LATEST KIND OF AUTOMATIC PRESS IN HERALD PLANT

THE new self-feeding job press, printing a sheet 14x22 inches, has been installed in the job department of the Herald plant, and it has been grinding out jobs with wonderful speed and rare accuracy. It is a late product of this mechanical period, and we understand there are only three others like it in the state. Following adjustment to a task, it sets to work without any fooling, and it does not stop to light a cigarette or take a chew of tobacco or golf or bridge. It does not become irritated over the size of its job. It does not belong to the union and pays no attention to the clock. It handles large and small jobs with equal facility, and registration is so perfect that sheets may be inserted a second time without perceptible variation in the impression. If it fails to print or anything goes wrong, it rings a bell to invite the attention of the job man. Its chief source of energy lies in a hand crank which operates out 10,000 envelopes, two at a time, in about two hours, and 50,000 letter heads, four at a time, in about six hours, we do not wonder that the ordinary job press cannot compete with it.

Car Is Damaged At Stromsburg

The L. E. Panabaker car was considerably damaged Tuesday afternoon in an accident at Stromsburg, Neb., when Mr. and Mrs. Panabaker and Mrs. J. E. Blackmore, the last named of South Sioux City, were returning home from Fort Morgan, Colo., where they went last week to attend the funeral of a sister of the women, Mrs. W. J. Finerty. A man drove into a street intersection at Stromsburg as Mr. Panabaker was driving on the highway. To avoid striking the other car Mr. Panabaker turned his machine into a ditch. The fenders, lights and other parts of the car were broken and bent and the Wayne people were delayed a half day getting the car repaired, but they arrived home Tuesday evening. None of the occupants were hurt.
Enroute back the Panabakers visited their grandson, Gerald Dennis, who has a position with the Brown-Ekberg store at Holdrege. The last named likes his work very much.

CORN TAKES LEAD IN CROP PROMISE IN THIS SECTION

GOVERNOR Weaver is quoted as saying that, despite damage from floods and hail in spots, he has never seen crop conditions generally better in this state, and has never seen more promising prospects for the Nebraska farmer. Following careful investigation it is pointed out that the corn crop will be greater than any within five years, and that the price will be strong on account of an estimated lower level of production in other states of the corn belt. Corn is the major crop in Wayne county, and it has been making wonderful growth under the influence of rain and sunshine. After a week without moisture, heavy rainfall—two and one-fourth inches here—soaked this corner of the state early Sunday morning. The small grain harvest, in progress the last week, has been hindered and in spots injured by wet weather. The wheat crop over the state is reported shortened somewhat by unfavorable elements, but it is ahead of most other wheat growing states, and accordingly the price will tend to make up for lack of quantity. Sometimes Nebraska is out of luck as compared with some other states, but this year's good fortune smiles and the prospect for both agriculture and live stock is most reassuring. Quantities here will have the advantage of good prices.

Heavy Rain Here At Harvest Time

Small Grain Is Blown Down Somewhat Sunday Morning—Moisture Benefits Corn.

A heavy rain, varying from two to three and one-half inches, fell in Wayne county early Sunday morning and was of great benefit to corn. Small grain, which was in the harvesting process, was damaged somewhat. Some wind accompanied the rain and blew down grain. Most of this can be cut soon though and it is estimated the loss will be small. Logan creek overflowed and the valley was deep in water most of Sunday. The rain measured 2.25 inches at Wayne, about the same at Winside, 2.6 at Carroll and 3.46 at Wakefield.
Harvesting was resumed by many farmers on Tuesday and with favorable weather it will soon be completed. Some barley and oats which were in shock in the valleys, were washed away by high water.
Limbs were twisted from trees by the wind in several places. Lightning was sharp and one bolt struck at the John Beckman farm north of town, no special damage resulting.
Rainfall was heaviest in northwest Nebraska at Tekamah, six inches being reported there. Streets were knee deep in water. Carl Henke of Sioux City, brakeman, was drowned there when a locomotive left the tracks and he was pinned under the hand rail of the tender in water. About 1,000 feet of tracks were washed out at Tekamah.
Lightning is reported to have been most severe at Pierce, about 100 places having been struck and damage resulting. The Tomek barn was burned. The Lutheran church and homes of Mrs. Mary Mastalar and Mrs. N. M. Nelson were struck and damaged.
The O'Neill Catholic church was struck and fire damaged the tower.
The Henry Wordkemper barn at West Point, was destroyed by fire caused from lightning. Four calves were lost.
Other damage to buildings and loss of livestock are reported in many places in northeast Nebraska.

