Talks On Ford For Kiwanians

E. A. McGarrugh Addresses Club Monday on Mechanical Genius of Inventor.

Has Held To Ideal

Ambition Since Childhood Has Been To Relieve Burdens of Men and Animals.

"The Spirit of Ford" was the subject of the address given Monday by E. A. McGarrugh at the Kiwanis club meeting. He stated that Henry Ford's ideal since his early childhood was to make a thing of cold steel which would relieve mankind and dumb animals of many of the burdens they previously bore.

Mr. Ford's genius was first displayed when, as a child, he built a miniature water wheel in a drainage ditch near the country school which he attended. His liking for machinery was evident early.

After leaving the farm, Ford obtained apprenticeship in an engine shop in Detroit. He continued to advance until at the age of 40 he was chief engineer for the Detroit Edison company. He resigned this position to build a vehicle which would run on its own power.

The first Ford car was completed in 1892. Mr. Ford's first company was organized in 1903 with a capital of $100,000. It was reorganized in 1913 with a capital of $1,000,000. It took the company fifty years to produce the first five million cars, three years to produce the second five million and two years and eleven months to produce the third five million.

The sum of $140,000,000 was spent to remodel for the new car which is produced at the rate of 8,900 a day. The company employs 256,000 men with a payroll of $2,250,000 each day.

Mr. Ford has thirty-five branches, the largest plant being the River Rouge one at Detroit. This has 1,096 acres. The second largest is Highland Park branch in Detroit and occupies 278 acres. Part of the railroad equipment for the plants includes 1,066 road cars and eleven ships, each of 13,000 tons capacity.

Mr. Ford's latest project is the purchase of 4,000,000 acres of land in Brazil to be used as a rubber plantation.

The new water line put in by the city to Greenwood cemetery is now complete. Water from a well has been used at the cemetery, but the well went dry this spring and the council decided to extend the water system there.

Eighth Grade Pupils Finish

 out of school to reenter and continue. With a will to win a student can get back and catch up or surpass his classmates. Lindbergh and many others who have attained renown did not always make their grades but they had the determination to stick to an ideal and win.
 If it is impossible to continue in school a person may bring the learning to his home. Abraham Lincoln did not have advantages of schools, but he was determined to learn and taught himself from all books he could get. A vast amount of literature is available at no cost and anyone can read and digest this until he makes himself the best posted in the community if he has the determination to do so. Lincoln and Gladstone, though busy all day, did this. They had the desire to succeed and did.

Opportunity For All.
 America is another word for opportunity, the speaker stated, and Lincoln's rise to the White House is a living example of this statement. Theodore Roosevelt said success in life lies in making the line hard. Life is a great adventure and each may win by persistence to an aim.

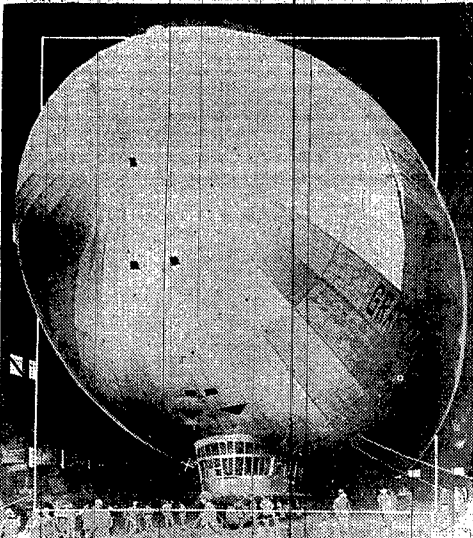

Schools today train students to think and thinkers are needed in every line of endeavor. Men and women who reason logically on problems of the times are able to meet and overcome them.
 Schools also teach beauty in nature. One who can enjoy the flowers, trees, birds, hills, fields of corn and other arts of nature has an optimism that makes life happier for him.

