YOUNG WOMEN OF WAYNE MENTION PUBLIC DEMAND

YOUNG women of the community are not unaware of public wants. At a recent meeting of the club, Wayne's needs were discussed. Members from both town and country agreed that a big community hall with recreation quarters and rest rooms, well built and neatly furnished would meet a pressing demand, and the young people appointed the Kiwanis club and the Wayne Woman's club to think and act in that direction. It was pointed out that families coming here from neighboring territory to trade would like to feel free to go to a place provided for their convenience and comfort. If this proposed improvement would serve an important purpose, as indicated, a practical movement would seem advisable. Another suggestion by the young women touched the need of an air port to bring increasing air traffic this way.

Season Opens In Wayne Soon

Walter Savidge Amusement Company Starts With Engagement Here Week of May 6.

Twentythird Year

Troop Goes to Western Nebraska and Black Hills for Most of Twenty-one Weeks.

Twenty-third season for the Walter Savidge Amusement Company will be opened the week of May 6 with an engagement in Wayne, the home of Mr. Savidge, owner and manager, and headquarters for the company. The troop of 125 will start on a twenty-one-week engagement, going from Wayne to Hartington and Norfolk and then to western Nebraska and the Black Hills. The closing week will be the last of September with an engagement at the Saunders county fair in Wahoo. The company will play but one engagement in Wayne this year. The dramatic company will include a cast of eleven new players this season, talent coming from New York, Los Angeles, Regina, San Antonio, Kansas City and Chicago. The plays will be as follows: "The Gossip," Monday; "Sin of the Father," Tuesday; "The Small Town," Wednesday; "The Bandit," Thursday; "That Girl Susanne," Friday; special comedy feature, Saturday matinee; and "How Gerry Won," Saturday evening. Eleven will play in the band, and eight stage hands are employed in the dramatic company. The players will arrive April 22 to begin rehearsals, and 125 members come May 1 for practice. Besides the dramatic show, Mr. Savidge has provided six riding devices; a free act and a number of side attractions for the company. The miniature railroad train with a steam engine and four coaches, runs on a twelve-inch track and carries sixteen children at a time. A dwarf operates it. The miniature merry-go-round and sea-plane are for children also. There are the ferris wheel, merry-go-round and sea-plane for grown folks also. The Missouri giant is one of the side shows with the company this season. The giant is a man six feet, six inches tall, weighing 600 pounds, eighty inches around the waist and wearing a size fifteen shoe. Cornallas' troop of novelty entertainers presents the free attraction. This is a company of two women and one man who perform in contortions, Spanish verb acts, juggling and comedy acrobatics. They are leaving the orphan circuit at Gary, Ind., to come to Wayne to join the Savidge company. The ten-car train which carries for the fire department is on the way and will be here within a few days. This siren will replace the steam one now in use. With installation of an oil burning engine in the local plant, steam for the old siren is not sufficient. The question of what whistle will be used to designate time of day has been considered and not yet settled. A single short blast from a storage tank may be used. The new siren may be blown. The city is having some bumps in the street pavement fixed at this time. Aside from transacting routine business, the city council canvassed election returns at the regular meeting Tuesday evening.

GENEROUS RAINS MELLOW GROUND AND AID GROWTH

ALTHOUGH we have had an occasional shower and some snow, the first really soaking rain since October came Tuesday night when the precipitation measured an inch. The snow of Easter day was a great help in moistening the ground, and rains now will stimulate fields just planted. Preliminary to the welcome moisture was a ripping wind of several days' duration. It was handed over from March to which it rightfully belonged. Reports from the country indicate that seeding has made unusual progress and that farm work generally is ahead of normal. Pastures look well and promise early feed. A warm spell, following copious rains will give wonderful impetus to vegetation of all kinds. People express confidence in a year of extraordinary abundance, and it is hoped nothing will happen to keep expectations from full realization.

Cooling Tower About Complete

New Oil Burning Engine Will Be Put Into Operation at Wayne Power Plant.

Siren Here Soon

Electric Whistle Will Replace Steam One Now Used by Fire Department.

With completion of a cooling tower the new oil burning engine at the Wayne power plant will be put into operation on the city lines. This tower is a framework north of the power house and is constructed so that the warm water from the engine may be cooled in the tower by passing over pipes of cool water. This will keep the water in the machine at a low temperature always. The new engine is installed and is operated some each day so that every adjustment may be made before it is hooked onto the main city lines within the coming week. When once in operation the oil engine will pull the entire city load most of the time, the two steam engines being in use only on emergency or when work is being done on the large one. The large storage tank, which will hold two carloads of oil at a time, has been placed near the power house. A pipe line has been provided to carry the oil from the storage tank to the railroad track to the storage tank. The whole improvement has been made at a cost of about $55,000. The new electric siren, ordered for the fire department, is on the way and will be here within a few days. This siren will replace the steam one now in use. With installation of an oil burning engine in the local plant, steam for the old siren is not sufficient. The question of what whistle will be used to designate time of day has been considered and not yet settled. A single short blast from a storage tank may be used. The new siren may be blown. ### City Minister Addresses Club

Rev. C. E. Snyder Speaks to Wayne Kiwanians Monday on Benjamin Franklin.

Contributed Much

Points to Franklin as First Civilized American Because of Contributions.

"Benjamin Franklin was the first civilized American," asserted Rev. C. E. Snyder, famed Kiwanian and Unitarian pastor from Sioux City, in opening his address to Wayne Kiwanians Monday following the regular noonday luncheon at Hotel Stratton. Rev. Snyder pointed to Franklin's ability in science and writing, as well as his renown as a diplomat and statesman. Had he not been interested in so many things, the speaker stated, he no doubt would have attained greater prominence in the literary field. His works in this line are excellent, but they might have been even greater. Franklin was a philosopher, Rev. Snyder pointed out, not a philosopher like Kant or Spencer but a practical scientist and philosopher. The speaker showed that Franklin was America's first real scientist. It was his discoveries and inventions that led the world to know that the electricity in lightning is the same as had been found in the Leyden jar, discovered previously. He made a stove for use in place of the hearth, and this invention greatly aided comfort and convenience in homes. These and numerous other discoveries Franklin added to the sum of human knowledge. Franklin never had an invention patented. Others bought his ideas for little or nothing and amassed wealth from them. After many discouraging experiences here and abroad he did determine to save and his fortune grew until his yearly income was $3,500. After having enough to live comfortably Franklin decided to spend the rest of his days in writing and scientific research which he liked. He established the paper which became the Saturday Evening Post. However, the public would not let him rest. His services were sought in establishing the University of Pennsylvania and in doing many other things for his state and country. At 80 years he was still active in such endeavors. His work was never finished and he continued his great service until his death. Club Elects Delegate. Wayne Kiwanians elected C. M. Craven delegate to the Kiwanian International at Milwaukee June 23 to 27. J. C. Nuss was named alternate. Norfolk Kiwanians have invited the Wayne men and their wives to attend a social evening April 16. The club is also invited to Lincoln to hear an address by the international president, O. Sam Cummings. Attendance Contest. An attendance contest is being staged by the local Kiwanis group. C. W. Brown and L. C. Gilder are captains of one group, and Dr. R. W. Casper and R. B. Judson head the other group. The contest closes July 1.

