Contract Let For Buildings

Beckenhauer To Construct Neihardt Hall Wing and H. S. Scace Has Power Plant.

Work Is Started

Improvement to Be Completed This Year—Other Action of State Normal Board

Contract for the final wing of Neihardt hall, new dormitory for girls at the Wayne State Teachers College, was let Monday to Beckenhauer brothers of Norfolk for $49,000, and contract for remodeling and repairing the power plant at the college here was let to Homer S. Scace of Wayne for $16,489. Work on each project will start this week, the dormitory to be finished the first of the year and the power house to be completed in November.

The main part and east wing of Neihardt hall were constructed the past year by Beckenhauer brothers at a cost of $102,000. With the west wing and heating and plumbing the building will cost complete about $160,000. Contract for heating and plumbing in the west wing have not yet been let. The hall will house 190 girls.

The Wayne Dormitory Building Corporation, which contracted for the dormitory wing following meeting of the state normal board Monday, favored Beckenhauer brothers as they had satisfactorily constructed the other part of the building. One Iowa firm entered a bid slightly lower. Other bidders on the wing were Keller brothers of Yankton, S. D., Cooper & Small of Sioux City, and the G. F. Construction Company of Exira, Iowa. The highest figure was $53,250.

The dormitory will be financed by the First Trust company of Lincoln, bonds to be retired from room rentals. Officers of the dormitory corporation are: I. H. Britell of Wayne, president; G. W. Holmes of Lincoln, vice president; Mrs. Elva Brockway of Wayne, secretary; R. W. Ley of Wayne, treasurer; and George Waugh of Lincoln, director. The Lincoln men are officers in the First Trust Company.

Power Plant Contract. The state normal board let contract to Homer S. Scace for the power plant improvement. Mr. Scace's successful record in the construction work and his integrity influenced the board in letting the contract, though an Iowa bidder had figures which were $60 less.

Besides Mr. Scace, those who bid on the power plant were the C. E. Construction company of Wakefield, Beckenhauer brothers of Norfolk, and J. H. Foster of Wayne. The highest figure was $19,640.

Funds for the power plant come from state appropriations. The structure, which is already staked out, will be built around the old plant, the present power house building serving as a protection to machinery during the construction period. Mr. Scace plans to have the roof on and the building finished in November.

Furnish Peru Building. The state normal board, while meeting here Monday, also let contract for furnishing Peru's new dormitory which is nearing completion. The metal furniture contract went to Orchard & Wilhelm of Omaha, and the mattress contract to the Capital Mattress company at Lincoln. The rest of the furnishings will be bought on the open market.

State teachers colleges are considering a budget plan of operation and each school presented a report on the plan at the meeting here Monday. These proposals will be considered further at the regular state normal board meeting in Lincoln early in September. Bills were audited and allowed here also.

H. E. Reische of Chadron, secretary, Fred M. Anderson of Cozad, W. H. Pitzer of Nebraska City, and Fred S. Berry of Wayne, were the members of the board present. State Supt. Charles W. Taylor was here and acted as chairman. Pres. George E. Martin of Kearney, Pres. Robert I. Elliott of Chadron, and Pres. U. S. Conn of Wayne, were the school heads in attendance. Miss Elma Gockley, secretary to the president, and Mrs. Ince M. Dunning, dean of women, represented Peru. George W. Holmes and Sam S. Waugh were present from the Lincoln trust company.

ADVERTISEMENTS IN HERALD PAGES AID TO ECONOMY

ONE important way to profit by being a subscriber and reader of the Herald is to study and follow advertisements in these pages each week. Dealers buy carefully to serve the people of the territory. They give closest possible attention to making purchases that will meet requirements, and they are on the alert to keep prices down to lowest levels. Then, following such expert skill, buying opportunities are explained and priced for the advantage of the public. Selections from market centers, with no boosted value that may later be deeply cut, are set forth from week to week in the Herald. These stories of merchandise and service should not only receive careful perusal, but in justice to economy should be accepted as guides for every purchase, big or little. Herald advertisers invite deserved patronage, and they cooperate in reducing the cost and thus increasing the joy of living.

A crowd estimated at 9,700 attended the Fourth of July celebration at the Kay amusement park at Wayne, the program being under the auspices of the American Legion and Lorenz Kay, owner and manager of the park.

and Vaudeville acts, baseball, swimming, dancing, band music, races and fireworks were provided. The Katy-All Stars, colored baseball team of Sioux City, won from Pilger in the afternoon baseball game, the score being 6 to 1. The Sioux City team had been defeated by Pilger previously this season.

Wayne Modern Woodmen won from Altonia in the morning baseball game, the score in this contest being 8 to 1.

Stary & Stary, sensational cyclists, appeared in trick riding several times. Mr. and Mrs. Jerome, the former a magician and the latter a contortionist and wire walker, also took part in the vaudeville program.

F. C. Reed, furnished music at intervals throughout the day.

Vernon McDonald's orchestra played for a crowd at the dance afternoon and evening in the Colonial pavilion.

Fireworks display was shown in the evening. A heavy fog prevented these firing as well as they should have. One large box of the skyrockets was accidentally discharged before the evening, this lessened the exhibition considerably. A bugler and flag and a number of other pieces were included with the straight fireworks.

The pool was a busy place all day and many were in bathing. The beauty contest and swimming races did not materialize as the swimmers did not wish to enter. Mr. Kay plans the bathing beauty contest some Sunday later and will award the silver loving cup at that time.

In other contests, LeRoy Stamm climbed the greasy pole. George Rennie won the pipe race. Fern Van Allen was winner in the pop drinking contest. LeRoy Stamm was first in the potato race, and Leland Stamm was first in the potato race for boys under 12.

A number of concessions were on the grounds. Receipts from the celebration a little more than paid expenses. The Legion made about $100 on the day. Weather throughout the day was ideal. Insurance against rain was carried.

He later moved to Wisconsin and there married Miss Nancy Olmstead August 3, 1872. ## CONTRACT AWARDS AT WAYNE SCHOOL DENOTE PROGRESS

WE commend awarding of contracts this week for additional improvements at the Wayne State Teachers College, taking care of the needs of a growing institution. As known, the new dormitory, excepting one wing, was completed and turned to use the first of the year. The total cost was $102,000. The remaining wing is now to be built at a cost of $49,000, the same to be finished by January 1, next.

Beckenhauer Brothers of Norfolk handled the dormitory improvement last year, were awarded contract to complete the work, and results were so satisfactory that it would seem the part of wisdom for the same to be taken to complete the balance of the structure. Work starts at once, and when it is finished it will add wonderfully to the comforts and convenience of student life, and as part of the stately group on the campus, it will strengthen the voice of education and culture.

We are pleased to note that a local man, Homer S. Scace, has the contract for rebuilding the power plant at the college, and this work is to be finished by November 1. Homer is now steaming up and expects to land under the wire ahead of time. It is believed by those who understand values and who have made comparisons, that public improvements, nowhere in the state have realized more—if as much—from year to year, for money expended, than the Teachers College here.

State Accidents For Last June

Of the 266 persons injured, 17 were permanently disabled.

Injuries resulting from motor vehicles and from other public accidents are still on the increase.

The usual every other day's evidence of "venturing into deep water without knowing how to swim" accounting for 4 out of the 7.

A study of motor vehicle accidents caused compared with the last report shows loose gravel skids increase from 15 to 21; excessive speed from 3 to 14; mechanical defects, 3 to 9; collision, 8 to 52.

Motor accident report for the two-week period ending July 2, 1929:

Table with 3 columns: No. of Acci., Dth, Injured. Lists various accident types like Skids in loose gravel, Tire blow out, Mech. defects, etc.

The above table of motor vehicle accident causes covers 159 reports of which 7 were from employment; 38 were non-injurious and 125 were public accidents resulting in injury.