Poetry taught in school, the speaker asserted, has a two-fold value. It teaches concentration of attention and it implants in the minds of youth lessons that burn brighter as the years go by. The quotation, "This is my own, my native land," is full of meaning. Five hundred years of struggle went on from the rescuing of the Magna Charta in 1215 until the American revolution before people could gain freedom which is referred to in this line. By being born in the United States today a person has these privileges of freedom for which numerous generations struggled. The liberty, beauty, homes, churches, all are precious gifts, which are now traditional.

Duties of Citizenship.
 With all the privileges each has in America there are duties of citizenship which should not be overlooked, Mr. Spillman stated. Each owes gratitude to his parents and also to his patriotic forefathers. He also owes respect to teachers who enable him to learn in a few years what it took centuries to acquire. With so many advantages it is the duty of each to develop mentally, physically and morally to as high a degree as possible. By so doing one can only repay in a small measure the debt he owes.

The speaker urged that each be not discouraged at failure. The one who succeeds has hundreds of more falls than the one who fails. A fall does not stop him if he is determined to win. Mr. Spillman advised young people to get their general school training before selecting their life work.
 "Snobbery is the worst spirit that can be among you," the speaker said. A snob is not educated. Mr. Spillman told of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge who as a girl had to work her way through school and who was snubbed by some who thought they were better than she. After all she climbed to po-position far above those who snub her.

 Most troubles come from misunderstandings, the speaker stated, and with a willingness to reason and see the other person's viewpoint most troubles can be avoided. Two-thirds of cases in court arise from misunderstanding, the speaker stated. Education helps in understanding the other person and avoids trouble between individuals and nations. Kipling stated the point well when he said, "We would love each other better if we only understood."
Orchestra Plays.
 The Wayne high school kindergarten orchestra played three selections at the program Saturday. Miss Minnie Will had charge, and Barbara Hook led the group.
 Rev. W. W. Whitman gave the invocation.

Triplets and Twins.
 Triplets and twins of the Wayne county rural schools sang, "America, the Beautiful." The triplets, Ruth, Robert and Alvin Johnson, and four pairs of twins, Andrew and Frederick Mann, Mary and Monica McGuire, John and Doris Miller, took part. Three of the pairs of twins, Vivian and Robert Fell, Wilbur and Wilma Kai and Mayford and Manville Kai were unable to be present.
 Miss Pearl E. Sewell presided and presented diplomas following the class song.

Many Graduated.
 The 1929 class included 111 students, this being about seventy percent of the 161 who took the examination. In 1928, the seventy-five percent of those taking examinations.
 Elaine Gildersleeve had the highest average in the group, hers being 87 percent.
 Everett Rees of near Carroll, who has been ill and unable to be in school for a year, made an average of 80 percent on the tests. He has carried on his work at home and was brought to Wayne on a cot to take the examinations.
 Miss Sewell explained the new law which requires 160 days attendance in school with a possible absence of twenty. The former law required 120 days attendance. Applications for tuition for those who attend high school must be made by July 1, she explained.

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 1 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, June 13, 1929. Vol. 3

The measure of success attained is not always shown by the results; much depends upon the point from which the start was made and the obstacles from which have been overcome.

Getting the baby to sleep is the hardest when she is about eighteen years old.

Here's a mighty good chance to get some new asphalt shingles. We're just unloading a car now. That's Carl Luders standing in the doorway.

When're you going to fix that fence? We've a complete line of fence supplies here for you. Drop in for them just any time.

Gossip is spread by men and women who vow they won't mention it to a soul.

right, Johnny—Lehigh Cement. The best you can buy.

Noticed the large number of trellises around town? Most of them came from our yard. Want one?

We don't know what kind of a machine it is, but you'll notice it's in a nice dry machine shed. That's the big point of the above picture.

Wonderful creatures! This summer they're keeping cool in the same skimpy clothes that kept them warm last winter.

Fly time! Are you going to keep 'em out or let 'em in? It's simply a question of screens, and we have them here for you.

We've about decided that the best way to get the best of an argument is to not take part in it.

The bigger the bank roll, the tighter the rubber band.