Wayne Methodist Church Board Votes To Buy Organ and Remodel

Improvements to cost about $10,000—Chimes Are Memorial to Pioneer Builders.

The Wayne Methodist church is to be remodeled and redecorated on the interior, and a new pipeorgan is to be installed, the improvements to cost between $3,000 and $10,000. Exterior work has been done within the past few weeks. The improvements were decided upon Monday at the meeting of the official board. Work starts immediately and will be completed within three or four months.
The new pipeorgan, which is to be one of the best in the state, will have 800 speaking pipes and also chimes. The chimes will be memorial to the pioneer builders of the Wayne church.
The west part of the church, in which are located the pulpit, organ and choir loft, will be entirely remodeled. The pulpit will remain in its present location in front but will be remodeled. The organ pipes will be divided, part of the unit to be on each side of the choir loft and console which will be in the center, just back of the pulpit.
The interior walls of the church will be redecorated and the furniture will be refinished.
The church has had the roof and the front entrance repaired this summer. The outside woodwork has also been repainted.
The Wayne Methodist church had its beginning in 1881, the year the town was started. A class consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Burr Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Chance, was organized. Mr. Cunningham invited Rev. W. H. Carter of Wisner, to come here to conduct services as often as he could, and this he did. Rev. D. C. Winship was appointed in 1882 to serve the Wayne and Wakefield churches.
The Wayne congregation built its first frame church in 1885. The present structure was put up in 1901 at a cost of $17,000, the frame having become too small. Rev. Thomas Bittel was pastor during the building period.
The present remodeling and installation of a new pipeorgan mark another advanced step in the church progress. Rev. W. W. Whitman is pastor.

War Talk. Lincoln Journal: "Chattering about the next war," declares Prof. J. Y. Simpson of Edinburg, "should be made a criminal offense."

"And why not?" asks the Christian Science Monitor, pointing out that if talking peace when a nation is at war is criminal—and it was, a little more than ten years ago—talking war, when a nation is at peace is no less criminal.

There is a great deal in this argument but after due consideration one would hesitate to recommend such a severe measure. Those who remember the terrorism and jingoism that reigned during the World war and the difficulties into which many mild and innocent persons were plunged by a careless remark or a hesitancy in performing some popular duty, do not care to see it revived in any form.

The Monitor argues that the settlement of all disputes by peaceful means is now the settled policy of the civilized world and that if the pacifist was a menace to his country when it was pursuing war, the jingoist is no less a menace when his country is pursuing peace.

All this is true. But no one often sees the terrorism that so often characterizes a war period carried on into peace time.

WOOD BROTHERS THRESHER

THE STRONGEST LINK IN YOUR PROFIT CHAIN

THIS year why not complete your chain of profits by threshing with a New, Improved WOOD BROTHERS THRESHER? The "link" that saves the grain, cuts down the work and brings enough extra profits and extra income to pay for itself in a season or two.

Over 20,000 farmers are users of WOOD BROTHERS THRESHERS and their own tractors to thresh their own grain and seeds when they are ready. Not only that but they make money threshing for neighbors after their own work is out of the way.

New Improvements
MAKE the WOOD BROTHERS THRESHER better than ever. The feeder is built longer for easy feeding. Timken Roller Bearings on all important shafts and high pressure lubrication make it the world's lightest running thresher. Improvements in the straw racks, fan and shoe give greater grain saving and faster threshing. You can thresh and clean any kind of seed of grain in a WOOD BROTHERS THRESHER at lower cost. We can prove it to you in a very short time. Just give us a chance.

Battles under water with sharks, sensational fights in a jungle wilderness, and other tropic thrills, blend with an island love romance in Ramon Novarro's new screen drama, "The Pagan," coming to the Gay theatre Sunday and Monday, July 21 and 22. This new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production was directed by W. S. Van Dyke, and the entire company passed weeks in the islands to film the story, adapted from John Russell's famous novel. It is sound synchronized film with singing sequences which introduce Novarro as a singer on the vocal screen.

Improvements.

