NEIGHBORLY AID EVIDENCES TRUE SPIRIT OF FARM

THE spirit which prompts farmers to help an unfortunate neighbor, has often elicited favorable comment as evidence of sympathetic concern and helpful fellowship. During the past week two examples of organized aid have been reported. In each case a farmer had suffered misfortune and was behind in his spring work. Instead of holding aloof and feeling comfortable in their places of advantage, neighboring farmers joined hands and overcame the handicaps. Such wholesale expressions and substantial friendship, such acts of practical Christianity, would probably never be found in large centers of population where apparently each inhabitant is looking out for himself and cares not a pipayune for any one else.

Wayne Kiwanis Is Happy Host

Hartington Men are Guests of Local Organization at Noonday Luncheon Monday.

Speeches Are Made

J. C. Nuss and J. H. Kemp, Wayne Kiwanians, Stress Fellowship Developed by Club.

Citizens of Hartington who contemplate the organization of a Kiwanis club at that place, attended the noonday luncheon of the Wayne club at Hotel Stratton Monday, and a program of speeches of special interest to the guests was presented. The visitors were: J. O. Robinson, A. J. Lammer, G. E. Ready, H. E. Burkett, R. C. Smith and D. E. Ewing. Attendance of local Kiwanians was nearly one hundred per cent.

The first speaker introduced by President William Beckenhauer was Joseph C. Nuss, one of the live wires of the Wayne club, and the way he traced the benefits of the organization made a hit with both visitors and townpeople. He poured enough salt into his remarks to make them delightful and palatable. He said if there were any factions over religious, political or social differences in Wayne at an earlier period they had been wiped out largely through the fellowship encouraged by the Kiwanis club. The organization had brought people in close social contacts and developed understanding and warm friendships. He pointed out that people are not so devilish or so disagreeable as a distant view sometimes suggests. Touching shoulders is important to make people tolerant and affable and mutually helpful, and a Kiwanis club operates to that advantage, making for better and more constructive citizenship. Members regarded the speech the best one Joe ever made, and he never made one that required any apology.

J. H. Kemp, another stalwart of the local club, was presented next, and he told of the things that had been done to promote good feeling and substantial cooperation. Making plans with mutual understanding gives strength to worthy purposes, he pointed out. Mr. Kemp called attention to the following objects of the Kiwanis organization: "To give primacy to the human and spiritual rather than to the material values of life. "To encourage the daily living of the Golden Rule in all human relationships. "To promote the adoption and the application of higher social, business, and professional standards. "To develop, by precept and example, a more intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship. "To provide through Kiwanis clubs, practical means to form enduring friendships, to render altruistic service, and to build better communities. "To cooperate in creating and maintaining that sound public opinion and high idealism which make possible the increase of righteousness, justice, patriotism, and good will."

F. O. Robinson of Hartington, spoke in behalf of the guests and expressed appreciation of Wayne's hospitality and helpful interest. C. M. Craven, president of the Wayne County club, advised that free use of the golf course here would be granted to Hartington players while their ground is being repaired and put in shape for use.

DIVORCE RECORD SHOWS DECREASE FOR THIS STATE

A REPORT from the department of commerce at Washington giving comparative statistics concerning marriages and divorces in Nebraska shows that 9,932 marriages were performed in this state during 1928 as compared with 9,820 during 1927. During 1928, 1,538 divorces were granted in Nebraska as compared with 1,620 in 1927. In Wayne county the report gives 72 marriages in 1928 and 58 in 1927. Two divorces were granted here in 1928 and nine in 1927. The record is generally encouraging. ### INITIAL TALKING PICTURE APPEARS AT GAY THEATRE

THE phenomenal talking pictures, introduced a few years ago in metropolitan centers, were presented for the first time in Wayne the first of the week. Having decided that his new Gay theatre should lag behind none anywhere in latest show attractions, Manager E. E. Gailey closed down for a few weeks, transferring business to the Crystal, and installed the necessary vitaphone equipment.

Harmonizing sound with moving pictures is a delicate operation, and many little adjustments are required to bring satisfactory results. Persisting to develop finest accord in dialogue and action, Manager Gailey improved the product with each succeeding trial until the final showing of the first attraction was pronounced a gratifying success.

Adjustments having been made, with synchronization, as known in theatre circles—reaching perfection, the vitaphone addition to the Gay will now go forward triumphantly. It places the Gay in the front rank as a center of latest creations.

Two large electric service corporations are fighting for business in a number of north Nebraska towns, and the result is a substantial reduction in rates to consumers. Users of electric service are doubtless praying to have the battle continue.

Children of a few years ago are now being graduated from high schools and colleges, and are ready for productive service on the basis of knowledge and judgment which they have developed. We wish them the strength and courage to make the best and most wholesome use of swiftly passing time.

A lawyer who is trying to give honest service and to be a credit to his profession, is a valuable asset to any community. To him, people in doubt may go for counsel, or in trouble, may go for aid. He has a large field for usefulness, and his reward in both dollars and popular esteem is liberal and certain. On the contrary, the lawyer without conscience—the one who puts more emphasis on trying to help clients than on trying to help them, is a menace to society. He is more dangerous than tricksters in most other walks of life because his profession commands respect and invites confidence.