Wayne Girl In Piano Recital

Miss Esther Mae Ingham, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Ingham of Wayne, who is a piano student at the Sherwood School of Music, Chicago, gave a piano recital Tuesday evening at the Sherwood recital hall. Miss Ingham played the following selections: "Pastorale" and "Capriccio," by Scriabin; "Italian Concerto" by Bach; "Nocturne, F. G. Major," "Etude Op. 25, Number 2," and "Impromptu A-Flat," by Chopin. "Silhouettes," for two pianos, by Arensky, was played by Miss Ingham and her instructor, Sidney Silber. Miss Ingham was assisted in her recital by Miss Loretta Liedel, soprano, and Miss Marcia Sandahl, contralto. Wayne Hospital Notes. Edwin Hawk of Wisner, left Tuesday following a major operation. Melvin Tietgen of Sholes, underwent an operation for appendicitis Saturday night. Miss Lisle Clayton, superintendent of the hospital, underwent an operation Sunday morning. The small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller of Wayne, had a minor operation Sunday. Donald Lessman of Carroll, underwent an operation for appendicitis Monday. Milford Long had tonsils and adenoids removed Monday. Mrs. Jennie Mitchell of Emerson, is a medical patient this week.

The question of permanents ranging in price, and the reason thereof, is often asked of me. In permanent waves, as in any other thing you invest in, the quality sets the price. You cannot, and do not, expect a $5.00 dress to give you the appearance and satisfaction that a $50.00 dress gives you. Permanent waves are the same. While in Chicago I had an opportunity to see workings of a shop which specializes in $5.00 permanent waves. You do not have an experienced operator doing the work on your hair, but many whose experience is limited. You do not get quality material used on your hair, nor the kind of material and amount of heat that your individual case requires. One material and one kind of wave to all, whether this is the kind that your hair requires or not.

You will find the best methods in all classes of work done here by expert operators, and the permanent wave which is selected here will last longer, be easier taken care of, and give you more satisfaction. To give you an opportunity to take advantage of these latest methods which I received while in Chicago, I will give you a permanent wave for $8.00, if you make your appointment on or before April 20, 1929.

FACTS

"Cars other than Fords"

Time was when this phrase carried a certain truth.

Times have changed.

Cars other than Fords, as indicating a distinction between the rich and the poor, is dead—cold dead. Ford himself killed it. Almost overnight, the old Ford became a memory.

The new Ford, colored to suit the most exacting motorists, greyhound gaited, leaps from the leash of the spotlight at full power, while multi-cylindrical aristocrats of the avenue are picking up the pace in second. Town-car models park proudly before the swankiest shops of Fifth Avenue, Michigan Boulevard, Hollywood Boulevard.

The chauffeur (in livery, mind you!) wait with no less dignity at the wheel.

Healthy Chickens Need Cleanliness

South Sioux City, Neb.—J. R. Rebbitt, poultry specialist of the College of Agriculture at Lincoln, was the principal speaker at three meetings held to increase interest in the grow healthy chicks project in Dakota county. Mr. Rebbitt emphasized the importance of giving young chicks the advantage of sanitary surroundings, declaring that sanitation is far more effective and economical than later medication. Two of the meetings were held in the lumber yards at Homer and Hubbard, the lumber companies contributing the lumber and building chick houses to aid in the demonstration. The third meeting was held at the home of M. G. Leamer, South Sioux City. All of the meetings were well attended.

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 45 Wayne, Neb., Thursday, April 11, 1929. Vol. 2

When friends begin to tell you how young you look, you're getting old!

The price of any field fence is governed by the number of pounds of wire it contains. Unfortunately, field fence is sold by the rod instead of by the pound. A low price per rod, sometimes fools the buyer because he is not familiar with the actual weight of the fence in pounds. In arriving at the actual money value of any fence, it is necessary to divide the cost per rod by the weight per rod. That will show you the "colored gentleman in the wood pile" PDQ.

American fence costs less per pound than any other ready-cut catalog house in the country. Let us give you the facts on field fence before purchasing. It will save you money.

The young minister was very proud of the sermon he was to deliver to his new congregation. It began thus: "I scanned the dim horizon."

"But unfortunately his tongue got twisted, and the "dim" and "in" scanned and dim swapped places. The sermon was practically ruined.

Small town contacts give one a lot of interesting information, don't they?

"Another time when the car gets washed is when son finds a new sweetheart," said a friend of ours.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING WITH"

a day or two ago. Well, the editor's boys are all married now, so the old car isn't washed as much as it once was.

We are putting up a number of pretty trellises this spring. Ordered yours yet?

It is so much cheaper to buy a good ladder than to repair a log broken on a poor one. Lots more satisfaction in it, too.

In deep dismay the woodpecker wept. As the shales of evening stode; He had pecked and pecked all day. At a concrete telegraph pole.

We have in our office a catalog from every ready-cut catalog house in the country. We have spent a good many days figuring the value of the material of each building they show. We find that in every case our prices are lower than theirs and we pay for the cutting and give you the building.

So pick out the house you want, tell us which it is, and we will deliver it to you promptly when you need it, as you need it, and at less cost to you. We know, because we have built several of them and at a saving to the buyer in every case.

Does your roof leak? See us about it. Asphalt roofings are now lower in price than ever before. We have two carloads on hand bought at the very bottom.

"Is your Packard friend coming tonight?"

"No."

"Dodge Brothers?"

"No, this is Willys Night."

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin.

Custer county not only has the distinction of being the second largest county in the state, but it has the added distinction of having borne more names than any other county. While all that portion of Nebraska was unorganized territory the name "Kohltz" was bestowed upon the proposed county. The attempted organization failed, and on a second attempt the name "Custer" was bestowed. That attempt also failed. Later a successful and legal organization was perfected and the present name adopted.

Mrs. L. R. Dowse, 75 died at her home in Cornstock, Custer county, on March 21. Her husband was the first permanent settler in what is now Custer county, and she became the mother of the first white female child born in the county. Mr. and Mrs. Dowse arrived in Custer county, then known as Kountz county, in 1873, and she lived there continuously for 55 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer of Scotia celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary on March 26. They located in the neighborhood of Scotia 51 years ago. Mr. Meyer is 90 and his wife is 79.

Senator Dvorak of Omaha.

democrat, is prieved. Incensed at something written about him by John Thompson of the Lincoln Journal, he sought by resolution to have Thompson barred from the privileges of the senate. But the senate voted down his resolution. Dvorak then waxed wroth and said a democratic reporter could be denied legislative privileges by a republican house, but a republican reporter, Dvorak, of the senate and Hovis of the house should get together and pass a law permitting legislators to burn all reporters at the stake.

The first missionary work in Nebraska under Presbyterian auspices was performed in 1834, in behalf of the Omaha and Pawnee Indians. That was 21 years before Presbyterian missionaries worked in behalf of the whites. The first Presbyterian missionary was Rev. John Dunbar, who began his work near the present village of Bellevue. It was then known as "Bellevue." In 1858 Rev. and Mrs. Henry M. Gilmer were ferried across the Missouri river at Nebraska City and began work among the white settlers. The first churches were connected with those in southwest Iowa. The Omaha Presbytery was organized in 1856. The Missouri River Presbytery was organized in 1862. The old and new school assemblies consolidated in 1870. In 1880 it was determined to found a Presbyterian school. The school was located at Bellevue and opened in 1883. But Presbyterians farther west wanted a school of their own, so in 1882 Hastings College was founded and began its work in 1882. The college at Bellevue no longer functions, but Hastings college has grown and prospered. At the beginning of the present semester the enrollment was more than 1,000.

Perhaps the oldest Presbyterian minister in Nebraska, in point of service if not in years, is Rev. Robert L. Wheeler, pastor emeritus of the South Side Presbyterian church, Omaha. He began preaching at Popca in 1876, and continued there until 1888, when he was sent to South Omaha as a missionary. He organized a church with three members, all women, and seven children in the Sunday school. The beautiful church in which the congregation worships now is called "Wheeler Memorial" in his honor, and has a membership of more than 700. To have been active in the ministry for more than 53 years is a record of which Rev. Dr. Wheeler may rightfully be proud.