F. D. Stone in Hartington Herald: The Wayne Herald, which already has one of the most complete and up-to-date printing equipments in the north-west Nebraska or in the entire state for that matter, states in its last issue that more substantial improvements are contemplated in the near future. It says: "A contract calls for installation in August of a newspaper perfecting press, feeding automatically from rolls and printing at once eight pages in one-third the time now required to print four pages. Also the job department is to receive within two weeks, an automatically fed press, printing any sheet up to 14 by 22 inches with speed and accuracy now impossible." "Total cost of the improvements, we are pained to contemplate," continues the editor of the Wayne Herald, "will make $10,000 look like 30 cents." For a weekly newspaper in a town the size of Wayne to plan such extensive improvements as those mentioned above is extraordinary. Twenty-five years ago the Wayne Herald was using "patent insides" and printing four pages a week with a drum cylinder, but it has steadily forged to the front, gradually improving equipment and service, until now it is one of the generally recognized outstanding country newspapers in the United States. Its success affords a striking illustration of what brains, energy and high ideals can accomplish along any given line and, while the present undertaking seems like a daring one, we have no doubt it, also, will terminate successfully.

First Best Seller Greatest Of All

In all the history of literature no work has achieved the sensational, universal popularity as that attributed to "Uncle Tom's Cabin," save the Bible. From 1852, when the novel by Harriet Beecher Stowe first started an entire world, it has run into literally thousands of editions. It has been translated into every known language and dialect on the face of the earth, as well as copied into the Braille, the printed language of the blind.

Even today, 75 years after publication, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," enjoys a supremacy in the literary world envied by both budding and established authors. From the quantity-production, rough-paper, 10-cent store editions to the deluxe, leather-bound gift copies, fortunes are still being made from the sale of the book.

On the stage, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has appeared in every known variety of presentation. Tent show, wagon show, stock company, repertoire, tabloid, burlesque, drama, comedy—all have played "Tom" shows. Back in 1901, in Des Moines, Iowa, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was presented in operatic form, for just one performance. It was not a success, due to unforeseen financial difficulties, but it quite rounded out the gamut of varieties of stage production.

Recently, radio station WGBS, in New York, broadcast "Uncle Tom's Cabin," as a radio play. It brought thousands of appreciative responses from fans thousands of miles distant.

The screen version of this famous book is coming to the Gay theatre July 25 and 26. Harry Pollard, responsible for the success of such productions as "The Cohens and Kelly," "California Straight Ahead," "K. the Unknown," "Poker Faces," "Oh Doctor," "The Leather Pushers," and others, is the directorial genius responsible for "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Decay of the Teeth And the Remedy

There are a few certainties in this world. One of them is that a small decay will become a large one and that a tooth will be finally lost as a result. Another is that good dentistry can save the tooth to a good old age, if the dentist is given the opportunity to find and fill this small cavity before it becomes a large one. Even then there is hope that it may be saved by a skillful dentist.

A Big Saving We Pass On To You

The problem of getting a successful, cheap cleaning solvent has been baffling cleaners all over the country for years. The secret was discovered in our shop about 90 days ago, and we now refine our own solvent, enabling us to cut in half the cost of cleaning materials. This saving we are passing on to customers.

So far as we are able to learn our plant is the only one in the country making cleaning solvent in this manner. We buy products from oil companies and refine them. We also reclaim the materials through a clarificator system.

Men from a distance who are with cleaning establishments have been here to examine the product of our discovery and acclaim it wonderful. They especially compliment the softness of woollens which go through this process.

Discovery of this solvent and volume business enable us to offer especially low prices to the public. Take advantage of the following offers:

- Men's suits and extra pair pants cleaned and pressed. $1.25
- Men's one-pant suit cleaned and pressed. $1.00

It is not certain what late federal legislation will actually do to aid farming communities, but it is certain that the rains and sunshine of this season will insure relief without quibbling or delay.

A current magazine warns people against investments in stocks offered by strangers urging the value of propositions about which one knows nothing. It is wisely suggested that one should consult his banker and make the investigation. If hurry-up methods are employed in pushing sales, time for thorough investigation is still more important.

July is an important month. It is sometimes hotter than comfort would suggest—hotter than one would order over the counter or from a traveling salesman as a source of joyful feeling, but it is none too hot to ripen small grain and speed up the growth of corn, and the end in the fall will more than justify the temporary ordeal of oppression and sweat.