Sunday's World-Herald devoted a page to Ross Hammond of Fremont, who has returned to Nebraska after spending ten years in California, and who is still going at high speed notwithstanding the fact that he is nearing his seventieth year. He was editor of the Fremont Tribune for many years, always prominent and influential in Nebraska politics. He liked the southwest coast, but he has returned to Fremont to engage in banking, and his friends there and elsewhere in the state are glad he has come back. We are glad to note that advancing years have not slowed down his activities or dulled his interest in public affairs. Keeping up steam and continuing useful and productive habits give powerful aid to longevity.

After careful survey, President Hoover's committee, chosen to look into economic conditions, reports underlying stability and an unprecedented advance in living standards. The report points out that if balance is maintained between production and consumption, nothing will hinder continuance of healthy progress. The report suggests the need of avoiding waste and dangerous speculation.

TO LEAD ARMY.

"Gen." Coxe who marched on the city of Washington at the head of an army of idle men thirty-five years ago, has announced his intention to repeat the performance this year, going by automobile instead of on foot. He explained his plan in Chicago this week. He proposes to do some preliminary agitating, believing he can then find enough idle and discontented people to make up a sizable and impressive army. Spring work is rapidly absorbing the unemployed, and if the "general" expects to arouse encouraging interest in his cause, he will have to start soon and work fast. Coxe's army of unemployed had more reason thirty-five years ago than it has now to march on Washington and demand relief legislation. Then Coxe wanted free silver. Now he says he wants congress to legalize issuance of money for community purposes backed by non-interest bearing bonds. With conditions entirely different from what they were when he headed for Washington before, he is likely to find comparatively little support. Currency in circulation now contrasts sharply with that thirty-five years ago. Live stock markets may not be high enough, but they are higher than any one in 1894 ever dreamed they would become. Wages may be too low, but they are princely compared with a dollar a day thirty-five years ago. Coxe is now 75 years old, and if he has no more reason to stir up discontent than now seems apparent, he would do well to avoid needless excitement and save his strength.

The conclusion is that economically we have a boundless field before us," says the report. "There are new wants which will make us ever restless for new wants as fast as they are satisfied. We have the power to produce and the capital to bring about the exchange between producing and consuming groups. We have communication to spread and spread the influence of ideas. We have the science and arts to help us. We have a great national opportunity.

The senate has passed a farm relief bill containing the defensible plan to which the president is opposed, and with which the house will probably not agree. It is hoped the two houses will be able to forget partisan and other differences long enough to get together on a measure that will not hurt even if it does not help farming communities, and thus dispose of a subject, employment of which has oppressed farm values and damaged a fundamental industry. In the meantime, farmers are busy getting ready to raise another crop, and with right proportions of moisture and sunshine, expectations will be realized, and plenty and prosperity will prevail with or without the aid of Washington legislation. From congress we will gladly accept any action that will help agriculture, but a large measure of credit for satisfactory results will justly go to favorable weather and to the farmer's energy and judicious planning.

The Baptist college at Des Moines had a blow-up Saturday when the president and all other members of the faculty were hissed on order of the board, and when, in protest, an army of students threw eggs and threatened other violence until the police arrived to insure protection and order. It appears that too many modernist ideas were allowed to circulate to merit the approval of the board. It was charged that one dean read selections from a hymnal in conflict with purest fundamentalism and that another professor made six indiscreet utterances tending to assault original beliefs. Whether these six utterances were said in quick succession or whether they were scattered through a long period of time, the report does not state. Whether less than six such utterances would have slipped by without provoking resentment, we do not know. The nature of these verbal indiscretions is not explained, though it may be assumed that they did not harmonize with literal interpretation of the scriptures. It is evident from the rebellious way students acted that they have been replacing orthodoxy with modernism, and that churches will have to stress logic more and dogmas less to win and hold the present generation.

RESPONSIBILITY.

Newspapers usually modify what they say in order to keep well within the facts, knowing that impetuous spirit cannot be altered and that there is no escape from full responsibility. Sometimes a newspaper withholds facts, believing their publication would do more harm than good. A newspaper with a reputation to maintain, determines the character of its news stories according to its idea of the best public service. With individuals who retail reports or who sometimes circulate damaging gossip, it is different. They feel no legal or other responsibility, and if a story which is repeated, is traced to any source, responsibility is quickly passed from one to another, and an investigation usually makes little satisfactory paper is criticized for giving facts with utmost care, an individual is often guilty of serious indiscretion of speech, but quickly hunts for cover if reaction turns in his direction. Individuals should assume a measure of the care taken by newspapers in stating facts or in withholding circulation of unsupported rumors in order that no unnecessary damage may be done.

Million Dollars Goes to Jail

The legend that it is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for the courts to put a rich man in jail in the United States received a jolt when Harry Sinclair, oil man and millionaire, entered the Washington jail to begin a 90-day term for refusing to answer questions asked by the United States Senate in its investigation of the Teapot Dome oil leases. The camera overcame the handicaps of rain and darkness to get the picture, left, of Sinclair entering the jail. To the right is a typical cell in the jail.