Recently this writer mentioned the 25th anniversary of the Rose-land State bank, which had been under the management of one family all that time. He then stated that he knew of but two banks that had been under the same family management for a greater length of time, both at Minden. At no time did he intimate that there were no others. But he has received a score or more of letters calling his attention to "family banks" with records of from 30 to 46 years. The latest is from the Dawson bank, Dawson, Neb., which was founded in 1887 by M. Riley, who was its managing officer for 21 years. He was succeeded by his son, Dan, who has been manager 21 years and is now acting in that capacity. Next!

The first organized attempt to locate mineral or gas in Nebraska was made in Hastings just 40 years ago this month. A company was formed and proceeded to prospect for gas, no thought being given to oil or coal. The hole was drilled about 2,000 feet and abandoned when it filled with water and could not be pumped dry. No trace of gas was found, but a deposit of yellow ochre was penetrated and for a time it was thought it could be developed commercially as a body for paint. Nothing came of it.

Newspaper consolidations continue to be the rule. It has been several years since a new newspaper was established in Nebraska. There are perhaps 25 per cent fewer "country newspapers" in Nebraska than there were 25 years ago. The latest consolidation was at Aurora, where the Register published for something like 40 years by the Burr family, was absorbed by the Republican. Aurora now has one newspaper. A few years ago it had three. Years ago Fairfield had three newspapers, and this writer was afflicted with one of them. Fairfield now has four newspapers, two dailies and two weeklies. Now Fremont has one, a daily. A few years ago Hastings had five newspapers, a daily and four weeklies. One daily and one weekly now serve the needs of the people. There are only three newspapers in Adams county now, whereas there were 10 at one time a few years ago.

BROWN - EKBERG COMPANY Thursday, Friday and Saturday April 11th, 12th, and 13th

We have planned a great buying event for these three days in April, which will benefit every family in this community needing clothes for the warmer days soon to come.

Brown-Ekberg Golden Rule Stores every day in the year save part of every dollar that you spend. These Dollar Day Specials are offered in addition to the every-day values that we give you, to demonstrate to you the worth of our merchandise, the reliable quality and the good service that you will receive from it.

These April Dollar Days are made possible through another momentous happening in the trend of modern business. Another jobber, Wheeler and Motter of St. Joseph, Mo., who for years have supplied many stores in the western part of our country with merchandise, retires from the field and have placed their stock on sale. Our buyers bought great quantities of staple merchandise such as percales, prints, sheeting, muslin and piece goods of all kinds; hosiery, work clothing of every description for this great Dollar Day Sale. Every Brown-Ekberg Golden Rule Store will have this merchandise on sale at these Dollar Day prices. Come early while our quantities are ample to cover any ordinary demand. We feel that these values are so great that in many instances the demand will exceed the supply. Come and share in the savings made possible by this great purchase.

The Bennett couples who traded wives, one couple receiving a garage to boot, might well lead the state legislature to pass a law restricting that kind of traffic.

It is one thing to figure on the amount the world owes a man and quite another thing to collect it. It is easier to take off one's coat, roll up one's sleeves, get down to brass tacks and earn it.

In the interest of peaceful social adjustments in Washington, we would suggest to the vice president the advisability of getting married and permitting his sister to go back and visit with her husband. In this much heralded social disturbance, he is the object of greatest commiseration.

The appointment of former Vice President Charles W. Dawes as ambassador to Great Britain leads us to wonder how a man of his fiery and outspoken temperament can manage to get along quietly and peacefully in the precise diplomatic circles of England. It is certain what he thinks and where he stands. Just as a suggestion, he ought to keep his right side up while discussing this of state with punctilious court leaders.

Henry Field, owner of a Shenandoah seed house, pioneer in direct selling by radio, married twice before and the father of eleven children, most of them grown, led to the altar yesterday in a divorcee who had been in his employ for twenty years. The bride was dear of the "seed house girl" and seemed to be happy over her acquisition of Henry. The latter acted as glad as a young colt. Sometimes the evidence is so overwhelming that we are led to wonder if after all adults are but children grown tall.

Congress will soon meet in special session called together by President Hoover for the purpose of enacting legislation looking to farm relief. The president wants legislation passed and put into operation in time to help this year's crops, and the majorities in the two houses seem to be in harmony.

SOCIAL FOLDEROL
 We do not always agree with Senator Norris. He so frequently appears in the role of carping critic with what seem to be magnificent grounds for complaint that we have been led to question the soundness of his statesmanship. Figuring that he was valuable as an irritant, we were pleased to see his political activity continue within the circle of a hapless minority. But in his latest role as critic of Washington society, we are entirely in sympathy. In a satirical vein, he wrote Secretary of State Stimson in regard to the social status of Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister and hostess of Vice-President Curtis. It appears that the problem which is exciting Washington's high society is where Mrs. Gann is, in her relationship with her distinguished brother, to sit at official functions, and it is up to the secretary of state to decide. Whether Mrs. Gann is to have a place above or below ladies of the diplomatic corps is the delicate question to be determined. It seems the vice-president wants his sister given the same consideration that would have been received by his wife. The controversy has shaken to its foundation, and Senator Norris gives the world his opinion of what he terms "a great, mysterious social sham which towers in importance over questions of national and international import." Norris' humorous treatment of social tinsel as emphasized in Washington is in happy accord with the feelings of people who look on mere show with aversion, and who rate individuals according to merit, not according to chance relationship. Our dislike for social display is heightened by revelations of the sickly squabble over where Mrs. Gann shall sit. We are more curious to know how her husband who is a Washington lawyer, feels and where, if at all, he will sit.

mony with the executive's plan. It is proposed to frame measures in accord with the president's ideas of legislation of practical benefit to farming communities. It is understood the equalization fee to which much objection was raised in the past, will be omitted.

Any attempt to make it appear that cigarette smoking is healthful should be resented even by those who are addicted to the habit. One who uses tobacco in any form is disposed to regard it as harmful rather than as conducive to health. Seldom do people smoke or chew tobacco with the idea that they are thereby helped. One acquires the habit, and he can't throw it off without suffering. So he doesn't quit. Once started in smoking cigarettes or otherwise using tobacco, one derives satisfaction that impels him to keep on. Flaunting the habit as a source of health is presumptuous.

No sooner did newspapers of the state get over congratulating Aurora over reducing its number of newspapers to one than along comes an ambitious fellow who starts an entirely new one. This spoils an ideal condition, and causes Aurora to revert to small-town policies. Possibly members of one group decided they didn't like the way the editor of the surviving newspaper combs his hair, or didn't like what he eats, or didn't like his politics. Enough people can be found in any community to encourage the starting of a new paper—even though a feeble one—if some one is foolish enough to do it.

The Omaha World-Herald makes the disquieting editorial statement that the "present Nebraska legislature is the most incompetent and the most unrepresentative that the state has ever seen," but we are relieved to note that in its specifications it does not include names from this corner of the state. The World-Herald's comparison leads to recollection back through a long series of years and touches many legislative sessions. The charges have to do with mental qualities such as would be reflected in constructive statesmanship. It would appear advisable for the legislature to appoint a committee to investigate its brain lobes and analyze for comparison the records of all previous legislatures, thus determining the justice or injustice of the published indictment.

One engaged in any business can no longer depend on acquaintance on social activities to win trade. Church or lodge membership or the reputation of antecedents can no longer be employed to attract support. Whatever one does, he must do well, giving service and quoting prices that are convincing and compelling. People want to be treated right and get what they want at reasonable prices. People cannot be sandbagged or coerced into patronage. The proprietor of any business cannot expect to win favor if a customer has to cudgel him out of an easy chair to give attention to his wants. Clerks or other assistants cannot grant indifference or growl displeasure in trying to satisfy the demands of the public and expect to arrive anywhere. Competition is sharp, people have money and they will buy where service is the most cordial and satisfactory.

