DURABILITY.—Edgewood shingles laid over old shingles, or composition roofing, will last forty years or more. It is not necessary to stress this fact to observing home owners. They know that in cold climates it has long been the practice to lay Red Cedar shingles over tight sheathing and building paper. Old roofs are merely present a tight sheathing surface. It is a fallacy to assume that EDGEWOOD Red Cedar Shingles will decay if laid over old shingles. Nature has endowed British Columbia Red Cedar with a time-resisting preservative. Rot-producing fungi can find no weakness in Red Cedar's defense.

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin.

Why the "e" in the name Kearney as applied to the city and county of that name. Both derive the name from the original Fort Kearney, which was erected at Nebraska City in 1847 and named in honor of Gen. Stephen W. Kearny. As a lieutenant in the war of 1812, and later as a general in the war with Mexico, he rendered distinguished military service, and for a time was governor of California. A year after its establishment at Nebraska City its name was taken away from it and bestowed upon a new frontier outpost that had originally been christened Fort Childs. How the "e" crept into the name has never been explained satisfactorily. Perhaps it was due to the fact that the early settlers were poor in orthography. And, perhaps, later profectors were no better. The site of old Fort Kearney—now spelled "Kearney"—has just been declared a state park. Might it not be well to return to the original spelling and thus return to the original intent, which was to do honor to a gallant soldier? To Andrew Johnson, 17th president, is due the credit for the enactment of the free homestead bill. As a senator from Tennessee he introduced the first free homestead bill and fought for it until it became a law. And a Nebraska soldier home on furlough from the First Nebraska, Dan Freeman, was the first man to file under the law. Freeman's furlough expired on Jan. 5, 1863. The law became effective at midnight of Dec. 31. Freeman filed in the land office at Brownville at 12:01 a. m., Jan. 1, and started back to the front. The first homestead bill was introduced in 1854 by Galusha A. Grov, congressman from Pennsylvania. It failed of passage. The first homestead law passed required settlers to pay 25 cents an acre. It passed in 1869 and was vetoed by President Buchanan. The first lodge of Odd Fellows instituted in Nebraska was at Nebraska City, May 28, 1855, and known as Lodge No. 1. The charter bore seven names, all Odd Fellows who had moved to the territory from other states. The night the lodge was instituted two members were initiated. However, the first move to organize a lodge of Odd Fellows in Nebraska Territory was made by Albert D. Jones, a past grand of Council Bluffs lodge, who had moved across the river in November, 1853, and staked out a claim in what is now the heart of the residential district of Omaha. He was the first active Odd Fellow in the territory, and upon his arrival set about to organize a lodge. In June of 1855 he had found four other Odd Fellows to join with him in asking for a charter. But just as the petition was about to be forwarded one of the four disappeared and was never heard from again. This necessitated delay, and before the fifth man could be found the lodge at Nebraska City had been instituted. So Omaha had to take second place and the lodge there is No. 2. The first Methodist church organized in Nebraska was at a point near Rock Bluffs in Cass county, in 1855. It was organized by Rev. W. D. Gage. He was assigned to Nebraska City in 1854 by the Missouri conference, and was the first Methodist minister assigned to the territory. He was the chaplain of the first territorial legislature. Gage county was named in his honor. Perhaps, the first Methodist preacher to preach in Nebraska was Rev. Harrison Presson. With a colony of emigrants on the way to the Pacific coast, he camped over Sunday on the present site of Omaha and preached that day. It is of record that his text was Isaiah 35:1, "The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them; and the desert shall rejoice, and blossom as a rose." It was a quotation and a prophecy. On June 3, 1853, Rev. W. H. Goode, D. D., was commissioned by Bishop Ames to visit the territory and ascertain its religious needs and report to the board of Bishops. This action, taken four days after the Nebraska-Kansas bill became a law, indicates the pioneering spirit of Methodism. After reading Rev. Dr. Goode's report he was appointed superintendent of missions of the new territory. June 3 next may well be observed by Nebraska Methodists as the 76th anniversary of Methodism in Nebraska. Frank Leachman of Richardson county is the oldest living native son of Nebraska. He was born in a log cabin on his father's homestead about a mile north of Falls City, on August 25, 1855. His brother Tom was born two years later in the same cabin. Frank and Tom have lived on the original homestead all their lives. There has been but one transfer of title since the homestead was patented, that from father to the two sons. Neither is married, neither has ever seen a picture show, listened in on a radio or traveled in an auto. They are bachelors, of course. Mr. and Mrs. James Stucker of near Stanton celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary early in March. Ferdinand Wolfe, 84, died at his farm home in Grand Island on March 24. He was one of the colony of Germans who settled in Hall county in 1873, coming to this country from Saxony, Germany, after serving in the Franco-Prussian war. He took a homestead and lived thereon until his death. During the first few years of his residence in Nebraska he followed his trade as carpenter to eke out a living while proving up on his homestead. That little German colony, of which Mr. Wolfe was a leading member, left an indelible impress for good in the making and developing of central Nebraska. In the report made recently by Postmaster McNeal to the federal department, a big increase in postal receipts is noted. A little foresight will mean a finer garden