Here's How One Man Can Do Two Men's Work Faster, Cleaner Cultivating
The McCormick-Deering Two-row cultivates two rows in one operation. It cuts in half the time you spend in the field, and releases you for other profitable work that is always waiting. It doubles your effectiveness, because it enables you to do the work of two men in one cultivation. It is the implement you need if you want to do your cultivating in a hurry between rains.
This fine McCormick-Deering is also an easy implement to operate. You can dodge corn stalks and hills with the ease of a single-row machine because the gangs shift in pairs, and because it embodies an ingenious pivoting and locking arrangement that lessens the monotony of the work and makes operation very simple.
You don't need a large acreage of corn to justify the purchase of a McCormick-Deering two-row cultivator. About the most expensive item on a farm nowadays is labor. One man on a McCormick-Deering two-row will do as much work as two men with single-row cultivators. If you hire help, a two-row will cut your cultivating costs in two. If you do the work yourself, you can get it done in just one-half the time and you will be able to get your cultivating out of the way for other things which are sure to be crowding in.

Lovely Fabrics, New Tones Offered for The Bridal Costume This Year!!!

BY HARRIET

SPRING days make the June bride's fancy seriously turn to thoughts of her wedding gown.

She has dreamed so long of that day of days, that it is likely that she knows exactly the kind of wedding dress she wants.

It doesn't have her mind made up, it may be a delightful but, difficult task to decide. For there are such lovely fabrics, such gracious styles and such diversity in fashions that it takes serious consideration to make a decision.

Wedding gowns this season may be classic satin, chiffon, lace, moire, flat crepe, mousseline de soie, batiste or even organdie. It all depends on whether her wedding is formal or informal, at home, in the garden or the church.

New Tones

Off-white tones are a little newer for bridal gowns than dead white. Off-white also blends beautifully with the pastel colored frocks of the bridesmaids. It may be a creamish shade, pinkish or even a real egg-shell off-white.

Most wedding gowns have come type of molded silhouette. Perhaps a real princess gown may be becoming. It certainly is stylish. Or, the bride may choose to have her wedding gown slightly fitted to the body, with manipulation, tiers, panels or ruffles making an intricate thing of the skirt.

Sleeves are in again, though they may be long and tight or elbow length, the type of sleeve that no modish woman has favored for a couple of decades.

Trains are especially good this year, with cute little side trains dipping unevenly on the more informal frocks and real long court trains trailing their regal beauty behind the formal gowns that will adorn church weddings.

Necklines Vary

Necklines should suit the bride's face. The shallow but wide out is very good. Round necks have a way of giving a modest look to the bride. Square necklines should be wide but, quite shallow in front and back both.

Lace finds a place in many bridal gowns this year. One beautiful gown has a pointed lace yoke that drops over to form cap sleeves to the long satin sleeves. Another chiffon gown has lace round yoke, deep cuffs and a ounce under the lower tier of chiffon.

The bride who inherits her mother's or grandmother's wedding veil is a lucky girl. For nothing enhances a wedding gown's beauty more than a rich, luxurious old lace veil. Tulle can be used in place of lace. All wedding veils should come to the skirt's ends in the back. The cape veil is good but even this dips in the back to trail on the floor.

Charming Caps

The season presents some charming versions of caps to hold wedding veils. The little Dutch cap of lace or pearls is very sweet when the veil flows over from under it in profusion.

Two wedding outfits are shown today which are quite different. One is off-white satin, from Frances Clyde, made with unusual circular cut to the skirt which gives the impression of three tiers, the left side and back trailing in regal beauty. The neck is round, the sleeves long and rather simple, with mitt cuffs. A single ornament of pearls catches the side of the skirt's drape. The lace veil makes its own cap, caught with orange blossoms at both sides.

The other wedding gown is very new, a princess gown of fine double chiffon, made long enough to touch the floor all around. It has a bateau neck and its sleeves are tight to the elbow, but open and flow clear to the floor. The veil falls from a net cap, edged in pearls.

New Rural School Is Presented Plate at Program on Wednesday of Last Week.

The school in district 11 has been standardized and is the fourth in Wayne county to be so designated. The school is located two and one-half miles west and five miles south of Winside. A school must fulfill certain requirements in equipment before it is designated as standard.

The district 11 school is 28 by 36 feet with 12-foot ceiling. The regular class room is 27 by 27 feet. There are four windows on

Otto Miller gave a history of the district which was organized in 1878 and consisted then of a whole township of thirty-six sections. Some of the finishing lumber for the first building, the one which was just replaced, was brought from Ponca but most of the material was obtained at Winside. One of the first teachers in the district, Mrs. Minnie Saase Mason, now of Norfolk, was present at the program and gave a short talk. Stop Farm Wastes— Add Them to Your Profits

WHEN stock breaks through a run down fence you not only lose part of your crop but you stand to lose valuable animals through injury or gorging. Such losses would pay for enough Red Top posts to strengthen up the weak spots in your fence lines and prevent such losses.

Corn the pickers overlook, small grains scattered in the stubble field, grain hauled or blown down are other losses that can be prevented by hog and stock tight fences around your fields. Then hog and stock could be turned in to salvage this grain. And farm animals killed through wandering on the highways are serious losses that would pay for many rods of good fencing.

All these losses can be turned into profits by good fences. Erect them on Red Top posts for long useful fence service. Keep several bundles of Red Tops on your farm for replacing rotting wood posts and strengthening your present fence lines. Or to erect needed temporary fence. Red Tops drive so easily that you can do this work in odd times.