Below please note a complete list of accidents which have occurred in Nebraska during the past eight weeks that are of sufficient importance to attract individual press notices.

General summary for eight weeks:

Table with 3 columns: Motor acci., Pub. acci., Emp. agri., Emp. ind., Home acci., Total.

Every two weeks for eight weeks these figures have appeared and they will continue to appear at these intervals. What is it all about? Why does your editor and a great State Press association interest itself in the periodical presentation of such statistical matter?

Because in the ordinary peaceful pursuits of travel, of employment, of public and of home life, a casualty list comparable to that of the Great War is needlessly criminal.

Because there is need of the earnest cooperation of every man, woman and child in our state if Nebraska is to be made a safe place in which to live.

Limits to Personal Liberty.

Omaha World-Herald: With the constantly increasing use of bigger and louder and more dangerous explosives our Fourth of July celebrations have become a serious menace to the children and a brutal and cruel outrage to patients in the hospitals and ailing and suffering people in their homes. In the day when we who now are old were young the firecrackers were small and comparatively harmless; their noisiness was relatively inoffensive. But today the privileges of a noisy Fourth are so outrageously abused, with such reckless disregard for the rights and comfort of others, that the only rational and humane course is to prohibit them entirely except under strict supervision in designated places.

It is all very well for Mayor Dahlman to voice his opposition to "dictating what a person shall or shall not do." We have a fondness in personal liberty too. But in a close-knit and intricate society it must have its reasonable limits. We do not permit the discharge of firearms within the city limits except on July 4. We do not permit the carrying of concealed weapons. We do not permit motorist to drive as they please. We do not allow a man to burn down his own house. We will not tolerate public obscenity. We require citizens to mow their weeds and dispose of their garbage. In a thousand ways we restrict personal liberty because we are obliged to restrict it to make community life decent and safe and tolerable.

There is no peculiar sanctity attached to Fourth of July gunpowder. There is nothing especially patriotic about it. And at the point when its use becomes a public menace, when it kills and blinds and maims little children, when it inflicts torture on the helpless sick—at that point it is not only permissible but reasonable to stop it, and even a wet Thomas Jefferson democrat can say so in the prohibition.

The World-Herald hopes that the city council will put Omaha in line with other progressive and well-governed cities by acting favorably on Commissioner Westergaard's proposed ordinance, and that, once adopted, it will be rigorously enforced.

Jolson's "Singing Fool" A Triumph

A remarkable demonstration of the emotional power of Al Jolson is furnished in "The Singing Fool," the new special production in which he is presented by Warner Bros.

Though Jolson's stormily dramatic rendition of popular ballads has undoubtedly been an important factor in causing the public to acclaim him as the world's favorite entertainer, he has always been considered first and foremost as a comedian.

And yet, "The Singing Fool" is not a comedy—having few comedy moments—and no element of drama of the most intense pathos—a moving story of the utmost emotional depth, in which Al, though gay and light-hearted in the beginning, is brought at length to the depths of despair.

Jolson's supporting cast includes two leading ladies in the persons of Betty Bronson and Josephine Dunn, and other prominent roles are played by Reed Howes, Arthur Housman, David Lee, Edward Martindel and Robert Emmett O'Connor. The screen story was written by C. Graham Baker

It would seem up to the railroad company to comply with the order or get into court."

Higher Prices Are Asked For Peaches

A California newspaper gives the following report in regard to the peach crop:

California peach growers will stand adamant in their demand for $80 per ton on No. 1 peaches and $50 per ton on No. 2 fruit, according to George L. Stensgaard of Pomona, who recently returned from the north.

Stensgaard was appointed by S. C. Day, Loomis, president of the California Canning Peach Growers' association, as ambassador from the southland.

Demand High Price.

According to Day's outline to Stensgaard, the association is demanding the high price for the following reasons: General marketing conditions, the buying power of the consuming public, and the comparatively small crop of peaches and other fruits throughout the country.

Basing their estimation on figures of past years, the association declares that the demand for peaches this year justifies their request.

The annual consumption of peaches in the country is approximately 12 million cases; there is a small holdover, and but six million cases in sight, this year, growers point out.

20,000 Tons Available.

In Sutter, Butte and Yuba counties, there are but 20,000 tons of peaches this year, whereas normally that district would produce 200,000 tons. Furthermore, around Sacramento the crop is but 25 to 50 per cent normal.

Growers in the north have equipped themselves to can their own peaches if a price of $80 per ton is not paid by canners, Stensgaard was informed.

Price Range Set.

Prides in the past for No. 1 grade of canning peaches follow: In 1921, the price was $35; 1922, $60; 1923, $80; 1924, $45; 1925, $35; 1926, $40; 1927, $22.50; and for 1928, $20. In 1920, the record peak was reached at $100 per ton, while in 1919 it was $88.

Stensgaard who two years ago pioneered by shipping his peaches to New York City for marketing, stated that he would do so again this year, if he cannot get $80 a ton here.

Small grain is being harvested, and the corn crop continues to grow luxuriantly. Corn struck by hail is reported coming back in encouraging fashion.

Traveling at night, big trucks ought to be properly lighted at different corners in order to indicate how much, if any, of a highway or street is left for use of passing or approaching automobiles.

Proposed graveling of the Wayne-Wakefield highway, said to be assured for this summer, will more closely knit together the two towns and contiguous territory. Now we would like to see the hard-surfacing of roads to other points in this territory.

Oakland has had its name painted in big letters on the top of the Burlington depot for the convenience of passing airplanes, and the town is now going after the establishment of an air port. Wayne also needs both—have its name written high in the sky and open a suitable field for planes that wish to tarry.

Parents should bear in mind that if they cannot hold the respect of their children, they cannot expect the respect of other people. They are just out of luck all along the line from remotest stranger to the closest acquaintance. In that event, both parents and children are seriously out of plumb—a job for the family plumber.

We have just received another offer of a series of articles explaining the intricacies of bridge, and giving information to sharpen the wits and improve the skill of players. As we have suggested before, our parishioners are crazy enough about bridge without further stimulus which might follow any attempt to add to knowledge already possessed.

The progress Henry has made in the evolution of a car may be appreciated by contrasting latest product with one of the first Fords. Contrast is sharpened by hearing the first Ford start—closing one's eyes and hearing a tornado grab and twist a neighboring sheet-iron roof, lift it high into the air and then dash it with a bang to the pavement.

When one awakens to greet a new day, his mind should be focused on the useful tasks he may accomplish before nightfall, and when again he shuts out the world and retires to peaceful slumber,

PERSONAL LIBERTY.

We applaud the Omaha World-Herald's disagreement with Mayor Dahlman over personal liberty as expressed in the use of deadly explosives on the Fourth. Attention is directed to the fact that a bursting bomb, imperiling life and limb, is not proof of superlative patriotism and is not necessarily associated with American freedom and independence. The World-Herald points out that the slaughter or maiming of children of other afflictive consequences of mistaken patriotism call for an additional hitch in the cause of personal liberty. But we wonder if that usually sound and always stalwart newspaper could not find as much ground for upholding prohibition of the liquor traffic? Its editor will recall how the old liquor system fed and fattened on the scant earnings of feeble victims, how the unrestricted drink mania converted the weekly pay check into an alcoholic stupor that turned deaf ears to wholesome need, leaving a crushed and disheartened wife to look into sunken little eyes and meet the exigencies of gnawing hunger. The terror of those old days, stripping children of normal birthrights and denying to them reasonable advantages, must appeal to the editor of the World-Herald as quite as much of an outrage on victims as the purposeless firing of explosives on the Fourth. To be consistent, the editor would seem persuaded to include one as well as the other in the wisdom of tying a few knots in dangerous personal liberty.

he should be able to recount a satisfactory day's program. As the years lengthen and life's expectancy shortens, the days become more precious and time wasted cheats achievement and bears the sting of regret.