Farmer Waits for Fifty Years to Wed Sweetheart of His Youth

MOST people would consider 50 years-a-long time to wait for one's sweetheart. The kind of love depicted nowadays seems to be the meet-'em-and-marry-'em variety, with acquaintanceship, love, marriage and, possibly, divorce—all in a season. But Frank Bennard, wealthy farmer in Tazewell county, Ill., didn't become discouraged through more than a half century of slight courtship and finally a few days ago he was rewarded.

It is doubtful if there exists any stronger example of devotion than that shown by this Tazewell land owner. Nor any stranger. Five decades and three years he waited—never abandoning hope that sometime his dream would come true. And, finally, just like story book fantasy, it did come true.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennard, married after he had waited for her 50 years.

He could not bear to visit Margaret and her husband, who resided on a farm but a few miles distant.

Shortly after the celebration of Margaret and her husband, who resided on a farm but a few miles distant, Margaret's husband died and she was left alone.

Frank dropped around one day to console her. He came again and again. The courtship of more than half a century was renewed with earnest and Margaret did not say no.

This couple is quite happy now. They live on one of Bennard's big farms near East Peoria in true turtle dove fashion. Who says that the old-style romance is dead?

Lincoln Journal Hunt. By Auto to Get Here on Date of Publication.

Daily newspaper readers will be pleased to know that the Lincoln Morning Journals are now being rushed by auto to Fremont and there put on the same early morning Northwestern train that the Omaha morning papers use.

This gives our community unexcelled service on a morning newspaper from the capital city, and one that is edited 100 per cent for Nebraskans. All of the other big Nebraska morning dailies are printed on the Iowa line and edit for Iowa readers also.

The Lincoln Journal's regular year subscription is from one to three dollars lower than that charged by the other big Morning and Sunday newspapers.

Nebraskans look to Lincoln, the Capital city, and the State Journal for the best state news.

Mail $1.00 to the Nebraska State Journal of Lincoln, and they will send you a trial subscription, or better yet order for a whole year. The regular year rate is $4.00 daily, $6.00 with Sunday. Don't give money to strangers, order direct or thru our office, j13t1

No commercial enterprise can be successful in the true sense of the word unless it is operated on high principles—unless the men in charge of it have high ideals of responsibility and service.

Ideals are of particular importance in the funeral directing profession. The mortician has an unusual opportunity to render sympathetic service, and a sacred trust is reposed in him.

Back of the many details which make up the work of this establishment, guiding every smallest part of our work, are the fundamental ideals and principles upon which our reputation has been built.

WHAT'S A KITCHEN WITHOUT A TELEPHONE?

A kitchen is a place where mother, wife or cook delves into the mysteries of satisfying family appetites. It's a place where at times a moment's neglect means "burnt biscuits" and perhaps a cross husband.

A telephone call without a telephone handy might come at just such an inopportune moment... So a kitchen without a telephone or directly near it is lacking in a detail that makes for time-saving and a happier family all around.

Extension telephones are convenient in many other places of the home. They save countless, tiring steps. A telephone in the bed room, living room, library or den helps to provide convenient telephone service for the home.

KITCHENS now-a-days are considered incomplete if they do not have telephones. An extension can be installed where it is most convenient for you.

"A Nebraska Institution"

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin.

Just a little reminder of the great changes that have taken place in Nebraska during the last 50 years: The Lincoln Journal's "Fifty Years Ago" column one day last week said: "Conductor Beach of the Burlington reported having seen four good sized elk in the hills just west of Hastings. They were in easy rifle range as the train passed."

E. E. Cushing attended the recent meeting held in Grand Island to protest against proposed sugar rates between the Pacific coast and St. Louis, and while there submitted a proposition relative to the election of state railway commissioners. Mr. Cushing proposes that the three commissioners be elected by districts, instead of at large as now. He asserts that the present system gives the big shippers of Omaha and Lincoln an undue advantage. The three present commissioners were all elected from a territory within 150 miles of the Missouri river. Mr. Cushing's proposition was unanimously endorsed by the shippers.

Regents of the university and justices of the supreme court were formerly elected at large, but residents of the more thinly populated west half of the state protested, claiming that they were discriminated against. As a result of long years of agitation the system was changed and now regents and justices are elected by districts.