LOVE AFFAIRS.
 "Who Should Marry and Why?" is the subject of a lecture to be given before the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. in Omaha this week by Dr. Charles W. Pollard, physician of that city. He agreed to answer all questions received in advance by mail. A dozen questions thus propounded were published in Omaha Saturday, and though we are not a specialist, we are going to answer them and run the risk of conflict with the love and experience of the doctor. Here they are:

- "Should I marry for any other reason than love?" No. And it should be very substantial love that will develop into mutually helpful companionship.
- "Should family obligations keep me from marrying the one I love?" If the one you love, is equally in love with you and desiring of you, he will be glad to marry you without sacrificing family obligations, but, on the contrary, will help you carry them out.
- "We are in love but she is 16 years old—should we get married?" Probably you should wait. She is too young to exercise sound judgment and ought to be allowed years of care-free girlhood to finish schooling and grow up. Doubtless you are correspondingly weak in judgment or you would not want to marry her at such tender age.
- "Should one who has had an occasional epileptic fit in childhood, but none since then, marry?" We are shy on knowledge of the likely recurrence of this sort of fit, but, deeply in love, we think we would run the risk. Both sexes have taken greater chances in the way of ugly possibilities.
- "My mother died of tuberculosis; should that keep me from marrying?" If you are at present free from the disease, you may have inherited from a hardy progenitor and live the usual span of years in sound health. If so, we think we would give love the usual reign.
- "Is there any reason why I should not marry my cousin? She loves me." There are plenty of reasons why one should not marry a cousin. It is abnormal to like cousins well enough to marry them. One's own family weaknesses are apparent in cousins, and they are not enough removed to develop aversion. Don't do it.
- "The girl I want to marry is 30; I am 23. Do you see any harm in that?" You are phenomenal if you can match the wits and judgment of a girl so much your senior. If she is normal and unless you are unusual, it would be an unequal partnership with your struggling verandah trailing along far in the rear. She might respect you as a kid to raise, but to love you as a husband would become hard work, we fear. You had better pick from a younger flock.

MOLLYCODDLING.
 In a public debate, a University of Wisconsin girl student said man is pampered by woman, and when she married him, she babies him. A rejoinder was drawn from a male student who wanted to know why women didn't "bring us up right, and then we probably have to be pampered." Probably each reflects a good measure of truth, the latter resenting as injurious, manifestations of mother love which, carried to extremes, he believes softens and weakens youth. Mother instinct is tempted to shield a son from hard knocks, and she taxes her mind, and enfeebles her body to make his course free from hardship. As long as she lives, her solicitude goes out to him, her chief concern being to ease his toil and insure his comfort. Too much waiting on, too much relief from effort and responsibility may, as the student suggests, tend to fashion mollycoddles instead of stalwart men. But while boys should appreciate the affectionate anxiety of their mothers and reciprocate the fine sentiment expressed, they should not be influenced to lie down and permit members of the fairer sex to carry their burdens. Maternal pride is exalted by the outstanding achievements of a son, but too much coddling, if accepted as due, is likely to cause mediocrity if not failure and disappointment.

TIED TO HIS MOTHER'S APRON STRINGS!

bind weed can be eradicated in old patches by this method.

"I am going to make a statement here which not every farmer will believe and the statement is that alfalfa will kill bind weed, root, stem, leaf and branch as completely as any chemical can possibly do and that if killing the plant in this manner would completely eradicate it we could soon rid ourselves of it."

"This plan of eradication, however, does not take into consideration the seed which the mother plant has been throwing off every season and which in my way of thinking, is the most insidious feature about this pest."

"These little bind weed seeds are plowed under the surface of the soil and remain there, it seems, until the notion strikes them to grow. Chemicals cannot reach them from the surface; consequently this method would appear ineffectual except in newly infested areas where the plant has no chance to produce seed."

"Upon my farm a 20-acre field, part of which was badly infested with bind weed and common morning glory was seeded to alfalfa in the spring with oats as a cover crop. A good stand was obtained and the field was used for hay and hog pasture for three years. At the end of this time the field was broken up and put into corn. I am perfectly satisfied in my own mind that there was no bind weed or morning glory roots left in this field at the time it was broken up for these roots, as any one who is familiar with the plant knows, can easily be seen when plowing. There was no evidence of bind weed coming from an old root in the corn field next year. However, there were many little two-leaved plants peeping out of the soil. The leaves were green with a pink or purple tinge, and upon pulling some of them out of the soil, I found them to have a fibrous root. Later on they developed enough to show me for certain that they were bind weed seedlings. As they grew they began to form a typical bind weed root and assume other characteristics of this pest."

"There had been no bind weed seed produced on this field for at least two years and scarcely any for three."

"This field was put to corn two years, then oats and alfalfa were again sown. A good stand of alfalfa was again obtained."

"Very little if any bind weed seed was produced upon this land while in crop and it remains to be seen when next broken up whether

Bind Weed Control Subject Of Article

A. E. Wickert of Laurel, has written an article about extinction of bind weed from fields of the corn belt. It is as follows:

"Bind weed, wild morning glory, Creeping Jenny or Creeping Charley are names commonly applied to a very alarming weed pest which is rapidly infesting our corn-belt land at present."

"Any one of the names applied to this weed pest strike terror to the heart of the farmer who has had any experience with it and few there are who are not becoming acquainted with it."

"Well may we liken this weed to the monster of the Grecian fable which possessed the faculty of producing two heads as fast as Hercules could cut off one, for the more we cultivate it the better we find it growing until in the fall in spite of our best efforts with the cultivator, it has covered the ground with a heavy net work of vines much resembling a carpet, and has used the fertility and moisture in the land to promote its own growth which our crops should have had, to repay us for our effort in planting and tending them."

"This plant has many characteristics of the common morning glory which is also a terrible pest in cultivated land."

"Its leaves however, are smaller. The flower is not so large and varies more as to color, being mostly white, but oftentimes of a purple or pink tinge. The root of the mature plant is light brownish in color while the common glory is white. It is also tougher and not so big around as the common morning glory. Otherwise, the features of both are nearly the same except that the bind weed is much more detrimental to crops."

"I have been forced to experiment with this weed pest during the last thirteen years. During the time I have been working to control this weed on my farm I have discovered a few things about it which do not seem to be very generally known and in this article will set forth some of my experiences, unpleasant though they may have been."

"Sodium chlorate has recently been found to be valuable in killing the plant to the uttermost root if given in several applications during a season and will indeed be of general value in stopping the spread of this weed to new lands."

"However, I do not believe that

The seed from nine years ago will still grow.

"Another characteristic of bind weed seed is that it does not all start growing in the spring of the year, but will start any time after corn planting until fall, which makes it nearly impossible to eradicate by pulling the seedlings."

"If the weed is not allowed to produce seed while the land is in cultivation which is not entirely impossible of accomplishment for it devotes its time to producing vine and root almost entirely during the early stages of its development from a seedling to a mature seed bearing plant, I believe it can eventually be eradicated by this method of rotation. I know it can at least be held in control and good crops produced where before they were a failure because of this weed pest."

"If you have newly infested fields where the weed has had no chance to mature and produce seed, by all means spray the vines with sodium chlorate, but in badly infested fields where seed has been scattered for years, use your money to buy alfalfa seed instead of chemical."

"Bind weed may turn out to be a blessing in disguise, for it appears that it, along with the common morning glory, will eventually force all farmers to do the very thing they should do, namely, follow a method of crop rotation including alfalfa or some other legume that will smother bind weed and morning glories."

ROSS SISTERS INTRODUCE CUBIST HARMONIES

Records made by the Ross sisters have been sent to European conservatories and masters of harmony are lending an inquisitive ear to the new interpretation. Meantime, the sisters prefer American music and are giving it first place on their programs. "You're A Real Sweetheart" is a very simple foxtrot song with an orchestration which gives us an ideal range for our voices," says Evelyn, spokesman for the trio. "It is really one of the simplest tunes we sing, but its possibilities are remarkable. It has the perfect dance rhythm and can be dressed up as an aria or garbed as a super-modern. "We try to look-ahead of the times and we think that the modern harmonies are going to be the new thing in music for the next few years."