The statement in Wednesday's Lincoln Journal that Wayne county has reported a decrease in the amount of intangible property listed for taxation is a mistake, according to County Assessor William Assenheimer. He says the intangible property listed in 1928 amounted to $506,000 in money and $421,000 in notes, and in 1929, $1,490,000 in money and $650,000 in notes. The total of $927,000 in 1928 is more than

LIQUOR.

The Omaha World-Herald urges local option as the best way to handle dangerous Fourth of July explosives and equally harmful alcoholic spirits. That worthy newspaper agrees with the Herald that both fireworks and firewater are bad, but that each should be made subject to local regulation—that if Wayne wishes to blast the sky with high explosives and risk the lives of innocent bystanders, or if Omaha feels disposed to worship at the shrine of Bacchus and drink to the health of the goddess of liberty, authorities at Washington should not be permitted to interfere. During the years when local option was advocated and often accomplished in lieu of more general restrictions, some pronounced leaders expressed themselves in favor of prohibition if it could be made national. It was then argued that local option would be ineffectual because of the ease with which liquor could be smuggled in from nearby wet centers. But following the local option idea, twenty-five states, including Nebraska, voted dry and eight other states adopted prohibition by legislative enactment prior to insertion of the eighteenth amendment. Like the unsuccessful religious bigot, we doubt if the prohibition fanatic who was intolerant and uncompromising, made much progress toward abolition of the liquor traffic. It was when the great industrial systems and commercial organizations came along and employed their weight in behalf of national sobriety as means to individual efficiency and social content that the power of alcohol fell and prohibition spread over the entire country. It may not be wholly effective in preventing drunkenness. In the course of enforcement there sometimes may appear unanticipated methods that are quite as faulty and intolerable as the evils attacked. But when what one drinks or otherwise does becomes a nuisance and a burden on society, laws are justly passed to fix restrictions. Whether one shoots off dangerous Fourth of July explosives, or whether one fills his insides with alcoholic tanglefoot that makes him abusive to neglect his family or afflict the public, legal measures are asked to safeguard the social order. The old saloon system had become a calamity, exacting immeasurable human toll, and people decided to fling the whole business overboard. Results may not be altogether satisfactory, but local option, which had been tried, did not show any better.

There are hottable differences, too, between fireworks and firewater. Anybody can make wine or beer or alcohol. It is one of the simplest and easiest of natural processes. Anyone who wants to can have a winery or a brewery or a distillery in his home. That is what makes federal prohibition, attempting to override local sentiment and settled habits, so apparently impossible of enforcement. Not only can the liquor be produced, but it can be sold at enormous profits. That is what brings lawlessness, and organized crime on a big business basis. The same is not true of fireworks. They don't grow in the garden or in the field; they have to be manufactured by a technical process, out of materials, not home grown, that must also be manufactured.

The World-Herald is quite as much in favor of temperance, in the use of stimulants as in that of other things, as the Wayne Herald. It is quite as much opposed to drunkenness, and to the beating of wives and the starving of children. The only real difference be-doubled in 1929, being $2,140,000. Instead of the Journal saying the decrease was more than a third, it should have said the 1928 record was multiplied by two and then some.

Members of the American Medical Association, meeting in Portland, Ore., were told by Dr. Emil Bogen of Cincinnati, that harm from cigarette smoking depends on the health of the smoker, on the kind of cigarette used and the speed with which it is smoked. The doctor advised that the continued success will largely depend on improved service and wise response to public needs. They are in line with chain stores, chain newspapers and other chain commercial organizations. If the management of any chain is in sympathy with local conditions and is actively identified with local movements and ambitions, there would no doubt be possibilities for valuable public service. The chain business gives healthy stimulus to the individual business, and as a result benefits may be expected to accrue alike to the public and to individuals and groups engaged in serving the public. As to organized retailers, the effect would seem to tend to stimulate trade relationships. People buy more and have more to buy with. They are able to live better than ever, and thus they contribute to growing markets for the necessities and luxuries of life. Good roads and improved means of travel aid centralization. So we have the driving force behind the development of trade centers by chains and individuals. Whether in fields of banking, newspaper work or merchandising, success of every organized effort depends on demand and popular reception.

The cost of living, though largely increased during the past twenty years, has not gone ahead faster than the standard of living. Growing demand for luxury and convenience and pleasure has steadily increased and has had much to do in determining multiplied costs. Wages and other earnings have generally kept pace. The advantage in uniformly high costs lies in greater possibilities for saving on the part of those who are willing to curb demand and build up a surplus. Also high standards, not carried to debilitating excess, and resulting from constructive exercise of brains and muscle, contribute to health and peace of mind.