As we understand, the new currency of reduced size has been put into circulation this week, but we have received none of it thus far, and, alas, we do not know when we will. In the meantime, anything that passes as money will be accepted with pristine feelings of relief.

John D. Rockefeller has just observed his thirtieth birthday, and whereas he was considered semi-invalid thirty years ago, he says he is now in perfect health which he attributes to habits of moderation and quiet activity. In amassing his billion dollars, it is likely he stirred around more and assumed greater burdens than the rules of health would recommend, but after accumulating enough to get along on, he discreetly slowed down, and he further buoyed his spirits by contributing large sums of money to worthy causes.

It is evident that the Illinois man who was strangled to death and then burned to an unrecognizable crisp by his wife, picked a woman of too gigantic physical stature to be made the victim of ugly temper, made worse by frequent imbibing of alcoholic fire-water. She is six feet tall, weighs 230 pounds and is as muscular as an ox. When he flung a chair at her and then brought down the family mirror on her head, he invited violence that ended all things earthly for him. In case of little intelligence and no fine sentiment, with peace dependent on physical force, we would suggest mating according to an equality of brawn.

While the fall of moisture has been sufficient but not excessive here, rains have flooded Nemaha county and caused a great deal of damage. In and around Auburn ten inches fell within forty-eight hours, and shecks of wheat were washed away and fields of corn were ruined. Grain, fruit and livestock losses are reported heavy. People down there want ample moisture, but they feel that too much is as bad as not enough, and they would like to see the world's supply more evenly distributed. They feel, however, that if fins and gills become necessary, they will be provided in accordance with the natural order.

The official banning of firecrackers, torpedoes and other explosives on the Fourth has been accomplished in many American cities with no decrease in patriotic sentiment. Sioux City has established such prohibition, made effective after the passing of the late holiday, and Omaha is urging similar restrictions. Carefully guarded and supervised fireworks for public displays are usually authorized. The conclusion is reached that the promiscuous use of explosives has no relation to patriotism, and serves no worthy purpose, but, on the contrary, kills, maims, threatens and terrorizes and altogether constitutes a huge and diabolical nuisance. We would like to see Wayne join the other towns in utterly abolishing the firecracker nuisance.

A Baltimore doctor, speaking in Portland, Oregon, complained against legislative restrictions on drinking, eating, dressing and religion. We have discovered no heavy hand of authority laid on what one shall eat or how one shall dress or what one shall think. One may still harness his innards with skeins of spaghetti and continue in polite society. One may eat quarrlesome onions or garlic and make the circumambient air atrociously disagreeable without fear of being molested. It is plain that religion was never less hampered, and as to dress, a mere cursory review anywhere any day gives screaming proof of utmost freedom. The good doctor really means that there are legal restrictions on a few particularly savage drinks—such as drinkables as drunk incapacity, destitution and misery.

Prof. Arthur Stanley Eddington, famous British physicist and astronomer, says "our assurance of God is consciousness of relation rather than flawless proof of existence." We know space exists, but we cannot fathom its immensity. We know the results of radio, but we do not understand how a sound may be transmitted without a material agency and without loss of hundreds and thousands of miles. We see the force of electricity, how it may be harnessed and directed, but we know little or nothing about it. We know we exist, traveling around within certain narrow circles, and we think a good deal of intelligence was employed in starting off the spiritual force with which each is endowed, but we cannot uncover and explain the source. This is one of many unsearchable problems that may be felt, though not understood.

Business.
 Sioux City Journal: The most significant thing revealing economic conditions in the United States is the enormous increase in income tax payments for the fiscal year recently closed. It was officially announced that the treasury surplus would reach a total of $200,000,000, due of course, to the increase in volume and value of business during the twelve-month for which the taxes were paid. This increase in business has been enormous to permit the collection of a surplus, although it is to be remembered that the rates were lowered by a previous

TANGING TO HELL.
 Evidence of "tanging to hell" may be found on marble slabs conveniently arranged in neighborhood mortuaries. We speak of "tanging" as a crazy quest for excitement, and of "hell" as misery sequent to any reckless disregard of orderly processes without thought of rules of safety or health. The much misused automobile takes greatest toll. To the daring motorist with connection between action and judgment dead, with what little poise he possesses perhaps further negated by a charge of flaming "hootch" possible consequences are many. He burns up other drivers and is thrilled by the whistling wind and fleeting landscape. If he escapes a crash and a sickening wreck, he is just lucky. If not, the hospital and morgue divide results according to requirements. Foolhardy boating and diving contribute liberal shares to the dead and maimed. Fourth of July explosives claimed fewer lives this year, due no doubt to stricter regulations and to a proud disinclination to follow old-fashioned methods of being killed—the tendency now as ever to adopt newest ways. From Bacchus to Morpheus, from mad delirium to opiate dreams, spill waste and ruin. Enough energy put into useful employment, inspired by worthy ambition, will prevent surplus that breaks the bounds of reason and seeks expression in hurtful dissipation.

Another impressive thing is the report of the first 66 railroads in the country which showed a gratifying increase in net gains for the month of May. The total for these lines was $94,153,000 for the month as against $81,942,000 for the same period a year ago. This is a gain for the month of 14.9 per cent.

This increase of the railroad net gains corresponds with the reported weekly car loading throughout the late winter, spring and early summer. Weekly car loadings have been consistently over the million mark. Every week for several weeks has been ahead of the corresponding periods of 1927-28. This means that goods in large volume have been moving from products. That, in turn, means that the consumer demand is stronger and that the buying power has increased.

June business, according to the commerce department, is ahead of that for the same month last year. The activity in the steel and iron plants is unchanged, meaning that the high rate of operation is continuing without a letup. The production of crude petroleum and bituminous coal for the month showed gains. Thus it is seen that there is more activity in industry, the fuel demands serving as an admirable index of the conditions.

Motor car production has decreased somewhat, but this is explained as a natural development following almost capacity operations for the first half of the year. The decrease, however, has been slight, and increased activity in the late summer and fall would not be surprising.

Meanwhile operation of the new farm relief act is awaited with increasing interest. President Hoover hopes to have the farm board organized and at work by August 1. The effect of the new law on general business conditions will be watched from all sides. Crop prospects are bright. If the farm relief law operates satisfactorily a new economic condition will be inevitable.

The Conservative opinion, in England, is that the hand that rogs the cradle rocked the boat.—Macon News.

A Fast-Moving Age.
 Nebraska Farmer: The present low price of wheat is attributed by some to increased production due to a wider use of modern machinery in America and other countries. The export sales by farm machinery manufacturers have been greater than ever before during the past year, in addition to increased sales in this country. In fact, the exports of farm machinery have been greater than the exports of agricultural products.

Possibilities of the utilization of our modern types of machinery by countries such as Russia, Argentina and others provide something for American farmers to think about. A native of Russia who visited Nebraska last winter made the statement that if Russian farmers ever get their production methods on a basis comparable to that of this country, then American agriculture will face some very serious competition.

Although not probable, there are many possible conditions which would almost disrupt the agriculture of this country. For instance, a recent news dispatch describes a project contemplated by the French government which, if carried out, would make over a large area of the Sahara desert into good farm land. The project calls for a stupendous engineering feat, including an inland sea in the heart of this desert, to be fed by canals from the Mediterranean, and irrigation from rivers and underground streams. It is expected that the inland sea will furnish water for evaporation, which will increase the rainfall. The climate and soil are said to be capable of producing wheat, cotton, sugar, corn and other crops if water is supplied.

In this fast-moving age no industry is entirely safe from possible developments which may result in severe competition. However, a sound production program, combined with restriction of the market for foreign products in this country, will provide fairly good protection for American agriculture.

