in masculine facial adornment do change with the passing years! Recently the writer was browsing through "Morton's History of Nebraska," looking at the portraits of Nebraska men. With two exceptions every man had either beard or mustache or both. Now a man wearing a full beard is a rarity, and comparatively few wear mustaches.

Savings of $7 to $10 Assured For Young Men and Men

Without a doubt the biggest clothing values you'll find in this section of the state, big cities included. Not an empty boast, but a real fact. You too, will say: it's the most your clothing dollar ever bought. The woollens were bought separately by the bolt and made up for us under our direction. In this way nearly ten dollars was saved on each suit—ten dollars that otherwise goes to the manufacturer to cover advertising, shop overhead and salesmen's expenses.

Such fine woollens as Metcalf's nationally known worsteds are amply represented. Fashioned by expert workmen in conservative styles for men and more dashing models for the young men. Soft greys and tans and browns and blues. Ask to see them. Remember the dollar saved is as important as the dollar earned.

The greatest combination of extreme long wear, smart appearance and low price on the market today. Our buyers shopped most every reliable clothing line in the east before choosing—and they chose wisely and well. Closely woven wool fabrics with soft expensive looking finish. Light and medium dark patterns in all the new styles. See them here.

FACTS

Ammonium Sulphate, the ideal fertilizer. In the Ford coke ovens thousands of tons of high grade coal are converted daily into coke to be used in the manufacture of pig iron. From Ammonium Sulphate is one of the many valuable by-products of this process. It is used for lawns, shrubs, orchards, in fact all plant life is benefited by adding more nitrogen of which Ammonium Sulphate contains a high percent. A good stock of this material is carried by all Ford dealers.

We regret the temporary exhaustion of the following repair parts in Fordson-Tractor stock: Cylinders, blocks, crank shafts and radiator cores.

The Ford Motor Company's tractor manufacturing plant is now located in Cork, Ireland, and we are advised of a ship making sail March 17 with cargo composed exclusively of tractor repair parts from which we will replenish our stock about April 12.

It has been our endeavor to carry a complete stock of repairs for all Ford units, but this occurrence was beyond our control.

Tight Bottom Spreader With Easy Foot Lift

That is the Rock Island No. 1, the original "Great Western" Ratchet Feed and Auto Type Front Truck. Nearly 200,000 farmers have been using Rock Island Spreaders all the way from one to twenty-five and even thirty years. They were more than pleased with the job of spreading they were getting with the endless apron type, and also because the spreader was lasting so long. Many farmers have spread over 5,000 loads and their old Rock Island "Great Western" Spreader is going good yet. Two reasons for this extra good service are the substantial construction of the spreader and the continuous double ratchet drive.

Business. Sioux City Journal: The fear expressed in London by Sir Geo. Paish, noted economist, that the world was on the brink of an international trade and financial crisis is not shared in this country. Industrial leaders in America cannot be shaken from their belief that improvement rather than a decline in world trade is assured. Everything here points to a continuance of prosperity. The Journal showed a short time ago the heavy gains made by leaders in industry in net earnings. This advance was in line with the general agreement some months ago that 1929 would be a good business year. So no surprise resulted from the reports of industrialists. Gains were expected. There has been a steady upswing in the United States in production for the last nine months. The latter half of 1928 brought a change in the outlook, and manufacturing responded to the increased demand. So far 1929 has held steady, and spring business now is much better than that of last year. Domestic business has quickened appreciably since the first of the year in spite of extreme low temperatures throughout the first two months. There is much money in circulation here with no region suffering a lack of ready cash. There is a demand in the open market for luxuries along with necessities. For example, the Packard Motor Car company reported a heavy increase in net earnings for the six months ending February 28 last. This company's increase in net earnings in the half year reported was $5,241,375. This is offered merely as proof of a quickened demand in lines of merchandise somewhat above the average. In the meantime it is seen that the retail prices of food commodities have been reduced. The reduction is not heavy, yet it encouraging since it means a general saving to the people of millions of dollars every day. As opposed to this there has been no appreciable decrease in wage scales, nor has unemployment made a gain. The prospect ahead for the middle west as an extra session of congress is soon to convene to solve the long standing farm problem is brighter than for many years. No one doubts that in the Hoover administration such iniquities as can be ironed out will go through an efficient process. Another hopeful view is that of the entire country regarding the Hoover administration. It is expected to inspire confidence on the part of the people and to encourage business activity.