Orderly marketing of farm products is the first aim of the federal farm board, recently appointed by the president on authority of congress. The plan is to cooperate with farm groups over the country and work in the direction of lowering the cost of distribution and decreasing the spread of prices between producer and consumer. Through more closely organized agricultural interests, surpluses will be more easily controlled. The national plan to strengthen and stabilize farming is regarded as belonging to a permanently established function of the government and one that will steadily grow in beneficial results.

Senator Geo. W. Norris has just observed his sixty-eighth birthday, and he has been in public office for more than forty years. He has served eight years in the house and eighteen years in the senate. His term expires March 4, 1931, and the question as to whether he will be a candidate next year to succeed himself has caused a good deal of speculation in political circles. Governor Weaver has been mentioned as a possible contender for the senatorial toga, entering the field against Norris if he should decide to run again. In that event it will be interesting to find out whether Norris will be able to rally old-time support in view of his active opposition to the republican national ticket last year. Whether he can ride to port on the party ship which he tried to scuttle, remains to be seen.

Fireworks and Firewater.

(Omaha World-Herald.)
 The Wayne Herald wants to know why The World-Herald, favoring the prohibition of the use of explosives in Omaha on the Fourth of July except under strict regulation as to where and how, is not equally enthusiastic over federal prohibition of intoxicating beverages.

It is a fair question and deserves a fair answer.
 For Omaha to establish a safe and sane Fourth would be a legitimate exercise of "local option"—the right of local self-government. If Wayne should prefer a noisier and more demonstrative celebration we should be perfectly willing for it to assert and enjoy that privilege. Just as there are many communities with different ideas and customs. We should be content if each followed its natural bent, though we might venture to reason with Wayne, for its own good, that Omaha's way was better. But we should not favor authorizing the federal government at Washington to compel Wayne and all other communities to regulate their local customs and habits and affairs according to what Omaha thought was best.

In other words, while we try desperately to be modern and keep up with the hurrying times, we are still old-fashioned enough really to believe in the wisdom of the Jeffersonian theory. To our mind it is rooted in human nature. Wayne people, the majority faction and the minority faction alike, will submit to their own decision as to whether they shall permit fireworks to be exploded on their streets. They will not so readily submit to a ukase from Washington, saying that Wayne must do thus and so because, for example, that is the way New Yorkers do.

There are hottable differences, too, between fireworks and firewater. Anybody can make wine or beer or alcohol. It is one of the simplest and easiest of natural processes. Anyone who wants to can have a winery or a brewery or a distillery in his home. That is what makes federal prohibition, attempting to override local sentiment and settled habits, so apparently impossible of enforcement. Not only can the liquor be produced, but it can be sold at enormous profits. That is what brings lawlessness, and organized crime on a big business basis. The same is not true of fireworks. They don't grow in the garden or in the field; they have to be manufactured by a technical process, out of materials, not home grown, that must also be manufactured.

CENTRALIZATION.
 The United States National bank of Omaha having become a part of the Northwest Bancorporation, with combined resources aggregating nearly a quarter billion dollars, it is believed the Nebraska metropolis will be greatly strengthened as a financial center. Banking combinations, finding strong footholds at promising points, are consistent with a growing business policy, and their continued success will largely depend on improved service and wise response to public needs. They are in line with chain stores, chain newspapers and other chain commercial organizations. If the management of any chain is in sympathy with local conditions and is actively identified with local movements and ambitions, there would no doubt be possibilities for valuable public service. The chain business gives healthy stimulus to the individual business, and as a result benefits may be expected to accrue alike to the public and to individuals and groups engaged in serving the public. As to organized retailers, the effect would seem to tend to stimulate trade relationships. People buy more and have more to buy with. They are able to live better than ever, and thus they contribute to growing markets for the necessities and luxuries of life. Good roads and improved means of travel aid centralization. So we have the driving force behind the development of trade centers by chains and individuals. Whether in fields of banking, newspaper work or merchandising, success of every organized effort depends on demand and popular reception.

tween us is that the Wayne Herald believes federal prohibition to be a satisfactory solution of the problem at issue, and The World-Herald has its grave doubts, just as Woodrow Wilson and Chief Justice Taft had before the audacious "experiment noble in motive" was attempted.