Red Top Steel Fence Posts

Come in and let us tell you how easy it is to arrange your fences so you can earn the extra income that you can get in the form of increased yields per acre, more money for crops sold on the hoof, increased soil fertility and farm value per acre, labor saved through harvesting crops with hogs and stock.

Lincoln, Neb.—Ten years have made thirteen gallons difference in the average milk consumption of an American, says the state-federal statistician. The mythical "average person" also eats three pounds more butter, one more of cheese, two pounds more condensed milk and half a gallon more of ice cream than he did in 1919. Better wages and better appreciation of food values are believed to be responsible for the change. German economic studies attribute American health and prosperity to temperate eating of wholesome foods and have resulted in educational campaigns along these lines throughout Germany.

County Must Pay For Flood Damage
Lincoln, Neb.—Action of the district court of Cedar county which denied Aaron B. Clark, farmer, damages from the county when flood waters were thrown on and destroyed crops because of the elevation of the highway next to his land, was reversed in supreme court. The county rendered itself liable for damages, the high court holds, when it elevated the road above the land of Clark to prevent its being flooded. In years past the flood waters had flowed across the road and this formed a natural drainage for water.

Coming Attraction Heart-Throb Story

"The Trail of '98," the great northern film epic to be shown at the Gay theatre May 19, 20 and 21, is proving to be to the north what "The Covered Wagon" was to the west, "The Birth of a Nation" to the south, and "Way Down East" to the eastern states and their inhabitants. "The Trail of '98," was directed by Clarence Brown for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and is based on the celebrated Robert W. Service story of the Klondike gold rush in 1898. Though set in spectacular surroundings, in a background of such grandeur and immensity that it almost dwarfs humanity, the plot is so dramatic and emotionally touching that it stands out supreme, yet it is but a simple love story of a boy and girl and their fight for happiness against lust and greed and temptation and the almost insurmountable obstacles of the north. One of the picture's most dramatic scenes is the burning of Dawson City. The leading roles are played by Ralph Forbes, the boy; Dolores Del Rio, the girl; Harry Carey, the villain; Karl Dane, the comic, and Tully Marshall, George Cooper, Tenen Holtz, Cesare Gravina, William Orlamond, Emily Fitzroy, and others.

Hartington Store Sold Last Week
Hartington, Neb.—A business deal was consummated in this city when R. H. Smith, proprietor of the Fair store, purchased the grocery stock and fixtures of the C. R. Davis company. The dry goods stock in the Davis store is being packed and shipped to Randolph where it will be added to stock of his store there. Relief From "Relief." York Republican: Speaking on the farm bill in the House a few days ago, Congressman Chas. H. Sloan remarked: "I have sympathy for the farmers wherever they may be who have been unsuccessful or unfortunate from whatever cause. For that reason I am sympathetic with this piece of legislation. It will give at least one form of relief, and that is relief from farm relief legislation that we have heard so much about in the last few days." It will indeed be a blessing to have "quit relief" enacted into law and quit talking about it. The whole thing has belittled agriculture. It has made cringing supplicants out of many farmers who used to stand squarely on their feet and take the blows of fortune with courage and a smile. It has broken others who have given up under the suggestion that they are broke and did not know it. It has done injury to the nation's greatest industry that will not be easy to repair. The new farm bill, when it is passed, may work, and, again, it may be a failure in getting the economic benefit the friends and beneficiaries of agriculture demand and need. But if it will silence the cry for farm relief and enable people on the farms to go about their daily duties with upward-looking faces and minds free of belittling suggestions of poverty and misdeed, it will be worth all it costs to enact and try it out.

Toward Americanization. Omaha World-Herald: Too often we think of Americanization as just becoming like an American in habits, customs and speech. These attainments are superficial. As a matter of fact Americanization is of the spirit. To read and write English is necessary. To pass an examination on the constitution is commendable. But the essential thing in Americanization is to get together through common experience. America is a composite land having many lines of cleavage—national, economic, religious and cultural. It is only along the cultural lines that we in reality get together. Our foreign groups could not come in at all unless drawn into a common cultural interest. Tonight 10 nationalities join in presenting a folk art program at the City Auditorium. This is an opportunity for the common enjoyment of something fine, and true, as the folk arts are. This common enjoyment makes the civic values grow, in time, out of the cultural understanding. Real Americanization builds through weaving the many colored threads of old-world beauty into the fabric of our western world. Each racial color, blending with the next, makes a rich, iridescent cultural pattern. This is what we mean when we say Americanization is of the spirit; and it implies that we must meet on a common ground of beauty, and love of beauty. No citizen, who properly values our responsibility toward our foreign born and their contribution to Omaha, will miss the folk arts festival.

Hard Luck. Dr. A. L. Bixby: Be of good cheer. Count your blessings and you will be astonished at the sum total, and heartily ashamed of your ingratitude. If you imagine your lot a hard one, read this story of the hard luck of Albert Plocher, a Minnesota farmer in the Yellow Medicine country: "Years ago his farm buildings and contents were destroyed by fire. He built new ones and lighting it and his farm machinery. He moved to another farm and again fire destroyed his barn and contents. Then the accidental discharge of a gun caused lockjaw and he had to have one of his legs amputated. He fell from a hayloft and broke the other leg and afterward the leg was injured by the kick of a cow and it too, was amputated. Last year gangrene developed and one hand and part of another have been removed and there have been numerous other operations besides. Recently while Mrs. Plocher was returning to her husband in a Minneapolis hospital, she was struck and injured by a street car." The Literary Digest suggests that science may give us a new religion. But most of the religions we already possess have been used so little they are as good as new—Southern Lumberman.