The Western Regional Advisory Board will meet in Kearney on June 29. This region includes Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, a part of Montana and Council Bluffs, Ia. It is made up of representatives of all the railroads serving the territory and representatives of the shippers of various commodities. The entire United States is divided into regional districts, and it is admitted by shippers and transportation managers alike that the organization has been productive of immense benefits. For instance, it has been several years since there was complaint about car shortages. Under the regional system commodity shippers estimate the number of cars they will need for their purpose, and these estimates, based on carefully collected crop statistics, are submitted to the car supply division of the board. At once that committee sets about assembling cars at points most convenient, and when the crops are ready for shipment the cars are on the spot.

The organization has resulted in a great lessening of complaints filed with state railway commissions and the interstate commerce commission. At these meetings the high officials of the railroads hogan with shippers without regard to position in the financial world. Differences are ironed out without resort to courts or commissions, and a better relation is established all around. President Baldwin of the Missouri Pacific will be the chief speaker at the Kearney meeting, which will be attended by from 500 to 700 delegates.

In 1928 Nebraska ranked in the production of one principal crop, prairie hay. It ranked second in wheat, being exceeded by Kansas. It was third in corn, trailing along after Illinois and Iowa. It was second in pork production and third in beef production. In per capita production of crops and live stock Nebraska ranked first.

Political predictions at this time are easy to make, and none there be to gainsay them. A Nebraskaer presumably close to Senator George W. Norris says that Norris will not be a candidate for reelection unless Charles Sloan, representative from the Fourth district, gets into the race. In that event, says the close one, Norris will file, not because he wants reelection, but to beat Sloan.

Ed Bignell, for many years superintendent of the Burlington at Lincoln, says so many washouts on the railroads in Nebraska may be a bit hard on the railroads, but they point to bumper crops in the state. "I never knew it to fail that we were up against it to move crops in the fall after we had been washed out in the spring," says Mr. Bignell.

MODERNIZE BRING YOUR HOME UP TO DATE

TIME and weather are not to be denied. The Old Homestead, once an object of pardonable pride, has now become a bit insightfully, obsolete in its fixtures, buffeted by the elements and the decades. Yet you are loath to abandon that friendly old house, that has meant so much in the affairs of you and your family. A solution: Have it modernized. Below are the suggestions of the concerns who can do it. Without great expenditure you can transform the old Homestead into a splendid, modern home, renewing that family pride in your residence, restoring your home to its former glory.

In The Old Homestead

The Perfection of Simple Efficient Operation

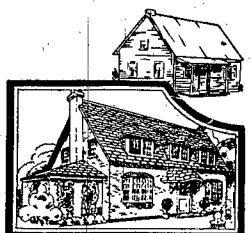

Designed and manufactured by The Bennett-Allison Co., an established firm of heating and combustion engineers who have developed the Bennett-Allison Automatic Oil Burner for the perfect combustion of all grades of fuel oil under complete automatic control. Noiseless, efficient and adaptable to any type of domestic or industrial heating plant.

POSITIVE ELECTRICAL CONTROL

NO WORRY. The action of the Bennett-Allison burner is always under Positive Electrical Control. The amount of heat is automatically regulated by a thermostat. The oil is motor-pumped to a forced feed, at which point it is air-mixed and completely broken up into a fine mist which is ignited electrically and burns completely with a hot, odorless flame. Any grade of fuel oil can be used, the cheaper grades making oil heating very economical. Safety controls provide complete safety and freedom from worry.

Make Haying Speedy and Certain

There are so many chances for loss in making hay that to be without suitable machinery is to neglect the one possibility for success must be right. A mower, rake or loader that does not perform its duties properly is a handicap that no hay grower can afford to risk. The latest equipment is none too efficient. The best is none too good.

Builders of McCormick-Deering haying machines have anticipated the needs of hay growers. They have built machines to take care of the unusual conditions that, with less efficient equipment, might mean a partial if not complete loss of the crop. They help the farmer to make the most of good weather by handling the crop quickly and do not fail when bad weather threatens.