Market Report

Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards. Sioux City Stock Yards, March 28.—The tendency has been toward weakness, generally, in the live stock markets this week. Hog receipts were lighter than a week and year ago but increases were noted in the cattle and sheep departments. The 11 leading markets of the country received 102,800 cattle the first two days of the week, 9,100 more than the same days a week ago. Improvement in road conditions probably caused the increase in supplies. The big end of the receipts went to the beef steer and yearling division with a fair percentage of fed steers and moderate supply of stockers. Quality of the run was not quite up to the standard of recent weeks. Yearlings and light weight steers continued in fairly good demand while medium to heavy weights were sluggish, as during the past two weeks or more. Light cuts of beef are favored over the heavy cuts by consumers during warm weather, accounting for the spread in values. Light weight material held close to a steady basis with some weakness noted on the second session. Heavy steers dropped 10 to 25c, compared with the close of last week which was nearly a quarter under the opening. Bulk of the cattle sold at $12@13.25 with several sales up to $13.50 and a few at $14.75. Plainer grades ranged down to $11 and under. Choice long fed yearlings would beat the $14 mark. The butcher stock market was slow on the first two days but sellers did not have to take off as supplies were moderate and shippers were on the market for a number of cows and heifers. A new top for the season of $13.25 was paid for choice heifers. Other sales were made at $12@13 on well finished kinds with plainer grades down to $10.75 and under. Koshier material cashed at $10@11.25 with bulk of the butcher cows at $8@9.50. Canners and cutters sold largely at $5.75@7. The bull market held steady with bulk of theologna grades selling at $8.50@9 and a few beef, butcher, and yearling bulls to $10 and above. Veals took a 50c to $1 jump with the practical top at $14. The stocker and feeder market held fully steady at the start but eased off a little later, in line with the weaker tendency to killers. Inquiry from the country was fairly broad and many warmed up cattle were taken from the killer division. Bulk of the cattle sold at $11.25@12 with a few to $12.50. Choice light weights would hit $13 or beat that mark. Plainer lots ranged down to $10 and under. Feeding cows were quoted mostly at $7@8 and heifers topped at $11.25. Hog receipts totaled 229,500 at the 11 leading markets on Monday and Tuesday, 6,700 less than the same days last week and 32,300 short of the number received the corresponding period a year ago. The hog market eased off 10 to 15c on the initial session of the week but that much was added on the following day. Shipping demands were not broad but packers were more satisfactory than anticipated. On Tuesday, the top was $11.30. Bulk of the desirable butchers and lights sold at $11.15@11.25 with the packer top at $11.20. Plainer grades sold down to $11 and some under weights at less money. Sows brought $10.40@10.65 and stags from $10 down. Pigs topped at $11. Sheep receipts amounted to 106,000 at the 11 leading markets the first two days of the week, 41,200 more than a week ago. The market did not change much in spite of the big increase in receipts. Lambs topped at $16.75 and ewes were quoted to $11, considerably higher than a week or ten days ago. Feeding lambs were quoted to $16. The new Secretary of War comes from Chicago, and we suppose he's had a good deal of experience, at least as an unofficial observer.—Ohio State Journal. "Lady-Frock" Has Multitude of Uses

HARRIET POINTS OUT NECESSITY FOR AT LEAST ONE OF THESE LONG-SLEEVE MODELS IN EVERY WELL-PLANNED SPRING WARDROBE

BY HARRIET

ONE may be undecided whether to buy a jacket suit or an ensemble for Easter. But there is one type of dress that every smart woman is sure to need this late spring and summer that is a safe bet, whether this is a new coat to wear over it or whether one's last year's coat is used. The dress I have in mind is the long-sleeved "lady-frock" which is appropriate for afternoon parties, for little affairs at home, for the theater, for dinner in town and for just about all those times when one wants to look her best—not too dressy but still somewhat more important than a tailored frock allows.

Style Is Important This is usually a mouseline de soie, a chiffon, crepe Roma, georgette or some other sheer silk frock, made with special attention turned on sleeves, neckline and skirt. This is a frock every woman might as well plan. She will need it. She will wonder a hundred times, "What shall I wear," if there is no dress like this hanging in her wardrobe. I suggest one of the new, shadowy for this type of dress, preferably a leaf or a fern design, but of course rather delicate flowers are just as good a choice. One very springy dress of this type is pictured here. It features a green leaf design on a soft gray background. It is a French import, from Philippe and Gaston, featuring an overskirt, flaring sleeves with tight cuffs and a little vestee with a rippling jabot ending the V-neck that the vestee fills.

Sleeves Cut Raglan The sleeves are cut raglan with the shoulders of the bodice and a little slash ties in a pert bow on one side. Such touches as these prove its Parisian origin. Yet these things can be copied so easily, with just a few yards of lovely material that every woman should have such a dress in her wardrobe. Quite appropriate for wear with this type of dress is a Marcelle Lely spring hat of green baku straw with chenille polka dots in darker green, also illustrated. This hat folds back its front brim to make quite a narrow eye-shade in front, letting its length out in the rear to

Harriet describes the Parisian frock, illustrated above, in this week's article and, also, the accessories—a spring hat of green baku straw and a medium dark gray Worth bag with a silver buckle. give a sizable brim. There are little zigzag lines of dots tracing their verdant way across the front of the crown. And chenille dots its chic path clear around the outside edge of the brim. Accessories for this frock can be either green or gray. Perhaps a pair of the new dark gray shoes that are almost a gunmetal shade might be an excellent choice. Certainly a Worth bag in medium dark gray with a silver buckle and jade green ring would be in perfect taste. This type of bag, a well-made envelope, has proven its "worth" again and again. It is practically an established shape for every season. The buckle and adornments are the telling features to its chic. This one happens to be ideal for a army and green dress. Perhaps a silver chain of some unusual link is the best neck accessory. Failing that, a string of the new gray pearls is fine. In selecting pearls for spring, remember that the tinted ones are smarter than white.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