Nuss Family Home After Trip West
 Wayne is the best town in the country according to J. C. Nuss who, with his wife and daughter, Miss Helen, arrived home Tuesday from a 5,000-mile tour through the west. The Nuss family was gone five weeks and drove to Los Angeles by way of Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona. They went up the west coast to Portland, Ore., and then home through Idaho and Wyoming. They visited Grand Canyon, Yellowstone national park, Yosemite park and other places of interest along the way.

The travelers found excellent roads on the entire journey, and weather conditions were good. Only one day were they in rain and that was in Los Angeles. The Nuss family visited the LeRoy Kent car for the children. Mrs. J. J. Ahern, Mrs. R. W. Casper, Mrs. A. M. Jacobs, Mrs. C. W. Hiseox, Mrs. Dean, Hanson and Mrs. L. W. Ellis.

Mr. Nuss states that he likes southern Oregon best of all places on his trip, and he was not favorably impressed with southern California.

Traveling is made most convenient through the west, Mr. Nuss found. Almost every city has a large tourist park with cabins equipped with showers, cooking conveniences, etc. Every comfort is provided.

 The American Legion has had signs placed on main highways in Wayne, urging automobile drivers to protect children. Such signs have been placed by the Legion all over the state.

Arrange Features For County Fair

Trained Bears, Tumblers and Colored Minstrels Will Appear on the Program.

Features are being arranged by the board for entertainment at the Wayne county fair which will be held September 11 to 14. Allenburg's bears will perform and this is considered the best act of trained bears in the country. Gertrude Avery and boys appear in tumbling acts. Four colored men present vocal and instrumental music.

Work on the new exhibit hall, the main part and two wings of which will be constructed this year, will start soon. This will house the women's departments and agricultural products. Cement floor will also be placed in the education hall.

Sixty-nine pens have already been reserved by hog exhibitors. There are sixty-four pens in the permanent hog quarters. Temporary pens will be constructed and these will be of better type and more convenient than in the past.

Fireworks displays are planned for the first and last evenings of the fair. Historical pictures will probably be shown the second and third nights.

Mr. Potts of Seward, has been secured to judge hogs at the fair this year. Mr. Gramlich, head of animal husbandry at the university in Lincoln, will judge cattle and baby beeves.

County Pioneer Is Honored Here

Alex Scott Enjoys Family Reunion on Sunday for His Ninety-second Birthday.

Alex Scott, one of the original group of thirteen settlers who filed on homesteads in Wayne county in 1870, was 92 years old July 9 and relatives went to his home in Wayne to remember the occasion. Dinner was served by Mrs. John Sherbahn, Mr. Scott's daughter, and the family enjoyed reminiscences of the early days. Mr. Scott is well and active and feels younger than he did last year. The occasion was a most happy one for him and his relatives.

Besides Mrs. Scott, the group included Mrs. John Sherbahn of McCook, Neb., Mrs. W. A. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. George Fox and two children and Mrs. Vivian Scott of Norfolk. A large cake with the years 1837 and 1929 on it was served. This was made by Mrs. J. R. Rundell. Grape fruit and plums sent from San Gabriel, Calif., by Mrs. Emma Emery, daughter of Mr. Scott, were also enjoyed.

Mr. Scott was born in Canada July 9, 1837. With his parents he moved to Dixon, Ill. He was one of the thirteen from Paw Paw county who took homesteads in Nebraska by affidavit and came here in 1870 to file claims and send papers to Washington. This group of settlers sought homes. They had endurance, integrity and imagination which enabled them to endure the hardships of the prairies. They sacrificed but found home here which they always loved. Mr. Scott encouraged others to bear the trials which brought reward.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott and four children came from Illinois in 1870 and located on a homestead five miles east of Wayne. Mr. Scott built a sod house on his place and lived in this for three years. Lumber was scarce and had to be hauled from Sioux City after being taken across the river by ferry. The difficulty of getting material delayed building for a few years.

In 1884 Mr. Scott moved into the corner north of the depot from Wm. Vroman. The building was sold later and a few years after was destroyed by fire. Mr. Scott has done gardening since.

Mr. Scott was crippled many years ago when a gun he had in his pocket accidentally caught on his suspenders and was discharged. Though this accident made one of Mr. Scott's limbs shorter than the other, he has always enjoyed good health and been very active.

Mr. Scott's surviving children are George Scott of Washington, Mrs. Emma Emery of San Gabriel, Calif., and Mrs. John Sherbahn of McCook. Mrs. Scott passed away about five years ago and some of the children have died. Mrs. Sherbahn plans to spend the summer here.

The U. S. Government Has Just Purchased 50 Bennett-Allison Oil Burners To Heat the Individual Buildings at Fort Omaha!

Extracts from the following letter from Bennett-Allison, Omaha, to the local representative, E. B. Pollard, explain:

"As a dealer holding a Bennett-Allison Automatic Oil Burner franchise you no doubt will be interested in knowing that yesterday we secured an order from the United States Government for the installation of fifty (50) Bennett-Allison Automatic Oil Burners for the heating of the various buildings and residences at Fort Omaha.

"In view of the fact that we had in competition some ten bidders, representing the principal nationally known burners, our machine had to stand up under the most severe inspection and tests that a Government Engineering Department gives a product before making an investment of this kind."

Comfort and Efficiency

The cost of heating oil burned by the Bennett-Allison Oil Burner is comparable with coal costing ten to twelve dollars per ton. The Bennett-Allison Automatic Oil Burner is designed and manufactured by an established firm of heating and combustion engineers who have developed this burner for the perfect combustion of all grades of fuel oil under complete automatic control. Noiseless, efficient and adaptable to any type of domestic or industrial heating plant.

The complete combustion of fuel oil by the Bennett-Allison Oil Burner is accomplished by the application of proven engineering principles in use by the largest industries, railroads and steamship lines.

While oil will burn in an open pan, the dense smoke and smell proves it is not undergoing complete combustion. The Bennett-Allison burner guarantees, automatically—NO SMOKE nor SOD and PERFECT CLEANLINESS. It turns your basement into a party or play room for the children. Dirty smoky fires are certain proof of waste of fuel and costly operation.

Housewives appreciate the clean certain heat the Bennett-Allison burner supplies.

No Worry

The action of the Bennett-Allison burner is always under Positive Electrical Control.

The amount of heat is automatically regulated by a thermostat.

The oil is motor-pumped to a forced feed, at which point it is air mixed and completely broken up into a fine mist which is ignited electrically, and burns completely with a hot, odorless flame.

The cheaper grades of fuel oil can be used, making oil heating very economical.

Safety controls provide complete safety and freedom from worry.

A careful comparison will convince you that the Bennett-Allison Automatic Oil Burner answers every demand that can be made of an oil burner.

Heats With Ease and Heats to Please

Noisless and Automatic

No more noise in starting or while operating. The Bennett-Allison runs as quiet as an electric fan. No expensive pilot lights. Its remarkable simplicity and complete automatic controls safeguard against every possible emergency. It is the final achievement in quietness, simplicity, beauty and efficiency.

Only the best control devices are made a part of the Bennett-Allison Automatic Oil Burner. The Minneapolis Honeywell Heat Regulator guards your family's health and happiness. The Thermostat is your furnace man.

Silks and Washable Linens Are in Favor Among Women for Sports Wear

BY HARRIET

THE utter femininity of clothes this summer is epitomized in sports attire.

Whereas one played golf, tennis, hiked or attended races or other outdoors affairs last season in the severest of sports things, this year they are charmingly soft and dressy.

Summer washable silks are having a tremendous vogue. They are equally satisfactory for office wear. Made in simple style, they rival the one-time "shirtwaist suit" for practicability, and the present informal but much more expensive garments for chic.