It is only possible in so small a space to illustrate and briefly describe so extensive a line of hay machines, but we have the machines suited to your work and will gladly show them to you. Many of these machines have new features that you may not have seen before. It will pay you to look over the line.

COLUMBIA AND CALIFORNIA WILL BATTLE FOR FIRST PLACE IN POUGHKEEPSE. SHE REGATTA MARTIN PICKS BEARS TO WIN

BY PHILIP MARTIN

THERE seems only two crews to consider in making a prediction regarding the outcome of the annual Poughkeepsie regatta this month. One is the championship California outfit, the other is that of Columbia. If a "dark horse" crew must be named, Cornell's big red eight gets the honor, if any.

Experts on the matter differ in their opinion as to whether California or Columbia will win. It all depends upon whether the expert hails from the east—or the Pacific coast.

Those in the east say that young Dick Glendon's boat at Columbia is at least 10 per cent stronger than it was last year. It seems to have demonstrated that in the races against eastern crews this year. And they say it is imbued with the spirit that can't be beaten.

California, on the other hand, also seems stronger. This crew was undefeated in ten races last season, including races at the Olympic games, and its one test this season, against Washington, resulted in victory. It is a veteran crew, with only the coxswain and one oarsman in there who were not last season.

It is this correspondent's opinion that Columbia and California which last year ended the four-mile strain with less than a boat length difference at the finish, will offer new enthusiasts the same thrilling race again this year. And the winner—well, we say California!

There are some sport sweepings gathered here and there. "Park coaches say the high altitude at Denver will bother athletes at the national A. A. U. championships in July and year out.

And some more are that the Giants are liable to be on top by July 4. While the Yankees are just getting into their stride . . . and New Yorkers still believe it will be an all-New York series. . . . Notre Dame would find favorable reaction if it were to ask to join the Big Ten . . . but no one thinks it ever will . . . because they like to play football where and against whom they please . . . and not just in one season. . . . Ed. Jones will play in two big bowl meets this year . . . the green and the amateur . . . and the battle in the open will be between Hagen, Jones and young Smith. . . . The ball players say the all-time major league flops are Nick Cullip, the outfielder, and Bevo Lebourveau, another outfielder . . . and they always are the big stars of their minor leagues, year in and year out.

Paulina Is "a Roosevelt"

The strong resemblance of Baby Paulina Longworth to the family of her grandfather, "Teddy" Roosevelt, is shown in this picture of the girl with her mother, Alice Roosevelt Longworth, wife of Speaker Nick Longworth of the House of Representatives. Caught, After 12 Years of Dodging the Police

TWELVE years ago, Thomas Crawford "kicked down the rear wall" of the jail at Olathe, Kas., and walked out into the night a free man. And, because Crawford became careless about friendly warnings to "keep away from Frisco," Thomas Crawford will walk right back into the jail at Olathe he so rudely left. He faces trial on a charge of robbing the local station master of $60, away back in 1916. Crawford was arrested in November, 1916, in Kansas City and returned to Olathe for trial. In March, 1917, he made his escape. Shortly afterward he joined the American navy for the duration of the war. "And I knew they had my fingerprints and pictures scattered all over the country, too," Crawford says. "I used an alias, but I'd jump nearly every time I was called. I was arrested six times, too—four at Los Angeles—on misdemeanor charges, and was mugged and fingerprinted without their finding me out. I went to foreign countries, and heeded the advice to keep out of San Francisco if there was ever a 'wanted' notice against me." But after a dozen years' dodging, it seemed easy. Crawford went to San Francisco recently and was picked up on a vagrancy charge. He was in the company of men with police records. Sergeant Emmett Hogan and Officer Timothy Burk looked back through their records, and identified the Kansas fugitive from his picture and fingerprints. Crawford readily admitted his identity. "Well, now that it's all over, I'm kind of glad," Crawford, now 41, philosophized. "It's no fun to be dodging, right along. But I'm afraid the sheriff at Olathe doesn't like me since I got out of his jail."