There is a surprise when you first taste the melting sweetness of Ferry's sweet corn. It is not ordinary sweet corn by any means. Nor is a plump, red, smooth-skinned Ferry tomato like an ordinary tomato. Nor are the Ferry's Seeds that grow these like ordinary seeds. Remember that when you buy Ferry's purebred Seeds, you buy inherited quality. Quality is bred into the seeds. A careful up-breeding of vegetables and flowers has been going on in the Ferry trial gardens for 51 years. This means that the Ferry's Seeds you can plant today came from parent plants and grandparent plants that were themselves purebred. Sixty thousand tests are made annually in the Ferry gardens for germination. Thousands of other trials are made for size, form, color, resistance to disease. So far as is humanly possible, we determine that every crop will meet the Ferry standards. Ferry's Seeds are easy for amateurs to make grow well, and are naturally the choice of professional gardeners. They are fresh for planting now, at the "store around the corner." No packet of Ferry's Seeds is ever carried over by the dealer for sale the second season. Send for the Ferry's Seed Annual. It is more than a catalog. Address D. M. Ferry & Co., Dept. H, Detroit, Michigan.

FERRY'S pure bred SEEDS
Your garden will have its best possible start with Ferry's purebred Seeds.

Use a FARMALL with its Row-Crop Equipment and Your FARM POWER PROBLEM will be Settled!

CORN and other row-crop farmers have solved their power problems by using a true general-purpose tractor. In all parts of the country they are enthusiastic about Farmalls and Farmall equipment. This tractor has every advantage the best tractors have offered, and new features besides.

The Farmall leaves nothing for animal power to do. It can replace six to eight horses on the average and handles every power job on the row-crop farm—plowing, tilling, planting, cultivating, haying, harvesting, belt work, etc. Because of its exclusive design, short turn, and high clearance, and special 4-row planters, cultivators, and other fast-capacity equipment, the Farmall is revolutionizing corn growing.

Cultivating on a big scale by tractor. It takes the Farmall to do it. This 2-row outfit cleans up the field at the rate of 20 to 25 acres a day in early goings over, and 25 to 40 acres a day later cultivating.

One man with his all-purpose Farmall outfit can handle up to 200 acres of intensively farmed land without a horse or mule on the place. It is the ideal tractor for medium and small-size farms as well as large farms.

The No. 2 Little Wonder Power-Lift Tractor Plow

The Little Wonder is built for use with small tractors. In designing this plow, special attention was given to the elimination of as much weight as possible without sacrificing necessary strength. Special heat treatment of parts subject to strains makes it a plow that is remarkably light in weight yet equal to any reasonable condition.

Simple clearance has been provided between the bottoms and under the beams. The wheels are so located as to balance the plow correctly, both when plowing and when the bottoms are raised.

The No. 2 Little Wonder has two levers, one for regulating the depth, the other for leveling the plow. Both levers can be reached from the tractor.

The hitch is flexible up and down while plowing, so that uniform depth is not affected by the tractor.

McCormick-Deering Corn Planters

Imagine counting kernels from your right hand to your left hand—one, two, three and drop them—one, two, three and drop them. You could do that repeatedly until it became strictly mechanical, and drop three kernels every time with unerring accuracy, yet you can do it scarcely more accurately than the mechanism under the McCormick-Deering 100 Series planter or drill hopper will do it. By cunning devices the seed is herded, one kernel to a cell (in edge or flat-drop plates, two, three or four to a cell in full hill-drop plates) carried to the discharge opening and released to the seed channel in the boot, where the unique and smoothly working valve arrangement holds it until the proper time to release it to the soil.

The best brain talent of nearly three generations has gone into the perfection of these planters. The man who can see in a corn planter something more than just so much steel and iron, who can picture in his mind's eye inventors of past years working out principles which came to be more and more successfully applied as succeeding builders found simpler, more practical devices—to such a man one of these new McCormick-Deering planters must appear, as it is, a wonderful achievement.

FARMALL IN THE HAY!