Unique Patchwork Quilt Is One of First Gifts to Nation's "First Lady"

WHEN Mrs. Herbert Hoover moved into the White House she found among her possessions—gifts from admirers of the First Lady of the Land—a remembrance that brought to her a recollection of a wedding gift from herself to her son four years ago. It was a patchwork quilt that bids fair to become the most famous quilt in America.

It was the gift of Mrs. J. L. Murray of Bloomington, Ill., and has a history which goes back almost a hundred years. Five years ago Mrs. Murray read an account of how Mrs. Hoover, whose husband was then secretary of commerce, had seen in an exhibit of an old family heirloom, a hand-made quilt, which had been part of a New England belle's wedding trousseau in 1834.

Mrs. Hoover was so delighted with this quilt of blue and white in a striking double Irish chain pattern that she had it duplicated as a wedding gift for her son.

At the time of Mr. Hoover's election as president of the United States Mrs. Murray happened to recall having read of Mrs. Hoover's admiration for the quilt, looked up the pattern and decided to make one as a gift of welcome to the First Lady of the Land upon her entrance into the White House. Sixteen flour bags were used in making the quilt, six of which were dyed a pale blue in order to dupli-cate exactly the color Mrs. Hoover's one which had made such a deep impression upon Mrs. Hoover.

More than half a mile of thread—1100 yards, to be exact—went into the quilting, which was all done by hand. The quilt measures 7 by 8 feet.

Mrs. Murray selected four bags for the "Hoover Quilt" because for ten years and more she has been teaching Illinois farm women how to make use of these bags. During the war she was known as the "shirt tail lady" because of the unique things she made out of men's old shirts.

FLAMING YOUTH CROWDS BASEBALL HEADLINES — COLORFUL ART SHIRES FINDS OUT THERE ARE SUCH THINGS AS TRAINING RULES

BY PHILIP MARTIN

IT is interesting to observe that flaming youth, as personified by Art Shires of the White Sox, and Leo Durocher of the Yankees, are crowding the headlines these days. And, one might say, in quite different ways.

Durocher may supplant the expensive Lyn Lery in the Yankee infield this season. It probably is what he has expected. In fact, were one to ask him, he probably would say—"Well, I'm surprised that Huggins took as long as he did to find out I am the best man!"

Shires is in Dutch with his boss. Praised as one of the best rookies to hit the majors late last summer, he was picked as a certain star with the White Sox this summer. He packs plenty of color. For that reason, he was appointed temporary captain of the White Sox early this spring, but apparently figured the captainship carried special privileges and disobeyed training rules and learned otherwise.

THESE two young men are hailed as the cockiest youngsters to reach the majors in many seasons. Durocher is said to be the best jockey in baseball and, despite his half-pint size, doesn't particularly care at whom he throws asparagus.

Shires is no shrinking violet, al-though he is not the jockey that Durocher is. He keeps his jaw well packed with tobacco all the time and gives the impression that he is a real tough guy. And he is. He has shown it on occasions. And he's good. He tells you so himself, and, it might be added, he proved it those few weeks late last season.

DUROCHER played in 102 games for the Yankees last summer, mostly in substitute roles, and com-pleted the batting mark of .272. He is not what one terms a good hit-ter, but there isn't a man on any infield who can field any better than Durocher.

Shires played in 33 games for the White Sox last summer, coming up from the Texas League. He batted for an average of .341, driv-ing in quite a number of runs from his base hits. He fielded well.

More figures don't tell the entire story of these two young fellows, for the simple reason that figures never do. But the figures show both can play acceptable baseball and the figures should say that neither one has an idea that any-body is any better ball player than he is.

DUROCHER may not play regu-larly for the Yankees this sum-mer, but he is certain to be heard from even if he is on the bench. Shires, however, seems destined to be the regular first baseman for the White Sox and he is hailed as a future great. Perhaps he won't live up to early expectations, but that remains to be seen.

At any rate, the young fellows are getting plenty of ink these days and while some people may not think they are so hot you never could tell them that. They think so and many a battle has been won by confidence.

Art Shires, top, and Leo Durocher are the cockiest youngsters to reach the majors in many sea-sons.

Two Boys Go on Trail of Adventure Around World in 50-Foot Sailboat

ON a five-year trip around the world in their 50-foot sail-boat, the Nomad, Dan C. Blum of Chicago and Stephens Miranda of Los Angeles stopped the other day at San Francisco on the first leg of their journey from Seattle to Panama and the South Sea.

Blum and Miranda plan to sail into every part of the world in quest of adventure and education. They expect to cover 100,000 miles before their return.

The crew includes a pilot, sea-man, cook and a mascot, a little homeless dog they rescued from a Seattle pound and which has been christened Sally.

To Land of Head Hunters

The first leg of the journey will be to Panama and from there to the South Seas. One of the first countries to be visited after ar-riving at the South Seas will be New Zealand. Then will come Australia, with its kangaroos, and New Guinea, the wildest place in the world, where head hunters still make raids upon white set-tlers.

Japan, China and Singapore next will be visited. A short run up the Malay peninsula and they will reach Burma. A run across the bay of Bengal and the Indian ocean, the Nomad will pick up the Gulf of Aden. Then through the Red Sea and the Suez Canal, un-der auxiliary power and these young sea rovers will find them-selves at Port Said, "the wicked-est city in the world."

After a lazy cruise through the Mediterranean and stops along the Atlantic coast of Europe, the No-mad will point her nose out into the Atlantic on the last lap of the trip.

The young globe girdlers will carry a complete motion picture outfit. They also expect to study the philosophies and customs of the lands they visit. Miranda, a writer, will chronicle the events of the five-year journey in story form.

Carries Radio

The Nomad is 13.5 feet in beam and six feet in draft and aboard will be a motor boat to enable them to reach inlets and rivers into which the larger craft could not enter. She will have two radio transmitting receiving sets for both 600 meters and short wave with which to keep in touch with the world. Other equipment in-stalled includes a 2 1/2-kilowatt, 32-volt electric lighting plant; an auxiliary system and an oil stove; an ice machine and other equip-ment that will give the voyagers all the comforts of home.

The yacht is comfortably ar-ranged. Forward is the chain locker, forecabin and modern con-veniences. Aft of this is the guest's stateroom on the star-board side, with the galley on the port side. Aft of this and across the vessel is the main cabin, radio shack and a bathroom.

All of the engine room is a cabin fitted up as a library, salon, and literary workshop, with typewriter, filing cabinets and fire-proof motion picture film locker.

Wisner Farmer Takes Own Life

Wisner, Neb., April 9—Otto S. Koehler, 50, who Saturday made an unsuccessful attempt to hang himself, yesterday afternoon ended his life by swallowing strychnine while near a hay stack on his farm near Wisner.

During the past two years, Koehler had threatened several times to kill himself. Last Saturday he attempted to hang himself in a tree in the farm yard, but his daughter saw him and cut the rope. Koehler is said to have become irritated and to have thrown a ladder at his daughter.

Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, Koehler was seen about the farm. His body was found two hours later.

Eleven years ago, Koehler's 14-year-old son, after being whipped by his father, hanged himself. Since then the father has brooded over the boy's tragic death, and this is the only motive that can be ascertained for Koehler's act.

A. G. Sexton, sheriff of Cumming county, and County Attorney R. Moody, both of West Point, were summoned. After a short investigation, they announced an inquest would not be necessary as it was a plain case of self-destruction.

Koehler is survived by six children, the youngest being 9 years old.

No funeral arrangements have been announced.

World Record Cow Is In Nebraska

Lincoln, Neb.—The greatest living cow in the world is at the North Platte experiment station of the University of Nebraska. She is Beauty Girl Gerber Reckley and for the past three milking periods, 1,125 days, she has averaged 10 gallons of milk each day. This is as much as 10 average cows produce.