IT LOOKS LIKE ANOTHER BIG YEAR FOR THE YANKEES IF BABE AND LOU HIT —AND THEY PROBABLY WILL—OTHER TEAMS STRONG

BY PHILIP MARTIN

NO matter how one juggles the American League clubs around for a prediction on the coming pennant chase, it seems the Yankees are the team to beat out again this summer. And especially so if Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig resume their terrific hitting.

shaken it off. Especially on the field. The Babe is one of the real veterans of the league and is nearing the end. There are many who believe it may be this year. Those slender ankles have been carrying a mammoth load for many years, and he is beginning to show signs of slowing up. And it is in the records that he was hurt often and easily last summer. But the Babe will hit this summer. He will be able to slum the horsehide as long as he is able to crawl up to the plate with a bat in his hands. And the fact that rival pitchers will be just as great. Of course, he may not be the "greatest" player, as he has been in years previous. But he will be a great player. And there is this to remember: The Babe is shooting at a new contract and every move he makes this season will be directed at that end. And he knows he must experience a great year if his present or an even larger salary is to be demanded after this year.

The seven managers in the circuit who sit and moan every time the twin slammers approach the plate for a turn at bat express their chances for the flag in much the same fashion. They each say their club has a chance to win if the Babe and his playmate, Lou, don't hit too much. And the Huggins fellow, who bosses Babe and Lou, delivers himself of the same prediction whenever asked. He does it in reverse fashion, to be true, but he means the same thing. And there you are.

IT IS no difficult job to get testimonials from rival clubs as to the value of Babe and Lou to the Yankees. And it wouldn't be a difficult task to get them from some of the National League players. And Bill McKeehin, the ex-boxer of the Cards. The question then—how are the Babe and Lou this year? Miller Huggins says "there is nothing wrong with the Babe and Lou." They look swell. And they're hitting. And I don't know any young pitcher, or old one either, who is going to keep them from hitting. "And how about those sore arms some of the fellows have?" he is often asked. "I don't know. They say they are all right," he answers. But there's nothing wrong with Babe and Lou. Those fellows are hitting. Will these confident smiles fade from the faces of baseball's greatest hitting twins, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig? Not this year, Manager Huggins says. And that should answer that question. THE Babe went through a winter-tossing experience this winter that may bother his play. He hasn't shown any signs of training camp that it will, and there are reasons to believe that he has

THE PROMISE OF EASTER

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 24. The Future Life. Luke 24:1-12; John 14:1-6.

THE topic of this lesson for young people and adults differs a little from the lesson's general title. It is "Our Grounds of Hope for the Future." Do we not inevitably consider the Christian life from that standpoint? It may be that there are some who never consider the matter at all, but with most of us, either in the back of our minds or in the very foreground of our reflection, there is the age-long question concerning the future life. If a man die will he live again? Some are rather content to face that question simply from the standpoint of sentimental hope or dogmatic assurance. The fact that the future life is a part of the creed or faith which they formally profess settles the matter for them. But others look beyond the creed to the real grounds of faith. They are not satisfied simply with the assurance of someone else. They wish really to find evidence for the future life, and much of this evidence centers around the question of the Resurrection of Jesus.

Grounds for Belief Did Jesus rise from the dead? If we are convinced that he who died is living, it is a very easy step to the hope and conviction that "because he lives we shall live also." What are the grounds of our belief in the Resurrection of Jesus? They are found first of all in the records of Scripture. This record is something more than a statement of historic events. If the record were only that we should be compelled to face certain discrepancies in the different stories, then in fact, the question of the authenticity of the record and of the facts as stated because of these discrepancies. But is it not more reasonable and natural to say that if the New Testament writers had been fashioning "chance" devised fables, they would have been careful that there should be no discrepancies, and that to the last matter of detail all the witnesses should say exactly the same? This lack of any collusion in the writing of the Gospels is surely one of the strongest evidences of their genuineness.

of the disciples that they saw Jesus after his crucifixion. The whole experience that came again into their lives was based upon a new vision of Christ and their conviction that he had risen. Thomas' Sign The evidence of the Resurrection of Jesus for us must necessarily be somewhat different from what it was for them. Thomas would not believe until he had seen the outward sign, until he had felt the wound-prints in the side and in the hands. We shall not have such outward evidence, nor do we need it, for if a man cannot find the evidence of the continued existence of Jesus, and the fact of the power and influence of the living Christ in the records of Christian experience since Jesus was here on earth, to outward evidence could possibly convince him of the reality of the Resurrection. It is a subject concerning which there is, of course, a great deal of dogmatism, and those who profess to believe are sometimes scornful of the doubt of others and indignant that anybody should have doubts. But that was not the attitude of Jesus himself, nor is it the attitude of great and genuine faith. We may distinguish very sharply between a profession of faith that is merely the acceptance of historic facts and the sort of faith that is the real acceptance of the Christ. What does it mean that Jesus has arisen unless our hearts are able to him, unless we live close to him, unless we read the New Testament records, they tend to create in our souls a deep and simple assurance.