A Tribute to Scholarship. Lincoln Journal: It was not muscle or brawn, or prowess on the athletic field or in social or other campus activities, but scholarship that was honored at the honors convocation held by the University of Nebraska Wednesday evening. The affair was a big one, not comparable with a football game or a track meet, but impressive, nevertheless.

The fundamental purpose of attendance at college is the attainment of an education, the acquiring of knowledge from books and the mastery of ways of applying it. In order to accomplish this purpose the student must study. Scholarship, then, is the thing that should be given great stress. Other activities, however, have run away with the attention of college students until athletic events and social activities demand a great deal of time and attract the most attention. With this situation in mind it is gratifying to know that five thousand persons paid tribute to scholarship at the university the other night. True a sort of an attendance drive was necessary to bring out such a number but it was not as forceful as a football rally or aggressive as a membership or ticket selling campaign. Most of those who attended were happy to show their respect for their friends or fellow organization members who had achieved honor in scholarship.

The honor roll was impressive. A number of scholarships were awarded, and the cups and keys given for exceptional ability in various lines were presented. Senior and other students were recognized for their superior or high scholarship and social studies organizations were recognized for high scholarship.

On the whole, it is gratifying to know that such an interest in scholarship exists. So much has been said about the stress laid on athletes that the person not closely in touch with student affairs might be led to believe that class rooms had been abandoned for stadiums, field houses and dance halls. This event helps to correct this impression.

School in Michigan Has One Family And Teacher Lives at Pupils' Home

MISS BEULAH BERLIN, of Iron River, Mich., teacher in the McPherson school, 26 miles from here, gives all six of her pupils individual attention. For they all come from one family and she lives with the family.

Henry McPherson, father of the children, is almost like a feudal baron of old. The county maintains a school for his children only; the township this year is building a road which will aid him more than any other individual; the nearest town, Kenton, is seven miles away and the nearest neighbor about four miles distant. In all that district he rules.

Like a Private Tutor. The pupils, who go to school with teacher and return home with her, are Rosalie, first grade; Dorothy, fourth; Florence, fifth; George and Henry, seventh, and Chester, eighth.

There are some advantages for both teacher and pupil in this remote school house. The children have their teacher with them all the time and when they are bothered with some problem of their "home-work" all they need do is turn to Miss Berlin and they get individual attention—at home!

For the teacher, there are only two visits a year from the superintendent of schools and she always knows when he's coming. No chance of being caught unprepared! Roads out McPherson way are such that traffic is stopped when snow comes and remains that way until after the road is dried again in the late spring.

Miss Berlin is her own supervisor and superintendent.

The McPhersons, residents of the farm since it was homesteaded about 30 years ago, have hewed out a "Home, Sweet Home," to them. The farm, although far removed from the usual line of traffic during winter, is often visited in the summer months.

Trapping Helps. Farming, trapping and "just living" make up the routine at the McPherson home. During the winter, trapping has proven a lucrative enterprise. The McPherson area is not disturbed by the invasion of hunters, and as a result abounds in small wild life. Often as much as $1000 has been annually added to the McPherson bank account from furs.

The McPherson school has a close competitor in the Paint Lake school, another remote unit of the Iron River township system, which is presided over by Miss Mabel Peterson. She has 11 pupils from two families.

Mrs. S. E. Auker went to Sioux City to accompany one of her sons there for an operation.

J. L. Davis and family went to Blackwell, Okla., to visit a month. They plan to go to Texas.

P. L. Miller returned from Calgary, Canada, where he looked after land he owns there.

Mrs. R. A. McEachen went to Bancroft to visit her father, D. W. Burke, who is critically ill.

Mrs. John Larson of Wakefield, fell from the porch at her home and sustained a broken leg.

William Fuesz of Colorado, and Miss Pauline Schroeder of Hoskins, were married May 16, 1911.

W. R. Hickman, Prof. C. H. Bright and W. D. Redmond.

Fred Helweg of Carroll, received word of the death of his brother-in-law, William Klappier, at Moro, Minn. Mr. Klappier was an early settler in Wayne county. He leaves his wife and several children.

Marriage licenses were issued May 17, 1911, to the following: Edward L. Weible and Miss Meta Wendt of Winside, Rex Santee and Miss Helen Overman of Hoskins, and Hans Delfs and Miss Ella Eastman of Winside.

Milo LaCroix of Ashton, Idaho, formerly of Carroll, suffered a broken leg in a run-away. Mr. and Mrs. LaCroix and baby were driving in a buggy and Mr. LaCroix got out of the vehicle to open a gate. The baby cried and frightened the team and the horses ran. Mr. LaCroix grabbed the lines and in jumping into the buggy one limb was caught in spokes of a wheel and broken.