Experts estimate that she could be the foster mother of an entire village. Ten gallons of milk would provide close to 175 babies' bottles full of milk enough for the baby population of a large village. It would fill the milk bottles on 40 doorsteps and would serve a glass of milk to 160 customers of a cafe.

If separated, the cream would cream coffee cups for more than 100 patrons and the surplus could be churned into butter for two slices of toast to go with each cup of coffee. Then the skim milk would feed 12 calves, 20 pigs or 300 hens.

What Is an Education?

(Literary Digest.)

Am I getting an education? We have all asked ourselves that question at one time or another. Sherwood Eddy uses it as the title of a recently published symposium (Doubleday, Doran) on the methods, purposes and results of American colleges and universities, which are now undergoing such searching criticism. Geo. A. Coe, veteran educator of Northwestern university, Union Theological seminary, and recently retired from teachers' college, is convinced that a good education is education for good living. "What an absurdity it would be to certify as well-educated a youth who has never been socially awakened—well-educated, yet negligible as far as social well-being and social progress are concerned," Mr. Eddy concludes his symposium on "Am I Getting an Education?" with Dr. Coe's "10 points," by which a truly educated man can be detected. Originally published in Dr. Coe's book entitled "What All Our Youth" (Scribner's), these 10 points are worth reconsideration:

1. An educated man is one who is trained to use the tools of human intercourse with readiness, precision and accuracy. We mean, especially, language and the rudiments of number.

2. An educated man must be able to study and to think without guidance from others. He must be —to some extent—a thinker, not a mere imitator.

3. An educated man must have sufficient knowledge of nature to understand the main processes upon which human life and happiness depend.

4. An educated man knows enough of history to enable him to understand the main achievements of man.

5. An educated man is acquainted with the major resources for intellectual and esthetic enjoyment. He knows nature, literature, music, and the other arts sufficiently to choose superior to inferior enjoyments.

6. An educated man is marked by his interests as well as by his trained abilities. His attention is habitually attracted by significant rather than trivial objects, events, pursuits and enjoyments.

7. An educated man must have not only this general culture, but also training for a specific occupation. Focalized activity that is directed toward some sort of efficiency has to be included.

8. An educated man must have toward his fellows the habitual attitudes that are commonly called ethical—such attitudes as honor and honesty, helpfulness and good-will and co-operation.

9. An educated man must have loyalties to at least some of the important organizations and institutions of society, such as one's family, one's country, one's church.

10. If there is an inclusive meaning in life, the sort of education that I have been outlining should include some apprehension of, and feeling for, the divine; the ideally educated man will reverence God, and know how to worship.

To determine whether your education is still alive and growing, and not a dead and finished thing, Sherwood Eddy suggests answering the following questions:

"1. Am I learning to study and to think?"

"2. Am I getting the knowledge that I need most? Am I learning to enjoy things that are most worth while. Am I acquiring esthetic appreciation of the significant values of life?"

"3. Am I living in the real world or in a corner apart? Am I learning to live, by living now; by acquiring some vital knowledge of the world and its real problems, by actually facing them and beginning to try to solve them now? Or am I evading or postponing life, playing about with its trifles in a thoughtless and unreal academic world?"

"4. Am I progressing, standing still, or going backward?"

Relatives Dine For Birthday

J. S. Carhart Who Was 80 Years Old Friday, Has Been in Wayne Since 1915.

J. S. Carhart of Wayne, was 80 years old Friday, April 5, and in honor of the occasion he and Mrs. Carhart entertained Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Carhart, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Carhart and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Carhart at dinner that evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Carhart were pioneers of near Mapleton, Iowa, many years ago. Together they worked and saved and are now enjoying the rewards of their industry. Both are active and always find something to keep them busy about their home. Mrs. Carhart is two years younger than Mr. Carhart.

The Carharts lived in Mapleton a number of years after retiring from the farm, and they came to Wayne in 1915.

There are three sons in the Carhart family, C. E. Carhart and A. B. Carhart of Wayne, and Dr. E. C. Carhart of Los Angeles, Calif.

You've had him long enough - NOW I WANT HIM!

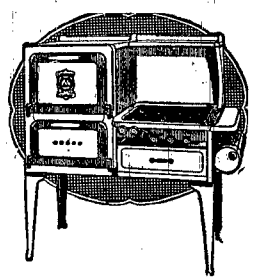

THE girl suddenly faced her hostess. "I can't stand it any longer," she cried—"all this sneaking and lying and deception. Dan and I love each other. He's been your husband long enough. Now I want him!"

The older woman, deathly pale, turned to her husband. "She's right," he said. "There's no use trying to hide it any longer. You are my wife, Dan, and I love you as a companion. But I love Marie—the other way."

So this was her reward for sacrificing the best years of her life to other home and family. First her son, then her daughter—were swept headlong to disaster by the modern diet of jazz. And now her husband yields to the sirens lure of a girl whose kisses must prove as deadly as a viper's sting! What had she, his wife, to offer against the lure of soft, red lips, against the seductiveness and passion of youth? What should she do?

Like Wild Horses Being Broke To Work So has Coleman removed danger and fear with pressure gas cookers. Yes, Coleman has built a cooker that harnessed gas and insured its owner the hottest, quickest, cleanest and safest cook stove.

The first automobile was only an inspiration compared with the car of today. So it was with Coleman cookers. Many people looked upon them with fear. Others bought. Some learned how to run them with little or no trouble. Others had to call for help. Even the first models were not dangerous. They never caused a fire.

Now let us tell you folks the Coleman cookers of today are the stoves that work every time you hitch 'em up. There is no smoke, no smell, no coal or ashes, nothing in the world but a hot, clean flame.

The full enameled models are beautiful and so easy for the wife to keep 'em looking better than all the rest of the kitchen. We have these Coleman wonders in all models priced from $129.00 to $28.50.

We will place one in your kitchen to try for a day or two. We are anxious to show you how these new jobs perform. Just the thing for hot weather and good the year round. We know you will like them with such low operating cost. Step in and see them now on display.

The Every Pupil Tests Are Given Wayne School Students Wednesday

Declamatory and Music Contests Are Conducted in Wayne—Other News of Week

Every Pupil tests, given throughout the country under auspices of the college at Emporia, Kan., were taken by students in the Wayne high school Wednesday. English, algebra, geometry, physics, Latin and typewriting were the subjects on which Wayne pupils wrote. Papers will be sent to Emporia for correction and marking.

One of the six subdistrict declamatory contests was held here at the high school Wednesday afternoon and evening. Dick Fanske and Harriet Chaven represented the Wayne school in this. Winners meet at the college here April 18.

Wayne high school debating team, accompanied by Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis and P. W. Maynard, went to Norfolk Thursday for practice contests. Dorothy Davis, Irol Whitmore and Dick Fanske upheld the affirmative of the state question in the afternoon. No decision was given. Dorothy Davis, Irol Whitmore and Jeannette Lewis had the negative of the question in the evening and decision of three Norfolk judges gave the debate unanimously to Norfolk. Norfolk and Hartington complete in Wayne for district title this Friday.

The last of the series of history pictures was shown Thursday.

Six-week examinations started last Thursday and will be completed this Friday. Six weeks of school remain in the term.

Mrs. A. H. Hahn in his address at the district convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs at Plattsmouth last week Wednesday said the following in part: "Every generation registers the virtues of former generations, but in this age we talk about it so much that it may bring on a revolt."

The increased amount of lawlessness, the speaker said, may be attributed to many things. He gave as a scientific explanation the increased mobility of the population. Control of the home does not function, he said, in a mobile, but in a static home. The young people do not get into trouble in, but away from the home. The modern facilities of travel contribute to the problems, the speaker said.