The main thing about these checked, striped or patterned washable silks is to have them simple. They should never try to be anything but informal. It would be incongruous to make them up with lace or fancy work touches. They are smartest made with pleats, yokes, ties, belts and other tailored lines.

Gingham for Golf
At a recent golf tournament, nine out of ten women participants wore pastel colored silk sports things instead of serviceable, knitted sweater suits. Some wore washable linens and piques.

One of the prettiest little golf things seen was a patterned silk gingham, with checks of light tan and white and a zigzag border of tan, orange and brown lines. It was made in box pleats from a shoulder yoke, belted snugly at normal waistline and flaring from the hips. It was sleeveless and had a dainty little tie with bordered ends finishing the neckline.

With it Mrs. V. D. Crist, the weaver, matched up brown and white sports shoes and a hat of white roughish straw, lined in orange. Her costume was sleeveless.

At a dog show the same tendency toward dressier spectator sports styles were noted. Many fine little chiffons, crepes and georgette frocks supplanted the cardigan coat and skirt outfits that were worn at the same show last year.

Flat Crepe Popular
The practically all featured fuller skirts, softer lines in the silhouette and many new touches such as organdie collar and cuffs, lace vestee, frills of hand-embroidered georgette or capes of pleated fabric.

Among the smartest and sweetest of these "dressmaker" frocks was a delicate beige flat crepe one worn by Mrs. George Andrade, whose Great Dane dog won blue ribbon.

The frock had full sleeves of the Bishop variety, with the lower puffs gathered into lace cuffs. This lace was dyed to match the frock's silk, exactly. The frock had a long shawl collar of net and lace and a deep vestee of the same. The skirt had shirred panels over both hips and a straight width front and back. And it was belted quite snugly, with the narrow attached belt ending in a narrow bow in the middle of the back, with the two ends lace-edged.

Ambassador Daves Geneva Signal: Before he had time to do much more than hang up his hat after arriving in England, Ambassador Daves did three things that would make the first page of any American newspaper: He had a conference with the British prime minister about naval disarmament at the invitation of the prime minister, he attended a high court function in ordinary American dress although every other man there not in military uniform wore silk knee breeches and silk stockings, and he said to the reporters who asked him about it that he had never served alcoholic liquor at his home in Washington and that he saw no reason for doing so at his home in London. As far as reported, he made no reference to Miss Helen and Miss Maria in his conversation with the reporters but there is no telling what may happen if they bother him too much, or if somebody tries to put something over on him. Decay of the Teeth And the Remedy There are a few certainties in this world. One of them is that a small decay will become a large one and that a tooth will be finally lost as a result. Another is that good dentistry can save the tooth to a good old age, if the dentist is given the opportunity to find and fill this small cavity before it becomes a large one. Even then there is hope that it may be saved by a skillful dentist. Dr. T. B. Heckert Over Mines' Jewelry Store 127E

Ford NEWS A definite reason for extra value in our USED CARS When you buy a used car you should be sure the price is not put above the actual worth of the car, to allow the dealer to recoup an excessive trade-in allowance. Under the Ford policy there is no incentive for this sort of practice—for the price of the new Ford car is so low, and the value so high, that unreasonable trade-in concessions are hardly possible. We allow the buyer of a Model A just what his old car is worth—and we offer that used car for sale on the same basis. Model T Fords are reconditioned throughout, and guaranteed. Prices for other makes of cars are based on the service you will get from them. Right now we are offering unusual bargains in unused transportation. Stop in today, and look over these, and others. Aurora Republican: The young people of today, who like the young people of yesterday and day before that have been pretty well hauled over the coals by most everyone who feels competent, have a staunch supporter in Dr. Walter A. Maier of St. Louis, editor of the Walther League Messenger, who spoke before the Evangelical Lutheran Missouri Synod recently. For one thing, Dr. Maier took a poke at the old one about the "good old days," which he said were too far distant to permit their inconsistencies and absurdities to be revealed. And so far as Dr. Maier is concerned, if the moderate use of rouge and lipstick make women more attractive, let them do it. They have a precedent, established by the virtuous women of the "good old days," who were denounced as early as 1686 because "to hide her age, she paints; and to hide her painting, dars hardly laugh." "As for modesty, no one who knows that inclination to the de-collette that characterized the end of the 18th and the beginning of the 19th centuries will complain today," he said. All of which is pretty much in favor of the young people of today, who, despite their own whoopee and the indignant and scandalized yowls of a number of people who are always waiting to be scandalized, are a pretty good lot, after all. There are, of course, plenty of things that the young people of today should correct in themselves. There is too much drinking, too much promiscuity of the affections and too much seeking after the things that come easy. But these are things which are natural to youth and can be cured. They are not all peculiar to this generation, which moves along, perhaps faster than its predecessors, but toward the front.

Banking Reports.

Lincoln Journal: The first report of the auditors employed at the direction of the legislature to investigate the state bank failure of the past is an interesting document, even tho it does not contain much that is new and respect to the desperate tactics used by some state bankers to keep their heads above the flood that deflation loosed upon them. It has long been contended by social philosophers that no man can predict what he will do until he gets into a financial corner. The report charges forgeries of notes presumptively for the purpose of deceiving the examiners, excess loans and borrowings by the manager of the bank, when fate got him into a corner. The data given shows conclusively why the guaranty fund failed. No fund could have withstood the assault made upon it thru the channels of corrupt and bad banking. Not only was the entire capital stock lost in the deluge, but poor and worthless paper to an astounding amount, considering the size of the institution, piled up, all of these losses falling upon the fund. In commenting upon the report some stress has been laid upon the fact that the banking department was advised by examiners of what was being done, but that beyond reprimanding the banker nothing was done about it. On the face of it this looks like gross neglect of duty, and as one of the certain causes for the present condition of the guaranty fund. Before condemnation descends too heavily it might be well to remember that the men who were at the head of the banking department during the worst times were between the devil and the deep sea. The inflation spree thru which the people of the state and the bankers had passed left so many banks in a condition where if the law had been strictly applied the number that would have had to be closed would have been so great that an uninformed public would have precipitated a panic. The situation called for a higher degree of judgment than the average man possesses. Many banks that were insolvent were allowed to remain open in the hope that they might be able to weather the storm. Some of them did, but many of them were loaded up just as was the Ralston bank, and rescue was impossible. From the viewpoint of the present much of what was done calls for condemnation; at the time the steps taken were approved by many as wise caution. Things really look better for the old Democratic donkey. Al Smith has been made an honorary member of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.—Milwaukee Journal. Seventeen boys are taking a course in cooking in a Buffalo high school. The time is coming soon, of course, when no girl will be thought competent and best called on an account of fat.

The Home of the Future.