One of the biggest advantages of Farmall farming is the fine work it does in haying. Here it is cutting a 14-foot swath. You can cut up to 60 or 70 acres a day in this way.

Sweet Clover Is Good For Pasture. Lincoln, Neb.—My experience is a good teacher when sweet clover ought to be a good thing for eastern Nebraska farm pastures where the grass is thin and the weeds seem to have the upper hand. The results obtained by 30 farmers in the eastern part of the state indicate that sweet clover will help to revive pasture land by adding nitrogen to the soil, keeping out the weeds, and supplying feed for live stock.

Nebraska Hens Should Lay More. Lincoln, Neb.—With one-third of the poultry year gone, Nebraska flocks have made only 15 cents net profit per hen, J. R. Reddit, extension agent in poultry husbandry of the College of Agriculture, states in his monthly news letter to co-operators in the university record flock project.

Baptist Church. (Rev. A. C. Downing, Pastor.) Easter past, our slogan for the next few weeks certainly should be "On to Pentecost." Pentecost recalls the church witnessing, and that is our work today. Let us then carry on in an aggressive way. Thirty days and our fiscal year closes. We are depending upon all members and friends meeting their obligations in order that we may close the books without a deficit. Loyalty and love will make it possible.

Leak Drains Tank. Orchard, Neb., April 1.—One of the water mains which was frozen last winter sprang a leak Friday night after it had thawed and drained the water tank, so that there was no water in the city system Saturday morning. A gang of men under the direction of J. Van Ostrand, town marshal, was put to work to repair the damage. The pumps were started early Saturday morning so that water was soon available.

Venture Proves Profitable. George W. Bill, of Pleasant Dale, Seward county, says that he obtained five times as much pasture the next year after seeding 15 pounds of sweet clover on land where the grazing had been very poor previously.

While the observations made on the second leak that has been caused here by the thawing of frozen mains.

It's the Little Things That Count. CLEVER INCIDENTALS ARE WHAT MAKE STYLES WHAT THEY ARE THIS SPRING—USE OF PLAIDS WITH PLAIN GOODS IS INSTANCE.

BY HARRIET. A SIDE from line and textiles, it is the little things that count in making spring clothes the charming things they are this year. The use of floured fabrics with plain, the hand-seaming with color inserted into plain fabrics, the bits of lace, embroidery, grosgrain ribbon and so on are tremendously varied and stimulating, viewing collections of early spring things. The use of plaids with plain materials is one of the season's achievements. Also the use of dots of one kind or another, particularly if they are some unusual kinds of dots.

These Are Different. I am showing this week two different ensembles for spring that make use of individual kinds of decoration, very different in character but equally effective. On the left is shown a black heavy velvet coat with gold nailheads for decoration, topping a black satin frock that dips both front and back.

This coat is very new, with an all-over pattern of square gold nailheads, except for a plain border around the bottom and the sleeves.

The stunning feature is the application of the nailheads. There are three gold scalloped in braid, with the nailheads concentrated near them, like a triple-tiered skirt to the coat. In fact, viewing this coat from the distance, one would swear that it had three gleaming ruffles, with the scalloped edges in gold. The cuff features the same curved treatment, and so does the collar. This type of coat can be copied in hand and hand-made dots in color and would be tremendously effective done that way. Tans and browns of two shades of blue or green would be very good.

Hot Is Interesting. Atop this costume sits a little chapeau straight from Paris that is new and stunning in its interpretation of the tricorn motif. It has a crown of black felt and a flange of black baku. The front of the straw black points upward.

The second costume is far more informal but equally smart. It is a tan kasha suit of pleated skirt and long coat with a tuck-in blouse and scarf of tan, dark and light green and cream-colored light crepe. The tuck-in blouse has a one-sided necktie and full sleeves gathered into tight cuffs. But the scarf matching it is quite unusual in the way it goes outside the coat, slips through three slits in the coat and hangs almost to the skirt's bottom edge. It can be tied in a bow if one wishes, though it is quite graceful swinging.

The hat chosen for this outfit is a tan one, matching the suit, with a one-sided brim that rolls up decidedly on one side and down on the other. There is a novelty banding inserted in the crown, of matching straw, outlined with green. This gives a perfect touch for the plaid trim of the suit.

The purse of dark green calfskin is one of the chic new colorful bags that will be so good this year. There is a watch inserted in its clasp, a little conceit that is much appreciated by the woman who can afford luxuries.