The "Sucker List." Fairbury News: A good many people, on receiving a circular in the mail advertising a get-rich-quick scheme asked themselves the question: "How did they ever get my name?" You've probably had experience along this line, so it should interest you to know you are not alone in receiving this class of mail. Uncle Sam knows you're getting it, though he may not know who sold your name to the concern that mailed the stuff to you. Sometimes a score of concerns buy the same list to which to mail their literature. The government calls it the "sucker list" because these mail-order stock sharks consider every man on the list a probable "sucker." It is said the names of at least twenty million Americans are on the mailing lists of fake operators. We pride ourselves on being a money-wise race, and yet we are contributing five billion dollars yearly to crooked stock salesmen. Where the salesmen once had to meet his victim face-to-face with his schemes, he now uses the mail, telephone and telegraph. At least fifty gangs are operating in New York, and once your name is secured they peddle it around until they are caught and put out of business, or you have long since passed away. Selling names for mailing lists is getting to be a profitable business in itself, but don't feel honored because yours is among those being peddled. On the other hand, just remember that the men who buy it and address mail to you have you rated as a "sucker." That ought to be reason enough for tossing these alluring get-rich-quick offers into the waste basket or the stove.

"Mr. Hoover never has learned to play," says one of his biographers, and we hope he knows what he is talking about, for we see by the papers that the school children of Florida have just presented the President with a gold harmonica.—New York Evening Post.

It costs very little to recondition a MODEL T FORD

THE Ford Motor Company is making a new car, but it is still proud of the Model T. It wants every owner of one of these cars to run it as long as possible at a minimum of trouble and expense.

Because of this policy and because of the investment that millions of motorists have in Model T cars, the Ford Motor Company will continue to supply parts as long as they are needed by Ford owners.

So that you may get the greatest use from your Model T, we suggest that you take it to the nearest Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of any replacement parts that may be necessary.

You will find this the economical thing to do because a small expenditure now will help to prevent costlier repairs later on, increase the value of the car, and give you thousands of miles of additional service.

For a labor charge of only $2.60 you can have your generator put in first-class condition. A new universal joint will be installed for a labor cost of $3. Overhauling the carburetor costs $1.50; steering gear, $3.50; radiator, $7.50. A complete overhauling of the rear axle assembly runs between $5.75 and $7 for labor. An average price of $22.50 covers the overhauling of the motor and transmission.

These prices are for labor only because the need and number of new parts depend on the condition of each car. The cost of these parts is low, however, because of the Ford policy of manufacturing and selling at a small margin of profit.

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin.

"Mother's Day," now so universally observed, received its first official recognition from a Nebraskan. It is not a legal holiday sanctioned by law, would have been had Hon. Elmer J. Burkett of Lincoln been successful in his efforts. While in the United States senate Mr. Burkett introduced a bill for a law to make the second Sunday in May "Mother's Day." Some senators tried to extract a lot of humor from the suggestion, and others waxed sarcastic because their valuable time was being wasted by the consideration of such bills. The gentleman from Nebraska, however, gave better than he received, and while his bill failed of passage he did win for himself the respect of millions of men and women.

P. M. Whitehead, at one time a leader among the educators of Nebraska, and democratic candidate for superintendent of public instruction in 1914, died in Rochester, Minn., the first of the present month. Mr. Whitehead had retired from the teaching profession and was engaged in farming near McCook.

Nebraska has three living ex-United States senators, Norris Brown and G. M. Hitchcock of Omaha, and E. J. Burkett of Lincoln. Nobody knows how many would-be senators there are in Nebraska.

The oldest bridge of any considerable size in Nebraska is the one across the Republican river, just west of Riverton. It was erected in the days when men builded for "keeps." After 55 years of continued service a span of the old bridge was wrecked a few weeks ago by a truck carrying six or eight tons of iron casing for an oil well. The bridge was erected in 1874, the material being hauled overland from Lowell, Kearney county, the nearest railroad point. The Republican Valley line of the Burlington had not then been constructed, and cattle from the great southwest were still being trailed north and west. Lowell being then a great cattle town, vying with Abilene and Dodge City.

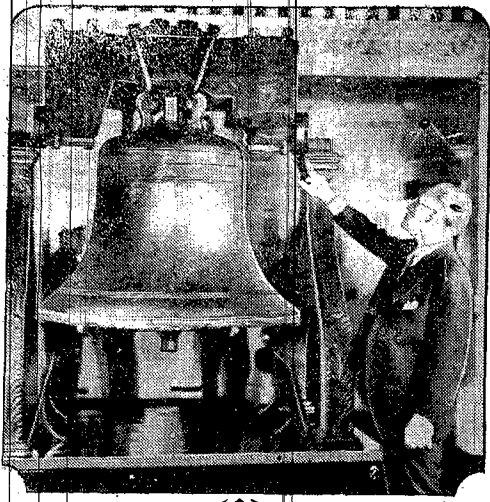

When the Riverton bridge was constructed Nebraska had fewer than half as many counties as now; the present governor was scarcely able to walk, and unable to read until after the new had worn off the bridge; Indian forays were still feared and suffered, and Fort Kearney still a military post; the Custer massacre was still an eventuality of future time, and Grant was still president of the United States. Like the "One Hoss Shay," the old bridge survived through all the years, only to succumb to a lead of pipe for an oil well.