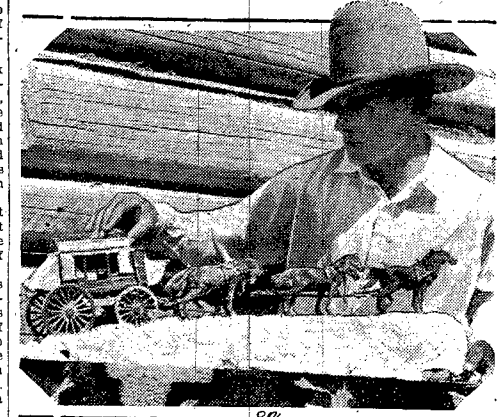

York Republican: Assuming that the American home is going to keep pace in development with modern science, it is interesting to speculate on what the home of the future—say twenty-five years hence—will be like. The character of the American home has changed amazingly in the past quarter of a century. The drudgery has been taken out in a large degree but mechanical means are resorted to still further relieve the housewife and make her home tasks easy and quickly done. Let Henry Ford tell how it will be. "The home of the future will be so constructed that it will be almost temperature proof, hence warm in winter and cool in summer. Then heat will be derived from electricity. All of the mechanical operations about the home, cleaning, washing, cooking, etc., will be done by electricity, as many now are, but the present processes will be improved, refined, cheapened. "The homes of the future will have no cooking inside. Individual cook houses and kitchens will disappear. There will be community culinary centers where every variety of food desired will be scientifically cooked and delivered to homes, much more cheaply done than individual cooking can do it, and generally much better done. "Power, heat, light, for these community centers will be centrally developed or taken off the wires from hydroelectric, gas, oil or coal power plants at a cost much below the combined cost now of these elements and the kitchen equipment of homes. "Too much drudgery in the home! Too many homes badly located, without sun and air and play room outside for the children! Altogether too much waste going into light, heat and cooking, because the whole thing is not scientifically planned and planned on a community scale. "All of which is very interesting and most important. But there is something more important, still and no doubt if Henry Ford, genius that he is, can answer it: Will the home of the future with all its mechanical improvements be a place where family life is developed and maintained? Will it be a rallying place for good citizenship and righteousness? Will it be a place where children learn obedience that begets respect of law and the rights of others? Will it be a place where parents through government of their children learn justice and self-control? If Mr. Ford will assure us that the home will be and do all these things, we will look forward to the new days with hope. But if the home is merely to gain ease and luxurious comfort we will be content that we lived in a time when home was home and around it clustered the happy memories of childhood and the virtues that made men and women of responsibility and character. Easterners Go West to Be Wild Cowboys But Often End Up as Artists

TENDERFOOT easterners usually travel west to become cowboys and lead a rugged and active life, but they often end up in one of the many specialties of the West. And even the cowless cowboys are turning to it. "It's a funny thing," says Jack Brown, former guide of the National Glacier Park in Montana, "but seeds of tenderfeet have come out intending to be wild and woolly cowboys and have taken up brushes or grabbed clay and established reputations as painters or modelers depicting western life. "I'll be darned if I know what makes 'em do it, but they do. It must be something about the grandeur and the massiveness of the Rockies. "There's something about this place that makes a man rise epically. And that's what artists would-be tough fellows off their high horses. One gets to ridin' about and first thing he knows he wants to give expression to what he sees and what he feels. That ends his dream of being a bad old cowboy. "Brown, who dabbles a bit with clay and also with paint but admits he "ain't set the world ablaze yet," loves to tell of the many artists who have spent months at the park and later achieved greatness. "It's a long list of men and women," he says, proudly, "and some of them are pretty famous. "Charley Russell, whose paintings hang everywhere in the east, and James Willard Schultz, who has written numerous Indian books, are two of them. John Clark is a deaf and dumb Indian sculptor who has a studio out here. And Charlie Bell does great stuff with clay and is getting a swell reputation nationally. "There's dozens of others. Gene Shambour, Hi Crawford, George Shampine, Joe De Young, Jack Horn, C. V. Swedblom, Jim Whitt, Mrs. Mike Shannon—all of them have spent months and months out here. Many of them as guides, and their work is considered good by capable critics.

And the explanation for this transition from the cowless cowboys and effete easterners into guides and then artists is explained by Brown in these words: "It's the bigness of the country, I guess, with the towerin' mountains and the lakes and streams and that awin' scenery thrown in that gets you. Inspiration, you might say, sorta like falling in love. And it's hard to resist."

HOW TALKING PICTURES WERE DEVELOPED

First Heard in New York in August of 1926.