For either of these costumes the conventional pump or the new smart lace oxford in suede are excellent.

results of rejuvenating pastures may not be applicable to all conditions in the state, some of the suggestions may be of value to eastern Nebraska farmers in pasture management. "When we realize that half of the total acreage in Nebraska is in pasture it is easy to see the importance of giving more consideration to this part of the season or throughout the whole summer if that is possible. Most of the farmers who tried out the practice of seeding sweet clover in their pastures last year recommended that the pasture be allowed to rest during the early part of the season or throughout the whole summer if that is possible. David Koch was here from Winside Tuesday.

District Sixteen Is Standardized

Patrons' Day Held To Celebrate Event—Other Schools Work Toward Higher Goals.

A patrons' day program was held in district 16 west of Winside Friday afternoon, March 29, celebrating the standardization of the school. Mrs. Gurney Prince is the teacher and she has been re-elected for the next year.

About twenty-five patrons and other visitors were present. The regular recitations were held for a part of the afternoon and a short program of songs and recitations followed.

Miss Pearl E. Scovell, county superintendent, presented the new standard plate to the school. The plates are sent out to accredited schools by the state department at Lincoln. District 16 is the third in the county to become a standard school.

A feature of the day was the raising of a new flag on the school grounds.

At the close of the program the teacher and ladies of the district served refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, cake and coffee. Pupils and patrons of the district presented the teacher, Mrs. Prince, with several nice gifts.

The district is justly proud of the new building and the excellence of the school work.

Two other districts in the west part of the county are planning to build new school houses before the next year and five other schools toward standardization. District 6 in the east part of the county has already voted bonds to build a new school house.

Alleged Car Thief Arrested.

Head-line. If they're starting to steal that kind, we'll have to take out some insurance on our alleged car.—Arkansas Gazette.

Aurora Newspapers.

Geneva Signal: The newspaper situation at Aurora was cleaned up last week by the purchase of the Register by C. A. Carlson and C. P. Burt, owners of the Aurora Republican, and the consolidation of the Register with the Republican under the name Republican-Register. George L. Burr, sr., has edited the Register nearly forty years. The falling health of his wife is said to have been one reason for his willingness to sell the Register to the publishers of the Republican. Mr. Burr will be remembered as private secretary to the late Former Congressman W. L. Stark of Aurora.

Our personal acquaintance with Charles Carlson and a long acquaintance with the Aurora Republican as a newspaper convinces us that the owners will expand the consolidated newspaper in a manner to meet every need of Hamilton county for a county seat newspaper and that they will conduct it in a manner creditable to themselves as well as to the fine community they will serve.

When Geneva became a one-paper county seat town just about seventeen years ago the idea was new. It has now spread pretty well over the state. In the old days every politician was a politician and every politician thought he had to have a personal newspaper organ. It was about the same way with the bankers except that they viewed the situation from a different angle. Bankers usually got their papers in those days as a result of extending credit liberally and being compelled eventually to foreclose the mortgage. In those days two or three Fillmore county bankers were using their mortgages to dictate newspaper policies. Better days have come for the newspapers as well as for the banks.

Newspapers are a little more prosperous and vastly more independent. Both bankers and lawyers have found that the ownership of a newspaper by a banker or a lawyer raises a cloud of suspicion, since the public knows that neither has any business writing either news or opinion for the public, or controlling those who do. Since communities are no longer split by factional differences and the petty quarrels of bickering politicians and bankers as they were twenty or thirty years ago it is now possible for a courageous and capable managed newspaper to serve a whole community acceptably, making the consolidation of newspapers a reasonable and desirable step.

One of the unpleasant things to contemplate in connection with the next war, which it is said, will be fought by machinery, is the fact that there will be more cranks than usual.—New York Evening Post.

Business.

Sioux City Journal: One of the most significant developments encouraging to business is the stand taken by President Hoover toward the threatened strike of four brotherhoods of the Texas and Pacific railway. The strike had been voted and the date set for last Saturday. Mr. Hoover intervened by creating an emergency board of investigation. This in effect establishes a truce of 30 days which may be sufficient time to iron out the difficulties.

The Journal believes that the Hoover administration may be depended upon to act promptly in situations threatening industrial peace. The country has gone along for years now without a serious industrial disturbance, and it is a fact that prosperity has been improved in great degree by this condition. Harmony in industry is as necessary as anything else can be. Mr. Hoover is believed to be an executive who will employ every bit of his authority and influence to maintain peace between capital and labor. In addition, his understanding of economics is expected to be of aid to him in his efforts to make adjustments of this kind.

So far as the dispute between the brotherhoods and the railway officers is concerned, there is one point at issue that seems to be easily understood. Removal of railway shops decided upon by the management caused a loss to employees. The railway is alleged to be unwilling to do. Employees should not have been disturbed by the removal any more than was necessary.