Business.

Sioux City Journal: Proof of the increased volume and value of goods produced, sold and delivered is found in the statement of the American Railway association that freight car loading for the first six months this year set a half-year record. The loadings were the greatest for any corresponding period on record by 75,898 cars. The highest mark hitherto was reached in 1927. The total for the first six months this year was 25,596,938, which is close to 1,000,000 a week since the first of the year.

Compared to the loadings for the first six months of 1926, the record is 263,706 cars ahead of that for two years ago. It is 1,135,165 cars ahead of the first six months last year. The loadings for the last week reported, that ending June 29, reached a total of 1,095,724. This was the greatest figure reached this year and the peak week so far as the first half of any year is concerned. Yet this was achieved in a summer month when, as a rule, there is a slackness in business activity. This was an increase over the same week last year of 92,025 cars and over the same week in 1927 of 74,286.

No estimate is available indicating the value of the increased shipments. But it must be enormous, running high into seven figures report yet had on business conditions. It seems to settle any doubt raised by politicians that actual prosperity has come.

The Bank of America, of New York, in a survey recently published declared the business outlook was much brighter as the summer advanced. A high rate of activity has been maintained in June at the end of which month the outlook was far brighter than at any time in May. May, however, is remembered as a most encouraging spring month when business activity set new records in many leading lines.

Seven Cars Stock Are Shipped Out

Stock shipments from Wayne for the week beginning July 10 include the following: Anton Pflugger and Frank Erbelein, each one car of cattle to Sioux City; Geo. Brown, Ed. Perry and A. T. Claycomb, each one car of hogs to Sioux City; W. C. Shulheiser, double deck car of hogs to Sioux City; and Walter J. Herman, one car of cattle to Omaha.

 The rain Saturday night seemed to center over this vicinity where it was the heaviest of the season. Harvesters could not cut grain until Tuesday afternoon. The great quantities of soil which were washed from fields covered others up and filled hog lots and other places to a depth of a foot or more. E. M. Laughlin had about a bushel of potatoes washed out of the ground and farther down in the patch a large section was covered completely up. Large limbs were broken from trees by the rain and by wind. Oat bundles were washed away where they were left in low places.

Market Report.

Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.

Stoux City Stock Yards.—The cattle market carried a good undertone this week, riding on the crest of the highest price wave of the season. The hog market touched new high levels but eased off later. Strength ruled in the sheep department.
 Cattle receipts were moderate in the aggregate at leading centers on the first two days of the week. Shipping demands were fairly broad and the general trade was satisfactory to the selling side.
 Drylot material of good and choice quality received prompt attention and strength while the lower grades were rather slow. A larger percentage of grassers was included in this week's run, including cattle from the range country and from districts suffering from lack of moisture during the past month.
 Fed steers and yearlings worth above the $14.00 mark carried a strong undertone and a new top for the season of $16.25 was paid for two loads of South Dakota steers averaging around 1,275 pounds. Other steers sold around $16.00 to $16.10 with numerous loads above $15.50. However, the big bulk of the medium to strong weight steers sold at $14.00 to $15.50 and lighter weights and yearlings at $13.25 to $15.25. Plain-ender lots ranged down to $12.00 and under. The low grades moved slowly on a weak basis.
 The butcher stock market was sluggish on the initial session of the week but was fairly active on the second session and prices ruled about even with the close of last week. The supply of grassers increased materially as usual for this season of the year. Order buyers showed narrow demands except for the better grades.
 Fed heifers brought $12.00 to $14.25 with a few choice light weights higher. Grass heifers sold largely from $11.50 down. Bulk of the shortfeds and grassers sold at $8.25 to $10.25 with plain grassers under $8.00. Canners and cutters sold mostly at $6.00 to $7.25.
 The bull market held a steady basis. Bulk of the medium bolognas sold at $8.75 to $9.25 with fleshy grades to $9.50 and thin light weights and westerns down to $8.00 and under. Heavy beef grades sold up to $10.50 with butcher and yearling grades higher. Veals strengthened over the close of last week to top at $15.
 Stockers and feeders were received in larger numbers than previously this season but demands were broad, as dealers made a close clearance last week, and the market ruled active and firm with spots higher on desirable western material.

About Nebraska and Nebraskans
Will M. Maupin.