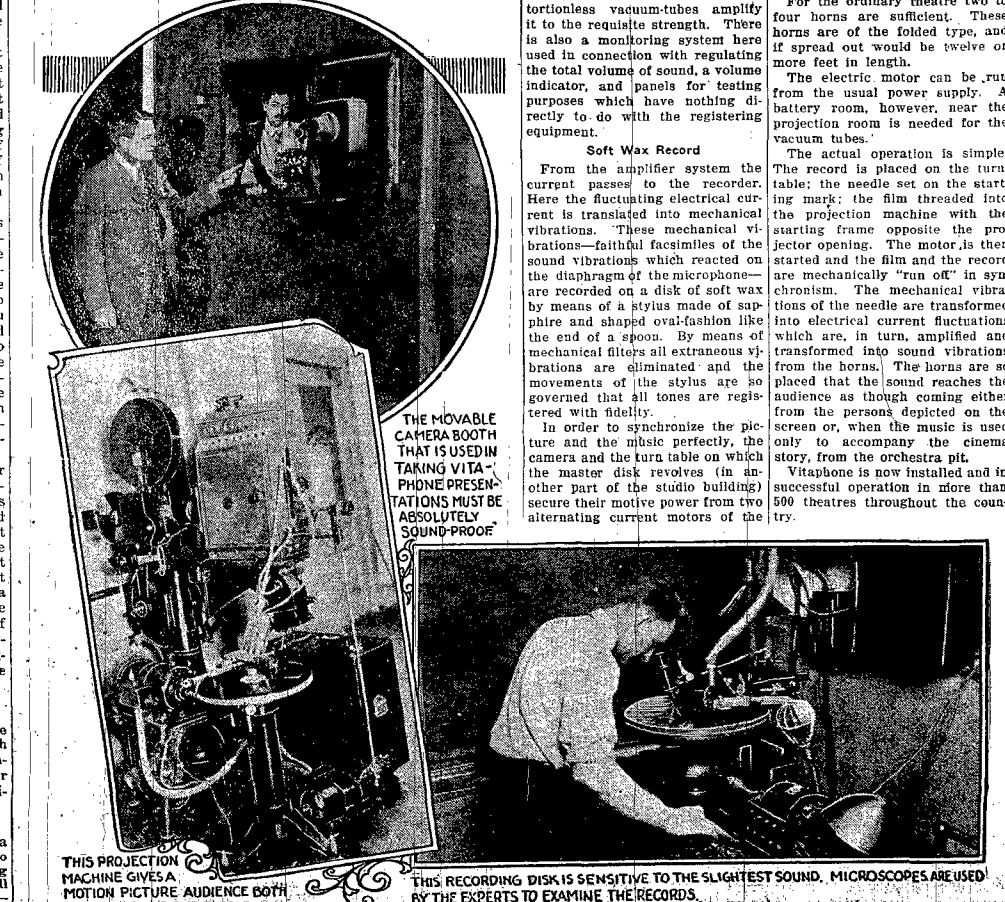

VITAPHONE is but two years old. Yet in that time it has revolutionized an industry and has transformed the world's most popular medium of entertainment—the motion picture. It required courage, foresight and imagination to undertake the public introduction of Vitaphone which was to give a voice to the silent drama. In the face of opposition and skepticism Warner Bros. dared when their competitors hesitated. Today as the entire picture business is accepting the arrival of this new era in screen history, Warner Bros. are advancing far ahead of the rest with a confidence that is born of practical experience and the assurance of the successful pioneer. In August, 1926, Warner Bros., as licensee of the Western Electric Company, proclaimed themselves ready to present for public approval the most epoch-making development in screen history. Previous experiments in talking pictures from time to time had proved ludicrous failures. It was suspected that this demonstration would be just one more like the rest. But Warner Bros' faith in Vitaphone was not a shallow interest in endowing the screen with a voice to make it a temporary freak novelty. They saw it as the crowning technical perfection of the motion picture. They backed it with their reputations as film executives and the reputation of their company. Moreover, they invested it with the more concrete assets of their own tireless efforts and the vast resources of the organization which carries their name. The first audience to hear Vitaphone assembled at the Warner Theatre in New York. As they entered the playhouse on Broadway there was little enthusiasm for the experience that awaited them. Then the house was darkened and there faded in on the screen the figure of Will Hayes. A moment later his voice on the Vitaphones was speaking, telling of the honor he felt as leader of the industry to endorse the marvelous device. At his first words there was a gasp of breathless astonishment. At last the illusion of speech in connection with the motion picture was real. A spontaneous burst of thunderous applause from the amazed spectators followed and Vitaphones was a success. The system and apparatus employed by Vitaphone were developed by the Bell Telephone Laboratories and the Western Electric Company. Through Vitaphone music, speech and song are electrically reproduced, as the performers seen on the screen appear to render it; music especially played to accompany a certain picture is electrically reproduced in synchronism with the action on the screen; and, in general, the visual and audible presentation of performers is given mechanically, and electrically at any place or at any time, without their actual presence in the theatre or hall. The sound vibrations created by the orchestra are picked from the air by microphones, which are placed out of the range of the cameras and yet within a few feet of the players. Where the rendition is that of a single singer or player one microphone is sufficient, but in the performances of large orchestras like the New York Philharmonic, six or more microphones may be used. From the microphones the fluctuating electrical current passes through wires to the control room where it passes through an amplifying system. Amplifier panels of the Western Electric Public Address System type are used in this connection. Because the current set up by the fluctuations of sound pressure at the diaphragm of the microphone are too minute to operate the registering device which cuts the grooves on the soft wax disk which serves as a master record, this amplifier system is introduced to take the small current at its input end and by means of distortionless vacuum-tubes amplify it to the requisite strength. There is also a monitoring system here used in connection with regulating the total volume of sound, a volume indicator, and panels for testing purposes which have nothing directly to do with the registering equipment.

Has Revolutionized The Motion Picture Business.

synchronous type made to run at uniform speed. To record, the motors are started and gain full speed together and continue to run together. Connected to the recording arm is a suction tube which draws the cut wax particles up and away from the disk. The operation of the reproducing apparatus is comparatively simple. The average moving-picture operator can be taught to handle the Vitaphone show in a week or less while the average theatre electrician can easily be taught to replace a bad vacuum tube or make minor adjustments in the apparatus. The turn-table is located immediately adjacent to the picture projector, both of which are driven by the same motor, the speed of which is controlled by a speed-control mechanism which keeps the speed constant. The electro-magnetic pick-up mechanism is attached to the turn-table. The amplifier panels are compact and require but a very small amount of floor space. These are also installed in the projection booth and near enough to the projecting apparatus so that the operator can also handle the volume-control mechanism. Four Horns Required. For the ordinary theatre two to four horns are sufficient. These horns are of the folded type, and if spread out would be twelve or more feet in length. The electric motor can be run from the usual power supply. A battery unit, however, near the projection room is needed for the vacuum tubes. The actual operation is simple. The record is placed on the turntable; the needle set on the starting mark; the film threaded into the projection machine with the starting frame opposite the projector opening. The motor is then started and the film and the record are mechanically "run off" in synchronism. The mechanical vibrations of the needles are transformed into electrical current fluctuations which are, in turn, amplified and transformed into sound vibrations from the horns. The horns are so placed that the sound reaches the audience as though coming either from the persons depicted on the screen or, when the music is used only to accompany the cinema story, from the orchestra pit. Vitaphone is now installed and in successful operation in more than 500 theatres throughout the country.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

MELVIN OTT, 20-YEAR-OLD KID OUTFIELDER, IS SHOWING THE MAJOR LEAGUERS HOW TO HIT 'EM FAR AND WIDE FOR HOME RUNS.

BY PHILIP MARTIN INTO the big league spotlight has stepped a new king of the long clout, 20-year-old Melvin Ott, of the New York Giants. With the season half gone when July breezed in, this young man from Gretna, La., across the river from New Orleans, had 22 home runs, while Buster Gehrig, mightiest mace in the American League, was one behind. Ott was only 16 years old when he first reported to the Giants. He had been catching for a semi-pro team at Patterson, La., which was supported by the millionaire lumberman, Harry Williams. Williams happened to be a friend of Manager John J. McGraw of the Giants, and told McGraw about the fine prospect he had. McGraw asked Williams to send him along. Ott says he was scared stiff when he reported at the Polo Grounds, and expected to be sent right back to some minor league team for seasoning. McGraw told him to go out and work with the rookies. Ott worked hard. Later on McGraw told him to throw away his catcher's glove and try playing the outfield. Instead of sending Ott to the bushes, McGraw, who had taken a liking to the shy chap from the canebrakes, kept him on the Giants' bench, where he learned rapidly. Last year Ott broke in as a regular and has been going like a house afire ever since. After Ott smacks one into the bleachers and the fans cheer, he merely touches his cap and keeps Melvin Ott, youngster with the New York Giants, who is astonishing the majors with his home run clouts. His eyes toward the ground as he walks back to the bench. From the instant when he steps into the batter's box, he never takes his eyes off the pitcher. He also has proved his value in the field. Ott is 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighs only 165 pounds, but he throws himself into a swing with terrific force.

CHICAGO is all excited about the coming championship match between Sammy Mandell, lightweight title holder, and Tony Canzoneri. Paddy Harmon, promoter of the match, which takes place August 2, says that more than 2000 applications for tickets already have been received. In Canzoneri's recent fights with Armando Santano, Joey Sangor and Andre Routis, the house was sold out. MAX SCHMELING and Paulino Uscudun fought for charity, but each got $72,443 for his efforts. The fund for milk for poor children profited to the amount of $130,000. The total gate was $381,000, gross. Madison Square Garden officials are expecting a gate of $1,000,000 or more when Schmeling meets Jack Sharkey in September. Sharkey has been under contract since his victory over Stribling at Miami Beach, Fla., last February. FORMER Collegiate Tennis Champion Julius Seligson of Lehigh College ought to take out some rain insurance on himself. In the semi-finals this year at Haverford, Pa., Seligson failed to appear for his semi-final match with Berkeley Bell of Texas University, and the match went to Bell by default. Bell went on to win the title. Seligson said he didn't appear for the match with Bell because he thought competition had been called off on account of rain.

They're Reducing Your Bankroll

These young ladies above are doing something no one particularly likes in its literal meaning. They're reducing your bankroll! That is to say they're employees of the "wetting division" of the Bureau for Printing and Engraving at Washington and they're working on the smaller sized paper currency which soon will replace the current paper money. The new bills are two-thirds the size of the present bill—and if that isn't reducing your bankroll, what is?

Talkies Drawing Many Great Actors From Legitimate Stage

GEORGE JESSEL

George Jessel sings famous ballad in new sound picture. New York City.—George Jessel, who is retiring from what moving pictures drove us to call "the speaking stage," in favor of "the talkies," is one of those who is glad the shadow actor has been given a voice. "Synchronized pictures," Jessel says, "have broadened the field from which screen talent may be selected. Your singing actor may be a pantomime and able to express all that any other pantomime artist can portray, but that is only a part of his talent, a part of his expression. "Heretofore, the singer on the screen has been an incomplete artist. He has been as handicapped as that one-armed paper hanger you hear a lot about. He has been a shadow without the substance that gave him animation. Jessel has the highest respect for pantomime, but he maintains, "The voice is the vitality of the actor, the life of the portrait. A pantomime performance needs a musical accompaniment as badly as passing the plate in church needs an offertory. The spoken performance is its own music." George Jessel has never given a stage performance in which he has not sung. He is one of those people who can sing a song with his back to the audience and pull the heart right out of you. With sound and shadow synchronized, the scope of the movies is widened, and a new thrill is given the audience. Jessel's first singing and talking feature production is, "Lucky Boy," a Tiffany-Stahl picture in which the star wins his audience by his singing of "My Mother's Eyes," one of the great ballads of the day.

ACCOUNTABILITY TO GOD

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 14. Individual Accountability to God. Ezekiel, 33:7-10.