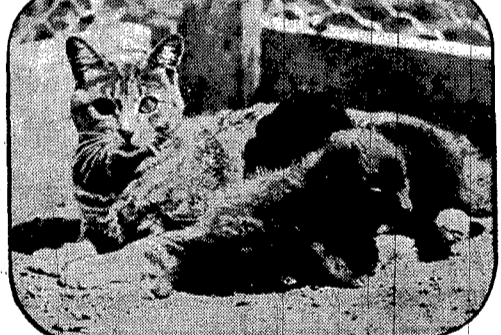

After 12 years of dodging, Thomas Crawford, top, has been brought back to face a charge of robbery at Olathe, Kas. The pictures and fingerprints of Sergeant Emmett Hogan, below, caught up with him in San Francisco.

Farmers Are Jugglers, Too

If you ever tried to load a hay wagon so that it wouldn't tip over, you'll know something of the problem farmers in Spain face in loading mules like those shown above. This is the way they carry their hay around in Spain, and it's no small trick to get it on straight.

ACCOUNTABILITY TO GOD

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 16. National Accountability to God. 2 Kings 25:1-12.

THE general title for this lesson is "Judah Taken Captive," and its teachings are based upon the story of the fall of the Southern Kingdom, or the Kingdom of Judah, and the carrying off of the people to Babylon.

It will be remembered that the Northern Kingdom of Israel, or the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes, had fallen over 180 years before the events described in this lesson, and the people of that kingdom had been dispersed, becoming known in history as the "Lost Ten Tribes of Israel."

The people of the Southern Kingdom, or the Kingdom of Judah, were later restored, or at least their descendants were restored to Palestine.

God is on the side of the great battalions. But the careful student of history in its spiritual implications knows that there is something far deeper than that. He sees how the sufferings of the righteous are seed yielding the harvest of better conditions, that through sacrifice is the law of progress, and he makes a very real distinction between suffering for conscience sake and on behalf of truth and progress, and the sordid overwhelming defeat that comes to those whose greed and selfishness and lust of power are self-destructive.

Business

Sioux City Journal: General trade continues somewhat irregular, owing to freakish weather that has prevailed in northern latitudes for the last two weeks. Retail buying has been slowed down as a result of low temperatures. Hot weather goods, such as apparel, are on shelves but buyers are waiting until real summer comes. The vacation period has not yet begun, and as warmer weather comes more activity in apparel, furnishings and the like is a certainty.

In spite of the slowness in some lines of merchandising, railroad movement of goods is sufficiently heavy to indicate that a strong demand is confidently expected by the trade. Freight car loadings for the week ending May 25 went to 1,061,416, an increase of 15,227 over the preceding week, a gain of 40,013 over the same period last year and one of 34,627 over the same week the year before.

Miscellaneous freight car loadings, the index to merchandising activity, as a rule, increased appreciably, the total for the week running to 418,989. This was an increase over the same week last year of 19,558 and over the corresponding period in 1927 of 29,470.

Grain has made a slight recovery, but is expected to do still better. December wheat went to $1.17 5-8 on the Chicago market toward the end of the week. Wheat, corn, oats and rye all made gains in the market, which creates a better feeling throughout the middle west since it is an indication that the bottom did not fall out of prices after all. There is still a long way for prices to go, however, before they can be described as satisfactory. If grains make a complete recovery in the face of harvesting which is about to begin then agriculture will realize there is something in legislative magic after all.

There is no doubt that the recovery in grains has been due to the prospect of farm relief legislation being enacted without much more delay. The export debenture plan has eliminated in the joint conference and the house immediately approved the bill. It is now up to the senate for final action before it goes to the White House.

It has been generally accepted that eventually the senate would approve a farm relief bill with export debentures eliminated from the measure, and that has been largely responsible for better prices in the grain market. If farm relief is to be made a fact instead of a theory and a fund of some $500,000,000 is placed at the disposal of a farm board for control of surplus crops, grains cannot help but go to satisfactory prices. This is the hope of the middle west at this time. It would be a splendid thing for the nation at large if agriculture were given this chance. Buying power should not be disturbed by legislative negligence.