Every newspaper reader in Nebraska knows Walt Mason by reputation. Many Nebraskans know him personally. Walt's first newspapering was in Nebraska, on Ed Howe's "Little Globe" at Falls City. At various times he worked in the Lincoln Journal, Omaha World-Herald and Fremont Tribune. For a time he published a magazine at Beatrice. In a personal letter to the writer recently Walt reminded him of the time when he (Walt) and another man drifted into Hastings and established a newspaper. "We performed most of our editorial work in the saloons of the town," said Walt, "and finally walked out to other fields." After many ups and downs Walt finally went to work for William Allen White on the Emporia Gazette, and there he struck the stride that has made him rich and happy. He lives in a beautiful home at La Jolla, Calif., near San Diego, his home overlooking the sea. There he writes "a poem a day" for the George Matthew Adams Syndicate, and special articles whenever he feels like it, "which isn't often, as I don't need the money," he says.

Dr. A. L. Bixby in Lincoln Journal: Clarence Darrow, who in his thinking is an uncompromising materialist, says he cannot look into the future and vision himself as extinguished, blotted out, eliminated, erased and rendered non-existent, yet his reason affirms that personality evaporates, dissolves and dies when the vital organs cease to function, and bodily disintegration sets in. Rather a cold philosophy, but quite as inspiring as that of the Hindu Krishnamurti who believes in continuity of life but in a state of Nirvana, where personality is lost in the one composite soul which occupies all space in the final accounting, and these countless sparks of human intelligence are finally rounded up and mixed with the central composition in a single luminous creation that is to shine, and sparkle and illuminate illuminable space for ever. The loss of identity, of the ego that differentiates between you and the man on the other side of the fence, is nothing when you reach that condition of Nivana, or Moksha, where nothing is really the main thing. Both Darrow and the protegy of Annie Besant have opened a field for discussion that those who enter will find leads into deep water. What does anybody know?

Safety First Don'ts.
Nebraska Farmer: Ever since time began the principle of "Safety First" has had three enemies. One is the desire men have to take a chance and see what happens. A second is carelessness and the third is thoughtlessness. This comment is made by the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers, which recommends these "Don'ts" to prevent farm accidents:
Don't walk behind horses when they are plowing hard. A single tree, trace or double tree might break and strike the driver.
Don't place yourself in such a position when working on machinery that you would be injured if the horses moved. The most trusted horses might take a step. Only a moment is required to drop the traces.
Don't rely upon clutches while working on or around implements attached to or driven by tractors. Place the gear shift lever in neutral so that if the clutch should engage, no harm will be done.
Don't attempt to make adjustments on tractors while they are moving. You might lose your balance or slip.
Don't reach around moving power machinery while wearing gloves with large cuffs or with your jacket or coat unbuttoned.
Don't reach across a moving saw or work around one with refuse lying under your feet.
Don't stand in the line of movements of pulleys, wheels, etc. A wheel or belt might break or an attachment might loosen and be thrown.
Don't operate high-speed emery wheels without a shield over the emery wheel. Keep your eyes above the work being ground and wear goggles.
Don't stand beside or hold wire while it is being stretched. It might break.

Al Fairbrother is another Nebraskan newspaper man who has retired and lives in California. Al worked on Omaha and Lincoln newspapers for years, then went to Winston-Salem, S. C., and established a newspaper conducted in his unique style. He made a fortune from it, then sold out. But the purchaser did not run it to suit Al, so he bought it back, ran it for a year or two, then closed it up, refusing to sell at any price. "It was my paper, and nobody else could run it my way, so why unload it on 'em?" said Al, as he packed his grip and hied for California.

In Marquette you get an engine of remarkably large displacement. You get speed that holds an honest 68 or 70 miles an hour with unequalled ease, steadiness and security. You get acceleration of from 10 to 60 miles an hour in high gear in 31 seconds.

And this great new car introduces many more unusual features: Beautiful Fisher bodies. Exclusive new upholstery proofed against water, dust and wear. Dustproof fill-ray headlights. An exclusive new sloping non-glare windshield. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers. Easy-acting, completely enclosed brakes. The Marquette is easy to own on the liberal G.M.A.C. terms. Come in and see this complete car. Take the wheel and learn the thrill of Marquette performance.

The rain amounted to 2.6 inches at Carroll. Some wind accompanied the rain and small grain was blown down considerably. Some was washed by high water. It is thought though that most of the grain will again straighten and the loss will not be heavy.