UNDER the figure of a watchman Ezekiel sets forth in the verses of this lesson the responsibilities of a faithful minister of God. He presents these things as the word of the Lord coming to him; but he is speaking out of his own experiences and ideals to all who are morally responsible. He defines with great clearness the limits and realities of a man's responsibility for the society in which he lives and for the actions of other people. The individual who would be morally and spiritually right, like the watchman who would guard the safety of his community, has responsibilities that he cannot shirk. The watchman in the ancient city was an important figure. In an era when attack might come suddenly from any quarter, the safety of the community depended often upon the watchfulness of the watchman in discovering quickly any source of danger and in giving the alarm.

Thy Brother's Keeper. The message of this lesson is that the individual never lives to himself, that he cannot limit his responsibility to his own conduct, but that, in so far as his voice and influence can exhort and warn, he is responsible where he does influence felt. Much of this would be regarded as sound doctrine in modern society.

The man who saw a theft being perpetrated and did nothing to prevent it, would be regarded as culpably negligent. The man who saw a house on fire and failed to return in an alarm would be regarded as morally, if not legally, negligent on much the same plane as a perpetrator of arson. The principle that a man is his brother's keeper and is responsible for many actions besides his own has become established over a fairly wide range of life both by law and custom; but neither law nor custom have ever extended that sense of moral responsibility into the spheres in which it must be voluntarily accepted by the man who would be in any real sense a prophet. There are spiritual responsibilities that are parallel with spiritual capacities.

Charge Against Evil. In the background of this whole lesson is the conception that we live in a universe of moral forces and tragic or noble destinies. Under these conditions it is made clear that God is on the side of those who strive to do good. It is a noble conception of God as taking no pleasure in punishment. The purpose of God is human welfare and redemption. If his laws seem to operate with harshness, it is because these laws are inexorable. He has no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but it is altogether his purpose that men should find the way to life. To that extent the universe is on the side of the man who strives to avoid evil and achieve good. But there are also in life the forces of helplessness, that man may bring to his fellowmen. It is a great mistake to believe that when men are wilfully going the way of sin and destruction, there is no human power that can help them. Oftentimes, as our lesson reminds us, divine power is manifest in human influence. We may remember the charge against Eli, personally a good man, that "his sons made themselves vile and he restrained them not." There are fraternal as well as paternal obligations in life. A man is responsible for his fellowmen in so far as he has power to influence them for good, and to guard them against evil. In the citadels of character and truth it is every man's duty to be a watchman.

Ho, Hum! Bob Jones Wins Again

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin.

The Fort Kearney highway, running past historic old Fort Kearney is being improved. That is, the surface is being improved, but the surroundings are being sadly mangled. Stately old cottonwood trees are being felled. For years they have shaded the old road. One historic old tree has already been felled. Tradition has it that the tree was planted near Dobytown about 75 years ago, and that Judge Gaslin sat beneath its shade as a young lawyer, studying his book. An Indian chief is said to have been buried beneath it, and three thieves hanged from its limbs. It was a handsome tree when Gen. Sheridan, peeved because he was hissed while riding through Dobytown, ordered Fort Kearney abandoned.

In the spring of 1871 Joe Isom, then 23 years old, came to Nebraska from Wisconsin and took up a homestead in Dixon county, near Allen. He drove a team hitched to a covered wagon. The next year a family from the same locality in Wisconsin homesteaded near by. There was a daughter in the family, and that daughter soon became Mrs. Joe Isom. Mr. Isom, now 81, and Mrs. Isom, now 80, are still living on the original Isom homestead and recently celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary.

Jacob Dein died recently at his home near Alexandria, where he had lived for 53 years. He homesteaded in 1866, and owned the original homestead at the time of his death. He served in the military expeditions against the Indians in the ten wild west from 1867 to 1869.

The proposition that the banks of the state assess themselves to pay $5,000 each for dead bank burglars, has fallen through, not a sufficient number of banks agreeing to pay $7.50 each. The subscribing banks are now being asked if they will go through on the proposition to pay $3,000 for each bank burglar's scalp, hypothetically speaking.

Miss Ruth Pyrtle, for many years principal of Bancroft school in Lincoln, has been elected president of the National Educational Association. She is the first woman to be thus honored, and her election was unanimous.

The best story about a Nebraskan comes from Wymore, but unfortunately the name of the Nebraskan has slipped from memory. He is a Burlington engineer. Recently he bought his first automobile, and after receiving a few instructions he started out for a ride. All went well until he drove into the garage. The auto didn't stop, but plunged through the rear end of the garage, out into the open and into a ditch. When asked how it all happened the engineer replied:

"When I got ready to stop I reached for the throttle and it wasn't there."

Speaking of the financial standing of the states, can any state beat Nebraska's, population considered? July 1 was the first day of the new fiscal year. On that date not a single state fund was overdrawn. There was a balance of $2,024,852 in the general fund, and a total of $5,311,451 in the current revenue funds. And Nebraska has more than $20,000,000 in invested trust funds, practically all of it for the benefit of the permanent school fund.

Alexander Legge, president of the International Harvester Co., has been appointed member of the farm board by President Hoover. The new position carries a salary of $12,500 a year, which is $87,500 less than the salary Mr. Legge must give up to accept the place. And, of course, Nebraska boys claim to him. He began working for the International Harvester Co. at Omaha when he was scarcely 21 years old. He worked for a time as bookkeeper, then as collector, then as salesman, then as sales manager, resident manager, and finally to the presidency. He accepted the appointment as a patriotic duty.

Judge W. N. Hensley of Columbus died at his home June 20. He has lived in Columbus for 53 years. He served for eight years as postmaster, several terms as county judge, was commandant of the Soldiers and Sailors Home at Millford for several years, and was city attorney at the time of his death. He was the father of Major William N. Hensley, the first army officer to fly the Atlantic from east to west, making the flight in the R-34. Major Hensley made a dawn to dusk flight from New York to Columbus, eating breakfast in New York and dinner with his father in the old home town. Judge Hensley was 85 years old, and his fatal illness was contracted while attending the funeral of his famous son at Arlington a year ago. The judge skidded with bare head in a drizzling rain while the funeral was being held.

The Schuyler Sun has entered upon its 58th year of splendid service to its city, county and state.

Discouraging. Dr. A. L. Bixby in Lincoln Journal: Edgar Howard praises the president for having chosen Alex Legge of Nebraska as president of the new farm board, an organization small enough to reach conclusions without interminable debate. But alas, Edgar chills us by the admission that he has greater confidence in the man than in the law he is called upon to administer. So if we fail to get the relief we have prayed for it will be by reason of a defective statute and not because incompetent men are chosen on the board. That's the trouble; so many men are sent to congress who know little of the country's needs and have no gumption in prescribing remedies. Politics all the time, and national or world welfare forever in the fog. Isn't it discouraging? It is the love of other people's money which is the root of all evil.—Shoe and Leather Reporter. How Does 20 x 32 Strike You?

There is a new member in the McCormick-Deering steel thresher family. The 20 x 32, after undergoing field trials for the past three years, has now been added to the regular line. This makes it possible for us to offer you a choice of three of the most convenient size machines for individual and neighborhood threshing—20 x 32, 22 x 38, and 28 x 46.

In a canvass made of thresher owners a few years ago, it was found that the 20 x 32 traveled farthest in doing custom work and handled the most jobs. The reason for this is obvious. It is light enough to pass over practically all roads and bridges. It can be operated by a light tractor, and no job is too small to pay for setting this machine because of the ease with which the work can be accomplished.

In addition to grain threshing, McCormick-Deering threshers can be equipped for threshing practically all seeds, including beans and peas, with special equipment and cleaners for alfalfa and clover. More and more grain growers are finding that it pays to own a thresher.

Come in and let us show you the many advantages in owning a McCormick-Deering