The report that letters are still being received at the state house addressed to "Governor Charles W. Bryan," is easy to believe. It has been 20 years since the writer was connected with "Bryan's Commoner" at Lincoln, but scarcely a week goes by that he does not receive letters addressed to him in care of that long since deceased publication. Once a "canned mailing list" is built up it is seldom corrected.

Ignorance of public affairs and public men is rather astonishing, considering the opportunities for acquiring information. But some people are careless and not at all of an inquiring mind. John Izgrigg was the democratic leader in a northwest Missouri county, and was never known to scratch his ticket or voice opposition to a democratic candidate. One year, however, he created consternation in democratic ranks by openly opposing Jed Hazelbreck, democratic candidate for the legislature. When remonstrated with by democratic neighbors and asked to explain his opposition to Hazelbreck, the old man profanely replied that he'd "be everlastingly dabbered if he'd ever vote for a man who was so blankety-blank ignorant that he spelled Christ with a little k."

It's a bit early to begin political prognosticating, but already the senatorial situation is being given consideration. Some senatorial aspirants—and there are several—lean to the belief that either Senator Norris will not again be a candidate, or if he is there is a possibility of defeating him because of his bolt last year. It is reported that Charles Sloan, now representing the Fourth district, has senatorial ambitions. Mr. Sloan tried conclusions with Senator Norris six years ago and met defeat. Other potential aspirants are ex-Attorney General Spillman, ex-Governor McMullen, ex-Governor McKelvie, and the present state treasurer, William Stebbins. Mr. Stebbins is barred by statute from a third term as treasurer, and under the law can not be a candidate for another state office while serving in one office. The senatorship, however, is not considered a state office. The man elected to the senate is "Senator of the United States from Nebraska." Mr. Stebbins homesteaded in what is now Dawson county, and for many years was in the implement business at Gathersburg. He served three terms in the legislature and was a member of the constitutional convention in 1920.

Representative Morehead of the First district is reported to be looking with longing eyes upon the seat now occupied by Norris, hopeful that Norris' bolt last year will weaken his candidacy and strengthen the democratic candidate. And A. C. Shellenberg is always to be considered.

Astute republican politicians who recognize Norris' strength say that if he is a candidate for re-nomination the only way to defeat him is to center upon some one man and file him for the nomination. If Norris is opposed by two or more candidates in the primaries the result, they admit, will be a cinch for Norris. This is not intended as a political discussion, but it may afford a means of passing away time; it is really a lot of fun to sit around and manipulate the figures on the political chessboard.

C. D. Robinson, former state treasurer, and his bondsmen are called upon to reimburse the state in the sum of $4,738. On taking over the office from his predecessor, D. B. Cropsey, Mr. Robinson accepted four certificates of deposit in the sum of $1,000 each in the First National Bank of Carroll. A few months later the bank went broke. The supreme court held that the deposit was an investment, not a deposit, and Robinson and his bondsmen are required to make good the $4,000, with $783 of interest.

After serving a couple of terms in congress from the Fifth district, A. C. Shellenberg went down to defeat. He came back by being elected governor. Defeated for re-nomination as governor, he came back by being again elected to congress from the Fifth district last fall, he comes back by being given the responsible job of heading the investigation of the banking situation, at a salary of $7,500 a year.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an Order of Sale, to me directed, issued by the Clerk of the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, upon a decree rendered therein at the March 1929 term thereof, in an action pending in said court wherein Ludwig Sonnenberg was plaintiff and Leopold Rehmus, et al were defendants, I will, on the 3rd day of June, 1929 at 10 o'clock a. m., at the door of the office of the Clerk of said Court, in the court house in Wayne, in said county, sell to the highest bidder for cash, the following described real estate, to-wit: Section Thirty Six (36) Township Twenty-five (25) North Range Two (2) and also the East Half of the Southwest Quarter of Section Twenty-five (25) Township Twenty-five (25) North Range Two (2) East of the 6th P. Nebraska Roads.

Nebraska Farmer: Nebraska needs to step out of the mud with some of her sister states. Many have thought we were out, but this spring has convinced them that a road is no better than its worst mudhole. It has brought to light the chief weaknesses of Nebraska's road system and certainly has demonstrated the need for more funds to build and maintain roads properly. One did not need to drive much during March and April to encounter many of those impassable mudholes on supposedly good graveled highways where the traffic had broken through when the spring thaw and rains came, creating deep ruts that left the low hung autos resting on axles, running boards and gear housings. What a mess of mud and misfortune! Anyway, it made a lot of converts to the four-cent gas tax. More money is needed to pave certain sections of highways where soil texture and traffic will not permit them to stand up with gravel. The gravel highways must be maintained and it seems there should be worked out some system for effective limitation of loads which trucks and busses are permitted to haul on our highways.

Legal Notice To Non-Resident Defendant.

Blind Since Her Birth, Woman, 48, Sees World as Land of Wonders

BLIND since birth—48 years—Mrs. Betty Ann Waggoner can now see out of her right eye. In a few days surgeons at Charity hospital, New Orleans, will remove the bandages from her left eye. If the operation on her left eye is as successful as that on the right, the almost miraculous achievement of restoring a totally blind person to full sight will have been completed.

But whether success or failure results from the operation on her left eye, Mrs. Waggoner is happy beyond words. She can now see the birds whose songs she loved. She can see the beauty of landscapes and what were to her the unbelievable inventions that represent the genius of man.