Schools, he said, are eager to cooperate in character education, but it must begin in the home. A child may be made or broke, he pointed out, in the first two years of his life. Habits are already formed when he comes under the influence of the school.

"Societies must improve the home, he asserted. Pre-kindergarten schools are being established to make up for the deficiencies of the home."

Dean and Mrs. Hahn, Mrs. S. A. Lutgen and Mrs. E. W. Huse went to the convention which was attended by 200 from this section of the state. Dean and Mrs. Hahn returned the same day and the others returned Thursday evening.

Mrs. Lutgen is chairman of music in the district and led community singing in the convention. Mrs. Huse served on the club program committee.

Contest On Weeds For Young Folks

Lincoln, Neb.—A contest for boys and girls under 17 years of age in which $75 in cash prizes is offered for the five best scrap books of weeds kept during the month is being sponsored by the Nebraska Farmer, Lincoln, Nebraska. A common, bad weed is to be described in the Nebraska Farmer each week and the boys and girls who keep the scrap books are to find a specimen of the weed, press it and mount it in the book.

The mounted specimen of the weed will be on a page of the scrap book opposite a page upon which the description and method of eradicating the weed is pasted. The scrap books are being distributed at cost, 15 cents a copy, and the $75 in cash prizes goes to the five boys or girls who have the best scrap books when the contest ends next August. Miss Elva Norris, Nebraska State Seed Analyst, is writing the descriptions of the weeds and will be one of the judges of the contest.

Weeds are said to cost farmers of Nebraska more than $32,000,000 per year and it is hoped that through keeping the scrap books, the boys and girls of the state will familiarize themselves with some of the worst weeds and learn how to eradicate them successfully. Any boy or girl not more than 16 years old is eligible to enter the contest.

Glycerin Mixture Stops Constipation

The simple mixture of glycerin, buckthorn bark, saline, etc. (Adlerika) acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and relieves constipation in TWO hours. Brings out old waste matter you never thought was in your system. Don't waste time with pills or remedies which clear only PART of the bowels, but let Adlerika give stomach and bowels a REAL cleaning and see how good you feel. # "Never a car to compare with this new Buick in power, smoothness and reliability."

This owner's letter—and thousands of others equally enthusiastic—explains why more than 130,000 motorists have bought the new Buick after getting behind the wheel and getting the facts!

Drive a Buick! Compare it with any other car! Then you'll know why it is the automobile for you!

See a demonstration of SKELGAS

SKELGAS is real gas in compressed, bottled form. Come in for a demonstration. Compare all results with those of city gas. In every way, SKELGAS operates exactly the same except that it gives a hotter flame.

The reason? SKELGAS is made from selected parts of natural gas. Only the hottest elements are used. By means of this separation we can concentrate about 375 burner hours supply of Skelgas in each steel cylinder.

Probably you have always wished you could have gas piped to your home. You have wanted the quick, clean heat which only gas can give in kitchen range, water heater or other appliance. You have wanted a cool, clean comfortable kitchen.

SKELGAS brings all these advantages to you. Plan to have Skelgas installed in your home. See a demonstration, pick out the appliances you want, and we can make your installation in short time.

Radiator water boils at 212°F Under heat 3 1/2 times as great—this oil retains its body

DIAMOND 760 MOTOR OIL

MODERN motors, operating at high speeds, at high temperatures, require a heat resisting oil. The new DIAMOND "SEVEN-SIXTY" Motor Oil is tested under a temperature of 760°F. —insuring a wide margin of safety for the working parts of the new high speed, high compression motors. Even at this heat—over 3 1/2 times greater than the temperature at which water boils—evaporation loss is negligible.

DIAMOND "SEVEN-SIXTY" offers you a new degree of safety, of economy, of motor performance. 100% paraffin base, of course. It is a distinctly new and better lubricant—the first of its type on the market. Try it!

It will be based upon the last words of the late S. C. Kopp, "The earth is the Lord's and He will sweep it clean."

Remember the date of the annual church meeting, April 24. Market Report. Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.

Sioux City Stock Yards—Live stock receipts increased around the market circuit this week and the general tendency to the markets was toward lower levels. However, sellers did not have to concede much in the cattle division and strength ruled, occasionally, the lamb market but the hog trade took a severe decline.

The 11 leading markets of the country received 97,500 cattle the first two days of the week, an increase of 29,600 over the same days last week. Local receipts totaled 8,500 on Monday and Tuesday, as against 5,700 and 6,100 a week and year ago.

Receipts were liberal and the bulk was made up of fed steers and yearlings. Buyers made a stand for lower costs but demands proved broad with a good inquiry from shipping interests and the general market rounded out on a steady basis, compared with the close of last week. Some of the short fed grades were draggy and they had to go at slight discounts in most instances.

Quality of the Tuesday run was above the average for most days this season. Bulk of the supply cashed at $12.25@13.50, with numerous sales to $13.85 for all weights from under 800 pounds to above 1,500 pounds. Medium weights ranged to $14.00 and heavier to $14.15, the highest price of the season and since the middle of January. Plain lots sold down to $11.25 and under. Demand was good for well finished light weight heifers and choice heavy cows and the market for these classes remained fully steady. Some of the plainer heifers and cows went at a small reduction with instances of a quarter loss.

Yearling heifers topped at $13.25 with several sales at $11.50@13.00. Koshier material sold at $10.50@11.25 with butcher cows at $7.50@10.25. Canners and cutters ranged at $5.75@7.25. Bulls held a steady basis on the first day of the week but took a quarter decline on the following session with the bulls selling at $8.50@9. The veal market strengthened to top at $13.50 with the practical crest at $13.

Stockers and feeders moved at steady prices. Receipts were moderate and fair demands developed from the country. No choice kinds were included. Bulk of the supply cashed at $10.50@11.75 with a few to $12.50. Cows brought $8.50 and down, and heifers up to $11 and above.

Hog receipts amounted to 197,600 at the 11 leading markets, 37,400 more than the same days last week and 37,500 more than the corresponding period a year ago. This was the first time since the second week of January that receipts have shown an increase over a year ago on the first two days of a week.

The hog market opened strong on a few hogs to shippers, Monday, and then closed fully a quarter lower to packers with practically the entire run selling at one price, $11. A few hogs sold up to $11.15 on Tuesday with the bulk under $11, mostly at $10.75@10.85. Sows brought $4.25@10.35 and stags from $10 down. Pigs were quoted to $11 with a good kind at $10.50 and less.

Increased receipts and narrow demands from order buyers gave packers the opportunity to break the market. A large number of "directs" that had been purchased from the producer in the country were at various markets, Monday, and this aided the packers in carrying out their bearish program.

Sheep receipts totaled 109,900 at the 11 main markets on Monday and Tuesday, 3,800 more than a week ago. The lamb market was steady to a quarter higher, Monday, and the top reached $17.25 on the late trade. However, the strength was wiped out on the following day.

Local News. Miss Helen Inman of Omaha, spent the week-end with Miss Genevieve Kingston here. Mrs. Jack Miller of Norfolk, spent Saturday here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Lewis. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kingston and nephew, Calvin Bones, spent Sunday in the H. J. Bones home at Allen.

Jazz Takes Rank With Folk Music of Europe

HENRIETTA KAMERN

Henrietta Kamern, Organizer, Thinks Our Music Patrician

New York City.—Modern American music is not a changing, an ugly duckling left on the doorstep of the twentieth century. The new rhythm is of patrician pedigree, tracing its origin back to the very sources of the earliest music.

This is the opinion of Miss Henrietta Kamern, whose interpretation of jazz on the organ has won her such recognition in musical circles that she has been engaged by a large theatrical syndicate to direct a new school of organ playing.

Coming from a family of Russian musicians with musical ancestors on both maternal and paternal sides as far back as the family history has been traced, and that is over one thousand years—Miss Kamern speaks with authority. "The modern rhythm is a legitimate evolution of the music of the ages," she declares. "Its new aspect lies in the fact that it is not written down—that it requires a further step in musical imagination to play it."