Revenue freight car loadings for the week ending March 16 showed an increase of 11,690 cars over the preceding week. The total was 957,460. It was an increase of 14,888 cars over the same week in 1928.

Miscellaneous freight showed an encouraging gain, one of 18,287 cars over the preceding week an one of 17,137 over the same week last year. Early Easter may have accounted in a degree for rush orders for retail trade.

Farming operations in this section of the corn and wheat belt are reported to be advanced, owing to fine weather that has prevailed over a wide area. Preparations for planting have been underway for two or three weeks with most farmers further ahead than is usual at this time of the year. Farm relief legislation is now regarded as certain as the time approaches for the special session of congress.

The McCormick-Deering Ball-Bearing Cream Separator

The Pride of the Household

That's what this modern machine can't help being—the McCormick-Deering Ball-Bearing Cream Separator is so far ahead in design and appearance. It is beautiful to the eye—glossy black japanning with gold pin-striping. It has graceful lines. It is sanitary and easy-cleaning, from the rounded supply can down to the open base, inside and out.

But the big things is the new McCormick-Deering are the ball-bearing equipment at every high-speed point, the wonderfully efficient bowl design, and the positive automatic lubrication. These give you a surprising creaming separator, clean-up possible, skimming whatever the condition of the milk, long life for the machine, and top profit from your milking.

The McCormick-Deering "100 Series" planters combine old, time-proven principles with a simplified design which insures greater accuracy, a wider range of adaptability, and easier ways of adapting the planters to the different requirements. It has taken a number of years to perfect this combination. The result is planters which have no new, untried features. Their superiority lies in the manner in which these old, proven principles are applied.

The McCormick-Deering "100 Series" planters are furnished both as check-row planters and drills. The check-row planter can be quickly set for drilling, and only a moment is required to change it to power hill-drop for bunch-drop drilling.

If you are looking for a planter that will plant your crops accurately and that will require the minimum of attention, it will pay you to see the McCormick-Deering dealer and have him demonstrate a McCormick-Deering "100 Series" planter.

Market Report.

Sioux City Stock Yards.—Buoyancy characterized live stock markets early this week and the cattle market continued to carry a healthy undertone while some slow-down was noted in the hog and sheep departments after the opening session. The leading markets of the country received 67,000 cattle the first two days of the week, a big decrease of 38,000, compared with the same days last week. Observance of Easter day and bad weather along with poor condition of the roads curtailed receipts at all centers the fore part of the week. Beef steers and yearlings were in exceptionally good demand and the market advanced 25 to 50c over the low close of last week. Shippers were on the market and packers were good buyers. Yearlings have not declined much all spring and the market now is back up to the high time of the season, again. However, heavy steers still show a loss, compared with the best time a few weeks ago. Yearlings topped at $14.00 this week and medium to strong weights sold up to $13.75. Some extremely heavy bullocks brought $13.25, weighing well over 1,700 pounds. Bulk of the material cashed at $12.25@13.50 with a sprinkling of plainer grades down to $11.50 and under. Butcher stock was active on the first two days of the week and a net gain of 25 to 50c was added nearly all the way up and down the line. Supplies were very light and demands were fairly broad from all sources. A load of yearling heifers topped the market at $13.25, tying the prais high mark of the season, paid for a net load. Other sales were made at $12@13 with the bulk from $12 down to Koshor material sold at $10@11 and bulk of the cows cashed at $8.50@9.50. Plainer grades ranged down to $7.25 and canners and citters at $5.75@7.25. The bulk market advanced a quarter with medium bolognas up to $9. Heavy, yearling and butcher bulls ranged above $8. Veals advanced 50c to $1 over the low close of last week, the extreme top reaching $13.50. Stockers and feeders were not in very good demand and the market did not strengthen much. Sales were made mostly at $11@12 with a few to $12.50. Cows ranged downward from $8.50 and heifers, on up to $11.50. Hog receipts amounted to 160,200 at the 11 leading markets the first two days of the week, 70,000 short of a week ago and 72,000 less than the corresponding period a year ago. Bad weather and roads curtailed receipts. The hog market advanced sharply, mostly 25 to 35c on the initial session and was steady to a quarter lower on the following day when shippers were small packers and packers were bearish, having enough hogs to get their way. On Tuesday, the top was $11.55 for one load. Bulk of the butchers and lights sold at $11.25@11.50. Sows sold at $10.75 and down and stags at $9.75@10. Sheep receipts totaled 105,000 at the 11 leading markets on