Wants to See Son
But above all, her first desire was to see her son, who is now 19 years old. She thrills at the thought of seeing him within a few days. Her husband has been dead many years.

"I stand now at my window in this hospital," she said, "and see people walking back and forth along the sidewalks. I see automobiles and street cars. I see smoke coming from the chimneys. Oh, how wonderful it all is!"

"And when my son learns that I can now see him he will fly to me. What a wonderful thing it will be to see the face of my son. I can hardly wait!"

When first the light came into her long-dead eyes, Mrs. Waggoner began asking questions that only those youngsters still in swaddling clothes ask. Her nurse was her instructor that first day she went to the window after the sight in her right eye had been still touches people who come to see her and passes her hand over things as if to identify them by the sense of touch.

She was born in Montgomery, Ala.—blind at birth. After she married she went to Colfax, La., to live. Five months ago she became ill. It was the first time in her life she had not enjoyed good health. She went to New Orleans for treatment at Charity hospital.

Hospital doctors who examined her saw the possibility of restoring her sight. Their examination revealed to them that the muscles of the eyes probably had not atrophied from the years of disuse. So, without holding out to her any guarantee that they would succeed, they told Mrs. Waggoner that if she wished to undergo the operation they might be able to restore her sight.

Mrs. Waggoner consented. The operation was performed.

Ecstasy of Seeing
Several days ago the time had arrived for removing the bandage from the eye that had been operated upon. She felt as though she had almost gone into hysteria as she felt how she felt when that bandage was removed.

"My doctor! Redeemer of my sight!" she exclaims. "There he stood before me. I could see him plainly. I cannot tell you just how I felt. My heart alone could tell you if you could but read what's there. He was the first human being I saw. And to me he was like someone sanctified, sent by God to save me from everlasting blindness."

Aside from her wish to see her son, her next greatest desire is to learn to read.

MANY FALL BY THE WAYSIDE AS BIG LEAGUE SEASON GETS GOING—LISKA AND FERRELL LOOK GOOD

BY PHILIP MARTIN

IT'S an old saying that "the flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la, have nothing to do with the case." And the yep who first voiced this statement must have had baseball players in mind.

The major league season is less than a month old, but the number of young fellows about who were raved about plenty in the spring training season is nothing to make whoopee over. A majority, in fact, are back at Waterloo, Ia., or Snodisham, Wash., or else idling on the bench.

The most notorious bloomer of recent years is Jimmy O'Connell, for whom the Giants paid $75,000. He lasted just long enough—well, not even that long. And there was Marty O'Toole, the pitcher who cost the Pirates $22,500 and he was worth just $22,499.89 less than that. In recent years, Paul Eastaring, Bruce Caldwell, Wayland Dean and George Coker also have made surprising quick exits.

It seems a cinch, however, that one bloomer of the year won't be this young Ad Liska, who is Washington Senators, and Wesley Ferrell who pitches for Cleveland. Also looks like he is no gold-plated youngster.

Mr. Liska, unsophisticated as he is, is probably wondering what one must do to win a ball game in the big leagues. He held the Red Sox to six hits and lost the game. He worked three and one-third innings against the Yankees, allowed only two hits—and lost the ball game. He gave Cleveland of dough but not a nickel too much. He throws under-handed naturally, having injured his arm many seasons ago and forced to pitch the way he does if he wants to pitch at all, and he is very effective. He has a nice assortment of stuff and is confident enough to figure he can pitch in the major leagues. And believe me, he can.

THE case of Ferrell is a bit different. He didn't cost a lot of dough and he wasn't touted so highly at New Orleans this spring. They wrote some nice pieces about him, but it wouldn't have caused any disturbance if he had been shipped to Decatur or Terre Haute in the Three-Eye League for further seasoning.

It so happened that nobody else was pitching nicely for the Indians at the start of the season and Ferrell was sent in for a lot of relief hurling. He did this chore so well that he assumed the rating of best pitcher on the Cleveland club. And now he takes his turn as a starter.

THE Indians, however, have one fellow who may turn out to be a little. And that is Richard Twilley Porter, the guy who bats for the Indians and who lost his job to "Bib" Falk within two weeks after opener.

It isn't any disgrace to lose one's job to Falk, for he is an outfielder able to play on most any ball club, but Porter lost the job because he couldn't hit. He may come around again, before the season is over, but the Indians seem to be in the spot now where they won't check in very much on their approximate $45,000 investment in him.

Still the Most Popular Two-Row Cultivator

John Deere NH

The fact that there are more John Deere two-row cultivators in use than any other make means just one thing—that thousands of farmers find that they do their work better than any other cultivator they can buy. This is a mighty important thing for you to remember when you are ready to purchase a new cultivator.

The NH is the preferred cultivator for checked corn territories. One feature of its great popularity is the long view it gives the operator. You know the value of a long view in good cultivating—it helps you to prevent digging out, lifting, or covering hills. With the NH you can always see three hills at once—the hill ahead of the shovel, the hill being worked, and the hill just passed.

Other advantages you will be sure to like are: the spacing lever, which enables you to space rigs in or out as you drive; the tilling lever, which permits changing set and suck of shovels without stopping team; and the master lever, which raises or lowers all rigs—no stop necessary at end of rows.