"Good jazz will written demands far more ingenuity in the playing than do the majority of the classics. It is a music in which there is life and which the player must actually feel to properly interpret."

"Mamma's Grown Young, Papa's Grown Old," is real jazz, which many of the so-called legitimate players could not possibly interpret. In consequence this type of dance music has received severe criticism.

"Lyrics of the type that emulate modern slang which 'Mamma's Grown Young, Papa's Grown Old' does, have been called vulgar, whereas in reality they are nothing but the every day expressions of modern youth, and the people who condemn these lyrics are the very ones who approve operas with satirical lyrics, and all because operas is considered 'classic.' I say it is purely a case of envy when the highbrow musician starts knocking modern music."

"Those musicians who refuse to recognize it as 'legitimate' music are high-hating it simply because they do not know how to play it."

Miss Kamern's mother was the first woman in America to direct a jazz orchestra, and has been featured in a New York Times article in a New York theatre for eleven years.

New Trends Seen in Summer Coats

LONGER CARDIGAN GARMENT OR CAPE COAT WORN BY SMART NEW YORK YOUNG PEOPLE—CAPE COAT NOT HARD TO MAKE

BY HARRIET

TWO new trends in outer garments promise to greatly affect summer styles.

There is, first of all, an increasing popularity of the longer cardigan coat. The short cardigan is still good. But for street wear in lightweight woolsens and heavy silk, the cardigan that makes a smart thing of a jacket and then carries it on down to almost knee length is quite the newest.

This becomes the open coat primarily. For, of course, it has no scarf, has no buttons nor any scarf to hold its left and right sides together. Therefore, being an open coat it has far less responsibility and can merely be a colorful topping to a bright blouse that finishes a suit ensemble.

The Cape Coat

The second trend is toward the cape coat. Cape sleeves, the one-sleeved cape, the back cape and the cape that is almost a long collar in the back and a divided bolero in front are all seen.

The smart trick of the back cape is to either round its lower edge, have its fullness tucked into a standing collar or in some way give a twist, cut or fine seaming to it that makes it just a little cleverer than its sister, the back scarf that hangs nonchalantly, making different lines every time it is tied.

Along New York's smart streets many examples of both of these new trends are seen. There is the lightweight, unlined kasha long cardigan, the jersey cardigan, the more formal but still unlined broadcloth one. One of the latter was in black and its gored skirt had a tuck-in blouse of chateau crepe.

Miss Dorothy Clayton, a society girl, wore a long cardigan suit one day that had a novel sleeve and back cut. The suit was of gray checked kasha. The skirt had box pleats and a yoke. The long cardigan had raglan sleeves that were cut in one with the back and joined by a slot seaming that emphasized the line.

The front facing of the cardigan was shaped from a very narrow banding around the back necking and starting down the original, which slanting shape connected it perfectly with the slanting box pleats of the skirt. The blouse she wore under this suit was pale gray satin. This vogue for satin blouses is perhaps a spring style that will not last the summer. That is to say, while satin blouses are always a bit more elegant and dressy than crepe-de-chine or georgette, they are seldom as easy to launder and that is the summer problem, of course.

Three Separate Capes. Miss Cornelia Grant wears an ensemble of what is smart in the cape coat. It is an Oxford cloth suit with the long coat made with three separate capes. One tops either sleeve. The third swings from a straight across back yoke, to make a cute back bolero. The sleeve capes are quite full, set in with the sleeve itself, and hang below the elbow. The effect when walking is peculiarly graceful, with a rhythmic swinging in tune with the wearer's steps.

This type coat is excellent as an extra coat made of silk for summer. Of black, brown or navy blue, it would be exceptionally dressy. Very practical, and not hard to make. It has no fitting that is difficult, provided one cuts and sews by pattern. And no choice would be more likely to stay stylish and dressy all summer.

Omaha World-Herald: Once there was a man who grew tired of his wife. That's all, just grew tired of her. He didn't have anything particularly against her. In fact he found it impossible to put his finger on any tangible defect in her. She had stood up mighty well. He admitted that. He didn't hate her, didn't even dislike her. He just grew tired of her. Grew tired of sitting across the breakfast table every morning from the same face, tired of hearing the same voice, of kissing the same lips, of making the same old excuses for the same old reasons.

So he up and left her. He fled, indeed, to a beautiful creature with a stream-line chassis and no brakes. She was a glorious paint job, too, and she didn't rattle anywhere near as much as the old model. As for speed—she had it to spare! Speed was this baby's middle name. And the man, for a week, was hilarious. Then the crash came. He lost his money, his lumbago came back on him and his sinus trouble and that same old button popped off his vest again.

And when he turned for help, aid and succor, as Little Benny says, to his twin-six Playgirl, she snuffed twice, wrinkled her brow under her shining hood, sputtered a couple of times and stalled. She asked him what the bad place did he think she was, an old people's home or a nurse-maid or a what? All the time she was talking she was handing him his hat and cane and looking towards the door of her palatial garage hung with autographed photographs and beautiful underthings. So the man went back to the old model and got down on his knees and went and called himself a fool and was taken back again on his promise to read the story of the prodigal son once a day for two weeks.

You see, the old model had it on the Playgirl in one important respect. She was equipped with shock absorbers, and if there is anything in this world that a man needs every so often it is somebody who can help him absorb shocks. A wife can do that. A wife will do that. She may not have all the speed in the world, the varnish may be rubbing off in spots and her engine may rattle more or less incoherently once in a while, but get her on a rough road, a bumpy road, a road with ruts and holes and cruelly jagged rocks and you can't equal her in a thousand years.

McCormick-Deering Corn Planters

Imagine counting kernels from your right hand to your left hand—one, two, three and drop them—one, two, three and drop them—you can do that repeatedly until it became strictly mechanical, and drop three kernels every time with unerring accuracy, yet you can do it scarcely more accurately than the mechanism under the McCormick-Deering 100 Series planter or drill hopper will do it. By cunning devices the seed is herded, one kernel to a cell (in edge or flat-drop plates, two, three or four to a cell in full hill-drop plates) carried to the discharge opening and released to the seed channel in the boot, where the unique and smoothly working valve arrangement holds it until the proper time to release it to the soil.

A Sure-Shot Variable Drop

Earlier inventors probably thought they had attained the ultimate when they had devised a machine that would put two, three or four kernels in the ground in checked rows with a fair degree of accuracy. But to be able to regulate, instantly, the amount of seed which would be accurately counted out to the discharge channel was unthought of. Today, the particular grower demands this feature and it has been worked out in the McCormick-Deering planter in a simple, practical manner, which gives the user his choice of two, three or four kernels in checked hills, or one of three variations of drilling distance, with the same seed plate. A mere shifting of the foot lever (without stopping the planter) does the trick.

Built-in Power Hill-Drop

On most planters it is necessary to order special equipment when it is desired to bunch-drop drill. On the McCormick-Deering check-row planter a very simple change in one of the clutch members converts the planter into a power hill-drop drill for bunch dropping. This additional feature gives the McCormick-Deering planter, as regularly equipped, a wider range of adjustments than is to be found on any other planter.

Explanation

We often hear this expression from our many customers: "How can you do such beautiful work and give such wonderful service at these remarkably low prices?"

Now, folks, we are going to continue this sale for sixty days, until June first, and if the volume of work justifies these low prices we will make them the standard prices.

If there is not a sufficient volume of work we will, after the sixty days, return to our old prices. So bring in your work and plenty of it, and often. We can take care of all you can bring us with our modern machinery and efficient workers.

Good News! We are discovering that washing clothes in gasoline is no longer necessary. We are now using a standard solvent and there is no longer danger of your clothing being burned up while in the cleaning.
